BACON CREEK (Graves Co., Ky) (F424c): "One day a man was coming from town with quite a package of bacon. He tried to jump across the stream, which was swollen from rain, but fell in and lost the package. Since then it has been called Bacon Creek."

"... rec'd. it name, acc. to the story, in the early days of the county. When one of the pioneer settlers was crossing this stream, a large sack of baxon fell off his wagon into the middle of the creek. It was never recovered. The stream became known as Bacon Creek." (Collected by Lon Carter Barton from Judge Carl Wyatt of Mayfield, Ky., winter, 1948 in Ibid.); "A farmer started to town one day with a wagon load of meat to sell. There had been a hard rain, and a little creek he had to cross was full of water. There was no bridge, but he thought the water would not be deep enough to do any harm, so he went on. When he got across, he found that his bacon had been washed out of the wagon. So the creek has been called Bacon Creek ever since."

(Collected by Eliz. Wyatt from her friend, Mrs. Brown of Mayfield who learned it from her mother, summer, 1953, in Ibid. P. 92);

"...One night a man was hauling a wagonload of bacon across this creek. The waters were up, and he did not know the bridge had been washed out. When he started to cross, the water washed him and his wagonload of bacon down the creek. From that time on it has been known as Bacon Creek."

(Collected by Betty Kreisler from Tom Malone of Sedalia, who learned it from his grandmother. Rev. 1954 in Ibid.)

FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): Said to be probably the only town in US founded by descendants of Lord Baltimore's English Catholics who had landed in Md. in 1634 "that's remained all-Catholic down through the yrs." Acc. to Mrs. Anna Courtney Hunt, local historian, named by a US Postal Insp. who was in the commu. "in response to an applic. for a p.o. here....(He) remarked that the farm on which he stayed nearby during his visit..was the fanciest and prettiest he had ever seen. He then suggested Fancy Farm as the town name. Everyone agreed." M&M Sam'l. Willett were the first settlers of the vic., from Wash. Co. 1830. Built log cabin. The town was built around St. Jerome Church which was construct 1836. Disincorp. c.1947 (ch. date). Most noted for annual political picnics attended by state and county office seekers. FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): (pron. "F(aeln)see F(ah)rm") Barton accepts the acct. "of the inspector for the Postal Service who visited this little Catholic commu. that at that time had not been named but which wanted a name because it wanted a po." He observed some well maintained, neat, attractive homes, fences in good repair and barns in good shape, all of this led him, probably "facetiously at first" to suggest that FF would be a good name for the commu. This is from an acct. by Ms. Hunt, the local historian. St. Jerome's Chur. is still the center of the commu which is still practically 100% Cath. ... Now: several small stores, filling sta's., rest, meat packing hse. Barton couldnt recall the orig. owner of the fancy farm itself but it might have been John Peeples or else Mr. Withers.... (Interview with Lon Carter Barton, 8/5/77);
FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): Acc. to Thos. E. Murphy, chairman of the picnic for 1971, it started in 1834 to raise funds for the Cath. church. Temp. halted with the coming of the CW and started up again 1880 and ever since. 1st Sat. in Aug. Funds now used to pay for local sch. bldgs. On the grounds of the school. People come from allover Ky. to the Fancy Farm Picnic and Political Speaking which has traditionally served "as the kickoff of fall political campaigns." (Bill Billiter, LCJ, 8/7/71, P. Bl:1-6).
FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): Named for "the desolate appearance of an early settler's farm (in that area, in the late 1830s or early '40s...) passed by..."(would) refer to this farm as an example of a 'fancy' farm. This term, originally applied in derision and ridicule, became a stock expression in that neighborhood, and the name of the community was later taken from it." (Lon Carter Barton, winter, 1948, from Lebert Orr of West Viola, Ky. and repro. in "Place Name Stories about W. Ky. Towns" Violetta Maloney Halpert, KFR, Vol. 7 (3), 7-9/61, Pp. 107-8).
FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): p.o. est. 3/15/1843, John Peebles.... (NA); Named for "the well-kept country place of an early settler, John Peebles. A post-office inspector had stopped at the Peebles place in 1845 (sic), while investigating whether a p.o. was needed in the growing settlement, and he was so impressed with its trim, neat appearance that he proposed the name of 'Fancy Farm' for the new p.o."

FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): Acc. to local trad., it was named by a Mr. Willett, whose descendants still live in that area. He was said to have justified his purchase of an attractive farm by describing it as a "fancy farm". He thus named his farm and later the town. (From Mrs. Molly Carrico of F.F. to Mrs. Merrie Virginia McIntosh, spring, 1954 and given in Violetta Maloney Halpert's "Place Name Stories about W. Ky. Towns" KFR, 7-9/1961, P. 107)
FANCY FARM (Graves Co.): "An example of group migration of several Catholic families from central Ky." (Lon C. Barton, "Young So. Carolinian and Wife were First Settlers of Mayfield" in Purch. This is speculation: "The Jack. Pur. is the pa: of Ky. which was laid out by the reg'l. survey system when they would plot a meridian & intersect the meridian with baselines at 6 mi. intervals, and all this, and divide the land into sections and townships and ranges, and so on... It's quite possible that F. could have been situated at the very corner of one of these 6 mi. square sections. Or it could have been in the corner of a smaller area of a twp." Known as F. at time of C.W. or within a few yrs. of that time. The Stokes & Hendley families were among earliest settlers. (Lon Carter Barton 8/5/77)
So it may have been settled in the late 1830s. DK why n-ch. He's heard that the name is a shortened form of Farmingtown (inadvertently shortened from this splng) which reflected on its rural economy and life style. Always high quality and productive land, a good farming area. Now: still a thriving town with 4-5 businesses. Small hi. sch., commu. ctr. Optimist Club. Several churches. Basically still a farming commu. (Ibid.).

FELICIANA (Graves Co.): A large landowner with several slaves ran an unnamed store. Two of his slaves were Felicia and Anna. Fell in love with same man and were very jealous of each other. Met on road in front of store to fight, winner to have him. Storekeeper separated them and decided to name store for them. (Rufus Lowry, from his father, and to Mrs. Dessie W. Coltharp, summer, 1953, repro. in "Place Name Stories about W. Ky. Towns" KFR, V. 7(3), 7-9/61, P. 108); The same acct. given by others and reproduced in Ibid., Pp. 108-9, incl. one that has Flissy killing Anna. People would pass that place and note that it was where Flissy killed Anna. Got slurred together into Flissy Ann. Town later est. at that place. They were cotton pickers at that site.
FEICICANA (Graves Co.): "Feliciana, now a small community located about three miles southeast of Water Valley at a cross-roads on the old Dukedom Road, was about 60 or more years ago, a thriving young city, larger than Fulton at that time. Before the town originated and was named, there lived in this community two negro (sic) women. One was named Felicia and the other Anna. One day a quarrel arose between these two negro women over a young man, with whom they were both in love. The two rivals, each carrying sharp razors, met at the crossroads. A fight followed. It was a bloody battle! In the end, both died on the spot from loss of blood. Soon after this, a town sprang up at this cross-roads and in memory of the negro women who had died there it was named Feliciana, a combination of their names." (Ouida Jewell, "From My Scrapbook", 1956-7, np)

FELICIANA (Graves Co.): Thriving town in mid-19th cent. and virtually extinct by the end of that cent. Settled in the early 1830s. "Enjoyed rapid and prosperous growth; within a few years it boasted a spacious hotel, a bank several stores and a no. of professionals... mechanics and craftsmen." Its strategic location at crossroads facilitated growth. Only Mayfield, as county seat, had greater commercial importance. The beginning of its decline came undoubtedly when the townsfolk rejected offer of the New Orleans & Ohio RR thru the town in the 1850s; it was routed thru Water Valley. (Lon C. Barton in Purch. Ed. of Mayfield Mess. 12/27/1969, P. 18:2).

MAYFIELD (Graves Co.): Barton couldnt vouch for the acct. given by Trabue Davis for there were others that have been given. None of the acct. though, have been authenticated, nor can they be. All will agree that the town was named for the creek. Another acct. is that "Geo. Mayfield was a part of the Davy Crockett group of hunters and that he and Crockett were close friends and that he later went west to Texas with Crockett and was killed at the Alamo. But this cant be authenticated..(There's no) record of a Geo. Mayfield at the Alamo. I guess the most common folklore story about it is the one that Trabue Davis gives about the man being shot on the log and falling into the creek, and later people began to refer to the creek as the creek where Geo. Mayfield was shot and gradually the name of the creek became just Mayfield Creek. ... This indicates (to me) there was a good bit of traffic along the creek at a time before the town was ever established and the town itself was established about 18 and 19 and there's no documented proof that there was this much movement around Mayfield Creek before the town of Mayfield was established. On the other hand, nobody has ever shown that Mayfield, the town, or Mayfield, the creek, was named directly after a family that lived in this area by that name.... In all these stories, Geo. seems to be the common given name. There's another story that this Geo. Mayfield was a large landowner and that the creek was named after this man that owned... many acres of land in the creek bottoms. Well the thing that sort of shoots that out of the wad is that the large landowners--there were very few and none of them were recorded in Jillson as being owned, occupied, sold or anything else by anybody by the name of Mayfield..." So they had to find another name. So they were all going to meet together. And there's a creek that runs through the town--it's in a little valley--and it's a branch of the Bayou du Chein Creek...And th morning they were going to meet to name the town, there had been a cloudburst the night before and there was nothing but water to see so they decided they'd call it Water Valley. That's the legend. And how true it is I have no idea at all. It might very well be so...That's the only story I've ever heard." (Bill Wilson of Water Valley, Ky., interview, 8/28/1978);
WATER VALLEY (Graves Co.): Village grew up by the rr: when it was built to there. Two Morse brothers owned a saloon. Fought one day and one ran the other off. Place had been called Morse Station. WHEEL (Graves Co.): (pron. "Hweel") DK who was 1st settler unless it was father of the late Fred Biggs. Barkley's birthplace. The farm on which this was located was occupied later by Mr. Biggs. At that time merely a wide place in the rd; it never reached what we'd consider "commu. status," though it did have a gen. store & a 1 rm. sch. c. 5 mi. sw of Lowes. Name probably inspired by the activities of the semi-populist movement, the agric. wheel that was very active in this part of the country in the 1890s. A forerunner of the Populist party. The group's name was derived from its symbol, with the spokes running out from the hub, symbolizing unity, brotherhood, all the farmers banding together in a great movement to achieve better farm prices, lower interest rates, and regulation of rr's. Now another ghost town. No longer store. The Biggs family is the only one left. Fred's son still lives in the same house and his son lives nearby. cf Fred's son, L.L. Biggs, for exact time of founding or the name of founder. (Interview with Lon Carter Barton, 8/5/77);
WHEEL (Graves Co.): Farmers org. est. "in an attempt to reduce taxes and curb r.r. excesses." In 1889 it merged with the Farmers' Alliance to form the Farmers' Alliance (sic) (to form the Nat'l. Farmers' & Laborers' Union of America). (Hambleton Tapp & Jas. C. Klotte: KY: DECADES OF DISCORD: 1865-1900, KHS, 1977, P. 314) Called "The Agricultural Wheel". org. in 1882 in Prairie Co., Ark. a secret society whose objective was to improve conditions of farmers. Spread to other states by 1886. Had ½ million members by 1887. Merger was in 1888 (Edward Wiest, AGRI. ORGS. IN: THE UNITED ST. UK, Lex. 1923, Pp. 455-7);
WHEEL (Graves Co.): p.o. est. 5/6/1892, Elisha J. Willett...Disc. 6/30/1909 (mail to Lowes) (NA); Named for "an influential farmer of the same name, who founded a semi-secret agricult. org. known as the Wheelers. This society was pledged to work for the interests of farmers (and to improve their econ. situation). My father was an active member...." (Alben W. Barkley, THAT REMINDS ME--, Garden City: Doubleday, 1954, P. 24). Barkley was born nr. there. Located betw. Fancy Farm and Lowes. (ibid.) 11/24/1877.

WINGO (Graves Co.): Named for Jerman J. Wingone 1807 who came here from NC in 1825 and built log cabin and opened 1st business, a gro. & saloon. He gave ICRR right-of-way thru his land in the early 1850s. When rr arrived it called the new sta. there Points Curve but it later renamed it Wingo Sta. and by 1900 it was simply Wingo. Became a town in 1854. At jct. of US45 and ICRR. Agri. trade center. Most of working pop. commute to jobs in Mayfield, Calvert City, etc.... ("Wingo" by Harry Bolser, LCJ, 11/1/1964, sect. 4).
WINGO (Graves Co.): (pron. "W(ih)n/goh" by most persons today or "W(ih)2/oh" preferred by olde residents and is presumably the orig. pronunciation. Or "W(ie)2/oh") Named for its founder, German Wingo, a wealthy man who owned much land and kept slaves. He granted rr the right of way thru his land and land for sta. which was est. and named for him. The rr was responsible for the town's growth. Pt. Curve was presumably named for the sweeping curve made by the rr near (not in) the town. The town was never called P.C. Wingo was its only official name. Theophilus Wingo may have been German's bro. The Wingos arr. in the 1830s or '40s. They were well est. in that vic. before rr. Now: pretty prosperous town, the largest in co. except for Mayf. An inc. town with own fire dept. The only other inc. com. in co. Bank, several stores, funeral home & other services. On US 10 mi. sw of Mayf. Busi. commu. still along the tracks and just as strong. Yet new dev. along the hiway too....(Interview with Lon Carter Barton, 8/5/77);
