

Launch Plans For Factory In City; Meeting Is Called

Business Men, Others Interested Requested to Meet Monday Evening

TEMPORARY COMMITTEE PICKED THIS WEEK

Point Out Advantages That Morehead Offers to Manufacturers

Plans were launched here this week in an effort to secure a factory for Morehead, with all business men and other persons interested in the betterment of the city urged to assume an active part in the project.

A meeting of business men has been called for 7:30 p. m. on Monday, August 3, in the courthouse. The session will be open to the public and suggestions from anyone present will be considered and discussed.

A temporary committee consisting of H. A. Babbs, Otto Cary, The Rev. B. H. Kazee, Robert S. Bishop, Roy Cornette, Harlan Blair, W. J. Sample and E. A. Clayton has been appointed to act at Monday's meeting. At that time a permanent organization will be effected and the enterprise launched in earnest.

Those in charge of the movement point out that there should be no reason to keep a factory from Morehead if the proper advantages are made to firms in this section. They referred to an abundance of labor, unexcelled educational conditions, railroad and highway facilities and a ready supply of raw materials within a short distance.

Morehead is also a center of a large population radius lying midway between central Kentucky and central Kentucky. In addition, a factory here would be tax free.

19 Share In Gifts Of Local Merchants

Mary Esther DeBorde, Flemingsburg Road, Winner Of First Prize

Mary Esther DeBorde, Flemingsburg road, was the first of 19 Saturday, given by local merchants at the weekly gift drawing.

Prize winners were: Wayne Amburgey, Clearfield, $5; Andy Nickell, Morehead, $5; Ray Beardsley, Morehead, $5; M. J. Caudill, Route No. 90, $2; Mrs. Wilford Waltz, Morehead, $2; Clara Gilliam, $2; Lloyd Roberts, Cowgill, $2; and Edith Caudin, R. J. Barry, Ann Marshall, Mrs. Roy Burris, Paul Reynolds, Fred Cooper, Hester Roberts, Leonard Planchy and Clayton Johnson, $1 each.

This week's drawing will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the intersection of the Flemingsburg road and Highway No. 60 near the M. F. Brown Grocery.

Under the plan now used by the merchants the coupons, given with each 25 cent purchase, are not numbered but it is necessary that the customer write his name on the ticket and deposit it in the box provided in each place of business. Anyone not present when his name is called does not get the prize, but another ticket is drawn. It is noticeable that the last month that few tickets are drawn without being claimed. Crowds at the drawings have increased correspondingly.

Appropriate Large Amount For W.P.A.

A new public Works Administration program veering away from the type of huge structures financed during the last three years, was partly set under way yesterday by President Roosevelt with an allotment of $22,742,034 for 352 projects in 37 states.

Announcing that in addition to the 45 per cent credit in the federal loan another $2,142,000 to help communities defray their remaining 55 per cent of the cost, Secretary Hes, P.W.A. chief, said relief labor would be used exclusively in carrying out this start on the third program for the

Don't Fail To Register Saturday

Many Questions Are Asked In Registering

Questions asked voters when they register Saturday will be: address, sex, color, party affiliation, occupation, term of residence in state, county and precinct in years, months and days, weight, height, other means of identification (such as scars, warts, glasses, etc)?

'Work For Vinson' Is Veterans' Plea

Corbie Ellington Post Urges Members To Fight For His Re-nomination

Ex-servicemen of Rowan county launched a fight this week for Hon. Fred M. Vinson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th district.

"We are urging every ex-serviceman in Rowan county to go to the polls early and stay late working for Vinson," Howard A. Spurlock, commander of the Corbie Ellington Post No. 126 of the American Legion, said in a speech.

"Those that have cars are being urged to use them to get out the vote for Vinson," Mr. Spurlock said.

"Vinson not only fought for the ex-soldiers at Washington, but did more for them than any other man at Washington," Spurlock declared.

"He introduced the Vinson bonus bill and made the address in behalf of the bonus marchers. He helped us now—it is time that we support him."

Mr. Vinson, leader of the Kentucky delegation in Washington, is a member of the important Ways and Means committee, and bill of the Guffey-Vinson bill and the Vinson tobacco bill.

He is opposed for re-nomination by Frank Salsbery of Grayson.

Money Is Available For Drouth Farms

To Be Distributed To Bona-Fide Drouth Sufferers In State

The registration administration reported today that in the fund for aid to drouth-stricken farmers there is $150,000 set aside for human subsistence and $40,000 for emergency loans for feed for subsistence livestock and foundation herds or flocks of livestock.

Emergency grants for subsistence from the $150,000 may be made to bona fide drouth-stricken farmers—farmers who are in need of subsistence because of the drouth.

Emergency loans for feed may be made to drouth-stricken farmers to aid them to maintain subsistence livestock and work animals or enable them to maintain purebred or high-grade foundation herds or flocks.

Emergency crop loans will be made to drouth-stricken farmers to enable them to purchase feed, fertilizers, operating materials, etc., to carry on normal crop operations. For the immediate present, crop loans will be largely restricted to the production of subsistence, feed and market crops that will mature this fall.

All applicants for subsistence and emergency loans for feed or emergency crop loans must show that they are in need of such aid and that they can not borrow money from elsewhere to get credit for human subsistence, livestock feed, or for normal crop production.

Pay Increase For Rowan Teachers Is Seen By Cornette

Basic Salary Expected To Be Set At Meeting Of Board Monday Morning

PER CAPITA RAISED TO $11.65 FOR THIS YEAR

Project Approved For $75,000 WPA Expenditure At Three Places

A slight raise in teachers salaries over last year, is expected to be passed by the Rowan County Board of Education when it meets here Monday morning, Superintendent Roy E. Cornette said.

The per capita this year is $11.65, which is over that of 1935, permitting the increase.

Superintendent Cornette said that the plans for the school buildings at Elliottsville, Farmers and Haldeman had been returned to him this week with notations for a few changes in the plans.

He sent the plans back with the necessary changes. Work is expected to begin on these buildings within a few days. The WPA has already approved the three projects.

Another WPA project calls for the completion of the basement at the Morehead high school, giving additional space for class rooms. The new toilet fixtures will also be placed at the Morehead school.

Pension Checks To Start On August 3

Wallis Says That First Installment To Aged Will Be Paid Next Week

By direction of Gov. A. B. Chandler, Commissioner of Welfare, Fredrick A. Wallis said in a statement this week that the first installment of old age assistance checks will be paid to recipients out during the week of Monday, August 3.

Wallis said that although Federal approval of the Kentucky Social Security set-up had not been made formally, this approval was assured by the program is $8,000,000 a year, half of this sum a state appropriation, and the balance to be paid by the Federal Government.

Funds for the state institutions building program, an additional grant of approximately $1,665,000 in the next two years to be added to state appropriations of $2,000,000, also are "assured," Wallis said.

After next week, Commissioner Wallis said in his formal statement, "old age assistance grants will be paid to all eligible field workers of the public assistance division can make investigations in harmony with both state and federal requirements to go to the division of public assistance of the welfare department."

Applications in duplicate form to all eligible persons whose names have been furnished by friends, county and state officials and others. Applications in alphabetical sequence are being sent into each county and will be followed up by county field workers as rapidly as possible.

Speaks Here Tonight For Senator Logan

Luther M. Roberts, Trail Commissioner of Jefferson county, will deliver an address in behalf of the candidacy of Senator M. M. Logan at the Morehead courthouse Thursday evening at 7:30, W. E. Crutcher, Logan campaign manager, announced today.

Mr. Roberts is recognized as one of Louisville's prominent speakers and has made several addresses in behalf of the Bowling Green candidate.

It is the second public political speaking here this year. John Brown having delivered a speech in his own behalf more than a month ago.

PRES. BABB ENGAGED FOR PAINTSVILLE TALKS

Harvey A. Babbs, Morehead College President, will address a meeting of Johnson county teachers at Paintsville Saturday. President Babbs will also speak before the Kiwanis Club at Paintsville.

Last Friday he addressed the Pike County Teachers Association at Pikeville.

Drivers Must Procure Licenses By Saturday

Warning that all automobile operators must secure drivers' licenses by Friday midnight was issued today by Circuit Clerk Joe McKimney.

"So far as I know there will be no extension of time, and after Friday midnight, any driver is subject to a fine and imprisonment if he does not have a license," Mr. McKimney stated.

So far, motorists have not heeded this new law, only 45 drivers were seen today at the county clerk's office. This leaves approximately 1,500 drivers in this county who have not secured their license as 1,535 of old drivers' licenses were issued.

Advertising Sales In Catalog At Peak

Rowan Fair Insured A Financial Success, Report Sets Out

From a financial standpoint the Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair appears headed for a greater success than ever before.

Advertising in the catalog, which is the principal means of financing the fair, has sold faster than ever before, with the result that today more space had been taken in the catalog than in any previous year.

A halt on the advertising sales will not be called until Saturday, and between now and then more sales are expected to be made.

The fair association will meet Monday evening at the County Superintendent's office. At that time heads of the departments will present their premium lists and the fair catalog will be completed to go to the printers Tuesday morning.

The department heads are appointed by President H. L. Moore: School, Sup't, Roy E. Cornette; Agriculture, L. G. Coffey; Finance, Robert S. Eldred; Entertainment, Bill Lane, chairman; Mrs. A. F. Ellington and Mrs. Ed Johnson. The latter department was added this year.

Negro's Execution Set Friday Morning

Professional Hangman Engaged to Assist Woman Sheriff on Scaffold

Unless halted by State or Federal court order, Roney Bethea, 22, Negro ex-convict, will be hanged at Owensboro, Ky., publicly at sunrise Friday for the assault murder of Mrs. Ella Edwards, 75, prominent Owensboro woman, June 7.

The execution will be in charge of Sheriff Florence Thompson, Sheriff of Adams county. It will be officiated by Rev. J. H. Hanna, Epworth, 11, professional in the art of adjusting a noose, last being at the premises of Roney Bethea execution. It will be the seven-second time he has stood on the scaffold with a condemned man. A scaffold will be shipped here for the hanging. It is expected to arrive Wednesday and will be erected on the county gap lot.

There is an open space of practically a block in front of the site of the execution that will afford standing space for probably 10,000 persons, but it is expected that a number of spectators will be present. The occasion should be a solemn one, Sheriff Thompson said. "I hope there will not be a semblance of disorder."

It was made known today that none of Sheriff Thompson's deputies will be asked to spring the trap, but whether some will be deputized for the duty or the Sheriff will act personally was not stated.

Requests for "tickets" to the execution have been received at the Sheriff's office from all over the county. Sheriff Thompson said tickets will not be necessary and none will be issued.

3 ROWAN MEN RECEIVE PAROLES FROM STATE

Three Rowan men were given paroles by Governor A. B. Chandler Monday. They were: David Swinn, two charges, 1 year each, broken by the Rowan Jail, 2 years, forgery; Logan Full, 2 years, house breaking.

George W. Carter, county clerk, sentenced 1 year for house-breaking, was also given a parole.

6 Draw Fines For Allowing Fires In Cumberland Forest

Judgment Suspended and Continued On Recommendation of Federal Men

JENNINGS WARNS VIOLATORS OF NEW LAW

Negligence Is Counted Persecutors Against Perpetrators

Six Rowan county farmers were hauled before County Judge Charles E. Jennings Saturday morning charging with negligence in allowing brush fires to get into the Cumberland National Forest.

All drew fines on a plea of guilty. The fines were suspended, however, until they are either directly, indirectly, willfully or negligently the cause of another fire in forest timber.

The men arrested and the fines against them were: Harrison Ramsey, $32.99; George Quisenberry, $17.86; Edgar Bowman, $22.39; and R. M. Roberts, $37.17.

All of the men stated they were "burning-off" new ground when the fire got out of their control and made its way to government timber. The fines were suspended on the recommendation of Karl M. Stallard of Mt. Sterling, district ranger, and Kenneth A. Howe, Winchester, federal enforcement officers.

Henry Cline and Elmer Gatty were fined $100 each, $50 and $18.77, respectively for allowing fires they set to burn into the forest.

Judge Jennings, Mr. Stallard and Mr. Howe all pointed out that under a new law passed by the legislature it is mandatory that a fire be kept out of the forest, and if any man allowed any fire to spread into the timber or any part of the Cumberland forest he was guilty of negligence and subject to a fine. "We agreed to let these men go because this law is in a way, new, but hereafter intend to enforce it," Mr. Stallard said.

The ranger also pointed out that any attempt to quell the flames after they had reached government property was no excuse.

Continue Probe In School Disorders

Three Warrants Taken For Men Alleged To Be Responsible

Otto Dillon was charged in a warrant here this week with maliciously damaging The Poplar Grove school, following a court inquiry which was requested after the Board of Education received reports that two attempts had been made to burn the school building.

Jack Lovelace and John Walter Harris were named in two warrants with breaking and entering the minor school building.

"We do not intend to tolerate such lawlessness in this county," Judge C. E. Jennings declared after the minor court of inquiry.

It is stated that in many rural sections, there is a prevailing habit to break out windows and commit other depredations on school buildings.

Jennings declared the Poplar Grove investigation was not closed, and that a number of additional warrants were being summoned to appear before him. Several other warrants—possibly as many as six—are expected to be issued upon completion of the Poplar Grove inquiry.

ELLIOTT COUNTY GIVEN ROAD APPROPRIATIONS

Approval for expenditures totaling $10,666 in a part road program for Elliott county was announced at Frankfort yesterday by Commissioner of Rural Highways George Williams.

The Elliott projects include: Resurfacing Newcomb creek road, $2,240; Howard creek road, $3,000; Big Stone road, $4,580; Carter Gap road, $860. Total $10,740.

Automobiles Crash on Christy Creek Road

A warrant charging Harlan Skaggs of Morehead with reckless driving was sworn out in county court this week by Charles Gray of Sandy Hook, WPA tool clerk at Morehead.

Automobiles driven by the men collided at Elliottville on the Christy creek road. Gray charges that Skaggs was at fault.

No one was seriously injured, although Mrs. Gray sustained painful bruises on her chest. Skaggs was released under $500 bond for his appearance at a hearing before Judge C. E. Jennings Monday.

Mosquitoes Prove Worst In History

Mosquitoes have proven more of pest and menace in Morehead and vicinity this year than ever before, old-timers say.

Millions of the insects have hissed in nearly stagnant water. No concentrated effort has been made to control them, although many citizens have made personal appeals to council members to make an appropriation to buy oil to place on stagnant ponds and in Triplet creek.

Clearfield residents report the mosquitoes are even worse there than in Morehead. They claim that most of them come from Triplet creek, where the city's sewage empties.

Plan Trip Saturday To Cumberland Falls

A group of approximately 20 people will leave here Saturday afternoon for Cumberland Falls to witness the "Moonbow" when, which is a rare spectacle when the moon is full. The party is being sponsored by Miss Katherine Braun, Morehead College instructor, who reports that there is still room for two more people in the group. They will return Sunday afternoon.

REWARD OFFERED FOR RETURN OF BIRD DOG

With hunting season approaching, the usual number of lost, strayed or stolen bird dog notices are being received at the office of Frank Helwig, manager of the Kennard Hardware reports a white female bird dog with brown spots on the head and ears missing. The dog strayed from Farmers' Key. Mr. Helwig has offered $25.00 reward for information leading to the recovery of the dog.

Morehead Man Dies Under C. & O. Train

C. Amburgey Meets Death Early Wednesday Morning

A jury presided over by Coroner James Brown returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday in the death of Cannie Amburgey, 39, of Morehead, who was found dead on the Chesapeake and Ohio railway tracks Wednesday morning near the old spoke factory here.

It is believed that an east bound freight struck Amburgey around 1:30 Wednesday morning. His body was badly mangled, having been dragged several feet by the freight. The left leg was cut off and the right arm and body cut and bruised in many places.

He is survived by four children, 1200 Wednesday morning. The accidental death certificate was issued by Len Martin, Jim Markwell, Ellis Adams, Purdy Marshall, L. C. McCune, E. W. Barbour.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed Wednesday afternoon.

3 Stars In Picture At College Friday

The "Bride Walks Out" is Title of Feature at Local Theatre

One of the season's gayest photo-plays makes its local debut at the College Theatre this Friday when "The Bride Walks Out" opens for full week's engagement with Barbara Stanwyck in the stellar role with a clever cast including the low-headed Gene Raymond, the screen's outstanding man-about-town, Robert Young, and the exponents of the "dead-pan" brand of merriment, Helen Broderick and Ned Sparks.

Miss Stanwyck is one of the attraction's principal delights. Supreme as an actress of dramatic achievement, the 7-foot-tall star goes light and breezy with all the mirth, gaiety and froth of a brilliant personality. But this time the course move only furthers Miss Stanwyck's position in the motion picture ranks, since critical reviewers of "The Bride Walks Out" have recorded their desires to see the stately Barbara in more roles of the mercurial variety.

Vinson Not Indorsed

R. T. KENNARD
Attorney at Law
OLIVE HILL, KY.

Mr. W. C. Clay, Mt. Sterling, Ky.
Dear Sir:

I have your letter of July 23rd in reply to my letter of July 20th published in the Sentinel Democrat and your reply thereto published in the Advocate on July 23rd, also an article which purports to be a copy of the alleged indorsement of Mr. Vinson, signed by Hon. Keen Johnson.

In further reply to your contention that the 8th District meeting of delegates at the 1936 State Convention held at Louisville indorsed Fred M. Vinson for Congress, I reiterate and reaffirm my previous statement that the 8th District meeting did not indorse Mr. Vinson for re-election, and I give as additional reference for the verification of my statement every delegate from the 8th Congressional District who attended the 8th District meeting.

But to the contrary, delegates from 14 of the 20 counties of the 8th District met in rooms 816-18 of the Seelbach Hotel and voted unanimously to give Mr. Vinson opposition. A resolution to indorse Mr. Vinson was never presented at the 8th District meeting, and would not have been adopted had it been presented.

Referring to the paper which you inclose, which purports to be an indorsement of Mr. Vinson signed by Hon. Keen Johnson, Secretary of the State Central and Executive Committee, in my opinion Mr. Johnson was deceived and imposed upon by some Vinson supporter, who represented to him that said paper had been adopted by the 8th District meeting when in fact it had not been adopted or even presented. In brief, the paper, in my opinion, is a wilful forgery for which Mr. Johnson is not responsible.

I WILL FURTHER SAY FOR YOUR INFORMATION THAT each of the Louisville papers carried the proceedings of the several Congressional District meetings at the State Convention, and neither of them made any mention of the 8th District meeting having indorsed Mr. Vinson.

I trust that you will have this letter published in each paper that carries your paper.

Yours very truly,
R. T. Kennard,
Chairman Resolutions Committee,
8th District Convention.

Brown Will Deliver Radio Addresses

HON. JOHN Y. BROWN
Hon. John Y. Brown will renew his attack on Governor Chandler and the state administration over the radio between now and election. Radio addresses include: Thursday, 7 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. (WHAS); Friday, 2 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. from New Castle (WHAS); 8:15 p. m. to 8:45 p. m. from Covington (WLW); Saturday, 7:15 a. m. to 7:30 a. m. from Lexington (WHAS).

Hard Riding Star Hero Of New Film

Thrilling Adventures of Canadian Mounted Shows At Cozy
A lovely miss in danger and outlaws who test the mettle of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police furnish peril and adventure aplenty for George O'Brien in "O'Malley of the Mounted," the action-cramped Fox drama starting Friday at the Cozy Theatre.
Adapted from an original story by "Two-Gun" Bill Hart, leading star of the silent screen, the new picture is a cracking drama of a "mountie" who rides and shoots with a bandit gang in order to trap them and bring them to justice.
In the title role, O'Brien finds more than he counted on when he falls in love with Irene Ware, whose brother is a member of the gang. With her aid, he manages to prepare a reception committee of "mounties" for the gang on their most daring raid. Justice triumphs in the smashing romantic climax, and O'Brien and Miss Ware find a clear road ahead for their romance.
David Howard directed this Sol Lesser production, which features Vic Potel and James Bush in the supporting cast.

Battle Lines For Soap Chips Primary Are Drawn

have said anything against each other but have been turning on Beckham and the state administration with all words at their command. Brown's attack on Chandler has been especially vicious, the Lexington man claiming the Governor betrayed him.
Robert H. Lucas of Louisville is a Republican candidate for the nomination for Senator, although he has four opponents.
Fred M. Vinson, incumbent, of Ashland, is believed to have an easy race for the Democratic nomination in Congress. He is opposed by Paul Santsberry, Grayson.
The Republican nomination for Congress stacks up as a "horse race" with W. Hoffman Wood and Oscar S. Deming apparently the stronger in this county.
R. Lee Stewart of Morehead, is a Republican candidate for clerk of the court of appeals. He appears to have all the edge in this, his home county, over his single opponent.
Although Saturday marks the first state-wide registration day the vote is not expected to be exceptionally heavy.
A sharp improvement in French cotton imports from the United States during the current year is indicated.

Synopsis—Mary Blake, after being befriended by Blackie Norton, proprietor of the Paradise Music Hall on the Barbary Coast, leaves him to sing at the Tivoli Opera Co. where she makes a hit at her debut. Blackie, who has threatened to close up the opera because Mary still has a contract with him, upon hearing her sing, changes his mind. Jack Burley, Nob Hill millionaire, who is in love with Mary and got her the role in "Faust" leads Blackie in her to flame in Blackie's eyes. "Come here, Mary," he said. "Will you please tell his 'holiness' you made up your own mind to come back?"

Mary, as if hypnotized by Blackie's arm about her shoulder, said: "I love him, Father."

"This isn't love, Mary."

"Is that so?" said Blackie loudly beginning to lose self-control. "Well, it happens to suit me."

"I can't love to let him drag you down to his level," continued Father Mullin.

"Wait a minute! I'm going to marry her!" said Blackie.

"Not if I can stop it!" cried the priest, leaving Blackie utterly aghast. "You can't take a woman in marriage and then sell her immortal soul!"

"Immortal soul! I don't go for that sort of talk, Tim!" Blackie's contempt took the form of raising his eyes to the ceiling.

"I don't believe that nonsense and never have! You'd better go back to the half-wits that do!" Upon Father Mullin's shocked silence and Mary's stolid gaze, came a knock at the door and the stage manager's voice: "Mary's on next."

Father Mullin took her long coat from a hook on the wall, threw it over her shoulders. "Come on, Mary. Come with me."

"I'm running this place!" blazed Blackie furiously. "You take care of your-suckers! I'll take care of mine!"

"She's not going out there," said Father Mullin authoritatively. "I've stood for this psalm blather of yours for years and never squawked. Tim, but you can't drag it in here! This is my joint!"

Again came the stage manager's call for Mary Blake, and the young priest moved in front of the door, blocking the exit. "She's not going out there," he said with quiet decision. Blackie gave him a brief, angry stare, followed by a blow to his friend's jaw. Blood began to trickle from Father Mullin's mouth, but he made no move to defend himself. Mary watched then her face devoid of all expression.

"Get out there, kid!" commanded Blackie as the overture to "San Francisco" started up.

"I'm not going Blackie," said Mary, and calmly removed her garish head-dress. "I'm going with Father Mullin."

Blackie's face went white with anger. He shouted: "If you leave now, you're never coming back!"

Her only answer was to fasten the cups about her shoulders, concealing her costume, tights and all. Father Mullin took her arm and led her out.

As the door opened, sounds of the smashing of furniture could be heard in the dressing room, but Blackie, white with fury, paid no heed. Mat rushed in, frightened and excited.

"It's Burley, Blackie! He's giving us the works! I coulda told you you couldn't buck his dough and the influence he's got!"

"Shut up!" Blackie continued to look after Mary and Father Mullin. Mat grabbed his arm.

"Come on out and get that pained!" He pulled Blackie from the room. In a spot, where, through an open door, they could see into the gambling room. Policemen were busy with axes and sledge hammers, breaking up all the gambling paraphernalia. Blackie gave no glance, but rushed from the back to the stage door through which Father Mullin and Mary were passing. Mat's mouth fell open in his amazement. "Have you gone nuts?" he cried.

Jack Burley led Mary Blake into a small, exquisitely furnished salon up to a large, white-haired woman of seventy who smiled warmly at her.

"She's here! Help! Help! Help!" Burley's voice held pride and affection.

"How do you do, my dear?" said Mrs. Burley in a marked Irish accent. "You're even, prettier close to than you were from me box at the opera."

"And you are, too," smiled Mary.

"Go along with you, Jack, you get out!" If I have to sell this amazing beautiful creature the idea of joining the Burley family, I got to tell her lies about us that—Heaven forgive me!—no son should hear his mother speak."

"All right," laughed Burley—"if you'll promise to send for me when you've made the sale!"

He left them together. Mrs. Burley drew Mary into a chair facing her. "Now, tell me, why won't you marry my boy?"

Mary hesitated to tell Burley's mother the truth. She was evasive. "Mrs. Burley, your family belongs to the aristocracy of San Francisco. I am only the daughter of a poor country parson. I haven't had the advantages that Jack deserves in a wife."

"What a minute, darlin'! I didn't mean what I just said about tellin' lies. You and I are going to speak the truth to each other. I think I know what it's all about. It's that rapscallion, Blackie Norton, you were workin' for down on Pacific street. That boy's left busted hearts all over Frisco, from the Barbary Coast to Nob Hill. I'm an old lady, darlin', and I've been through a lot in me life. I came to Frisco on a sailin' vessel around the Horn in '51. When I got here there were a hundred and fifty men to one female—and I wasn't so hard to look at, and I started in business in a shack in Portsmouth Square—doin' washin'!" She chuckled. "That lasted about forty-five minutes. Me tub was busted to smithereens in a free-for-all fight between five of the town swell—to see which one'd take 'me to lunch."

She paused, sighed, patted Mary's shoulder. "So you see I got to know men—all kinds. And among 'em was a man like Blackie Norton. Bret Harte wrote this feller up in a lot of his stories. Jack Hamlin, he called him, and he got his whole nature down pat. He was selfish and selfish and Godless and... a beloved scoundrel. So you see, my dear, I've had my Blackie Norton, too."

"And you gave him up?"

Mary's voice was soft with sympathy.

"Yes. Yes, I gave him up 'cause he was killin' me soul."

"Killing your soul—yes, that's it, Mrs. Burley."

"So I pulled myself together one day and I married Burley. He was a good solid man, though he never got used to wearin' a coat till the day he died. But he built me this mansion. The time came when I was glad I married him, because he loved me—and in a few years Jack was born and I had me peace."

"I like you!" said Mary impulsively.

"Sure! Sure! We're a couple of regulars, you and me! And that's why I can ask you a mighty big favor. I want you to point to with pride in our way of livin' in the past. But life was a bitter struggle and we had to work hard. That took a little off the curse of the way we cut loose in our playtime—and we did cut loose! But this generation today in San Francisco hasn't got to work the way we did. They're playin' just as hard—harder—than we did, without anything to balance it off. Come here, darlin'!" She led Mary to a window. "That's the McDonough mansion. Aristocrats—and listen to 'em! They been carryin' on like that for two days and nights, straight runnin'. There isn't a tougher joint on the Whole Barbary Coast than they 'home' right here on Nob Hill. They call us the wickedest city in the world, and it's true! The whole town's rotten. And it's a bitter shame, for deep down underneath all our evil and sin we've got right here in San Francisco the greatest set of human bein's ever rounded up in one spot."

She stopped speaking for a moment, took Mary's hand and led her to a couch. Mary had listened without a word, seeing in her mind the events in the old lady's life which Mrs. Burley had recounted to her, wondering how all this preamble was to lead up to the subject which the elderly woman had said she wanted to discuss—the reason why Mary would no marry Jack Burley.

"Sure," continued Mrs. Burley, when they were seated side by side, "they had to have wild adventure in their hearts and dynamite in their blood to start out for here in the first place. And they had to laugh at death and danger the whole way—in order to get through! That's why they're so full of untamed devilry today. But we musn't go on like we're doin', blasphemous and sinful and with no feelin' for God in our hearts." She took Mary's hand and pressed it. "I want my boy to have a good woman, Mary, and raise fine, beautiful kids for the glory of our heritage. He's headstrong, my boy is, and a little too proud of his power. But you can make a fine man of him. And maybe you'll be glad one day that you met up with the family of old Maizie Burley, the washer-woman."

"I'm glad," said Mary, smiling yet serious, "that I know you now, Mrs. Burley."

"Maizie, you darlin'. That's what everybody calls me."

"Again," said Mary, and with sudden, wild impulse, threw her arms about this new friend.

ARGENTINA FACES POTATO SHORTAGE ALSO

The increasing scarcity of the potato in Argentina as a result of poor local crops is causing considerable concern according to a report to the Louisville District office of the Department of Commerce. Potatoes, form one of the chief sources of sustenance for the bulk of the Argentine population. A law recently passed provides approximately $500,000 for the purchase abroad of seed potatoes and also the duty-free importation during the current year of potatoes for consumption. It is estimated that a shortage of 2,000,000 sacks of potatoes exists in Argentina, which deficit must be made up by importation. The value of the annual consumption of potatoes in Argentina is estimated at $30,000,000 and the production at $15,000,000.
