FLEMINGSBURG DEMOCRAT
The First Lever

Joseph, the best of the Hebrew patriarchs, is one of the first levers in point of time, to whom we are introduced. Judged by a modern standard, his conduct in the ordinary affairs of his life was far from blameless. He was, however, fraternal in him to his older brethren, and his fatherly care for a man of his age, when poor Joseph was starving, was not altogether blind to the blessing of the first-born. His loyalty and devotion to Rachel, however compensated for many defects, and we can not withhold our sincere admiration from the man who was so long a blessing to his country. His loyalty and devotion to Rachel, however compensated for many defects, and we can not withhold our sincere admiration from the man who was so long a blessing to his country.
