PWA AUTHORIZES EXPENDITURE OF HUGE SUM FOR BUILDING OF POWER PLANT AT LOCAL COLLEGE

News of utmost importance to Morehead State Teachers College as well as to Morehead itself was released by President John Howard Payne on receipt of a message from the PWA authorities in Washington announcing the authorization of a PWA loan to the college for the erection of a heat, power and water plant at this place. The sum allotted by PWA for the purpose was $255,000.

The money is to be made available at once, according to the message. While nothing definite has been decided, it is thought that the Board of Regents will decide to erect the plant on the recently acquired plot of ground containing in the neighborhood of four acres, and situated across the tracks of the C. and O. Railway Company. This would give the plant a convenient location for the view point of water supply and railroad facilities for the shipment of coal. The PWA allotment is in the form of a grant and partly of a loan. Thirty per cent of the $255,000 is granted to the college, conditionally and need not be repaid. Seventy percent is in the form of a loan to be repaid out of revenue produced from the sale of electricity, water, etc.

In the erection of the water plant plans under consideration call for the erection of four foot dams, four in number, up the course of Triplett Creek to the Bodurba bridge. Other possible means of acquiring the plant with sufficient water, even in drought, were considered, among them the laying of a pipe either to North Fork or to Leaking River. However, neither of the systems was found to be feasible and the Triplett proposition was the only one considered by engineers to be satisfactory.

It will be remembered that in 1930 the extreme drought situation caused the college to be in a very bad way. Practically every year since that time, there has been a noticeable shortage in the water supply, although it has never quite reached the stage of that year. It is in the hope of eliminating this annually recurring shortage that the college contemplates the erection of dams of sufficient size to guarantee an ample supply of water at all times and seasons.

In addition to the supplying of a necessary plant to the college, the erection of the new proposed power heat and water plant will do much toward furnishing much needed employment to a large number of men in this community.

According to the present plans, work will be started at the earliest possible moment, considering the completion of plans and the awarding of the contract for building. As in all PWA work local labor will be employed where ever possible.

W. L. Farrell, Postal Inspector, Has Unusual Experience Conveying Gold

W. L. Farrell, post office inspector for this district, returned recently from California where he had been for several weeks on what might have been a vacation, except that it constituted what Mr. Farrell designated as the hardest work he has ever done. He was assigned by the government as one of the men who escorted the local representative to convey a huge amount of gold from California mint in Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Farrell stated that they moved during the two months a sum of gold valued at over two and one half billion dollars. He himself made four trips and on each trip was in charge of over one hundred million dollars in gold.

While not exactly a nervous wreck over the ordeal, Mr. Farrell said that he was mighty glad it was over and he was able to return to this section and take up his round of visitations to the local representative. He described briefly the extreme precautions that were taken to protect the shipments of gold from such men as Baby Face Nelson and the remnants of the Dillinger gang. Each train was accompanied by a company of regular soldiers who were thoroughly armed. No one not assigned to the guard was allowed anywhere near the train. Each car, and there were four in each train was locked separately with locks to which only Mr. Farrell had the key. A special guard was locked in each car. Every hour of the trip, Farrell and an assistant was required to make a thorough inspection of every car and every lock to see that it had not been tampered with. Every half hour another inspection was made. Every man on the train was a bundle of nerves and was according to Mr. Farrell, as when it was over.

And the entire two and one half billion in gold was transported with only the loss of a single penny, a tribute to the extreme precautions of the Post Office Department.

J.N. Candill Dies Of Injuries From Fall On Icy Pavement

J. N. Candill who was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington on Wednesday of last week, following a fall which caused a serious rupture, died there on Saturday as a result of the injuries sustained in the fall.

Mr. Candill is said to have fallen on the ice of the previous Sunday, as he was getting out of his car. An X-ray picture made at the hospital disclosed that he had also suffered a broken hip in the fall.

Doctors at the hospital gave up hope of his recovery Friday.

Funeral services were held at the Primitive Baptist Church Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock with Elders J. H. Keeton, J. W. Dawson and A. L. Tackett in charge. Burial was made in the Candill Cemetery west of Morehead.

Mr. Candill is survived by his wife, Mrs. Callie Candill and by three children by a former marriage, Roy Candill of Winchester,

TEACHERS WILL BE PAID MONTH'S SALARY

Teachers in Rowan county will have money to spend for Christmas, according to County Superintendent, Roy E. Corneette, who states that the fourth month salaries will be paid on Friday of this week.

According to Mr. Corneette, the county board is back one month and two weeks in salaries, but he expects them to be able to complete the payment by January. It was thought at one time that the teachers would receive the balance due them from the equalization fund, as Superintendent Richmond, who was requested to certify on the State Auditor for the amount. However, an opinion of the Attorney General caused the State Auditor to refuse to pay the claim, and the teachers are still waiting for their money.

Center Slab Of Twenty Feet Poured

With the warmer weather of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the actual repaving of Main street started Monday morning, and by Tuesday night the entire center strip of concrete was finished. According to the contractors, work will be ready for use in about two weeks, so that whether or not they are able to complete the entire strip in the block the street will be opened for traffic and the annoying little detours will be eliminated from that block at least.

According to the highway regulations it is impossible to pour concrete at a temperature of less than forty degrees. It is to be hoped that until this block at last is finished the weather will remain favorable to pouring.

Crews have lined the block at all hours, watching the machinery in action. Considerable interest has been shown in the activity. During the week of bad weather just past, the contractor, while unable to pour concrete or work on the street itself, has not been idle. The men have worked steadily on completing the storm sewer which passes alongside of the John A. Groves Grocery Store through the Harlin Blair lot, under the railroad track and through the Jesse Boggs lot emptying into Triplett. This ditching and pipe laying has been entirely completed with the exception of the section under the tracks, where a special type of the must be used. Catch basins at different parts of the block are also to be completed.

According to contractors, the two slabs of concrete, thirteen feet wide which will complete the block will be laid by hand and will not interfere in the least with the traffic down the center lane of concrete. They expect to be able to lay these sections within a very few days so that the entire block will be ready for traffic within three or four weeks.

Naturally, all this depends on the type of weather that may prevail. However they asked the News to assure the public it would be ready at the earliest possible moment, and that, whether or not the entire block is finished, the center slab will be opened without unnecessary delay.

MRS. NANCY MULLIN DIES AT HOME HERE

Mrs. Nancy Mullin died at her home here on Wednesday afternoon of last week following a serious illness of several weeks duration. Burial was made in the Cragston Cemetery on Friday Morning.

Nancy Blevens was born on October 16, 1866. She was married to Booker Mullin by whom she is survived. For many years she has resided in Morehead where she passed away.

Mrs. Mullin is survived by her husband. She united with the United Baptist Church over forty years ago and remained a member of that organization until her death. Funeral services are planned to be held for Mrs. Mullin, next summer, in accordance with the rituals of the United Baptist Church.

Now And Forever At Cozy Theatre

Charlotte Granville, "grand old lady" of the stage, celebrated her seventy-first birthday by making a role in Paramount's "Now and Forever," the picture which stars her debut in motion pictures, with Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard and Shirley Temple, which is to be shown at the Cozy Theatre Fri. and Sat. 31-22.

Throughout the time she spent in the studio during the filming of "Now and Forever," dozens dozens of despairing has-beens and confiding youngsters brought her their troubles and received, in exchange, sympathetic counsel and advice.

Charlotte Granville has behind her a stage career of more than forty years, perhaps as full and as glamorous as any in Hollywood. She has known them all, John Drew, Robert Mantell, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Maurice Barrymore, Richard Mansfield, Sir George Alexander, Henry Her, and scores of others. Miss Granville's husband was Major Robert Millington Syngue, uncle of John M. Syngue, the Irish playwright. Through this connection she was introduced into the literary and acting circles of Dublin at the time when George Moore, William Butler Yeates, Edw. J. Martin, Lady Gregory, Syngue and others were leading the Irish Revival.

"Actors are like children," Miss Granville has said.

Christmas Stocks Are Complete

Christmas shopping in Morehead is opening up in a manner that should be most pleasing to merchants of the city. In fact it has already proved to be the best year for the merchants of this city have enjoyed for several seasons.

Incidentally it may be said that, in preparation for a good season the local merchants have almost to a man stocked up in a way that for a number of years has been unusual. There is literally little or no need for people to go elsewhere to shop when the local stores are prepared to serve them with either identical goods at a lesser figure or are prepared to sell them better goods of the same kind.

Without going into detail there are as many good stocks in the city as there are merchants whose ads have appeared in this issue and in the issue of last week. When Christmas shopping starts, it will be to these merchants and look for their lines. We feel confident that you will be able to find what you want right at home with your home town merchants.

As we go to press we learn that a Mr. Clark, representing the PWA, has just arrived in Haldeman Wednesday morning and has been contacting the men and employers. Nothing definite has taken place, however, as these matters require time to work out.

The Kentucky Fire Brick Company plants at Haldeman closed down Monday morning following a strike of a part of the men employed at the plants for the prevention of trouble. The only work that is being done at present is the burning of the kilns, the firing of which was under way at the time the strike was called. These will be finished, according to Mr. Haldeman, and the plants will then be closed down, for the time being at least, until the labor troubles have been settled.

The strike was called by the local Haldeman Clay and Brick workers Union which was recently organized. According to Mr. L. P. Hester, president of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company, only about 25 per cent of the laborers are members of the union, which at a meeting held Saturday night, called the strike for Monday morning. In order to avoid conflict, the entire force was laid off, with the exception of those men burning the kilns. National guard troops under Lieutenant Colonel Lindsay were called to the plant to prevent disorders arising from the strike.

The company store was closed up and the workers were told to go to their homes. The store building was moved to an adjacent building where it can be operated without opening the main store.

On Monday night, on the order of County Judge Chas. E. Fenimore, 75 deputies were sworn in from among the citizens of the county, to assist in protecting the company property, and to permit the company to burn their kilns, without being molested.

No disorders have been reported from the scene of the strike, although numerous threats have been reported to prevent disturbing of deputies was sworn in for duty.

Other than stating that only a small percent of the employees were members of the Clay and Brick Workers Union, and that the majority or about 85 per cent had joined up with the code, Mr. Haldeman has had no statement to make.

So far as we have been able to learn, no meeting of the company heads has been held with the union. No attempt has been made, so far as the News has been able to determine, to bring in a federal arbitrator as was done in the recent labor troubles at the Lee Clay Farm.

Rowan County Tobacco Brings Good Prices; Growers Voting

Rowan County Tobacco farmers have sold considerable portion of their 1934 tobacco crop and most of them have been very well pleased with the prices. Fifty-four farmers under tobacco Reduction contracts have sold their tobacco and the sales have been reported to the County Agents office. These fifty-four farmers contained 26,140 pounds of tobacco, bringing a net value of $44,350.00 or an average of about $15.75 per hundred. A considerable number of these crops brought above $20.00 per hundred.

Crops bringing less than $12.00 have been crops that were seriously damaged by the storm of August 10th. A large number of tobacco crops have been sold but not reported to the County Agents office. A vote on whether or not to continue the Kerr-Smith tobacco tax bill the crop of 1935 is being taken. Any farmer who has signed a Tobacco Reduction Contract and any farmer who has raised tobacco this year is eligible to vote on this question. About 60 Rowan County farmers have voted on this question and ballots have been sent to all known tobacco raisers through the County. The ballots will be counted by the Rowan County Tobacco Association Contract Committee on Friday Dec. 21st. From the general expression of the opinion of those voting it appears that a very large majority are voting on the continuance of the tax. Votes will be received the night of Dec. 20th.

The tax bill is designed to control production by discouraging the large number of farmers who start growing tobacco following a season of good prices. This increase by farmers of this type has been largely the cause of the wide fluctuation in both the amount of tobacco produced and the price received from year to year.

THE CRIME WAVE

Daily newspapers are commenting on the crime wave that has apparently struck this section of the state. They are speaking with justification for the past few weeks have shown more crimes in this passing than possibly any other in the state. True, it may be a passing menace, but at the same time too many perceptions for law enforcement and its breakdown cannot be taken.

The Morehead City Council, cognizant of the spread of hold-ups and robberies, has taken the first step in investigating the advisability of installing call boxes over the city so that a policeman can be summoned almost as rapidly as they do in the larger cities. The cost should not be great for the installation of such. If Morehead does adopt the proposed plan they will be a forerunner among the small cities and towns of Kentucky.

Morehead will be definitely stamped themselves as a leader in crime prevention. Crooks will think twice before they rob a local person or business, when they know that officers of the law will be on their trail almost as soon as the crime is committed. The more we think of the proposal the more certain it seems workable. In many respects it resembles the radio cars and systems that have become a part of law enforcement in the bigger towns.

Winter is coming on, in fact it is already here. With the coming of cold weather crime always increases. Let us hope that our town will be one that will not tolerate law-breakers or criminals.

UNsung HEROES

There is something fine and reassuring about the little touch of relief which good crops and good prices have brought to the farmers of this locality. Out of it are coming experiences which revive one's faith in the fundamental goodness of human nature. Those who have been hard pressed for years are taking prompt advantage of their favorable turn of fortune to settle the old accounts that they could not take care of until now. It is not necessary to remind them of their obligations. It was their acute knowledge of those obligations, and their honest desire to discharge them, that worried them through all those lean years. Now that they have got a "break" they are only too glad to clear the record. That is the heartening aspect of it, the willingness with which they meet their obligations when they have the means. It does one good to think that he had faith in them, and patience. It makes us rejoice in their good fortune, because they are worthy.

"Take the case of this plain man well past middle age who walks in and asks in an apologetic tone, "How much do I owe here? It goes back three or four years, I guess, but it would do no good to try to collect it before because I didn't have the money. I got it now, and I'm going to settle up." He pays, with a buoyant feeling of pride and relief.

That kind of frank, straightforward honesty hits you where you live. You know you are dealing with a man, the kind of man who forms the backbone of the world. You know that if all men possessed his sense of obligation, honesty and fair dealings, his willingness to labor faithfully for a living, there wouldn't be any gamblers or cheaters to bring them about.

We read much about the lives and activities of those who gain notoriety in crime. How much more inspiring, elevating and reassuring it would be to read of the honesty, the devotion to duty and the sacrifice of those millions of unsung heroes on whose honesty and labor the whole super-structure of society rests.

HELPING BOYS

No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy. With so many millions of meek out of work it is such an easy matter to become careless and pay no attention to boys. Men are doubly busy with the affairs of business and trying to figure out how they can live up to their codes. Worrying details occupy one's mind. Yet, all about us, are boys who need help, the help that comes from encouraging words, a helping hand, a little boost. All these helpful things, take just a minute of any man's time, and yet they mean so much to a boy.

It does not take long for a boy to grow and develop into a man. It may be that what we say today will have a big influence on what kind of a man he will be. Are we doing the thing that will help the boy? Just a cordial word of greeting in the morning as the boy is on his way to school will frequently give the lad just the needed lift for that particular day. Do we do that? Can we truthfully say that we have been the means and channel by which a boy gets inspiration to do better things.

NEWS FLASHES OF INTEREST

Tobacco Market Average Is Still Increasing

Doubling his sales of the previous week, the Lexington Burley tobacco market concluded its second week of the current season Friday with the sale of 4,475,065, an average of $19.94.

The totals for the second week of sales brought the figures for the market since it opened on December 3 to 7,084,650 pounds which have been sold for $1,142,602, an average of $20.36 per hundred.

The market at Lexington was strong throughout last week's sessions, and probably more steady than during the opening week. While a number of good crops were included in the offering, the floors were made up chiefly of tobacco from outside Central Kentucky and from other states, and thus included good, bad and indifferent leaf. However, everything offered found a ready bidder, and the prices during the week ranged from $4 to $33, with only a few baskets selling under $6 or $7, and many bringing around $29 to $31. The week's best crop brought $29.30.

Kills Wife And Then Turns Gun On Self

Hanson Richie, 35, shot and instantly killed his wife, Mrs. Lulu Shaw Richie, 30 Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ella Argo on Main Street, in Cynthiana, where she has been living since October. Richie then turned the pistol on himself and inflicted a wound just below the heart. He was taken to a Harrison Memorial hospital and is not expected to live.

Game And Fish Chairman Dies At Louisville Home

George L. Pickett, 60, chairman of the State Fish and Game Commission, died this week at Louisville where he had been under treatment for heart trouble.

Mr. Pickett, whose home was in Shelbyville, was appointed by Gov. Ruby Laffoon July 1, 1932, to a four year term as chairman of the Fish and Game Commission. He was a graduate of the University of Virginia and had served as county attorney of Shelby County and as a member of the general assembly.

DILLINGER AIDE CAPTURED AT CHICAGO RENDEZVOUS

Joseph Burns, one of the last of John Dillinger's followers, was captured in Chicago rendezvous Sunday and linked, by a telltale slip of paper with the $427,000 armored car robbery at Brooklyn last August, Chicago police announced.

Burns was one of the ten outlaws who blasted their way out of the Indiana state prison at Michigan City in September 1933, with automatic pistols slipped into them by Dillinger.

Prof. H.C. Haggan Tells How It Feels To Be Kidnapped

The Editor of the Rowan County News has asked Mr. Haggan to tell his readers how it feels to look down the business end of a "45" Calibre Army Automatic Pistol.

"The holdup occurred about 6:30 P. M. across the street from the McKinney residence. My daughter and I were on our way to the Eagles Nest and had parked the car this side of Wilson Avenue. Just as I stopped the car and started to back it in to the curb between two other cars, the right rear door of my car suddenly opened. A stranger leaped to the rear seat directly behind me and at the same time covering his face with his hands. I saw him first glance to have a barrel as large as an average tea cup. He immediately notified me that it was a "stickup" and commanded me to keep quiet. He made the loop around the street under construction, and hit Lexington Pike. My daughter on seeing the gun opened her door and leaped from the car, calling out to me to "Come on Daddy". She spoke to her to get back into the car with me which was readily sanctioned by the bandit.

I did not really sense the gravity of the situation until the bandit repeated his brief statement I thought fast, in fact, my mind seemed to be running like a moving picture machine trying to decide what was the best procedure. Not a person could be seen on Main Street. I realized it might be death to attempt to surrender the car there as he might drive off with my daughter who might not be thinking as fast as I was. I thought of her safety more than my own. Her calmness under the situation was of great assistance to me in retaining a steady nerve.

My mind quickly wandered back to the World War and I remembered when we captured some of the German prisoners, some held up their hands and cried "Kamrad". But I knew if they ever got the drop on me, they were no longer "Kamrad". I decided to follow the same procedure. As long as he had the gun on the back of my neck I was "Kamrad" but if I could ever escape, I was no longer "Kamrad". I thought of my daughter and decided it was a game of matching nerves. If I could retain my nerve under the tense situation I might keep the bandit wondering as to my next move and cause him to be more cautious in his acts and if I became frightened and excited him, might shoot me when he did not mean to.

I soon sensed that it was the car he was after. I knew that we would be put out somewhere along the highway. I felt more at ease when I passed the Flemingsburg road as I knew I could readily obtain assistance along the Midland Trail but it would be much more difficult if I was ordered to turn out the Allie Young Highway toward Flemingsburg. My nerves slipped a little when I thought of the possible ways of putting us out of the car. I would not mind it if both of us were kept together. But I could see the confusion it would add to the scene and cause a longer delay in his capture if I was put out first and my daughter carried a mile or so farther down the road. I tried vainly to decide what I would do if this method was followed. This was the most difficult problem I had to solve but he solved it for me by Farmers who acquire good poultry houses will need to exercise care about ventilation and over-crowding. A 20 by 20 house contains 400 square feet of floor space, which is room for 100 hens and 10 or 12 male birds.

Every Bed a School

These patients in a modern tuberculosis sanatorium are "going to school" to fit themselves for better positions in the business world after their recovery. The teacher of the radio system, that is wired to every bedside. Various subjects are taught—grammar, bookkeeping, stenography, accounting—depending upon the wishes of those who sign up for classes. The modern concept of treating tuberculosis is that it is not sufficient to cure damaged lungs; a patient should be aided to fit himself, while curing, for a position suited to his abilities. Promotion of such rehabilitation work is part of the anti-tuberculosis program financed by Christmas Seals. The need for it was revealed by a recent study of 125,000 patients released from 588 sanatoria throughout the United States. Twenty per cent of them found it necessary to return for further treatment.

A Gift for Santa
By Frances Goodrich

"FELICIA, I forgot to bring anything for your Uncle Harry!" Father, mother, and daughter hurried through the school were in a haste in the pantry, with the kid brother Ripley ("Rip" for short) hovering curiously beyond the door. "He won't care, Dad." The pretty brunette girl relieved her father of his bundles. "With his radio set going over in a big way he can buy anything he likes. I hope he remembers a wrist watch with a little diamond is nicer than a wrist watch with none." "Whatever he gives you, Felicia, act as if it's what you want most," her mother warned. "Horri-gan would rather be appreciated than anything else in the world. He knows I like jewelry his present." "I was trying to land that contract with Davidson," the father explained, "and I spent most of the evening with him at the McAlpin. When I left there was barely an hour to shop. I didn't dare take a late train knowing we still had to decorate." "Did you get the new ornaments?" Mother was pulling at a knobby page. "Here, don't bother that, it's this one." Father tried to take off his muffler while watching the parcels, with eight-year-old Rip calling, "Aren't you even going to say 'Hello, Dad'?" "Sure, son! I was helping Santa with his pack, that's all." "Santa, hmph! Did you get my bicycle?" "Well see! We'll see!" As he went upstairs, trailed by his impatient parcels, the words dotted back, "I simply forgot Harry. There'd have been time if I—"

"Felicia can go to the haberdasher's right here," his wife solved the matter. "The important thing is to get the tree finished and the gifts spread under it before Harry comes. He always admires my tree. Felicia, buy him one gift from your father and me and one from you and your brother." "What would Uncle Harry like, mother?" "M-m-m. He has everything he needs, and he never mentions anything he wants. Ask the clerk to suggest something." The silver star was aglow, the last fat Santa Claus clinging to a limb. Felicia's purchases had been hastily wrapped in gold and green tissue when the door burst open admitting Horri-gan Carter of "Hurry and Haste" radio comedy team. His arms were full of red, green, and white-wrapped parcels, and behind him came the cheery chanter, his arms full, too. "Drop 'em down, old man! Now hurry to that girl of yours and make her while the snow falls. Come for me at eleven. Here, don't you need a little extra? It's Christmas, Uncle Harry put a bill in the man's hand and clapped the door shut. "Felicia, what a lovely tree! You always have something original. So-phi-a. Henry, how's business? And," (looking around) "where's Rip?" "Rip-pley!" called Felicia, flinging open the dining room door. In the midst of discarded outer wrappings a red-faced small boy was struggling with tissue and ribbons. "Aw, gee, F'llice. I wanted to tie it myself. Aw, gee! Why'd you have to go open the door? I spent all the money I earned cuttin' lawns last summer and shovelin' snow this week, an— Aw, gee, it's a fine gift. If I could get it fixed, it would look swell!" Uncle Harry jumped to close the door. "Go ahead, old fellow. We won't look!" "It's no use. Everybody's saw." Rip came toward them with the gift protruding from its wrappings. It was a salad bowl with a wooden mixing spoon. "Who's it for, Ripley?" mused his asked. "Uncle Harry!" Felicia began to laugh. "What a gift for Uncle Harry! Why, Rip, you give salad bowls to ladies, not men!" Rip looked disconsolate. "He said he wanted it. We were passing that shop where they sell old things and he said—you did, Uncle Harry, you said, 'Jove what a quaint salad bowl! I'd like that.'" "Of course I did. Next day when I went to buy it for my kitchenette they said it had been put aside for someone. It's great to get it this way!" "I guess even Santa Claus would rather what he wanted" was given to him than to buy it for himself," said Rip wisely.

Comparatively little home butchering was done in Kentucky in November, due to uncommonly mild temperatures. Chilling of the hog carcass is an important step in the preparation of home pork. In fact, Grady Sellards of the College of Agriculture, who is giving a series of pork making demonstrations over the state, says that probably it is the most important step.

After the carcass has been cleaned, splitting down the center of the backbone and the removal of the leaf fat and of the head will assist in the chilling. If the temperature is much above freezing, it may be necessary to chill the carcass in a refrigerator or by use of ice. It usually is sufficient to chill the carcass 24 to 48 hours.

Graville says. They're pleasant and they're easily discouraged and sometimes, and most be humored; easily enthused and encouraged. Most of them need someone to look after them. They're my people, and I love them. Miss Graville's role in "Now and Forever" is that of a very wealthy society woman, who plays a vital link in the chain of circumstances which brings Gary Cooper back to his little daughter, played by Shirley Temple. The story is the tender romance of a pair of adventuring lovers who look at life through the eyes of an innocent little child, and see a world they didn't know existed. Henry Hathaway directed the picture.

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE Copyright by W. H. Wright WNU Service

Burke and Snitkin had come at Burke's specific request, and, after getting the Sergeant, stood by the man's side during the trial.

Markham sat down at the desk, and made a peremptory gesture to Heath.

Let's see what we can find out from the people in the house, Sergeant. He deferred to Vance. What do you say to beginning with Gamble? Vance nodded.

Quite a bit of domestic gossip to start with. And don't fail to pry into the movements and whereabouts of brother Brisbane last night.

There was however another interruption before the movements took place. The front door bell rang, and presently two men bearing a coffin-shaped basket entered the room. They lifted Coe's body into it, and, without a word carried their gruesome burden out.

And now let's have the windows open, ordered Markham. And turn out those ghostly lights.

Snitkin and Burke leaped to obey him; he drew a deep breath and looked at his watch.

Get Gamble up here, Sergeant, he said, leaning back in his chair. Heath sent one of the uniformed officers to the street with instructions to keep all strangers away from the house. The other he stationed in the hall to answer the front door. Then he disappeared down the stairs.

Presently he returned with the butler in tow.

Markham beckoned Gamble to the desk. The man came boldly forward, but, despite his effort, he could not disguise his nervousness.

We want some information about the condition of this house last night, Markham began gruffly. And we want the truth understand. Certainly, sir—anything I know, sir.

First take a look at that revolver. Ever see it before?

See, sir, I've seen it often. It was Mr. Archer Coe's revolver.

When did you see it last?

Yesterday morning, sir, when I was straightening up the library. Mr. Coe had left a record book on the table, and when I put it away in the drawer, I saw the revolver.

Markham nodded as if satisfied.

Who was in the house last night after dinner?

"Yesterday was Wednesday, sir. The man answered. There is no dinner here on Wednesdays. It's the occasionally. I fix a cold supper dishes out—except Mr. Archer Coe's night out. Every man or him sometimes bears I go.

And last night?

I prepared a salad and cold cuts or him. The rest of the family had engagements outside.

What time did you go?

About six-thirty, sir.

And there was no one but Mr. Coe in the house at that time?

No, sir—no one. Miss Lake telephoned from the Country Club early in the afternoon that she would not be one until late. And Mr. Grassi, Mr. Coe's guest, went out shortly before four. I understood he had an appointment with the Metropolitan artseum.

And Mr. Brisbane Coe, you said over the phone, was in Chicago.

Markham's statement was actually a question.

He wasn't in Chicago at that time, sir, Gamble explained. He was en-route, so to speak. He took the five-thirty train from the Grand Central last evening.

How do you know Mr. Coe took the five thirty train?

Gamble looked perplexed.

I didn't exactly see him off, sir, he replied, after blinking several times. But I phoned for the reservations, and packed his suitcase, and got him a taxi.

A little before five, sir.

What time did he leave the house? Vance roused himself from apparent lethargy.

I say, Gamble, he spoke without looking up, when did Mr. Brisbane decide on his jaunt to Chicago?

The butler turned his head toward Vance in mild surprise.

Why not until after four o'clock, sir, or so it seemed to me. He generally plans on his Chicago trips the day before.

Ah! Vance raised his eyes languidly. Does he make many trips to Chicago?

About one a month, I should say, sir.

Not exactly, sir. But several times I have heard him discussing the meeting there of some learned society. My impression is that he goes to Chicago to attend them.

Yes, quite reasonable. Queer chap, Brisbane, Vance mused. He's interested in all sorts of out-of-the-way subjects. So he made a sudden decision to migrate west after four o'clock yesterday, and departed before five. Most interesting. And, now Gamble, think carefully before you answer. Did you notice anything unusual in Mr. Brisbane Coe's manner last evening?

The man gave a slight start. His gaze turned quickly to Vance, and he swallowed twice before answering.

Kentucky Farm News

FROM UNIVERSITY OF KY. EXPERIMENT STATION

THE FARM AND HOME

Hens and pullets require an abundance of good feed, fresh, warm water and comfortable housing, if they are to lay well during the period of good egg prices in late fall and winter. Feed is higher this year than last, but eggs are up several cents a dozen.

Laundry soaps should be selected for each particular need. The neutral soap for silk, wool and rayon; a neutral or slightly alkaline one for linen and cotton, and strongly alkaline soaps for extremely soiled clothes and towels.

Pickled pigs' feet receipt: Remove toes from well scalded feet. Soak feet in water overnight; then scald with water and cook until soft, or about five hours. Add salt to the water during the cooking. When soft, remove feet from kettle and split. Pack in an earthen jar and cover with hot vinegar. Spices may be added to the vinegar, if desired.

Hundreds of Kentucky farmers are planning to take inventories the first of the year and then to keep accounts. This will give them a record of receipts and expenses, crop acreage and yields, and other information necessary under present conditions. See a county agent about obtaining record books.

High feed prices have stimulated attention to better housing of live stock. Animals left in rain, snow and cold weather require more feed than do stock kept indoors. All kinds of livestock are more profitable if provided shelter. Production of butter and manufactured dairy products is expected to fall materially during the coming months, due to decrease in the number of dairy cows and to high prices of feed. There are 3 to 4 percent fewer cows than a year ago.

Beginning with the opening of the tobacco market, Monday, December 3, the College of Agriculture, will broadcast the Lexington Burley tobacco market prices daily at 12 o'clock, central standard time.

James A. MacDonald, tobacco expert, will gather reports daily on sales, and they will be broadcast over station WHAS by L. C. Brewer, in charge of the college's radio program.

Funds raised through the sale of Christmas Seals are used to promote better health by educating children and adults in the ways of healthy living and by helping to treat early cases of tuberculosis.

Rest, good food and fresh air are necessary to get well from tuberculosis. But what is needed most is a good doctor. The best place to get well is at a tuberculosis hospital or sanatorium where everything is planned to help people fight the disease. If one cannot go to a sanatorium the cure may be carried out at home if good medical and nursing care can be had.

Seventy four Kentucky farm owned demonstration flocks gave their owners an average Roar income of $1.21 per hen for the laying year ended Nov. 1.

The profitability of well managed poultry is brought out in the field report for the College of Agricultural Experiment of E. A. Banta, culture and Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association.

The 74 flocks containing 10,107 hens averaged 165 eggs for the year. Feed cost an average of $2.09 per bird.

Rhode Island Reds were the most profitable breed. They averaged 179 eggs and a labor income of $1.69 per hen.

Feeders cannot hope to get the best and most economical results unless they use due intelligence in purchasing feeds, says the annual report of the Kentucky Experiment Station on commercial feeds.

The value of a feed depends upon that portion of the nutrients which an animal can digest, under ordinary conditions, and take into its system, to keep up heat and energy, produce growth and repair the natural waste of the body.

Buyers are cautious to read and study carefully the information given on the official tag attached to the bags of feed. Buy no feed that is not registered and tagged with a Kentucky official tag. Feeds not so labeled are sold in violation of the law, and buyers have no way of knowing what they contain.

Housing hens in dry, warm quarters will tend to prevent roup, colds, bronchitis and other disorders that interfere with high winter laying. Sick birds should be removed at once to warm, dry and well ventilated rooms, and houses, drinking vessels and all equipment cleaned and disinfected.

Haggan Lectures On Native Animals

Government Service Provides Picture Of Wild Life

"Let us give a good impression of Kentucky," was the plea of Prof. Henry Clay Haggan in a talk at recreation Monday, December 3. While in Michigan last summer the professor heard two people express their views of Kentucky. One spoke of the many murders in Kentucky, the other spoke of a beautiful school located at Morehead. Mr. Haggan said that the latter view was one that we must make universal.

Mr. Haggan stressed the point that there is little respect for wild life in the United States, that the animal life of the country is being depleted by wanton killing. Men kill for the mere pleasure of killing. However, there is a brighter side to this picture in that the states are gradually coming to a stricter enforcement of the fish and game laws.

One peculiar law is that the state of Tennessee allows no trawling. This is due to the fact that the water in the wake of boats is heavy with oxygen and attracts the fish, making it a simple matter to catch them.

"Our Wild Life Resources," a moving picture of the wild life of our country, was shown at the conclusion of his talk. This picture was shown through the courtesy of the United States Department of Agriculture. It showed various types of animal life, some types which are now extinct, and some which are now under the direct protection of the federal government.

Senior Class Votes On Annual Staff

Plans For Best Year Book In College History Are Making Progress

The staff of the Reacoutur, Morehead year book, was completed at a meeting of the Senior class, in recreation room of Fields hall, Tuesday evening, December 4. Seven new members were elected at this time by the class.

Most of the members have already had experience in the positions they now hold and should develop into an efficient, hard working staff. Facing the task of editing the largest annual ever produced at Morehead, the Reacoutur editor in chief, Mr. Edward Kufahl, is fortunate to secure such an excellent staff.

Mr. Kufahl announces that work on the annual, under the sponsorship of the Reacoutur committee, composed by Miss Naomi Claypool, chairman, Miss Exer Robinson and Mr. Jesse Mays, is progressing rapidly and with the addition of the new staff members they will be able to turn out the largest and most complete year book ever produced. The make-up of this year's annual is being worked out very diligently in order to make the Reacoutur a fitting tribute to Dr. John Howard Payne, to whom it is dedicated.

The personnel of this year's Reacoutur staff consists of the following:

Dr. N. C. Marsh

Pork should always be served well done. Through cooking is necessary because pork sometimes contains a parasite that killed when heated to 137 degrees, but which may cause illness if not destroyed. When pork is cooked to well done stage there is a good safety margin.

Hot beds and cold frames should be built to speed up garden work in the spring. Write to the Kentucky College of Agriculture at Lexington for Circular No. 120 for information on how to build and use them.

Among protein foods that help in and furnish energy are eggs, milk, cheese, lean meat, fish, fowl, nuts, peas and beans. They should form a large part of the diet of those under 20 years of age.

In buying feed stuffs, care should be taken to see that each bag of commercial feed is labeled with a Kentucky official tag giving the manufacturer's guarantee. To be sold lawfully, each brand must be registered with the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Bradley Discusses Cather In Chapel

Professor Ernest Bradley, English department instructor, spoke at convocation Friday morning, December 14. He gave a critical analysis of the works of Willa Cather, one of the best contemporary novelists.

In introducing his subject, Mr. Bradley read from one of Cather's novels, "Death Comes for the Arch Bishop", the following quotation: "I am not deprecating your talent Joseph," the Bishop continued, "but when one thinks of it, a soup like this is not the work of one man. It is the result of a constantly refined tradition. There are nearly a thousand years of history in this soup."

Mr. Bradley gave as a corollary to this, that just as a thousand years of history go into the making of Father Joseph's soup, so too, a thousand years and more go into the making of a novel. Cather was fortunate in that she lived in the old west. She saw the west of romance, of the beginning of the transcontinental railroad, of the first telegraph lines, the coming of civilization. Over thirty-four years of preparation went into this book. Instead of using the dramatic situation which is employed in most novels, Cather reconstructs the mood of another period.

DISTINGUISHED COACH SAYS "FOOTBALL PLAYED FAIRLY IS A MEANS TO AN END"

Letters And Numerals Are Awarded Outstanding Grid Players

A. N. (Bo) McMillin, Walter Camp's selection for quarterback on the 1931 All-American football team...

Centre College's most famous athlete who is now head coach at the University of Indiana said, "Football when played fairly and cleanly is a means to an end and builds self discipline, sportsmanship, loyalty, character and requires self sacrifice."

McMillin emphasized the importance of education as well as athletics for college men. He stated that "high school teachers, trying to keep the football team by passing the athletes, do the boys a grave injustice, as is revealed by their inability to maintain the college standard."

The speaker cited the common example of the football "bum" who walks the streets of his home town after his playing days are over unprepared to assume the duties of citizenship...

Dr. John Howard Payne introduced McMillin as "the greatest football player of all time." Dr. Payne stated that though "Bo" was a native of Texas, Kentucky claimed him for her own because here he achieved the greatest renown possible in the sporting world.

Dr. J. G. Black acted as toastmaster. McMillin, in his first year of coaching in the Western Conference raised the University of Indiana from the football cellar to national prominence by his unprecedented defeat of Purdue, 19 to 0. Purdue was a claimant with Minnesota for the "Big-Ten" crown.

The following members of the varsity team were listed: Henry Addington, Graydon Haddock, Homer Taylor, Claude Clayton, James Noe, John Wyatt, Eugene Daniels, Dan Carson, William Ryan, William McKeachie, Glennore Hogg, Bill Reynolds, Bill Thompson, John Shney, Edward Kufahl, Earl Barber, Bob Rowland, Clyde Alley, Red Finney and Robert Brashear.

Capt. Scroggins and the following members of the freshman team were also honored: Woodson Dale, Joe Taylor, Lawrence Carter, Cecil Burton, Arthur McKeachie, W. C. Freeman, Jack Ison, Sterling Linden, Bruce Henderson, Earl Mowery, Paul Mitchell, Walter Coles, Herbert Cain, Tim Wyatt, Harvey Adams, Fred Smith, Luther Varney, Sherman Taylor, Frank Merritt, Jarrel Vinson, Frank Prewitt and Irvin Triplett.

Alabama's Crimson Tide, Southeastern football's titlist, will start, December 21, for the west coast where they will meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's day. This is Alabama's fourth invasion of the bowl and in the past they have won two games and tied one.

Georgetown college, one of the K. I. A. C. teams on Morehead's schedule this year, opened its schedule Wednesday night, December 12, at Oxford, Ohio, against the Miami University team, and lost 35 to 20. Georgetown's prospects this year are not bright; only three lettermen are back from last year's team which broke even in 12 association games.

Ramey Scores 8 As Breck Trim S. Hook

In a preliminary to the Varsity-Alumni game, the Breckinridge Training School Eagles won over Sandy Hook High School, 29 to 7. Ramey with 8 points was best of the game.

The game was slow throughout with both teams handling the ball poorly. Coach Roy Holbrook used his entire squad and in the final minutes of play succeeded in finding a working combination.

At the half little scoring had been done by either team, Breck led 7 to 3, but played on even terms with the Elliott countians until the last part of the second quarter.

The lineup: Breckinridge (20) 7 Sandy Hook Ramey (8) F. (6) B. Adkins Holbrook (4) F. (1) Doyall Blair C. (1) Prichard Hogg (2) G. C. Adkins Prichard (4) G. Ward

Substitutions: Breckinridge, Redwine, Daugherty, Allen (2), and Hollis, Sandy Hook, Oliver, Referee, Kufahl, Morehead.

Morehead Athletes Can't Play On Independent Team

Rules of the Southern Interscholastic Athletic Association will prevent several Morehead athletes from making contemplated football playing tours during the holidays. Coach G. D. Downing said, "Two or three groups of varsity freshmen players anticipated co-acting with the state in independent games."

Paul Combs, leading high scorer of the S. I. A. A. last year, and classed as one of the best individual players in the state will lead a group of graduates and men not out for college teams in a number of games over the holidays. Combs can almost be classed as the ace of all dribblers. He has the habit of taking the ball and dribbling the length of the floor, through an entire team for set up shots. The best Jones the ball or gets tied upon one part about it is that Combs rarely of these set-ups.

Billy Babb, Thompson Hall, was in Mt. Sterling this past week-end as the guest of relatives and friends. Pauline Kemper spent the week-end at her home in Grayson, Ky.

Alabama's Crimson Tide, Southeastern football's titlist, will start, December 21, for the west coast where they will meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's day. This is Alabama's fourth invasion of the bowl and in the past they have won two games and tied one.

Georgetown college, one of the K. I. A. C. teams on Morehead's schedule this year, opened its schedule Wednesday night, December 12, at Oxford, Ohio, against the Miami University team, and lost 35 to 20. Georgetown's prospects this year are not bright; only three lettermen are back from last year's team which broke even in 12 association games.

Sports will have a temporary let-down in Morehead with the coming of the holidays. All scholastic teams will turn toward the holidays without a basketball game on their minds.

The Morehead High School Alumni Independent team will play three or four games. It is well worth coming out to see these former Viking stars perform once again.

Paul Combs will lead a group of former college players into action in a state basketball tour. Combs has a fine team assembled and they should clean up most of the opposition they meet.

Prospects for a winning team are not so good at the Morehead High School. The material is neither big or plentiful. Coach Riddle has been operating under something of a handicap in sports all year. He has been working the Vikings hard all season and it would be a pleasant surprise to see the Green and White pull several upsets on the court this year.

The speech of Alvin N. "Bo" McMillin last Friday reminded us of the sort of speech we would expect this great former Centre star to make to the football team before a tough game. He like din a forcible manner and he drove his point home much as we would expect him to drive across a touchdown in the good old days when the colonels' prayers were answered.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-five sport season will get off in its usual flourishing style with the annual New Year's Rose Bowl game. This year we find Alabama top heavy favorites over Stanford and the Crimson Tide is surely deserving of being placed in that position. This year's "Bama team has often been classed as the greatest in the Union All-Opponent Teams

LUS OXLEY SCORES 12 TIMES IN ANNUAL GAME WITH GRADS TO LEAD IMPROVED TEAM

Vikings To Play Raceland Thursday

Viking projects for a winning basketball team will be given their first of the season on Thursday night of this week, according to Dennis Ottdill, principal of the Morehead High School, when they meet the strong Raceland Ramblers, coached by Edna McNabb. The game will be played at the local gymnasium.

The Kings are not expected to show championship caliber, as they met not only their first string team their second string team last year, by the graduation route. McNabb, on the other hand, apparently has ways of pulling a winning five out of the old back every five. They may not be the best quintet in the section, but they are always a threat for the Vikings. This year, far from being an exception, should see Mac draw blood from the Vikings with a vengeance.

However, with an entirely green roster to work with, Coach Austin Riddle must start from the scratch and he may be able to develop them into a fairly good team before the close of the season. Fans here are hoping for the best, and that is a fair share of wins. However, the fans are loyal to the boys and to the school, and a good turn out is expected to show their faith in the efforts of the Coach and the boys by attending the game.

Sometime during the Christmas vacation, the Vikings meet the alumni in their annual tussle. The nounced later. The game was originally scheduled for Friday night, but owing to the Raceland game on Thursday night has been postponed until some time later. However it will be played during the vacation period when the alumni boys are free.

PRACTICE DEBATE HELD BY COLLEGE TEAM

The debate team under the direction of Dr. A. Y. Lloyd is working hard to get in shape for its first debate. The question to be used this year is Resolved: That the nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions. One practice debate has been held. Eljah Hogge and Paul Holman upheld the affirmative and Howard Hadden and Earl Dean took the negative side. There was no decision. Two other teams will clash at the next meeting.

Laughlin, Star Of '29, Leads Opponents With 8 Markers

Morehead's Eagles flashed an improved offense last Saturday night to defeat the Alumni, 44 to 32. The difference in the scores would have been greater but for the fact that Coach G. D. Downing used every man on his squad in an effort to discover the best combination.

Oxley, with 12 points, was high point man for the varsity, though he played less than half a game. Frank Laughlin, Morehead football star of 1929 led the Alumni with 8 points. At the half, Paul Combs, third highest scorer in the state last year, was injected into the graduate lineup, and he flashed his old form long enough to garner seven points against his former teammates.

In contrast to the ragged play exhibited last week against Holbrook College, the Eagles functioned smoothly and connected with a higher percentage of their shots. They will not be seen in action again until after the holidays when they take on Union at Barbovville January 7 in the first K. I. A. C. game.

At the half, the score was 18 to 9 in favor of the varsity. Oxley had contributed six of his team's markers. As the frame drew to a close, the superior condition of the Eagles was shown in the Alumni and as the half ended, Oxley and Adams were driving in steadily far craps.

Allie Holbrook, star of former years, flashed a great defense in the early part of the game, but the speedy Oxley eluded him consistently in the second half.

Varsity (44) ... (32) Alumni Parley (4) ... F. (6) Holbrook Oxley (12) ... (5) Riddle F. Ottdill (4) C. (8) Laughlin Ryan (3) ... (4) Fraley Francis (3) ... Lewis Substitutions: Varsity, Shuey (1) Ottdill (12) ... (5) Riddle Adams (6), H. Combs (2), Reson (2) and E. Brashear (4), Alumni, Maggard (2), P. Combs (7). Referee, McCullough, Morehead.

MOREHEAD TO PLAY UNION TEAM NEXT

Immediately following the Christmas holidays the Morehead Eagles will meet their first, Kentucky S. I. A. A. opponent when they play the strong Union Bulldogs at Barbovville, Kentucky on January 7. They make their first home stand against a S. I. A. A. team when they meet Transylvania at Morehead, January 12.

Their game with Union will mark the beginning of their second year in the Kentucky S. I. A. A. Having already had two matches against the Alumni and Holbrook College they should be in condition to get off to a strong start.

MOREHEAD RATED HIGH BY SOUTHERN ASSOC.

Dr. John Howard Payne represented Morehead at the 39th renewal of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools meeting at Atlanta, Georgia, December 3-7. The college records were submitted to the commission of institutions of higher education and showed that Morehead had maintained a standing higher than the mark required by the association and was even above the average maintained by the membership schools.

Built Up Strength By Taking Cardui Here's her own account: Mrs. T. W. Hardin, of Greer, S. C., was benefited by taking Cardui. "I suffered a great deal from rheumatism in my back and pains in my legs and felt so miserable," she writes. "I read of Cardui and decided to try it. I felt better after I took my first bottle, so kept on taking it as I felt such need of strength, and it helped me so much. Thousands of women testify and attest that, if it does not benefit you, credit is a joyride."

Have Tea-Shower For Bride To-Be

Mrs. J. H. Payne and Mrs. J. D. Falls were hostesses Monday afternoon from 4:00 to 6:00 at the home of the president, when Miss Elizabeth Cherry, a bride-elect was guest of honor at a combination tea and linen shower.

The house was beautiful in its Christmas decorations. In the center of the dining table was placed a doll dressed as a bride, while above the table a white wedding bell was hung.

The gifts were presented to the honoree by a negro mammy who entered with the presents in a large clothes basket.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The ice was white with red wedding bells, and the cake was cut heartshaped with the initials of the bride and groom.

Miss Cherry's wedding to Mr. J. D. Simms will take place at the home of the bride's parents President and Mrs. Cherry at Bowling Green on Friday.

Mrs. W. H. Vaughan was at the tea table.

Dinner-Contract Honoring Miss Cherry

Another social event complimenting Miss Cherry was the dinner-contract party and a personal shower given by Mrs. Lucille Caudill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Caudill on Monday night.

The Christmas decorations were used throughout, and the presents for the bride-to-be were placed upon the tree. The hostesses were lighted by Christmas candles with poinsettias plants as the holders. A three course dinner was served to twenty four guests.

Mrs. R. L. Hoke was awarded high score prize and Miss Jean Allen second high.

Rowan Club Enjoy Party

The Rowan County Woman's Club enjoyed their annual Christmas party Monday night when they met with Mrs. Cornelius Caudill. The literary department had charge of arrangements.

The house was beautiful in the season's decorations and a Christmas tree.

The program consisted of carols, Christmas stories and games. Each guest was the recipient of a gift from her "sunshine sister."

The hostesses served a delightful lunch to members and guests.

Are Hostesses To Morehead Club

The Morehead Woman's Club held its annual Christmas party on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Grace Ford. The hostesses were Mrs. Ford, Miss Amy Irene Moore and Mrs. Sadie Fielding.

The home was lovely with its large Christmas tree covered with beautiful lights and ornaments. Each guest brought a gift and Santa, in the form of Masters Don, Botton and Zane Young presented a gift to all members and invited guests.

The entertainment for the evening consisted of a lovely Christmas story "The Black Madonna" which was beautifully given by Miss Amy Irene Moore, and the singing of Christmas Carols by the club with Miss Dorothy Riggs at the piano. The remainder of the program was fun and frolic with which stories with missing words, which were supplied from slips of paper containing sentences and words.

A hunt for small colorful stockings filled with candy, nuts, and a small gift caused much excitement and cheer.

A most delicious lunch was served and all voted Mrs. Ford and her hostesses, past masters at entertaining for the Yuletide.

A guest.

Entertains Friends With Bridge Party

Opening the Christmas season festivities last Saturday was a five table contract bridge party given by Mrs. C. B. Daugherty and Mrs. C. E. Warwick at the Daugherty home.

The Christmas colors were used in decorations as well as in the salad and ice courses served the guests.

Miss Anna K. Turley was the winner of the high score prize and Miss Jimmie Skirvin second high.

Mrs. Hook In Honor Guest

Mrs. Charles Leroy Hook, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. John L. Williams, of Lexington, opened her Broken-St. home in Augusta on Saturday for a beautifully arranged party honoring her son's bride, Mrs. Stephen Douglas Hook (Marie Holbrook) and her sister Miss Ruth Marian Holbrook, of Morehead.

For this festivity the attractiveness for Hook residence was surmounted by quantities of flowers in artistic arrangement the bridal motif predominating in these and the other decorations.

The guests were grouped around six tables for an interesting series of contract bridge games.

In addition to the lovely gifts presented the honorees, prizes were awarded to Miss Bess Reynolds and Mr. Stephen Hook, who had high scores; and to Miss Helen Yates for low tally. The floating prize for slam bid went to Mrs. William Asbury.

Following cards, delicious refreshments were served to the assembly of guests sharing the pleasures of this affair.

PURITANS AND CHRISTMAS

THE Puritans regarded Christmas as a saving of money, and preferred their own celebration of Thanksgiving. In 1659 the General Court of Massachusetts enacted that anybody who is found observing by abstinence from labor, feasting or any other way any such day as Christmas day shall for each and every such offense be fined five shillings.

ducts Plant at Clearfield.

The strike coming as it did at the holiday season, will undoubtedly leave many of the homes of the laborers at Haldeman, without Christmas joy. In fact, reports say that many of the families who depended solely on the work they obtain at the plant for the necessities of life are actually without food.

No statement is forthcoming as to the time the plants may be closed.

Mr. Haldeman's Statement

In order to exercise their rights under the clause 7(a) of the National Recovery Act, in June, 1934, the employees of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company organized and incorporated the Haldeman Employment Representation Plan, Inc., incorporated, and selected twenty-two representatives to negotiate for them with the officials of the company in all matters of collective bargaining. More than 88 per cent of the 225 employees of the company elected these representatives for one year.

Through the efforts of the United Brick and Clay Workers of America, they organized Local Union 510, which has in its membership a small percentage of the employees of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company.

The United Brick and Clay Workers demand a contract with the company, which does not involve wages, hours of employment, or working conditions, but demands recognition of the Union and establishment of the Closed Shop; but upon refusal of the company to sign the contract a strike was called today. About 75 per cent of the Company's employees refused to join the Union and desired to work and stayed to their posts, but through the coercion of the striking employees, a large outside influence of other union members and sympathizers, the working employees were forced to leave their posts, and the Company closed its plants and mines.

Because of threats and the tense feeling existing, the Company has appealed for state Troops for the protection of its employees and its property.
