Telephone Co. Starts Installing New Exchange

New Switch Board Arrived Last Week Is Now Being Installed Here

Page Ripley

Open up that "Believe it or not, Columbus!" For believe it or not, Morehead is going to have a brand new telephone system.

And if that isn't one for Ripley, then Ripley should resign.

There seems to be no doubt but that the new and long promised telephone system will be installed within a few days, as they are already working on it and, according to O. P. Carr, should have it in operation within another week.

The switch board which has caused all the delay, and which incidentally has added considerably to the profane vocabulary of the citizens of Morehead, arrived last week together with the crew which will be working every night since that time to get it in place and the connections made.

The new system, according to Mr. Carr will be modern in every way, being a common battery system with a lighter overhead which will insure prompt service to the customers. There are spaces for 400 drops, which means that over 400 customers can be served from the new board. At present there are something over 250 customers, so that it will be seen that the new system will be ample for use of the local exchange for several years to come. Mr. Carr estimates that they will be able to care for at least 500 customers on the new board.

Asked when the system would be ready for service, Mr. Carr stated that the News might assure the customers of the telephone company that it would be at the earliest possible moment, and that

Masonic Lodge Has Colorful Initiation

Three candidates for the third degree in this section were initiated at the meeting which was held at the Masonic lodge in Morehead, Tuesday evening, December 11.

The work was conferred by the degree team of the Winchester lodge in full regalia and is said by those attending to have been the most impressive ever witnessed in this section. Members of the degree team were well versed in their work, and the entire ceremony from beginning to end was such as to draw favorable comment from those who were so fortunate as to be present.

Over 150 Masons from all parts of this section were in attendance at the meeting which was held in the additional room was held in the gymnasium at the Morehead High School. Among the honor guests present were a number of officers of the various Grand Lodges of the state: Hebbert Henderson, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, F. and A. Allotment Cards Received Here

Allotment cards for Rowan County Tobacco Control Association members have been prepared by the County Boarding Office. Farmers marketing tobacco must obtain their allotment cards before taking their tobacco to market. A 25 percent tax will be collected from all growers who market their tobacco who do not present an allotment card when the tobacco is delivered and sold. An allotment card is available for every contract signed. The cards must be called for in person and receipt signed when they are obtained.

Allotment cards covering 8,850 pounds have been prepared for tobacco producers not under contract. These cards have been issued to twenty six producers who were unable to obtain an equitable allotment under the production adjustment contract.

Santa Claus Has Hard Luck But Will See Rowan County Children Xmas

Press reports that have come by carrier pigeons from the North Pole say Old Santa Claus, that tall fellow with the red cheeks, good natured smile and the jolly roll stomach, has had his share of hard luck during 1934. The bulletin just received states that old Saint Nick is working all the harder and is getting his reindeer in the best of condition for their trip around the world on the eve of 1934 Christmas.

Unfortunately several of Santa Claus' elf workers contracted a mild nervous breakdown from overwork and at the good things that old Saint Nick hoped to get ready for all the good boys and girls were not made.

Santa sends word that his boys and girls will not be forgotten, however, and in Rowan County he has secured the aid of some good men who are going to help him on Christmas.

Old Santa sent a messenger to Morehead, and this messenger, seeing the tall and beautiful buildings at the Morehead State Teachers College thought that here must live some people that would help him in Rowan County.

The Young Woman's Christian Association was the first group that the messenger went to, and they readily agreed to do everything they could to help Saint Nick in this county. They will be helped by the men of Thompson Hall.

Together the Y. W. C. A. and the Thompson Hall group will give a huge Christmas Party for as many as a hundred and fifty boys and girls. And what a party it will be! Even old Santa Claus said he couldn't do any better. Dean Smith

TEACHERS WILL GET BACK PAY BLAZE MENACES ROWAN VILLAGE

A large frame residence and a filling station were destroyed and menaced much of the village of Farmers, seven miles west of Morehead by fire Monday morning. Flames, originating in the home of Clegg Parker rapidly spread to the filling station of Mrs. W. M. Mays, and fed by gasoline and fanned by a breeze threatened nearby dwellings and business houses. Both the dwelling and the filling station were destroyed at a loss of several thousand dollars.

All the windows in the store of Russell Burrows broke under the intense heat. Residents saved their homes from igniting as volunteers spread wet blankets and sacks on the roofs and quickly extinguished all sparks. Farmers does not have a fire department and efforts to check the flames in the dwelling and filling station proved futile.

Two fire alarms were answered by the Morehead Volunteer Fire

Ted Shawn Here On Next Monday

Ted Shawn's company of men dancers are scheduled to open an entirely new programme here Monday, December 10, at the college. Shawn has completely revamped the offering given at Morehead last year and promises to be one of the major attractions of the season.

The program, in fact, consists of five clearly defined acts delineating the development of the dance from the time of earliest man to its modern form. Those who saw the dancers last year will attest to the fact that they display a remarkable degree of muscular development and polished form in executing the intricate movements required to convey the intention of the dance to the spectators. This year's program is more involved

KIDNAPS HENRY C. HAGGAN WHICH LEADS TO ARREST

Admits Identity As Francis Harper, Escaped Convict From Illinois After Stealing Professor's Automobile

The scene of kidnaping and hold ups has apparently shifted from the populous centers to the smaller towns if the experiences of Professor Henry C. Haggan are any indication. Prof. Haggan was given all the thrills of an abduction together with a hold-up on Tuesday night of this week, when, as he was starting home from the Eagles Nest with his daughter, Mary Caldwell, he was held up at the point of a 45, and forced to drive the holdup man down the road to Blue stone. There he and Mary Caldwell were ordered from the car, while the bandit drove off, presumably in safety.

However he counted without the ingenuity of Prof. Haggan, who stopped a passing car and drove with him to Zwingsville from which point he called all surrounding towns notifying them of the kidnaping and holdup and asking them to be on the outlook. The result of Mr. Haggan's activity resulted in the arrest of the bandit at Flemingsburg after some excitement.

Mr. Haggan and Mary Caldwell left the Eagles Nest about 8:00 p.m. starting for home. They had parked the car near the A and Y corner and were about to get in when the bandit stepped up, pulled his gun into Mr. Haggan's ribs and ordered him to drive down the road. The child was taken along, under a threat to kill them both unless they did exactly as he said. They stopped at Buck Amburg's filling station to buy gas, the bandit furnished the money and telling Mr. Haggan to keep the change, when Prof. Haggan told him he had no money. They drove on down to Bluestone, where the bandit ordered the two from the car and drove off.

Sunday Shows At The College

For the two years that the college theatre has been in operation there has been a persistent pressure for Sunday shows from students, faculty, and town sources. As an experiment for at least the duration of six shows the President of the College has authorized Sunday matinees.

Beginning with the first Sunday afternoon of the new year at 2:30 o'clock these additional shows will be staged. To start the series there will be the thrilling story from the Arabian Nights of All Babi and the Forty Thieves that gets its title from the name of the rich Chinese merchant who was robbed and killed, Chu Chin Chow. It is a lavishly mounted musical that stars Anna Mae Wong. For the benefit of those persons who may not want to attend Sunday shows these

Christmas Seal Sale Goes Good

Under the auspices of the Morehead Woman's Club the annual sale of Christmas Seals has been going forward with a most gratifying result according to Miss Ernestine Troemel, chairman of the drive. It is scarcely necessary to state that the proceeds from the sale will be used for the care and prevention of tuberculosis in this section and in the state.

With the sale opening only last Friday, already over $100 has been realized. The sale will continue until Christmas.

Cooperation with the Morehead Women's Club in the sale are the teachers and pupils of the rural schools, the consolidated schools and the training school.

Half the funds realized from the sale are to go to the state fund.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

"Go your Christmas Shopping Early," is the saying that goes the rounds each year.

To do your shopping early is smart and represents forethought. Don't wait until everything is picked over and the stores are crowded with unwise people who did not do their Christmas Shopping early. Now is the time to do your shopping. Then again there is time to go over every present and admire it for days before spreading the holiday spirit to its recipient.

TOBACCO MARKET

The farmers of Rowan County should have little difficulty in getting their tobacco to market this year. The three Good roads explain the ease with which farmers will be able to market this year's crop. Especially is this true of the Maysville market. It is now only a little more than forty miles to the Mason County market over perfect roads. The new Allie-Young highway is the connecting link that was long sought after and now much used.

THE MASONIC LODGE

Appearing regularly in the news columns of both local and state daily newspapers during the past few weeks have been accounts of the activities of the Morehead chapter of the Masonic Lodge. There is a reason for this lodge getting into print so often. The answer is that the lodge is doing something, and is probably taking more beneficial and interesting forward steps than any chapter in Eastern Ky.

Last Friday the eyes of Masons from all over Kentucky were centered on Morehead. A crowd of Mason from every place representing nearly all Eastern Kentucky chapters, many Central and Western Kentucky lodges and seven states assembled here for what was possibly the most representative gathering in local and neighboring parts for many years.

WAITING FOR THE CURTAIN

Generally speaking, the present period aptly may be described as "between the acts." The voters have had their turn on the stage, and Congress will hold the spotlight. Carry the figure of speech a bit further, it might be said that the Administration, meaning the President and his advisers, is writing the play for the next Congress.

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is that citizens in vast numbers, operating through organizations representing business industry, agriculture, etc. are giving definite expression of policies affecting the acts that they believe and hope will be of service to the president and congress in dealing with problems that demand consideration and action.

Sales Tax Loses In Mock Debate

With a slow, cumbersome unwieldiness only equalled by the Kentucky Senate from which it was modeled, the student mock senate held Monday night, November 26, in the Training School auditorium, struggled through two tumultuous hours of debate and finally voted 15 to 15 to repeal the House Bill No. 11 which is better known as the sales tax. The advocates of repeal led by Senators Hogge and Dean, were successful in repealing the bill only after being defeated in the first balloting and then calling for a new roll call.

Harry Davis as president and Dr. Lloyd as clerk of the senate were especially effective in the performance of their respective duties and much of the success of the meeting can be attributed directly to their work.

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright by W. H. Wright WNU Service

I heard a strange sound just now, he explained. Like a whine, sir. It startled me terribly. When I looked back of this curtain, I saw the dog.

Does it belong to anyone in the house? Markham asked. Oh, no, sir! The man assured him. That's why I was so startled. There never been a dog in this house since I've been here, and that's going on ten years.

As he held back the partitions, we could see the small, prone shape of a slightly brindled Scottish terrier, on its side with its four short legs stretched out. Over the left eye was a clefted wound; and on the floor was a black stain of dried blood. The eye beneath the wound was swollen shut, but the other eye, dark hazel and oval, looked up at us with an expression of tragic appeal.

Vance took the dog tenderly in his arms. What street's this? he asked of no one in particular. Seventy first. Open that door, Gamble!

The butler apparently as much surprised as any of the rest of us, hurried to obey. Vance stepped into the vestibule, the dog held gently against his breast.

I'm going to Dr. Blamey, he announced. He's just up the street. I'll be back presently. And he hurried down the stone steps. This new development left us all even more puzzled than before. Vance's animated response to Gamble's announcement regarding the dog, and his cryptic remark as he hurried down stairs, added another element of almost outlandish mystery to a situation already incredible complicated.

Markham was staring at the front door through which Vance had just passed, chewing his cigar nervously. Presently he turned to Gamble with an angry look.

You never saw that dog before? No, sir. The butler became oily again. Never, sir. It's most mysterious. I can't imagine how it got into the house.

Wrede and Grassi had come to the drawing room door, and stood looking out curiously into the hall. Markham seeing them, addressed himself to Wrede.

Do you Mr. Wrede, know anything about a small black shaggy dog that might have found access to this house? Wrede looked puzzled.

Why, no, he answered, after a slight hesitation. No one here cared for dogs. It happens to know that both Archer and Brisbane detected pets. What about Miss Lake? She has no use for dogs. She likes cats.

Markham frowned. Well, a dog has just been found here in the hall, back of those curtains. That's most remarkable. Wrede seemed genuinely astonished. I can't imagine where it came from. It must have followed someone in, without being seen.

Markham did not answer, and Heath, taking his cue from his mouth stepped forward belligerently, and thrust out his jaw. But you like dogs, don't you? he shot forth, in his best third-degree manner.

Wrede was taken aback by the sergeant's sudden aggressiveness. Why, yes he said. I'm very fond of them. I've always kept one till I moved into the apartment next door.

What kind of a dog? demanded Heath, without relaxing his bellicose manner. A Doberman Pinscher, Wrede told him, and turned to Markham. I don't exactly understand this man's questions.

We're all a little on edge, Markham apologized. Some very peculiar things went on in this house last night. Coe did not commit suicide, he was murdered.

Ah! he murmured. I was afraid of that. Grassi now gave a guttural exclamation, and stepped into the hall. Murdered? he repeated. Mr. Coe was murdered? I understood he had taken his own life with a revolver.

He was stabbed in the back, Markham informed him. The bullet did not enter the head until after death. Again the Italian gave a curious guttural exclamation and leaned heavily against the door. Heath was watching him like a tiger, and at this point he moved deliberately forward until his face was within six inches of Grassi's.

Stabbed with a dagger! he spat out. In the back. Wop stuff. What do you know about it? As quickly as he had gone pale the Italian drew himself together, and stood erect with great dignity, looking Heath steadily in the eyes. I know nothing about it, sir, he said with quite suavity. I am not of the police. Perhaps you know a great deal about it. His tone though on the surface was polite, was an insult. Heath was piqued.

We know plenty, he boasted truculently. And when we get going it won't be so pleasant for you. Markham stepped forward. You gentlemen will have to wait in the drawing room for a while, he said to Grassi and Wrede. And please do not go so good as to keep the door closed until we want you.

Heath waved the men back into the drawing room and drew the sliding door shut. Come, Sergeant, Markham said. We'd better make a once-over of Coe's room before the boys get here. Heath sullenly led the way up stairs. During the next five minutes he so, Markham and the sergeant walked about Coe's quarters giving them a cursory inspection. Heath went to each window and raised the shades. When he had completed his rounds he went up to Markham.

Here's a funny one, sir. The windows are all shut tight, but that isn't all. Every one of 'em is locked. And this room is on the second story, so that no one could get in from the outside. Why all the persecution? Archer Coe was a peculiar man.

sergeant, Markham replied. He was always afraid someone would break in and steal his treasures. Who'd want this junk? Heath grumbled specially, and moved to the desk.

Markham after casually inspecting the closet, walked across the room to the oakwood chest beneath one of the seat windows. I then remembered that Vance had regarded opening wedge. That little dog is the one totally irrelevant item in this whole affair, she's our one contact with the world outside. She doesn't belong here, and therefore will have something important to say to us. Furthermore she was wounded in this house.

Markham's eyes suddenly narrowed. And the wound was similar to the one on Coe's head, and in the variation with Doctor Doremus about Coe's broken ribs. I've seen nothing of the weapon that killed Coe, Markham remarked.

It's not here, Heath asserted dogmatically. It was withdrawn from Coe's body, and I'll bet the guy carried it where it wouldn't be found.

A few minutes later Vance returned to the house. As he entered the room his face was troubled, and anger smoldered in his gray eyes. There's a good chance she'll live, he reported, but that was a vicious blowsome one dealt her. A blunt object of some kind. I had rarely seen Vance so upset.

What does it all mean? Markham asked him. Where does that dog fit in? I don't know yet. Vance sank into a chair and took out his cigarette case. But I have a feeling it's our

But that may be only a coincidence, he returned after a minute. In any event no one in this house cared for dogs. There's never been one here. No member of the household brought that dog in, Markham. But had the dog got in by mistake, no member of the family would have hesitated to strike it.

You think an outsider brought it here either. Vance frowned meditatively. That's the strange thing about the dogs presence here. It was probably a terrible accident, a fatal miscalculation. That's why I'm so deuced interested. And then there's this point to be considered, the person who found the dog here was afraid to let her out. Instead for his own safety, he tried to kill her and then hid her behind almost succeeded in killing her. The dog either witnessed the murder or was present in the house shortly afterward.

Vance nodded doubtfully.

NOTICE IN BANKRUPTCY United States District Court For Eastern District of Kentucky.

In Matter of James Robert Becraft, Bankrupt

The creditors of James Robert Becraft of Morehead, Kentucky, are hereby notified that said Becraft was on December 3, 1934 adjudicated a bankrupt, and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at the office of S. battery phone service will be installed where-ever there is a request made for it. So far, he stated that there has been no requests made, and that those who asked first would receive the first attention. He assured a representative of the News office, since they had made the first request, that they would receive the first service.

It is not known yet just what action the City Council will take with regard to the annulment of the telephone franchise which they scrapped at their last meeting. It will be remembered that the council after granting the telephone company additional time in which to complete their contract, finally annulled the franchise, which simply meant that the telephone company would operate without authority. However, it is likely that the council may consider their action, and re-instate the franchise at their next meeting, after the new system is installed.

Mr. Carr deserves a lot of credit for his efforts to keep the present system going as well as he has in the face of the fact that it has been obsolete for almost as many years as it has been in operation.

Anyway, when we said at the beginning still goes.

WE LIVE AGAIN

Dec. 7 and 8

A world that is now only a memory comes to life again today at Anna Sten and Fredric March begin Dec. 7-8 engagement at the College Theatre in Camus. Goldwyn's presentation of "We Live Again" retitled from the "Resurrection" of Leo Tolstoy.

An idyllic courtship—between an aristocratic young cadet and an applecheeked peasant girl—becomes a grim struggle through misery and despair toward happiness and peace. This best loved of all Russian stories has the countryside in the days of the Czars as its early setting. Colorful religious festivals, zypsy songs, breathtaking cavalry maneuvers; Moscow, hearty with food and wine and debauched gaiety; sombre gray prisons, the taut trial that gambles with human lives, the exile with which criminals were punished in that distant day, are details in the patchwork panorama that Director Ruben Mamoulian has taken out of Tolstoy's great humanitarian novel.

Holiday Land, a technicolor cartoon the equal of the Silly Symphonies will feature the short subjects page of the program. Don't let the children miss it. There will be another reel of the ludicrous tombstone inscriptions, and for the football fans there will be a show called Flying Pigskins. Also the late news from Fox.

In the meantime Mr. Haggan went to Owensville where he sent out calls to all surrounding towns to be on the outlook for the car.

The traffic light in Flemingsburg proved to be the bandit's undoing, as he drove up to the red light and stopped. The city policeman, on the watch, walked out to the car, verified the license number and opened the door, to be met with the business end of a forty-five. The bandit backed him up to the walk, searched him hurriedly, but missed his revolver, and hurried back to the car. However, as he started to drive off, the officer drew his gun and fired, while a grocer on the other side of the street ran out and called to the bandit to throw up his hands. Not knowing that the grocer was unarmed, the robber dropped his gun and surrendered. He was brought back to Morehead where at present he is being held, pending developments.

When searched it was found that he carried a forty five revolver, together with fifty rounds of ammunition.

in a reasonable time, say one year, then the right herein shall be forfeited by the city council, giving ten (10) days notice of its intention to declare said forfeiture.

and created herein, and any proposing to bid on said franchise is hereby required to put up a certified check in the hands of the city clerk for Fifty ($50.00) dollars, to insure the cost of advertising; and the successful bidder shall have credit on the purchase price for said sum, and the unsuccessful bidder will have same returned to him for cash in hand.

It is further ordained by the city council that Roy E. Holbrook, City Clerk, be and he hereby appointed and authorized to make sale of said franchise for and on behalf of the City of Morehead, and he will advertise same for sale on Saturday, December 22, at the front door of the City Hall in Morehead, Kentucky at 1:30 P. MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY

"BO" McMillan TO SPEAK HERE DEC. 15th.

Former Centre Grid Star Will Address Eagles

Bo McMillan, whose name will not die in Kentucky athletic circles with the passing of many sports generations, will be a guest of the Morehead December 14. On the evening of this day the great Bo who commanded the Centre College Colonels when they had possibly the greatest grid team that ever played in Kentucky sod, will speak at the 1934 football banquet at the Morehead State Teachers College.

McMillan is at present coach of the University of Indiana, at Bloomington. He formerly coached the Kansas Aggies. At both schools he was nearly as good a mentor as he was a football player, when old Centre's prayers were heard by the football gods and answered with victory such as no other team in the Commonwealth has ever achieved.

The largest crowd that ever attended a grid banquet at Morehead is expected to hear the great Bo speak. Never before have the football fans from Morehead had the opportunity of seeing a speaker of McMillan's character.

The announcement that Bo McMillan would deliver the principal address at the banquet was made by Dr. J. H. Payne just before he left for Atlanta, Georgia.

McMillan played for Centre five years, 1917, 1918, 1919, '20 and '21. In 1922 he went to Centreary College as the highest paid coach south of the Mason-Dixon line. From Centreary he went to the Kansas Aggies and this year he coached Indiana. His team scored the highest up in Big Ten history when Indiana defeated Purdue 19-6. This loss knocked Purdue from a share in this major conference title.

McMillan was an All-American quarterback on Walter Camp's team. It was in 1921 that Centre won over Harvard by 6 to 0. It was McMillan's last year at the Centre school.

Coach Downing played against McMillan when Downing was playing at State.

All teammates of McMillan have been invited to be the guests of the college at this banquet. Anyone is invited to attend, but all are asked to get their reservations in by December 12.

Breckinridge Beats Owingsville 21 to 11

Breckinridge's high-flying basketballers swept a surprised Owingsville five off its feet last Thursday night and emerged from the fray on the long end of a 21 to 11 score. The issue was never in doubt as Breck jumped into the lead in the first half behind the accurate shooting of "Kay" Hogge, who garnered 11 of his teams points. Trumbo, Owingsville, was second best with seven markers.

Roy Holbrook has brought his inexperienced Breck five along rapidly this fall and before the season is over should have a strong combination. Several good players will become eligible for the team in February and Coach Holbrook is looking forward to using those men to good advantage in the hard games occurring on the second half of the schedule.

Against Owingsville, Breck uncovered a smooth offense with Hogge slipping through for many shots at the basket. Pritchard at guard for Breck played a steady defensive game and came through on the offense for four points.

Breckinridge: 21. Owingsville: 11.

Breckinridge: F. ... Reid
Ramey ... F. ... Trumbo
Blair ... C. L. Sneed
Pritchard ... G. ... Bryan
Hogge ... G. ... Darnall
Substitutions: Breck: Holbrook, Young, Hollis; Owingsville: E. Sneed, Kar, Dorett, Refeing, Adams, Reed.

The disbandment of the Ashland High School from the Kentucky High School Athletic Association for the remainder of the school year, came as much of a surprise as many, but generally it was expected. There are many arguments vouchsafed on both sides, but evidently Mr. Jackson's letter defending the Tomcat school did not carry enough good sound logical reasons why Ashland should not be barred.

The Ashland School would perceptibly have been let off sooner except that august body who head the Kentucky High School Athletic Association felt that they should finish their football season before announcing their vote.

The disbandment came over Ashland's playing By O'Mara, a fine and the powerhouse in the grid team. The loss of him and Jimmy Manley, the latter found to be too old, ruined the terrible Tomcats on the football field this year. They closed their season by dropping a 45-0 decision to Martins Ferry, Ohio.

To get back to O'Mara. Just who is responsible for changing O'Mara's record to make him eligible is not publicly known or probably never will be. Had Ashland discovered and meted out the punishment to that one individual, it is a pretty good guess to say that today Ashland would be a full fledged bona fide member of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association. There are many who believe that Ashland is better than most of the whole team and the school.

How the records were changed is known. Who did it may not be known but again it may be by a select few.

The general feeling both in Ashland and in many parts of the state is that the Ashland Board of Education would like to find Mr. Jackson at fault. Knowing a little something about Mr. Jackson, and hearing considerable from fairly reliable sources, we cannot help but acquit him in our own minds. There probably has been more dis-

Battle For Places On Morehead Net Team Are Hotly Contested By Ten

Up at the Morehead State Teachers College there is a hot battle in progress between several young men who are aspiring for places on the Eagle basketball team. As the season progresses the battle promises to narrow into even closer quarters, and may end up in a virtually a tie for many of Coach Downing's aspiring basketballers.

The five men that make up the pre-season first five in the opinion of Eagle followers are Oxley and Ryan at forwards, Roy Caudill, center; and Shuey and Doc Adams at guards. At any time this situation may be almost reversed to include Hoskin and Fred Caudill, forwards; Parsley center; and Francis and Johnson at guards.

The former team no doubt carries the greatest scoring punch. All are exceptionally good shots. Parsley, Caudill, does not attempt much scoring from the pivot spot, but when he does turn loose of the oval it falls through the net most of the time.

Oxley should be one of the states high scorers this year. Ryan is the most improved ball player on the Teachers and can turn in many points against any kind of opposition. Adams and Shuey are both scoring guards. This five is also

When the Eagles begin their campaign for state honors, Coach Downing may vary his style slightly. A good prospect to get in that starting team is Fred Caudill. He is making it hard on Oxley and Ryan and these three boys are going at top notch speed in practice. A few infractions of the training rules hurt Ryan more than anything else last year, but all are apparently forgiven and the Maysville flash is ready to go places on the court this year.

The largest crowd that ever saw a Morehead varsity alumni game was expected when they clash on December 15. This is the day following the football banquet and most of the grads will stay over to see the old times in action against this bunch of men who are putting Morehead over the basketball horizon into the valley of recognition in Kentucky sports circles.

Claude Clayton given place on second Kentucky S. I. A. A. team by Lexington Herald.

Edward Ashford bestowed on Claude Clayton the honor of placing Kentucky S. I. A. A. team for 1934, and giving honorable mention to Brashear and Grinstead.

Clayton finished his football career at M. S. T. C. with one of his best seasons and deserves all the credit that can be given him. In the last game of the season he finished in a blaze of glory, scoring two touchdowns in the last quarter to tie the score and also the extra point to win the game.

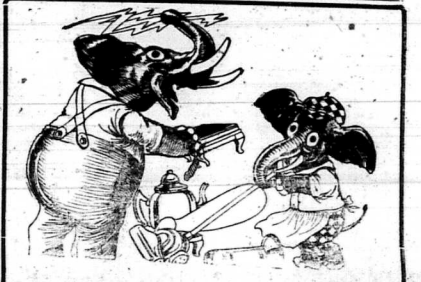

Brashear was hampered all year by injuries and without this handicap would have probably made the first team. He has one more season and will have to be reckoned with next year.

Grinstead, playing his first year on the varsity, was consistently good in every game, and may become one of Morehead's outstanding line men.
