Water Tap Reversal Is New 'Request'

Morehead's Council Tuesday requested that its subsidiary, the Utility Plant Board, cancel its recent order prohibiting additional water tap-ups in subdivisions except for buildings in process of construction.

This is another step in the controversy over an approaching water crisis. Councilman Austin Riddle first proposed in his motion that the Utility Board be "ordered" to change its position. The word "order" was changed to "request" when Councilman Bob Allen questioned whether Council could demand such an action from the Utility Board.

Separate City Unit
Members of the Utility Plant Board are appointed for four years, staggered terms by Council, but conduct their affairs as a separate, distinct and self-ruling governmental organization. Authority of Council over the Utility Board has long been a moot, sometimes openly debated, issue.

The Utility Board passed the order against supplying water to new homes, or business properties, outside the city limits after hearing a report from Morehead State College authorities that pumping and purification facilities are being installed to capacity and the day may not be far off when water will be rationed at Morehead.

The city purchases water at a master meter from the college for $14 a thousand gallons. The agreement calls for the college to first meet its own requirements and sell only "surplus" water to the city. MSC proposed in November to spend $800,000 in expansion, and improvements, so the college and the city would have ample purified water in the foreseeable future. But, they (the college) insisted the city pay part of the cost by increasing the water rate by two-thirds, or $35 a thousand gallons, instead of the present 21 cents.

Votes Own Plant

This touched off local controversy and the Utility Plant Board voted to construct its own pumping and purification plant, lay an eight mile pipe line to Licking River and erect storage reservoirs. Council upheld the contract with an engineering firm. The Council ballot was three to three and Mayor Eldon Evans cast the deciding vote to oblige water from Licking River whereby cancelling the contract with the college.

Opponents of the proposal claimed: 1. It would take at least five years to lay the line and build the purification plant and storage facilities. 2. There is no assurance of a federal grant for the project; 3. The annual interest on $1,500,000, at four percent, is $60,000 a year, and this interest, coupled with retirement of principle, plus plant maintenance and depreciation would run over $100,000 (Continued on page 11.)

Jimmy Clay New City Police Judge

Attorney James E. (Jimmy) Clay is Morehead's new Police Judge, assuming his duties this morning. Clay replaces Attorney Billy G. Brammel, who resigned, effective May 12. Clay's salary was fixed at $150 a month.

Hillsboro Man Hurt In Wreck

James B. Lewis, Rt. 1, Hillsboro, was seriously injured early Wednesday in a head-on collision between two vehicles on Ky. 32 north of Morehead. The mishap took place on the same curve where a school bus-truck collision happened last Thursday.

Lewis was treated at St. Claire Medical Center and was transferred to a Lexington hospital.

State Police had no other details on the mishap. In the only other accident reported by officers this week, damage was sustained to the left rear fender of a 1963 model pickup truck when it was struck by another Sunday morning.

Trooper Carl B. Sluss said David Allen Nickell, 37, of Morehead Rt. 2, had stopped at the intersection of Big Ferry Road and Ky. 377 when his vehicle was hit by a 1948 model pickup truck driven by Harold Glover of Pike, Ky.

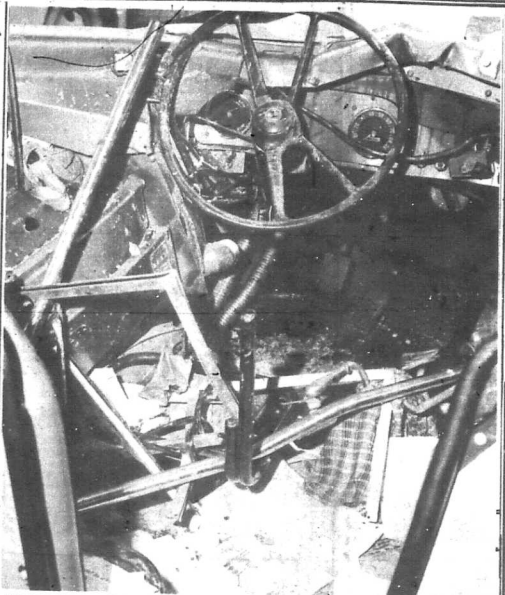

Sluss said Glover failed to stop after the accident, but that Nickell gave chase and obtained the license number of the offending vehicle.

Sluss also reported that Glover had been drinking.

Aid Program For Parents Available

Rowan County—along with five others in this area—is eligible for the institution of a program of using unemployed fathers on public works projects. It was announced this week.

Mrs. Durie Mullins, of the Kentucky Department of Economic Security, said funds are available to pay the wages of workers in this category, if local governmental units come up with approved projects and will furnish the materials with which to do the job. The wage scale is $1 an hour, plus the materials. Eligible are parents who have exhausted their unemployment compensation benefits. Eligible to initiate projects are fiscal courts, boards of education, city councils and other official bodies, who can show the need for the type projects for which they seek approval.

IMPACT AREA — Driver Ray Martin was sitting in this section when the bed of the dump truck struck the side of his bus Thursday. Martin's seat was torn loose from the floor by the impact and he was seriously hurt. He is hospitalized in Lexington with a shattered leg. Fifty-six students and the driver were injured.

Only Bus Driver, Ray Martin Remains Hospitalized After Close-Call With Tragedy

Some 60 Rowan County High School students had a narrow brush with death last Thursday when the school bus in which they were riding was struck by a truck and went out of control, plunging down a 40-foot embankment and coming to rest on its side and top.

Miraculously, there were no fatalities among the nearly 60 students, and except for bus driver Ray Martin, it was expected that all would be out of hospitals by today (Thursday).

En route from the North Fork section of Rowan County to the high school on the edge of Morehead, the bus was hit by a skidding dump truck, badly injured when the bed of the truck struck the bus near the driver's seat, lost control of the vehicle, which continued up a slight grade to the edge of the bank and then fell about 40 feet straight downward, landing on its right side.

Investigating officers have determined, Superintendent of Schools Clifford Cassidy said Wednesday, that the impact jammed the bus' throttle wide open, causing it to continue up the slight grade to the edge of the bank.

A total of 56 students were either hospitalized or treated and released, following the mishap, which took place about 8:05 a.m. on a rain-slick highway.

Driver of the truck was Millard George Keeton, 24, of Wrigley (Morgan County). He has been charged with reckless driving and will appear in Rowan County Court for a hearing June 1. He has entered a plea of not guilty.

Keeton told officers the truck skidded on a patch of new blacktop, and the bed of the 1962 model dump truck struck the bus near the driver's area. The truck bounced into a ditch and traveled 60 feet before coming back onto the highway. The dump bed then fell off, and the vehicle careened almost 100 feet further along the roadway before stopping. The driver'shaft on the truck, along with a brake cylinder, was damaged by the impact, causing the truck to be without stopping power, state police said.

All available ambulances and private cars were pressed into service to move the injured to St. Claire Medical-Center where a medical emergency plan was put into action.

Sister Mary Edwin, administrator of the hospital, said 17 victims of the mishap arrived at about 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Warren Profford, chief surgeon, cancelled major surgery with the patient already on the operating table, to (Continued on page 11.)

New Heating System Set For Haldeman

The Rowan County Board of Education this week announced it will install a new heating system in the Haldeman Elementary School. Bids on the job will be received until 4 p.m., May 25, Superintendent Clifford Cassidy said.

FULL FORCE — The full force of the skidding dump truck was absorbed at the point where the head joins the body of the bus. The corner of the truck's bed apparently rammed into the bus.

HEAVY DAMAGE — Shattered glass and a battered body on the right side of the bus indicate where it came to rest after its 40-foot vertical plunge. The vehicle stopped on its side at the foot of the steep bank.

Education Board Accredits 1,456 Kentucky Schools

The State Board of Education accredited 1,456 Kentucky schools — 483 high schools and 973 elementary schools with eight or more teachers — at its recent meeting in Frankfort.

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, state superintendent of public instruction, said that 18 schools were upgraded one notch and 10 downgraded one place.

A report submitted to Board members listed seven new high schools and eight new junior high schools in the state. Consolidation was further reflected in the discontinuation of 35 high and junior high schools.

Achieving the highest possible classification ("comprehensive") were the Bourbon, Meade, and Taylor county high school systems and the Russell independent unit.

Their new accreditation means that they make available at least 43 course offerings and most satisfactorily the seven other categories of quality education considered by the State Department of Education, Dr. Sparks said.

A total of 52 high schools in Kentucky now are rated as comprehensive, as compared to 36 in 1960-61.

The second-highest classification of "standard" — 33 course offerings and fulfillment of the other categories — was reached by eight schools. These include the consolidated county high schools in Bath, Henry, and Lewis and Mt. Washington in Bullitt County and Wheelwright in Floyd County. Independent

Power, Machine Tool Clinic Is Slated At MSC

A Power and Machine Tool Maintenance Clinic will be held on the Morehead State College campus Friday and Saturday.

Instruction will be offered during an all-day session Friday, and a morning session Saturday by Larry J. Beaudoin, a representative of the Rockwell Manufacturing Company.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, chairman of the Division of Applied Arts at Morehead, said, "The clinic will cover preventative and up-keep maintenance of typical school shop machinery and will be most worthwhile for industrial arts teachers."

Each clinic participant will receive a complete set of care and maintenance manual. Participation is voluntary and no college credit will be offered for the pilot clinic.

Defense Cuts Can Reasonably Be Made By U.S.

There are no longer valid reasons why defense spending cannot be reduced. Our allies in Europe, such as West Germany and France, are increasingly able to shoulder much of the burden of their own conventional defense.

Second, our own defense establishment has been successfully strengthened in recent years. Third, there is no longer doubt that the split in the communist world means less immediate danger of war. Fourth, it's obvious the second most powerful nation in the world, Russia, is willing to reduce its defense effort, in collaboration with our reduction.

Of course, reduced spending cannot be taken beyond safe limits, and we must constantly be on the alert against being deceived.

Our military budget, more than fifty percent of every dollar the government spends, can safely be reduced by careful cost analysis and selection—with no danger to the security of the nation—in the opinion of a growing number of experts.

There are many bases which should be closed, many unused facilities which should be retired, and many programs which should be quietly terminated. Huge necessary military budgets in recent years have been the major cause of high taxes and deficit spending, and our present plight in the balance of payments, which threatens the stability of the dollar itself.

Irresponsibility In Rights

The threats of the Brooklyn branch of the Congress for Racial Equality (CORE) to jam New York World's Fair traffic with deliberately stalled cars and demonstrations on opening day added a new dimension to the civil rights fight, in which the Senate is embroiled.

The stall threat—and a water-wasting gimmick which the same group has concocted as a possible alternative or second step in the protest—serve to demonstrate to what length some leaders of the Negro movement will go to make their point.

The "stall-in" plan evoked stern warnings from Attorney General Humphrey, Democratic Whip Albert B. Thomas, and Republican Senators Kenneth Keating and Jacob Javits of New York and Thomas Kuchel of California.

The charges of Keating and Javits that the CORE plans amounted to irresponsible civil disobedience were particularly interesting, since those same two have been among the most outstanding champions of the right of Negroes to demonstrate elsewhere in the country.

Maybe, it just depends on whose foot the shoe is on when it starts pinching.

Internal Revenue Goofed It

Nobody loves the umpire, except maybe his wife and kids.

The same can be said for the tax collector, even when he's trying to sugarcoat the bitter pill that sledgehammers your wallet and mine each year.

Latest proof, if it is needed, is in a public reaction which gripped tried this year by the Internal Revenue Service to put a little glamor in the otherwise dull though hardly pamphlet tried "Your Federal Income Tax."

To spruce the thing up, the tax men illustrated it with sketches.

All they got for their pains was an angry blast of protest.

What lit the fuse was an illustration used to explain the oil, gas and mineral depletion provision.

It showed a ranch-style house, with oil derricks in the distant background and a curved swimming pool with bikini-clad beauties out front.

It was intended to take the tired businessman's mind off the pain of the tax bite, it didn't.

Protests immediately showed down on Commissioner Mortimer Caplin. The general tenor was that this just went to show that those benefiting from the depletion were the only ones who could afford such affluent living at the expense of less-favored taxpayers.

It's a safe bet that next year's booklet will confine itself strictly to instructions with no pictures.

Author's Service Was Valuable

Rachel Carson, an unpretentious lady, will be remembered in history by millions of grateful Americans for her competent analysis of a growing menace.

The late Mrs. Carson was a scientist first and a writer of talent second. Her revealing book on the dangers of pesticides stirred a national firestorm and placed a billion-dollar industry on the defensive.

She was a career civil servant until her first book, "The Sea Around Us" established her as one of the most competent science writers in the nation.

After four years of meticulous research, she again distinguished herself with "Silent Spring," the deadly indictment against the indiscriminate use of chemical pesticides.

The government, belatedly, is taking some corrective measures in this field. Even as she died, a Senate subcommittee headed by former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony Comden Ribicoff was investigating the controversy. Mankind is in her debt.

Unity By Churches May Be Fading

The New York Times carried a story from Rome recently, which in the lead paragraph reported the Pope had hailed the Ecumenical Council as an historical effort by his church to "restore perfect communion with the separated Christian brethren in the only church of Christ."

It is ironical that in a statement halping the Council the same authoritarian claim, the same absolutism, is evidenced—which is the reason for church separation in the first place. It is disappointing to see this period in which the world is certainly democracy and liberty and freedom of conscience and choice, have been accepted to a degree today, all over the world, that no church can narrowly claim to be the only church of Christ.

If Christ's life taught us anything, it taught us that he accepted all, rich and poor, beggars and sinners, irregardless of church rules and squabbling and monopoly claims. In fact, it was against such churches that Jesus constantly waged his fight; the entrenched, powerful and highly organized churches were his greatest opposition.

There is no sense whatsoever, in 1964, of our churches squabbling over who has the true word, the true light, the true message or the true tradition and heritage. What is far more important (and a great disappointment) is that church leaders cannot bring themselves to be humble enough, to be loving in their power and prestige and position, in order to achieve genuine Christian unity.

That is the democratic goal we must attain, for democracy is a virtue in church organization and structure just as it is in political and government organizations.

Doctors' Strike Was Shabby

The doctors' strike in Belgium presented a shabby spectacle. The travesty impugns the honor of a profession dedicated to healing because its members became so embroiled in dispute they forsake their oath and responsibilities.

Purely and simply, the truth is that medicine does not yield readily to regimentation. When the patient becomes nothing more personal than a government statistic, much of the traditional relationship so important to the art of healing is gone.

The Belgian doctors' action, however, cannot be justified from a humane standpoint. The sick people are just as sick as they were before the law was passed against which physicians rebelled. They are just as much in need of treatment.

From another viewpoint what happened is understandable. A government undertook to alter with the stroke of a pen the whole concept of which a profession lived and worked and believed in.

Claig Sprout . . . Construction On Clear Creek To End Soon

By Joe J. Madson

The last section of Clear Creek road No. 129 should be opened to travel soon by the T. C. Young Construction Co., the contractor for the job. The completion of this section of road will connect the Salt Lick District area to the Beaver Creek area with an all-weather road.

Bill Zedky, middle biologist from the Forest Supervisor's office in Winchester, spent part of this week here at the Morehead office in connection with a resource management work.

Forester Aid Jimmie Hango and crew have been busy for the last few days installing signs on many of the newly constructed roads.

Clum said he was reading a piece in the papers where one fellow claimed that mountain gills were like the four-way hair tonic a doctor prescribed for a bald-headed patient. The first pill grew him hair overnight but left him with a weak heart. The second pill cured his heart but made his teeth go grey. The third pill tightened up his teeth but left him blind in his right eye. The fourth pill cured his blind eye but made him baldheaded again. On motion by Zeke, seconded by Clum, it was voted to stick with sulphur and molasses.

Bus Accident Is Further Proof of Local Cooperation

Rowan County's school bus accident last week was prematurely over-emphasized and nationally over-publicized but that is understandable in view of the tragic school bus drownings a few years back at Prestonsburg, and the fact that some 50 children were piled on top of each other amid screams and blood.

News of the near-tragedy hit national press wires a few minutes after the school bus was stopped and a newspaperman after being struck by an "out of control" dump truck on Wells Run (Ky. 52).

First reports indicated that several children were killed, or seriously injured. Some of the early newspaper developments were washed out. Remember we picked (and wagged on) a whole group of Morehead State College students, reported to St. Claire hospital with rolled up sleeves. However, blood tests need not be made.

Francis parents, relatives, and curiosity seekers rushed to the hospital, many praying and crying, creating traffic jams. They were barred from the hospital. But, many a mother and father with bowed heads and open tears, as they awaited word about their child.

Every doctor in Morehead was called, and responded. This was also true of nurses.

The hospital auxiliary (pink ladies) were summoned. Many were at the hospital in a few minutes and their services were significant and commendable.

Scores of motorists, many from adjoining counties, drove to the scene of the accident causing a Divide Hill traffic congestion.

Long distance telephone service was taxed as calls came from many parts of the nation, including officials at Frankfort and Washington. Republican newsmen were dispatched to Morehead.

State Police and Morehead Chief of Police Colby Burns said it was a "miracle" that no fatalities resulted. The 60 passenger bus was pitched almost straight down for 50 feet, but never overturned, landing on its side.

Fortunately, the tragic scene was a short distance from the C. W. Wells Lumber Company, with its considerable force immediately available and the bus did not catch fire.

Morehead, and immediate area, ambulances were called into action.

After the children had been removed, and taken to the hospital, it was saddening as volunteers gathered good books, little purses, and girls from the city.

The final analysis was a near miracle, but again factually portrayed the cooperative spirit of the people of Rowan County. Two much credit cannot be lavished on the personal staff of St. Claire, Medical Center.

City Councilman Bob Allen asked Tuesday that two street lights be installed on the thoroughfare in Allen Addition.

He said this had become a ladies were in the area to voice personal objections.

City fathers immediately voted the street lights, but councilman Paul J. Reynolds objected.

"There are many other lanes in our community," he stated, "these could never be broken up, dating from Adams and Eve."

HEAVY TRAFFIC - Automobile manufacturers produce cars each year that are more than double the number relegated to junk yards. Therein lies the trouble with increasing traffic problems in every community, large or small. More trucks multiply the problem.

SMOKE CITY - Morehead will probably have the biggest reforestation of any city, metropolis or small, at the annual tree planting by the Club Males.

Admission Director, and Morehead's lovely 'girls' made reservations for the dining room on the 14th of the month.

There are requests for many times over the ticket supply. Only this country Publisher can find a place for the White House press crew.

COMMENDABLE - This columnist has been critical of Council over that "water" decision, which we still think should (and probably will) be changed. But, it is commendable, and proper, that they open every meeting with prayer. Incidentally, this "water" problem may be brought to a head when MSC Reports convene May 25.

PREDICTION - Morehead will beat Murray in the play-offs this week for the Ohio Valley Conference Baseball championship. The Eagles are too powerful for the Thoroughbreds. Morehead and Murray shared the title last year when the early scheduling game was washed out. Remember we picked (and wagged on) a whole group of Morehead State College students, reported to St. Claire hospital with rolled up sleeves. However, blood tests need not be made.

Francis parents, relatives, and curiosity seekers rushed to the hospital, many praying and crying, creating traffic jams. They were barred from the hospital. But, many a mother and father with bowed heads and open tears, as they awaited word about their child.

Query Wisdom Of Falmouth Dam Project

Fleming counties are reminded that interest in the Falmouth Dam has been revived because of flood conditions in the Ohio River each time.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers has called a meeting for May 14 at the Falmouth county courthouse to explain some of the plans for a large reservoir on Licking River near Falmouth.

Since this project will affect Fleming counties on Licking River and Fox Creek, Judge Z. at the meeting at this time. Meeting was named to attend the Falmouth meeting.

The original plan for the Falmouth Dam was made back in 1917. At that time, it came up large groups outraged citizens have managed to have it off further development.

An informed source says that the latest plans for the dam would be a concrete wall 700 feet long and surrounding property.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By Joe Jordan (Ky. Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, the drafting of men for the Union Army was under way in Kentucky. The state's Observer and Reporter carried a description of the procedure by which men were drafted for service. It was considerably different from the system employed in recent years.

"The draft in the counties composing this congressional district is now progressing at the office of the Provost Marshal in this city," the newspaper said. "Our own county is on the list. A large crowd was present before the drawing commenced and continued in attendance until the last name was drawn. The order prevailed throughout. Occasionally some meriment was created in some particular person turned out to be the 'lucky one.'"

"The names of all who had been enrolled in this county by the names drawn were 470. The quota of Fayette is 115, but fifty percent was added to the quota for the period of the draft for three years or during the war. Names became the duty of the Provost Marshal to notify them and within ten days they are obligated to report it such place as may be designated. The law gave them this privilege, however, they can find substitutes or pay the $300 commutation, which exempts them only from the present draft."

"Thus a man who didn't want to go to war could stay out, provided he could raise $300 any time he desired to be drawn from the wheel. Once his name was out of the wheel, he was the next day, when the enrolling officers supplied a new list of those eligible.

"The enrollment of Kentucky Negroes in the army had been induced into the service had been strongly opposed by the leading Union men in the county. The enrollment of Kentucky Negroes was opposed to Washington and President Lincoln had agreed that Kentucky Negroes would be recruited if Kentucky's quota could be supplied by white volunteers. Apparently that Bramlette had thought of Negro soldiers, who were to be sent out of the state for training.

"Bramlette was having trouble obtaining six-month men for service within the state, account of the six-month volunteers promised by the Governor of Kentucky to the President for the draft, and the next thirty days, it said, 'If not, a draft will be made to supply the deficiency.' In other words, he wanted to get volunteers, even if he had

We drove 3,243 miles to make a point about our Super Turbine transmission

You can do it on the way to the grocery store

Would we drive a Buick with a Super Turbine transmission* all the way from Farmers News just to win Class C in the Mobil Economy Run? Of course. And just in case anyone failed to get the message, we did it twice again. And we won Class C. In all, Buick entered 4 classes, and won 3 — more than any other make of car. (Remember when people said Buicks used a lot of gas?) Did we make our point about the Super Buick Motor Division Turbine transmission? You bet. Obviously you aren't planning to drive 3,243 miles to prove your new Buick is economical. And you can't expect to get as many miles per gallon as the experts in the Economy Run. Still, it is nice to know you can win the economy run around town. And the good looks prize at the same time. See your Buick dealer for it. No doubt he'll think of a number of other reasons to drive a Buick.

Street Repairs, Storm Sewers Among Morehead's Problems

Water and street-repair problems continue to beset the city government of Morehead.

The open-shouldered and heated question whether the city should have its own water system, instead of purchasing from Morehead State College, is not the only water problem.

Several citizens appeared before the Council this week with reports of inadequate storm sewers, improper ditches and flooded basements.

Others complained of gaping holes in streets, while residents on Tupper Avenue (Third to Fifth Streets) said the paving is washing away. A Railroad Street crossing was termed "deplorable."

These complaints specifically fell on the shoulders of Councilman Paul J. Reynolds, Commissioner of this division.

In adroit, and sincere manner, Reynolds explained the budget is now being prepared and "the situation is bad." He was optimistic that available funds would be wisely utilized for the most good.

In other actions Council authorized use of an additional garage fee during Clean-Up from May 15 through May 30.

Purchased a new police cruiser.

Declared an extension of Swift Street an "open alley" on petition of property owners.

Advised one taxpayer that city maps are available at the Clerk's office. He complained inability to secure one at City Hall, the Courthouse or the Morehead News office.

Instructed Police, and authorized overtime pay, for them to personally deliver tax assessment notices. These are usually sent by certified mail. (The order specified this be done immediately as assessments have been prepared by City Assessor Robert Hall, aided by the Board of Equalizers.)

Advised that contact be made with health authorities for a summer "ret-baiting" and "fly-spraying" city-wide program.

State Will Be 'Clean And Green'

"It looks like Kentucky is going to be the cleanest — as well as the most beautiful state in the nation this year," State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlock predicts.

He bases his claim on the results to date of the 1964 Clean-Up Month campaign — the most successful in Kentucky's history, with special clean-up activities in 110 of the state's 120 counties.

"This is more than twice as many participating counties as we had last year," Matlock said, "and it is even possible that we may have all the counties involved in clean-up activities by the end of the month."

Clean-Up Month in Kentucky was proclaimed by Governor Edward T. Breathitt for April 15 to May 15. The proclamation urged all citizens "to band together to remove accumulations of litter and trash and to help make Kentucky a cleaner, greener land — now and forever."

Retiring president is W. R. Short of Louisa, while the retiring vice president is Bobby Rose, Campton.

The next meeting of the 7th district group will be on the second Saturday in May next year at Carter Caves State Park.

Attending Saturday's session in Louisa from Morehead were Spurlock, V. D. Flood, Scotty Hicks and Bill Calvert.

RETIREMENT PAY BOOST
The chances of an increase in the basic retirement payment under social security are bright this year. An increase in the retirement payment would fit in well with Johnson's anti-poverty program and would not be likely to arouse anything like the opposition that has retarded every move to add health care to the social security retirement system.

Trouble In Tobacco Beds May Come From Fertilizer

By Ardian Razor County Agent

We have had several calls on plant bed troubles especially during the latter part of last week. The main trouble was from fertilizer injury. I think the reason for this was the fact that we have gone for several days without rain and, especially on these burned beds we had accumulations of potash and fertilizer salts that have been carried to the surface by the upward moving of the water. As a result, the plant roots were burned. If you have any indications of this, that is spots in the plant bed where the plants are turning yellow and dying, and you think this is the trouble, a good watering will do more for it than anything. Don't put of more fertilizer since that is the cause of the dying in the first place. It only increases the trouble. If you find any signs of diseases or other troubles in your plant bed, please call us and let us help you make a diagnosis. We have a good set of plants in the county this year, so let's take good care of them.

Insects
We are getting in a season when insects on livestock — if they are not controlled — can rob us of both milk and beef. Why not consider a good home-made backrubber this year that will do the job for you. This can be made from materials that you have around the barn, and then all you have to do is buy your insecticide to use on it. The folks who use them have found them to be very good.

Fruit Trees
It is a little late to get on all the sprays for apples, pears, and so forth, but you can still get on two of the recommended sprays that will help some. For apples and pears, you can use either the one package spray; or if you want to mix your own material, use 50 percent wettable powder Captain and either Lead Arsenate or 50 percent wettable DDT. Use two tablespoons of each to the gallon of water and spray when the petals fall, again three weeks later, and again two weeks after the second spray.

Pasture Demonstration
We are looking for a field facing the main highway in each of our communities in which the clover stand has gone out leaving only grass. We would like to set up a renovation demonstration. If you have such a field, let me know. I would like to work with you beginning in early winter in setting up the demonstration.

Monday's Cancer Crusade Raised More Than $500

The 1964 House-to-House Solicitation Crusade of the American Cancer Society was held Monday evening from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in Morehead.

"All indications are that it was a most successful Crusade against cancer," Mrs. Rex Chaney, chairman of the local Crusade said, "in both its educational and fund-raising aspects."

While final reports are still to come in, Mrs. Chaney explained that present tabulations show that over 70 volunteers distributed life-saving educational leaflets to over 1000 homes in Morehead.

collected $506.41 for the Society's programs of research, education and service.

"While Monday night was set aside as our Crusade night," Mrs. Chaney said, "the fight against cancer does not end. It is a continuing and growing program. Every moment has urgent needs for research, education and service."

The chairman said that the American Cancer Society was most grateful to all of the volunteers who participated in the 1964 Crusade and to "the public who gave so generously."

St. Claire Responded Quickly To Thursday's Emergency

How St. Claire Hospital reacted in the face of what could have been a major disaster in the Morehead area, was described this week by Sister Mary Edwina, administrator of the year-old institution.

This is her report on activities at the hospital during the hectic period following last Thursday's school bus-truck collision: State Police alerted St. Claire Medical Center of the accident. At once a disaster plan was put into operation. Switchboard operator, Margaret Law, notified Morehead's physicians, nurses and auxiliary help. Chief surgeon, Dr. Warren H. Proudfoot, cancelled major surgery on a patient already on the operating room table and rushed to the emergency room area to help put things in readiness.

The first victims began to arrive at 8:30 a.m. and the center was closed to all except the injured and officials. Four ambulances and several cars brought in the injured students.

Dr. C. Louise Caudill and Dr. Proudfoot examined victims in the emergency entrance hall as to the extent of injuries. Those with minor cuts and injuries were taken to the Consultation Clinic where four surgical teams were set up and the injured students moved quickly through these emergency units. Those with more serious injuries were treated in the emergency room, operating room and six were sent to Lexington hospitals.

Office personnel and secretaries identified each victim and initiated an emergency record. Their help was extremely valuable.

The x-ray department, headed by Mrs. Joesette Combs and Sister Mary Ralph and two male helpers worked efficiently and at top speed. Eighty-five x-rays were taken on the accident victims.

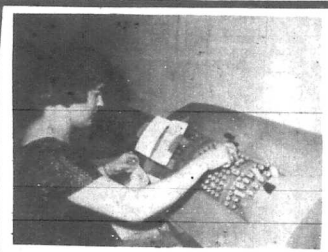

The large table in Central Supply became a blood donor table and here and in the laboratory a splendid job was done by Sister Mary Louise, chief technician, Mr. Staton and Nancy Holbrook. Volunteer blood donors came in large numbers and were asked to wait in the main lobby of the center in case more blood was needed.

Mrs. Edith Hunt with two auxiliary helpers kept the emergency units supplied with needed central supply items.

Mrs. Bob Laughlin, president of the Auxiliary of St. Claire Medical Center, brought in her group of emergency helpers, just recently organized, and this group deserves a very special commendation for the fine work they did in assuaging fear and anxiety of parents and relatives of the injured students, transporting patients and assisting in nursing services areas.

It was through the efficiency and cooperation of so many who through their controlled and quiet assistance made it possible that every victim was able to receive first aid treatment and care within the short space of two hours.

When after the noon-day lunch the housekeeping and maintenance departments had removed all traces of disorder and had cleaned up the emergency areas, it appeared that the hospital had resumed its normal and quiet function.

Through the years a few dedicated citizens have fought the good fight and now it is time for the general public to unite and oppose the Falmouth Dam with everything they can muster! Flood control can be brought about more practically through a series of small retaining dams in a watershed program. Fleming county now has such a pilot program on the drawing boards and it is called the Fox Valley Watershed.

SO WHAT? "Man has been on earth 12 million years longer than scientists have been thinking he has," says an anthropologist. If so, he's even dumber than we've been thinking he was, as in many thousands of centuries he has never learned how to run the world.
