Pure "Apple Jack"

There is competition in the liquor business, and some of the illegal manufacturers who have their distilleries located in some dark hollow in secrecy are attempting to meet the competition.

This fact was borne out last week when Federal officers captured a still at the place of William Brown on Laurel Fork in Elliott county.

A run was in the "process" of being made. The still and all fixtures were of solid copper. But the most peculiar part about the operation was that the whiskey was to be made from dried apples, with no sugar added, known as apple pomace.

We dearest, that had the officers not interfered, Elliott county would have been the home of several gallons of whiskey that no distillery would have been able to equal.

Buy A Pie

A unique method, but by no means a new one, will be tried by the Morehead Baseball Club Thursday night. At the high school gymnasium Thursday evening the Morehead Baseball Club will give a pie supper to raise funds to continue the season.

Here's a good chance for you pie lovers to gather round for a good old-fashioned pie. The idea is one from Manager Dan Parker.

The Foundation

Morehead College has never had the football teams that its alumni and fans think it should have had. As a matter of fact other schools have been getting all the athletic material, and there is a reason why. The athletic department of the college has had only a minimum number of student workshops, which weren't enough to go around on the varsity, while the freshmen had no hopes unless he obtained it through

Far Scene To Be Shown At Cozy

It was out of the question to send a film company to Stamboul for scenes in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Stamboul Quest," which opens Thursday at the Cozy Theatre, so Stamboul was brought to Hollywood.

Through weeks of correspondence with the Turkish government and with the aid of technical advisors who had lived in Stamboul, miniature sections of the ancient city were constructed upon the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sound stages.

As a result of the painstaking labor of finding architectural authenticity in the production, the minarets and mosques and crumbling walls are visible through the windows of the interior settings in the picture.

Capture Four Copper Stills And Paraphernalia In This Section

Revenue officers working in Rowan and Elliott Counties last week confiscated four stills, several gallons of whiskey, mash and beer, arrested six persons, and had warrants for two others.

In Rowan County the officers arrested Jim Shelton of Christy Creek, confiscated a $55 gallon still and 3 barrels of mash. Officers at Shelton were preparing to raid the still in operation. He pleaded guilty when arraigned before Commissioner Lee Stewart and released on $500 bond.

Officers captured a copper still complete, and approximately 25 gallons of whiskey at the home of Epp Crisp in Rowan and had warrants for Epp and Virgil Crisp.

Near Newfoundland in Elliott county, the officers took a tank still and arrested Jim Rowe, Ed Hampton and Ronald Miller. They executed bond in the sum of $500 for trial on October 3.

William Brown and his brother were arrested and the officers captured a still and two barrels of apple pomace.

FISCAL COURT BUYS ROAD BED

All Weather Road Will Be Built From Morehead To Craney, Ky.

ROAD EXTENDS 10 MILES

By a unanimous vote the Rowan County Fiscal Court has voted to purchase a ten mile strip of abandoned roadbed of the Morehead and North Fork Railway Company, for the purpose of building an all weather road from here to the Morgan County line.

The court agreed to pay $4,000 for the ten miles, which is approximately sixty six feet wide. "None of the money was paid down, but the county agreed to pay $1,000 on July 1, 1935; $1,000 on July 1, 1936; $1,000 on July 1, 1937; and $1,000 on July 1, 1938. The notes bear interest of five percent, and in case the county pays any payment in interest bearing warrants, the interest shall be six percent."

The railroad reserves the right to lay track or build a narrow gauge road on any part of the right-of-way so long as it did not interfere with the county road.

The ten miles purchased extends from the tunnel on the south side of the road to the Morgan County line near Craney. The railroad bed will be used as a base for the highway construction.

The entire fiscal court and several sessions was over the route Saturday, before the purchase was consummated.

Tom Williams Is Held For Killing

Examining Trial Will Be Held Today; Flannery Dies In Hospital

Examining trial for Tom Williams, held for the murder of Bill Flannery last week, has been set for Thursday morning before County Judge C. E. Jennings.

Flannery was shot last Thursday at Rock Wall Hollow, two miles west of Morehead. The bullet, fired from a .45 calibre pistol, entered near the hip but ranged upward into a vital part of the body. Although Flannery lost considerable blood, his condition, at first, was not regarded as serious. He died Friday night.

Williams told officers he fired in self defense. Before Flannery's death a statement was taken from him by the County Attorney.

Flannery died in a Lexington hospital where he was taken when his condition became critical.

Williams was first placed under $500 bond, but following Flannery's death he gave up to officers and was placed in jail on the murder charge, where he has since been confined.

Surviving Flannery is his wife. The contents of the statement made by Flannery before his death were not made public, but will probably be introduced at the examining trial. Flannery died considerably before receiving medical aid and this may have been a contributory factor in his death.

This will be a two credit hour course and will count as residence credit. There will be one half day meeting per month at the college. The balance will be done through the supervision of the specialist in the home community of the student. The cost will be as for regular student center work.

This work will be in charge of Miss Robt. E. Harris, who has been named director of health education in both Florida and Michigan. She is a graduate of Florida State College for Women and of Columbia University. Officially she will be known as a part-time instructor in the college here.

Those interested in taking this work should communicate with Professor E. V. Harris, and should meet at the college at nine o'clock Saturday morning, September 29.

A warehouse and machine shop of ample size will be erected later at the rear of the new building.

Mr. Swift plans on moving his office to the new location, which is both more convenient to the buying public as well as out of the flood area, at the earliest possible moment.

581 ENROLLED AT MOREHEAD

Over a Third Larger Than Last Year In Entire Semester; More To Come

HIGH SCHOOL IS LARGER

The Morehead State Teachers College had recorded today the biggest single increase in fall semester enrollment in its history. With three weeks remaining to enroll the college had 144 more students than the total registrations were for the first semester of last year. Five hundred and eighty one students registered in college up to yesterday. There will probably be another hundred additional ones before the time limit expires, officials at the college estimate.

The enrollment in the Training School Department also showed a large increase. There are 325 registered in the Breckenridge Training School bringing the total enrollment of the institution to 906.

College officials were gratified at the enrollment increase. Previously they had predicted an increase, but not nearly as large as it was.

Classes started at the college Tuesday. Freshmen, numbers, half of the total, enrolled Saturday, instead of on the same day as upperclassmen. The college introduced its first freshman orientation program, featured by an address by Dr. J. H. Payne on Friday evening.

The personnel of the faculty at Morehead is little changed this year. Several faculty members have returned after having leaves of absence, while others are now on absence leave. This list includes Warren Lavin, Director of the Training School, who is taking courses at the University of Indiana towards his Doctor's Degree.

Morehead College has shown an increase in students every term since its beginning eleven years ago, the records show. Its largest increases have come in the last five years, during which Dr. Payne has been President.

ADVICE TO FRESHMEN

Your coming to college is a compliment to you and to your parents. Dr. John H. Payne, President of Morehead College told the freshmen in an address last week.

The meaning of those words are clear. But, have you stopped to consider just how much of a compliment it is to the student and to his father and mother when he enrolls in an institution of higher learning.

In nine cases out of ten, every student being in college represents saving on the part of the parents—stinting themselves so that their boy or girl might have the advantages which they did not enjoy.

It is a compliment to the student who goes to college, but the real praise, in most cases, should go to the parents. When that boy or girl stands on the roster of commencement and graduation the debt is perhaps repaid in the knowledge of achievement, not so much on the part of the graduate, but to the parents that have made the scroll on that diploma possible.

"Kneel at your beds and say your prayers on the first night spent in the college dormitory, just as you did on your last night spent at home," Dr. Payne said.

MEN AGAINST DROUGHT

Drought reports describe half the area of the United States as a "dry and thirsty land." They tell of cattle being shot to save them from suffering. They picture the once fertile fields as plains of dust. They record the shriveling of crops. They estimate 1,600,000 destitute as a result of rainless weeks.

But the testimony is not complete without credit to men's heroic endeavors to meet the crisis. These include the sinking of wells to find subterranean streams, the assignment of tank cars to rush water to districts where animals are suffering, of Government aid to 100,000 drought-stricken families, and of Government cooperation in water projects.

The widely organized campaigns against drought, as against other abnormalities of weather, are significant. They spring from men's need to conduct themselves as their brothers' keepers. They grow out of the recognition that men can do much for themselves when they bear one another's burdens, pool their resources of intelligence and activity, and plant their individual hope in the common good.

TAX-FREE BUSINESS ENTERPRISES

Municipal, state and government business projects which now enjoy tax exemption in their competition with private citizens and taxpayers in many lines of business, are being attacked by overburdened taxpayers who have to make up the tax revenue losses caused by such publicity subsidized political experiments.

The United States Supreme Court rendered an important decision in the State of Ohio vs. Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The court held that when a state goes into a private business its operations are subject to federal taxation.

"The immunity of the states from federal taxation is limited to those agencies which are of a governmental character. Whenever a state engages in a business of a private nature it exercises nongovernmental functions, and the business, though conducted by the state, is not immune from the exercise of the power of taxation which the constitution vests in the Congress.

If a state chooses to go into the business of buying and selling commodities, the exercise of the right is not the performance of a governmental function. When a state enters a marketplace seeking customers it divests itself of its quasi-sovereignty prerogatives, and takes the character of a trader, so far at least as the taxing power of the federal government is concerned."

Commenting on this decision, the Salem, Oregon, Capital Journal says it "has opened the way for counties to seek taxation of municipal power projects. Whatcom county, Washington, in which the city of Seattle has invested some $25,000,000 and plans to invest a total of $74,000,000 in its municipal plants on the Skagit river, is placing the power plant on its tax rolls and will try to collect taxes on the same. The effort will be watched with interest by other counties which have had their tax revenues impaired through driving out tax-paying utilities by invading tax-free municipal projects. Municipal projects are seldom content to confine activities to the municipalities, but like those of Seattle, Tacoma and Oregon, are planning and fighting for outside territory. Should the Washington court in the Whatcom case follow the rule of the United States Supreme Court and hold that when cities enter marketplaces seeking customers, they take on the character of traders and become subject to taxation, the decision will come as a jolt to the hydrophobes but as a godsend to the now overburdened taxpayers."

War Supplies Being Taken To Germany; Records Disclosed

Testimony that war supplies apparently are being piled up in Germany despite the Versailles treaty was given to a Senator. Munitions Committee that earlier had suppressed evidence it felt was even more explosive.

Jaded by disclosures, Senate investigators nevertheless straightened in their seats to hear also, that the du Pont company, in February, 1932, hired an "international spy" to sell powder in Germany and Holland.

The narrative of the great concern's dealings with Del Fungo Giera, said to have been a secret agent for 13 countries, included the heavy cancelling and destruction of the first contract made with him on February 1.

In anticipation, apparently, of modification of the treaty of Versailles, the du Pont Company failed to include any reference to arms prohibitions imposed upon Germany by the pact, and had given on the one-time associate of Captain Boyd and Franz von Papen a free hand.

SKYLIGHT IMPROVES TOBACCO

Proper light in the stripping room is an important factor in grading tobacco. Tobacco experts believe that skylights in the north slope of the roof of the stripping room provide better distributed light than do windows in side walls. Skylights never have been widely used because of the difficulty and expense of making them waterproof.

A system now has been perfected whereby the skylight glass is placed directly on the rafters with out using window sash. Metal strips and putty are used to keep out water. This type of skylight may be put on an old stripping room or included in plans for a new one. Plans may be obtained by writing to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

CORN HOG CONTRACTS OFF TO WASHINGTON

Corn Hog adjustment contracts from a large number of Kentucky counties have been completed, approved by the state board of review and forwarded to Washington, says an announcement from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Among counties in which the corn hog work has been completed are Carroll, Simpson, Robertson, Oldham, Spencer, Franklin, Clark, Bath, Nicholas, Bracken, Graves, Jessamine, Marion, Fayette, Henry and Campbell.

Other counties are expected to complete the work soon, and all contracts probably will be in Washington by Oct. 1. Dean Thomas P. Cooper said that the big job of completing the corn hog adjustment program. The corn hog adjustment program is completed and required a large amount of work on the part of county agents and members of the local committees. Dean Cooper praised the work of the committees and said that they have rendered a highly valuable public service to the state.

Approximately $3,000,000 will be received in benefit payments by Kentucky farmers cooperating in the corn hog adjustment program.

THE FARM AND HOME

Mound storage is the simplest and least expensive method of storing vegetables where no permanent place has been prepared. Several small mounds 4 to 6 feet in diameter are preferable to a large one as the entire contents should be removed when the mound is opened. By storing several kinds of vegetables, separating them by litter, a variety may be obtained.

Raspberries should be confined to hills or to a narrow hedge row. Without such training the patch will become a thicket in a short time. Cutting out and burning the old canes reduces the chance of infesting the new growth with diseases.

The steam pressure cooker gives an economical way of canning, and foods so processed are not likely to spoil. Be sure that the jar fits perfectly, as a dent or scratch may break the seal. The small metal ball in the safety valve should be wiped dry after using, and the spring over the ball should be released when not in use.

Dyeing garments that are faded but still of good material is easily done, if directions on the package of dye are followed carefully. Rinsing a garment in its own color freshens it. A darker dye may be used, or the original color may be removed and a lighter one given it.

Good laying flocks will be profitable this fall, despite relatively high feed prices. Farmers who have a supply of home grown grains should feed liberally and otherwise give their hens good care.

Egg prices started up early this year, and production probably will be low.

ADJUSTMENT OBJECTIVE

Agricultural adjustment is passing out of its emergency phase of crop reduction into its second phase wherein the principal objective is to maintain a balance between production and effective market requirements, both domestic and export, it is pointed out by Chester C. Davis, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

"The farmers of America," he says, "partly because of their cooperative effort and partly because of the misfortunes of the drought which is requiring the use of much more of the business surplus, are passing out of the emergency stage of this program, the stage when emphasis necessarily was placed on curtailing production in order to eliminate unfeasible surpluses."

I do not conceive that the Agricultural Adjustment Act was merely an implement to reduce the depressing surpluses and then stop. Certainly there would be no permanent value in such a program.

As I read the Act, we have a plain mandate not only to establish a proper balance between production and consumption of Agricultural commodities, but to maintain that not yet established in most of our major crops and the drought has created some new maladjustments we are already fashioning our future activity toward maintaining a level of production of farm products that will be ample for domestic requirements plus our probable export demands, that will be expected to return a fair price to the farmer.

During the rest of 1934 and 1935, it will be up to the farmers who are marching in step in this great cooperative program to assist in de-plan for the future. No Agricultural program will be adopted or long continued unless it is a farmers program, understood by them and carried forward by them.

TAKING STOCK ACCOUNT

In the two weeks stock account failures as well as of this year's particular garden successes. This week's discussion will deal with potatoes, both white and sweet. White Potatoes At the risk of becoming boreome, it must never be less be said that this year again those persons who used certified seed potatoes are glad they did. Because of its superior vigor, certified seed started off quickly and thus developed before the spring rains stopped, this explaining their better yield.

Seed potato treatment paid, too, both in controlling the scurf disease somewhat more prevalent this year than usually, and also the common scab which the late spring drought caused to be more troublesome than in other years. The treating of seed potatoes cannot be too strongly urged, for its cost is negligible and if the five minute dip is used, the time it takes it is no item at all. Kentucky Extension Circular 202 gives complete details.

New Varieties—Tests with white gold, Chippewa and Katahdin were more widely made than last year, but none of them were truly decisive. As for white gold, it seemed a matter quite a bit where the seed was bought. Some strains were so badly infected with the running-out disease as to make yields low; others seemed to include mixtures of strains and even of other varieties. It was not satisfactory, but not any sense superior to good Cobblers. The high price of assured good White Gold is not warranted by results in Kentucky so far.

Small lots of the new Chippewa show considerable promise for this variety, when enough seed has been produced to make the price more reasonable. Earlier than Cobbler, by a week, and immune to at least some of the running out disease, Chippewa should find its place both in commercial plantings and in home gardens.

Katahdin is again proved definitely not an early potato, nor for that matter, a variety to be planted in the spring, in Kentucky. Planting about 10 days before second crop planting is the best. It is a variety that it seems difficult to get good stands. Good seed is difficult to obtain in quantity; the future of Katahdin needs to be established.

The French potato, still growing a late crop through into the state 7 years ago, will apparently again justify the good opinion those hold who have been trying it. Last years best record was a 40 to 1 return, but twenty fold yields were common. The wider substitution of French for the July potatoes now in use is, in the opinion of the writer, justified.

Sweet Potato Seed Treatment—Growers all over the state are much concerned by the dying of the sweet potato hills, one by one, the cause being black rot. This is all of the story, unfortunately, for many potatoes from crops in which this disease is observed, in the field, may rot later. In fact, unless storage conditions are of the best, the sweet potato hills, one by one, infected potatoes may destroy the whole. Using only clean looking seed and giving it treatment besides bedding the potatoes in new soil and changing its location of the plantings are recommended as insurance against trouble from black rot of seed potatoes.

Fertilizers. Judging from correspondence, quite too many sweet potatoes have gone to vines this year. Doubtless the late rains have been partly responsible, but more so was the nature of the fertility of the soil where the potatoes are being

WHITES OF OLD HOME

Mr. E. S. Montgomery, who is spending his vacation in the month section of Elliott and Rowan counties, once again visiting the scenes of his childhood days, writes us the following interesting letter.

Slidway, Ky., Aug. 8, 1934.
Mr. W. V. Zoller: I arrived at my old place of growth safely and got off the mail truck at the old Sakehouse where I first went to school. I went in and, with the permission of the teacher, I gave the children a five minutes' talk on the first school there, 60 years ago, when the floor of the first house was the ground and our teacher could not multiply 6-1-4 by 6-1-4 correctly. Now they have fine teachers, good houses and plenty of books.

And a half-mile away under the trees of my old home, but the timber is all gone and the landscape is the same as in my mind I could reproduce it as it was when I was a boy, when all kinds of trees, including the evergreen—were so thick the sun could hardly penetrate and the ground was covered with ferns and wild flowers in the lake. Some of the old logs and rocks were covered with long green moss.

The boys and girls would roam through those woods to gather wild flowers and would sit and rest on the moss covered logs and make love and build castles in the lake. The same as is done today, the sofa in the parlor. The air was filled with the sweet perfume from the wild flowers and the song of all kinds of beautiful birds, you could see their glitzy plumage as they flew from tree to tree, and the little branch added its' delicate cascade down from some cool rockhouse, clear as crystal, and it trickled over the shining pebbles into deeper holes where little fish played and the fern covered banks were reflected in its placid water that made a picture that is hard to describe.

But now all the timber is gone and most of the birds, and the bare cliffs stand out as a perpetual tomb stone to a dead country, where it was once an earthly Paradise to young people.

But there is not one girl left alive that roamed around with me.

grown. Sweet potatoes need but little fertilizer; when manure is the fertilizing material it cannot help but be excessive. Late manured the previous year is more nearly right, and in addition a complete fertilizer high in potash should be used. The result is to balance the fertility of the sweet potatoes needs, and the ratio of tubers to vines will be higher. In this connection, the removal of excessive vine growth cannot in any sense help.

placed in certain relation to each other, will not hold their original ties. When two college mates come in contact, the weaker student borrows from the stronger, sometimes drains the other, he declared, and continued by saying the weaker borrows in intellect, in morals, in religion, in social graces.

The address emphasized the importance of knowledge for its own sake. It indicated the desirability of Freshmen cultivating the power to apply knowledge to new situations.

Your college days should mark the beginning of a finer and richer religious experience," Dr. Payne said in closing.

President Payne's speech, delivered in the college chapel, was the highlight of the freshman orientation program, the first attempted by the college, which opened yesterday and will continue through Monday.

Discussion as to the advisability of taking part in the carnival to be held at Haldeman Friday night resulted in the H. V. club sponsoring a boxing match and a wrestling match as their part of the entertainment.

A special meeting was called for Friday night to select representatives to take part in these matches. The club expects to start gymnasium work next week. One night in each week will be devoted to this. The club members have their equipment left over from last year.

Kennel Murder Case

With this remark Vance disappeared, and Markham stood, his hands behind him, looking at the bedroom door with a deep frown.

I shouldn't wonder if Vance were right, he mumbled, as if to himself. He's put my subconscious thought into words.

A few minutes later Vance returned dressed for the street.

Awfully thoughtful of you and all that, to pick me up, he said, smiling jauntily at Markham. There's something positively fascinating about the possibilities, it might be convenient to have Sergeant Heath on hand.

So it might said Markham drily, putting on his hat. Thanks for the suggestion. But I've already notified him. He's on his way uptown now.

Vance's eyebrows went up whimsically.

Oh, pardon! . . . Well, let's grope our way hence.

We entered Markham's car, which was sitting outside, and were driven to the house. It was an old brownstone mansion of double frontage occupying two city lots, built in the day when dignity and comfort were among the ideals of New York architects. As we ascended the steps the door was opened for us before we had time to pull the old fashioned brass bell knob; and the flushed face of Gamble looked out at us cringingly.

Thank you for coming, Mr. Markham. His voice reeked of oily subservience. Its very terrible, sir. And I really don't know what I should do.

Markham brushed the man aside and we stepped into the dimly lighted hallway. Ahead of us a broad flight of carpeted stairs led upward into a vault of darkness. On the right hung a pair of deep maroon portieres; but these were drawn back and we could look through the open doors into a stuffy drawing room, filled with all manner of ancient furniture.

Two men came forward from this room to greet us. The one in advance I recognized immediately as Raymond Wrede. He, I knew was a close friend of the Coe family, and particularly of Hilda Lake, Archer Coe's niece. He was studious man in his late thirties, slightly gray, with an ascetic, calm face of the chevaline type. He was mildly interested in Oriental ceramics probably as a result of his long association with Coe though his particular interest was ancient oil lamps; and he owned a collection of rare specimens.

As he greeted us there was a look hovering on his forehead in his widest, gray eyes.

He bowed formally to Markham whom he knew slightly nodded perfunctorily to me and extended his hand to Vance. Then, as if suddenly remembering something, he turned toward the man behind him, and made a brief presentation, which in reality was an explanation.

Signor Grassi . . . Mr. Grassi has been a house guest of Mr. Coe's for several days. He represents an Italian museum of Oriental antiquities at Milan.

Grassi bowed very low but said nothing. He was considerably shorter than Wrede, slim, immaculately dressed, with shiny black hair brushed straight back from his forehead, and an complexion whose unusual pallor was accentuated by large luminous eyes. His features were regular, and his lips full and shape an almost feline grace.

Markham wasted no time on ceremony. He turned abruptly to Gamble.

Just what is the situation? A police sergeant and the medical officer will be here any moment. Only what I told you on the telephone sir. The man beneath his obsequious manner, was patently frightened. When I saw the master through the keyhole I knew he was dead—it was quite unnerving sir—my first impulse was to look in the door. But I thought it best to seek advice before taking such a responsive action. And, as Mr. Brisbane Coe was in Chicago, I phoned to Mr. Wrede and begged him to come over immediately. Mr. Wrede was good enough to come, and after looking at the master he suggested that I call you sir, before doing anything else.

It was obvious—Wrede took up the story—that poor Coe was dead, and I thought it best to leave every thing intact for the authorities. I didn't want to insist on having the door broken in.

Vance was watching the man closely. But what harm could that have done? he asked mildly. Since the door was bolted on the inside suicide was rather plainly indicated, eh, what?

Perhaps you are right, Mr. Vance. Wrede appeared ill at ease. But somehow—my instinct told me that it might be best—

Quite—quite. Vance took out a cigarette, and, too, were electrical discharges the appearance of Wrede gave a start and stared wildly at Vance.

Coe, Vance continued, wasn't exactly the suicidal type, was he?

No-o. Wrede's eyes did not shift. Vance lighted a cigarette.

My own feeling is you acted quite wisely.

Come! Markham turned toward the stairs and made a peremptory gesture to Gamble. Lead the way.

The butler turned and mounted the stairs. Markham, Vance and I followed, but Wrede and Grassi remained below. Gamble without a word, indicated the door.

Markham came forward, tried the knob, and shook it. Then he knelt down and looked through the keyhole. When he rose his face was grim.

It looks as if our suspicions were unfounded, he said in a low voice. Coe is sitting in his chair, a black hole in his right temple, and his hand is still clutching a revolver. The electric lights are on.

Vance, who was gazing at an etching on the wall at the head of the stairs. I'll take your word for it Markham, he drawled. Really you know, it doesn't sound like a pretty sight. And I'll see it infinitely better when we've forced an entry.

At this moment the front door bell rang violently, and Gamble hastened down the stairs. As he drew the door back, Sergeant Ernest Heath and Detective Hennessy burst into the lower hallway.

This way, Sergeant, Markham called.

Heath and Hennessy came noisily up the stairs.

Eagles Chances On Gridiron Better As All Players Return

Athletic Director G. D. Downing of Morehead College had more than his customary smile this week as he viewed the turnout of players for his first grid iron practice. The smiles weren't because Downing expects a record beating squad, but rather over the appearance of several of his stars, who announced they weren't coming to college this year, but apparently changed their minds at the last minute.

Robert "Bush" Brashers, hard driving center and one of the most deadly tacklers ever to be on a Morehead College eleven, was present for practice today. He blew in without a uniform on, but announced he would be out tomorrow in full regalia. With the return of Brashers and all the other successful prospects, Morehead is expected to have a better team than last year—not a great eleven, by any means—but one capable of taking care of itself in most of the competition it will meet this fall.

The way Downing has the prospects sized up, the Morehead College eleven will be built around twenty-two men—just about all the squad that will be out. These men, either out this afternoon, or gave notification that they would be ready tomorrow are: Captain William Morehead, William Ryan, Charles Wyatt, Claude Clayton, Clyde Flannery, Clyde Alley, and Eddie Kufahl, all backs, and the following line candidates, Robert Brashers, Henry Addington, Elijah Grinstead, Homer Taylor, James Noe, Dan Carson, John Shuman, Bill Ryan, Earl Barber, Bob Rowland, Charlie Hall, Glenmore Hogge, Graydon Backney, Bill Reynolds and Doug Sparks.

Today's practice was light and consisted mostly of calisthenics, passing and kicking. Downing said scrimmaging will not be held until the middle of next week. He plans to bring the boys along slowly at first in preparation for their opening game against Centre at Danville, October 6.

On another part of Jayne Stadium, Captain Bill Scroggins was putting about forty of the most promising freshmen the college ever had through their paces.

SPORT SPLURGES

The Morehead Pirates, present leaders in the Kentucky State Baseball League, have the best chance, by a goodly margin, of winning the most half than any in the circuit, prognosticators throughout the loop are figuring.

Taking the bare facts on paper, and omitting any partiality towards the Pirates, they are the best bet for the second half flag, on paper.

There are several reasons why this is so. The first, and perhaps the most important of these, is the fact that the Pirates are stronger today than they have ever been in the past. The outfield, one of the main sources of mediocre play on the Pirates part has been bolstered by the addition of Lloyd Carpenter and Hilton Stages. Lloyd Nolan, who played only fair baseball the first half has been smacking the apple with gusto to the merriment of manager Dan Parker.

A big factor in picking Morehead is that they are on top right now. True, it is only half a game, but with only six more tilts on the schedule that half game is something and may prove the difference between winning and losing the second half championship. It gives a team lots of confidence to be on top as they come into the home stretch.

After most everything is summed up we always get back to the balance of the schedule and in that Morehead is favored. They play a little easier than any team except Owingville and the Pirates and Owingville play the same teams in the wind-up.

Mayville and Flemingsburg are the biggest threats to the Pirates. They are only half a game behind. One of them faces elimination when they play at Flemingsburg Sunday week. The factor in Morehead favor is that Mayville and Flemingsburg have both played one more game. So the Pirates can lose one more game between now and October 7th, and still be tied for first place.

Morehead looks good enough to beat Brooksville and Paris, whom they play in doubleheaders. Their hardest match is bound to be with Owingville in a doubleheader at Jayne Stadium September 30. From now on Owingville is bound to have a hard fight and plenty of good breaks to come under the wire—a winner.

If the Pirates ace pitchers McKenzie and Rhoades come through as expected the Pirates look like the best bet.

- At this stage of the campaign we pick them to finish as follows:
1. Morehead Pirates.
 2. Flemingsburg Flemers.
 3. Mayville Selets.
 4. Owingville Merchants.
 5. Paris Merchants.
 6. Vanceburg.
 7. Brooksville.
 8. Mt. Sterling.

And that is that!

Following is some interesting information picked up from the Lexington Leader's dope book:

Football, of the collegiate type, originated in 1869 in a game between Princeton and Rutgers played at New Brunswick, N. J., November 23 in that year, and won by Rutgers, 6 to 4.

Recent records show that 600 colleges, represented by 24,000 players, played a total of 1,800 games, approximately 16,000 school teams with a total of 250,000 players played 3,000 games, which were attended by a total of about 20,000,000 spectators. Municipal league, church, athletic club and "sand lot" teams brought the total number of players to about 600,000.

The celebrated Roman Colosseum seated 45,000 persons. Against this background scene football: America can present the following stadiums:

City	Capacity
California	165,000
California	80,000
Chicago	110,000
Harvard	57,000
Illinois	70,000
John Carroll	75,000

Scores at other stadiums range in capacities from 15,000 to 35,000 persons.

Owingsville Plays Here On Sept. 30

The second half championship of the Kentucky State Baseball League may be decided here on Sunday of next week when the Morehead Pirates, the present leader, play Owingville two games.

The keenest of rivalry has always existed between Morehead and Owingville, but both last year and this season the Morehead side has held the edge. The Bath Countians will be putting everything they have in it as an effort to again come to the top, while Morehead is seeking to protect their slim lead over Owingville, Flemingsburg and Mayville.

Morehead Takes Lead By Winning 2 Games

Morehead High Schedule Given

Although the football team at the Morehead High School lacks possibilities of winning the Little Eight Conference, they will have a much better eleven than pre-season dope indicated, judging from the boys out for the team and the manner they have been showing up.

Austin Riddle, beginning his first year of coaching at the Viking school, is faced with poorer prospects than the school has ever had before. The team is sure to be much lighter and less experienced, but should be able to hold their own in most of the Little Eight competition, which has been weakened at over the loop.

Riddle announced his football schedule today, following a meeting of the Little Eight Conference. The Vikings have six games carded, and hope to schedule at least two others. Of this number not more than three will be played on the home field, Principal D. D. Caudill said. Five of the six matches are against conference foes.

There are only five lettermen left from last year's team, and three of them are backs. Judging from this and the light poudbage, Coach Riddle's biggest problem will be on the line. He has a squad of twenty boys from which to build his team.

Jack Carter, Austin Alfrey, and Edwin Turner backy and Theo Barker and Harold Jones, linemen are the returning lettermen. Graduation hit the Vikings harder last year than ever before.

The other candidates for the team include, Ted Davis, Edwin Turner, Alpha Hutchinson, Clive Cornett, Dock Jordan, Revis Davis, Ray Barbour, Lester Johnson, Lester Brown, Murrel Caudill, Lloyd Brown, Henderson Bolling, Raymond Markwell, James Justice, Ed Goodan, and Earl Bradley.

The year's team will be built around Jack Carter and Austin Alfrey, two of the best backs in the Little Eight. Carter is a good runner and hard kicker. Alfrey is perhaps the best punter the Vikings have ever had.

The schedule, Sept. 29—Olive Hill at Olive Hill, Oct. 5—Open. Oct. 12—Greenup at Greenup. Oct. 19—Raceland at Raceland. Oct. 27—Boyd County High at Morehead.

Nov. 2—McKen at Fullerton. Nov. 9—Ashland at Fullerton. Nov. 16—Open.

The second half officially ends on October 7, and the play-off series between the first and second half champions is expected to start on October 15 or sooner. Flemingsburg won the first half.

Standings in the Kentucky State League did considerable jumping about in Sunday's games. The most surprising change was Owingville's drop from first to the bottom of the first division in the 4-vised race.

Morehead again assumed first place, leading Mayville and Flemingsburg, tied for second, by half a game. The Pirates routed Mt. Sterling, 14-1 and 6-0. Paris and Flemingsburg had a scorching battle before the Flemers eked out a 2 to 1 verdict. It was "Flemingsburg's ninth victory in the last 10 starts. Brooksville surprised the circuit by taking a pair from Vanceburg, 4-2 and 4-3, at Brookville. Mayville came from behind to win, 7 to 6 and 4 to 3, at Owingville.

The Morehead Pirates assumed first place in the Kentucky State League by humiliating Mt. Sterling in both ends of a double-header here Sunday 14-1 and 6-0. The score was a 1-0 shut-out. The Pirates exerted themselves.

During the games, both of which were cut to 7 innings owing to a late start, the Mt. Sterling players were able to collect only 9 hits. In the first McKen hit them eleven with 2 singles, while in the after-piece, Raymond Rhodes gave them one hit. Only 22 men faced Rhodes and 25 came up against McKenzie. McKen's infield single in the fourth saved Rhodes from hurling a perfect game.

Meanwhile, Morehead jumped on Wells and Vinson, visiting pitchers, for 17 hits and scored almost at will.

Carter, Morehead second sacker, hit safely 5 times and walked once in 7 trips.

The scores:
Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7—R. H. E.
Mt. Sterling 0 0 0 1 0 0—1 2 4
Morehead 7 2 1 1 0 3—14 11 0
Wells and Pawlowsky; McKenzie and Raley.

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7—R. H. E.
Mt. Sterling 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 1 4
Morehead 10 1 1 3 0 5—6 6 0
Vinson and Holbrook; Rhodes and Raley.

MAYSVILLE COPS TWO

Mayville defeated Owingville at Kimbrough Park at Owingville in a double-header, 7-6 and 4-3. Both games were featured by heavy hitting of both teams. In the first game the battery for Mayville was Ginn and Rouch, and for Owingville, Ellis and Golden. In the second game, Keithley and Reynolds served for Mayville and Taylor and Golden for the losers.

FLEMINGSBURG BEATS PARIS

The Flemingsburg baseball team won at Paris at Owingville by 2 to 1. The batteries were Williams and Clayton for Flemingsburg and Terry and Thompson for Paris.

Brooksville won their fourth game in a row an eighth fifth of the second half Sunday by routing Vanceburg in two close matches. The scores were 4-2 and 4-3. The local victory placed Brooksville in sixth place.

Let Chevrolet tell its own story of riding and driving comfort
Make the ownership test

The best way to get the truth about the new Chevrolet is to make the Ownership Test. Drive this car over the same routes, in the same way you drive your present automobile, and let the results you can see and feel tell their own story. A ride will prove that Knee Action makes road riding good, and road riding better. A ride will prove that shock-proof steering, Synchro-Mesh gear-shifting, a remarkably sensitive 48-horsepower engine, and cable-controlled brakes make a big difference in safety and driving ease. A ride will show you why so many thousands have found it impossible to return to ordinary driving after an experience like this.
