MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Baritone Joe W. Figg and soprano Vasile Venettozzi, assistant professors of music at Morehead State University, are presenting a joint recital Tuesday, Feb. 5, in Baird Recital Hall.

Figg will sing seven numbers from Schumann's "Dichterliebe" and "Five Gambling Songs" by Kentuckian John Jacob Niles. He will be accompanied by his wife, Norah Figg, on the piano.

Mrs. Venettozzi will sing "Four Fragments from The Canterbury Tales" in Old English. Her accompanists will be Violet Severy, harpsichord; Susan Mercer, clarinet; and Kenton Cooper, flute.

She will then sing four songs in Greek by modern Greek composers---Lambelet, Nezeritis and Zoras. Lucretia Stetler will accompany on the piano.

Figg and Mrs. Venettozzi will close the program with a duet from Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

The recital is free and open to the public.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- A woman who may be the first female Kentuckian to earn a degree in vocational agriculture has joined the faculty of Morehead State University.

Mrs. Martha H. Norris, a resident of Ashland, recently became an instructor in horticulture when another professor was granted a leave for health reasons.

Mrs. Norris was graduated from MSU last May at the age of 57. She attended Ashland Community College for two years and transferred to MSU in the fall of 1971. A member of Delta Tau Alpha agriculture honorary, she was honored by the MSU Department of Agriculture as its outstanding graduate.

"I always knew that someday I would get a chance to go back to school," said Mrs. Norris, who resumed her education after her four children were grown. She spent two semesters in a woman's residence hall with sophomore roommates and commuted the rest of the time.

"I did everything in my agriculture courses that the boys were required to do," she said. In most of the classes, she was the only female. She also took three semesters of mechanics courses and really enjoys working with power tools.

Mrs. Norris, whose husband died last spring, is now busily working on a smaller house near her 27-year-old, 10-room home. She designed the new house and the plans include a workshop in the basement. The workshop will have an area where she can grow plants under flourescent light.

She operated a drapery business for 16 years and plans to do the interior decorating for her new home. "I have a lot of plans for landscaping when I have time," she said, "And I plan to write a book about building my house."

Mrs. Norris, who has earned 14 hours toward her master's degree, says more women should enter agriculture education. "It's a wide-open field and there are lots of job opportunities," she said. "For instance, I am qualified to be a farm extension agent or to teach vocational agriculture."

"I love teaching at MSU but I feel bad about the circumstances under which I got the opportunity," she added.

When the house is completed, Mrs. Norris hopes to find full-time employment near her home.

last May in his ward

Two ~~_____~~ seats were open and Armstrong competed with three of his elders, all Democrats. His opponents ranged in age from 28 to 57. Armstrong received 76 votes for a strong second place finish.

(Campaigning was not very fierce. Armstrong distributed cards to all the houses in his ward but did not bother to place workers at the polls. "Everyone had made up his mind by that point," he said.

( "Nobody contributed anything to my campaign," Armstrong said. He purchased the small cards with his own money. ~~_____~~

( "I'd been thinking about running for sometime," said Armstrong, who actually was elected in May since there was no opposition in the November election. He mentioned the idea to his high school speech class last spring and received encouragement from his teacher and classmates.

( "It was obvious how some of the councilmen---not all of them--- were not ~~_____~~ listening to the people," he said. "And the conduct of some at the meetings was appalling."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A Morehead State University coed is highly successful in the business of smoking tires and roaring engines.

Alexis Baston, Goshen, Ohio, junior, has won two trophies in two tries as a drag racer.

Driving a 1968-model sedan, Miss Baston won her first trophy at Bluegrass Drag Strip in Lexington. She also won a trophy at Clay City with her sports car which she re-built herself.

"I always liked cars but never had one until about two years ago," she said. "My boy friend got me interested in drag racing."

"I picked up several tips watching guys work on cars and gradually learned a lot about cars," she said.

Miss Baston says no one else in her family likes racing. "My mother worries about me but my parents have never said no," she said.

She thinks she has an advantage when racing against men. "They kind of look at me like they think they already have me beat," she said.

Her sports car is "like a collector's item and in mint condition." The fire-mist red car has "a convertible hard top, a 327 small block, a 411 rear end and a pure stock engine." Obviously she is well versed in drag-strip jargon.

How does she feel behind the wheel of a drag racer? "Something comes over me like a trance. All I can see is the Christmas tree (starting lights) and the end of the track."

"I love straightaways but I restrict my fast driving to the strip," she said.

She is planning to race as often as possible at raceways in Kentucky and Ohio. She hopes to run well enough to get a sponsor.

"I would like to race a gasser, which is a modified rail," she said. A rail is a long, skinny-framed racer with smaller wheels in front and large slicks on the back, she explained. It is a stripped-down one-seater.

A physical education major and former member of MSU's women's basketball team; she competed in the 1972 Miss MSU Pageant. Also a horse fancier, she has a quarter horse, a mare, two geldings and a thoroughbred.

"If I'm not successful racing cars, I can always return to showing horses," she said.

Special to The Morehead News

Morehead State's basketball Eagles dropped to a second-place tie in the Ohio Valley Conference Monday night on a 94-83 loss to Austin Peay.

James (Fly) Williams of Austin Peay scored 28 points to lead the Governors to sole possession of first place in the OVC.

MSU took an early lead but Austin Peay went ahead at 14-13 with 13:11 remaining in the first half and never trailed again.

Leonard Coulter, hampered by foul trouble, scored 28 points for MSU. Also in double figures were Eugene Lyons, 15; Lowell Ashby, 12; Arch Johnson, 11; and Howard Wallen, 10.

The loss dropped MSU's record to 6-3 in the OVC and 11-8 overall.

MSU had retained a share of the OVC lead by defeating Murray State 94-86 on Saturday. A pressure defense and hot shooting by Coulter, Johnson and Ashby sparked the winning effort.

Coulter hit 14 of 19 field goal attempts scored 30 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Johnson added 22 points. In a reserve role, Ashby connected on six of eight shots on 12 points.

George Williams, a reserve center, blocked six shots and had 11 rebounds.

The Eagles play at Western Kentucky Saturday at noon in a regionally televised game. It will be carried locally on Channel 27. They travel to Middle Tennessee Monday night.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- If you're not familiar with "Fandom," "fanzine" or the "CCA," you're probably not a comic book collector.

Dr. Jerry Howell, director of environmental studies at Morehead State University, is a member of Fandom, a group of more than 20,000 persons who take comic books seriously.

"I became interested in collecting comics as a hobby about five years ago," Dr. Howell said. "I thought I would like it and now I have about 4,000 comics plus other material on comic characters, including movie-related items." All of his comics are card-catalogued for easy reference as to where purchased, date and price.

The most expensive comic is Action No. 1, 1938, with the introduction of "Superman." It originally sold for 10¢ and now is worth $1,800. There are nine copies in existence.

Dr. Howell says prices of old comics are misleading because only those which sell at high prices make the news. "Every old comic certainly is not worth $1,800," he said.

Dr. Howell specializes in "Pogo" comics and has almost every issue. His wife, Lois, gave him the No. 1 "Pogo" book as a birthday present.

His other favorites are "Bugs Bunny" and "Mickey Mouse" and the superhero characters, "Superman," "Batman" and "Wonder Woman."

"Changes have taken place in comics over the years," Dr. Howell said. "The first comics were all adventure or comedy. But in the past five years moral implications have been evident."

Current comics are not as violent as the early ones, he reported. "During the 1950's, comics were extremely violent and gruesome, the ecologist added.

Following an outcry of concern by Dr. Frederick Wertham, a psychiatrist, a congressional subcommittee was formed to study the matter. They asked the comic industry to regulate itself. As a result, the Comics Code Authority was established in 1954. Each comic since that time must bear the seal of approval of the CCA.

In addition to subscribing to "fanzines," which carry articles and advertising about comics and "The Buyer's Guide," Dr. Howell is a frequent visitor to bookstores, junk stores, garage sales, and "flea markets" in pursuit of old comics. He also attends conventions of collectors held round the country where a great deal of trading goes on.

His hobby has led to the development of a one-hour course, "The Comic Book in America as Literature," which he will teach during May in MSU's three-week Intersession.

Persons trying to contact Dr. Howell should call his home any Saturday about 9:30 a.m. That's when he watches old Flash Gordon serials on television.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The world's longest continuous telephone conversation has ended.

Morehead State University President Adron Doran told his wife, Mignon, "I love you, too" at 4:07 p.m. on Wednesday to end a 724-hour conversation between Sigma Nu fraternity and Kappa Delta sorority.

The Dorans started the marathon call at 12:07 p.m. on Jan. 21.

The "Greek connection" broke the former world record of 691 hours and six minutes set in 1969 at Western Michigan University.

Sixty-six students talked in one-hour shifts around the clock in the hook-up between Cartmell Hall, a men's residence hall, and Nunn Hall, a women's residence hall.

Proceeds collected from the "Phon-a-thon" will go to the Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund in Cincinnati which supplies toys and other items to children's wards in hospitals in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana.

(Special to Mr. Bill Powell, The Courier-Journal, Paducah)

The Center for Telecommunications at Morehead State University is involved in two types of television programming on the campus and community cable systems.

The major outlet is Channel 2, a common channel on both systems which originates from the University. The community system has more than 2,500 subscribers and the campus hookup has about 275 connections in faculty and student housing and classrooms.

Informational programming on Channel 2 consists of a 24-hour presentation of announcement cards which are displayed on a revolving wheel. Announcements are limited to campus events sponsored by a University group for the general public. Notes on meetings of campus groups are included when space is available.

The audio portion of Channel 2 is WMKY, a 50,000-watt FM radio station licensed by the University. Operating at 90.3 on the dial, the station programs from 6 a.m. to midnight each day. (Locally-produced programs are indicated on the attached schedule.)

Two regularly-produced series of television videotapes are played on Channel 2. Each home football and basketball game is videotaped and replayed the same night.

The tapes also are made available to all cable systems which have video tape recorder capability and are within 12 hours delivery. Five systems currently replay the games. The games are announced by university students and direction and engineering is done by staff professionals.

The other series which is regularly scheduled on Channel 2 is "Morehead State University Presents....." A variety of material is presented each Thursday at 8 p.m. Half of the programs are news conferences with guests from the University and region who are questioned by communications students enrolled in a special internship class. Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State University, appears periodically as a means of communicating directly with the student body. Cameramen, floor managers, audio engineers and other technicians are students enrolled for internship credit. The series incorporates special programs from the music and art departments.

The second level of cable utilization at MSU is confined to the campus system and utilizes channels 4, 5 and 6. Playback of Kentucky Educational Television programs, closed circuit programs and programs taken from commercial stations are viewed in classes.

As the academic program grows, regular programs will be produced and presented on the campus and community cable systems.

Center for Telecommunications 3-3-3-3

Programming now averages about two hours per week from the main studios which have black-and-white commercial equipment. Present programming is available to the campus and community on Channel 2. Announcements and WMKY audio are provided at all other times.

GENERAL TELEPHONE

GENERAL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF KENTUCKY
P.O. BOX 1650, 2001 HARRODSBURG ROAD, LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY 40507
A part of General Telephone & Electronics

Release Date:

Thursday, February 14, 1974

FROM: HUGH I. STROTH, JR.
Public Information Manager
2001 Harrodsburg Road, Lexington
Phone 277-6115

SUMMARY: College students in Kentucky are talking around the clock in effort to set new record for world's longest telephone call; GTE subsidiary's phones are being used in unusual 30-day-long conversation.

MOREHEAD, Kentucky--If 66 students at Morehead State University don't wear out their vocal cords in the next week, they'll talk themselves into setting a new record for the "world's longest telephone call".

The 31 members of the Sigma Nu Fraternity are taking turns talking around the clock with the 35 coeds at the Kappa Delta Sorority in an effort to make a phone call that will continue without a break for 720 hours until February 20. The stunt has a serious side, too: It's being used to raise funds for a charitable organization.

The "Greek Connection" was set up at 12:07 p.m. on Monday, January 21, when Dr. Adron Doran, MSU's president, officially dialed the sorority's number from Sigma Nu quarters. The call was answered by the university's First Lady, Mrs. Doran, who along with President Doran, made the first contribution to the drive. Both are honorary members of the two groups.

M O R E

Assistance also came from General Telephone Company of Kentucky which provides communications services to the university. The company, a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation, asked its maintenance technicians to make sure the students' connection remains clear and unbroken as long as the call lasts.

Charity To Benefit From Call

MSU students are out to break the record set at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo where students in a men's dormitory called a women's dorm on October 23, 1969, and didn't break the connection until November 21. That call, which ran 691 hours and six minutes, is currently listed in record books as the world's longest.

Unlike their parents, who crammed phone booths and swallowed goldfish merely to set strange new records, the MSU undergraduates are trying to collect money for a useful purpose as well. As a result, they're asking interested spectators and the community to contribute to the Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund, which provides toys and other items to children's wards in hospitals in parts of Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana.

According to Steve George, a Junior from West Jefferson, Ohio, the idea for the non-stop call was born one blustery winter night when the Sigma Nu brothers were trying to come up with an entertaining yet worthwhile project for the group. The plan was enthusiastically picked up by the Kappa Delta members and endorsed by university officials. General Telephone of Kentucky reassured participants that the ultra-long connection would not harm telephone equipment at the school.

Participants Talk Enthusiastically

Janet Collins, a Junior from Xenia, Ohio, said support for the "Phon-A-Thon" has grown to the point where talkers are extending their assigned one-hour shifts to periods as long as six hours.

With this kind of enthusiasm, a new world's record is bound to be set at Morehead, participants agree. The only thing they have to fear is laryngitis.

Morehead State University has a champion giver of the "gift of life."

John Collis, director of MSU's University Store, has donated seven gallons and one pint of blood to the American Red Cross on Bloodmobile visits to Rowan County.

"I believe we should be prepared for emergencies rather than reacting to them," he said.

Collis is the most active participant in the blood program in this area but says he is not trying to set any records. He started giving blood locally in 1951 and has contributed 57 pints.

"The only reason a person should contribute blood is to give a part of themselves that can't be given in any other way," he said.

"If you wanted to give your best friend something, this would be the most desirable thing you could do."

Collis is also involved in other community activities. He headed the 1973-74 United Fund Drive, is chairman of the Methodist Church Administrative Board and is active in scouting.

Blood may be donated to the Red Cross up to five times a year with at least 56 days between sessions.

Selected to teach English at Briam Institute in Madrid, Spain, were Spanish majors Vincent Alonzo of Westwood, N.J., Carmen Turull of Germantown, Ohio, and Marian Terry of Cincinnati.

"Maestro" is the Spanish word for teacher on the high school level. Through contacts made by Dr. Olga Mourino, their Spanish professor at MSU, the three May graduates will spend a year in Spain.

"We will be teaching students ranging in age from 14 to middle age," said Miss Turull. "Most of the younger students will be asking questions in Spanish and that requires that we know how to speak the language."

Miss Turull and Miss Terry spent last summer in Spain and each was in Madrid more than a month.

Miss Terry attended a branch of Schiller College and studied Spanish literature. "I'm looking forward to renewing freindships I made last summer," she said.

Miss Turull studied a month at the University of Madrid and spent two weeks touring Spain. She was selected for the trip by the MSU Spanish Club which paid about 70 per cent of her expenses.

"I feel we will be learning more than the students," Miss Turull said. "We will be living with Spanish families which should enrich our cultural experience."

Alonzo, who has not visited Spain, called the job "a fantastic opportunity." Like the two coeds, he studied Spanish three years in high school and obtained a major in the language at MSU.

One other MSU graduate, Georgia Lewis, of Big Laurel, Ky., spent the 1972-73 school year teaching in Spain and said she thoroughly enjoyed it.

"We are all grateful for Dr. Mourino's efforts," Miss Turull said. "We will spend the next few months brushing up on our Spanish and English grammar. We can hardly wait to go."

The class, which meets Mondays from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., includes 13 supervisory personnel and engineers, the wife of a quality control engineer and one MSU student. Seven students are taking the course for three hours of graduate credit and eight others are enrolled for undergraduate credit.

"The aim of the class is to improve the reading efficiency, comprehension, critical reading skills and skimming and scanning abilities," said Dr. Hampton.

"This is the first course offered in a regional manufacturing plant and is in keeping with MSU's regional university concept," he added.

Mrs. Roth, who is taking the course "to improve my reading skills," said, "Maybe I can get caught up on what I miss by staying at home."

Jim Stephens, the personnel supervisor, said the course helps him save time. "I have learned to sort material as to what I want to comprehend. I have applied it to my work with memos, records and literature."

Stephens said he hopes the in-plant instruction will be expanded. The company is refunding the tuition paid by its employees.

"I can retain more of what I've read since beginning the course," said Irvin Hepner, a manufacturing engineer who has been out of high school for 20 years. He now is an MSU freshman.

His remarks were part of an initiation banquet of Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education, at Morehead State University.

"The climate for education is excellent," he said. "Education is not a partisan political issue." He said the recently-adjourned legislature had a most favorable attitude toward education at all levels.

The General Assembly funded the state teachers' retirement system permitting teachers with 30 years service to retire at age 55. It also provided for an increase for teachers who are already retired, he stated.

Dr. Ginger also praised legislation creating 1,100 additional special education classes and allotting $20 million for construction of vocational schools. He mentioned that public school teachers will receive raises of seven and nine per cent within the next two years.

"Be professional," Dr. Ginger advised the students, "but be patient. We must be concerned with curriculum and innovations but also remember that teaching deals with the whole being."

MOREHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY AGRICULTURE PROGRAM

Morehead State University's agriculture program is being developed as an educational aid for students interested in agriculture careers and for the farmers of Eastern Kentucky.

The livestock program is a major part of the farm operation. It consists of two herds of registered beef cattle, a swine facility with 60 sows producing feeder pigs, a poultry operation with 20,000 caged layers and a newly-implemented horse program.

Each operation is staffed partially with student labor and all operations are used extensively as teaching aids. This offers students an opportunity to get firsthand knowledge and experience with the various species of livestock.

The agronomy area is closely associated with the animal science area so that ample forages and pasture can be produced to supply year-round roughage for the beef and horse enterprises.

Extensive records are maintained on individual operations to allow accurate evaluations.

An effort is made throughout the year to involve as many students as possible in all phases of livestock production. In addition, the farm facilities are always open to the public.

The Morehead State University Farm is located five miles northeast of Morehead, on Kentucky 377. All visitors are welcome. For more information, contact:

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- B. F. Reed of Drift, Floyd County, and Cloyd McDowell of Harlan have started new, four-year terms on the Morehead State University Board of Regents.

Both were reappointed by Gov. Wendell Ford. The oath-taking ceremony was conducted as part of the board's regular meeting which was highlighted by the allocation of $17,866,400 for the university's 1974-75 operating budget.

The figure represents an increase of $741,976 over the 1973-74 budget of $17,040,236. MSU President Adron Doran said the new allocation provides 5.5 per cent salary increases for all personnel and 4.5 per cent boost in operating expenses.

In other action, the board reelected its chairman and three other officers. Dr. W. H. Cartmell of Maysville is chairman and Lloyd Cassity of Ashland is vice chairman. Russell McClure, MSU's vice president for fiscal affairs, is treasurer, and Mrs. Carol Johnson, secretary to the president also is the board secretary.

Honorary doctoral degrees were authorized for Western Kentucky University President Dero Downing and Terry Herndon, executive secretary of the National Education Association. The degrees will be conferred during spring commencement on May 12. President Downing will be the principal speaker.

The Regents approved a proposal to permit MSU's fraternities to incorporate and acquire private housing facilities.

The board appointed Dr. Bill B. Pierce as dean of institutional services, effective July 1. He will be responsible for administering the offices of admissions, registrar, placement, alumni affairs and school relations.

Other Regents attending were William Justice of Pikeville, Sam Kibbey of Ashland, Crayton Queen of Mt. Sterling, Jerry Howell of Jackson, Dr. M. E. Pryor, faculty representative, and Dennie Warford, student body representative.

MOREHEAD, Ky. ---The impeachment process against President Nixon should continue. CBS newsman Daniel Schorr said recently at Morehead State University.

Schorr who received an Emmy Award for his coverage of Watergate and whose name appeared on the White House's media "enemy list" addressed more than 1,000 persons at a communications conference.

"Our country will survive Watergate and be cleansed by it." he said. "For the next 15 to 20 years elected officials will remember how the law catches up."

Schorr said that he is not embittered by being investigated by the FBI or being on the White House list. He said he is proud of news media's role as a "surrogate prosecutor" in Watergate.

He said now that Watergate is in the hands of the courts the press should show restraint in future developments.

Schorr participated in an afternoon discussion session with Bos Johnson, news director of WSAZ-TV in Huntington, W.Va., and Don Mills, editor of The Lexington Herald.

The day-long conference was sponsored by MSU's Division of Communications and the Concert and Lecture Series.

MOREHEAD STUDENTS IN STATE GOVERNMENT

FRANKFORT, Ky. -- While most ~~are~~ <sup>(Morehead State University)</sup> students are laboring over tests and term papers on campus, two are receiving first-hand experience in a unique learning situation in Frankfort.

Alice M. Lambert and Charles R. Sizemore are two of 15 students selected from colleges and universities in Kentucky to participate in the Administrative Intern Program.

Prospective interns must go through an application and interview process on their campuses and in Frankfort before the final 15 students are selected.

The interns are then placed in various state agencies and given major administrative responsibilities enabling them to gain on-the-job training and experience in governmental administration on the state level. In addition, interns are paid $324 a month to help meet expenses while they are living in Frankfort.

Alice Lambert is a senior sociology major from Florence, and is an intern in the Division for Residential Services in the Department for Human Resources.

PAGE TWO

Miss Lambert said that her job is mainly that of research for the division. "I visit all residential facilities in Kentucky and review programs and services they have to offer." Miss Lambert stated. "This information and other written material will be compiled and bound in book form explaining the residential facilities and treatment programs, and sent to colleges and universities to be used in their social work departments and libraries. I am also available to any college or university to give presentations on the Division for Residential Services."

Alice is a member of Cardinal Key, the Morehead Players, the Honors Program, and is president of Pi Gamma Mu, National Honor Fraternity for Social Sciences.

Charles R. Sizemore is a junior political science major from Louisville, and is an intern in the Department of Public Information.

Charles said that his job is very similar to that of a newspaper reporter. "I generally write stories concerning the governor and the activities of Kentucky state government." Charles stated. "While the legislature was in session I acted as press agent for about 40 legislators and had a weekly column called the 'Legislative Overview' encompassing the summaries of the most important bills being considered during a weeks time. My column was sent to every newspaper in Kentucky while most of the stories on legislators were sent to their hometown newspapers."

PAGE THREE

Sizemore became interested in the internship program at the advice of Dr. Jack Bizzel, the head of the Political Science Department, and campus coordinator for the internship program at MSU.

"It's allowing me to get experience and knowledge about governmental administration that I could never get in a classroom." Charles said, adding, "I would recommend the administrative intership program to anyone who may be looking toward government administration as a future."

Charles is active in the Baptist Student Union and the Trailblazer, and is a member of the Advanced ROTC program and the Political Science Club.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two Morehead State University science professors are the authors of a recently-published physical science textbook.

Dr. Charles A. Payne, dean of MSU's School of Sciences and Mathematics, and Dr. W. R. Falls, head of the Department of Science Education, wrote "Modern Physical Science," which was published this month by William C. Brown Co. of Dubuque, Iowa.

This 542-page work is designed for use as an introductory college-level course in physical science. It will be used this summer at MSU. Several other colleges have shown an interest in the work, according to Dr. Falls.

The new text is the second book that each of the professors has co-authored. Dr. Payne is the co-author of "How to Do an Organic Synthesis" and Dr. Falls was among four authors of a laboratory manual for college physical science.

William C. Brown Co. is the world's largest publisher of laboratory manuals and the new text is one of the company's first hard-cover science books.

Mrs. Mabel Barber, assistant professor of psychology at MSU, works as a Veterans Administration counselor through a contract between the VA and MSU. Her office is in Ginger Hall.

"Most of the people I counsel have been referred to me by the VA," Mrs. Barber said. "After the VA sends me a person's records, I contact them for a counseling appointment."

"They are given a series of tests regarding mental ability, personality, aptitudes and interests," she said. "We discuss job opportunities and schools they are considering."

Those interviewed do not have to be interested in attending MSU in order to be counseled by Mrs. Barber.

After the initial counseling session, she writes a narrative report to the VA and describes the person's personality, ability to communicate, appearance, family background and job outlook. If further counseling is necessary, she arranges additional appointments.

VA Counseling 2-2-2-2

Kentucky pays up to 36 months of tuition for dependents of totally disabled veterans and war orphans and widows. The VA provides a travel allowance for persons whom Mrs. Barber counsels.

Mrs. Barber advises veterans in the Central and Eastern Kentucky regions but is willing to counsel anyone who needs advise concerning the VA.

"There are 370 veterans receiving the GI Bill at MSU and about 10 per cent have been counseled," said Bob Smoot, MSU's assistant in veterans affairs. A Hillsboro graduate student and Vietnam veteran, Smoot first learned about VA benefits through Mrs. Barber.

"We want more veterans to be aware of the services Mrs. Barber can provide," Smoot said.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Kentucky poet laureate Jesse Stuart and novelist Hollis Summers are among the literary figures teaching at Morehead State University next month in the MSU Writers Workshop.

Stuart, who holds an honorary doctoral degree from MSU, is Kentucky's best known living author and has written more than 40 books.

Summers, a professor of creative writing at Ohio University, also is recognized as a poet.

The workshop starts May 20 and ends June 7. It is being offered during MSU's three-week Intersession and will consist of two courses, creative writing and non-fiction prose.

Other workshop guest instructors include Joe Creason, columnist for the Louisville Courier-Journal; Tom McAfee of the University of Missouri, John Sterling Harris of Brigham Young University and Dr. Herman A. Estrin of the Newark College of Engineering.

Also featured will be Richard Welna, executive editor for Scott, Foresman and Co.; Dr. F. Douglas Scutchfield, field professor of community medicine at the University of Kentucky and editor of "Appalachia Medicine"; Dennis Karwatka, MSU assistant professor of industrial education; and Jackson Lewis, MSU assistant professor of art.

Dr. Marc Glasser will supervise the creative writing segment and Dr. Donald Cunningham is in charge of non-fiction prose. Both are MSU English professors.

The workshop carries three semester hours of undergraduate or graduate credit.

Creative writing classes are for both experienced and inexperienced writers. Class members will be encouraged to submit manuscripts for critique by the visiting professionals.

The course in non-fiction prose is designed to increase the clarity of technical, scientific and business writing. The class also will stress fundamental techniques of reporting.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---The historical curiosity of a Morehead State University professor recently helped Yale University recover some valuable library holdings and send two thieves to prison..

While Dr. Stuart Sprague, MSU associate professor of history was a graduate student at Yale University several years ago, he liked Yale's collection of atlases so much that he photographed it.

"I received special permission from Dr. Alexander O. Vietor, curator of maps at Yale, to take the books in the library courtyard and make color slides," Dr. Sprague said.

Because of the age and value of the books, no identifying marks were placed on them by the university. When the atlases disappeared from the library, the university was unable to prove the ownership of the works since there were no identifying marks on them.

Dr. Sprague read in an alumni publication about the university's problem and came to the rescue with his slide collection.

His slides matched the atlases in question and the valuable works were returned to Yale's Sterling Library.

"Dr. Sprague's slides helped us in the identification of atlases because we did not have any such photos," Dr. Vietor said. "Normally the atlases are only described on catalogue cards."

"It is clear to me that the only way to properly catalogue rare map and other material is to take photographs of each item," said Dr. Vietor. "This is particularly true when other examples exist and one has to prove ownership."

"A photograph will reveal flaws in the paper, text or map outline that are individual to that specific item almost like a fingerprint," he added. "It is an expensive way, however, of recording ownership but if there is a theft, it is invaluable."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---More than 100 Morehead State University students are exploring careers this semester.

Frank Sandage, instructional coordinator of MSU's TRIO program, is teaching four sections of a two-hour class entitled "Career Planning." Students who are undecided about their academic majors study different occupations and are aided in making a career choice.

"Each student is encouraged to explore his self-concept and his objectively-measured traits and factors in the job," Sandage said. The students are given the Kuder Vocational Preference Test and the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey to help them identify career choices.

The students view films and listen to tapes about different occupations. They study information regarding salaries, educational requirements, work situations and the lifestyles of workers in various jobs.

During spring break and Easter vacation, the students visited persons who were working in various areas of interest. They spent from four hours to three days working and talking with on-the-job professionals.

"Ten to 15 persons located summer jobs as a result of this field experience," Sandage said. "It gave them a choice of whether or not they wish to enter certain professions."

Paige Lipton, Pikeville junior at MSU, worked several hours helping a Pike County lawyer gather facts concerning a case. Lawrence Montgomery, Lexington junior, also visited a lawyer and spent two days observing Fayette County Judge Robert Stephens.

Montgomery summed up the feelings of many of the students: "We aren't so interested in making a lot of money but in being happy. We just want to help people."

The students agreed the course has been beneficial and has helped them make future plans.

"Not only have we learned a lot about different occupations," said Liz Everman, Greenup freshman, "but we also have had a lot of fun."

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The Appalachian Adult Education Center at Morehead State University has received a federal grant of $195,725 for continuation of research projects.

The grant from the U.S. Office of Education will be used by AAEC to complete the second half of a two-year study comparing methods of helping adults prepare for the GED, the qualifying rest for the high school equivalency diploma.

AAEC is conducting the study through adult education projects in Ashland and Owensboro, and Montgomery, Floyd and Rowan counties and Piketon, Ohio.

The project deals with comparing various methods of instruction including learning at home, in an adult learning center, in a traditional classroom and with a GED preparatory series produced by Kentucky Educational Television.

The funds finance continuation of four AAEC community education projects which demonstrate interagency cooperation among community resources to provide education and recreation to all age groups.

AAEC was founded at MSU in 1967.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---More than 1,900 persons are expected to visit Morehead State University the week of July 8 for the annual Orientation and Pre-Registration Conference for new freshmen.

Bill Bradford, MSU's director of admissions, said the purpose of the visits on July 8, 10 and 12 is to familiarize parents and students with the campus and the University's academic offerings.

In addition to campus tours and other programs, the new students will receive individual assistance in preparing class schedules and registering for the fall semester.

MSU President Adron Doran is welcoming each group and panel discussions of campus life will involve current students and faculty and staff members.

"Besides preparing incoming freshmen for the fall, the conference also is designed to build a bridge to the family of each new student by allowing parents to closely examine the academic programs, the personnel and the campus of Morehead State University," Bradford added.

All newly-admitted freshmen and their parents have been invited.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- A week-long exercise in democracy for more than 300 Kentucky high school coeds ended last weekend at Morehead State University with Claudia Wellman of Ashland, officially taking office as governor. She succeeded Cindy Sang, also of Ashland, the 1973 Girls State governor.

The delegates participated in all levels of government of a mythical 51st state.

Miss Wellman, a 17-year-old senior at Ashland Paul Blazer High School, was elected governor on a platform of more facilities for the handicapped in Kentucky's state parks, increased financial support of women's athletics in high school and college and prevention of petroleum spills. She also favored more highway rest stops and creation of bicycle routes along highways.

Jeane Hanley of (5311 Lost Trail) Louisville and Valerie Parr of (3225 Tates Creek Rd.) Lexington, were named Kentucky delegates to the 1974 Girls Nation next month at American University in Washington, D.C.

Girls State moved to Frankfort on Friday where officials operated their government and met their counterparts in state government.

Governor Wendell Ford greeted a joint session of Girls State and announced that the 1974 Girls State governor would be made an advisory member of Kentucky's first Land-Use Planning Council.

Four legislative proposals were enacted. They involved use of returnable soft drink bottles only, teacher retirement after 30 years of service regardless of age and establishment of bicycle trails along Kentucky highways.

In earlier action, Girls State delegates overrode a veto of a bill proposing biannual issuance of vehicle license plates.

Dr. Paul Ford Davis, MSU's vice president for academic affairs, and Sherman Arnett, MSU's assistant director of financial aid, provided assistance to Girls State in the organization of the House and Senate and in the methods of parliamentary government. Both are former state legislators.

Others elected to statewide offices were Gaye Upton of Fulton, lieutenant governor; Evelyn Abell of (3765 Taylorsville Rd.) Louisville, secretary of state; Kris Wyse of Ashland, superintendent of public instruction; Priscilla Hester of Paducah, attorney general; Pamela Irwin of (1591 Van Buren Dr.) Lexington, clerk of the court of appeals; Marsha Johnson of Ashland, treasurer; Dianne Butts of Bowling Green, auditor; and Karen Conley of Catlettsburg, secretary of agriculture.

Appointed as cabinet members were Beverly Grall of Harrödsburg, cabinet secretary; Vicki Simons of Ashland, secretary for human resources; Yvonne Edmonds of Bowling Green, secretary for education and the arts; Kathy Hume of Franklin, secretary for natural resources and environmental protection; Peggy Comet of Ashland, secretary for consumer protection; Nan Milliken of Bowling Green, secretary of transportation; Romana Pigmon of Louisa, secretary of development; Debra Ralston of Bowling Green, secretary of justice; and Leann Pearson of Bowling Green, adjutant general.

This was the fourth consecutive year for Kentucky Girls State to convene at MSU. The program is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary of Kentucky.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Mrs. Adron Doran, wife of the president of Morehead State University, was presented Thursday night with the 1974 Citation Award of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security (IAPES).

More than 1,400 persons witnessed the presentation during the group's annual convention in Albuquerque, N. M.

Mrs. Doran was cited for her work in the rehabilitation of prison inmates and for founding and directing the Personal Development Institute on the MSU campus.

She joins former President John F. Kennedy and U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills as recipients of the top award of IAPES, a professional manpower organization with more than 30,000 members in 101 countries.

Cecil L. Malone of Little Rock, Ark., IAPES president, described the award to Mrs. Doran as "an expression of appreciation for a lifetime of dedicated service to people from all walks of life."

Citation Award Committee Chairman Roy Murgage of Medina, Ohio, characterized Mrs. Doran as "a charming and gracious First Lady who unselfishly and constantly shares her talents and energy to improve the quality of life."

Mrs. Doran, a former president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, was nominated for the international recognition by the Kentucky IAPES chapter.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The seventh annual Morehead State University Golf Tournament will be played July 5, 6, and 7 at the MSU Course with about 100 entries expected.

The tournament format consists of a championship flight of unlimited size, the first flight of 16 players and additional flights of eight persons each.

The championship flight will consist of medal play with all other flights using match play.

Each player is guaranteed 54 holes of golf. The first 18 must be played on or before July 4 and used as a practice round. By using consolation flights for losers from the first day of competition, players are assured of 36 holes of tournament golf.

Lower flights will be determined on attested handicaps or qualifying scores from the practice round.

A hole-in-one contest sponsored by three Morehead businesses offers a 1974-model automobile as the top prize. Another tournament feature is a free barbecue to be held Saturday night, July 6.

The field for the championship flight shapes up as one of the strongest in the history of the tournament. Returning to defend his title of last year is Jim Saunders of Salem, Ind., who shot a two-over-par 212 to take top honors. Also returning this year will be the 1972 champion and 1973 runner-up, Max Adani of Fraser, Mich. Adani, a former MSU golfer, lost to Saunders by three shots last year.

Five other players to watch this year are returning members of the University golf team, namely Ed Mudd, John Baas and Mike Maynard all of Louisville, Wesley Martin of Winchester and Ross Smith of Maysville.

The tournament entry fee is $17.50 and it must be in by noon on July 3. Additional information is available from Ed Bignon, club professional, Morehead State University Golf Course, Box 253, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

The project is designed to provide inter-library loan services for all public libraries in Kentucky. It will make materials available to all citizens of the state who would otherwise be unable to obtain them.

MSU's Johnson Camden Library will serve as the major resource center for libraries in 28 Eastern Kentucky counties and also will assist in obtaining materials from other parts of the state.

Counties to be served by MSU are Bath, Breathitt, Bourbon, Boyd, Carter, Clark, Elliott, Estill, Fleming, Floyd, Greenup, Harrison, Johnson, Lawrence, Lee, Lewis, Magoffin, Martin, Mason, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Nicholas, Owsley, Pike, Powell, Rowan and Wolfe.

KENCLIP is an extension of a program under which MSU and other state universities have shared information materials for the past three years.

The project is funded by the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives.

MSU is receiving a grant of $10,072 for its participation.

(Special to The Morehead News)

Mrs. Adron Doran, wife of the president of Morehead State University, was presented last Thursday night with the 1974 Citation Award of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security (IAPES).

More than 1,600 persons witnessed the presentation during the group's annual convention in Albuquerque, N. Mex.

Mrs. Doran was cited for her career of public service and particularly for her work in the rehabilitation of prison inmates and for founding and directing the Personal Development Institute on the MSU campus.

She joins former President John F. Kennedy, U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills, former television star Dave Garroway and former U.S. Labor Secretary James Mitchell as recipients of the top award of IAPES, a professional manpower organization with more than 30,000 members in 101 countries.

Cecil L. Malone of Little Rock, Ark., IAPES president, described the award to Mrs. Doran as "an expression of appreciation for a lifetime of dedicated service to people from all walks of life."

Citation Award Committee Chairman Roy Mudge of Medina, Ohio, characterized Mrs. Doran as "a charming and gracious First Lady who unselfishly and constantly shares her talents and energy to improve the quality of life."

Mrs. Doran, a former president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, was nominated for the international recognition by the Kentucky IAPES chapter. She is only the third woman in history to win the international award.

A native of Graves County, Ky., Mrs. Doran was recognized in 1971 by the Kentucky Young Democrats as the "Outstanding Woman Kentuckian of the Year" and in 1972 by Cardinal Key National Honor Sorority as "Woman of the Year."

She is listed in the 1974-75 edition of Who's Who of American Women and Who's Who in Kentucky. An active member of the Church of Christ, Mrs. Doran also is a member of the Board of Trustees of Pikeville College.

MSU's Personal Development Institute, which she founded in 1969, received special mention during the award presentation. The free, non-credit program was described as "a unique and pioneering enterprise devoted to development of the total person for a richer, fuller life."
