

TERMS OF PUBLICATION.

"THIS PAPER WHICH" will be published weekly on an Imperial sheet, at two dollars per annum if paid within the first three months...

No subscription can be withdrawn until all arrearages are paid—unless with the consent of the publishers...

Advertisements not exceeding a square will be conspicuously inserted twice times for one dollar and fifty cents...

Letters addressed to the editors on business, to insure attention, should be post paid.

AGENTS.

- Poplar Plains, J. W. Stockwell. Elizaville, Daniel Ficklin. J. S. Sherburne, John Andrews. Mount Carmel, R. Henderson. Helena, Wilson Wood. Cross Roads, Bath county, John M. Rice. Wyoming, John N. Lee. ...

Extract from Mr. Irving's New Work.

"THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS, OR ADVENTURES, SCENES, AND INCIDENTS, IN THE TWO FAR WEST."

The two rival bands, however, had not long been mingled in this social manner before their ancient jealousy began to break out in a new form. The senior chief of the Shoshonians was a thinking man...

Their interviews had, probably, been detected, and the jealousy of the Shoshone brave aroused; a clamor of angry voices was heard in his lodge...

In an instant, he was up and out. He had two prime horses, sure, and swift of foot, and of great wind. With steady quiet, they were brought up and saddled...

Matters were going on thus pleasantly and prosperously, in this motley community of white and red men...

They were fresh from the winter encampment of the American Fur Company in the Green river valley...

Cap. B. Bonville it is true, maintained all his camp, and checked each fibre excess, but the trappers, in their season of illness and relaxation, require a degree of license...

In the midst of all this festivity and frolics, a freak of the winter passion intervened, and wrought a complete change in the scene...

In the present instance, these wild blades were wroth to regain their bellies; nor were the latter loth once more to come under their protection.

It is that dash and heroic in a warrior of his own race, whose gaze, and, and bravely he settles, with all that is gallant and glorious in the white man. And then the indulgence which he treats her; the fiery in which he decks her out; the states in which she moves; the way she enjoys over both his purse and person...

fire, and bear his cross humors and dry eyes; there is no comparison, with the eyes of an orang-utan, or the wildness expressed by a free trapper and an Indian brave.

With respect to one of the parties, the matter was easily arranged. The beauty in question was a petite little Dutchess, that had been taken prisoner, in some war excursion, by a Shoshone. She was readily ransomed for a few articles of trilling value; and forthwith figured about the camp in the array...

As to the other beauty it was quite a different matter. She had become the wife of a Shoshone brave. It is true, he had another wife, of older date than the wife in question; who, therefore, took command in his household, and treated his new spouse as a slave...

Her Indian courtier adopted an appearance of condition of a trapper's bride and troubled to be freed from the capricious control of the premier squaw...

Their interviews had, probably, been detected, and the jealousy of the Shoshone brave aroused; a clamor of angry voices was heard in his lodge...

In an instant, he was up and out. He had two prime horses, sure, and swift of foot, and of great wind. With steady quiet, they were brought up and saddled...

Matters were going on thus pleasantly and prosperously, in this motley community of white and red men...

They were fresh from the winter encampment of the American Fur Company in the Green river valley...

Cap. B. Bonville it is true, maintained all his camp, and checked each fibre excess, but the trappers, in their season of illness and relaxation, require a degree of license...

In the midst of all this festivity and frolics, a freak of the winter passion intervened, and wrought a complete change in the scene...

In the present instance, these wild blades were wroth to regain their bellies; nor were the latter loth once more to come under their protection.

It is that dash and heroic in a warrior of his own race, whose gaze, and, and bravely he settles, with all that is gallant and glorious in the white man. And then the indulgence which he treats her; the fiery in which he decks her out; the states in which she moves; the way she enjoys over both his purse and person...

addressed a note to the French Academy of sciences, in which he directed the attention of geologists to the probability of the speedy appearance of a new island in the Grecian Archipelago...

"Towards the end of last century, at the period Oliver visited Santora, the fishermen of the Island asserted that the bottom of the sea had recently risen between the island of Little Kaimena and the port of Thera...

From the Baltimore Patriot.

"The Good-temper'd are always rich." There is in Sharp's letters this transiently significant saying: "You will find at Tralobach's excellent and fine wine, provided you bring them with you; and there could not be a more impressive description of human life—so much depends upon the temper that events are met with, and the prudence that foresees and provides against them."

THE BEAUTIFUL VICTIM.

The victim was a young lady of much reputation, in a sister city, possessing every mental charm, and gifted with all the higher attributes of her sex. She was wealthy, and all her prospects in life, so far as the means of this world could effect them, were most flattering.

At the time that she accidentally or intentionally took the deadly mineral,—for it was never long before she fell,—she was courted by a gentleman many years older than herself, and for whom it was not supposed she could possibly entertain the smallest spark of affection.

One day, while the courtship between the parties, such as it was, was going on, the young girl, who had liberally walked in to her mother's dressing room, and said to her: "Ma, I have just swallowed an ounce of arsenic! How long do you think I shall live?"

"Daughter!" said the frantic mother, "do you yet give me any cause? Yes, I see, I see, you are speaking truth; do I wake, or am I dreaming?"

"The lapse of an hour, mother," replied the daughter, "will in all probability answer your questions, and prove the truth or falsity of what I have told you."

"Dangers of moderate drinking.—Do not say that I exaggerate your exposure to intemperance. Let no man say when he thinks of a drunkard broken in health and spoiled in intellect, 'I can never so fall.'" Dr. Hoag's article of falling in his earlier years. The promise of his youth was as bright as yours; and even after he began his downward course, he was not regarded as the first among his kind...

what I prayed for then. If any thing could have touched the mind and hearts of such men, the protest of Daniel Webster and John Davis, of Massachusetts, would have wrought them. Never, never, will I forget the manner in which he uttered the words, "we have collected ourselves to witness the scene."

From the Baltimore Patriot.

"The Good-temper'd are always rich." There is in Sharp's letters this transiently significant saying: "You will find at Tralobach's excellent and fine wine, provided you bring them with you; and there could not be a more impressive description of human life—so much depends upon the temper that events are met with, and the prudence that foresees and provides against them."

From the Baltimore Patriot.

EXTRACT FROM MR. WISE'S SPEECH.

The EXCESSIVE SCENE.—We suppose an extract from the speech of Mr. Wise at Norfolk. It is the description of the memorable scene at the plea of the Senate's honor on the night of the 16th January last—when a band of traitors violated and trampled in the dust the sacred constitution they were sworn to protect and defend.

At the time that she accidentally or intentionally took the deadly mineral,—for it was never long before she fell,—she was courted by a gentleman many years older than herself, and for whom it was not supposed she could possibly entertain the smallest spark of affection.

One day, while the courtship between the parties, such as it was, was going on, the young girl, who had liberally walked in to her mother's dressing room, and said to her: "Ma, I have just swallowed an ounce of arsenic! How long do you think I shall live?"

"Daughter!" said the frantic mother, "do you yet give me any cause? Yes, I see, I see, you are speaking truth; do I wake, or am I dreaming?"

"The lapse of an hour, mother," replied the daughter, "will in all probability answer your questions, and prove the truth or falsity of what I have told you."

"Dangers of moderate drinking.—Do not say that I exaggerate your exposure to intemperance. Let no man say when he thinks of a drunkard broken in health and spoiled in intellect, 'I can never so fall.'" Dr. Hoag's article of falling in his earlier years. The promise of his youth was as bright as yours; and even after he began his downward course, he was not regarded as the first among his kind...

dured. The fiend God ruffing to his feet and dashed harshly in tenk of himself.—"Ruffian Rufin!—Order! Order!"—"Clear the gallies!—Order! Order!"—were the words which reverberated through the hall—"

From the Baltimore Patriot.

"The Good-temper'd are always rich." There is in Sharp's letters this transiently significant saying: "You will find at Tralobach's excellent and fine wine, provided you bring them with you; and there could not be a more impressive description of human life—so much depends upon the temper that events are met with, and the prudence that foresees and provides against them."

From the Baltimore Patriot.

EXTRACT FROM MR. WISE'S SPEECH.

The EXCESSIVE SCENE.—We suppose an extract from the speech of Mr. Wise at Norfolk. It is the description of the memorable scene at the plea of the Senate's honor on the night of the 16th January last—when a band of traitors violated and trampled in the dust the sacred constitution they were sworn to protect and defend.

At the time that she accidentally or intentionally took the deadly mineral,—for it was never long before she fell,—she was courted by a gentleman many years older than herself, and for whom it was not supposed she could possibly entertain the smallest spark of affection.

One day, while the courtship between the parties, such as it was, was going on, the young girl, who had liberally walked in to her mother's dressing room, and said to her: "Ma, I have just swallowed an ounce of arsenic! How long do you think I shall live?"

"Daughter!" said the frantic mother, "do you yet give me any cause? Yes, I see, I see, you are speaking truth; do I wake, or am I dreaming?"

"The lapse of an hour, mother," replied the daughter, "will in all probability answer your questions, and prove the truth or falsity of what I have told you."

"Dangers of moderate drinking.—Do not say that I exaggerate your exposure to intemperance. Let no man say when he thinks of a drunkard broken in health and spoiled in intellect, 'I can never so fall.'" Dr. Hoag's article of falling in his earlier years. The promise of his youth was as bright as yours; and even after he began his downward course, he was not regarded as the first among his kind...

dured. The fiend God ruffing to his feet and dashed harshly in tenk of himself.—"Ruffian Rufin!—Order! Order!"—"Clear the gallies!—Order! Order!"—were the words which reverberated through the hall—"

From the Baltimore Patriot.

"The Good-temper'd are always rich." There is in Sharp's letters this transiently significant saying: "You will find at Tralobach's excellent and fine wine, provided you bring them with you; and there could not be a more impressive description of human life—so much depends upon the temper that events are met with, and the prudence that foresees and provides against them."

From the Baltimore Patriot.

EXTRACT FROM MR. WISE'S SPEECH.

The EXCESSIVE SCENE.—We suppose an extract from the speech of Mr. Wise at Norfolk. It is the description of the memorable scene at the plea of the Senate's honor on the night of the 16th January last—when a band of traitors violated and trampled in the dust the sacred constitution they were sworn to protect and defend.

At the time that she accidentally or intentionally took the deadly mineral,—for it was never long before she fell,—she was courted by a gentleman many years older than herself, and for whom it was not supposed she could possibly entertain the smallest spark of affection.

One day, while the courtship between the parties, such as it was, was going on, the young girl, who had liberally walked in to her mother's dressing room, and said to her: "Ma, I have just swallowed an ounce of arsenic! How long do you think I shall live?"

"Daughter!" said the frantic mother, "do you yet give me any cause? Yes, I see, I see, you are speaking truth; do I wake, or am I dreaming?"

"The lapse of an hour, mother," replied the daughter, "will in all probability answer your questions, and prove the truth or falsity of what I have told you."

"Dangers of moderate drinking.—Do not say that I exaggerate your exposure to intemperance. Let no man say when he thinks of a drunkard broken in health and spoiled in intellect, 'I can never so fall.'" Dr. Hoag's article of falling in his earlier years. The promise of his youth was as bright as yours; and even after he began his downward course, he was not regarded as the first among his kind...

dured. The fiend God ruffing to his feet and dashed harshly in tenk of himself.—"Ruffian Rufin!—Order! Order!"—"Clear the gallies!—Order! Order!"—were the words which reverberated through the hall—"

From the Baltimore Patriot.

"The Good-temper'd are always rich." There is in Sharp's letters this transiently significant saying: "You will find at Tralobach's excellent and fine wine, provided you bring them with you; and there could not be a more impressive description of human life—so much depends upon the temper that events are met with, and the prudence that foresees and provides against them."

From the Baltimore Patriot.

EXTRACT FROM MR. WISE'S SPEECH.

The EXCESSIVE SCENE.—We suppose an extract from the speech of Mr. Wise at Norfolk. It is the description of the memorable scene at the plea of the Senate's honor on the night of the 16th January last—when a band of traitors violated and trampled in the dust the sacred constitution they were sworn to protect and defend.

At the time that she accidentally or intentionally took the deadly mineral,—for it was never long before she fell,—she was courted by a gentleman many years older than herself, and for whom it was not supposed she could possibly entertain the smallest spark of affection.

One day, while the courtship between the parties, such as it was, was going on, the young girl, who had liberally walked in to her mother's dressing room, and said to her: "Ma, I have just swallowed an ounce of arsenic! How long do you think I shall live?"

"Daughter!" said the frantic mother, "do you yet give me any cause? Yes, I see, I see, you are speaking truth; do I wake, or am I dreaming?"

"The lapse of an hour, mother," replied the daughter, "will in all probability answer your questions, and prove the truth or falsity of what I have told you."

"Dangers of moderate drinking.—Do not say that I exaggerate your exposure to intemperance. Let no man say when he thinks of a drunkard broken in health and spoiled in intellect, 'I can never so fall.'" Dr. Hoag's article of falling in his earlier years. The promise of his youth was as bright as yours; and even after he began his downward course, he was not regarded as the first among his kind...

THE WHIG.

FLEMINGSBURG, KY.

Friday, July 7, 1837.

The undersigned, in consequence of declining health, offers for sale his interest in the establishment of the Kentucky Whig...

Letters post paid will be promptly attended to. W. T. CHAPMAN.

The unequivocal demonstration of public sentiment in every part of the district where Mr. Menifee has been, or where he is generally known, affords us a sure earnest of his triumphant success.

The celebration of the Fourth at Maytick was equal to the expectations which had been created by the previous arrangements.

Latest from Mexico.—By the Steer, Cora Captain Delaville which left Matamoros on the 11th June, private letters were sent...

The heavy showers of rain which descended on Thursday evening last, produced an extraordinary rise in the town branch, and other streams in the vicinity.

We regret to learn that during the storm on Wednesday evening last, an individual of the name of Joseph Powers, living in the neighborhood of Mt. Carmel was struck in the head by a limb fallen from a tree and instantly killed.

We are requested to announce RICHARD H. MENIFEE, Esq. as a candidate for Congress.

We are authorized to announce Judge PRENTISS as a candidate for re-election to Congress.

We are authorized to announce JERRY WILLIAMS, as a candidate for a seat in the next House of Delegates of this State.

THE undersigned takes this method of informing the creditors of Charles and Lawrence Triplett, that he is desirous to make a composition with them...

has to bear the reproach of being of 'obscure origin'—he it so—if that origin can be called obscure which is traced to a parentage conspicuous for industry, and for true honor.

PHILADELPHIA ELECTION.—We learn from the Baltimore American, that the election held in Philadelphia county on Thursday, for a member of Congress in the place of Mr. Harper, deceased, resulted in the choice of Mr. NAYLOR, the Whig candidate.

Attack on the Express rider.—A second attempt has been made to rob the Express Mail between this city and Philadelphia.

LATEST FROM MEXICO.—By the Steer, Cora Captain Delaville which left Matamoros on the 11th June, private letters were sent that the appearance of a new comet had created considerable alarm among the inhabitants, who, fearful of an attack, had packed up all their valuables for a move...

We are requested to announce RICHARD H. MENIFEE, Esq. as a candidate for Congress.

We are authorized to announce Judge PRENTISS as a candidate for re-election to Congress.

We are authorized to announce JERRY WILLIAMS, as a candidate for a seat in the next House of Delegates of this State.

THE undersigned takes this method of informing the creditors of Charles and Lawrence Triplett, that he is desirous to make a composition with them...

LAWRENCE TRIPLETT, Jr. July 7, 1837.

THE MARKETS.

Table listing market prices for various goods like Cotton, Sugar, Molasses, Flour, etc. with prices per pound, barrel, etc.

Table listing market prices for various goods like Cotton, Sugar, Molasses, Flour, etc. with prices per pound, barrel, etc.

Table listing market prices for various goods like Cotton, Sugar, Molasses, Flour, etc. with prices per pound, barrel, etc.

Table listing market prices for various goods like Cotton, Sugar, Molasses, Flour, etc. with prices per pound, barrel, etc.

To the Voters of Fleming County. FELLOW CITIZENS:—Without any solicitation, or promise of aid, I stand before you as a candidate for a seat in the ensuing Legislature.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS, as a candidate for a seat in the next House of Delegates of this State.

L. DORSEY STOCKTON, JR. ATTORNEY AT LAW; Flemingburg, Kentucky.

FROM the farm of the subscriber, living about two miles south of Flemingburg, a BAY FALLOT, two years old this spring, no mark recollect.

List of Letters.

REMAINING in the Post Office at Flemingburg, on the 1st day of July, 1837, and if not taken out before the 1st day of Sept. will be sent to the General Post Office as dead letters.

REPROSPECTUS OF THE UNITED STATES MAGAZINE AND DEMOCRATIC REVIEW. On the 1st of July, 1837, will be published at Washington, District of Columbia, and delivered simultaneously in the principal cities...

THE Taming and Currying Business. Now in full operation in Flemingburg, under the management of Gayle and Means, who tender their thanks to a generous patronage...

NEW FASHIONABLE HAT Manufactory. THE subscriber, practical hat manufacturer, would respectfully inform the public...

FRESH DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

RESPECTFULLY beg leave to inform the public that they have just received and opened an assortment of fresh Drugs and Medicines from one of the best houses in Philadelphia...

BLACKSMITHING.

ISAAC S. GALLIHER, respectfully informs the citizens of Flemingburg, that he has commenced the business of Blacksmithing, in the brick shop on main street...

TAILORING.

THE undersigned grateful for past favors of Flemingburg and its vicinity that he still continues to call on the above named shop as an extra or enlarged number will be published, containing a general review and history of its proceedings...

REPROSPECTUS OF THE UNITED STATES MAGAZINE AND DEMOCRATIC REVIEW. On the 1st of July, 1837, will be published at Washington, District of Columbia, and delivered simultaneously in the principal cities...

THE Taming and Currying Business. Now in full operation in Flemingburg, under the management of Gayle and Means, who tender their thanks to a generous patronage...

NEW FASHIONABLE HAT Manufactory. THE subscriber, practical hat manufacturer, would respectfully inform the public that he has commenced the above business in the town of Flemingburg...

PROSPECTUS OF THE RURAL REPOSITORY.

DEVOTED to Public Literature, such as Moral and Sentimental Tales, Original Communications, Geography, Travelling Sketches, &c. On Saturday the 24th of June, 1837, will be issued the first number of the Fourth Volume (Fifth New Series) of the RURAL REPOSITORY...

THE RURAL REPOSITORY.

THE RURAL REPOSITORY will be published every Saturday, in the Quarter, and will contain twenty-six numbers of eight pages each, with a title page and index to the volume, making in the whole 206 pages. It will be printed in handsome style, on previous volumes of the publication...

POETRY.

THE AMERICAN PLAG.

When freed from her mountain height,
Unfettered from her standard to the air,
She to the azure robe of night,

Child of the Sun! to thee 'tis given
To guard the banner of the free—
To hover in the sulphur smoke,

Flag of the brave! thy folds shall fly,
The sign of glory and triumph high,

Flag of the east! on ocean wave,
Thy stars shall glitter o'er the brave,

Flag of the free! her heart's hope and home!
By angel hands to valor given;

ILL BRAM T' IN MIND.
During a recent visit "down east,"

Coal mines in England.—The richest and best coal mines in England, are situated in the northern counties—and furnish what may

AGRICULTURE.
From the Cultivator.
HOW TO IMPROVE A POOR FARM.

Richard A. Leonard, of Middletown, N.
Jersey, has furnished us an interesting ac-

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called the doctor was passing by my door in his chariot, and some horse or other one of the wheels got a little loose; so says I, Doctor, I

BEAVER.—The following is an extract from Dr. Hovew's lecture before the Boston Physicological Society, and contains a beautiful

HAY MAKING.—This interesting specimen of "rural felicity," which philosophers have praised, and poets eulogized, in all ages,

FARMS OF ENGLAND.—The farms are regularly laid out in squares and parallel rows of from two to forty acres, and in

TO THE PUBLIC.
MY WIFE, LUCIA WALKER,
JUST AS I WAS ABOUT TO GO AWAY,

PROSPECTUS, for publishing in Franklin, Pa., a weekly paper, to be called
the Franklin Farmer. By F. D. PERRY &

Honor to practical agriculturists.—National beneficiary. The names of those who have enriched our gardens, fields,

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

FOX SPRINGS.
White and Black Sulphur,
Chalybeate and Free Stone.

THESE springs are beautifully situated in the country of Fleming Ky. 10 miles from Flemingsburg and 30 from Mayville,

TAILORING.
THE undersigned would respectfully inquire of the quality or properties of the water and salubrity of the climate, I refer persons to

TAILORING BUSINESS.
In the town of Flemingsburg, where he intends carrying on regularly the above busi-

JOHN H. MILLER,
Cabinetmaker.

TO THE PUBLIC.
MY WIFE, LUCIA WALKER,
JUST AS I WAS ABOUT TO GO AWAY,

PROSPECTUS, for publishing in Franklin, Pa., a weekly paper, to be called
the Franklin Farmer. By F. D. PERRY &

Honor to practical agriculturists.—National beneficiary. The names of those who have enriched our gardens, fields,

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

WILLIAM O. FANT.
(SADDLER.)

RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has established himself at Flemingsburg, where he will always be

Capital 2,000,000.
PROTECTION.
J. P. DOBYSNS, as Agent for the Hartford

To Newspaper Publishers.
THE Editor of THE DELAWAREAN,
proposes to prepare a Newspaper Directory,

JOHN H. MILLER,
Cabinetmaker.

TO THE PUBLIC.
MY WIFE, LUCIA WALKER,
JUST AS I WAS ABOUT TO GO AWAY,

PROSPECTUS, for publishing in Franklin, Pa., a weekly paper, to be called
the Franklin Farmer. By F. D. PERRY &

Honor to practical agriculturists.—National beneficiary. The names of those who have enriched our gardens, fields,

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

WILLIAM O. FANT.
(SADDLER.)

RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has established himself at Flemingsburg, where he will always be

Capital 2,000,000.
PROTECTION.
J. P. DOBYSNS, as Agent for the Hartford

To Newspaper Publishers.
THE Editor of THE DELAWAREAN,
proposes to prepare a Newspaper Directory,

JOHN H. MILLER,
Cabinetmaker.

TO THE PUBLIC.
MY WIFE, LUCIA WALKER,
JUST AS I WAS ABOUT TO GO AWAY,

PROSPECTUS, for publishing in Franklin, Pa., a weekly paper, to be called
the Franklin Farmer. By F. D. PERRY &

Honor to practical agriculturists.—National beneficiary. The names of those who
have enriched our gardens, fields,

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called

THE AMERICAN WORK
BY EDWARD B. WALKER,
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE

THE FRANKLIN FARMER,
proceeding to publish in Franklin,
Pa., a weekly paper, to be called