VOTE — Tuesday, November 3. It is your heritage and duty.

THIS IS NO WORTHIER CAUSE

Your heart and a dollar—under this slogan more than twenty million Americans became members of the Red Cross during the year 1918. They were proud of their membership. Here was an organization that did not ask about race, religious belief, politics or social or financial standing in life. It invites everyone to join and work shoulder-to-shoulder with every other member in preventing and ameliorating human suffering. Twenty million members and over two hundred million dollars.

There was not a single one of those twenty million members who did not give his heart, with his dollar, during those stirring days of the War. There was not one of those twenty million members who was not proud of the part that he played in lessening the horrors of War for the service men and their families.

There have been many changes since 1918. In 18 years of peace we have seen years of plenty and years of depression; years when the population movement reversed itself; we have seen years of flood and years of drought. The battle-line itself has shifted; the work of America's Red Cross is no longer in the trenches of France, although the Red Cross still minister to sick and wounded war veterans. Red Cross service today is in the home, on the farm, in the factory and on the highways of America. The thousands in need of the tender care of the seven hundred Red Cross nurses; hundreds of thousands stricken by flood, fire and tornado; the millions who are maimed each year in the terrible toll of accidents—these are the concern of the American Red Cross in these days of change.

But the people of America have not changed. They are still proud of their membership in the Red Cross and will still gladly give the Red Cross their hearts, along with their dollars, if they are asked to do it.

The Red Cross is at this time asking for just that. To carry on the great work that this organization is, even during peace times requires millions of dollars in addition to the appropriation made by the United States. Much of this money is raised through the roll call which is being launched in Rowan county.

Can we forget the good brought by the Red Cross in the flood a few years ago—how they spent money and sent workers to rehabilitate in this and adjoining counties following this disaster? Can we fail to remember the newspaper accounts that tell of this worthy organization sending some unfortunate to a hospital for treatment after he appeared on the threshold of death?

Only a few weeks ago the local chapter's attention was brought to a case of a Rowan county citizen, who had been a man of moderate means and a taxpayer, but unfortunately was then unable to pay for hospital expenses. He was on the brink of death when the Red Cross stepped in, and defrayed the hospital costs. An operator was made and today that man is able to work and support a family instead of lying in his grave while his wife and children would be forced to go on relief to keep from starving to death.

These are but a few examples of the hundreds of things that they have accomplished here.

Let us all resolve to spend our last dollar, if necessary, to join in the roll call. Give more if you are able, for money was never given to a more worthy cause.

A LARGER ENROLLMENT

The Morehead State Teachers College is taking no evasive means in declaring they are not in a recruitment. Officials of the institution feel that a higher registration is their greatest need at this time and they are going out to get it.

One on the outside doesn't realize that there is more to this enrollment business than merely registering the students the first day of school. There are many things that go towards making a large and strong enrollment. Tradition, a strong alumni association, presence of favorable publicity and absence of unfavorable reports, a strong faculty, adequate plant and accommodations and contacts and advertising are a few of the more important factors.

Because Morehead college is so young the traditions are few and the alumni is not strong. Unfortunately during the past year the publicity, in many cases, has been unfavorable because of unforeseen and regretted incidents. The faculty will compare favorably with any in the state or south and the plant is more than adequate.

Morehead college is making more city to city and home to home contacts. Most of its teachers and administrative officers are making addresses in various parts of the state, principally eastern Kentucky, than ever before. Its President is availing himself of every opportunity to come into contact with prospective students, graduating classes and business and community leaders in eastern Kentucky. Morehead is truly battling for a larger student body, for its appropriation depends largely upon the enrollment.

Morehead townspeople, who have a direct and heart-felt interest in this great school may do their share. If you are a resident of Morehead or a friend of the town and its college makes every effort to increase the student body. A large enrollment means much to the people of Morehead and they should cooperate with everything within their power to help get a continued increase.

THE PEOPLE ARE THE JUDGE AND JURY

Americans are witnessing the final stages of one of the most heated and important national political campaigns in the history of the United States. The final blasts of hot air from the politicians will have been sounded by Tuesday morning. Then around 45,000,000 voters will go to the polls and decide who shall rule this nation for the next four years.

No one knows who will be elected. The Literary Digest poll shows Landon out in front. The American Institute of Public Opinion concedes the verdict to President Roosevelt. There you are—two national polls conducted at millions of dollars expense—yet they show an exactly opposite ending to the campaign.

Walter Winchell in his Sunday night national broadcast said—"It makes no difference what candidate is made happy on election day, just so he will make the people of the United States happy for the next four years." If Americans could foretell the future there would be no doubt about the race—for after all, what we want is the man that can give us the better government. We must judge the future by the past, and upon the past records this campaign has for the most part, conducted. Republicans lay the four years blame on President Roosevelt; Democrats besmirch the 12 years rule of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

As expressed editorially in these columns ago, every registered voter should use his ballot Tuesday. This is a government of the people, and the majority of those people have been awarded the right to pick their leaders. Yes—the mercer, financier, banker, farmer, executive, laborer, miner or unemployed—are the final jury. The case is in your hands. Render a true and correct verdict Tuesday, November 3.

OPENING OF CHRISTY CREEK MINES

Rowan countians herald the good news that the General Refractories Company of Olive Hill, will within a short time open the day mines on Christy Creek. This means employment for many Christy Creek residents who have been unemployed for many months, many of them being forced to seek the relief rolls.

Rowan countians herald the good news that the opening of these mines is a sure indication that business is on the up-grade. Another infallible indication is the fact that the Lee Clay Products Company of Clearfield and the Kentucky Fire Brick Company are running 24 hours a day. Rail shipments from Morehead are almost double those of a year ago.

WHAT OTHER KENTUCKY EDITORS ARE SAYING

Politics As A Career

We see where the president of a college is urging young men to prepare for a career in the realm of political endeavors and the wonder strikes us that any man is willing to go through what we call, in our American fashion, a campaign in order to serve the republic.

There is, of course, some element of sense in the current joint debate and Messrs. Roosevelt and Landon, while hitting hard, have, on the whole, managed to keep their campaign on a wholesome basis. The same cannot be said of their supporters.

Maybe, it is a good thing to have a campaign every four years to permit the partisans to blow off steam without having serious explosions. Certainly, after a full-fledged campaign very few statesmen will incline to the belief that they are super-men, favored by the gods.

As soon as a man has learned how to make a good living by working, he tries to make a better living without working and the losses from his speculations compel him to go back to work.

If a girl keeps her school girl complexion, her school girl complexion will often keep her.

The only way to be rid of the worries about the things we have not done is to do them.

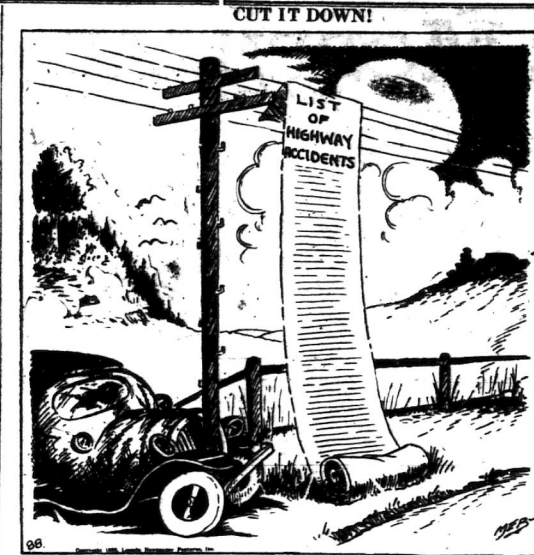

The average 16-year-old son knows more about his father than his father knows about the boy.

After the election is over you can have a lot of fun reading the pre-election dope.

Any number of people would do better work if they kept their minds off what another is being paid.

A noted economist says that more people make a living with their mouths than with their hands. We are wondering if he wasn't referring specifically to the politicians.

Plans are being made to decorate the entire city of Morehead at the University of Louisville-Morehead college football game. Another worthy enterprise.

THIS WEEK IN MOREHEAD

FEDERAL MONEY: A report issued this week serves to show just how much Federal money has come into Rowan county. The figures are so astounding that they are herewith reproduced: Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $1,440; Home Owners Loan Corporation (loans now closed) $38,170; Federal Housing Administration $16,080; Civil Works Administration $31,177; Federal Emergency Relief Administration $365,782; Agriculture Adjustment Administration, $23,222.79; Farm Credit Administration: Federal Land Bank, $2,900; and State Comm., $26,890; Crop and Food, $6,250; Production Credit Corp., $189,785; Settlement Administration: Rural Rehabilitation, $4,215; Farm Debt Adjustment, $26,800; Works Progress Administration, $91,652.98. The figures of the F.W.A. are not given for Rowan county, but over twenty-five million dollars have been spent in the state.

These figures do not represent approximately three-quarters of a million dollars of a loan-grant to the Morehead State Teachers College.

PROGNOSTICATORS: Eldon Evans, Democrat campaign manager, and his right-hand crew are pretty confident over the outcome of Tuesday's election in this county. They feel that President Roosevelt and

Your Family Coat-of-Arms

The seal on the right of Michael Martin of Boston bears the above coat of arms. He is believed to be descended from the first Martin in the East (and known as County of Pembroke, England, in the time of Henry I.) Michael Martin describes himself as the "only surviving son of Richard Martyn of Portsmouth, New England," and also claims to be the son of a son, Richard. Three sisters were Sarah, wife of Richard Curt, Elizabeth, wife of Edward Kennard, and Hannah, wife of Richard Jose. A cousin, Edward Martyn, of Boston, used the same coat of arms. The above arms are also found on a tombstone in the Copp's Hill Burial Ground in Boston. Description of Arms: Two red horizontal bars on a silver shield. Crest: A six-pointed star.

the Democratic ticket will emerge with a majority between 350 and 500.

On the other hand, let us look at the Republicans. The writer has asked a number of local Republican leaders what the outcome will be, and they are unanimous in predicting an almost like majority for Landon. Somebody must be wrong. Only the tabulations will tell.

DRILLING BOOM: The fact that E. D. Patton struck a gas well on the edge of the Morehead city limits a few days ago may create a minor drilling boom here. Another well is being drilled in the city and if this one also turns out successfully, it is likely that one will be drilled in practically every block in the city, oil and gas men declare.

Morehead has gone gas-minded all of a sudden. The first meters for the natural gas brought in by the city were placed in many homes this week.

SPORT SPIRIT: Feeling that after three lean years they, at last, have a chance to defeat an old rival, hundreds of Morehead people plan to go by train, bus and automobile to Richmond Friday to see Ellis Johnson and his Morehead Eagles battle the Eastern Maroons. This is evidence of a fine spirit, and attests to the fact that Moreheadians will support the teams of the Morehead school with all that is in them, provided the Eagles have something they can root for, instead of something to be pitied.

THINK AND SPEAK: The Morehead college newspaper very appropriately headed the following editorial with the caption: "Folks, Think and Speak at Morehead."

We have one of the most modern plants in the state; we have excellent administrative and executive heads; our faculty very compares very favorably with that of any other college; our student body is loyal, but even with all these advantages there is something still lacking. There is something that each and everyone of us can do to make our school more attractive—not only to other people who are interested in our activities, but to ourselves. Even to those of us who are right here on the campus this fact is very obvious.

We have several agencies that help advertise our school. Our football team is making an enviable record. Already Morehead State State Teachers College has attracted state-wide attention in sporting circles. Then too, our musical organizations have stimulated school interest in many parts of the state. Various clubs and other organizations have brought credit to this institution and all this credit is very obvious.

But the best advertising agency that the school can possibly have is our own student body! Talk Morehead, think Morehead, and above all speak a good word whenever possible. Be loyal to your school and you'll be loyal to yourself! Boost the teams, the organizations and clubs. Morehead is serving this section of Kentucky in such a manner that its value cannot be measured in momentary fashion. Have something good to say—not something bad! There is no place up here for a knocker! Help Morehead State Teachers College by answering this question fairly and honestly: "Are you doing all you can to advertise your school?"

Landon AND Knox

Save A Nation That Is Now On The Brink Of A Revolution

VOTE THE STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Attention Americans!

Fifty-six men of highest patriotism risked fortune, liberty and life itself to sign the original Declaration of Independence. A price of some $2,500.00 was placed on the head of each of them. Today, America needs 20 million courageous, undaunted and incorruptible "Signers" of a new Declaration of Independence — men and women who will dedicate themselves to the sacred cause of preserving human liberty, as these 56 gallant Colonists did 160 years ago.

"HE HAS ERECTED A MULTITUDE OF NEW OFFICES, AND SENT HITHER SWARMS OF OFFICERS TO HARASS OUR PEOPLE, AND EAT OUT THEIR SUBSTANCE."

The above paragraph was written 161 years ago. IT APPEARS IN THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE AND REFERS TO KING GEORGE III OF ENGLAND. It was written by a young man named Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic Party, which party Mr. Franklin Roosevelt claims to represent. Our forefathers gave up their lives that we might be freed from a dictatorial and interfering government —

Are you, Mr. American, going to sit idly by while our political liberty, our individual opportunity and our character as free citizens are threatened by the New Deal?

To a free people, these actions are insufferable. This campaign cannot be waged on the traditional differences between the Republican and Democratic parties. The responsibility of this election transcends all previous political divisions. We invite all Americans, irrespective of party, to join us in defense of American institutions.

Attention Americans!

In the story the Sultan of Tumbatra (a small oriental country), is a man of international reputation. Because of the position of his little country, it counts a large amount of strategic importance to England and also a large amount of power. The Sultan needs money to develop his little kingdom and maintain just one million pounds would suffice. He eagerly matches the two great powers against each other until he can learn which will pay him the most.

A British customs officer is engaged in smuggling opium into the country and the Sultan's son is in love with the officer's wife. The son takes advantage of the officer of captured and endeavored to be hanged. He arranges for a mob to lynch the officer before the old Sultan can retrieve the officer. He knows that the Sultan is simply going to play the officer, as a means of securing more from the English.

The crafty old Sultan meanwhile secures an agreement with the English to pay him a million pounds and to sign a treaty of friendly neutrality. The eastern power is greatly fearful of the advantage about to be gained by the British and they also agree to pay a million pounds. The old Sultan thus suffers both powers with the legendary cunning of the eastern diplomat.

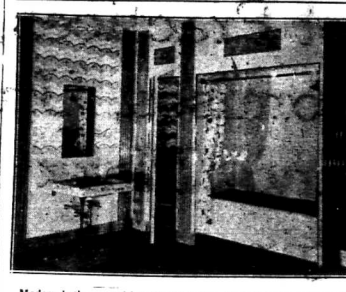

The picture shows Arliss at his best in his masterful action and the suspense involved in the mob scene is impressive.

GLASS WALLS FOR THE BATH

Modern bathroom with walls of carrara structural glass; decorative Carrara trim in contrasting color. Floor of linoleum and separate toilet compartment with full-length mirror door.

BEAUTIFUL BATH ROOMS NOW EASILY ACHIEVED

Does your bathroom need to have its face lifted? Or are you building that second bathroom that the family have need for so long? It wouldn't be a bad idea to do both at one time, for it costs less to have both jobs done at once, besides eliminating the nuisance of having things torn up twice.

If no fixtures will probably be your first consideration. The manufacturers of these have done each other's best to give you a matter of choosing the size and style to fit your room. Even the less expensive lines are well-styled, though this is one item in which low price is never an economy. Get the best your budget can stand, whether you prefer gleaming white or a soft pastel shade.

After the fixtures and their placement have been settled, the walls are the next problem. If possible, they should be of some permanent substance, like tile or structural Carrara glass. These provide a lasting, easily cleaned surface that cannot readily be marred or harmed by water. Carrara glass has the added advantage of never cracking or coming loose. Due to the special type of construction used in installing it, you have a permanent life-time finish.

Each of the above may be had in several shades as well as black or white. If every expenditure must be kept down, waterproof wall-paper or flat paint in a pleasing tint are other alternatives. In some cases good effects may be obtained by combining the two. Use, for example, a plain design paper in soft shades of rose and gray on two walls. Paint the other two in a solid rose to match the paper.

Be sure to place the lights so that unnatural shadows are eliminated. In the shaving or make-up, indirect and placed at the side and speaking of mirrors, here's a suggestion for the home with young children who are too short to see as high as the regular mirror—fasten a narrow strip of mirror above the wall space above the medicine chest. It will help decrease the distance between the neck and the top that will at the same time be useful in dressing small children.

Streamlining Is Feature Of Toys

Manufacturers Hold Preview Showing Of Models For This Christmas

Streamlined bicycle seats, electric pencils for writing on wood, roller skates, and rocking "horses" in the shape of ducks will be among the delights of 1937 kiddies, toy manufacturers disclosed recently.

Preparing for its annual Christmas preview exhibition which opens tomorrow, the industry's national association predicted that toy sales will be 15 per cent larger than last year.

The demand for parlor games—by adults, of course—has doubled sales in that field, it was stated. Streamlining is the keynote this year and apparently the little ones will either have to like or lump it. It's been applied to nursery scooters, doll carriages, and roller skates, rocking horses, sleds and bicycle seats.

The toy people emphasized that the unformed dolls of Europe have no counterpart in the American Christmas display. Among the other novelties are knockdown short-wave radio sets and young Edison can assemblies, and a light that is turned on by a mundane switch, but by lighting a match in front of a photoelectric cell.

Just to prove they've been reading the papers, the toy makers are featuring extra-young dolls in doll sets kept safely in miniature incubators with oxygen tanks and have revised mannikin dolls to keep space with the Dinnee growth.

As they report in case you were beginning to hope for some change, that the doll so realistic she is to have her diapers changed as to be as popular as ever.

Baby Beef Show, Sale At Carlisle Nov. 6

A baby beef show and sale will be conducted at the Farmers Stock Yards in Carlisle Friday, November 6, in which Rowan farmers have been invited to participate. The first premium will be $40, the second $20, the third $10, and the fourth $5.

This show is held in conjunction with the 4-H club and the Future Farmers of Nicholas county, but is open to everyone.

The show will be held at 10 a.m. followed by the baby beef, calf and cattle sale. Julian Eggers and Jacob Pancero, Jr., will be judges in the baby beef contest.

LIFE JUST BEGINS FOR FILM DIRECTOR

Life, at forty, in the picture industry, is usually over—but George Marshall, director of "The Crime of Dr. Forbes," Fox picture coming Friday to the Cozy Theatre, just reaching the zenith of his career, is again demonstrating the truth of Author Pitkin's book:

Marshall served as a railroad mail, a newspaper reporter, and a magazine correspondent during his youth, and then followed the beginning of his career in screen work.

Now, just barely forty, he is one of the most rapidly-rising directors in Hollywood and his direction of "The Crime of Dr. Forbes" stamps him one of the ablest megaphone-wielders of the movie capital.

Gloria Stuart, Robert Kent and J. Edward Bromberg have the leading roles in the film.

statements have taken the platform this fall, speaking in behalf of the presidential candidates. More stump speeches, radio addresses and personal appeals have been made in this race than perhaps any other in the history of the country.

U.S. USING LESS GREEK WINES AND LIQUOR

The expectation of the Greek wine and liquor industry that substantial trade with the United States might be developed has failed to materialize, says a report to the Louisville district office of Shipment to the American market from Greece in the first half of the year amounted to $55,562 compared with $69,188 in the corresponding period of 1935.

GREEKS BUY MORE FROM U.S.
An increase of 54 per cent in the value of Greece's imports from the United States in the first seven months of the current year compared with the corresponding period of 1935, and a decline of 24 per cent in the value of Greek exports to the United States in the same period. The suspension of petroleum buying from Rumania resulted in a decrease in total imports from that country and in consequence a shift to the United States as a source of petroleum products.

Most Americans will be able to tell before they go to bed late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning who is elected. All national radio chains have planned a continuous broadcast of election results.

ine Gorgeous Hussy

What has happened so far: Peggy O'Neil, Timberlake, a charming daughter of a Washington innkeeper, whose husband dies in a naval service, tries to forget the past in working for the candidacy of her friend Gen. Andrew Jackson. At a reception given after Jackson's election a band of hecklers insult the General's wife and drive him to the point of leaping into the crowd.

Chapter Eight
Even in the dim light Jackson's keen eyes could make out the man responsible for the remark about Rachel, and he drove his way forward him. For a minute the crowd, astonished by the General's temerity, remained immobile; then there was a united movement to hem him in. With snarling snarl and rifle butts raised in air, the hecklers seemed ready to stop at nothing.

John Randolph and Senator Eaton were the first out of the inn in Jackson's defense. Forging their way through the mob with an invincible determination, they stayed about on all sides. Reinforcements from the tavern came to join them, but it was the reserved Randolph and the immaculate Eaton (neither of whom one could associate with open battle with a literally forced the rabble to bend

Rachel's morbid prophecy was fulfilled. She lived only a short time after the evening of the riot, and when her husband placed her in her grave he buried his heart there also.

One week after her death, with the first snowflakes of the season flying, through the air, he drove out with Peggy to Rachel's grave. As he loved his heart there, he made no pretense of hiding his emotions.

"It's no use," he muttered, half to himself. "I ain't got the spirit to face it without you."

Peggy, Rachel's farewell words ringing in her ears, slipped her arm through his.

"Uncle Andy," she said, "you're the most important President this country's ever had. You've got to face everything and you're going to."

Emily Donelson basked in the glory of her position as Presidential niece. The only fly in the ointment was the presence of Peggy, whose popularity and good looks she jealously resented. The day she sought a private conference with Jackson and attempted to force the issue.

"As your official First Lady," she said, "it's my duty to warn you, Mr. Andrew, that you cannot force such a person down the throats of Washington society."

"Who said anything about forcing?" Jackson replied. "Peggy's got where she is so far on her own danged prettiness and horse sense."

"She's not recognized by society," Emily Donelson retorted. "Besides, all Washington is talking—"

"Fudge, who had accidentally intruded at that moment, seeing only a glance to determine the drift of the conversation."

"Everywhere I go I seem to find people talking about me," she smiled.

"I suppose you know," said Emily fiercely to Jackson, "that Mr. Calhoun says this woman will soon be the real President!"

"In my humble opinion," returned Jackson, a slow grin coming over his face, "she'd make a dang sight better President than John C. would!"

The controversy over Peggy's social status did not keep her away from one of the red-letter events of the Washington season, the ball given by the Dutch Minister. The latter gentleman, despite opposition from his wife, had assumed the privilege of extending a personal invitation to the fascinating Mrs. Timberlake.

John Eaton completely recovered from his injury and the new Secretary of War, was Peggy's escort. Sight of the two arriving together—Mrs. Beall and her cohorts into a veritable spasm of sarcasm.

"Did you hear the latest?" said Louisa Abbet. "Poor Emily Donelson couldn't stand it any more and had to go back to Tennessee."

"A common harmaid parading around with Mrs. Beall and her cohorts into a veritable spasm of sarcasm."

"What do you mean?" asked Peggy, started.

"I'm sicker'n you think for," said Rachel. "The doctor told me. She pressed one finger to her lips."

"The Gin'ral, he must'n know."

"Aunt Rachel, you'll be all right," said Peggy, helplessly, checking back her hair.

"I don't care about myself," responded the other. "But I want you to promise me one thing. When women folk around here are going to make it tough for you, just like they tried to for me, 'Cause you're purty'n clever, they'll like as not turn double strong against yer. All I got to say is, don't get you to keep a watch on the Gin'ral. Don't let him rear up in a temper, and don't leave him say 'ain't or git.' I could never hear that folks should snigger at him, honey, like they have at me. You'll help him, won't you, Peggy?"

Singing and kissing clasped about Rachel's waist, Peggy promised that she would.

John Eaton, completely recovered from his injury, was Peggy's escort.

SIMPLICITY OF TUNING

a Child can tune a Delco Radio

Delco has a new feature—the Delco Robot Eye. This enables positive tuning. As the set comes in tune with the antenna the ray in the Robot Eye becomes narrower and when the ray reaches the narrowest point, then the set is properly tuned. Distinct and positive sound indications on adjustable dials are still another feature in the simplicity of Delco tuning. Delco engineers have eliminated confusing calibrations, and have designed the dials so that even a child can tune the 1937 Delco Radio with perfect ease and assurance.

FARMING BY IMPROVED METHODS

Written by the Staff of the University of Kentucky Agricultural Extension Work, College of Agriculture

Enrollment Records Broken

At Kentucky A&C College Topping all previous records, the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky had an enrollment of 437 farm boys and girls, representing 84 counties of Kentucky, 13 other states and England.

The home economics department has 177 girls registered, as compared with 128 last year. Three girls are registered in agriculture, the first time since 1928 that this has taken place. Two hundred and fifty-seven boys are taking agriculture, compared with 223 last year.

The freshman class is the largest, including 100 boys and 61 home economics students. The sophomores run 70 for the boys and 34 for the girls, the juniors 58 and 54, and the seniors 29 for agriculture and 28 for home economics. There are three special students.

Other states sending students to Kentucky's agricultural school include New York, Tennessee, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Iowa, Virginia, Mississippi and West Virginia.

Many Inexpensive Cuts of Meat Are Good If the homemaker uses inexpensive cuts of meat, can be made appetizing.

It's all in how they are cooked, in the opinion of the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The solution is in proper cooking and a clever use of seasonings.

Money-saving cuts are beef chuck, rump, flank, round or shoulder and breast of veal or lamb, and shoulder of pork. The tougher cuts require moist heat and slow cooking, so braising is suggested for cooking round or chuck.

Season the meat with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and brown in a small amount of fat. Then place in a deep baking dish, surround with vegetables, add seasonings and browned onion slices and enough water to half cover the material. Cover closely and bake in a very slow oven from one to four hours until tender. It may also be cooked on top the stove if care is used to keep the water below boiling.

Roasts should be cooked slowly, because it gives them a better flavor, a more uniform degree of doneness, and less shrinkage. Tests made in the home economics laboratory showed that roasts cooked at high temperature shrink five times as much as the one cooked at a low temperature. It was also found that searing results in greater shrinkage, despite the popular opinion to the contrary.

Meat is highly desirable in the daily diet, one-third of a pound of boneless meat per meal adult is certainly not injurious. Meat is high in iron, phosphorus and copper, and in complete protein.

4-H Achievement Program Are Scheduled For Nov. 7

Thousands of Kentucky farm boys and girls will assemble at county homes, schools and other meeting places Saturday, November 7, for state and national 4-H club achievement programs.

The national program will be broadcast from the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, and the state program from the University of Kentucky station of WHAS. Local programs will review the work of the year and award certificates of achievement to club members completing projects, and honor local leaders.

For local meetings, plans have been made to listen to the state radio program given by members of the 4-H club department of the College of Agriculture over WHAS from 11:45 to 12:15, central time; to the national program over the NBC system from 11:30 to 11:45 and from 12:15 to 12:30.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the University of Kentucky and U. S. Marine bands, and speakers of national prominence will be heard from Washington.

Kentucky has approximately 33,000 farm boys and girls enrolled in club work, achieving and learning the best farm and home practices.

Farmers Inspect Big Turkey Flock

Four thousand and fifty hundred turkeys ranging in a 113-acre orchard was the sight that greeted visitors at a meeting at the Kentucky Orchards farm in Bullitt county. Manager R. E. Nute has successfully combined fruit growing and turkey raising, using the big birds to devour insects, cut fruit and weeds and to help fertilize the soil.

Home-made tin brooder houses, brick brooder stoves, pole roosts and other simple and inexpensive expensive equipment are used. Chicken-wire fencing is used to rotate the ranging fields through the orchard as rapidly as the flocks clean up the insects, cut fruit and weeds. While a profit is made from raising the turkeys, Mr. Nute values highly their enrichment of the soil.

Poor Llamas to Breed Late Lambs

Saving late lambs for breeding is condemned by Richard C. Miller in a new University of Kentucky College of Agriculture circular called "Ewes for Commercial Flocks." Late lambs have few good and many undesirable characteristics, so far as breeding ewes are concerned, he declares. The use of late and unthrifty ewe lambs has seriously affected the quality of the Kentucky lamb crop, he believes. Mr. Miller, in this circular, discusses the use of range and native ewes, when and where to purchase ewes, culling of the flock, sanitation and other subjects of interest to sheep raisers. The circular is No. 236, and is available on request.

may be obtained from county agents or by writing to the college.

Fruit Class Inspects Van Antwerp Orchards

The class in advanced horticulture in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, accompanied by Prof. W. S. Wiltman and Dr. L. H. Townsend, recently visited the Dr. H. Van Antwerp orchards of 40 acres and 1,400 bearing trees in Rowan county.

Of special interest were two modern air-cooled storage houses of 10,000-bushel capacity, several acres of vineyard and a stationary spray plant. The plant is located adjacent to a pond from which the water is carried by gravity to two 400-gallon tanks. Electrically driven pumps exerting a pressure of 400 pounds force the spray material through lines running through the orchard. Spraying which formerly required more than a week now can be done in three days.

The apple crop this year while light is of good quality, and the trees are in good condition and show promise of producing a heavy crop next year, according to Professor Wiltman.

Good to Discuss Cattle Feeding

Foreheads wrinkle as cattle men ponder the problem of profits from high-priced feeds this year. Should they buy more cottonseed meal and feed less corn? What about molasses? Then there is soybean oilmeal. Just what concentrates can a farmer feed and keep out of the red?

In the Kentucky College of Agriculture radio program over WHAS November 3, Prof. E. S. Good will discuss the feeding of concentrates to beef cattle. Other numbers in the college's radio program that week include an agricultural engineering talk November 2, news of the farm and home economics department November 4, a review of the home economics nursery school November 5, and questions and answers November 6.

Pecans Make Good Holiday Desserts

In discussing holiday desserts, Miss Marie Barkley of the University of Kentucky home economics department says that pecan cakes are just as popular in Kentucky as fruit cakes. She has found the following recipe a successful one:

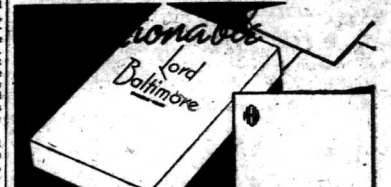

- 3 pounds seeded raisins
2 1/2 pounds pecans
1/2 pound candied orange peel
1/4 pound candied cherries
2 slices candied pineapple
1 pound butter
1 dozen eggs
2 pounds sugar
1 pound browned flour
1 pound white flour
2-3 cup molasses
1 pint grapejuice
4 teaspoons nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 teaspoons baking powder
To the fruit and nuts add half of a pound of the white flour and mix thoroughly. Cream the butter and sugar, then add the yolks of the eggs beaten slightly. To this add the molasses, browned flour and half of the grapejuice, then the dry ingredients, the remainder of the grapejuice and the whites of the eggs beaten stiffly. The fruit and nuts are added last and thoroughly mixed. Bake in a batter in two six-pound molds which have been well greased and lined, both sides and bottom, with one layer of greased paper. Bake at 325 degrees for three hours.

Desserts such as fruit cake and peckin pie are among the real joys of holidays, Miss Barkley adds, and it may be worthwhile to economize on the rest of the meal in order to have them.

SMALL TOWN SALES IN NOVEMBER GAIN

Daily average sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas for September were about 18 per cent higher in dollar volume than for September 1935 and were 25 per cent above those for the same month of 1934. Those changes were revealed by preliminary estimates based on rural chain store and mail-order sales, just received by the Louisville district office of the department of commerce. Sales for September increased about 27 per cent from August or considerably more than the usual increase at this season of the year. Sales for the first nine months of the year were 13 1/2 per cent above those for the corresponding period of 1935.

An old hog-rifle, symbolic of the lore surrounding the days of the pioneer in Eastern Kentucky will be the "pewee-resistance" when the Morehead Eagles and Eastern tangle in a football game at Richmond Friday afternoon.

The Campus Club of the Morehead school is the donor of the hog-rifle. At the end of Friday's game it will be presented to the winner and will remain in the possession until next year's meeting. Should the Eagles triumph the rifle will be on display at the Johnson-Cameron library, although according to Ellis Johnson, Morehead coach, the chances are very slim for the invaders to gain possession of the hunting piece.

The date and score will be carved on the butt of the gun each season.

Eastern Kentucky mountain lore is steeped with stories of the use of this type of gun. Since both colleges are primarily serving the eastern section of the Commonwealth the donors felt that a more appropriate prize would not be picked.

Morehead and Eastern have met in football nine times. Eastern has won 6, Morehead 2 while an odd score was a tie. For the last three

SPORTS

If you weren't one of 20 people you didn't see Morehead High school win its first football game in three years at Jayne stadium Friday afternoon. And, you missed one of the best football games to be played here this year.

You didn't miss seeing any stars in action—for actually neither club had any star performers. But you did miss seeing some 25 or 26 players putting more into the game—giving their all—that you will ever witness in a college struggle.

No one, except a member of the Morehead team, knows the true feelings of those boys when they were scored in the first quarter. It was the first time they crossed the goal line this year—but it wasn't the first time they crossed the goal line on straight power plays for scores, and judging from their play Morehead fans will see more touchdowns before this season is closed.

The boys who went over for that first touchdown were surprised by Morehead players who wrung his hands, patted him on the back and hit him on the arm. In that drizzling cold rain the boys that wear the Green and Red colors had perhaps the biggest thrill of their entire life.

These boys who go out each afternoon under the tutelage of the Roy Holbrook know they are not a great club. They don't enter matters one bit. They work just as hard, train just as faithfully—perhaps more so than the players on some such great team as Notre Dame. They love to play, and they love to win.

Football is coming back at Morehead High school. The over-cast skies are beginning to part and rays of sunshine are just casting a shadow on the tattered uniforms of 25 boys who love to play football—who play it cleanly and for the spirit of the thing.

Morehead High will play twice again at Jayne stadium. Let's all go out and see them—they depend on a broken bag. The rest of the squad are in as good shape as at any other time during the year.

Three to five hundred fans, headed by Morehead's 50-piece band will accompany the team. Arrangements are being made for a special train to carry the Morehead delegation.

Eagles Outplay Transy For 7-0 Win; Holbrook's Team Beats Wurtland 20-7

Vikings Come From Behind To Win First Game In Three Years

Playing in a steady drizzle of rain, the Morehead High school Vikings found their scoring spurs at Jayne stadium Friday afternoon, defeating a heavier Green-County High school eleven of Wurtland 20-7.

The Morehead club was superior throughout the game. They scored early in the first quarter but failed to convert. It was the Vikings' initial touchdown of the game.

Morehead came back after Wurtland's touchdown to score on the second quarter, but Wurtland tightened in the third quarter.

Early in the third quarter Wurtland scored a touchdown and converted on a lineback for a 7-6 lead. Wurtland's touchdown came on a pass to Mowery on the 40 yard line.

Morehead came back after Wurtland's touchdown to score on the third quarter and threatened again when the game ended. Both extra points were converted on line smashes.

The Vikings showed wonderful improvement over their initial playing, and presented a double wing back formation that kept the visitors guessing throughout. With the exception of the time they scored Wurtland never threatened.

Lloyd Brown was the power behind the Morehead attack and with him in the game at Olive Hill, it might have been a different story there. Mowery was easily the loser's best, gaining most of the ground they made.

attractive Linda Lee Eaton parading between halves, forming an "M" and "E".

It is the spirit of winners, and it is fast re-instating itself at Morehead.

To a school and town starved for grid victories, this year's Morehead club has stirred up a spirit aplenty. So far the Eagles have battled an even 50-50 losing a heart-breaker to Murray, tying Georgetown and Dunbar and defeating Transy. The Eagles have scored 20 points and the opposition 20 points.

Two of the touchdowns against the Teachers were accounted for on forward passes, and Coaches Johnson and Miller worked hardest this week on a good defense against the Maroons publicized passing attack.

20-7, 22 calibre rifles and 30-06 rifles were used. Those who participated in the practice match were John Adams, Emmett Lewis, H. L. Roberts, Everett Hall, Jerry Dye, Norman Bowling and James Baumstark.

Nerves

Do they torture you by day? Keep you awake at night? What is it that keeps hospitals open and doctors busy? NERVES. What is it that makes your face wrinkled and makes you feel old? NERVES. Nine times out of ten it's NERVES that make you restless, worried, haggard.

Nerves

Do they make you Cranky, Blue—give you Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache? When nerves are over-taxed, you worry over trifles, find it hard to concentrate, can't sit still. Nerve Strain brings on Headaches. Nervous people often suffer from Indigestion. There may be absolutely nothing wrong with the organs of digestion, but the Nerves are not on the job to make the organs do their work properly.

Nerves

Do they interfere with your work, ruin your pleasure, drive away your friends? You're cheating yourself and the man who pays you if you work when your NERVES are not normal.
