Morehead State University's Eagles are in Murfreesboro, Tennessee to meet the Middle Tennessee State Blue Raiders.

Coach Roy Terry's Eagles are still looking for their first win of the season. MSU opened with a loss to Xavier two weeks ago, and fell to Marshall 27 to 24 last week. The Thundering Herd scored with less than three minutes to play to hand the Eagles their second setback of the season.

Jimmy Johnson, a sophomore tailback from Orrville, Ohio, gained 114 yards in 22 carries against Marshall. Johnson scored on runs of two and 16 yards to bring his season TD total to three. Quarterback Lou Mains hit Mark Altenberger with a 24-yard touchdown pass for the Eagles final TD.

The Eagles will be opening the Ohio Valley Conference race tonight when they face the Blue Raiders. Middle Tennessee is considered to be a championship contender in the OVC, and will bring a 2 and 6 record into the game. Middle Tennessee owns wins over U-T Martin and Florence State.

Morehead State will enter the game with three starters injured. Defensive tackle Mark Sheehan, injured in practice last week, is out for the season with a knee injury. Quarterback Dave Schaetzke, who missed the Marshall game with an injured shoulder, is still ailing and is doubtful for tonight's game. Eagles captain--Gary Shirk suffered a sprained ankle in the loss at Marshall and is also listed as doubtful for tonight's game.

MSU Head Coach Roy Terry will be making his first start in the Ohio Valley Conference tonight.

The Eagles return home next week to meet Murray State.
