New and Cheap!

WE are now receiving a fine, large and desirable stock of Dry Goods, to which we invite the attention of Country Merchants, with confidence, believing we can furnish them with many late and desirable styles of goods much lower than the same article was bought in a regular way in the best Eastern Job Houses, at the commencement of the present season. Our stock of Prints, Gingham, Cashmeres, Mouseline, Tickings, Flannels, Tweeds, Cassimeres, Flaid Linens, Beavers and Brown Cottons, Drillings and Canton Flannels, is unusually large, well-assorted, and CHEAP, and we feel assured will compare, as to quality and price, with any market west of the mountains. We have also a very large lot of blue and drab Blankets, large and heavy, Blanket coatings, Cloths, Cassinets, Nankeens, red Blankets, colored Cambrics, white Goods, Notions, Trimmings, Shawls, black and fancy Alpaca, Chalmers Lustras, Irish Linens, Table Linens, Towellings, green and blue Bareges, Capes, Laces, Collars, Handkerchiefs, &c. Also—
200 Cases Boots and Shoes, good quality;
100 doz. Hats, all small and fashionable.
200 do. Caps, very cheap and fashionable.
To our retail customers we would say, that we have bestowed special pains in providing for their wants, and hope to receive a liberal share of their patronage. Our friends in the country who may favor us, with orders, may rest assured they will meet with prompt attention, and the goods be sent at the lowest figures.

THE MOUNTAIN IN LABOR.—Our neighbor continues his strictures upon the President's Message, and before the close of the week, we shall expect to see the mouse come forth.

HEAVY FROST.—We never recollect having seen a greater supply of frost, than was upon the ground yesterday morning. The neighboring forest trees presented a most beautiful and dazzling appearance, as the Solar King of Day rose in the east and shed his rufulent rays upon their trunks and branches; and Nature seemed to have been employed, during the night, in clothing all creation in a beautiful robe of snow-white drapery.—It was one of the most beautiful sights we ever gazed upon.

Monument to The Memory of Simon Kenton.

A correspondent, in to-day's paper, calls the attention of our citizens, and the people of Mason county generally, to a subject of deep interest and importance, and one which cannot fail to make an impression upon the minds of all, favorable to a consummation of the praise-worthy undertaking.

The remains of the late veteran Pioneer soldier lie interred in the soil of a neighboring State, and it is proposed that they shall be exhumed from their resting place—brought to this city, where they properly belong—and re-interred in the new Cemetery, where a handsome and appropriate Monument shall be erected to his memory, in the name of the county of Mason.

We rejoice to see this suggestion, and are only surprised that it was not made at an earlier day. It will certainly meet the cordial approbation of all classes of citizens, and few, if any, will decline to do everything in their power to facilitate the work.

The people of old Mason have only to will that it shall be accomplished.

MANFULLY DONE.—Our friend of the Lexington Daily Atlas, in his paper of Tuesday, frankly acknowledges that the words "GOD AND LIBERTY," do not occur at the conclusion of the Message, as the Telegraphic report made them.—This is honorable in our old friend, and we are now sorry that we retorted upon him so harshly yesterday. We intend to keep our old friend straight, if possible, for we feel an abiding interest in his welfare. There is more real game in him than we have found in any other Whig editor in Kentucky; and as we love that quality in an opponent, we can forgive him freely for his errors, provided he will always, as in this instance, "acknowledge the corn."

Father Fimmel thinks the operator, who made the addition, should "be instantly dismissed from office." We think he ought to be sent to the Penitentiary—that is all the difference.

The Cholera.

The editor of the North American and United States Gazette is of the opinion that there is no immediate danger of the Asiatic Cholera visiting the United States, and supports his opinion by the following facts:

"First, that the progress of the Cholera in Europe, within the last twelve months, has proved to be very similar as regards rate of travel, and date of visitation, to its progress over the same region in 1817; and, secondly, that, if it continues to observe this similarity, it can scarcely be expected to reach the New World until some time next Spring or Summer. We notice, in an article published more than a year ago, the advance of the epidemic, then in Moscow and other Russian cities, observing, at that time, that it had visited those places during the same months in 1830, and calculating the probability of its reaching England in October of this year, just as it reached it in the same month of 1831. This calculation was verified by the result; it was in October that the first cases of cholera actually made their appearance in England, at Hull.

"The following were the dates of the appearance of the disease at the places mentioned, in Europe and America at its former visit, from which readers may calculate for themselves the probabilities of its approach. It broke out at Moscow on the 28th of September, 1830; at Sunderland, England, on the 28th of October, 1831; at Quebec, June 8, 1832; at New York, June 27; at Philadelphia, July 16th; at Boston, on the 15th of August."

Telegraph vs. Telegraph, and both vs. the Press.

Since the breaking of the wires of the Lightning Line by the chimneys of the Steamer Telegraph No. 2, we have been put to great inconvenience, on account of receiving our regular Telegraphic dispatches; and the evil must be shortly remedied, or we shall cease to depend upon that source of intelligence. We have now to ferry the river twice, after night, in order to obtain that which should be sent to our office without delay; and this trouble is not only attended with expense, but it deprives our hands of rest a great portion of every night. Indeed, we do not feel like submitting to such treatment, nor will we do it, for any considerable time to come. The Steamer was at fault in breaking the wires, because she could easily have avoided doing so, by running a little nearer to either shore; but this does not exculpate the Telegraph company from blame, on account of the evil of which we now complain. It has been several days since the wires were broken, and we are not yet advised that any move has been made, on the part of the company, to replace them; and this is not only attended with disadvantages to the press, but to the business part of community, and to the Telegraph company. Every day which the wires remain down, will be attended with a serious loss to the proprietors, and, if they know their own interests, or consult the interests of the public, they will cause them to be replaced, without further delay.

We are free to admit that the energetic and enterprising Operator at this point, Mr. J. O. BEGAR, has discharged even more than his duty, in order to furnish us with dispatches at the earliest possible hour, and that he has spared no pains, in endeavoring to give entire satisfaction to all who have had business to transact with his office; but this is no apology for those whose duty it is to see that the wires are replaced—nor shall it shield the company from such a castigation as their indifference to the public interest merits. It is their duty to replace the wires without delay, and, unless the work is so performed, we shall not cease to keep up our fire upon them, until they shall learn the importance of attending to business in a proper manner.

It will be seen from our remarks above, that by one Telegraph running against and breaking another, they have both run against the Press—a battery by far more formidable than the engines of the one, or the electricity of the other; and we here take the liberty of assuring the parties concerned, that we shall never surrender, until after the Telegraph No. 2 learns to behave herself—to keep off the wires, and stop at our wharf for passengers and freight.—and the Directors of the Lightning Line again send their flashes to their office in this city. When these things shall be done, we shall have no objection to saying as much in their favor, as we have here said against them; but not previous to that time, can they expect any favors at the hands of the public.

The Whigs have not yet completed a Cabinet for General Taylor.

"Does the Moon influence the weather?" asks our friend of the Lexington Atlas. We have no doubt it has more or less influence upon the weather, as it has upon the tides; and we have been thoroughly convinced that it has a remarkable influence upon weather-cocks, ever since our editorial acquaintance with our friend of the Atlas. We are said to be moon-eyed, but he is worse than that—he is a moon-omaniac.

Monument to Simon Kenton.

It is known to this community, that a desirable piece of ground has been purchased by a company of gentlemen of this City, to be appropriated as a Cemetery, and that the Trustees are now engaged in the work of laying out the same in a tasteful and suitable manner. The spot selected is about a mile and a half from the City, and is capable of the highest state of improvement. We understand the gentlemen who have it in charge, will spare no labor or expense, to render it creditable to the City.

In the centre of the plot, on a slightly elevated knoll, and surrounded by a wide avenue, will be set apart an oval or circular lot, some fifty feet in diameter, to be handsomely ornamented with suitable shrubbery, and dedicated to public purposes—the burial of any distinguished person, or persons, to whom the community may desire to show respect by the ceremonies of a public burial. It has been thought by some, that this spot could not be better appropriated, than by the erection upon it of a handsome monument to the memory of the great backwoods pioneer, SIMON KENTON. We have no doubt the trustees will cheerfully surrender it for such a patriotic purpose, and upon no people could the duty of paying this tribute to the memory of KENTON, more appropriately devolve, than upon the citizens of Mason County. It was at the mouth of Cabin Creek, but a few miles from the spot selected for the monument, that he first trod his foot upon Kentucky soil; and here in the county of Mason that he made his settlement, and was the first to commence the cultivation of the earth. There are many among us who remember the old pioneer, and would, doubtless, rejoice in the opportunity of testifying their respect for his memory by contributing to the removal of his remains and the erection of a suitable monument.

The remains of KENTON lie buried in Logan County, Ohio, near the railroad, and with the consent of his aged widow, who still survives, may be disinterred and removed to our Cemetery, at comparatively small expense. The monument can be procured in our City upon very reasonable terms, and he as tastefully executed as at any other place in the West.

Will not some of the old acquaintances of Kenton move in this matter? Let us have a public meeting on the subject, appoint committees to procure subscriptions and take such steps as will secure this patriotic object.

AN UNSAFE INVESTMENT.—Did thee receive my remittance, NATHAN, my son?—Yes, father!

"Then why did thee not buy a new coat?—thy present one is rather fragile?"

"Why—the fact is—that I left all my money—in the bank at New Orleans."

"—Ah! the economy is certainly commendable. In what bank?"

"I don't exactly remember what bank father—I know it was a very good one as it had a scripture name. It was—and let me see—it was the Pharaoh bank, I think."

—The Greek Slave, which is admitted by all to be the greatest masterpiece of art executed, will remain about two weeks longer. We have always given the ladies of our city the credit of visiting no place or exhibition that would seem to them vulgar or indecorous, allowing them to be their own judges. We are convinced that the most pure and high minded of our Cincinnati ladies have visited this great creation of Mr. Powers.—They undoubtedly look upon it with the feelings of Edward the Third when he gave the popular quotation of non sicut, que nulli pnce.—Cin. Inquirer.

THE CHOLERA.—The New York Tribune of the 7th inst., speaking of the exaggerated accounts put forth by the city prints, says:—"We don't believe that a case of the Cholera, proper, has appeared at Staten Island this season. We have seen nothing like evidence of such a fact." It does appear improbable, that a vessel sailing from Havre, where there has not occurred a single case of Cholera, should be the bearer of this dread disease to our shores. However, it is more than probable that it will soon make its appearance, through other channels, and it is best to be prepared.—Cin. Inquirer.

A PROBABLE INSURRECTION.—Accounts from Porto Rico, represent that Island to be in a dreadful state of alarm, the people being every moment in expectation that the slaves would revolt, and perhaps massacre the free inhabitants. The slaves, we believe, constitute but about one-tenth of the whole population.—There are, however, a large number of free blacks—four times as many as there are slaves. The slaves and free blacks together, make about half the population of the island, which is not far from 400,000. The militia and regular troops were constantly on duty, and intercourse with the island was prohibited as much as possible. The Spaniards, it is said, feared that the slaves would receive assistance from the Haytiens, and a report was current that the Haytiens had threatened to make a descent upon Porto Rico.—Boston Traveller.

—A fire broke out in the Astor House, New York, early on the morning of the 5th inst., which was soon extinguished. The damage to the house was, probably $10,000. A young man named Philip Furlong was so severely injured by a brick falling on his head that he soon died after the accident.

PETER CHANCERY, And his Five Dollar Bill.

[Showing the blessings that may follow the settlement of the smallest account.]

BY PROFESSOR INGRAM.

[CONCLUDED FROM YESTERDAY.]

As Peter Chancery, Esq., did not believe in his own mind that paying his debt to Mr. Last was to be of any benefit to him, and was of opinion that it was "money thrown away," let us follow the fate of the five dollar bill thro' the day.

"He has paid," said the boy, placing the money in his employer's hand who was wondering where he could get five dollars to pay a bill that was due that day.

"Here, John," he called to one of his apprentices "put on your hat and take this money to Captain O'Brien, and tell him I came within one of disappointing him, when some money came in I didn't expect."

Captain O'Brien was on board of his schooner at the next wharf, and with him was a seaman with his hat in his hand, and looked very gloomy as he spoke with him.

"I'm sorry, my man, I can't pay you—for I have just raised and scraped the last dollar I can get above water to pay my insurance money to-day, and have not a copper to jingle but keys and old nails."

"But I am very much in need, sir; my wife is ailing, and my family are in want of a good many things just now and I got several articles at the store, expecting to get money of you to make 'em up to it venting home. We hadn't in the house no flour, nor tea, nor—"

"Well, my lad, I'm sorry. You must come to-morrow. I can't help you unless I sell my coat, or pawn the schooner's keel. No body pays me.

The sailor, who had come to get an advance of wages, turned away sorrowfully, when the apprentice boy came up and said in his hearing:

"Here, sir, is five dollars Mr. Furnaces owes you. He says when he told you he couldn't pay your bill to-day, he didn't expect some money that came in after you left his shop."

"Ah, that's my fine boy? Here Jack, take this five dollar bill and come on Saturday and get the balance of your wages."

The seaman, with a joyful bound, took the bill, and touching his hat, with a light heart sprang on shore and hastened to the store where he had already selected the comforts and necessities his family so much stood in need of.

As he entered, a poor woman was trying to prevail on the store-keeper to settle a demand for making his shirts.

"You had best take it out of the store, Mrs. Conway he said to her, "really I have not taken in half the amount of your bill to-day, and don't expect to. I have to charge every thing, and no money comes in."

"I can't do without it," answered the woman earnestly; "my daughter is very ill, and in want of every comfort; I am out of firewood, and indeed I want many things which I have depended on this money to get. I have worked night and day to get your shirts done."

"I'm very sorry, Mrs. Conway," said the store-keeper, looking into his drawer; "I have not five shillings here, and your bill is five dollars and nine pence."

The poor woman thought of her invalid child and wrung her hands.

"A sailor was here a while ago and selected five five dollars worth of articles here on the counter and went away to get his wages to pay for them, but I question if he comes back. If he does and pays me for them you shall have your money madam."

At this instant Jack made his appearance at the door.

"Well, shipmate," he cried in a tone much more elevated than when he was discovered speaking with the captain, "well my heavy hand over my fright. I've got the document, so give us possession," and displaying his five dollar note, he laid hold of the purchases.

The store-keeper examining and counting the note was a good one, but he took the note with him, and then called as he handed her and last look at the bill which he took to the poor widow, who with a joyful smile, received it from him and hastened from the store.

In a low and very humble tenement near the water, was a family of poor children, whose appearance exhibited the utmost destitution. On a cot bed near, lay a poor woman, ill and emaciated. The door opened and a man entered in coatpatched garments, with a wood saw and cross, and laid them down by the door-side and approached the bed.

"Are you any better dear?" he asked in a rough voice, but the kindest tones.

"No—have you found work?" If you could get a little nourishing food, I could regain my strength."

The man gazed at her pale face for a moment, and again taking up his saw and cross, went out. He had not gone far before a woman met him and said, she wished him to follow her and saw some wood for her. His heart bounded with hope and gratitude, and he went after her to her dwelling, an abode little better than his own for poverty; yet wearing an air of comfort. He sawed the wood; split and piled it, and received six shillings, with which he hastened to a store for necessaries for his sick wife, then hurried home to gladden her heart with the delicacies he had provided. "Till now he had no work for outlays and his family had been starving, and from that day his wife got better and at length restored to her family and to health, from a state of weakness which another days continuance would probably have proved fatal.

These six shillings which did her so much good, were paid her by the poor woman from the five dollars she had received from the store-keeper and which the sailor had paid him. The poor woman's daughter also was revived and ultimately restored to health and was lately married to a young man who had been three years absent and returned true to his troth. But for five dollars which had been so instrumental in her recovery, he might have returned to be told that she whose memory had been the polar star of his heart had perished.

So much good did the five dollars do, which Peter Chancery Esq., so reluctantly paid to Mr. Last's apprentice boy, though little credit is due to this legal gentleman for the results which followed. It is thus that Providence often makes bad men the instrument of good to others. Let this little story lead those who think a "small bill," can stand because it is a small bill, remember how much good a five dollar bill has done in one single day—and that in paying one bill they may be paying a series of twenty bills, and dispensing good to the hundreds around them.

An Ordinance To provide for the thorough cleansing of the Streets, Alleys, and other parts of the City:

Sec. 1. Be it ordained by the City Council of the city of Mayville, That there shall be appointed a Street Commissioner, whose term of office shall continue for one year, unless sooner dissolved by the Council, and who shall receive for his services, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars per annum.

Sec. 2. The said Street Commissioner shall have power, and he is hereby authorized to employ a suitable number of men and carts and mules, and proceed to cause all the streets and alleys of this city, whether paved or not paved, to be thoroughly cleaned, and kept clean. He shall cause all accumulations of dirt, and ashes, manure, and other refuse, to be removed from said streets and alleys, and deposit the same at the places hereinafter designated.

Sec. 3. That when said streets and alleys are to be scraped, the same shall be regularly swept as to prevent the accumulation of accumulations of dirt or filth in the same.

Sec. 4. That the said Street Commissioner, and the city Marshall, together with a committee of three persons in each Ward, or either one of them, may, and shall, from time to time, enter upon the premises and examine, between sunrise and sunset, any building, cellar, lot, or room, vault or privy, which they may know, believe to be foul, damp, or otherwise prejudicial to the public health, and they, or either of them, may direct the cleansing, or altering the same, or the removal of all nuisances; and every person who shall resist or obstruct said officers or said committee men, or shall fail or refuse to remove any nuisance on their premises or cleanse the same, when notified to do so by either of said officers or either of said committee men, shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding twenty dollars, to be recovered before the Mayor.

Sec. 5. That it shall be unlawful for any person to throw into the street, or any alley or lot of the city, any dirt, dung, or dead carcasses, or filth of any kind, or any fuel or manure, or any liquid; and any person doing so, or permitting the same to be done by any member of his family, shall, upon proof thereof before the Mayor, be fined in any sum not exceeding $20; and he is hereby made the exacting duty of the Street Commissioner, to report to the Mayor all infractions of this section of the ordinance.

Sec. 6. That it shall be unlawful for any person to throw any filth, ashes, or dirt of any kind over the banks in front of the city, or to deposit or over said bank any shavings, rubbish, or earth, and any person so doing shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined any sum not exceeding twenty dollars, at the discretion of the Mayor.

Sec. 7. That from and after the 1st day of January next, no hog-pen shall be allowed within the city limits, and any person keeping any hog or hogs within the city limits, contrary to this ordinance, shall be fined any sum not exceeding twenty dollars, upon conviction before the Mayor.

Sec. 8. That all dirt which may be taken from the streets of the city, above Station street, shall be deposited by the Street Commissioner in the streets and there deposited, so as to when said street, and that taken from the streets below Station, shall be taken to the river bank below Short street.

Sec. 9. That it shall be the duty of the Street Commissioner to direct the removal of all ashes which may be found in the streets or alleys of the city, and if the same are not removed by the person who caused them to be placed in the street or alley, within 24 hours from such notice, the said Commissioner shall cause the same to be removed at the expense of such person.

Boone Clothing Store, No. 1.
SIMON MEYER is, as usual, on hand with a Store of beautiful Clothing, and soon will have more; His assortment embraces all things in the trade. Which he warrants to fit, and likewise well made; He has Coats of all colors, all patterns, all makes. Which he sells at all prices, and they go like "hot cakes."
His cloaks, vests and pants are good as the best, And the fault is not his if folks do not go dress'd; Shirts, cravats and bosoms, he keeps always on hand,
With a thousand of others, which you'll understand;
So when you want dressing, as most people do, Just pop in at the Boone, and take a fair view;
If you do not get suited, the fault is your own, For his prices are cheaper than ever were known.
In short, he's determined, without any bother, To sell off these clothing, at some price or other;
So, if a good bargain you wish to obtain, Just give him a call, and you'll see again,
For he makes it a rule to let no one retire, Without leaving a bargain of that name.
