MAKING GOOD 3,500 WORTH.

Hager says he made no promise to the "beer trust" when he accepted that $3,500 check from Charley Dehler as a campaign contribution four years ago. Of course, Mr. Hager considered it merely as a tender of expression of affection from the brewery interests. In his innocent teetotal soul he never suspected that there might be an ulterior motive back of the gift. He took it in the generous spirit in which it was offered, and in like generous spirit speedily thereafter assumed the pose of a temperance leader and proceeded to make war upon his liberal friends.

That is to say, publicly, and for the observation of the State, he played and is playing the role of an Anti-Saloon advocate. Privately, and to the confiscation of the "beer trust," he is trying to make good $3,500 worth. When the Governor appointed R. W. Bingham Mayor of Louisville with the express intent of enforcing the Sunday closing laws, and gave the local Democrats to understand that he wished Mayor Bingham's success in that capacity to be endorsed with the nomination, Mr. Hager began to get in his fine work on behalf of his financial backers.

Not content with juggling moral issues in the state for the sake of the temperance vote, he came to Louisville and did a few slight-of-hand stunts to win the liquor vote in the city. Employing the Machiavellian hand of Henry Hines, he put the knife in Mayor or Bingham, who has given effect to the sentiment of the State by putting on the lid, and opened the way for the nomination of Owen Tyler, who now appears in his true colors as the open friend of the men who indorsed the $3,500 check. Thus is Hager making good.

After all, what the average politician promises is of little moment. He must be judged by what he performs. Mr. Hager may have given Mr. Dehler and the interests he represents no formal pledge, but Mr. Hager is responsible for the fact that the Democracy in Louisville now stands committed to throwing the saloon doors open on Sunday in defiance of the widespread temperance sentiment of Kentucky.

It would be interesting to know what further contributions Mr. Hager has received or expects to as a result of delivering the goods.

It would also be interesting to know how much longer the temperance voters in the Democratic ranks will remain blind to the insincerity of the professions made by such a man. — Louisville Herald.

Senator McCreary is a true Democrat. None but a long suffering hero would give succor to a set of men who virtually skinned him out of the nomination for State Senator. Senator McCreary was the acknowledged choice of the better element in the Democratic party.

Gov. Beckham's veto of Senate Bill No. 20 will not add to his popularity. This bill provided for payment of jurors summoned to appear for service in the Circuit Courts, the payment to cover the time from their actual appearance in court until their discharge.

The bill was intended to remedy a hardship that has been long felt by men, especially in the rural districts, who are often caused to lose from two to three days of time at a busy season of the year in response to the demand of the State upon their services, and who, when not needed to complete the panel, are sent back to their homes without compensation.

Public confidence has been fully restored in Kentucky under Democratic administration. This is best evidenced by the showing of the records as to the amount of money being invested. In last year's corporations with total capital of $215,061,920.00 organized in Kentucky. — Bugle-Herald.

The confidence spoken of is easily accounted for. In the last few years the fact has been established that Kentucky is drifting with the tide of Republican prosperity and the inevitable has been foreseen by investors.

The people of Olive Hill must not let the opportunity slip to help elect Thos. D. Theobald to the Circuit Judgeship. A resident of the county and in every way identified with its welfare, a man who is not hampered by political promises, and thoroughly qualified for the position he seeks.

Democratic newspapers point with pride to the destruction of the war claim against the Government. It seems that after what has been shown up in connection with this affair conservative papers would not flout this argument.

The contributor signing himself "Republican" under an article published in the Bugle-Herald of last week had best subscribe for a newspaper and read up on the political situation.

Republicans must not forget the date of registration. Remember this is a necessity if you want to vote in November. Register at your voting place Tuesday, Oct. 1, 1907.

The quierist in the Bugle-Herald will no doubt be satisfied as to Mr. Hager's position on the liquor question after reading the article at the head of this column.

The Bailey Mill ballot box has mysteriously disappeared. Quite a coincidence on the heels of the charges made against certain individuals in that section.

Louisville will assert her independence on election day and show the whole Democratic bunch of political tricksters where to head in.

Don't forget to register.

EDITOR OLIVE HILL TIMES.

In your paper of recent date I noticed an editorial speaking of a friendly call of a Bro. Editor from Grayson and the spirit of the editorial impressed me very much.

I think just such a spirit should exist not only between the Editors of Olive Hill and Grayson, but between all of the people of the two places, because we are one people under the same flag working to the same end (or should be) to the betterment of our fellows and the elevation of society. I think the county is big enough for us all. Let every one work for its good and its development, invite capital and industries into our midst and at the same time let each one work for the special advancement of his own little city and not throw any stones at the progress of the other, and as Abraham said to Lot, "let there be no quarreling between me and thee or between my household and thy household, the land is big enough for us all."

Let us join our hands together and devise a plan to build a pike road from Olive Hill to Grayson, doing away with a spirit of selfishness and take up the spirit of public utility and public enterprise and bring our people in close touch with each other.

Hoping that each town may grow and expand until they fairly explode with prosperity, here's my hand shake now.

The equipment added to our already complete printery consists of another Gordon jobber, a round cornering and stabing machines, about fifty fonts of up-to-date job letter, with necessary cases racks, etc. In no town in East Kentucky can you now find a more complete printing plant than this.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas business seems to have called our beloved Dr. 7. Claude Wilson from our town, which has led him to offer his resignation as Sunday School Superintendent and Teacher, which also means the removal of himself, and beloved family from our midst, be it resolved:

FIRST, that it is with the deepest emotions of regret to accept his resignation as Sunday School Superintendent and Teacher, assuring him that if any persuasion could be brought to bear on him to influence him to remain we are sure his resignation and removal from our town would never take place. We feel that this is the greatest loss that ever came to Olive Hill Baptist Church.

SECOND, that we most heartily appreciate his untiring services for Christ in our town, Sunday School and church for the last four years, both in personal services always being present. With possibly the fewest exceptions of any Superintendent in the State, notwithstanding his business, often called him from our city. To our knowledge he has in some instances spent almost all of Saturday night on the train in order to reach his Sunday School on time Sunday morning. With his means, how extremely liberal he has been in giving them to advance the cause of Christ in our town.

THIRD, that we shall ever hold in the highest esteem his work among us, and the impressions made by him and his noble wife for good will ever live in the hearts of those they leave behind.

FOURTH, we are thankful to Almighty God for sending them to our town, and while we loath to give them up, we must bow our heads in humble submission to God's will and ask him to send us others of like spirits to take their place.

FIFTH, we most heartily commend Bro. Wilson and wife as Christians worthy of the highest love and esteem of all. We feel that our loss will be a great gain to any community that may be so fortunate as to have them in their midst.

SIXTH, that as they leave in their prayers go with them and may the blessings of our dear Almighty Father ever be upon them and we ask them to remember us in their prayers and whenever possible for them to be with us in our homes and at worship.

EIGHTH, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our church bulletin board and given to Bro. Wilson and family and one sent to our city paper the next day.

After the above resolutions were adopted Bro. Wilson spoke of how he regretted to leave our town, church and Sunday School, and that the best class of young men and women which he taught. Then a present was presented him by one of our young ladies in behalf of the school as an appreciation of his services and again he responded in a beautiful manner. Many tears were seen on the faces of both old and young.
