MSU gives its first nanny certification

Anthony Scott Kuzak may not have started out to be a pioneer, but that may well be what he has become.

On May 11, Kuzak will be the first student to graduate from Morehead State University with a nanny certification.

"I wanted to break tradition," the Sandy Hook native said. "There aren't that many men in the field and I just love to work with children.

Students completing the nanny program, administered through MSU's Department of Human Sciences, will receive a Certified Professional Nanny (CPN) certification from the American Council of Nanny Schools, Inc., according to Carolyn Taylor, associate professor of human sciences who supervises the program. "After MSU has its first graduate, the program will then be eligible for certification," she said.

In addition to Kuzak, two other students are currently taking classes in the program, Tonya Christian, Morehead sophomore, and Megan Mundie, Downer's Grove, Ill., junior Of the three, Kuzak is the only one who has completed the two-year course.

As graduation time rolls around, Kuzak has been completing a portfolio which he calls a "nanny survival kit" that he plans to use on the job. "This kit has activities for all age groups," he said. "It includes diabetic meals, activities that are developmentally appropriate for any child, even how to design a nursery " To be successful in the program, Kuzak suggests one should have dedication and an undying love of children. "That helps to promote an environment that allows a child to explore and expand its opportunities," he said. "The bottom line is that you will be the parent while the real parent is away, so you need the capacity to love that child enough to respect it as your own."

In the nanny program, all the classes focus on the child, from birth to primary, he said. "Once we understand the child and how it develops, we can better understand why the child reacts the way it does " He believes this understanding will help him to guide a young child whether he is working in a family situation or a day care facility In addition to classroom instruction, Kuzak has completed a 240-hour practicum with the Head Start program.

Although he has always wanted to teach, Kuzak tried other areas before enrolling in the nanny program. He first came to MSU as a music major and earned an Associate of Arts degree in humanities in December 1992 He then took time out of his studies to teach music and Spanish in the Elliott County School System.

While trying to decide what he wanted to do with his life, Kuzak talked with Taylor who got him interested in the nanny program. He completed the Associate of Applied Sciences degree in early childhood development in December, which fulfilled requirements for the nanny program He will receive a Bachelor of Arts degree in interdisciplinary early child development with a minor in Spanish in May

As he explores the possibilities of his career, Kuzak notes that there is always a need for day care. "Now I am looking at all my options," he said.

Crediting his mother, Lea Porter, for being a "great" role model, Kuzak cites high morals, goodness and warmth and integrity as trademarks which he can give to a family Because of the support he has received, he is a strong advocator for setting goals and not settling for any substitute. "It's out there if you are willing to work hard, you can achieve whatever you desire," he said.

Another factor that makes the nanny field so inviting, according to Kuzak, is the large number of corporate women who are single parents. "Their children need male role models," he said.

Cruisin' . . . the Information Super Highway

Millions of people around the world have access to the information super highway by way of their computer and some cannot get through the day without e-mail, home shopping or playing games.

And it is that same technology that is allowing patrons at Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library to have access to documents in a faster and more efficient manner free of charge by way of Internet.

"When the only way to get materials from other libraries was traditional Interlibrary Loan mail, we were dealing with a two- to three-week response time," said Greg Mitchell, CCL librarian "Now we can frequently offer the same information in the matter of two or three days "

It was the desire to share resources and cooperate more effectively that prompted MSU to join the State Assisted Academic Library Council of Kentucky (SAALCK), which is composed of members of all eight of the state's universities. Through a joint effort, the group received a Kentucky Academic Libraries Networked Resources System Grant which allowed MSU to purchase the necessary hardware and install an Ariel workstation on the Internet.

The total project to link the SAALCK libraries with Ariel workstations cost more that $188,000 Of that amount, 65 percent came from the U S Department of Education with the balance coming from the universities involved.

"Now we have one of the most successful groups of any state in the country in terms of providing fast, free service between the eight locations," Mitchell said. "And, that gives MSU patrons access to information that is available at the larger libraries like the University of Kentucky and University of Louisville.

"Academic research requires access to a wide variety of the latest journal articles," Mitchell said, "and MSU can now accommodate those requests much faster "

When a request is received, Mitchell will scan the network for the nearest location to obtain the desired materials. The first option is one of the locations in the SAALCK group, then the Southeastern Library Network of the U S. of which MSU also is a member If necessary, they will obtain materials anywhere in the U.S or even from international sources

Materials, including text and photographs, are then scanned into the system where a bitmap file or digital image is transmitted through cyberspace Upon receipt at its destination, the bitmap file is sent to a laser printer

"The result is a high resolution copy with photos much better than an image that has been transferred by fax," Mitchell said "This procedure is faster than the U S. mail and, because MSU is already on Internet, there is no charge for Ariel documents."

In addition to quality and speed, the availability of resources is more far reaching, Mitchell noted. "We can access libraries from around the world and share our information with them."

In the past requests have come from Switzerland, Australia and New Zealand, he said. Closer to home, MSU has a good working relationship with many of the neighboring states, such as Tennessee and Mississippi. "We have numerous requests from Tennessee wanting materials on Appalachia," he said.

Academic Honors

The Honors Program and the Academic Honors Student Association at Morehead State University involve more than just taking a certain number of required classes. They also involve traveling and representing MSU at conferences, doing volunteer work and gathering for social functions.

Honors Program members are required to take four core classes and two seminar classes In addition to classes, students and faculty give presentations at state, regional and national conferences. Recent locations for these conferences have been San Antonio, Texas, Pittsburgh, PA. and Charleston, S C

Students Party in ADUC at the Student Gala

The 1996 Student Gala sponsored by the Student Activities Council was an exciting evening for those students who ventured out on a Friday night in Morehead. ADUC was transformed from its everyday appearance as a typical student center to anything but typical.

The second floor became Las Vegas as card dealers dealt hand after hand of black jack and poker Slot machines hummed and chimed making the building sound more like a casino than a university center One room became Seattle as a local alternative band performed, sending countless students into fits of slam dancing. As if that weren't good enough, the grill was a comedy club featuring Keven Breenan who has appeared on "Late Night With David Letterman" and MTV.

The night was a great success thanks to the members of the Student Activities Council who volunteered their time and efforts. SAC President, Deana Bailey, a junior from Blain, said, "We think it's great to see this many students out, and we hope even more turn out next year."

The students were just as enthusiastic about the evening. John Distler, an R/TV major from Cincinnati, OH, loved the band. "They're a real, real good band," Distler said, "Excellent rock-n-roll and blues."

Students were also able to look back on the evening with some well needed humor. Chris Gibson, of Felicity, OH, loved the casino atmosphere and quipped, "Except for no hookers, I'd think I was in Vegas!"

Rock and Roll at MSU!
Collective Soul and Wanderlust rock the AAC

RCA recording artists Wanderlust kicked off the first rock concert hosted by MSU in three long country-filled years.

Although the virtually unknown Wanderlust's hard driving guitar riffs shook the Academic-Athletic Center to its foundations, the crowd started out as cool as the twenty-degree weather outside. Then lead singer Sax made AAC history when he invited the crowd to come up closer to the stage and "hang out."

As bribes, the Philadelphia natives threw out copies of their new cassette to the eager crowd. Soon the stage area was packed with newly-won Wanderlust fans.

By the time headlining act Collective Soul reached their radio hit "Shine," the crowd, still energized from Wanderlust's performance, had created its own impromptu mosh pit and became rowdier with each ear-crunching song.

Perhaps the rowdiest concert to ever hit MSU, several concert goers had to be escorted out of the arena by security for "moshing."

Lead singer and Stockbridge, Georgia native Ed Roland told the crowd, "It sure is good to be back in the South," as the band performed songs from their first album Hints, Allegations, and Things Left Unsaid as well as material from their new album COLLECTIVE SOUL, like the popular single "December."

Both bands responded to the excited crowd by giving performances that proved, without a doubt, rock and roll lives on at MSU.

WMKY Receives Awards for News and Sports

Morehead State University's public radio station has again been recognized for excellence in news and sports coverage.

This year the Kentucky Associated Press presented WMKY 90.3 FM with two first place awards and three honorable mentions in its annual awards competition.

In the AP's "Continuing News Story" category, Chuck Mraz, WMKY sports and assistant news director, received first place for his coverage of MSU football. Praising Mraz for his use of interview subjects, the judges summed up their remarks by saying "Well done!" Mraz also earned an honorable mention in sports reporting for "The Changing Face of the Morehead State Football Program."

Wendy Nelson, WMKY program and production director, also took first place in the "Use of Sound" category with a feature about professional storyteller Beverly Carter Sexton and her "haint" stories. Calling the piece "a compelling story," the judges said that the interweaving of intriguing actuality and tight narration made it so. "The interview subject is excellent and made for great sound. The quick cuts and the pacing keep our ears tuned in. Very effective storytelling by both the interview subject and the reporter," the judges added.

Tom Lewis, WMKY news and public affairs director, received an honorable mention in the "Planned Series/Documentary" category for a "Focus on the Region" program about the concept of faith.

Also recognized with an honorable mention was Betsy Sandlin of Nancy, a May 1995 graduate who worked as a news and sports reporter at the radio station while a student. Sandlin's entry in the "Feature/Human Interest Story" category was entitled "Big Future for Tim Couch." It focused on the promising college career for the high school football star.

The 1995 Kentucky AP Awards were presented at a luncheon during the Kentucky Broadcasters Association Convention in Lexington.

WMKY is both a National Public Radio (NPR) and Public Radio International (PRI) affiliate, broadcasting news and information programming, classical music, jazz and specialty programs.

Reality Checks in at MSU

AIDS educator Beatrice Kerr speaks to students

AIDS educator Beatrice Kerr visited MSU

Beatrice Kerr, an internationally known AIDS educator, spoke to MSU students on February 6 about her personal experiences with AIDS and the HIV virus.

As a nineteen-year-old college sophomore, Kerr found out that her boyfriend had been diagnosed with AIDS "I ran straight into my mortality," said Kerr Her boyfriend later died of AIDS related complications

Kerr was diagnosed in 1987 as having the HIV virus. Kerr said, "My mortality smacked me in the face. And I thought, oh my God, I'm going to die " She said she contracted the disease from her boyfriend by having unprotected sex. Fear of rejection by her friends and expulsion from school forced her to remain silent about her health for a long period of time.

To prevent others from following in her footsteps, Kerr began speaking out on AIDS in a campaign that took her across the United States In addition to presentations on numerous campuses, Kerr also appeared on CNN, MTV, "Donahue," and "The Jenny Jones Show " She has also been featured in several magazines such as "Glamour" and "The New York Times."

Kerr is now employed by Hospice of Central Virginia. She also met and married a fellow AIDS survivor and hopes to have children in the future.

Her presentation certainly made an impact on the students of MSU Kristina Sykes, a junior biology major from Cincinnati, OH expressed the sentiment that was felt by the majority of the students present. "The biggest thing that hit me was that I had never seen someone with AIDS before. I always thought I'd be scared, but they're just like everyone else," Sykes commented.

DON'T SAY THE "D" WORD!

RHA---Representing more than just three words

RHA stands for Residence Hall Association, but it means unity RHA is the governing body of all the residence halls on the campus of MSU It is responsible for such events as Random Acts of Kindness Week (RAK Week), RHA Week, and Kids' Koats In its over 16 years as a student organization, it is one of the most active non-Greek student organizations on campus

Morehead's RHA is known state wide and throughout its nine-state region for its commitment to excellence in diversity, and residence life. RHA Week '96 was an exciting four days of games, festivities, food and fun--one of the best RHA Weeks since its start in 1980 RHA worked with the D O V.E S organization to spread the word about spouse abuse. Kids' Koats worked with the community in its second year to gather over 200 coats for the kids in need in the areas around the university.

The organization is made up of all hall council presidents and vice-presidents on campus and is always looking for more participation from anyone living in university housing "We are always glad to help the residents by providing activities for them. Without them we probably wouldn't exist," says Suzan Watts, RHA's president from 1995-1996.

"We thank you for your support," says Jeremy Cox, National Communications Coordinator from 1995 to 1996.

West Mignon Hall Council Realizes the Importance of Having a Good Time

West Mignon Hall Council had an incredibly fun and exciting school year in 95-96 To begin with, they won first place in the campus blowout. West Mignon had residents and stereo speakers hanging out of every window!

For Halloween, West Mignon had the biggest party on campus. Over 100 people showed up in costume with a total of 150 guests in all.

It is not uncommon to find residents of West Mignon in the lobby playing a rousing game of Twister They also have parties and midnight snacks for weary residents during finals week.

Hall Council coined the idea of bringing aerobics to West Mignon Hall four nights a week. Although it was not directly related to hall council it did become a very successful program. There was also a professional self defense program offered by Hall Council, which stirred up great interest among the residents

Making a Difference

Regents Hall Council

Regents Hall had a great year in 1995-96 With many fun activities throughout the year, Regents Hall was a fun place for everyone to live.

This year's hall council members were President Lori Trzop, Vice President Sarah Johnson, Secretary/Treasurer Elizabeth Walker, Intramural Director Irma Dickerson, and Publicity Manager Amanda Simmons

The residents of Regents Hall would like to thank the Hall Director, Lora Hardwick, for all of her hard work and dedication. We'd also like to thank our R.A.'s Tracy Vincent, Shae Witt, Krishana Hayes, and Fionna Hall.

Residents of Regents Hall, Dawn Plageman, Sarah Johnson, and Jami Sherman really get into the Halloween spirit.

Give Us A Voice

Cooper Hall Council

In the manner of all residence hall councils, Cooper Hall Council was created to serve as a voice for its residents The hall council is a group of eight students who are devoted to the residents of Cooper Hall. The members of Cooper Hall Council provide the best for the residents they represent in programming, intramurals, and many other exciting activities Cooper Hall Council is governed under the Residence Hall Association and is represented in the Student Government Association.

For the past four years, Cooper Hall residents have earned the titles of Intramural Champions, Hall of the Year, and Co-Hall of the year Cooper has been an excellent role model for other residence halls through the efforts of an ever-welcoming director, a fine staff, and its hall council. This has made Cooper Hall an outstanding place to live

The members of Cooper Hall Council believe that Cooper Hall will maintain its reputation as being a role model for other halls and they hope to keep the titles of Intramural Champs and Hall of the Year

Our apologies for those Residence Halls that did not submit any photos or copy.

KLASSIC DUDES ON PARADE

KAPPA DELTA HOSTS MSU'S FIRST MALE BEAUTY PAGAENT

What comes to mind when one thinks of a beauty pageant? Glittering gowns and various renditions of Patsy Cline favorites, right?? That might be true anywhere but here at Morehead because on March 6, the First Annual Kappa Delta Klassic Dude competition was held. Nine MSU males were given the chance to be part of MSU's first male beauty pageant.

The contestants, nominated by various campus organizations, competed in four events interview, sports wear, talent, and formal wear The interview consisted of an on-stage question about campus involvement and general college life as the contestants paraded on stage in suits and even tuxes The sports wear portion showed a much more casual group dressed in various sports outfits

Contestants and hosts work to make MSU's first male beauty pageant a success. Photo by: David Sparks

The audience's favorite part of the evening was the talent portion which ranged from vocalists to jugglers to martial artists The crowd, particularly the women, were wooed by Chris Lafferty's renditions of "Great Balls of Fire" and "Open Arms." In contrast to the soft serenades of Lafferty, Adam Smith's martial arts routine also was a crowd favorite.

At the end of the competition, Chris Lafferty, sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, was crowned the first Klassic Dude. Lafferty, a music major, said, "I took the competition more seriously than people thought. We all did, it was a lot of fun, and I think it's an honor "

The evening was fun and entertaining for the contestants as well as the audience. Out of the Mouths of Eagles

MSU's Speech Team comes out on top

During the week of August 10-17, 1995, the MSU Speech Team conducted its annual training session for new scholarship students and returning varsity members Students received training in the following areas forensics (prepared speaking, limited prepared speaking, and interpretation events), computer/ library research, time management, stress management, goal setting, and teambuilding

We are very excited about their accomplishments during that week. Students worked well together and were awarded certificates for completion of the training program. The following students participated during the entire week: Stormie Ratliff, Karl Ruckdeschel, Amy Smith, Beth Kouns, Jody Streible, and Angie Ward. Jacob Wilkins attended half of the program. All of these students researched at least two speeches and identified at least one interpretation selection for this year of competition.

Many university personnel were essential to this productive week. The Speech Team has sent personal appreciations to the Vice President of Student Development, Office of Student Housing, Office of Financial Aid, and Camden Carroll Library Staff.

The time and stress management sessions were conducted by non-university personnel. Vonda Melton, Director of Employee Management from Valvoline Corporation, Lexington, KY trained students in the area of time management Likewise, Darinda Ramey-Marriner, Director of Family Resource Center, Rowan County Public School System taught the session on management.

HIDEKO ASADA

A native of Okasaki, Japan, Hideko Asada wanted to go to college in another country She was given this privilege and is now a graduate student at Morehead State University

Asada is attending MSU on a Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarship According to Dr Robert Haynes, Chairperson of the District 6740 Ambassadorial Scholarship Committee, these scholarships were designed for the exchange of information and to build good will among different cultures He feels that MSU was a good choice because of its strong interest in the international student As the Rotary Scholar, Asada receives a total of $20,000 over a two-year period to pay for numerous expenses This money was presented to her by Dr Haynes shortly after arriving in Kentucky early in the spring semester

Living in the U S was not entirely a new experience for Asada Before coming to Morehead she studied at Indiana University of Pennsylvania where she earned a B A degree Asada has, however found a difference at our University She says, "The people are much friendlier here "

Asada's plans for MSU include completing a Master's degree in Sociology within two years Upon her graduation she wishes to return to her homeland and teach.

Miss MSU 1997

On March 8, 1997 the 30th annual Miss Morehead State University Scholarship Pageant was held. Ten contestants competed for the title, several past recipients graced the stage, and at the conclusion of the night, Dalana Marie Hall,23, was crowned Miss MSU '97.

Hall, daughter of Ron and Carol Schweitzer of Burlington, KY is a senior Electronic Media News major. Upon her graduation she wishes to become a news anchor.

The night was enhanced by several wonderful vocal performances. Both the new Miss Morehead State singing "His Eye is on the Sparrow" and the first runner-up, Janie Short, with her performance of Strauss' "The Laughing Song" received great praise. This is also true of former title holders Tonya Virgin-White and Dionne Coatie; however, Rachel Craft Warnecke was the highlight of the evening. Singing "Hopelessly Devoted" and "Golden Rainbow," Mrs. Warnecke captured the audience.

First runner-up in the competition was Janie Short, 23. She is the daughter of Joe and Billy Jane Short of Paintsville, KY and a History & Speech/Theater major.

Christy Leavitt, 23, daughter of Mary Jo and the late Michael Leavitt of Pendleton, IN was the second runner-up. Miss Leavitt is a senior Dietetics major.

The title of third runner-up was given to LaTonya Merriweather, 22, of Louisville, Ky. She is the daughter of Valerie Gail Davis and Carlos Merriweather. Miss Merriweather is a junior Psychology major.

The 30th annual Miss Morehead State University Pageant lived up to all expectations. From the very first to wear the crown, Mrs. Marry Ann Buddick Minnis, to the newest addition, Miss Dalana Hall, all title holders and contestants made the evening memorable.

MOREHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY CHEERLEADING

1997 National Champions with President Ron Eaglin and Coach Myron Doan

Morehead State University Cheerleading has an established tradition of excellence. With the direction and guidance of Myron Doan, the squads have been unbeatable. This year's squad was no exception.

On Friday, January 10, the MSU varsity squad won the UCA National Competition in their division. The 1997 National Title was the latest in a string of eight total. MSU cheering won their first National Competition in "88, their second in '91, and since have never relinquished the honor. In addition to the varsity team's many national awards, this year the all-girls' squad also placed first in their competition.

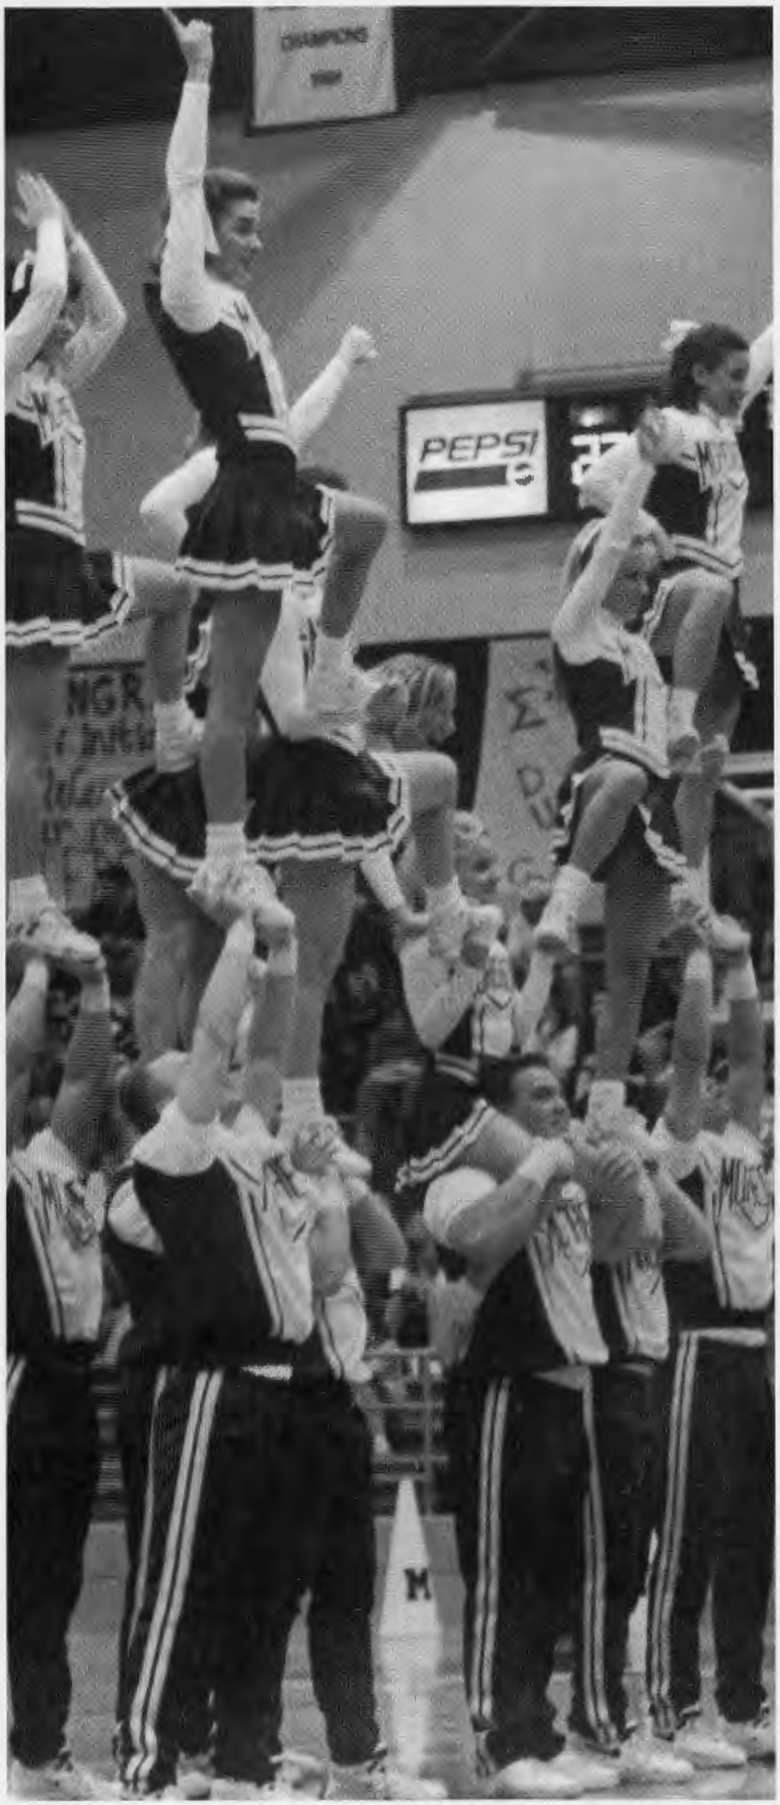
Qualifying for National competition was a task itself. In order to compete, the team had to submit a video consisting of a cheer, a sideline, and one minute of skills such as tumbling, squad stunts, pyramids, and basket tosses. MSU received first place with their video and in doing so received a paid bid by UCA to the National Competition.

Senior Ramona Justice of Pikeville, Ky has cheered for MSU for four years. Every year her squad has placed first in National Competition. Justice says, "Each championship was truly won because all squads competing were talented and we had to work hard to be the best squad with the most difficulty in the routine performed."

No one can argue with results. With eight National Championships and seven consecutive it seems the tradition of excellence will continue.



MSU Enrollment

MSU freshmen enrollment is up 12 percent over last fall, and University personnel are attributing it to changes in the Office of Admissions.

"The changes have brought a lot of excitement and a lot of work," said Dr. Beverly McCormick, MSU's interim assistant vice president for enrollment management.

Major changes involved realigning the responsibilities of the Office's personnel, using a new recruiting software system and focusing on several additional recruiting tools including daylong and overnight campus visits, transfer and out-of-state assistance programs and financial aid estimator program.

There also has been a focus on retention of current students. "This is the first time ever we've had a unit of focus on retention," Dr. McCormick stated.

During their first semester, students are required to take MSU 101, which covers basic points of college life from library use to time management and campus activities. Upperclassmen serve as peer advisers in the class. This program, along with the telecounselors, the Red Carpet Society and the Eagle Express, all of which utilize current students, provide the link that keeps our students at MSU.

"OLYMPIAN"
ROGER HICKS

On a rainy night in June, MSU student, Roger Hicks was cheered on by thousands of people as he ran through the streets of Covington, proudly carrying the Olympic torch.

"It was a tremendous rush to see all those people waving American flags in the rain," Hicks said. "Next to the birth of my daughter and my wedding, it is the most memorable thing that has ever happened to me."

Hicks is a native of Knott County and currently lives in West Liberty. Out of the 115 Kentucky residents chosen, he was the only one who lived east of Winchester.

Hicks graduated from high school at age 16, but didn't immediately attend college. He developed a problem with alcohol. Since then he has recovered and devotes his time to help others.

How much has Hicks contributed? A full time student, he still drives an hour every day to Lexington to work at a shelter from 4 p.m. until midnight.

It is that determination and the strong desire to help people that earned Roger Hicks the right to carry the torch.

Morehead State University hosts many local, state-wide and national honor societies. However, very few offer the opportunity for faculty members to become a member. One of Morehead State University's most prominent national honor societies gives MSU faculty this very opportunity. This year, Phi Kappa Phi national interdisciplinary honor society inducted five new faculty members into their ranks during its annual spring banquet.

These four students and theır teacher presented a workshop at the National Association for the Education of Young Children annual conference ın Dallas, Texas ın the fall. The students presented a one-hour session entitled "Learn how to debrief chıldren durıng and after investigative play actıvıtıes: a key to developing higher level thınking and performance."

Karen Hammons, the student's advisor said the NAEYC "attempts through its publications and programs to provide a forum for dıscussion of major ıssues and ideas in the early childhood/early elementary education fıeld. Additionally, NAEYC hopes to provoke thought and promote professıonal development."

The four students who presented the workshop at the conference are all early elementary education majors. More than 30,000 teachers and professional educators were ın attendance at the convention.

Researchers from England Visit Eastern Kentucky Schools

From left : Jerry Norton Secondary Education chair; Shirley S Blair, director of student teaching at MSU; Dr Joe Elliot director of Research and Development; Linda Wilson Primary Edducation chair; Tony Hildreth statistician

As part of a comparative research project with Morehead State University, researchers from the University of Sutherland in England, visited Eastern Kentucky to survey students at 13 elementary schools. The study is the second of three where attitudes toward education are compared with students in England, Eastern Kentucky, and Hertzen University in St. Petersburg that are involved in the research. Recently published, the initial study compared 14-year-olds in three countries. Shirley S. Blair, director of student teaching at MSU, arranged for the University of Sutherland visitors.
