MAKING CHRISTMAS BRIGHTER FOR THE UNDER-PRIVILEGED

Various civic organizations and groups of people in Morehead and Rowan county are to be commended for their work and unselfish efforts to make this Christmas more enjoyable for hundreds of underprivileged Rowan county children.

Heading this list is the Rowan County Woman's Club which has a large membership. Every member of that club will be handed some child's name to whom they will play Santa Claus. This group of public spirited women who have accomplished much in the past, will make many an eye brighter, many an innocent face glow round with laughter and will substantiate the belief among many children that there is a Santa Claus.

Baskets of food and clothing will also be distributed to many. At Haldeaman the Employees' Representation Plan will see that widows and children of their membership will not be forgotten.

It is the spirit of the American people that has made this country a great one for all—the land of opportunity. To help these help is needed reflects more creditably than expensive gifts to friends. To know that one is helping to make Christmas brighter for those who are financially unable to enjoy the Yuletide season is, in itself, a satisfaction that has no limits.

THE TWO-SUMMER SCHOOL PLAN

The decision of the executives of the Morehead State Teachers College to hold two summer terms of five weeks each as has been the custom in the past instead of one summer school of nine weeks is, we believe a wise move.

In the first place the legislature studies the enrollment of the various state schools before making appropriations. Morehead needs a heavy registration more than any other school in Kentucky, and the two summer terms will help many students attend the local state teachers college this summer under the last plan adopted than they would have under the nine weeks proposal.

There are many reasons for this. Some students back only a few hours to earn a degree or certificate. This number of hours, if it falls below seven, can be obtained during a five weeks term. They will go some place where they can take a five weeks term if Morehead does not offer it. Likewise, many want to attend only the short period, others can't get away for one term but can the other, while in many instances students do not have the money for a nine weeks term but will have money enough to attend a five weeks session.

It would make no difference if every school in the state adopted the nine-week plan, Morehead would still be hurt, as they can not afford to lose enrollment while other state colleges can show a drop without losing prestige or a drop in allotment.

BUYING COAL FROM LEGITIMATE DEALERS

Cold weather has brought a greater demand for fuel, especially coal and a resulting increase in price. People who are purchasing coal this winter should buy from a reputable person or dealer, even if the cost is a little higher. In the past it has been an obvious fact that many of the trucks which haul coal into the city are shorting people on their tonnage.

During the sub-zero temperatures last year when there was the greatest demand for coal this became a problem. There was no method of weighing the coal except at the mines and the trucks seldom had the nine weight receipt.

In Morehead there are reputable coal dealers, men who are taxpayers and who are conducting a legitimate and high-type business. They handle a better grade of coal and the price is slightly higher. But, by buying from them we can be assured of honest tonnage and know we are getting just what we contract for.

WHAT IS A SAFE HOME?

"The home has long been a symbol of safety," says W. E. Mallalieu, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. "According to the thousands of reports received by the National Board, describing fires that have occurred, the startling truth is revealed that American homes are far from being safe as regards fire."

"What can the heads of families do to assure greater fire safety? Let them first find the answers to these questions regarding the construction of their homes: Is the cellar, containing the heating plant, cut off from the upstairs by a ceiling of cement on metal lath extending to the foundation on all sides? The door leading upstairs should be of substantial construction and not of usual thin-panel type. It should be kept tightly closed. How about the furnace—is it correctly installed so that no burnable material is near enough to it or its pipes to be ignited by radiated heat? The chimney should be built substantially and lined with fire clay. Are electrical fixtures and wiring safe? Have fire stops been placed in walls at each floor level to prevent the spread of flames? The roof should be fire-resistant. Many of these improvements can be made without great expense, even after a house is built.

Sound construction is the first essential of fire prevention. Reducing the possibility of accidental fires is vital. Mr. Mallalieu further points out that too much cannot be said about the danger of cleaning clothing with inflammable or explosive liquids. The misuse of electricity—which means amateur repair work and extensions, the overloading of circuits with too many appliances, etc.—is also another prolific source of fire.

Your home can be made safe—both from fires that are the result of poor construction and fires of the accidental variety. It is certainly worth a few dollars and a little time to protect your valuables and the lives of your family.

THE DAY OF LITTLE BUSINESS

It is argued that the development of large businesses—especially in retail fields—has tended to destroy little businesses and to make it next to impossible for a man without vast capital to set up his own establishment.

This argument has a strong appeal—but apparent facts contradict it.

During the depression, thousands of little businesses sprang up in this country—largely because of the difficulties of individuals in finding employment. These little businesses offered specialized services, or lower prices, or were the outgrowth of a new line of some kind. Many of them found a ready welcome, and have prospered. With the return of better times, they are going ahead—and in due course a percentage of them will become big businesses.

Some of these little businesses failed—because they provided poor service, or did not fill a definite need. But many a large business has failed for the same reasons.

One has only to look around any growing community today and see a legion of opportunities in retail lines for young men and women who are willing to work, and realize that riches can't be earned overnight. Even as changing needs make necessary big business combinations to serve the public, so the evolutionary process has created a hundred opportunities for small retail businesses where one existed a generation ago.

The day of little business isn't done—it is just beginning.

One-Year Ago This Week

J. T. Jennings, whose election to the House of Representatives from the Bath-Rowan district was contested by J. T. Thomas, Democratic candidate who was defeated on the face of returns, announced he would call 40 witnesses when depositions were taken.

The Morehead High school Glee club presented the Operetta, "The Christmas Bazaar."

Thousands of state employees in all capacities, including the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College were asked to resign by Gov. A. B. Chandler.

The Morehead State Teachers College let contracts for the construction of a Science building and a dormitory. The Struck Construction Company received the contract for the construction of both buildings.

WHAT OTHER KENTUCKY
EDITORS ARE SAYING

The Need For Skilled Labor

University education is limited for the most part to those who are financially capable of receiving it. Mental capability is also a restriction, but the prime requisite for higher education today is money. It is for this reason that we have college classmates who four years of dilapidated courses, because their social and financial status enable them to pursue professions, despite their abilities in another direction. Thus we find men who would be excellent doctors and lawyers forced into the field of skilled labor, because of a lack of funds.

The average American father feels that college for his children is the best opportunity he can offer for them for advancement in the world. He has not taken into consideration the fact that human beings vary in their talents and desires for vocations. Because college is the accepted thing, sons are made to study languages and sciences, when the thing they enjoy most is work with automobiles, for instance, and when what they most desire is ownership of a garage where they can be in contact with vehicles of all types, and where their mechanical talent can best be utilized.

There is a lack of skilled labor in the United States due to the feeling of the American middle-class that a college education is better than skilled labor apprenticeship. Until we break loose from this fetish of awe for the college degree, and remember that there are some of us who are better fitted for skilled labor than others, we shall continue to have too many mediocre professional men, and too few capable skilled laborers.—University of Kentucky, The Kentucky Kernel.

THIS WEEK IN MOREHEAD

RELIEFS: More than half of the people that live in Rowan county are either on the relief, have a government job, are drawing a pension or some other form of check from the government or have applications in to cash-in on this New Deal spending, an authoritative check-up shows.

The horizon, however, is bringing dark clouds for those who are dependent on the government for their living. There seems little doubt that the second Roosevelt administration will not spend as much money as has been put out during the last four years. A large block of men have already been cut-off in this county, while many others are expected to follow.

Roosevelt is working towards a balanced budget. He believes that the New Deal spending of the last four years has started private business and enterprise back on the road of normalcy and that it is no longer imperative that men be provided with jobs at the Federal government's expense.

BALANCED BUDGET: Speaking of a balanced Federal budget recalls the fact that Congressman Fred M. Vinson will play one of the leading roles in perfecting it. Congressman Vinson, known personally

Our Family Coat-of-Arms

Greenwood

An interesting and ancient coat of arms is that of the Greenwood family believed to date back to 1154.

Nathaniel Greenwood, son of Miles Greenwood of Norwich, England, came to America in 1634 and settled at Boston, Mass. His death occurred in 1684. Samuel Greenwood, a grandson, built a family home at Copp Hill, Boston, in 1722. The slab shows this coat of arms with slight variations due probably to an error on the part of the sculptor.

The pedigree of this ancient Norwich family is preserved at the College of Herolds in London.

Description of Arms: A black bar on a silver shield—in the upper portion of the shield three black stars with a silver circle in the center of each star—the lower portion of the shield three gray ducks with black markings.

Crest: A star between two ducks wings.

Motto: May I be useful.

ly to at least half of the people of Rowan county, is not a little figure in national affairs. He will probably head more important legislation during the next two sessions of Congress than he did during the first Roosevelt administration, when he played an active part in the passage of fully half of the important bills that came before Congress.

DEMOCRATS: The Democrats of Rowan county, who have sought for several weeks to mould themselves closer together and discard factional differences to make ready for a victory in the 1937 local elections, appeared to be farther apart today than at any other time.

The disqualifying of a number of precinct committeemen and committeewomen who were opposed to the election of Lester Hodge as county chairman was anything but a move towards harmony with the net result that today the party is definitely divided in a breach that may not be repaired.

SECRETARY: The majority group of committeemen and committeewomen who met Saturday had agreed on Charley Waddell as secretary of the county. When the nominations came up only the name of Miss Thelma Allen, an anti-administration aligee, was the only one submitted. It was a last minute harmony move, but it did not accomplish its purpose.

GAS WELLS: Apparently a considerable amount of money has been unwisely expended by several Morehead property owners in a gamble for gas wells. These wells have been dug in the city limits. They came in with sufficient pressure, but after a few hours it dropped to almost nothing. And—so ends Morehead's drilling boom!

CANDIDATES: The first of the year should bring plenty of political announcements, but there are already a few who have made it generally known they will run. Vernon Alfrey will seek re-election for county clerk—he is a Republican. C. B. Proctor plans to run for the GOP nomination for sheriff. C. F. Caudill is being spoken of as a candidate for county judge and V. D. "Mike" Flood for county clerk—both are Democrats. Harlan Powers is a possible candidate for county attorney. J. W. Riley has been a candidate for so many years that it is expected that he will run either for county judge or county attorney. Bill Carter may run under the rooster flag; sheriff, Lyle Tackett and J. B. Mauk have already announced on the Democratic ticket for representative; Jack Wilson and Z. T. Young may run for the same office; Troy Jennings, who was ousted from the legislature in a contest suit, is the likely Republican nominee for representative if he chooses to run.

MARKET PROVIDES WORK

Opening of tobacco auction markets at Lexington will provide employment for approximately 6,500 people with a pay roll during the three months of the season of $1,500,000.

Building contracts awarded in Louisville first ten months of 1936 reported 200 per cent over total for same period of 1935. Private construction gained 41 per cent and non-residential building 66 per cent.

FORD

advances into 1937 with the

and new operating economy

THE ADDITION of a new 60-horsepower engine to the Ford line for 1937 brings you a new, low price and gives you a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines. 85 horsepower for maximum performance, 60 horsepower for maximum economy.

The 60-horsepower V-8 engine was originally developed for use in England and France, where fuel costs are high. It has been proven there for two years with brilliant success.

Now, brought to America, it creates an entirely new standard of modern motoring economy!

The "60" engine, available in five body types, is built in exactly the same body size and wheelbase — to the same advanced design — with the same comfort and convenience as the "85." And it delivers V-8 smoothness at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Two engine sizes—but only one car and one purpose—to give you more miles and more satisfaction for your money in 1937.

'The Texas Ranger' To Be Shown Here

Cozy Brings Epic Of West To Screen Sunday - December 19

Members of the Paramount production company which spent more than two months in the deserts of Texas and New Mexico filming the King Vidor epic, "The Texas Ranger," coming Sunday to the Cozy Theatre, were the proud possessors of numerous titles and mementoes which they returned to Hollywood.

Victor was an honorary Indian chief, owning a war bonnet and all the regalia, presented by Charles Montoya, Governor of the Indian Pueblo near Santa Fe. Indian of the pueblo had permitted the use of their building as a Ranger headquarters in the picture and had taken part in several scenes.

Fred MacMurray and Jack Oakie, principals of the picture, with Jean Parker, were Deputy Sheriffs of McKinley county, New Mexico, and honorary members of the Rangers. Lloyd Nolan also was a deputy sheriff. All principals and lesser players were returned to the film capital burdened with Mexican and Indian native jewelry and pottery. Governors of both Texas and New Mexico assisted in producing the history-making picture; Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico acted in a scene and Governor James Allred of Texas directed the first shooting by long-distance telephone, from Dallas, to the exact location of the huge production company.

Millionaires Decrease

Treasury Report Shows Only 33 Had Million Dollar Incomes In 1934

Showing roughly how many people make how much, the treasury reported that 33 of the nation's 4,000,000 income taxpayers wrote their 1934 incomes in figures of $1,000,000 or more.

The millionaire group compared with 50 in 1933, 20 in 1932 and 513 in 1929.

With 4,994,420 persons filing income tax returns, the treasury reported in its first complete analysis for 1934 that their income totaled $12,796,802,000, of which the government claimed $511,400,000.

Largest contributors to the federal treasury were the 102,892 persons in the $10,000 to $25,000 income group. Those paying least had incomes of $5,000 or less.

Taxpayers in the latter category numbered 3,670,000, or 89 per cent of all persons filing returns. Their tax payments were set at $4,600,000.

The top-eight incomes of $1,000,000 and upwards aggregated $770,000,000, of which the federal list received $2,200,000 in taxes.

ELLIOTT COUNTY GOES 'DRY' BY 9 MAJORITY

In last Thursday's Independent it was erroneously stated that Elliott county voted "dry" for local option by a 5-4 average majority. The dries did win, but the majority was not this great. The local option law was adopted by a majority of only nine votes, marking Elliott county's closest election.

Reports received here indicate that a petition may be filed asking that a precinct that went more than nine votes dry be thrown out because the clerk of the election failed to sign his name on the ballots.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Rowan Circuit Court rendered at the Special November 23 Term thereof 1936, in the above cause, for the sum of One Hundred Ninety-Nine Dollars and Ninety-Two Cents ($199.92), with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the 24th day of July, 1928, until paid and its cost therein I shall proceed to sell the above cause at the Court House door in the City of Morehead, Rowan County, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at 10 o'clock on the 4th day of January, 1937, at One O'clock P. M., or thereabout, upon a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property, to-wit:

"A certain house and lot situated in the North side of the Town of Morehead, Rowan County, Kentucky, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the corner of the lot owned by T. J. Trumbo and on Fourth Street; thence running with said street a southwest course 52 feet and 3 inches to a set stone corner to Katie Sapp's lot; thence turning and running a northwest course 220 feet to a set stone in line of C.W.E.M. land, thence turning and running a northeast course 52 feet and 3 inches to a set stone in line of Mrs. Lane's property; thence turning and running with her line 220 feet to the beginning; the division line between this lot and the lot now owned by T. J. Trumbo running directly through center of the well, one-half of said well on this lot; being the same lot conveyed Burns Johnson to Sarah E. Waugh by deed of date September 6, 1929, recorded in Deed Book 30, at page 181, Rowan County Records. And being the same lot conveyed to Burns Johnson and Virginia Johnson, his wife, to Addie Surratt, by deed of date the 27th day of October, 1920, recorded in Deed Book 30, at page 368, Rowan County Records."

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sum of money so ordered to be paid. For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond, with approved securities, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Vikings Win Over Grayson 23 to 16

Morehead Youths Close With Scoring Spree; Tackett Is High Scorer

A last quarter spurge of point-making proved the difference between the Morehead Vikings and Grayson's Yellow Jackets here Saturday evening. It was Morehead who did that last period scoring as they tallied eight points to one for Grayson for a 23-16 win.

The victory partially avenged the defeat that Brother Allie Holbrook handed Brother Roy in football.

Grayson broke on top and were ahead 6-0 after 4 minutes of play. At the half it was 8-4. Indications that Morehead had enough reserve came with the opening of the second half. The Vikings relentlessly pushed closer and finally caught the visitors. Morehead had managed a 15-14 lead as the third period ended. They set up a tight defense and a cautious but effective offense to win going away.

Huff of Grayson led the scoring with eight points. Tackett, Morehead forward, vanned his teammates with seven while Wilson made six and Butcher and Hayes 5 each.

The Morehead seconds defeated the Grayson seconds in a game played after the first team match, by a 16-2 count. Barker made 11 points for the winners.

Soldier Quint Wins Over Breckinridge

Carter Countians Take Two Overtime 20-18 Victory Friday

Two evenly matched teams—Breckinridge Training School of Morehead and Soldier, runner-up in the regional tournament last year, vied for basketball victory Friday evening and were forced into a couple of overtime periods to decide the issue. A long shot went through the hoops mid-way the second extra period to give Soldier a 20-18 victory.

Breckinridge held a decided edge during the first half. They were leading 6-2 at the end of the first quarter and 10-6 at half-time. Soldier came back strong in the third quarter to tie the score at 14-14. Both teams registered a field goal in the last quarter to lock the totals at 16-16 when the game sounded.

The game was tied again at 18-18 at the end of the first overtime.

The game presented two clubs that will likely go far in eastern Kentucky high school basketball circles this year. The play was hard fought and close but there were not many personal fouls. Both teams showed poor ability to make foul shots. Breck got two out seven and Soldier two of ten tries.

Fultz, Soldier guard accounted for five field goals to take top honors. Fritchard and Crouchwait from Breckinridge and DeLong of Soldier made five points each.

The Soldier second team won from the Breckinridge Junior High 17 to 11.

SANDY HOOK REPLACES GREENUP ON MHS SCHEDULE

Greenup, scheduled to play Morehead High two basketball games during the current season, has withdrawn from the eastern Kentucky Athletic conference. Coach Roy Holbrook announced today that the January 16 date with Greenup has been filled by Sandy Hook who will play here while the February 17 date is open.

Breck Team Has Many Prospects

Training School May Turn Out Strong Team For Eastern Kentucky

Although Breckinridge Training school has lost two of its three games, this team, composed principally of Morehead youths, is apt to be one of the strongest in eastern Kentucky this year, if everything pans out well.

The Eagles stand at least an even chance of reversing the totals with the teams that defeated them during the last month. Camargo and Soldier took their measure by 19-14 and 20-18 respectively while they won from Frenchburg 29-21.

The prospects will be much brighter with the opening of the second semester when several boys, including two six-footers, will become eligible.

Frederick Prichard and Clinton Tatum, both lettermen of last year are gradually hitting their stride and should prove a dangerous combination in any game. Harold Allen, also a letterman, is apt to turn out one of the best players Breck has ever developed while the guards Calvin Crosswhite, Robert Fraley and Hroy Caudill are able to take care of themselves in any kind of high school competition. Charles Fraley, George Jackson, Wendell Brown, and Ben Johnson round out the squad of 10.

HAPPENINGS OVER STATE AS SEEN BY BUSINESS WAYS

Dark tobacco growers in western Kentucky pessimistic over prospects due to the loss of Spanish Monopoly market and other European conditions.

Mayville trotting horse breeder shipped two trotting bred mares in foal to purchaser in Oslo, Norway.

Kentucky's annual $2,000,000 crop, menaced by crown-borer pest.

10,000 pounds of high grade Burley from Flate City, Mo., arrived for sale on Shelbyville auction markets.

With "farm prospects most encouraging" a Louisville fertilizer company is building new addition to its plant, installing new mills and equipment to double capacity. ANNOUNCING....

The Opening of The Lane Funeral Home MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY

The firm of Barnes-Lane Company was opened in Morehead in September, 1933. As the years passed, the people of Morehead and Rowan County, appreciating the manner in which funerals were handled by them, have patronized this firm in increasing numbers.

Mr. C. B. Lane bought the interest of Mr. E. L. Barnes in September, 1936 and moved the location of the business from the Caskey Building to the former residence of the late Senator Allie W. Young. This building has been remodeled and furnished in such a manner as to make it the most modern funeral home between Ashland and Lexington.

Mr. Lane entered the undertaking business in Owingsville, Ky., in 1913. He served his apprenticeship there and became a licensed embalmer and funeral director in 1916. He sold the business in Owingsville in 1921 and became associated with the firm of Eastin & Harris, funeral directors, of Mt. Sterling.

The Lane Funeral Home is now fully equipped for the operation of such a business, having recently added to their motor equipment a new LaSalle ambulance and funeral car and a new passenger sedan. By reason of their modern equipment they can not only serve you in Morehead and Rowan County but can answer your calls from hospitals and homes at a distance.

A complete funeral furnished by this legally licensed and experienced establishment will cost you no more than when purchased elsewhere.

You are cordially invited to inspect this funeral home and equipment.

LIBELED LADY

ADAPTED FROM THE METRO GOLDWYN MAYER Picture
LEIBUS SATTICHELL

Synopsis — Warren Haggerty, managing editor of the New York Evening Star, nearly dressed to be married to Gladys Benton, is called to the office because fifty copies of the paper carrying a libelous story about Connie Haggerty (daughter of the man the paper has bought for about twenty years) have got out. Haggerty calls Allenbury in London and learns he has instructed his attorney to sue the Star for $5,000,000. Haggerty searches frantically for Bill Chandler, former libel man for the paper, whom he had fired. Chandler demands $5,000 and $50,000 when the libel action is withdrawn, if he takes the case.

Chapter Three
THE BRIDE IS LEFT BEHIND
Haggerty was driven to pleadings by a reasonable Bill—
"Take it or leave it. . . No, on second thought, I don't think I want the job any more. I've got all the money I need. Only this morning I got a $5,000 advance on my next book." He pulled out the memo, which he had put in his pocket, and started to tear it off the man the paper which fell to the floor. "Leave for get about it."
"Wait!" Haggerty grabbed the reporter's arm. "You ought to be arrested for extortion. But all right." He signed the agreement which Chandler had drawn up.
"You dropped this, sir," said passing bellboy, picked up the letter and gave it to Haggerty who immediately went up into the air.
"So your publisher's going to give you five thousand in advance? Seven hundred behind at the hotel, you mean?"
Chandler patted the pocket in which he had put their agreement. "Not now I'm not. Forget it. You'll get your money's worth. Here's the plan: the Allenburys are in London, so I sail at once to England and sail for home on the boat they are to take the end of the week. I meet the girl. Perhaps she comes to my cabin—anything can happen in five days on a boat—for a cocktail, perfectly innocent to her, to me and everyone on the boat except the private detective who radios my wife."

"Have you got a wife?"
"No, this is a set-up. We'll hire some attractive girl to marry me and when the time comes, she'll stage a pretty little scene over her husband, sue Connie for alienation of affections."
"I get it!" cried Haggerty. "The Star has called Connie a hand-stealer and she denies it. We duplicate the situation—and this time she does steal a husband. At the time we're right!"
"Let her go to bat with her libel suit after that and see what she'll collect!"

"But how about the girl to marry you? Do you know anybody?"
"Pretty tricky," he got to be someone we can use."
"Listen!" interrupted Haggerty, an ecstatic look on his face. "I've got the girl—the very girl! I'll phone her now and we'll meet at the City Clerk's office in an hour."
"Oh, is you, is it?" said Gladys Benton coldly when she recognized Haggerty's voice.
"Now wait a minute, honey. Do you want to get married?"
"Do I want to get married? What do you think? I'll call the preacher."
"Be at the City Hall—clerk's office—in an hour. And don't ask questions."
"The City Hall! But I can't wear my dress! All right, Warren, I won't ask questions. I'll be there, and don't keep me waiting!"
If Haggerty counted on his Irish charm to persuade Gladys Benton to marry a man she had never before met just to help him out of a jam, he was quickly persuaded of his error. While Bill Chandler waited in a corner of the clerk's office puffing a cigarette, Haggerty explained to Gladys the jam he was in—how it might cost him his career if the paper lost the suit—appealing to her love for him. Gladys got angrier and angrier and began to raise her voice. Haggerty begged her to be quiet.

"I won't be quiet!" she saved. "I've taken plenty from you for that paper, Warren Haggerty, but this gets the blue ribbon—trying to marry me off to another guy—to that baboon!" She stabbed a finger at Chandler.
"Let's not deal in personalities," said Bill calmly.
Haggerty pleaded, "But, darling, it's just for a month—maybe less. Then six weeks in Reno. I'll come out the moment you get your divorce."
"But I don't want a divorce! I want to get married and stay married! If you don't want to marry me, just say so."
"Of course, I want to marry you! But this comes first. It's our only chance. Why, no other paper in the world would take me on as office boy, if the Star loses this suit. You remember Ed Glover, when he lost that libel case? They found his car gone over a cliff and a revolver in his hand. Would I permit you to help me in this way if I didn't consider you, practically, as my wife?"
"Would you ask your wife to help you in that case?"
"The ape objects," said Chandler like a defense lawyer.
"But, honey, you're not marrying him really. A wedding ceremony, six hours in a hotel apartment—and I'll be there every minute—and then he sails for Europe!"
Gladys covered her eyes. "I'm not having any."
Chandler $50 to his feet, gave Haggerty a wink. "That goes double for me! Sorry, but the deal's off. Here's your contract—fifty thousand dollars. But I wouldn't take that gal on for a million."
"But, Bill, you know the spot scene when we learn I'm called to Europe."

"Remember, honey," Haggerty admonished Gladys, "you're all broken up. Here he is, a bridegroom of an hour, torn from your arms."
"And that's plenty!"
Chandler lifted his glass. "To my little bride!"
"Lay off that stuff!" said Gladys in anger. "My name is—"
"Mrs. William Chandler!"
"I'd rather have a number!"
"Let me tell you this, Warren, you've got to forget the paper now, take me places—"

"That's your tough luck. I'm just. You'll have to get a new boy." He started for the door. Gladys, becoming indignant, caught his arm.
"You mean you're running out on Warren?" she demanded hotly. "That's it, sister." He pulled at his arm. She clung tighter.
"I'll ruin his career—his life! You know what the Star means to him. A fine friend you are!"
"Well," said Chandler, pretending reluctance. "If you put it that way—"

The bride and groom, with their only attendant at the marriage, were in the living room of Chandler's hotel apartment on "loop" late, drinking champagne and nibbling at caviar sandwiches when the phone rang. Chandler answered it.
"Send it right up. And send a waiter for the table." He hung up. "That's the wire you sent Warren. The waiter and bellboy will be here to witness the tender

"You mean you're running out on Warren?" she demanded hotly.

"Not me!" exclaimed Haggerty, alarmed. "You must stay here, in the apartment. You're married. You can't go running around with other men! You're to bring suit for alienation."
The door bell rang, and they all snapped into the parts they were to play. Gladys called sweetly. "Come in!" took the telegram from the bell boy while the waiter started to clear the table. "Oh, darling, here's a telegram for you."
"All right, sweetness, open it." Gladys opened the telegram and, as she read it, her face got screwed up, and she began to weep.
Chandler sprang up. "Darling! What is it?"
She shoved the telegram into his hand. "Read it."
"Why, it's from the office," exclaimed Bill, and read it aloud. "Impetive you sail Britain tonight for directors' meeting. Reservations arranged. Andrea will meet you at the ship and give you final instructions!"

"Why, it's from the office," exclaimed Bill, and read it aloud. "Impetive you sail Britain tonight for directors' meeting. Reservations arranged. Andrea will meet you at the ship and give you final instructions!"

"But two weeks is two weeks, blubbered Gladys, and I'm going to miss my Billkins." Chandler winked but played up. "And I'm going to miss my little Fuzzy Face."
"Say, Bill, you'll have to do some fast moving to make that ship!" cried Haggerty.
"I'll be back in a couple of weeks. Lucky I didn't unpack! Boy, get my bags!"

"Oh, Bill, you can't leave me!" wept Gladys. "You mustn't leave me!"
Bill stroked her hair as the waiter and the bell-boy exchanged sympathetic glances. "There now, darling, I know it's terrible, breaking up our honeymoon, but what am I to do? After all, if they tell me to go, I must go."
"He'll be back in a couple of weeks, Mrs. Chandler," soothed Haggerty.

"But two weeks is two weeks, blubbered Gladys, and I'm going to miss my Billkins." Chandler winked but played up. "And I'm going to miss my little Fuzzy Face."
"Say, Bill, you'll have to do some fast moving to make that ship!" cried Haggerty.
"I'll be back in a couple of weeks. Lucky I didn't unpack! Boy, get my bags!"

"I'll get the elevator," said Haggerty.
Bill took Gladys in his arms. "Good-bye, my darling! I'll be thinking of you every minute."
"Every second!" Gladys chimed in.
Haggerty, holding the elevator, explained to the runner: "The bride and groom."

OVER 40 YEARS' SERVICE TO ROWAN COUNTY

FARMING BY IMPROVED METHODS

Written by the Staff of the University of Kentucky Agricultural Extension Work

Economic Position of Burley

Improved
Three years of production added to consumption has improved the economic position of burley tobacco, says a statement by Prof. Dana G. Card of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Less tobacco was produced than was consumed in each of the past three years, with the result that stocks have been reduced. The total supply of tobacco on October 1, 1933, was a billion and 100 million pounds. Since then about 675 million pounds have been produced and 875 million pounds consumed. Thus the surplus has been reduced by 200 million pounds. The supply now is about 900 million pounds, and in another year, if consumption continues at the present rate, the supply should be near 800 million pounds.

Thus Professor Card points out that favorable factors in the burley tobacco situation include not only reduced production but also increased consumption. Sales of cigarettes have been of record breaking proportions in every month but one during the past two years.

Consumption may be at such a high level as to create overconfidence among growers, Professor Card fears, and he added that he wishes to emphasize the need for caution in planting for the future, lest new surpluses be accumulated and unsatisfactory prices result.

"Yields per acre this year are estimated to be unusually low. Normal yields would have produced 35 million pounds more than the 217 million pounds now estimated for the 1936 crop. While some increase in acreage need not be justified," Professor Card thought that it could easily be overdone. "If an acreage of 100,000 acres were planted five years prior to 1933 were planted and normal yields were obtained, the present annual consumption by 30 million pounds," he said.

Kentucky Station Develops Spray of Nicotine and Oil

The perfection of a spray which will kill practically all insect pests is announced by the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. It is made of nicotine, which is a by-product of tobacco, Kentucky's chief cash crop, and highly refined oil.

Extensive tests made at the Experiment Station proved the spray fatal to such hardy pests as squash bugs, white flies, mealy bugs, red spiders and green June beetles. Both chewing and sucking insects are killed by it, whereas a 10 percent solution of the nicotine-oil combination is necessary in the past to use a stomach poison for chewing insects and a contact poison for sucking insects.

Heretofore, most insecticides have been applied as water sprays or as dusts. Attempts to use oil alone because of injury to foliage resulted. The secret of the nicotine-oil combination lies in the fact that the oil used is highly refined to remove the properties that injure the foliage of plants. This oil is completely volatile, colorless and odorless.

The nicotine-oil spray is applied to plants undiluted in the form of a fine mist or fog. Work is going forward on a special type of sprayer which will insure satisfactory results without injury to plants.

Credit for the discovery of the nicotine-oil spray is given to O. Ritcher, research worker in entomology, and R. K. Calfee of the department of research chemistry at the Experiment Station.

University Sheep Are Big Winners At International

Once again sheep from the flock at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky captured the lion's share of high prizes at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago.

With 27 animals fitted by Harold Barber, master shepherd, the Experiment Station winners included one grand championship, three reserve championships, seven first prizes and a host of second, third and fourth awards.

The grand championship award came on a pen of three South-down wether lambs; the championships on cross-bred and Cheviot wether lambs; the reserve championship on a Cheviot ewe lamb, while first places were obtained on pens of lambs of each of the Southdown, Hampshire and Cheviot breeds and on several individual sheep.

In 13 years, the Kentucky Experiment Station has taken at the International Live Stock Exposition two grand championships, two reserve grand championships, 20 championships, 18 reserve championships, and a large number of first, second, third and minor awards.

Steers exhibited by the Experiment Station this year placed 10th and 14th at the great international show.

Kentucky Girls Win At Chicago

Kentucky 4-H club girls won high places with exhibits of clothing, canned foods and room improvement displays at the recent National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Every Dutton, Fayette county, took a first prize on a cotton dress of her own design and make, and Lorraine Harris, also of Fayette county, placed second in the room improvement exhibit.

In the exhibit of canned foods, sponsored by the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company, Kentucky 4-H club girls won $50 in cash awards, Fulton county; Marjory Fuller, McCracken county; Verna Mae Meader, Shelby county; and Charlotte Stutzenberger, Jefferson county.

32,563 Acres To Grasses, Legumes

Kentucky Farm News

The annual meeting of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society will be held during the Farm and Home convention at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington the last week in January. The fruit growers usually meet in December.

Following a referendum vote of farmers, the United States Department of Agriculture will establish an inspection and marketing service at the tobacco markets at Mt. Sterling, Cynthiana, Horse Cave and Bowling Green. Ninety-six per cent of the growers voted for the service.

Farm leaders in Caldwell county, planning for the future, believe the county will eventually become a major livestock region, due to the loss of demand for fire-cured tobacco, the location of the county and topography of the land and the abundance of limestone with which to make good pastures.

Cushenberry, an Allen county farmer, reports a profit of $266 on 50 hogs fed two months and three weeks. Fed corn, wheat and the average daily gain was 1.6 pounds per head. Corn and wheat were valued at $1 a bushel, and wheat at 1 cent a gallon.

A recent report of the Mercer County Sheep Growers Association showed 10,361 sheep insured with $799 in the treasury. Losses to date total $372. Insurance from March 1 to September 1 was 7 cents a head, and from September 1 to March 1 4 cents a head.

Dr. I. W. Johnson of Powell county grew 65 bushels of corn to the acre on five acres of bottom land which he tile drained and treated with limestone and superphosphate. The corn was of high quality and Dr. Johnson took first prize on six ears the Robinson Harvest Festival at the Experiment Substation at Quicksand.

Care Required In Washing Woollens

To care properly for winter clothing requires frequent brushing, frequent hanging, repairing and cleaning. As many wool and silk garments can be washed, the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture makes the following suggestions:

Both washing and rinsing should be done in lukewarm water, as hot water injures the fibers. Amild, neutral soap should be made into suds before any garments are added to the water. Squeeze and work the garment in suds, without rubbing, or keep it in action in the washing machine. Wash quickly through one or two rinsing waters, all of them of the same temperature. The garment should not be twisted or allowed to soak in the water. Squeeze it out lightly by hand or put it through a loosely set wringer.

Drying is best done at room temperature on a coat hanger; or better, roll between two bath towels or heavy cotton cloth. If it is printed material, a bird towel may be placed inside the garment in case the colors should run. Pressing should be done before the garment is thoroughly dry, using clean cloth over silk and garments and a thin muslin over woollens.

If the garment is of knitted material, it is well to take length and width measurements before wetting, and after partly drying between towels, to spread on a flat surface and stretch to measurements. It is then possible to smooth with the hands until the original shape is obtained, and the garment may be left to dry without pressing.

The Farm and Home (Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

Poultry, as well as all other kinds of livestock appreciate slightly warm water in winter. In fact, maximum egg production can be obtained only when fresh, clean water, with the chill taken off, is put before the hens in clean vessels.

The average for a 200-pound hog is 13 to 14 per cent of lard and may run as high as 20 per cent, depending upon the condition of the animal. In other words, a hog of this size will render 26 to 40 pounds of lard, depending upon its condition and the method of trimming.

Most stockmen keep salt before livestock, usually in a box under a shelter. In order to insure sufficient minerals, some dairymen give cows free access to bone meal prepared for feeding. Cows eat less than an ounce a day, when it is kept before them.

In buying clothing, women should consider cleaning possibilities. Does the style and material make for easy dry cleaning and laundering? Pressing on a garment increases the cost of cleaning. Are light collars and cuffs detachable? Can the garment be pressed easily at home? Bituminous or soft coal usually gives the best results when a deep fuel bed is maintained. Stir up the fire and get it hot before adding new fuel. Before putting in coal, push the partly burned fuel back to the sides of the firebox, leaving a hole for the new charge. Rice is satisfactory "extender" for meat and gravy dishes, such as chicken with gravy, Swiss steak, or curried lamb or pork. Also many sauces go well with rice. Spanish sauce, made with tomatoes, green peppers and onions, is colorful and appetizing served with flaky white rice.

Jeffersonville, Ind., clothing and department store sales report 15 per cent gains over a year ago; hardware sales up 5 per cent in October over September; employment 5 per cent better, and post office receipts 5.5 per cent better in two comparative months this year.

College Show Closes Friday for Holidays

'Theodora Goes Wild,' Name of Comedy To Be Presented December 18

For Friday, December 18, the College brings to the screen the last picture before the holiday season. It is a farce comedy which really goes wild entitled, "Theodora Goes Wild." It provides comedy romance of an intriguingly different style. It kept a review audience giggling and occasionally giving away to good old fashioned laughs during the entire ninety minutes running time.

It is the story of a young lady living in a rigidly moralistic household who rebels at the idea of her home town editor serializing a rather wild book which has just been written. In New York however, she is revealed as the author of the story to a select audience but to no one else.

Then Theodora goes to New York and meets the book's illustrator Michael Grant, and for one evening changes into a rather high-stepping moderner and the scenes connected with this are packed with laughs. She catches up with herself just in time and goes back to Lynnfield. Here she finds that Michael Grant has taken up his abode and the two of them give the old town some rounds of hectic excitement. Theodora decides then to go back to New York and let the whole world know who she is and hope for the best. She learns that Grant is married and she dresses and publicizes herself madly and finally is with him so much that Grant's wife sees him for divorce. Later she returns to the old town and after meeting Grant again marries him.

Irene Dunne and Mervyn Douglas are the leading actors.

Kentucky Burley Brings Good Price

year, however, there still is a long gap between last week's level and that paid in the peak year of 1919, when, during the first week of the season, two and a quarter million pounds of tobacco were sold here for an average of $60.30 a hundred.

The advance this year over last is confined almost entirely to those grades of tobacco that can be used for smoking purposes, with flying, trash and lugs leading with purple skyward.

Flyings, which at the peak a year ago were bringing from $38 to $40, are selling this year for $40 to $42, with corresponding increases in the trash and lugs. The high basket during the first week of sales last year was $40, while the big basket this season is $54, with a number at that price.

The advance on some of the near-good smokers is even greater than in the tops, sometimes the rise being as much as 100 per cent. There are many baskets of tobacco selling this year for from $38 to $45 which a year ago would not have brought more than from $18 to $25.

All this, then, both bright and red, also is sharing in the advance as the buyers, with an apparent mania for anything that can be used in the manufacture of the ever-increasing popular cigarettes, grab at every smokable basket offered. Almost any good crop this year will, if the heavy reds and tops are left off, average well above $40 a hundred pounds.

Railway express shipments out of Mayfield registered 21.5 per cent increase in first 10 months of 1936 over same period of 1935. Garment factory at Paducah established year ago reports October best month in its history with payroll also at peak, now employing approximately 600 persons.

Vikings Win Third Victory Of Season

Holbrook - Coached Eleven Tips Hitches High By 19-10 Count

The Morehead High school Vikings rang up their third victory in four games Tuesday evening by defeating Hitches High school 19 to 10 at the local gymnasium. The first half was a nip and tuck affair with the Vikings leading 6-5 at the end of the quarter and 6-6 when the rest period was called. As usual the Morehead club finished strong running the count to 13 to 8 at the end of the third quarter and then drawing away to a more comfortable advantage in the last period although substitutes played much of the time.

Robert Tackett again led the Morehead club in scoring with 7 points, while Foley Hayer registered 6. Calhoun paced the losers with 5.

One of the most gratifying features of this year's Morehead High school play is the steadily increasing crowds that are witnessing the games. For the last three years the sport has been at a low ebb at the school, with victories few and far between, but under the reign of Coach Roy Holbrook the Green and White apparently is again finding itself.

Morehead High school will go to Sandy Hook Saturday for a doubleheader attraction, Coach Roy Holbrook said this morning. The games did not appear on the regular M.H.S. schedule.

The lineup: Morehead (19) Pos. (10) Hitches Tackett (7) ... F... (5) Calhoun Butcher (1) ... F... G. Stewart Hayes (5) ... C... Haeberlin Wilson (2) ... G... C. Stewart L. Brown ... G... (5) Crum Substitutes: Morehead—Barker, Hutchinson, Johnson, Reynolds 2, M. Brown 1. Referee—Riddle, Morehead.

RAILROAD RUNS MORE TRAINS THIS MONTH

Holiday business has shown so great a pick-up this year that the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company is now running 20 additional trains over the Ashland-Louisville division which passes through Morehead. Post office officials anticipate the largest business since 1929.

Bank clearings were 9 per cent above the 1935 week.

of these plays as part of the Christmas dinner.

Christmas greeting cards came into popularity much later. So far as is known, the first cards were printed in London in 1846. Up to this time, ordinary visiting cards with "A Merry Christmas" written upon them had been used. The new cards bore colored Christmas scenes, and pictures of robins.

Christmas trees, mistletoe, holly and the gay outward marks of the inner feelings of peace and security that are the necessary parts of a perfect Christmas.

Breck Junior High Has Lost 2, Won 1

One of the most determined, if not the best basketball team, in Morehead is the Junior High school club of Breckinridge Training school. The Juniors play preliminary games to the Breck High matches and have been providing enough basketball to make the fans want to come earlier. Playing against much better boys the Breck Junior High has defeated the Frenchburg second team 7-5 and lost to the second team representing Camargo and Soldier 21-11 and 17-11, respectively.

ALL REPORTS INDICATE XMAS BUSINESS BETTER THAN YEARS SINCE 1929

Business moved forward on many fronts to establish widespread gains over the corresponding period of last year, according to reports to the department of commerce from 37 key cities throughout the country for past week. Retail sales were stimulated by a mounting holiday demand everywhere which in some instances ran to such lengths that difficulty was beginning to appear in securing delivery of merchandise.

Wholesale lines were stimulated by the same influences, and the outlook gave further credence to predictions that the 1936 Christmas season will run close to that of 1929 in retail and wholesale turnover. Supplementing the exuberant merchandising outlook, there were widespread reports of added employment, wage increases and bonuses. Heavy goods and industrial equipment brought an unexpectedly large flow of orders, considering the period of the year, according to the New York report.

Louisville reported that while unseasonable weather somewhat retarded winter buying, retail sales advanced 15 to 20 per cent above last year. The wholesale demand for Christmas merchandise was very strong with gift goods, novelties, etc., moving briskly.

CCC's Contemplate Completion of Road

Eight Camps Have Built Over 300 Miles Since Establishment

Completion of the McKee-Livingston road on the Cumberland National Forest from McKee, Kentucky in Jackson county to the Rockcastle-Laurel county line on route No. 25 near Livingston will be one of the primary objectives of the Civilian Conservation Corps during the Eighth CCC Enrollment period, according to a statement issued today by R. F. Hemmingsway, supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest. Protection of the national forest from forest fires, the completion of the Bauer road in McCreary county, the Mt. Victory road in Pulaski county and the Pine Ridge forest camp in Wolfe county will also be included in the eighth period program.

The eight CCC camps located on the Cumberland National Forest have to date, 300 miles of going road construction. 200 miles of which the grading has been finished, 140 miles of which has been surfaced with crushed limestone. Included in the construction of these roads has been the building of 15 bridges, 75 masonry culverts, and the installation of 800 pipe culverts. Other improvements which have been installed and are now in use are 17 permanent fire towers, 6 temporary fire towers, 314 miles of radio, 24 short wave telephone lines, 3 equipment depots and four-room dwellings. Six quarries are operated by ERA labor with a total average monthly output of 6,000 cubic yards of crushed limestone.

The roads and improvements thus far completed have played an extremely important part in the suppression of fires. Over 450 fires have been fought on the Cumberland National Forest since January 1. This phase of the work of the U. S. Forest Service in Kentucky has and will continue to be the most important since the value of all other improvements are directly dependent upon the protection of the forest resources.

The completion of the McKee-Livingston road will furnish an important north and south link between Kentucky Highway No. 21 and U. S. Highway No. 25. With the completion of a steel beam bridge at Horse Lick, of three 65-foot spans supported by stone masonry piers 40 feet high, this road will be opened for general use.

The Pine Ridge Forest camp, located on Route No. 15 in Wolfe county at the site of the Pine Ridge fire tower has already proved popular with both local people and tourists. When this camp is opened next spring complete with all recreational facilities another recreational area of beauty and interest will have been added to Kentucky's many such areas already developed.

Mrs. Waltz Named Art Survey Leader

University of Kentucky To Publish Catalog Containing Rowan Data

Mrs. Wilford Waltz, Morehead, has been appointed chairman for Rowan county for the art survey being conducted under the auspices of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs and the department of the Women's Club Service, University of Kentucky department of Extension, for the purpose of publishing a catalog of Kentucky Art. This catalog, which will be published by the University of Kentucky department of Extension, is being edited by Mrs. W. T. Lafferty, secretary of Women's Club Service at the University.

The county chairmen selected from all over the state are the leading women of the commonwealth, and they are asking the people of each community who own art treasures to communicate with them in order that they may catalog those treasures.

The board of directors of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs decided to open the campaign in November, and since that time they have been carrying on an intensive survey, hoping to make a final report at the mid-winter meeting of the board, January 6. This work will be supplemented by information obtained through the schools, thus interesting the school children of the state in Kentucky art.

The art lovers of Kentucky, realizing the wealth of art material in the state, especially in the fields of portraiture and miniature, have striven for years to acquire a reliable list of Kentucky art treasures which could be published and made available for general use.

When the publication is complete and printed, copies will be available to clubs, schools and other organizations for use in study groups.

NEEDED BY GERMANY River towns along the Elbe in Germany are experiencing considerable concern over a veritable invasion of Czechoslovakian muskrats that is menacing everything along the river from bridges to crops, according to a report received in this state. About 30 years ago a few muskrats were introduced into Czechoslovakia from North America with a view to fur development.

These first animals become well acclimated; however, while their skins grow continuously worse in the course of years and soon were without commercial value the animals bred very rapidly and have now migrated along the Elbe river into Saxony. They have become a serious menace because of a constant burrowing under bridges, dams and other structures along the rivers. The German government has placed a bounty upon muskrat pelts. Despite these efforts the rodents are attacking structures, destroying fishing nets,

Morehead Kentucky

SPORT SPOTS

Get Carter!—that is the battle cry that every Kentucky college will use when they meet Morehead's Eagles.

That slogan to "Get Carter" is very apt to prove the big boon for Morehead this year.

It any other player is loosely guarded in favor of Carter he is very apt to break loose with a flurry of scoring.

A lot of Morehead fans are blaming advance publicity for causing the poor showing of the Eagles in the first half of the Holbrook game.

However, we would attribute Morehead's poor showing in the first half and their whirlwind attack in the last 20 minutes to the two different styles of offense they used.

All play and no work make a comedian a pretty dull boy, says Ed E. Wynne, whose new Saturday night program is delighting thousands.

IT'S NOT ALL LAUGHTER FOR THE FUNNY MEN

Jack Benny, leader in the parade of laugh makers, has a pretty dismal time as he rests between rehearsals for his show with Mary Livingston, Don Wilson, Kenny Baker and the Phil Harris orchestra in the NBC-Hollywood studios.

Charles Fosterworth, starting on Fred Astaire's program these days, indulges in the unusual practice of giving the reaction of friends as he goes about writing his scripts.

Fred Allen in a mood more sarcastic than the happy one you find him in each Wednesday night. He begins work on his broadcast and has the idea for next week's sketch before he does his midnight show for the West Coast.

A most unusual shot in this of Stoopagole and Budd in a serious conversation with the man who signs the checks for their Sunday broadcasts.

onds and ran their point margin up. At the very outset of the second half the Eagles started their fast break. Holbrook was taken off his feet by the faster and more elusive Morehead players.

You have heard of your point-head scored 48 points in 20 minutes of the Holbrook match. That is almost two and a half points per minute.

The basketball outlook at Morehead High is on the up-turn. The Vikings have won two games and lost one.

Good Things To Eat For Christmas Meals

CHOCOLATE NUT PUDDING

(Serves 6) 2 1/4 tablespoons cornstarch 1/4 cup sugar 2 tablespoons cocoa 1 1/2 cups milk (scalded) 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract 1/2 cup pecan nut meats (cut fine)

Yes, utilizing left-overs is a real art. And it's fun, too, to see it used cleverly one can contrive to use them, so that each member of the family will eat them with relish.

CHRISTMAS IS COOKIE TIME

We just can't resist that old Yuletide custom of making cookies that we learned at Grandma's knee so to speak.

The boys on the Viking squad believe in Roy—they do everything he tells them. It is a combination that is bound to accomplish much in the face of the many existing handicaps.

Breckinridge High and Morehead High will not meet in basketball during the regular season. They will probably come together in the district tournament.

It will be Morehead versus Morehead and you'd think the two would divide and just as much spirit as if these clubs were located in different towns.

YULETIDE COOKIES

1/2 cup butter 1 cup light brown sugar 2 eggs 2 cups general purpose flour 1/2 teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon 2 tablespoons sour cream 1 teaspoon vanilla extract 1/2 cup seedless raisins 1/2 cup candied cherries 1/2 cup citron 1/2 cup dates (chopped) 1/2 cup pecan nut meats (cut fine)

A small box of home-made candies in the toe of each little stocking (for his or her very own) will be greeted with cheers from the younger generation and you would know just what was going into young "tummies."

Here is a recipe for a Christmas candy that's easy to make—wholesome and inexpensive, too. Christmas Candy Roll 1-3 cup corn syrup 1/4 teaspoon maple flavoring 1/4 cup chopped dates or raisins 6 red maraschino cherries (chopped) 6 green maraschino cherries (chopped)

SANDWICHES FOR SANTA

Even Santa Claus must eat, and like other members of his sex he does enjoy sandwiches with generous spreads of tasty fillings.

Here are some suggestions for inexpensive sandwich fillings: Mix equal parts of finely cut walnuts and grated cheese, with salad dressing.

blended with salad dressing, make a delicious spread on whole wheat bread. Remember that all of these sandwich fillings can be made well ahead of time and kept without danger of drying out if they are stored in the vitalized atmosphere of a modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator.

MORNING STAR
All night through mountains we had walked.
An arm around the other's arm to keep each other safe and warm,
And of a thousand things we talked.

At times we saw a single light
In farm-hive windows, lone and bare;
We hoped that they were happy there.
And envied them their love that night.
But we were there to see the grass
In what seemed day break from afar,
All silvered by the morning star.
Beyond the blackened mountain pass.

HOW I BECAME A RADIO STAR

by COLONEL STOOPNAGLE

Fate plays such strange pranks on people. From as far back as I can remember, I had hoped to be a great lumberman. You see, my father was a politician, and I learned about logging from him. In a small way I was starting the "hand to mouth" existence of a lumber king.

Then I was admitted to the University of Rochester. After playing three years as varsity guard my college days suddenly ended, and I found myself back in Buffalo looking for a job. I had my heart set on a position with a lumber firm, and finally succeeded in landing work as a lath-cutter. That was better than whitening toothpicks. At least, I was working up to bigger stuff.

One day I woke up in a broker's office. I don't know how it happened, but pretty soon I was a vice-president. I stayed in business long enough to remember the Debacle of 1929. I turned to radio as a possibility. It was a happy day when I got a small job with a local station, and an even happier one when "Budd" Hulick, a major announcer, suddenly pronounced upon me, mumbled a few words in my ear, and introduced me to a radio audience as "Colonel Lennel O. Stoopnagle, at the console of The Mighty Gas-Pipe Organ." I played the only time I knew, "I Love Coffee, I Love Tea," and we were off with the craziest fifteen minutes ever heard along the Niagara Frontier.

Letters started coming in about our extemporaneous broadcast, and before we knew what it was all about we were doing a half hour Sunday evening program for a sponsor. We kept this up for about six months, when we were invited to come to New York by one of the big broadcasting systems. That was six years ago and we've been in the big town ever since.

Right now we are working on the NBC-Blue network every Sunday afternoon. We have interviewed "Never Men" — people who spend time not touching things advertised as "this product is not touched by human hands." Then we always introduce a few inventions, such as my new green, red, blue, yellow and brown sleeping pills if you want to dream in technicolor.

Budd calls from Asbury Park, New Jersey. He went to Georgetown University. Later he became singer with a dance orchestra, and also clerked behind a soda-fountain counter in a drug-store. Appearance with the band brought him into contact with radio stations and he soon switched to announcing. Shortly after he landed in Buffalo, we got together.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Ferrell were Monday dinner guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Van Antwerp at Farmers.
