VIKINGS FORGET FOOTBALL AND TURN ATTENTION TO OLD KING BASKETBALL; NOW SEASON OPENS

The King is dead! Long live the King!

That may sound un-American, but in the Kingdom of sports which is the reigning power, it is literally the truth. No sooner does one sport die than another in ready and waiting to take its place in the minds and hearts of the fans. And so, "The King is dead! Long live the King!"

With the football season over the old King who ruled for two short months is buried with due pomp and splendor, and as his remains are laid away, the universe turns to hail the new King, His Majesty, King Basketball, who stand ready to step on the throne so recently left vacant.

Basketball and basketball teams are already the talk of the hour. And practice has already begun in the majority of schools. In many of them the schedule of games has already been begun.

Locally, in the high school, practice for the night opened officially about eight o'clock this week. Coach Holbrook has some likely looking material on hand in spite of the fact that a few "care" valuable regulars at the close of the season last year. Coach Caudill and Clay Trumbo were lost by the graduation route, while Fred Robinson is ineligible to play this year because he has already played four years in the sport which automatically eliminates him.

However, the Vikings will prove to be no weaklings. If material at hand is any indication, Miles will be out at guard and should prove to be a tower of strength in that position with his three years experience as a background. Tatum will again lead down the center position with "Shanghai" Elam out for the same job. Roy Turner will also be expected to help make "The Wolf" for the Vikings, probably at a forward berth and Earl Caskey, "Dynamic" will make the man who wins the other guard position he awake nights figuring how he can beat him out.

Ach, Cassidy, Tag Calvert, Russell Barbery, Harold Crosthwaite, and any number of other boys are making determined efforts to grab a position on the squad so there should be plenty of competition for the five positions with none of them cinched until Holbrook gives the high sign. It is too early to predict what the Vikings will do. There is too much new material to be able to tell from this point where they will land. However none of the prospects can be said to be green at the game, all of them having been out for at least two years.

Coach Holbrook has an opener scheduled for Friday night of this week at the high school gymnasium which may give the fans a line on what to expect and what not. The Amazon will meet Soldier in the opener and the Vikings will put on a tussle with Sandy Hook.

It will be more or less of a family affair Friday night, as Soldier is coached by Allie Holbrook, younger brother of Roy who will attempt to repeat the drubbing his girls handed the Amazons several weeks ago when they met at Soldier. The Amazon say it can't be did. We'll tell better next Friday.

Haldeman, under the direction of Frank Laughlin is also getting under full steam ahead. The Leopards and Blue Belles have waited patiently this year to make their start in practice until other teams in the conference, and one of the objections raised was that Haldeman had an advantage in being able to get a flying start on the other teams because they had no football. This year Coach Laughlin has waited until the football season closed before starting practice, thus "putting" the teams on an equal footing at the start.

No schedules have yet been made, a meeting being called at Ashland for Saturday of this week for that purpose.

M. E. Parsonage Destroyed In Fire

A disastrous fire completely destroyed the furniture in the home of Rev. O. C. Seever on Saturday morning of last week, and so gutted the parsonage that nothing but a shell remained. The house was well covered with insurance. The furniture, however which belonged to Rev. and Mrs. Seever, was entirely without insurance and was a total loss. Mr. Seever's car which was also completely destroyed, is said to have been covered in a policy recently issued.

Rev. and Mrs. Seever have been in Morehead but a short time and had not yet taken out policies to protect their household furniture. The fire, which is believed to have been caused from live coals in an ash receptacle placed near the coal house, was discovered about 2:00 a. m. by neighbors who attempted to arouse the operator and turn in the alarm, unsuccessfully for a time. The fire in the meantime had gained considerable headway—and by the time the alarm was finally sounded both the shed and house were doomed.

Mr. and Mrs. Seever and family barely escaped with their lives and were unable to save even their clothing from the flames. When the fire company arrived it was impossible to do more than prevent the spread of the flames to nearby buildings.

DR. R. L. HOKE IS INVITED TO SPEAK

Dr. R. L. Hoke has accepted an invitation to speak at the annual convention of the American Psychological Association at Atlantic City, Thursday morning, December 29 at 10 o'clock.

He spoke before the group of psychologists last year at the December meeting in New Orleans.

Romantic lightning has struck a second time at a certain oasis on a certain stretch of California desert.

Slightly enough, there was a catch each time—a battery of movie cameras were on hand to catch each moment of every development. For the first occasion was the big romantic scene from "The Sheikh," starring the late Rudolph Valentino. And the second was for the "Devil and the Deep," starring Tallulah Bankhead and Gary Cooper. It opens Friday and Saturday at the Cozy Theatre.

The oasis is on the Lasky Ranch, not far from Los Angeles. Most of the desert action of "The Sheikh" was filmed there more than ten years ago. When locations for desert sequences of "Devil and the Deep" were being considered, it was decided to use the same spot.

The scene in "Devil and the Deep" which was filmed on the location occurs after Miss Bankhead, driven to distraction by her nagging of her insanely jealous husband, rushes out into a crowd of Molems celebrating a religious festival. Nearly crushed by the mob, she is rescued by Cooper, and the two, seeking rest, ride out into the desert. At the oasis they dismount, and, impressed by the loveliness of the night, they yield to its enchantment.

Shower Given For Methodist Pastor

A Household Shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCullough on Tuesday evening of this week, the purpose of the shower being to provide necessary household equipment for Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Seever, pastor of the Methodist Church, who suffered the complete loss of their household furniture and equipment in the disastrous fire of Saturday morning.

The shower was attended by practically everyone in Morehead, and the results were not only pleasing but truly amazing as well. Practically every department of the household was completely equipped by the generosity of the citizens of Morehead, without regard to church affiliations. Morehead citizens, by the way, have established an enviable reputation for their generosity and for the manner in which they respond to calls of this sort.

In an interview with Rev. Mr. Seever Wednesday, he stated that the entire situation was new to him and that at present he was unable to make a statement. He added, however that he would prepare a complete statement for the next issue of the News in which he hoped to be able adequately to express his and his family's appreciation of the manner in which Morehead citizens had responded to their need, even in this time of depression.

ATTEND SOUTHERN COLLEGE ASSOCIATION

President and Mrs. John Howard Payne left last Saturday morning for New Orleans, Louisiana, where the Southern Association of Colleges of which Morehead State Teachers College is a member.

The meeting is in session this week. President and Mrs. Payne will visit points of interest while on the trip.

State Warrants Not Acceptable

Attorney General Bailey P. Wootton Tuesday issued an oral opinion that taxpayers would not be able to pay their taxes with state warrants at the office of J. Dan Talbott, state Sheriff's may except them, but they will not be compelled to make the amount good in cash. It was learned yesterday that in several instances regarding county officials have learned state warrants in payment of state claims against them for settlement of taxes, licenses, fines and forfeitures. These warrants have been rejected on advice of Attorney General Wootton, who holds that there is no authority for the state to accept anything except cash.

Red Cross Not To Sponsor Xmas

Due to the lack of funds and the necessity of taking care of the actual needs of the poor in Rowan county this year, there will be no Community Christmas Tree this year sponsored by the local chapter of the Red Cross, according to Mrs. N. L. Wells, executive secretary. All the energy and finances of the organization will be expended in relieving the actual want existing in the county. A tree will be erected in the Cross squares, as it was last year. For the purpose of lending a Christmas atmosphere and to beautify the city, Mrs. Wells said.

In the meantime, while the plans are not yet completed, she stated that Christmas activities will probably include the distribution of Christmas baskets to the needy of the county.

A car load of flour containing 275 barrels arrived last week and distribution began Monday. Fifty pounds are being given to each family applying. Over 54 families have already been supplied and many more are coming in daily.

The Roll Call for memberships in the Red Cross has gone over the top with more than the quota of seven

Taxes Must Be Paid January 1

An order passed by the City Council at their last meeting requires that all city taxes are due and payable by January 1, 1933. On and after to the tax collector, John Adams that date the penalty will be added, according to the order.

They are making of the announcement at this time because of the fact that rumors are current that State and county taxes may be held off until March 1, 1933.

The same order makes the payment of Having Taxes due to Dudley Caudill, City Treasurer at the Peoples Bank.

With regard to the payment of county taxes, Sheriff Dan Parker stated that he had received no notice officially of the extension of time, and that unless he did receive such official notice, the penalty will go on at the usual time, January 1, 1933.

Mr. Parker said that last year a great many had held off on the payment and then were obliged to pay the additional penalty. He said that in case he does receive notice of the extension, he will immediately publish a notice to that effect. Until such a notice is published tax-payers should be prepared.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN TENNESSEE HOME

Friends of Dean and Mrs. Charles Lewis will regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Lewis which occurred Saturday at her home in Knoxville, Tennessee, according to messages received here. Mrs. Lewis was stricken with paralysis on Friday morning, according to the message.

Both Dean and Mrs. Lewis were Dean Lewis was dean of the Morehead State Teachers College for a number of years. He is at present connected with Peabody University.

County Board Has Statement

In the issue of the News appears the complete annual financial statement of the Rowan County Board of Education for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932. The statement is required by law to be published annually for the information of the taxpayers.

Every citizen and tax payer is presumably interested in the manner and purpose for which their money is spent. They are urged to make a study of this financial statement. Incidentally the books of the Rowan County Board of Education are open to inspection at all times at the office of the County Superintendent and any citizen is at liberty to examine them and to make personal inquiry about any expenditure they may not understand.

FINAL INSPECTION BEING MADE ON FLEMINGSBURG-MOREHEAD ROAD BY STATE HIGHWAY ENGINEERS

Golde's Putting On Big Sale

Coming at the time when winter weather means winter clothes and winter clothes means winter buying, the big sale inaugurated by Golde's Department Store this week will undoubtedly mean a great deal to the shoppers for quality merchandise at low cost. Mr. Goldeberg, proprietor of the Golde Department Store, is very frankly in need of money and is using every means of raising it. His announcement which appears in this issue offers the public many hundreds of real bargains which cannot afford to overlook.

Mr. Goldeberg has been in Morehead for several years and has held many sales. This sale, however, he declares, is not an ordinary selling event, but a real feature of merchandising, a sale to sell out and raise money.

Bad Bill Waters Is Given Death

Willis M. Waters, of Menifee county, whose trial was transferred to Montgomery county for trial, was given the death penalty by a Montgomery county jury last Wednesday night of last week after deliberating one hour and 25 minutes. Waters was tried on the charge of killing Stanley county, last July. Helton and another Helton, a deputy sheriff of Menifee officers were attempting to serve a warrant on Waters for the murder of Charles Neal, with whom he had made his home for some time. Waters shot the two other officers and wounded another. It was proven that he opened fire on the officers when they approached the house. The other two charges against Waters have been continued to the January term.

When Waters heard the verdict he showed no emotion whatever. He was quickly handcuffed and taken to the jail under heavy guard and early Thursday morning he was returned to the Lexington jail where he was placed several months ago for safekeeping. He will be returned to Mt. Sterling for sentence before Judge Henry R. Prewitt within a few days.

For many years Waters has been known as a bad character and has been called "Bad Bill" for a long time. It is said that he has killed as many as 12 people during his life. He was composing the jury that sentenced Waters were: T. B. Robertson, C. C. West, R. L. Chaney, Chapman Gibson, Ches Ginter, Paul Weckesser, Clyde Turley, J. T. Murphy, Virgil Cassidy, Isaac McCarty, M. B. May and William Tussey. This was the first death penalty given in Montgomery county for over thirty-five years—Sentinel Democrat.

Final inspection of the grade and drain of the Morehead-Flemingsburg Highway is scheduled for today, according to Mr. Warwick, resident engineer in charge of the project. Mr. Warwick stated to a representative of the News that the first two inspections had been completed satisfactorily, and that the final inspection by the highway engineers from Frankfort will take place immediately.

Speaking of the convenience and advantage of the Flemingsburg highway, over present means of travel, Mr. Warwick stated that he recently made the trip over the new highway in 45 minutes, a distance of 26.2 miles. When it is completed, that the shortest present route to the neighboring county of Fleming is that by way of Sharpburg, a distance of approximately 60 miles the advantage of the new highway can well be understood.

A number of features of the new Flemingsburg road are worthy of particular mention. The roadway itself is built 24 feet wide. But the highway department, with a view to the future with its attendant increase in traffic, made liberal allowance for widening the road by building all culverts drainage pipes and bridges a uniform 30 feet in width. Rumors are afloat that with the opening of spring, contracts will be let for the surfacing of the highway with a high type of surface.

It must be remembered that present contract called only for the grade and drain, and that in large part the new highway will be built for travel in rainy weather this winter. It is however, being completed at an ideal season for future surfacing, as the winter weather will permit the road to settle and get it in the best condition for the future.

In the meantime, during fair weather the new highway is in excellent condition for travel. Work is also going forward on the other projects in the county and in surrounding counties. The Wagner Store-Wrightley highway, in charge of the Nello L. Teer Construction Company, is doing an excellent piece of work and has advanced well over three miles toward their goal. They plan on carrying on throughout the winter without delay.

The Elliott county Louisiana road, under the engineering supervision of Jack Crawford and with the Cain Construction Company and the Southern Construction Company in direct charge of the work is going ahead at a remarkable rate. The right of way is already over half cleared, many of the culverts have been finished, and with the prospect of a winter of work ahead the contractors confidently expect to finish ahead of their contract time.

The contractors on the Robur-Wagner Store road, are also making headway on their surfacing contract and expect to have it ready by Christmas in spite of delay moment to putting started. The highway is to be surfaced with limestone. Plans are complete and right-of-way are ready on the Farmers-Sharpsburg highway. However, it is doubtful if the contract will be advertised before spring as it is believed best not to start the work before that time. The road however will undoubtedly be started in the near future.

Relative to the Haldeman-Soldier road for which plans and specifications were completed some time ago, it is expected that the letting of the contract for this road will also be delayed until spring at least. Surveys for a number of other important highways in this section are contemplated in the near future. Just what they are or where they will go, is not at present known.

Mr. Waltham Gullett spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his family here.

The ROWAN COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

UPPER LICK FORK

In spite of bad weather and farm work, our attendance is holding up nicely.

We have a new organization in our school. The Blue Ribbon Literary Society. We meet every other Friday afternoon and have programs. Before Christmas we are going to invite our parents and the community to attend one of our meetings.

The Primer Class is sorry to announce the death of little Gold Fins, their pet gold fish. He was found frozen to death in his bowl Monday.

Gold Fins has been in our room for the past two years. We buried him among the ferns and flowers of our flower garden and erected a grave stone.

Our room has been improved considerably in appearance by the addition of cream colored shades and light green voile curtains. We have also one new lamp. This was purchased with the money from our pie supper.

Besides our regular school work we have been experimenting with basket weaving. Willow twigs and bark have been the materials used and attractive links can also be made from them.

There will be a pie supper at Upper Lick Fork Friday, December 2, from 6:30 until 9: o'clock.

ELLIOTTVILLE SCHOOL

The Elliottville Junior High School has just had added to their library ten books which represent the following books were added and their presence will add material to the school library and as soon as they are catalogued they will be ready for use.

Websters Collegiate Dictionary, $5.00.

Oliver Cromwell by Eucardio Monaghan.

Alexander Hamilton by Howard Hicks.

Blackford and Arthur Newcomb.

The Right Job by Katherine M. H. (Two Volumes).

The Hoosier School Master by Eggleston.

Ben Hur by Lew Wallace.

Thomas A. Edison The Man and his work by G. S. Heyman.

Merobe Hunters by Paul de Kruif.

A Book of American Humor in Prose and Verse, a selection of the Best Work of our Greatest Humorists.

The Snarl of the Beast.

A map of the World in a steel roller case has been ordered for use and shades for the new room have been bought and installed.

With a small library of approved books well adapted to school work, of approximately 125 volumes, the school is still in bad need of books and would like to receive donations of books suitable for this library or funds with which to buy books. The present library started with a unit of the Francis Noyles Hart Library which was secured for this county by a former County Superintendent of Rowan county, Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart.

Our school is proud to be put up as the "Home School" of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart.

Any one who might contribute to our library may get in touch with John H. Bailey, principal, or Mabel Hackney, Buelah Williams or Irene Turner.

Under Frozen Skies

CHAPTER X

Hard as they had raced the coming winter south through the Pipestone lakes, long since deserted by the Indians, the men from Sunset House found that the Moccasin telegraph had been even more swift. For the day, as they followed the trail of the last of the chain, they overtook a canoe. Anxious to speed the news of Jingwak's downfall, Omar ran the paterboro alongside the traveling birchbark. At his mention of the defeat of the solverer and his friend Paradis, the men in the boat nodded in affirmation.

"Ochig the great shaman from God's lake took his ears," said the older Indian. "Jingwak is a liar. He has left the country."

"Ochig now lives at the lake of the Sandy Beaches," announced Omar. "Do the Ojibwas believe he lives with devils?"

The Indian shook his head. "It was the lie of Jingwak and Paradis, the trader. In the Little Moon of the Spirit I and my sons will journey to the house of the Sunset with our furs."

When the paterboro had passed from earshot of the other craft, Omar asked his friends: "How dry hear dat so soon?"

"A canoe must have started for the Pipestones that night. Why didn't you tell them that Esau was the great shaman, Ochig?" demanded Jim.

Omar frowned at the lack of astuteness in his chief. "Dey bring dat fur to us Creemians. Dey have a look at de great shaman. I not tell dem dey look at hem now, wen dey got no skin to trade."

"Omar, you're a statesman; You are wasted in the bush; you ought to be in Ottawa," insisted Jim while Esau nodded in approval.

Then, between the Pipestones and home, the first battalion of the geese fleeing the freezing winds, filled with their heels came snow. Each morning with their clamor, and hard on following the heavier film of ice of the headwater, riding the thinner sheets with a pounding bow, the voyageurs raced the winter.

At last one windy October day, when swirls of snow beat around the buildings of Sunset House, and the black lake whirled into wind-driven foam, three white shapes, driving paddles sheathed with ice, brought the canoe into the beach.

"Nial Niat!" cried the excited Sarah, opening the door for the half-frozen Jim. "You are back; all well!"

"I'm patted the broad shoulder of the solicitous Ojibwas." "Cold and hungry Sarah!" he laughed.

"Ah, you not get hurt by dose 'Jingwak' 'Good!' spluttered the bustling Jim, brushing the snow from Jim's coat.

"No, we've won, Sarah! We've beaten Paradis."

Jingwak! cried the startled cook, her "Nial n'got! You find de shaman, amal eyes black as buttons, snapping with excitement.

"Yes Esau's medicine was too strong for him."

While Sarah bustled herself with a hot supper for her returned master, He closed the slab door against the Jim stepped across to the trade house drive of wind an light snow to find Omar and Esau smoking beside the shee-iron stove.

"Something dere for you," announced the half-breed with a nod of his black head toward the trade counter. On the hand-hewn spruce planks lay a white envelope.

Aurora! She had written before she went south and sent it by an Indian! Jim's face was radiant with the joy of surprise. Her writing! He had never seen it! Aurora had left him her first love letter.

One word of the scintilly of two pairs of black eyes at the stove, Jim turned the letter, unrolled, into his pocket and left the room with a mumbled: "I'm starved-goin to eat."

Soda Drinking Stenogs Set Good Example, Colgate Scientists Find

One of Colgate's "human guinea pigs" drinks a "pep" cocktail all in the cause of science. Dr. Laird is shown seated at table.

A Real Prohibition "Kick" In Sparkling Fountain Beverages

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—The next time your stenographer slips out in mid-afternoon for a sparkling soda, don't fire her—follow her.

This substance was the additive handed to business men by Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of Colgate University's Psychological Laboratories in an address before the annual convention of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages Association.

Sodas, in fact all carbonated beverages, Dr. Laird said, pack a real wallop and go a long way toward increasing workpower and efficiency especially in mid-afternoon when muscular tension reaches its peak.

Because of their high sugar content, the beverages have great energy value—sugar being recognized by scientists as nature's greatest energy food.

Furthermore, Dr. Laird believes that a close parallel can be drawn between the pep and vivacity of the average American and the large amounts of carbonated beverages consumed in this country annually.

"In the case of the United States," he said, "we may find some parallel between the general bustle, activity and pep and the increase in the consumption of carbohydrates such as are palatably supplied by most sparkling beverages."

Describing the Colgate tests on which his conclusions were based, Dr. Laird said that groups of "human guinea pigs" selected from the student body, were subjected to various forms of fatigue-producing exercise.

Sugar Aids Recovery

Some of these groups were fed drinks sweetened with sugar while others were given drinks flavored with saccharine. The taste is about the same but the saccharine has no energy or food value.

In every case the "guinea pigs" who had the sugar were able to recover from muscular fatigue much more rapidly than the others. Muscular and mental coordination were also benefited by the sugar sweetened drink.

Another discovery which came to light during the investigations was the fact that a sweetened drink taken about one hour after dinner was a definite aid to digestion because it stimulated the flow of gastric juices.

After The Show Is Over

COLLEEN COOPER and Virginia Whiting, young stars of the new musical comedy "Americans," successor of last year's success by the same name, enjoying a backstage snack after the show is over. The snack consists of coffee—the kind that doesn't keep you awake—and a dish of bran with fruit and cream.

Success on the stage calls for good health and stamina, as well as good looks and acting ability, so after the evening performance the young stars as a regular thing eat light repast of the kinds of foods which science has shown help to keep the system working properly.

Their prescription for good health calls for a diet that every day includes some foods from each of the following groups:

Carbohydrates, including sweets and starchy foods—vegetables, bread, crisp cereals, etc.

Proteins, including fish, meat, milk and eggs.

Regulatory foods, including bran, lettuce, celery, string beans and other vegetables.

Mineral foods, including most of the fresh fruits and green vegetables.

Vitamin foods, particularly milk, oranges, grapefruit, and certain other fruits, and vegetables.

Mock Filet Mignon for Economy

By Jane Rogers

In these days, when less expensive meat dishes are sometimes a necessity, one nevertheless wishes to preserve the attractiveness of the main course. For instance, hamburger steak, which contains the rich body-building properties of an expensive tenderloin, can be a dignified and delicious part of the menu. In the role of mock filet mignon, it is quite a different proposition from the plain meat ball, both in looks and in flavor.
In preparing meats, especially the cheaper cuts which require more careful seasoning to make them tasty, good cooks find sugar as useful as salt and pepper in bringing out the full meat flavor. It is used in this recipe and heightens the mingled savor of beef and bacon.
Mock Filet Mignon
Mix 1 1/2 pounds of finely ground chuck or rump steak with one tablespoon ground nut, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sugar, 1/4 teaspoon of pepper and paprika to taste. Mix well; make into flat cakes one inch thick; twist a thin slice of bacon around each cake and fasten with a toothpick. Broil or pan broil 15 to 20 minutes. As the meat cooks, the bacon strips shrink and fit snugly around the cake, looking very much like the membrane which surrounds a real file.
