

Vandals In High Hats.

WILL ALLEN WHITE, Editor and Author of "What's the Matter With Manassas"
ESTERN CIVILIZATION IS IN JUST AS MUCH DANGER FROM THE VANDALS IN HIGH HATS AS IT IS FROM THE BUNDS IN RED SHIRTS...

Their presence in the world makes men who would be happy by being kind and generous and helpful, in the routine of ordinary business, like men who roam unarmed in a savage wood and pay with their lives the price of their broad humanity.

One of the curses of this country is the large class of SO CALLED "GOOD CITIZENS" who, because they have book learning and well fitting clothes, are looked upon as leaders. Better is a GOVERNMENT OF STABLE BOYS...

Clubwomen Not Averse to Home Life.

By Mrs. CLARENCE BURNS, Leading Clubwoman of New York. YOU will find that THE BEST CLUBWOMEN MAKE THE BEST HOUSEKEEPERS. I have been a clubwoman for more than seventeen years...

With the exception of one or two clubs composed of women of means, there is NO PAINFUL STRIVING AFTER DRESS, and, as to neglecting their homes, if you could hear some of the women on club days worrying about getting home to their husbands...

No; far from having a disintegrating effect upon the home or tending to cause discussion between husband and wife, it has quite the opposite effect.

IT BROADENS WOMEN, GIVES THEM A WIDER HORIZON AND SOMETHING BETTER TO TALK ABOUT THAN THE PETTY CARES OF THE HOUSEHOLD AND MAKES THEM BETTER COMPANIONS FOR THEIR HUSBANDS.

AMERICAN RULE IS OPOSED BY CUBANS. AGITATORS BUSY.

Dispatches from Havana say that efforts to incite an uprising against American domination in Cuba are actually being made in Santiago Province. Agitators have been at work for some time in the eastern portion of the island.

To check the agitation and prevent an armed uprising, rurales are being mobilized in force at Guantanamo. This action is regarded as confirming the many reports of recent days that an uprising is threatened.

Herb Dennis Injured.

Herb Dennis, employed at the C. & O. quarry, is suffering from an accident which will put him on the shelf for a few days. In some manner, while at work, Wednesday, he slipped and in falling his face and shoulder came in contact with a hand saw which he was carrying, severely cutting his face and head. While the cuts are painful they are not serious and he will be all right in a few days.

WAS IN POOR HEALTH FOR YEARS.

Ira W. Kelley of Mansfield Pa. writes "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure, and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others. Refuse Substitutes. Sold by C B Waring."

Killed by Freight Train.

John F. May, 35, a miner employed at No. 8 mine near Ashland, was struck by a C. & O. freight engine Monday and died a few hours later at a hospital in Ashland.

G. B. BURHANS TESTIFIES AFTER FOUR YEARS.

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center N. Y., writes "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble. Sold by C B Waring."

Flowers That Change Color.

"There are many flowers that change color," said the old gardener. "The larkspur is yellow one day, orange the next and red the third. Its changes are slow. There are other flowers, too, that change. There's the chrysanthemum, that shifts from white to yellow and from yellow to red. There's the gladiolus varicolor, that's brown in the morning and blue in the evening. There's the conical scandens, that moves slowly from greenish white to a deep violet." - New Orleans Times-Democrat.

C. W. NEWELL PAINFULLY INJURED AT SAW MILL.

C. W. Newell, of this city, was seriously injured at his Limestone saw mill Wednesday.

Mr. Newell was mowing the saw and a knotty log had been placed on the carriage, upon which he was working when the accident occurred. He had cut off a partially rotten slab and was backing the carriage for another one when the rotten slab became engaged with the saw and was dashed with great violence against Mr. Newell, striking him on the left side of the head and breast. He was terribly lacerated and bruised.

He was immediately brought to his home in this city, where Dr. Armstrong is in attendance, and everything is being done for his comfort, but it will be some time before he will be himself again. - Olive Hill Times.

GONE TO THE BAD

By Mary Wall. It was close upon midnight when Miss Hathaway, satisfied to have stood on the platform and looked down into the street, but her brother, who was usually there to escort her home after the concert practice, was not to be seen.

"Not feeling the least fear," she alleged, "she stepped at the curb to get a better hold on her dress, a figure emerged from the shadow and caught her by the throat, then as suddenly released her."

"She fell in a heap, half fainting, a cruel maul, with a scar in the forehead, was impressed upon her consciousness. She then allowed herself to be lifted by some one, who, talking to her soothingly as if she were a child, brushed the snow from her dress, straightened her hat, fastened her fur collar, and collected her scattered belongings as deftly as a woman."

"It's a beastly shame to have frightened you so!" he said, as she sobbed once or twice. "There, lean your head against my arm. I'm frightened than hurt. We'll walk slowly until you feel better. Do you go straight ahead?"

"You don't remember me, do you, Miss Hathaway?" she asked, brightening a little. "You were the greatest little rogue I ever saw!" One of my stock stories is about the white mice you put in my desk. Dear me, I was frightened when I opened the drawer and saw them running around."

"I'll never forget the jump you gave and the race you made for the door. But you told me to put them in the drawer you know."

"Yes, but I never thought they were real mice, and when I saw them running around, I fargoed myself a newly acquired dignity and ran."

"And do you remember the day I got a black eye and a tooth knocked out, fighting the boy who was in the yellow-haired teacher's room, because he said she was prettier than you?"

"You had boy! You made me a perfect laughing stock! You knew she was a beauty, and I only a plain little everyday girl."

"If you were plain I'd like to know where they find their pretty girls," he said, energetically. "You were as pretty as a picture, and you haven't changed, either. I knew you the minute I saw you."

"Oh," said she, thinking of her flight, "how lucky that you came along. I suppose your coming frightened the wretch away. I shall never venture out alone again, and I have always been a picture, and you moaned. 'Do you live in Edge-water, Johnny?'"

"No, ma'am! I live on the west side. I can't just visit you here. Why, indeed, it is for me! But what are you doing, John? I feel sure you are one of our 'common men.' You know you were and feel little steam engine. Everything had just to go your way."

BEFORE AND AFTER MARRIAGE

(Since Rob said Elizabeth became engaged Rob feels privileged to call seven times a week if he chooses, explains the Chicago News. He stays two or three hours at a time and the conversation never flags at the amazement of Elizabeth's family, which weekly wonders what on earth the two would talk about. This is a fair sample of the settling mental effort which hold the two enthralled evening after evening.)

Elizabeth - I don't know why on earth I'm telling you all this prosy stuff about my shopping expedition. What do you care about bargains in ribbons?

Rob (reproachfully) - Don't you know that anything connected with the dear girl in the world what you do or where you go or what you are thinking is important to me? Why - why, I'd feel hurt if you didn't tell me.

She - Would you really, Rob? How sweet of you! Isn't it just wonderful how much difference it makes, having some one that cares about you, about anything that happens to you? For, of course, I feel that way about you, too.

He (reassuringly) - Angel! It makes life a real new world, of course. How much darker blue your eyes seem to-night - right around the edge! You have beautiful eyes, Rob.

She - You think so? But to others I'm just an ordinary - very ordinary - person.

He - I'd like to catch any one else saying so. I'd tell him a thing or two. Why, you are not only pretty, you have some brains. You don't suspect the fact that I've never been in love if you didn't, do you? I never get tired of talking with you. I'd rather be here listening to you talk about your shopping expedition and telling you about that law case than than talking with Teddy Roosevelt. You believe me, don't you?

She - The fact? Do you suppose, Rob, other people care for each other the way you and I do and are so united in every thought as we are?

He - I should say not! Poor things, I pity them. They think they care, but they are serpentine or haggard, or worse than all of them together.

She - Tell me again how you made that horrid man who blustered at you in court back down and apologize. Oh, I'm so proud of you! Other, but this is a scene in the library after dinner - any evening Robert sits beside a stack of magazines and papers. Elizabeth is sewing.

She - I saw Mills to-day. He - I'm hum. Long pause. She - You think this new cook roasts the meat long enough? It was raw to-night.

She - I'll tell her. Where's that meat? It's right on the table - oh, here. He (vaguely peering over the newspaper) - What is it? She - My yellow silk dress. I found it.

Long silence. She - Rob? He - Her heading to the end of the column? - Yes. She - You never noticed that I have on a brand new gown to-night, other, but this is a scene in the library after dinner - any evening Robert sits beside a stack of magazines and papers. Elizabeth is sewing.

He - Why, yes, I do! - You always look nice. It appears to be a very pretty gown. Silk, isn't it? She (a trifle shortly) - It's a hand-made one. I liked and I did it myself - and it was lots of work! He (truly glad in his new position) - Very nice, I'm sure. Long pause. He - I'll believe I'll lie down on the couch and get a nap - I'm dead tired - can't tell what I'm doing. Had a headache - I don't know. She - That's too bad. Have you many cases now? He - Six, and all crackerjacks. What do the plumber boys? Short silence. Rob's indications of a snore. Elizabeth continues to embroider.

ITEMS OF INTEREST OVER THE STATE

Blue Grass fair, Lexington, Aug. 12 to 17. The Fayette county grand jury has adjourned. Capt. Bro. of Louisa have made an assignment.

No gambling will be allowed at the Lexington fair this year. Remember Old Settlers Picnic at Forge Hill, Aug. 1, 2, 3. The old log court house at Paris, built in 1785, is to be torn away.

Chas. Johnson is in jail at Louisa for the murder of James Boggs of Blaine. Louisville is making a strong pull for the next National Democratic convention. A mass convention of the republicans of Bath was held at Owingsville, last Saturday.

Work has begun on the new agricultural building of the State College at Lexington. The Greenup Teacher's Institute will convene at Greenup Aug. 5. Prof. Chapman, Paris, instructor. G. C. Ewing, of Owingsville, has announced as a candidate for Representative from the 94th district.

The Elliott County Teacher's Institute began Monday with Prof. Winfrey of Middleboro, as instructor. The blacksmithing and woodworking shop of James W. Greene, of near Mt. Sterling, was destroyed by the Saturday.

The monument erected to the Confederate soldiers of Bath county will be dedicated at Owingsville cemetery August 3. Ashland is infested by thieves and burglaries are of nightly occurrence. The police are unable to check the depredations.

G. L. Terrian has been nominated by republicans of Adair and Cumberland counties, to represent them in the next Legislature.

Chas. Hauper, of near Owingsville, was bitten by a dog which afterward showed signs of hydrophobia. Hauper is now in Chicago for treatment.

Willard Mitchell, of Nicholasville, has been engaged to defend Robert Hocker, the negro who murdered Newton Veal, a farmer of Fayette county.

Attorneys for the defense of Caleb Powers at Georgetown are fighting for the unsetting of Judge Robbins and the appointment of another to try the case, claiming it impossible to get a fair trial.

Difficult Breathing

Short breath, fluttering, palpitation, sinking spells are symptoms of a weak heart, struggling to do its work. It must keep the blood in circulation to carry nourishment to make flesh, bone and muscle, and remove the worn-out particles. When it cannot do this, it must have help. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure gives strength to the heart nerves and muscles, and increases the heart action.

"I am glad to report that I am so much improved in health," Dr. Miles' Heart Cure cured me when several doctors failed. My case was very bad. I had been told by my doctor that I was getting old, but I had difficulty in breathing, and I felt as if I could not breathe without feeling as if I were suffocating. I had been given up by all hope of being cured, but I got Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and I am now well. It is recommended for all who suffer with heart disease." - Mrs. MARY C. HATHLEY, Baltimore, Md.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee you the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund the money. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Hon. H. L. Woods of Carter county a candidate for the Republican nominee for Circuit Judge of the 32nd Judicial District at the convention whenever held.

We are authorized to announce Attorney W. D. King, of Olive Hill, a candidate for the Republican nominee for Representative of the 100th Legislative District.

A subscriber of several years standing came in this week and ordered his paper stopped because his neighbors persisted in purloining his mail box. For contemptible littleness this takes the cream. If the party who took the paper is too poor to afford the paper we will send it to him free of charge, but should he be more prosperous he should be prosecuted for the contemptible thief he is.

The effort to have the striking miners at Barbourville put under bond to keep the peace is cowardice in a new form. We are of the opinion there is time for such a proceeding after violence has been resorted to, and that any man or set of men who thus classify workmen as thugs and anarchists and thus stab under cover of such an injunction certainly deserve the contempt of many men.

It would be a terrible calamity should the so-called down-and-out politicians succeed in corrupting the political morals of "White Wings" Bingham and the balance of that angelic bunch.

Forsaker's opposition to Taft is simply envy and political jealousy, and his pretext of being opposed to him because of his position on the tariff is too flimsy to be taken seriously.

If you are a rooster in the convention for Woods, Saturday you are doing your duty. Don't forget to tell your friends about the special train.

Be on the special leaving here at eleven o'clock Saturday which will take you to Grayson and the convention.

Olive Hill and this end of the county must have Judge Woods.

William Henry Salee, a prosperous citizen residing a few miles east of Columbia, was kicked by a horse at home Sunday, producing a compound fracture of the right leg. Physicians were summoned to set the broken limb. The injured man is in a serious condition.

James Murray, a tramp, was struck by a freight train at Mt. Sterling Thursday night and instantly killed. He had just been released from the county jail and it is supposed he was killed while trying to steal a ride out of town.

Korean and Jap forces are clashing in Korea.

Wonderful Courage.
Is displayed by many a poor invalid, crushed under the weight of chronic troubles, like constipation, biliousness, neuralgia, headache, stomach trouble, etc. But such suffering, the brave, is quite unnecessary, for Dr. Caldwell's laxative Syrup Pepsin will surely cure all these diseases, drive away all the unpleasant symptoms, and restore every invalid to health. Try it. Sold by N. M. Hudgins at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

ECHOES FROM THE FIELD.

This will be one of the first and most interesting features of the Sunday School Convention of Carter county, held at Grayson Wednesday, Aug. 15. Want a full report from each school and of the destitute regions where there are no schools. The best investment a county can make is to take an abiding interest in Sunday School work. Everybody come. R. B. NEAL, Cor. Sec.

HOW TO AVOID PNEUMONIA.

You can avoid pneumonia, and other serious results from a cold by taking Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough and expels the cold from the system as it is mildly laxative. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. C. B. Waring.

POLITICAL CALL

For Republican County and District Conventions.

At a meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of the 32d Judicial District composed of the counties of Carter, Elliott, Lawrence and Morgan, held, pursuant to call, in the town of Sandy Hook, on July 18, 1907, at which meeting all of the counties in said district were represented, the following proceedings were had and done:

1. It was ordered that a District Convention be held in the city of Grayson, in said district, on Tuesday, Aug. 6, 1907, at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of nominating a Republican candidate for Circuit Judge and also for the Commonwealth Attorney to be voted for at the regular November election, 1907.

2. It was ordered that county mass conventions be held on Saturday, Aug. 3, at 10 o'clock p. m. in the respective counties composing said district for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the District convention at Grayson, and that the basis of representation in said district convention shall be one delegate vote for every 100 votes or fraction above fifty votes cast for the Roosevelt electors at the November election, 1904 upon this basis counties composing said district are entitled to the following delegate vote in said convention: Carter, 24; Elliott, 6; Lawrence, 20; Morgan, 11.

GEO. W. CASTLE, Chairman.
W. J. TETZ, Secretary.

Mrs. Chas. Erwin, of Prater, died Saturday. The interment took place Sunday at the family burying ground. Quite a number of Olive Hill people were in attendance.

Green Stallard, aged 91, died at his home in Smoky Valley Saturday, and was buried Sunday.

Dr. John Williams and wife passed through Wednesday, en route from Louisville, where he has been attending medical college. He will practice in Martin county.

DON'T LET BABY CRY.

When baby cries, something is probably wrong with its stomach, or other digestive organs, and no time should be lost in giving it a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin. This is the only safe laxative medicine for babies and children and should always be kept in the house. It contains no injurious ingredients and can do nothing but good. Try it. Sold by Dr. C. B. Waring at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

PASSING OF THE BED.

Space in New York Too Valuable For Old Fashioned Article.

This day is witnessing the passing of the bed. "Ground space" is getting too valuable in New York to use for an old fashioned bed or to devote solely to sleeping purposes. People have got to have something to sleep on that they can fold up and get out of the way in the daytime. We have the most curious calls for beds made to order. People bring diagrams of flats and apartments in here and order us to make beds that will fit certain spaces. Some people have new beds made to order every time they move, so as to utilize every inch of space.

"Lots of people in New York sacrifice space and comfort for a fashionable address. I had a call from a woman the other day to go up to a fashionable hotel. She lived at a country-home most of the year, but when she came to town for a few months in the winter she and her two daughters crowded into one room at this hotel. They had one double folding bed, and they wanted me to construct a special bed that could be rested on two trunks at night. That was the only way they could get another bed into the room."

"I know a woman who still is keeping boarders in an old New York house, the old family home which she had inherited. In every room was a fine, heavy, old fashioned bed. One after another of her boarders demanded to have this bed removed and a cot or bed substituted on a table bed, or a bookcase, or any other kind that they could fold away out of sight in the daytime, and make their room look like a sitting room. The woman found she couldn't sell her old fashioned beds. No one would have them, and rather than give them away—which she couldn't bring herself to do—she is actually paying storage on them."—New York Tribune.

Manners Outside the Navy.

The ordinary seaman's respect for rank and station when not connected with his beloved vessel is decidedly meager. When the president of the United States visits one of our men-of-war he is received at the gangway by the admiral, commanding officer and all of the officers of the ship, in full uniform, the marine guard drawn up with the band on the quarterdeck, the national flag is displayed at the main, the drummer gives four ruffles, the band plays the national air, and a salute of twenty-one guns is fired. The same ceremony also takes place on his leaving.

On one occasion a president visited one of the ships informally, dispensing with the salute and ceremony, when one of the men rather indignantly asked another who that lubber was on the quarterdeck that didn't "douse his peak" to the commodore.

"Choke your luff, will you?" was the reply. "That's the president of the United States."

"Well, ain't he got manners enough to salute the quarterdeck, if he is?"

"Manners! What does he know about manners? I don't suppose he was ever out of sight of land in his life."—"Oo a Man-of-War."

Explained.

"I know he does not mean it. He says in his letter that everything has seemed dark as night since I went away."

"He may be telling the truth. You know love is blind."

You may stretch a truth into a lie, but you can't stretch a lie into a truth.

The remodeling, painting and paper-hanging of the White property on East Main Street has been completed and Mrs. Morris will take possession Aug. 1. Mrs. Morris is having the yard sodded, which will greatly enhance the appearance of the place, but in the absence of a yard fence we see plenty of work for Mrs. Morris in "shooing" away the town cows, as it will prove too tempting for them to pass up.

MY FRIEND THE COLLIE.
 Many Commendable Points About This Fine Animal.

The rough-coated Scotch Collie is one of the most popular dogs among canine fanciers and breeders in England or America writes A. D. Baus in Recreation Magazine. The columns of any dog journal bristle with business announcements of breeders, suburban, urban and country folks are learning of the true value of usefulness of this splendid animal. He is a friend and trusty servant anywhere.

The finest points about a Collie is his head and expression, as breeders call it. A dog with an elegant coat and general Collie form, but without a good head, is not worth much, according to the fanciers. The head is moderately wide and skull flat, with a clean cut mouth and rather lengthy over all. Ears want to be carried low and when the dog is on the lookout they want to be elevated well up, yet the tips should tip over even and gracefully. In coat he must be very heavy and long. The frill about his neck must be long and beautiful. Collies are either golden sable and white or tri-color, i. e., black, with white and tan markings on frill, breast, legs, head and ears. The sable and white Collies are the most popular in this country, as well as in their native land, because of their extreme beauty. The white markings to be valuable must be full, wide collar, white tip of tail, blaze in the face, white markings on legs. The frill should tip over. Perfect these markings, other qualities being good in proportion, the more valuable the animal.

I have been impressed greatly during my few years' experience with Collies, with their extreme intelligence. Having kept and bred fox terriers and Boston terriers, which makes me love the Collie the more. Nothing that has come to my notice concerning either the fox terrier or the Boston has been disadvantageous to them. There is an indescribable something that fascinates one to a Collie above all others. He loves to obey. It has been bred into them so long that it is a fixed characteristic. He can so attach himself to you that nothing would ever let you part from him.

Any breeder or dog fancier loves his Collie best—the warm corner in the heart is reserved for him! Why? Because he protects. He will stand a cuffing nor a kick—a sharp word of rebuke is more than enough to correct him. It may be this tenderness of heart that makes him so affectionate. The time to get a Collie is when he is eight months' old. If he is much older it takes too long to win him.

A few words on general care: In all favorable weather wash the dog once each week. Feed him twice daily of cooked food. Do not keep him too fat. Good muscular condition and a smart, alert Collie are not the result of over-feeding. Once a week give half a teaspoonful of powdered sulphur in a pan with some milk. It keeps his blood in fine condition. Use a medicated animal soap when washing him. Disinfect the kennel with crude carbolic acid once a month. In fall and winter, when washing is out of the question, swing him through all his dense coat with a tobacco dust powder. It is a fine method of keeping his skin clean and insects off after contact with other dogs. Have him clipped in summer, if convenient, and let him go on the vacation with you. He will love the water and it will be a sin to leave him home.

Program and Programme.
 Our boys and girls have noticed, of course, that the dropping of the "me" from the word "programme" is becoming more and more general. This is not so much in obedience to the demands of the so-called "phonetic reform," as it is a move towards uniformity in spelling words that have the termination "gram." The word comes regularly from the Greek "programma," and really about the "programme." The advocates of the shorter form say that if we write "diagram," "telegram," "epigram," etc., we might as well write "program," especially as the final "me" is not sounded. But you should not fall into the incorrect pronunciation that many people are guilty of, and "programme." The accent is on the first syllable, of course, but the "gram" is distinctly sounded like "am."

The Famous Hanging Gardens.
 Every one, young and old, has heard of the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, but few persons perhaps, know how they were constructed. They were about four acres in extent and were built on a base supported by pillars, which carried the terraces to a height of 300 feet, and it is said that they looked, from a distance, like a great pyramid covered with green. Strabo says, they owed their existence to the whim of a woman, Queen Amyitis, who grew so tired of the plains of Babylon, and missed so much for the hills of her native Media, that her husband, King Nebuchadnezzar, had the gardens built to please her.

The Lion's Mouth.
 The use of the lion's mouth as the vent of a fountain is quite common, so much so that it cannot possibly be considered accidental. As a matter of fact, the custom came to us from the Egyptians, who adopted it because the annual inundation of the Nile takes place when the sun is in the constellation Leo, the Lion. The allusion is too obvious to need pointing out.

THE WATERMARK ON PAPER.

Value Often Demonstrated by Detection of Forgeries.

Watermarks have proved themselves invaluable for safeguarding against the forgery of banknotes, bills, stamps, etc., though the difficulty experienced by the Bank of England in evolving a mark defining imitation was very great and was accompanied by the execution of forgeries innumerable.

Many a will has been set aside owing to false dates in watermarks, thanks to watermarks, we are under no uncertainty respecting the date of the existence of the paper. Ireland's celebrated Shakespearean forgeries were, however, perpetrated with skilful recognition of the watermark difficulty. At first, says the London Globe, he was unacquainted with any watermark of Elizabethan times, so he carefully selected mark-less sheets for his commencing efforts.

Driven to the production of MS. he set to work purchasing old volumes for their fly leaves, and bearing that the "Jug" was the prevailing watermark of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, he selected such as had the "Jug" on, being careful to mingle with them a certain number of blank leaves, in order that the production on a sudden of so many identical watermarks might not arouse suspicion.

Two of the earliest watermarks consist of a circle surmounted by a cross, signifying the cross planted on earth, and an open hand surmounted by a star or cross, representing the pastoral benediction of a priest. "Post" paper takes its name from the post horse mark, which was used as early as 1370. It sometimes appears on a shield, and in the seventeenth century is surmounted by a dual coronet, in which form it still met with on our ordinary note paper.

The first English paper maker was John Tate, who founded a mill at Hereford in the close of the sixteenth century. Tate made a fine thin paper, having a watermark an eight pointed star within a double circle. White coarse paper was made by Sir John Spelman, a German, at Durdurford, in 1530, and here the first English paper mills on a large scale were erected. In 1630, however, when William II. passed an act to encourage the home manufacture of white paper, all the best paper for writing and printing was imported from Holland and France.

A story goes that the most curious of all watermarks, a fool's cap which is derived from the Italian "foglio-cappo," at folio stand sheet, was ordered by the Rump parliament to be substituted for the royal arms in the paper used for the journals of the house of commons.

As a matter of fact, no paper so marked found its way into England before 1649, and the story probably owes its origin to the topical allusion, which the Royalists continued to perpetuate in the case of papers intruded from Holland during the Cromwellian regime. For example, a 1650 large-hat, to denote the broad brimmed beaver worn by the Puritans, in 1651, four crosses; and in 1657, a royal crown—all symbols likely to be obnoxious to the ruling powers—were exhibited on many papers.

Novel Postal Service.
In Milan letters are now collected from the street pillar boxes by an electric travelling postman over a journey of fifteen miles, sorting and stamping are done during the run from one box to another; and at the end of each circuit the letters are handed over for immediate delivery.

$100 REWARD.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials.
