

Rawcell Heights Open House Set For Sunday

The open house at Rawcell Heights, Morehead's first Federally-financed, low rent housing center, will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m.

Entrance to the project is on Main Street, under the West of Morehead Grade School and Rowan County Health Center.

Final inspection and acceptance of the project was held Tuesday. The inspection was made by representatives of the Atlanta Regional offices of HHA, the contractor, the architect and members of the Morehead Municipal Housing Commission.

Tenants will start moving in to the 30 units next week. Average rent is $31.27 a month, but some units are rented at $22 a month. These figures include the cost of natural gas, the project cost more than $400,000.

A meeting of the housing commission is scheduled for Friday at 7 p.m. in the Administration building on the project.

"We are making application for 70 more units," Crutcher said, "probably within the next month."

Organizations and individuals who have cooperated with the past year's activities during the "Jaycees" award its "most meritorious" award.

In addition, the group will present 10 "outstanding" Jaycees award its "most meritorious" award.

Survivors include a sister, Nettie Jones of Bluestone, with whom she made her home.

Other survivors include these nieces and nephews, who she helped rear: Mrs. Pearl Reynolds and Mrs. Thelma Reynolds, both of New Castle, Ind.; Mrs. Edith Adkins, Morehead; Mrs. Lillian Jones, both of Bluestone.

Federal services were held at the home of her sister, Thursday, Rev. Guy McKenney and Rev. L. E. Collier officiated. Burial was in Brown Cemetery.

Luna Funeral Home cared for the arrangements.

Auto, Truck Blaze Kept Firemen Busy

Two vehicles fire in less than an hour kept members of Morehead's Volunteer fire department busy last Thursday.

The first at 3:30 p.m. involved an automobile owned by Robert Peffer. Fire Chief C. B. McCullough said a lightning covered the car. Firemen took about 20 minutes to control the blaze.

The chief said the engine's cleaner had been removed, exposing gasoline in the carburetor.

Minutes later the department responded a truck fire near Bluestone.

Auto Stickers On Sale At City Hall

It's that time of year again when motorists must dig deep for a city sticker.

City Clerk Minnie Preston said Wednesday that the new stickers, which must be on cars and trucks by Sept. 1, are now on sale at City Hall.

They cost $10.

Frank Howard McCartney, 48, Flemingsburg attorney and husband of the former Gladys Evans of Lexington, died Saturday after suffering a heart attack Friday.

A former city attorney and county attorney, McCartney was an elder in the Flemingsburg Methodist Church, was a veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict and a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Survivors include the wife and these four children: Frank Howard McCartney III, Eldon Evans McCartney, Thomas Dent McCartney and Sidney Jane McCartney, all at home.

Funeral services and burial were held Monday in Flemingsburg.

Development of the Rowan County Airport has hit a snag - lack of local matching funds.

More than $300,000 in federal appraisal is expected to be approved the land and came up with a value of $180,000.

The airport was designed to cost $94,000. The State agreed to put up one-fourth, the federal government one-half, and the Rowan County one-fourth, plus about $3,000 in state tied improvements.

To achieve its one-fourth, the 45 acres of land was subdivided. Two, maybe three, one-half acre parcels were made of the property, after it had been leveled, etc. with ball diamonds.

Concrete blocks falling from a truck caused a case of passing without an assured clear distance.

A truck driven by Alecia Clark of Haldeman was damaged in the front and side when it struck concrete blocks which had fallen from the rear of a truck driven by Kenneth Ray Fultz of Morehead.

Law enforcement officers raided an alleged bootlegging establishment three times, another twice and swooped down on a third time in a two-day period last week.

Five persons have been charged with either possession of alcoholic beverages illegally or selling them.

More than 4,300 cans and bottles were confiscated along with 188 half-pints of whiskey.

Raided twice was a "drive-around" establishment east of Morehead Wednesday was Paul Scotland, 21. Officers said they took 810 cans and bottles of beer, 25 half-pints of whiskey, 10 half-pints of vodka, and 18 half-pints of vodka.

Still a third search was made by officers at the "Clock" later in the day, after another alleged sale by Sneegar, but no contraband was found.

Sneegar has been charged on two counts of selling and two counts of possession. Layton has been charged on one count of selling.

Tom Young, Claimed Easements Sought On Pipeline

Thomas D. Young, for nearly 30 years one of Morehead's most prominent personalities, died Friday morning in Greene Memorial Hospital.

An art professor at Morehead State College for 28 years, Young had retired in April because of illness. He had been in the hospital three days. Death was attributed to a heart ailment.

A quiet, gentle person, Young was an accomplished artist. His "Young Boy Combined Shows Trained Animal Circus," made up of more than 50,000 items which he carved from wood is a constant source of delight to both youngsters and adults.

He was born Mar. 21, 1901, a son of the late Thomas and Lucy Roach Young.

He graduated from Kavanagh High School in Lawrenceburg, the University of Kentucky and the University of Cincinnati.

He was married to Mary Rice, who survives, Nov. 27, 1924. Young was a member of the Morehead Men's Club, Beaux Arts and an honorary member of the Morehead Lions Club.

Surviving, in addition to the wife and son, are two brothers, Harold and Paul, both of Morehead. Funeral services were held Sunday at Lawrenceburg. Burial in Lawrenceburg Cemetery.

IN NEW STADIUM MSC Grid Tickets On Sale

Tickets for all home football games at Morehead State College are now on sale at the college ticket office.

Prices for tickets for the home games are: $2.50 for a box seat, $2 for a reserved seat and $1.50 for general admission tickets. The price does not include tax.

Boxes are priced at $40 with six seats in a box. Most of the boxes on the west side of the 10,000 seat stadium have been purchased by previous box holders.

Five new faculty members in the Division of Social Studies have been appointed to the 1964-65 academic year at Morehead State College.

Named to the Social Studies faculty are: Dr. Martin Greenman, associate professor of Philosophy; Dr. Everett C. Simpson, associate professor of Economics and Political Science; Dr. Kenton Lewis, assistant professor of History; John Duncan, instructor in Sociology; and Dr. Frank Clark, instructor in Geography.

Dr. Greenman holds the MA degree from the University of Chicago. He has taught at Morehead State and the University of Rochester.

Dr. Cunningham holds the AB degree from Western Kentucky State College and MA degree from the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Lucas holds the AB, MA and PhD degrees from the University of North Carolina and has served as a graduate assistant at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Duncan earned the AB and MA degrees from Morehead State College and has done his graduate work at Indiana University. He taught in public schools of Mt. Healthy, Ohio.

Dr. Clark holds the BS and MA degrees from the University of Kentucky.

Bigger On Staff At St. Claire

Appointment of Dr. F. Calvin Bigler as associate surgeon at St. Claire Medical Center was announced this week by hospital officials.

He joins Dr. Warren Proudfoot on the surgery staff at the hospital, and a year in residence in Cooperstown, N.Y., where he completed a four-year residency in general surgery.

He has also spent a year doing research at the Pathology Institute of the University of Munich, Germany, a year of rotating internship at Bassett Hospital, and a year in residence at Presbyterian Hospital in New York City.

Dr. Bigler spent his two-year military service obligation with U. S. Public Health Service in situations at Keam's Canyon and at Des Moines, Iowa, which served Hopi and Navajo Indian reservations.

He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American College of Surgeons, and the American Society of Clinical Pathology.

Dr. Bigler and his wife, Phyllis Jean, have four sons, Carl, James, John, and Mark.

They are residing at 302 Normal Ave.

Kentuckians Chosen For Training

Thirty-three Kentuckians are among 2,000 who were selected nationally to receive specialized training in a new program to govern disadvantaged and impoverished youth, State Economic Security Commissioner Earl V. Powell has announced.

Powell said that 238 Kentucky applicants had taken the examination which was sponsored by the U. S. Department of Labor through the State Employment Service.

The 33 selected from Kentucky filled the State's quota for trainees, and have been selected at Flisk University, Nashville, Tenn., and Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, for about eight weeks of class work. Completion will qualify trainees to become counselor aides and youth advisors.

"No more applications can be accepted for the program at this time," the Commissioner said. "All applications taken from those not in the 2000 selected nationally will be kept for future consideration in the event this type of training is offered later in the year," he said.

"In the event more persons are needed than have been selected thus far," Powell explained, "all qualified and thus need not contact the State Employment Service as to their status."

New Method May Stop Highway Rock Slides

A new method of rock excavation known as "pre-splitting" is being used in construction of the Central Parkway in an effort to eliminate the danger of later rock falls and improve the appearance of cut slopes.

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said the Highway Department, included the new technique as a bid item in some grade and drain contracts on the Parkway because the Department feels it can get more satisfactory results through its use in certain instances. Ward noted that this is the first time the method has been used as a bid item by the Highway Department.

Here's how pre-splitting works: First, engineers determine the line of each cut slope. Next, holes are drilled along the line with spacing between holes approximately 24 inches (this may vary depending on type rock). The holes are drilled from 2 1/2 to 3 inches in diameter, extend the full depth of the cut and conform to the slope as established.

A pre-determined amount of dynamite is inserted in each hole. The charges are detonated simultaneously; the blast follows the line of least resistance and leaves a crack the length and depth of the holes with very little disturbance beyond the slope.

When this process is completed on both sides of the cut, enough dynamite charges are placed between the two cracks to loosen the rock remaining within the line of least resistance. The shattering effect of these blasts ends at the pre-split cracks, thus leaving a clean slope when the cut is excavated.

With ordinary blasting it is almost impossible to leave a slope free of irregularities because the line of least resistance where the effect of the blast will end. If the charge is too heavy it causes shattering beyond the planned slope. If too light, the charge creates the necessity for secondary blasting, an expensive and time-consuming operation.

Pre-splitting eliminates both of these problems since the shattering effect of blasts within the cut will end at the pre-split cracks. This allows the powder mass to load as heavily and as close as is necessary without worrying about shattering beyond the planned slope. It is anticipated that the Highway Department will not only get better results from pre-splitting, but also save money. Basis for this belief is that, with the old technique, a contractor is eligible for compensation for up to 10 per cent beyond the planned area of a cut, due to the variable nature of regular blasting.

On the other hand, the Department specifies that a pre-split face shall not deviate more than six inches from the front of the line of drill holes, nor more than one foot from the back, unless the nature of the rock makes this impossible.

Most Popular Leaf Seed Is Burley 21

Burley 21, the popular burley tobacco variety in Kentucky for a number of years, was the top seller this season as far as seed is concerned, Ira Masse, UK Ag Extension Service specialist, said Burley 21 sales were 34 percent of the variety sales in seed in Kentucky this season and 28 percent of the seed sales in the several-state burley belt.

Next was Ky 9, which accounted for 22 percent of Kentucky seed sales and 18 percent of the burley belt. Ky 10 was tucky seed sales and 17 percent in the belt.

"Burley 21 perhaps provides more usable tobacco under normal growing and proper cultural practices than other varieties," Masse said. "Ky 9, 10 are popular because of resistance to many diseases."

Ranking next, after the top three, were all the hybrid "varieties," with 20 percent in Kentucky seed sales and 18 percent of the belt. Ky 12 accounted for two percent of state and burley belt seed sales and eight or 10 other recommended varieties had the remaining 10 percent of seed sales in the state and 11 percent in the belt.

High sale of hybrids, he thinks, was due to the hybrids being new and very interesting to compare with standard varieties; hybrids also probably will reach harvest time earlier than maturing varieties. His figures came from the major seed-selling sources.

New Facilities Still Available At State Parks

A few efficiency cottages in five of the resort-type Kentucky State parks and a small number of rooms in lodges at eight parks still are available for guests during August.

A few efficiency cottages are available at Cumberland Falls (near Corbin), Carter Cave (near Olive Hill), Pennywell Forest (near Dawson Springs), Pine Mountain (near Pineville) and Natural Bridge (near Slade). State Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell has reported.

Some lodge rooms are open for one-day stay at Pennywell, Rough River, Pine Mountain, Kentucky Lake, Cumberland Falls, Natural Bridge, Carter Cave and the Central Lodge at Kentucky Dam Village. Only in the new lodge at Bulkborn Lake in Perry County can a room be booked for a week, according to Bell.

Both cottages and lodge rooms at General Butler (near Carrollton), Jenny Wiley (near Prestonsburg), and Lake Cumberland (near Jarramstown) are completely booked through August, Bell reported.

He said that the new Central Reservation Office here continues not only to be helpful in advance reservations, but also in balancing the distribution of vacationers in the State parks system. And, cancellations sometimes make extra accommodations available.

It also aids in balancing the new reservation service that two direct lines and one operator were added to the initial three lines and two operators. Saturday-Morning service also has been added for callers seeking reservations and information.

Calls to the Central Reservation Information Office totaled over 6,500 by the end of July 25, an average of 110 a day, according to Louis Hempel, in charge of the Central Reservation Office.

Total attendance last year at Kentucky's 34 parks and shrines was a record 11,077,477, and this year's figure is expected to be 13 million.

The new Hemlock Lodge at Natural Bridge State Park was dedicated recently, and the new lodge at Bulkborn Lake State Park was opened for guests in July.

Information About Rawcel Heights

MOREHEAD'S NEW (and 1st) FEDERALLY FINANCED LOW REnt HOUSING CENTER

LOCATION - On seven acres at rear of Grade School, parallel to Sun Street. Entrance is immediately west of Morehead Grade School and Rowan County Health Center. Street within the project have been completed, and the City of Morehead is awarding a contract for widening, and surfacing the entrance street.

SIZE AND COST - Rawcel Heights consists of duplex dwelling units of one, two, three, and four bedrooms, accommodating 30 families. Building "No. 100" is the Administration and Maintenance Headquarters. Application for federal funds was made about six years ago, but the project delayed because of land acquisition, available funds from the Congress, and construction problems. Cost of the project was more than $400,000.

OWNERSHIP - Although the entire cost of the project was underwritten by the United States (Atlanta Regional HHA), title is held by The Morehead Municipal Housing Commission, whose members are appointed by Council. On retirement of the debt the property fully belongs to the Commission and/or the City of Morehead.

TENANCY AND RENTS - This is not a 'welfare housing plan', but designed to accommodate families who are deserving, have acceptable backgrounds etc, but limited incomes. The rent is based on space occupied, but rather on the total family income. The rent of the 30 families that have been assigned to Rawcel Heights averages $31.21 a month, with gas for heating and cooking furnished. Some tenants pay as low as $22 a month.

APPLICATION - The Commission had more applications than the 30 units. Occupancy was assigned on a 'formula' supplied by the Atlanta HHA. Applications may still be submitted, because these will be considered, and assigned, as vacancies occur and 2. The Commission plans to apply for 70 more units in another part of Morehead, and the number of applicants will, to an extent, govern federal approval of another housing project. Applications will be accepted at the Administration Building on the project, or telephone 784-4314.

SERVICES - Natural gas is included in the rent, but occupants at Rawcel Heights pay their own electric and water bills, individually metered. All of the project lies within the city limits of Morehead, and will be supplied with city mail and parcel post delivery; garbage collection; and police and fire protection. The Commission objectively placed the entrance at the west end to avoid noise and traffic, and assure occupants of privacy, playground for children, etc. The Commission provides a 'Maintenance Man' on the project.

PROJECT NAME - Rawcel Heights was named for members of The Morehead Municipal Housing Commission, who serve without remuneration:

- R - W. H. Rice,
- A - Hubert Allen,
- W - Mrs. Myrtle Wolford,
- C - W. E. Crutcher, Chairman,
- F - Mayor Eldon T. Evans, ex officio,
- L - William H. Layne, Vice-Chairman.

The Commission emphasizes that applications for occupancy are still being accepted, although initial occupancy has been assigned.

C&O Begins Raceland Shops Modernization

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway announced today start of a $3.7 million revamping of its car shops at Raceland, which will provide C & O employees with improved facilities to build better rail cars even faster.

C & O's own work force will participate in the project. About half the job will be accomplished this year and it will be completed in 1955.

The shops were originally built to turn out 24 coal hoppers a day, but in recent years they have been turning out as many as 32 to meet the railroad's requirements. C & O shop employees will continue the current car building program during the reconstruction period. Nearly all departments in the Raceland shops will be improved. Much of the money will go to provide machinery, plus a new machine shop, a new wheel and truck shop building, a new brake shop building and for weather protection sheds in the paint department. In addition, a new electric power substation will be added to the four already in use. The substation now serving the bus center shop will be expanded to approximately double its present capacity.

One new machine tool will cost $225,000, and will produce one-piece steel bar-side sheels. The sides presently are assembled from several sections, costing more for materials and handling. A 1,500-ton press that forms sheet steel components will be installed at a cost of $230,000. New materials handling equipment, including hoists, monorails, conveyors and loading equipment, will be installed at several locations. Expanded office space also will be provided for the shop manager and for industrial engineering and shop engineering personnel. The parking lots will be improved and new lock-up space provided in some areas. A new concrete floor will be installed along the car erection tracks, for better house keeping and safety. A study is also underway to improve handling facilities in the stores department at the shops. C & O previously announced it is building a $1.4 million rail-welding facility to provide one-quarter-mile lengths of 22-pound rail not far from the Raceland car shops.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Board Member Disagrees With Column's Viewpoint

EDITOR: THE NEWS I wish to take exception to some statements in the "The Publishers Pen" in the July 19th issue of the News. I served as chairman of the Board of Supervisors which made the tax assessments which Mr. Curt Dillon appealed to the Quarter Sessions Court. I do not understand why the law provides for a County Judge to change the assessment rates in a city, but I informed Mr. Dillon of his right to do so even though he was personally abusive in his remarks to me when he appeared before the Board. You quoted with apparent approval Judge Flannery's statement about property around Morehead being too high and went on to say that the high price of property was stymieing local progress and growth more than any other thing I agree that property values are high here, but not beginning with my first attempt to purchase property in Morehead twelve years ago. I conclude that it's not too much the high price of property that is stymieing Morehead as the refusal of certain owners of vacant land to sell at any price. Such as the case of Mr. Dillon. The high price of land in Morehead is directly related to the supply of land for development. I believe that ice water would bring a greater price in land than it is now. The North Pole. So it is when property values in Morehead are compared with values in Owensboro elsewhere. A licensed real-estate broker testified under oath that Mr. Dillon's unimproved tracts were worth not more than $30 per front foot on U. S. 60 E. We assessed them for $40. After the hearing was over and the verdict rendered I made a bona fide offer to the real estate broker in question asking him to negotiate the purchase for $50 per front foot for any or all of Mr. Dillon's property which he swore was worth not more than $30 per front foot. His laughing response was, "I would buy it myself for that." This same broker called me a few days later to see if I was interested in buying some U. S. 60 E property. Three buildings of questionable value, at $100 per acre. The Board of Supervisors spent 20 days of hard work, at about the rate of pay common laborers receive on construction projects, attempting to equalize property assessments in Morehead. While I have disagreed vigorously with council and the mayor on numerous occasions about various matters, I cannot agree that the headboard and headboard of the County Judge. It is my very strong recommendation that the County Judge be appointed to Circuit Court and, if necessary, to the Court of Appeals to enable him to do other conscientiously. This City to get in the thankless, difficult task yours truly, Norman Tani

Hunting Dates On Forest Are Disclosed

By Joe J. Mauk During the last two or three weeks we have had several requests for information on the Cumberland National Forest. The seasons and bag limits are established by the Fish and Wildlife Resource Commission of the State. However, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources cooperates with the Forest Service in stocking programs, wildlife management areas on the forest, development of wildlife refuges, etc. Recommendations of the Forest Supervisor and the Wildlife Biologist of the Forest Service are taken into consideration in for as bag and season limits within the Cumberland National Forest. The tentative dates for seasons this year are as follows: Squirrel—Aug. 23 to Nov. 15 and Dec. 1 through Dec. 14, except Fleming and Bath Counties which are Aug. 15 through Nov. 15 Rabbit—Open Nov. 19 closing date not set. Grouse—Dec. 1 through Feb. 28. Wild Turkey—in that portion of the Cumberland National Forest of Highway 466, the season is open Oct. 30 through Nov. 1. Coon is an open season in 29 of the 30 counties of Rowan or other adjoining counties or portion thereof, except Menifee. Deer—Nov. 23 through 29 in Rowan, Fleming, Bath, Menifee and Morgan for gun hunting (none set for Carter). Archery or bow and arrow season for above counties is Oct. 15 through Nov. 15. Primitive Weapons—A primitive weapons season, in which only primitive weapons may be used, has been set for a specified 7,000 acre area in Bath and Menifee counties in the Cumberland National Forest. Primitive Weapons—A primitive weapons season, in which only crossbows, longbows, muzzle-loading rifles and muzzle-loading shotguns may be used. Area is plainly marked by "Primitive Weapons Area" signs. Game which may be killed include: squirrels—Aug. 23—Nov. 15 and Dec. 1—Dec. 14; doves—Sept. 1—Oct. 31, Dec. 1—

Mrs. Breathitt to Aid Arthritics

Recent visitor to Frankfort was 8-year-old rheumatoid arthritis victim Wanda Brewer of Morehead who received a personally-sourced tour of the Governor's Residence by Mrs. Edward T. Breathitt. Kentucky's First Lady has been named state chairman of the annual fund drive of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, to be conducted September 15—Arthritis Day in Kentucky. She will head a nationwide drive of some 20,000 volunteers, aiming for a goal of $100,000 in contributions during the door-to-door drive in 25 counties. The funds are used to finance therapy centers for arthritics, provide medical scholarships, and research grants. Wanda, the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Brewer, was treated at the therapy center at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, where she still receives additional therapy.

Additional Society

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Brooks left Sunday for a three weeks' tour and visit with their children and families, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Brooks and family in Delaware, N.J. and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Keizer and family in Bentleyville, Pa. Mrs. Fred Castner, Mrs. Dave Carlson and daughter, Rosemary and their guests, and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Salyer and children of Texas, spent Wednesday visiting their sisters and families, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Harold in Portsmouth, O. and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Mulford in Chilli, Ohio. They visited in Lexington, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Wade Little and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Prater. Mr. and Mrs. L.E. Addison and Jack Boatright of Houston, Tex. are in Morehead to be with Charles McAdams of Buquetique, N.M. who is a patient at St. Claire Medical Center. Mr. McAdams was injured in a railroad crossing accident Friday at Salt Lick. Miss Sandra Keyser of Frankfort was the weekend guest of Miss Jane Allen, Linda Pat McGarry and Stephanie Tucker who leave Saturday for a week's stay at Camp Ernst, Covington. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craig are moving from Catlettsburg to Lexington where he will teach. Mrs. Craig is the former Alice Katherine Montjoy, formerly of Morehead.

Aged Artifacts Are On Display

Daniel Boone is a real Johnny-come-lately to Kentucky compared to the prehistoric Indians whose artifacts, tools, and weapons are now on display at the Kentucky Historical Society Museum in Frankfort. Shell beads, stone maces, jars, and spear points from Indian cultures dating as far back as 10,000 B. C. comprise the bulk of the 1,200-piece collection permanently loaned to the museum by the University of Kentucky and private collectors Charles Johnson, Frankfort, and Clifton Caldwell, Danville. The artifacts, representing different Kentucky Indian cultures spanning the period from the end of the Ice Age to the influence of Colonial traders, comprise the most extensive collection on free public display in the state, according to Society Director George M. Chinn.

Rights Group Will Probe Bias Charges

Galen Martin, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights, has reminded local human rights committees and other groups that the Commission is available to investigate charges of discrimination in the state, including those falling under the Federal Civil Rights Law. In a memo to human rights groups around the state, Martin said the Commission has statutory power "to receive and investigate complaints of discrimination...". He said the body has dealt successfully in this area in the past and that this experience "will be helpful in dealing with complaints under the new law." The Federal act, he added, provides for conciliation and persuasion efforts before court action is initiated to remove unjust discrimination, and it recognizes that the legal rights groups are frequently best able to work out solutions. The Community Relations Service created to implement the Federal law nationwide, is explicitly directed "to seek and utilize the cooperation of appropriate state or local, public, or private agencies."
