Seventeen-year-old Bill Scriver of Vancebrook has scored Sunnysbrook Golf Course's first hole-in-one of the season.

City Council Tuesday approved purchase of a 1964 Ford Buil on Cruiser to replace a 1961 Chevrolet.

LBJ's Short Eastern Kentucky Tour Give People First Look At President

Lyndon B. Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, were in Eastern Kentucky for their first time Friday.

Johnson spent about an hour in each county and was more than an hour late for his first stop at Inez, but the delay didn't diminish the crowd. About 4,000 people waited near the courthouse in Inez and another 1,500 watched his helicopter land in a tiny field a mile from Inez. Rowan County has a population of 14,000.

He spoke only at Paintsville where he held a crowd of about 8,000. "We're going to be satisfied in this administration unless we drive poverty underground," he said.

He also paid a brief visit to the Mayo Vocational School at Paintsville.

In one classroom, young ladies were learning typing. The president told them: "I tried to get my girls to learn without typing and short-circuited them."

He said his wife Lady Bird was "going to be a first-class woman up there who'll get her hair done."

The president made two speeches in Paintsville—bringer in on a clean beauty culture. Johnson, "send 'em up with the women up there who'll get their hair done."

Parcel Post Service To Be Cut; Window Hours Changed

What have been previously described as "limited adjustments" in some postal services go into effect here next Monday and the primary result will be these:

Parcel post deliveries will be made on a five-day a week basis, rather than six days, with Wednesday being eliminated for delivery of packages.

Window service on Saturdays will be confined to stamp, parcel post and general delivery service, with money orders and other usual postal services not available on that day.

Postmaster Claude L. Clayton said the discontinuance of parcel post delivery on Wednesday will affect only city patrons and would bring about no change in this service for rural and star route patrons. He said that delivery on these routes would be made as usual.

However, the limitation of Saturday services to stamps, parcel post and general delivery means that neither city nor rural and star route patrons will be able to purchase money orders on Saturdays. As a result, carriers will not accept money order applications on their Saturday deliveries.

In addition to money orders, these items which have normally been cared for on Saturdays will not be handled, Clayton said: postal savings, inquiry and claims services, information, meter settings, trust fund deposits and box rent collection.

General delivery service will not only include first class mail, but parcel post on which carriers have left notices at attempted delivery.

There are to be no changes in home delivery or special delivery mail, Clayton said. Regular business mail deliveries will continue as usual and letters and other first-class mail will be handled with the same priority as ever, the postmaster declared.

Savings expected to accrue from similar steps nationwide will total $12.7 million, according to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski.

The same window service will be provided at Clearfield as at Morehead, Postmaster Bethel Hall said. Clearfield does not have home delivery.

Enforcement Of Junkyard Law Coming

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said this week compliance with the 1962 Junkyard Law "has been very poor" and announced he has set up an office to administer it.

Ed Hancock, 38, Frankfort, will head the office of compliance for both the junk yard and the waste disposal law. He has been an assistant to Ward since January.

The commissioner said it is likely the Highway Department will have to take legal action against many junk yard dealers to make them comply. The law prohibits operation of junk yards within 2,000 feet of highway centerlines unless some type of screening is put up. Enforcement of the law will officially start July 1. A two-year grace period was permitted while the law was being tested.

City To Build Water Plant; Decision Is Termed "Irrevocable"

MSC Regents OK Mignon Hall Bond

Cave Run Hearing Is Conducted

The Morehead State College Board of Regents last Wednesday said $1,700,000 in housing bonds, Series 1963, for the construction of West Mignon Hall and Regents Hall.

The first U. S. Corporation, Memphis, Tenn., purchased $389,950 of the total at an interest rate of 3.44735%. The Federal Housing Agency purchased the remaining $1,310,050 at an interest rate of 3.44735%.

West Mignon Hall is to be a six-story, 204 capacity women's residence hall. Regents Hall will be a four-story, 200 capacity men's residence hall.

In other business, the board appointed four new faculty and staff members, approved additional capital construction of over $1,500,000 and re-elected officers of the board.

Appointed to the faculty were: Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, associate professor of guidance and psychology; Dr. Mary Northcutt, associate professor of elementary education; Richard Rivers, associate professor of music; and James Smiley, assistant manager of the college store.

The resignations of Dr. William B. Gwinn, chairman of the Division of Science and Mathematics, and James Anderson, assistant professor of board, were accepted by the board.

The capital construction project approved by the board includes an addition to the design Training School, the site of a maintenance and service building, air conditioning of Bolton Auditorium and construction of an 18-unit one-bedroom apartment building for married students.

Dr. William H. Cartmel, Mayville, was re-elected vice chairman of the board. Charles Gilley, Lexington, was named the board's representative on the Council on Public Higher Education.

Miss Anna Carter, Morehead, was named secretary to the board. Herbert Hogan, bus manager, was named treasurer. Members of the board who were present included Dr. Cartmel; Gilley; Roy Casey, Ashland; D. H. Dorton, Paintsville; and B. F. Reed, Drift.

Michael Ferguson To Exhibit Study In National Fair

A Morehead boy and Georgia girl have won trips to Baltimore where they will exhibit their research on radiation effects in the 15th National Science Fair-Internationally to be held in Baltimore from May 5-9.

Michael Ferguson 16, of Morehead, studied the radioactivity absorbed by plants. He measured the ferns on a hill for radiation and found that radioactivity increased with altitude.

June Moore, 16, of American Gap, found in her experiments that even limited exposure of lina mites to cobalt-60 caused mutations in their offspring.

Michael's father, William Ferguson, who works for the telephone company, was responsible for the first science exhibit of age four. He plans a career in a lab technician. He now plans to be a junior at Berea College in Lexington.

June, a junior at Sumner High School, is the daughter of Mrs. E. Ross Moore. She first became interested in science when she was 10 as a result of working on mechanical puzzles. She plans a career as a teacher.

Michael and June, among 419 students from 56 states, Puerto Rico, Sweden, and the United States competing for international laurels in Baltimore.

Laughlin Heads OVC; Yule Meet Set In Louisville

The Ohio Valley Conference voted Saturday to hold a basketball tournament and adopted a round-robin basketball schedule, but rejected a proposal to raise the scholarship limit.

Efforts to raise the football grant-in-aid limit from 40 to 44 per cent were defeated. Each OVC member is allotted a total of 80 scholarships a year—40 in football and 40 in basketball.

A formula for sharing revenue from post-season games and intercollegiate games involving OVC members was adopted. Early 2-24 was set aside for the date for next year's conference, but the site will be chosen later.

OVC representatives commended Art Guise, league's first commissioner, for his work during the past year.

President Views Poverty First-Hand

In Kentucky — President Lyndon B. Johnson squatted on some lumber on the front porch of a small frame home at Inez Friday to talk to Tom Fletcher, 38, and three of his eight children. President Johnson said he had earned only $400 during 1963.

The Johnsons flew back to Huntington by helicopter Friday night. There, on the last stop on the tour, the president met with the governors of seven Appalachian states in the heart of the economically depressed Appalachian area. Many of its inhabitants consider them among the worst off in the nation.

Perpetual Care Aim Of Cemetery

Le Cemetery Association, an incorporated non-profit organization, moved Friday the week toward perpetual care of all graves.

The Board of Directors, in an annual meeting at City Hall, reviewed investments of the past and plans for the future to insure maintenance.

It was brought out that the cemetery is being operated without relying on funds derived from sale of lots. A number of available improved lots in the cemetery that overlook Morehead State College are very limited, Directors advised.

Members of the Board are: John Will Holbrook, President; Ruth Lappin, Secretary; Bill T. Evans, Vice-President and Treasurer; Bob Day, Franklin Blair, Robert Bishop and E. M. Hogge.

Background of the controversy: The City of Morehead has bid for water from Morehead State College. Because of growth of the college and increased demand from the city, the present water treatment plant on Bridge Street is rapidly becoming inadequate to handle the water which is needed by the city and the college. The college has proposed a $800,000 modernization and expansion of the plant, but has indicated that it expects the City to bear a part of the cost of the work, since it is now being done to handle the college's demand if the water being furnished the city is removed.

MSC officials said that a new water rate of about 42 per 1,000 gallons of water would have to be charged in order for the city to pay its proportionate share of the costs. The city now pays for 100,000 gallons.

Taking the position that the same situation may recur in the future, the Morehead Utility Plant, which administers the city's water and sewage business, has recommended to council that the city consider an alternative plan, including a water treatment plant and transmission lines.

Engineers had estimated the cost of the plant at $1,200,000. The city is now planning to build a $800,000 plant.

$30,000 In Federal Farm Aid Funds Spent In Rowan

Conservation conscious farmers of Rowan County - 220 of them - spent more than $30,000 in 1963 to put into effect certain practices designed to conserve the soil and water on their farms. The Federal Government through the Agricultural Conservation Program repaid them $30,350 on a share-of-cost basis.

Delmer Padgett, chairman of the Rowan County ASCS Committee which administers the ACP in the county said he and other members of the Committee were "gratified and pleased with the results of the local Agricultural Conservation Program in 1963."

The most needed and used conservation practice was the establishment of a vigorous vegetative cover to conserve both soil and water. In 1963 established or improved 12,211 acres of such cover. This included 832 acres of permanent type grass and legume cover, and 159 acres to forest trees. Also included were 1,077 acres of permanent hay or pasture and 49 acres of forest land. In this establishment and improvement of cover on the land 5,303 tons of soil and 225 tons of commercial fertilizer as well as 34,000 pounds of grass and legume seeds were used.

'Soil Stewardship' Week Set By ETB

Soil Stewardship Week, an annual observance emphasizing the "sacredness of the earth," has been proclaimed by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt for the week of May 24-30 in Kentucky. Sponsored by the state's 121 soil conservation districts in cooperation with churches and other groups, the week traditionally serves to remind all people that the soil and water of the state depend on their stewardship to remain well-kept and fruitful.

According to custom, the week again this year begins on Rogation Sunday, May 3, the fifth Sunday after Easter. This special day, dating back to the 13th Century, was observed by the Church in England with a blessing of the crops, fields, and animals.

Gov. Breathitt in his proclamation requested "all persons and religious organizations to offer congratulations to God for a bountiful harvest and to ask for continued blessings from our fertile fields."

The proclamation stated that the "spirit of soil stewardship" at work streams and reservoirs should be preserved with the orderliness of the Creator.

Child Who Can't Read Well, Probably Can't Figure, Too

If Johnny can't read, chances are he can't do his arithmetic either. This is the conclusion of two Pennsylvania State University professors after a year-long test of how reading skills affect a child's ability to solve arithmetic problems.

Almost 2,000 Pennsylvania children in grades four, five and six were tested in the project, with half of the children receiving special training in reading skills. Students receiving this instruction improved their arithmetic scores significantly over those who did not receive the reading instruction.

The testing program, known as RASP — for Reading-Arithmetic Skills Program — was conducted by Drs. Clyde G. Corle and Myron L. Coulter, of the department of elementary education at Penn State, under the auspices of the Pennsylvania School Study Council.

The Council, a cooperative group seeking to improve educational methods in the Commonwealth, published the six-page study this week to serve as a guide for school systems throughout the state.

The testing program demonstrated that the most important skills involved in verbal problem solving ability are vocabulary development, literal interpretation of the problem statement, and selection of the solution process.

Based on the experimental groups of students, special instruction was given to sharpen skills in these three areas. In testing programs after the instruction, both reading and problem-solving ability were found to be improved.

Further study was recommended to determine whether the primary and junior high school levels, and the development of instructional materials and the determination of the grade levels for teaching the skills.

State Highway To Cut Down On Summer Help

The State Highway Department will not hire extra workers this summer to help out with the usual heavy load of maintenance work, Commissioner Henry Ward said this week.

"We've been trying to get away from the use of seasonal employees," Ward said. "We're going to try it this year."

The department usually hires about 700 additional workers during the spring and summer months to help the some 3,000 full-time maintenance employees. Ward said that when he took over as highway commissioner he recognized that much of the department's work is tedious and seasonal.

But he said there are tremendous problems inherent in hiring seasonal employees. The loss of efficiency is the standard reason, Ward added.

The commissioner said he is aiming for better management of maintenance crews to achieve maximum efficiency. "If we had proper management of personnel, we wouldn't need as many seasonal employees."

Another reason is money. The Highway Department figures that it saves roughly $175,000 monthly by eliminating seasonal workers. "And that's a conservative estimate," he said.

Ward already has ordered a freeze on overtime pay about $474,000 was spent in winter overtime pay, and the new policy will help to make up some of the money.

Normally, the department begins hiring seasonal employees on Apr. 1. It was delayed, and then the practice was abandoned for the summer.

"I am opposed to the practice of hiring people on a seasonal basis just to give someone a job," Ward said. "We're trying to save the taxpayers' money."

Ward said hiring of seasonal employees also poses "an enormous cost because of the handling of paperwork."

The department has studied the seasonal employees system for two years, he said, with an idea toward curtailing it sharply or eliminating it.

The state should not have to pay large amounts for overtime if regular crews are properly managed and scheduling of work is handled right, he said.

Not included in the seasonal worker category are what the department calls summer workers. These are normally students who help the department in a number of tasks.

Highway Personnel Commissioner Ralph Kossinger said about 200 summer employees will be hired this year.

Heated Meeting—
cost at $1,500,000, holding out the possibility that a 75 per cent grant from the Federal government might be available, and predicting that the city will likely see Federal aid would be in the neighborhood of $0.50 per foot.

This would cause the city to have to issue some $750,000 in new bonds, added to the present total of about $1,000,000 for outstanding for the sewage and gas systems.

Engineers said with a 50 per cent grant no increase in water rates would be necessary to finance the new construction. Lack of any grant would require doubling present rates.

At the same time, the Utility Plant Board had indicated that doubling of the water rate to the city by the college could be absorbed without any increase in rates.

However, council members who favor making a new contract with the college have pointed out that Federal money is not now available—that the bill appropriating this money has not been passed by Congress, and that the possibility exists that it may not be passed. Therefore, they contend, there is no assurance that the money will even be provided by Congress, and if it is, there is no assurance that Morehead will qualify for a grant of any type.

On the other hand, proponents of the plan to have the city build its own plant, say that such a move would free the city from dependence on the college, would speed industrial development more readily than under the present setup, and would give the city equity in its own plant for the money it is spending, rather than being in the position of "paying for the college's plant."

Heated discussion has been aroused by the matter and it is reliably reported that members of the college's Board of Regents have asked for an answer as to the city's intentions. Tuesday night's meeting apparently gave this answer.

College officials have taken the position that they are not really concerned with the question of the city taking the plant. They point out that the present plant has been declared more than adequate for the present plant for the next 10-12 years, and if the city had been relieved of the cost of the plant, the capital output would be necessary on the college's part.

If the city decided to continue to contribute to the college for water, however, they maintain that the city should bear the cost not only of the water itself but of the initial expenditure which is necessary because of this factor.

That Tuesday's decision is "irrevocable" apparently was brought about by the bitter feelings which arose in council meeting. It is felt that this solidified the position of both proponents and opponents of the plan, leaving no room for further negotiation or compromise on the matter.

Letters To The Editor

Student Asks Why 'John Dog' Died

Editor, The News — I'm writing this letter with all true sincerity. There is much dismay and grief on this beautiful campus of Morehead State College. A tragic thing has occurred. Our unselfish friend, one who loved all, and loved by all 2,157 of us, has been murdered, or according to law, put out of this misery.

He may have been just a mere dog to many, but he was a friend to us, one we could talk to, and one that was not demanding in return.

John Dog was our mascot, a beautiful white Heins 57 with few scattered brown spots. He wasn't a pretty dog, but a very likable one. Never asking for anything, he just wanted to live and be liked.

Many a student has found comfort in the playful moods of this loved animal. After studying all night and feeling depressed, it was always such a reward to find the beauty of life in this small friendly dog.

I know that if there is a dog's heaven, John Dog is there. I'm sure that he has found the law enforcement officer, the servant of the people, who we all know was only doing his duty in putting this ferocious (?) dog to rest.

I only hope that God will give myself and many other students the strength to forgive the city official, the law enforcement officers and anyone that was connected with this "merciful killing."

As Senator George Graham said in his "Eulogy on the Dog":

"Gentlemen of the Jury: The one, absolute unselfish friend that man can have in this cold world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog."

May God have mercy on their souls.

Sincerely,
Robert E. Davis

During the discussions, school officials expressed a need for improved athletic coaches and they pointed to the urgency of state schools first expanding existing facilities to meet growing enrollments.

Raceland Shops Back At Work

A planned two-week shutdown of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad's Raceland shops was cancelled Wednesday.

The railway announced Monday the shops would close April 27 for two weeks because of inability of manufacturers to meet schedules for delivery of materials. About 1,800 employees would have been laid off.

A C&O spokesman said Wednesday material was available and the shutdown would not be necessary. The shops are building 50-ton coal hopper cars.

Floyd Fullback Signed To MSC Grand-In-Aid

Douglas Hall, a 6-1, 185-pound fullback from Wheelwright today became the 10th outstanding high school football star to sign grand-in-aid at Morehead State College.

Head football coach Guy Penny said today that Hall has fine speed and is a "big-bodied youngster who will pick up additional weight and be of definite help to us."

"Douglas has fine speed for his size," said Penny, "and we feel that he can play the college level of football and to win in the Ohio Valley Conference."

Penny said the Wheelwright High School star will probably be drafted to and at Morehead if he continues to grow.

Hall was coached at Wheelwright by Ray Broadbent, a Morehead State College graduate.

Historical Society Library Renovated, Newly - Opened

The renovated library of the Kentucky Historical Society in the Old State House is open, presenting a brand-new face to the readers and researchers who use it daily.

The library has been equipped with new floors, ceilings, shelves, tables, lights—in fact, says Col. George Chinn, Society director, "everything is new but the walls and books."

The renovation project was started last year. The floors, cracking and warped, were replaced with concrete floors, and new acoustical ceiling was installed with suspended lighting. New book shelves, with oak paneling at each end, provide a double-decker arrangement. The shelves extend to the ceiling and a steel catwalk midway up, gives access to the highest books.

The two rooms of the library have been connected by two passageways and a new office has been built for the librarian, Mrs. W. B. Walker.

The library houses some 30,000 books and manuscripts. The majority deal with Kentucky history but many also concern the history of states surrounding Kentucky, so that it is Chinn points out, a regional library.

Every Family To Get Copy Of 'Cancer Danger Signals'

"Your Family's Copy of Cancer's Seven Danger Signals." This is the title of a leaflet that will be left at all homes in Morehead as part of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising Crusade on May 11.

"We hope to make this the greatest educational effort ever undertaken by the Society in its fight to help protect our people from death from cancer," says Mrs. Rex Casney, chairman of the American Cancer Crusade in Rowan County, said.

"Our volunteers will not be content until every home has a copy of the ACS leaflet because the home is the place where protection against death from cancer begins."

Mrs. Casney added that "if every family reads and follows the message in the leaflet brought into the home, we could save one out of two of those who die from cancer each year."

Much of the responsibility for loss of life from cancer depends on the individual—what action the individual takes. It is tragic that only one of three who develop cancer is saved when we know that one out of two could be saved simply by the exercise of proper precautions."

Included in the leaflet is the question: "What signs or symptoms may mean cancer? Can-

Current Control Plans Could Stop Kentucky Floods Within A Decade

If current flood control proposals were authorized by Congress, financed, and completed within 10 years, Kentucky would escape major flooding, the State Department of Conservation reported this week in unveiling a "master plan."

The proposals include construction of additional dams on major streams, including navigation locks and canals on the Ohio River, floodwalls, and levee protection — a combination of levees, dredging of streams, and channel improvements.

Steve Wakefield, state director of flood control and water usage, outlined the plan in a report to Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlock, members of the Kentucky congressional delegation, and the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Wakefield said all the proposed projects could be completed within 10 years, if pushed forward now, leaving only a "polishing up job" to control minor flooding along the tributaries of major streams.

Recurring floods in Kentucky cause financial disaster and human suffering each year. Breaching the urgency for more flood control facilities, Wakefield noted the high waters last March caused damages estimated at $2 million. However, he added, an estimated $24 million in damages were prevented by existing dams, floodwalls, and levees.

With the state seeking 75,000 new jobs, Breathitt noted, a close-knit system of flood control structure is of the utmost necessity to meet the requirements of industrial prospects, notably in the Eastern Kentucky region.

Here is the status of the projects, by rivers:

Big Sandy River — Prestonsburg local protection and Dusey Reservoir, both completed; John W. Flanagan and Pogue River Reservoirs, both in Virginia, and Fishtrap Reservoir in Kentucky. All under construction.

Wakefield said a survey report on the Big Sandy and its tributaries recommends, in addition to the above, five reservoirs, two local protection projects and considerable channel improvement to give complete protection from major floods.

Licking River — Palmito dam and Salyersville floodwall, both authorized; Cave Run dam, funds in the 1964 budget for final design and start of construction.

Wakefield urged that a new study report of the Licking River include a dam above Salyersville instead of the floodwall; a dam above Cynthiana; a dam smaller than one originally proposed above Palmito; and construction of Cave Run

Feed Grain Plan Attracted Record Number Of Farms

The United States Department of Agriculture today announced that under the 1964 Feed Grain Program some 13 million farms enrolled to divert record 34.5 million acres from corn, grain sorghum and barley production this year.

The diversion averages 44 percent of base acreage, 1959-60 average plantings of 77,500,900 acres on signed farms. This report is based on USDA compilations of reports from 3,023 counties concerning results of the signup which ended Mar. 27.

By comparison under the 1963 program 1,247,906 farms were signed up to divert 25,676,475 acres of corn, grain sorghum and barley crop land from a base of 76,544,580 acres on the signed farms.

Under the 1964 program the same as in 1963 farmers who participate must divert all the acreage signed up in order to be eligible for price support and for acreage diversion payments.

The 13 million feed grain farms signed up under the 1964 program represent 41 percent of the 3.2 million eligible feed grain farms in the United States. The 77,500,900 base acres on these signed farms are 59 percent of the 132,427,100 base acres on all eligible farms.

The base acreage total included feed grain acreage set aside under the Conservation Reserve Program. As of December 31, 1963, Conservation Reserve lands expired on 7.4 million acres of farm land of which it is estimated about 1 million acres will be diverted under the 1964 Feed Grain Program.

The base acreage on signed farms averages 10 acres with diversions averaging 28 acres.

Corn diverted acreage signed up for 1964 amounts to 22,378,400 acres compared to 17,715,729 acres signed up under the 1963 program. Corn base acres on signed farms this year compared to 51,021,542 acres last year. Total corn base acreage on all farms is 90,065,700 acres under the 1964 program.

Loans Made For Housing Of Elderly

The State Nursing Home and Personal Care Home Loan Fund Board has approved a pair of $10,000 loans to two recently completed homes for the elderly in Owensboro and Lexington.

Kentucky Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell, chairman of the group, said the first check was presented to Robert E. Gipe, also representing Robert E. Watson, co-owner of the Parkview Rest Home, Owensboro, and Watson, a former All-American basketball star with the University of Kentucky, is basketball coach at Owensboro Senior High School.

The second check was granted to Mrs. M. B. McGreger in behalf of her husband, owner of Rose Manor in Lexington.

The loans are the first to be extended under a program begun by former Governor Bert T. Combs and continued by Governor Edward T. Breathitt. They are designed to encourage the construction of modern facilities for the housing of the aged.

These first two loans for homes for the elderly signal the dawn of a new and better day for the senior members of our Kentucky population," Powell said.

The loans are for 10 years and carry an interest rate of 5 percent per year. Members of the Home Loan Fund Board are Powell, Finance Commissioner J. Paul Joyce, Russell E. Tugano, M. D., Commissioner of Health; Harold L. McRoberts, M. D., Commissioner of Mental Health.

The loans are available for construction, remodeling, equipping or re-equipping nursing homes or rest homes for the elderly, the commissioner said.

Staff members of the State Department of Economic Security's Community Relations Licensing Section, headed by Haynes E. Bruce, provide advice on the choice of a location, home and design of its facilities.

Other safety and health factors must be approved by the State Departments of Health and Public Safety.

Loans are made to both profit and non-profit agencies interested in establishing homes for the elderly in any part of Kentucky, Powell said.

Toll Facility Revenue Rises By $218,000

Revenue from Kentucky's highway toll facilities totaled $455,965 during March of this year — an increase of more than $218,000 over the same month a year ago, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward has reported.

The Western Kentucky Parkway accounted for $106,701 of this increase. The Parkway was not open in Mar. 1963.

The Kentucky Turnpike returned $308,077 in tolls during March of this year, compared with $221,588 during Mar. 1963.

Proceeds from the Mountain Parkway this March were $59,957, compared with $27,708 during the same month last year.

Shawnee Mountain Bridge revenues were $12,250 in March and $18,274 in Mar. 1963.

Hospitalization Insurance Rate Raise Studied

Decision on Blue Cross Hospital Plan's proposed rate change for individual subscribers will be made in early May by Insurance Commissioner J. Elliott Flannery, who presided at the mid-April public hearing on the proposed increases.

At the hearing, Mark Korman, New York, president of Actuarial Associates, Inc., represented the insurance industry. Cross policyholders who would be affected by the rate changes, Korman was retained by Commissioner Flannery for the hearing.

Korman agreed with actuary Kenneth H. Dughin, representing Blue Cross, that rising hospital costs play a major role in rate-making for hospitalization insurance. Dughin said such costs have risen some 10 percent annually for the past few years.

Blue Cross, which has had no rate changes on individual policies since 1957, testified that it has been losing money on the individual-contract category since 1961. In 1963, officials said, losses amounted to $800,000.

Dughin pointed out that subscribers who buy coverage for a 90-day hospital room are usually cost the company an average of $15.83 per day, including drugs and other items covered by the policy. The company is asking for an average increase of 38.5 percent, carrying up or down for policies covering one person only and those covering several members of one family.

Bids are Opened On 'Pool' At Carter Caves

The apparent low bid for a swimming pool at each of three State parks is $22,772, submitted by the Pressure Concrete Co. of Florence, Ala., Finance Commissioner L. Felix Joyner said today.

The bids were on pools to be built at Pottsville, Carter Caves and Rough River State Parks. Officials of the Finance Department will study all bids before contracts are awarded. Five bids were received on the Pottsville pool and three each on the Carter Caves and Rough River pools.

The pools will be 50 by 25 feet of gunite construction. The projects include labor, materials and equipment for construction of swimming and wading pools, excavation, all access-ways and utility connections, filters, and diving boards.

The pools will be for lodge and cottage guests at the parks.

State Sets Offices In Large Cities

Kentucky will expand its drive to attract new industry to the state by opening offices in Chicago and New York in July so that on-the-spot contact can be maintained with top management of most of the nation's larger industrial enterprises.

In announcing the move, Governor Edward T. Breathitt and State Commerce Commissioner Katherine Peden said that each office will be staffed by a person with experience in finance or business and with a great number of business and industrial contacts.

"These offices will help show the progress Kentucky is making on the industrial front. They will aid in showing industrial prospects just what the Bluegrass State offers in the way of plant sites, transportation, raw materials, labor, access to markets, and the many other advantages which spell success for a new or expanding industrial enterprise," the Governor explained.

He added that the two offices will be backed up with the full range of plant location and economic data maintained by the State Commerce Department, other agencies of State

ETB Makes Industry Plea In Detroit, Chicago Areas

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has taken his industry-bunting efforts to Detroit and Chicago in an effort to find 75,000 new jobs for Kentuckians during the next four years.

Lunches and private conferences were held at both Detroit and Chicago for industrialists and bankers.

Some 40 industrialists and bankers "primarily from the greater Detroit area," including several representatives of the automobile industry, attended the luncheon there.

From Detroit, Breathitt and State officials accompanying him went on to Chicago for similar meetings, including a dinner with industrial leaders of companies which currently have facilities in Kentucky.

"These are basic industries in Kentucky which I hope can Government, and by individual communities across the state.

Miss Peden said establishment of the offices will fulfill a campaign pledge made by Breathitt. She added that her department is exploring the possibility of securing free of floor space from holders of Kentucky bonds.

The out-of-state offices will be part of Kentucky's effort to create 75,000 new jobs during the next four years, the commerce commissioner explained.

Busy, Happy Children Help Prevent Auto Accidents

The weather's inviting. You herd the children into the car, gas up and hit the road.

The driver's distracted after the first 100 miles. The children can't keep themselves still. Coping with restless children while driving means less concentration on driving — a situation that sets the scene for an accident.

It's called the human element in accident causation.

One safety expert, Philip E. Robinson, says all the testing and experimentation aimed at proving safer and more efficient automotive programs can be virtually worthless unless hazards acting upon the driver from within the car are eliminated.

Now, in the interest of added accident prevention, Robinson is turning attention to the back seat where unoccupied children are restless and do things that make the driver nervous.

He offers a number of "busy" games to keep eyes and minds of children constructively busy on extended motor trips and short hauls—without distracting the driver.

Examples:

• What begins with 'A' (or pick any letter). The game here is to have children look for objects, animals, buildings, people that begin with the chosen letter. The child with the most finds at the end of 25 miles is the winner.

• Spot the car. The idea is to pick out all cars of the chosen kind. One child looks for Chevrolets, another for Buicks, another for Fords and so on. After 25 miles the child with the most finds wins.

• Pass it stories. Mother, or another besides the driver, starts a story and suddenly says—I pass it to Joe or George or Mike or Jane, whatever the name of another rider. Then that person continues the story, inventing more story, then passing it to another after no less than half a minute—and one and on and on.

• Pass it pictures. Before the start of the trip, an older person draws the beginning of a landscape or room scene on a large pad. During the trip, for the smaller children—a little to the already recognizable scene, passing it back and forth for further embellishment.

Other ways of helping to tone down the children during a trip include reading, writing and—for the smaller children—coloring books and crayons.

New Buckhorn Lodge Takes Shape

OVERLOOKING BUCKHORN LAKE (bottom photo) is this tri-level 24-room lodge under construction at the new Buckhorn Lake State Park, near Hazard. An outdoor swimming pool and wading pool, parking areas, and paved drives also are to be completed by mid-June. Cost of the building, including a lobby, lounge, and 200-seat dining room, is $666,000. W. D. Johnson, General Contractor, Ashland, is the builder. This lodge makes a total of eight new ones—plus additions to two others—for Kentucky's State park system in two years. A new lodge also is to be open this season at Natural Bridge State Park, near Slade.

Catfish Still A Popular Catch For State Anglers

DON'T RETROGRESS
It is fervently hoped that the end-purvey program will not bring a reversion to boondoggling.

Known as Old Whiskers to some, the catfish is still gaining in popularity with many Kentucky anglers. So great is the demand for more catfish waters that the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is stocking over 100,000 channel catfish each year in Kentucky's state-owned lakes.

Many anglers choose to fish for catfish with the rod and reel and such live bait as soft crabs, minnows and go-devils in the better catfish producing streams during late spring and early summer. Other fishermen use various cut-baits, blood jures and entrails of staid to catch these fine food fish.

Many vacationers fish the large lakes and rivers by baiting trotlines with small sunfish, shad or olive shad, worms of various varieties, grasshoppers and even snails with good results.

One of the best spots in Kentucky for large catfish is found at Kentucky Lake. During the late spring, when the spawning catfish come in on the rip-nap at Eggars Ferry Bridge to lay their eggs, many fishermen cast a job of earth-worms well hooked, heavy sinker and slip cork pre-set for about four feet from the shore. They then ease the bait over the rocks close to the catfish to lure him to bit.

Commercial fishermen are especially fond of the catfish. This fellow commands a greater price than other types of fish, is fairly easy to catch, preserve and clean and there is always a ready sale for catfish meat. Last year about 50 tons of catfish were harvested commercially.

The final contest in piano will be held May 5.

Southwest Study Shows Benefits Of Reservoirs

This pastoral scene, taken late last week about one-fourth of a mile south of the proposed site of Cave Run Dam, is typical of the land which will be flooded when the impoundment becomes a reality. Some good Licking River bottom land will be covered, but the greater portion of the reservoir area will be made up of unillable hillides and rocky ledges. Cave Run may also be used as a water source for the City of Morehead

Cave Run Expected To Follow Pattern

Cave Run Dam, on which construction is expected to get underway later this year, is sure to have a major impact on the economy of this area. Just how great an effect it will have is, of course, unknown. But based on experiences in the Arkansas-Texas-Oklahoma area, the Army Corps of Engineers has come up with a study on various facets of reservoir construction which have had measurable impact on these three states. They indicate that in practically every case man-made water resources have brought far-reaching economic benefits to the immediate sectors in which they have been built.

Cave Run Dam, which would be 130 feet high and would impound a vast area of water reaching from Farmers to West Liberty, is a $39,000,000 project. It is expected that the 1964-68 budget will contain some $1,300,000 with which to initiate work on the job.

1952 (3)	810	121	515	148
1954	732	109	447	128

1958	950	142	409	117
1959	1,053	157	431	123

Per capita income in reservoir counties increased by nearly 600 percent during the period from 1939 through 1959, while in counties without important water resources the rate was slower—or less than 400 percent. Using 1949 as a base of 100, the reservoir county index in 1939 was 137, while in non-reservoir counties it stood at 123.

Group I Major Recreation Counties	35,847	46,714	66,222	+85
Group II Minor Recreation Counties	12,831	16,607	21,758	+70

Group IV Nonreservoir Counties	32,894	37,273	41,006	+25

The increase in retail sales of both major and minor recreation counties far outstripped those of mixed economies and non-reservoir counties during the decade from 1948 to 1958. So-called "major" counties jumped 85 percent, while non-reservoir units went up only 25 percent.

DEFINITIONS

Major Recreation Counties . . .

. . . are defined by the Corps of Engineers as "having a major shoreline and recreation facilities and have received their chief impetus from recreation . . ."

Minor Recreation Counties . . .

. . . have minor shorelines with few, or perhaps no recreation facilities and no other important source of economic growth.

Mixed Economy Counties . . .

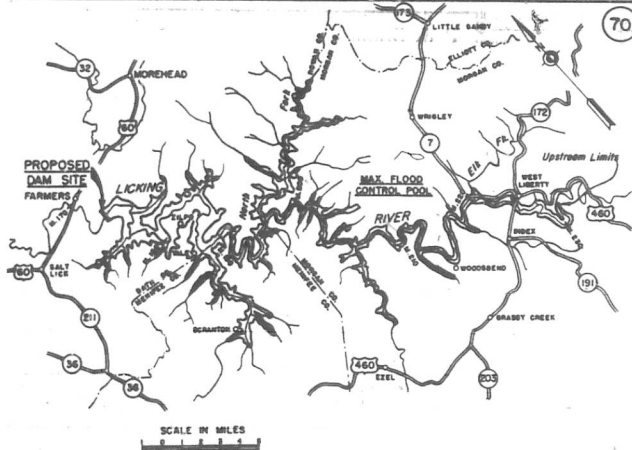

well-established recreation business. But they also have other sources of growth already developed.

Group IV Counties . . .

. . . are generally adjacent to reservoir counties, but do not have this resource. All are roughly comparable in their natural resource bases.

Zero Mile is confluence of Licking and Ohio Rivers, Mile 470 Ohio River.

This map, prepared by the Army Corps of Engineers, which will supervise construction of Cave Run, is approximately two years old, but during that time only minor changes have been made in the project. It indicates that the maximum flood control pool will reach a point just north of West Liberty, while the upstream limits will be south of the Morgan County seat.

'64 Burley Estimate Near 1963's, 643 Million Pounds

With average allotments for most farms reduced 10 percent from last year, a total of 306,200 acres of burley tobacco will be grown in U. S. production areas this year, and there is a preliminary estimate that the 1964 output should be near 643,000,000 pounds.

The estimate is contained in the latest Tobacco Situation report by the Economic Research Service of the U. S. Depart-

Boat Accidents Call For Reports To State Unit

The State Division of Boat Safety has announced that the law is the same for boat accidents as for auto accidents — any death, injury, or property damage over $100 must be reported.

Boating Accident Report forms are available at the Division of Boating, Department of Public Safety, Frankfort. Death or serious injury must be reported within 48 hours.

It is expected to net 750 million pounds when figures for last season become final.

The estimate figure for the 1964 crop represents a first glance, of course, with closer estimates made as the year progresses right into the actual marketing season, but it is interesting for its use in the further outlook.

"Burley carryover next Oct. 1 may be around 1,405 million pounds—approximately 175 million pounds above Oct. 1, 1963, and largest on record. If the crop should turn out near 643 million pounds, total 1964-65 supplies—production plus indicated carryover—would be around 2,048 million pounds and would exceed the current season's record high by nearly 4 percent."

The 1963-64 total supply of burley is estimated at 1,978 million pounds—9 percent above the 1962-63 year and a record. Carryover increased 8 percent to the most since 1958, and producers' sales rose 11 percent to a new high.

Carryover is the total burley in stock in the hands of manufacturers, dealers and loan agencies at the beginning of the marketing year.

Use, or disappearance, of burley in the crop year ending Sept. 30, 1963, totaled 584 million pounds, including 531 million pounds in domestic use and 53 million pounds in exports, 53 million pounds.

Folk Song Festival Moves To Jenny Wiley State Park

The American Folk Song Festival developed by Jean Thomas, Kentucky's "Travis" Woman, will open the Jenny Wiley State Park's new amphitheater on June 14.

The performance will mark its first performance of the annual Folk Song Festival from Miss Thomas' "Wee House in the Wood in Ashland, where it had been staged for 33 consecutive years.

Chalmers Frazer, Prestonsburg, chairman of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, said today that the group has completed arrangements to lease the park amphitheater from the Kentucky Department of Parks.

"We are especially proud to announce that the amphitheater's first performance will be one truly indigenous to Eastern Kentucky. During the coming weeks, we hope to present other folk performers who draw their inspiration and their art from the southern Appalachians."

Frazer, along with Mrs. E. P. Hill and Arbor Jones, members of the drama association's executive committee, called on a committee-of-the-whole, to work out the technical problems connected with the amphitheater's premier performance.

The festival features a cast of 40 to 50 native Eastern Kentuckians who personify the Anglo-Saxon traditions of their homes. Playing such instruments as cornstalk fiddles, banjos made of gourds, primitive three-string dulcimers, lute and harps and more standard instruments, they re-create the "sing in the garden" discovered by Miss Thomas during her days as a court geographer in the Big Sandy area.

Noting a note of lawsuits, feuds, and mountain tunes alike, Miss Thomas was a young woman when she earned the "travis" woman's title. Today, the 82-year-old native of Ashland is nationally known by that name.

The singer's gathering witnessed by Miss Thomas on Brushy Fork of Lonesome Creek a half century ago had been traditional with mountain minstrels there for over 130 years, she recalls. During the festival's 33 years in Ashland, she has also preserved the tradition at date — the second Sunday in June.

A two-day exhibit of paintings, sculpture, and hand-crafted articles created by Eastern Kentucky folk artists and craftsmen will precede the festival performance.

Social Security Is A Sound Form Of Protection

Several million Americans each year receive inoculations to ward off serious illness. This is a highly recommended method of protection against disease.

Over 52 million American workers have made regular contributions through Social Security taxes and have earned another type of protection against loss of earnings because of severe long-lasting disability.

Social Security disability benefits are currently being paid each month to over 4 million disabled workers and to 619,000 dependents of these workers.

The disability provisions of the law require that a worker have 20 quarters of coverage under Social Security, in the 40 quarters he must work with the date of disability. Stated more simply, we can say that this entitles five years of fairly regular employment or credit employment in the 10 years up to the date of the disabling illness.

To be considered disabled, a worker's condition must be severe enough to prevent him from doing any substantial work for the indefinite future. This does not mean that a disability claimant must be a hopeless invalid or at death's door. Seventy-eight percent of those receiving checks are ambulatory and able to attend to most household activities.

Workers who believe they meet these requirements should get in touch with the nearest Social Security office immediately. A person's date of disability can be established no more than 18 months prior to the date a claim is filed. Delay in filing may mean the loss of some or all disability benefits.

One very significant feature of the disability program is that all claimants are automatically referred to the State vocational rehabilitation office. Many assisted by this agency and provided prosthetic appliances or braces to help overcome their physical impairments. Also, they are given special training in new types of work and, with the new skills learned, are able to return to work and become self-supporting.

The Social Security Administration desires that all disabled claimants make every possible effort to rehabilitate themselves, whether on their own initiative or through vocational rehabilitation services. The law provides for a trial work period of nine months, not necessarily consecutive, which a claimant may work in spite of serious physical impairments. Benefits continue during these months and can extend an additional three months until it is established the worker has overcome his handicap and

Spectators Stream To Site Of 'Silver Mine' Discovery

Crowds of spectators are visiting the site of silver mine excavations on Mill Creek in Wolfe County where the Mountaineer Mining and Exploring Co. of Clarksville, Va. is cleaning out an old mine high on a cliff which Ralph W. Griffin, head of the company, thinks might be the long-lost Swift Silver Mine.

Griffin and another member of the company brought out a grocery bag full of ore Tuesday which they exhibited at Glad C. Hanson, chief U.S. Forester, and Garrett Cutlers, Wolfe county game warden, said the ore was different from any they had seen in that area. Children said it was nearly as heavy as lead and was a blue-gray color. The prospectors apparently had found the ore in a vein back in the mine shaft, and they said the vein was thick and thin, "but was getting thicker" the further inside they went.

Organization For Limited Poverty Fight

By Travis Bennett
We hear much about programs designed to eliminate poverty in the United States. They fall-it seems-into two distinct categories or approaches to problems of the needy. One calls for assistance from business, industry, private organizations, government and educational systems to make possible for the poor opportunities for economic improvement. The other suggests a need for direct financial support from the federal government—nothing short of letting our unsupervised live off the government.

Farm Bureau has long been a strong advocate of programs to combat poverty, and endorses the former approach over the latter. So enthusiastically have Farm Bureau members worked for programs to combat poverty that one aspect of a national attack by legislation further injecting government management into the economy are alarming. Some would have us believe that a powerful government should divide the earnings of business, agriculture and labor so that all will have approximately equal shares. The power to levy taxes may be used to confiscate the earnings of those who produce the most, so that those who are less energetic may have equal rewards. Farm Bureau supports the kind of use of this power to assist the handicapped and unfortunate, but sees a need to draw the line.

Farm Bureau has supported hundreds of programs to improve living standards for urban as well as rural people. Education, marketing, cooperative, retraining, hospital, medical and insurance programs all are examples of Farm Bureau effort to help the poor. Employed wisely, prudently and discriminately, government assistance measures have their place. But when spending programs attack the very things which have made our nation relatively free of poverty—freedom to work or play, freedom to spend or save—Farm Bureau must be counted out as a supporter.

After discovering the mine entrance from carved markings on a nearby cliff, the West Virginia prospectors were halted about 30 feet inside the entrance by a huge rock that blocked the passage. They are using a jack hammer to help blast the rock out, but later found that some of the cutting had fallen down. At present they are about 60 feet back in the mine.

The firm has prospected off and on in the area for five years using a copy of John Swift's Journal as a guide. Carvings on a cliff in the area showed a six-cornered object with arrows pointing from three sides, a six-pointed star and the letters "S J M" which Griffin interpreted as the initials of Swift and two of his partners, Jefferson and Mandy, who are mentioned in the 200-year-old Swift Journal.

Ancient iron hand tools also have been found in the area over the years. In the 1830's prospectors found a soft iron rod of rusted vintage containing a loop on the end, apparently used as a ladle. A more recent find was an iron pickaxe with a broad cutting edge on one end and a pick on the other, also of ancient vintage. The pickaxe was found recently and has two letters on the shank almost indistinguishable, according to U.S. Forester Hanson who was shown the tool by Griffin.

The legend of Swift's Silver Mine has persisted since shortly after the French and Indian War and all Kentucky histories carry accounts of the age-old legend. Kerr's Kentucky History devotes 23 pages to Swift and his mine. Johnson Swift came into Kentucky on board of a Shawnee Indians annually from 1760 to 1780 and worked silver mines, according to his Journal.

RETIREMENT PAY BOOST

The chances of an increase in the basic retirement payment under social security are bright this year. An increase in the retirement payment would fit in well with Johnson's anti-poverty program and would not be likely to arouse anything like the opposition that has resisted every move to add health care to the social security retirement system.
