Scandinavian Wedding Seen 'Uninvited'

"Tipped up to the top of the 900-year-old Lutheran church and sat waiting for the people to arrive. I was to watch a Norwegian wedding--with no invitation except from the priest who thought that I would like to see this 'bryllup'.

This description of a Norwegian wedding as viewed by an 'uninvited guest' comes from Miss Sue Irvin of Nicholas county, who is spending about six months in Norway at Kentucky's 1964 International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate.

As an IFYE, she is living with rural families and learning about Norwegian life by actually taking part in the everyday activities of her hosts. The IFYE program is sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation on behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The wedding march began and the bride entered with the groom. Sue's letter continues: "Both the bride and bridesmaids wore the Norwegian national dress. They sat near the altar, sang hymns with the guests, and then stood for the ceremony. I missed most of the words--my Norwegian vocabulary doesn't include words for a wedding."

ing ceremony -- but I did understand the 'Ja' which means 'I do.' The ceremony lasted for three-quarters of an hour; then, just as simply as they entered, the wedding party left.

The church was not decorated for the wedding, but decorations would have seemed out of place in the beautiful old church with the wood carving around the altar and walls. I stayed in my place until the church was empty and then went to the priest for a tour of the church. As I had expected, which means 'priest farm' if translated literally into English. Thus I have many opportunities to learn of the church's mission work, and operation of a state-owned farm.

It is now harvest season for barley and potatoes -- everyone goes to the field to help. It took only one day for my host brother to start me as a potato-picker, but the labor is done with good machinery so it isn't hard work. In addition to the potato and barley harvesting, my host mother and I have done some strawberry planting, berry canning and vegetable freezing.

"Soon, I will leave this rather pretty town in southern Norway and go to the high mountains on the west coast. Every large town in this southern section of Norway is a seaport, with large ships, fishing boats, and private boats lining the docks. I like to watch the boats coming in and out of port, for it looks much like the mental picture I had of Norway before arriving here." Sue's letter concludes. Miss Irvin is a junior at Morehead State College.

Letters to the Editor

'Why So Fast?'

On Library Levy Is Query

Editor, The News

Through your wonderful paper, may I ask a question? "Why So Fast?" Mr. Ronald Hart, I have stolen the title of Senator Thurston Morton's new book, but Mr. Hart and other opponents of the new real estate tax and personal property tax for a Libertarian school district, why not wait less than a month to let all the citizens decide at the polls?

Taxation by petition is a new gimmick out of Frankfurt which supposedly became a law in June. If not to be-pass the will of the majority, WHY? Since it is on the ballot for the November election, WHY not by vote of the people?

No one has said just how much would be realized from a 7% on each $100 valuation of real and personal property in the county, nor how much would be required for the services rendered. This looks like a pig in the poke, and how on County how has too many, the seams are showing.

Intensive Farming Pays Dividends In Counties Like Rowan

Some six, or seven, years back we wrote that the soil, and climate, in Rowan, and area counties, was ideal for the growing of cucumbers. This observation followed an over-dinner conversation with a man who is successful in the pickle business.

County Agent Adrian Razor imparted this week that Paramount Foods, Louisville, is expanding its already considerable pickle business and would contract for the entire production from 1,000 acres in Eastern Kentucky.

Why do Paramount want to do business in Eastern Kentucky instead of nearby Central Kentucky? We can give better pickles than they can - correction, better cucumbers. (Even our five-year-old granddaughters know that all pickles come from cucumbers.)

These are the salient factors -

- * Paramount will operate a grading station at Morehead if local farmers plant 50 acres, or more. This is important for a short haul to market. Cucumbers must be graded, and the little 'uns bring about as much as the big 'uns, which you probably already know if you purchase those tiny sweet pickles.
- * The vines must be carefully selected every other day. Let us emphasize "every other day" because the article we penned several years ago indicated that "every day" pickling was preferable.
- * The harvest season is a little over three months. (If the cucumber gets too big (dill pickle size) then that vine will die.)
- * About three persons are necessary to properly pick an acre. Four is better. If you have a wife and two children, and an acre of ground, this could be your solution to better financial health.
- * If you have four, five, or six children you may have hit a financial bonanza. Uncle Sam allows you added deductions on your income tax and you are in the pickle business with a minimum amount of every-other-day labor for all your flock.
- * A survey shows that some farmers make as much as $1,000 an acre of pickles - er, cucumbers. The average gross return is about $700.
- * Mr. Razor believes, and we concur, that Paramount presents a good money-making opportunity for the small farmer (even gardener) in Rowan County.
- * With all these hills, our valleys are really adapted to only one type of farming. In the school books they call it intensive agriculture. Incidentally, burley tobacco is rated in the intensive division, requiring considerable personal care and little machinery.
- * Profits from an acre of cucumbers can be greater than from an acre of tobacco. Further, cucumbers are not under the federal allotment program and nobody will be around to check whether you planted too many seeds.

***

Burley Crop Will Be Off

Our learned rural subscribers have long since learned that this publisher likes to write, with emphasis and understanding, about the farmer and his problems. ... One's thoughts go back to the soil as he gets older.

It is our observation that the tobacco crop in Rowan County, and this vicinity, will be about three-fourths (in percentage) of last year. The drought took its toll.

In parts of the State, including most of the Bluegrass, the burley harvest will be down by one-half to two-thirds. The Lord blessed our valley farmers with more rain. (Isn't it a shame that the good rains of last week couldn't have come a month ago?)

Tobacco warehouses at Morehead will write more checks this year than ever before, as more and more farmers are finding this the best spot to bring their crops. But, we doubt if the 11,600,000 pounds sold last year at Morehead will be exceeded during the upcoming auction season, although Morehead has expanded with more-selling space and will expedite the shipping of bales.

Since the 1964 burley crop is short, we anticipate that the price of the dry leaf could be a bleasty one. (The dry leaf is the right-hand side of our six-tenths-of-an-acre farmer.)

The NFO chain of food stores set the prices for cattle, and the reason beef production is unprofitable this year. It is true that the chains have 90 percent of the retail food business, but we doubt if they are regulating the market.

We have often heard the story that the successful farmer looks around and plants, or produces, what his neighbor has done. The cattle market was so good a couple year back that everybody started in the business. Now, the cattle population exceeds the demand although the price is at the greatest (per capita) consumer of meat. There is also that considerable competition from Argentina.

***

The Basic Democratic Platform

The Presidential election is less than a month away and we impart some information that might be enlightening to you.

- * The Last Legislature returned the Kentucky absentee voting law to its old status. Anybody who expects to be out of his county on election day is eligible for an absentee ballot.
- * You can apply by mail, or at the County Court Clerk's office. (The law had been changed so that only students and those in the military service were eligible, but the 1964 session at Frankfort went back to the old plan.)
- * Some controversy exists whether Oct. 14, or Oct. 15, is the last day to apply for an absentee ballot. The law says it will be submitted 20 days before an election, and the difference of a day is in the method of computation.
- * Polls will open the longest in Kentucky's history - 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. (Voting places will be closing at 5 p.m.)
- * All of Kentucky will have voting machines. The final result in the Bluegrass State shall be known by 8 p.m., unless it is close.
- * Republicans may not like the next statement - Lyndon Johnson is such an overwhelming favorite the odds-making at Las Vegas and divorces are quickening (legal) and Reno (where gambling is also legal) will not be long in coming. Democrats will not relish this - Tom Dewey was a 20-1 favorite over Harry Truman - proving the polls, and gamblers, can be wrong. And, Senator Thurston who said he would vote that he had never seen a poll which showed him the winner but he had never lost an election in his life.
- * State-wide, Republican claim they will have won Billatcher in the 2nd district and Frank Chelf in the 4th while holding the G.O.P. Congressional superiority in the 3rd (Louisville) and the 5th (old 8th in southern part) in the 4th district. Democrats hold seat, except the 5th, which means that Charlie Farnley would beat Gene Snyder in Jefferson County.
- * The 8th and 9th will be a record vote; (3) an all-out, no-holds-barred battle in Louisville; and (9) Congressman Carl D. Perkins will win, without trouble, in our 7th district.

Absentee Vote Law Is Again Liberal

Absentee voting is open to any qualified voter who expects to be away from his home county on election day. Kentucky Secretary of State Thelma Stovall, reminds Kentuckians. Application blanks for absentee ballots may be obtained from the county court clerk.

Miss Stovall pointed out that the 1964 Legislature removed restrictions that had limited the registration books to closed. Miss Stovall said:

ballot box is opened, she said. Members of the U.S. service are authorized to register in person or in absentia not later than 20 days before the election which means they may register during a portion of the time the registration books are closed.

We Wrote About This Some Weeks Back

About the only place in Morehead that doesn't have a severe parking problem is Railroad Street. The C&O Railroad provides about three blocks of free parking adjacent to the freight and passenger stations.

We mentioned this a year, or so, ago to a local business leader. His comment: "Why shouldn't they do this? ... look at all the business we give them."

Our business friend was somewhat perturbed at our reply: "They don't want your business ... as a matter of fact they would probably like to pay you to give up the truck."

Some weeks back we wrote in this column that LCL (less than a carload) shipments would soon be discontinued at Morehead. We didn't have any inside information, but had studied the national pattern.

Less than carload shipments have been banned at Morehead. We understand you can still ship inside Kentucky (intrastate) and C&O doesn't want this business.

In the same corner thinking - officials of the railroad would understand the value of property and public relations-wise do so, that you ride buses instead of trucks in the morning and in the evening passenger train still operating through Morehead. This would better their case before the Interstate Commerce Commission to continue the one train that is left.

Our senior citizens will recall that "the railroad" was once the biggest, and most powerful, operation in Morehead. It is now evident that direct labor haulage can no longer exceed the charge for LCL shipments, which used to be profitable.

We get our newspaper (from Canada) in car load shipments, and the policy folks who run the railroad pay personal calls on the publisher and the editor, plus attractive Christmas cards and maybe even a Christmas present.

Most truck loads are also discouraging $7.11 shipments and parcel service from Louisville has started serving Morehead. And, mark this down - the time is near when the trucking company will discontinue stop, or home, deliveries, in Morehead. Everything will be put in a warehouse, or on a dock, and you'll receive a telephone call, or postal card, to pick it up in your own truck and at your own expense.

One of the big problems in the weekly newspaper business is the advertiser who wants to spend $2 and takes more than $2 worth of time of the advertising manager or editor. The railroads, and other businesses, are solving this problem by discontinuing the services, but we haven't been able to come up with an answer without increasing the blood pressure of some of our adult life-time friends.

While on this transportation subject - this newspaper printed an editorial some 10 years ago that Moreheadians, particularly the small businessmen, were hurt when our Post Office was elevated (based on receipts from 2nd class to 1st class) - the editors and our readers thought 1st class spelled progress and improved service. Well, you can't ship a package weighing more than 20 pounds from one first class office to another first class office. The Washington lobbyists took care of that. If you live at Clearfield, Farmers, on an RFD site, the limit is 70 pounds. If you doubt this is a major problem, expense and headache, then ask a local merchant.

There's an old saying that the rich get richer and the poor have children. It is an unfortunate fact in this modern world that the small storekeeper is having a tough row and it will get rougher and tougher with each passing year.

When I was a small boy I was always bothered by the question - "Why did the water seem alive with fish at some times and yet at other times there were no fish to be seen?" As the years passed I became more and more determined to find an answer. My research took me from Canada through Florida. After 30 years of having seen and caught many thousands of bass and white working as a guide in central Florida, I discovered the secret of when the bass is most active.

I can now share this secret with you in the first calendar of it's kind ever published. I give you the day as well as the best days of the month in which the bass are most active. I can name many good fishermen who can verify this major problem, expense and headache, then ask a local merchant.

I am now making this calendar available to fishermen by subscription for $1.00 for the first year and 50¢ for subsequent years.

and finally installed MSC one of the favorites to capture the coverd. race. It was closely contested, Ohio Valley Conference football race. If Morehead beats Murray (Saturday) and Austin Pete wins, Eagles and Gov's range here Oct. 17. That will be the coming... and Gov. Ned Breathitt, for whom the new (13,000 seat) sports center was named will be on hand.

We could write columns about this Morehead team but condense our thinking to: (1) This is the best team the Eagles have had in 10 years, or maybe all time; and (2) They have one helluva line. Many of you remember Luke Varney, an Eagle star of depression days. Luke has sent two good prospects to Morehead from the Florida High School where he coaches. Luke was in town this week and predicted Morehead would get a bid to the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando. We're not so optimistic, but it is something to think about.

Local sports fans note a shot in the arm following the almost disgraced performance of the Cincinnati Reds as they dropped the 34th pennant Sunday. This could be the last time most of us only $60,000 and these baseball owners are moving clubs to big Cincinnati is the smallest of the 30 cities with a major league team and Crosley Field is also the smallest. Cincinnati is more than their portion of beer and are among the worst (in attendance) sports fans in the nation. A survey shows that Crosley Field attendance is primarily fans from Kentucky, Indiana, West Virginia and areas of Ohio outside Cincinnati, like Dayton, Middletown etc.

IN CONCLUSION - The Appalachia Billided in Congress as predicted in this column some five weeks ago. This probably means that the City of Morehead can't get a federal grant to help finance its own water system... and in this same serious (perhaps crucial) analysis look for the Board of Regents of Morehead State College to soon issue a policy, and published, statement that the City will be given warning to ration water when the storage reservoir reaches three feet and the 'big wheel' will be turned when it drops one foot, meaning that you, and I, won't have drinking water. Let alone enough for a morning shower. If the level should sink to one foot, and it has been that low, a great part of Morehead could be wiped out in a fire. Dr. Walcott, who heads the County Health Department, is assembling information on how to conserve water (such as not washing a car) when the inevitable happens... we always thought one of our journalists contemporaries, Harry Mayhew, is a likeable and capable young man. Now, we are convinced after hearing his wife speak (as an exchange student) about Israel, Harry made a good matrimonial catch. In our book, no woman is smarter than her husband, but we warn you, Harry, do not sit too close... a president of the MSC Junior Class we were given the authority 10 years ago along with Eddie Kufhal, Ovie Evans, etc. to hire a band for the Juniorior Prom. Many of the class members objected when one (from Lexington) was engaged for $75. Last week they had Harry James and his orchestra in the Figh house and an equally big name band is scheduled the day before. If more coming to town to see the base. Rowan farmer is about 900 acres, much smaller than in the adjoining counties of Carter, Lewis, Fleming, Bath and Morgan... The Pine Grove Farm in Carter County, near the Rowan line, has 20,000 pullets that drop about 12,000 eggs a day. We hear that owner Bill Littleton is expanding to 40,000 pullets. He uses the community nest plan instead of the old 'chicken house' (Moe) Moorefield, General Manager of Spring Grove Dairy (a sizeable operation serving some 165, or so, counties) was awarded $1.2 million in the discussion that goes for a 17 year old boy who was at the hospital in five minutes with his sleeve rolled up... a newspaper reporter asked Ray Hornback, MSC Public Relations Director, whether they shot black powder or white powder in that wagon which goes off after the sashes scores. His reply: "We use both black and white powder. After all, we're interested in... two mouth-to-ear rumors all over Kentucky have been spiked. One was that Senator John Sherman Cooper would be in-jured for the ticket. Senator Cooper will campaign with vigor for the ticket. The other was that A.B. Chandler would support the Republicans. Happy has already started speaking for the Democrats... Kentucky Democratic leaders are aiming their big cannon that Goldwater will cancel the tobacco support program. Republicans rely heavily on the racial issue, particularly in western Kentucky... a report released by Sister Mary Edwin, Administrator of St. Claire, shows that the Morehead Hospital has grown 75 percent (number of patients) etc in one year and expansion plans in the discussion that goes for the 11 Kentucky counties approved during the fresh food stamp. You may disagree, but we are convinced our people will never progress with any 'elite' or food stamp program... Rowan is also classified, perhaps incorrectly, as a 'depressed county, bringing to this educational center unfavorable state, perhaps national, publicity. The only benefit we observe is that the Small Business Administration has made a few (very few... and cool weather has arrived. The one consolation about winter is that we'll be rid of these star-jackets that confuse our sleep and mess up our street. A bald-headed man should never be on sidewalks in Morehead after dark this time of the year.

Warning Being Given 45 Schools in State

About 45 Kentucky high schools ranked either as "emergency" or "temporary emergency" must improve their programs this school year or lose their accreditation and thereby financial support.

Warnings will be sent to these high schools by the State Board of Education voted at its recent meeting. The ruling applies both to public and private high schools, according to Dr. Harry M. Sparks, State superintendent of public instruction. An "emergency school" is one offering 18 to 24 subjects, Dr. Sparks explained. A "temporary emergency school" is one offering fewer than 18 subjects.

Public high schools that lose their accreditation would be ineligible for State Minimum Foundation Program funds. Private high schools would lose only their accreditation, Dr. Sparks said. The State Board meets each spring to accredit every school in Kentucky. The warning to schools is that they must improve their districts show definite improvement during the current school year. If that does not occur, the districts will be withdrawn during the 1964-1966 school year.

Dr. C. Bale, assistant State superintendent in charge of instruction, urged the State Board not to take a blanket action against low-ranked schools. He suggested that each case be considered individually.

In a recent speech, President Johnson said the choice Nov. 3 will be between the center of the road of Americanism and the fringe side, but he didn't mention any political party or candidate, as his speech was billed "non-political."

He is wanted at home for errands, for picking up the bath towel that was left on the upper hall floor, and for his weird, wonderful sense of humor.

Most of all, this boy is wanted for love.

He may be carrying a water pistol, some string, a piece of chalk, a wing nut, two jackets and one large clear blue marble.

He is harmless but unfortunately, he is very easily harmed. Let him get to school and home again without an accident!

Burley Sales Group Sets First Meeting

The first meeting of the 1964 Burley Sales Commission will be held at the offices of the Burley Tobacco Growers Association in Lexington, at 11 a.m. Oct. 19, to determine opening date, selling hours, and Christmas holidays for the 1964-65 burley tobacco market, according to an announcement by Albert Clay, president of the Burley Auction Warehouse Association and chairman of the Burley Sales Commission.

Members of the Committee are: Park Bernard, Abingdon; J. D. Marshall, Lexington; Charles P. Clarke, Maysville; J. C. Dean, Knoxville, Tenn.; and W. G. Vann, Greenville, Tenn., representing warehouse interests, and George L. Johnson, Ky. Dept. of Agriculture; Matt Jennings, Tenn. Dept. of Agriculture; John W. Koon, Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation; J. W. McCann, tobacco grower of Fayette County; and W. L. Station, Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operation Association, representing growers' interests. All interested persons are invited to appear before the Committee at this meeting and make recommendations.

Clay issued a warning to tobacco growers against stripping tobacco before all interests are completely cured. To get top prices, he said, farmers should exercise extreme caution in preparing the crop for market. Tobacco stripped with fat stems of excess moisture will not be supported by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and Clay said. He also pointed out that with a growing demand for burley at home and abroad

Food Stamp Program Is Sought For Rowan, Other Ky. Counties

The State of Kentucky is making application to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for expansion of the Federal-State food stamp program in an additional 17 counties, Gov. Edward T. Breathitt announced this week.

The governor said he has pledged the necessary amount of money from his Contingency Fund to augment funds available from the counties for meeting the administration costs of the program.

All of the counties except Edmonson, the last to apply, are located in Eastern Kentucky, Breathitt said.

The governor said he has pledged the necessary amount of money from his Contingency Fund to augment funds available from the counties for meeting the administration costs of the program.

At present, he said, Floyd, Knott, and Perry counties are operating a food-stamp program which is administered for the Department of Agriculture by the Kentucky Department of Economic Security's public assistance offices.

budget carries funds to continue the program in the three counties which now have established food-stamp programs.

The initial use of food-stamp in Kentucky came in Floyd County in 1961 under a pilot project spurred by the late President John F. Kennedy. Knott and Perry Counties applied for the program in 1962 and were approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture at a time of a slight expansion in the program.

The main advantage between the food-stamp program and the distribution of surplus foods is the change it brings by adding fresh produce to the diets of the families concerned, Breathitt declared. An important side effect, Breathitt pointed out, is the economic help which it provides for the local community in adding to the amount of money spent in local stores.

Breathitt also said the food-stamp program gives the families more pride and initiative in being able to select their own food at retail stores of their own choosing.

The governor pointed to a set of seven economic indicators which have been used in giving the U.S. Agriculture Department the ranking of the 17 additional counties recommended.

He said these were: percentage of public assistance recipients as compared with total population; percentage of persons certified for Agriculture Department surplus foods; per cent of families with less than $3,000 annual income; ratio of personal income which is based upon such programs as Federal social security benefits (transfer payments); the 1963 average monthly rate of unemployment in the county, and the percent of out-migration from the county between 1950 and 1960.

Breathitt said the Agriculture Department will decide which counties will be included in the expansion of the food-stamp program, made possible by passage of the Food Stamp Act of 1964 this month. He pointed out the fact that while reliable statistical factors were used in ranking the counties on the basis of need, the Agriculture Department may also consider other factors.

The governor said the food-stamp program often needs families a means of expanding their buying power. Families will be certified on the basis of needs tests which are consistent with the State public assistance program.

Here is how the food-stamp plan operates: Food-stamps will replace the distribution of Agriculture Department surplus foods in the counties which are approved. The State Department of Agriculture is responsible for arrangements with counties under the surplus food distribution. The foodstamps are purchased by qualified families at the local public assistance office at a rate of exchange fixed by a scale which compares their total needs with the amount which the family has. (The greater the family's needs and the lower its income, the more food-stamps it will be able to buy with a certain amount of money.)

The stamps are exchanged for all kinds of foods at retail stores approved by the Agriculture Department. Excluded items are tobacco, imported foods, and alcoholic beverages.

Merchants, in turn, return the foodstamps to their local banks as a form of collateral.

Tile Will Pay For Itself In First Year

By Donald B. Nelson Earl Murray, Shelly Deharte, Taylor Ellington, and J. Earl McBrayer are planning on installing tile on some of their cropland this fall.

Tile will sometimes pay for itself in the first year especially in a field where you need tile and tobacco during a wet season. Some cooperators in the county have increased production as much as 30 percent on their tobacco and on land that is used for corn you can increase production as much as 50 percent on certain types of soils.

There are many places that we can use tile on some of our wet soils in Rowan County. We can use them for seepage in our tobacco fields, on our cropland along Licking River and its tributaries and our waterways that are wet and swampy.

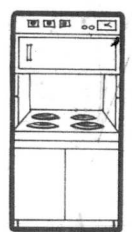

Tile will only take out the excess water that you have in the soil and the only way your soil can work to receive the most benefits is to eliminate the excess water because the soil holds air as well as water.

If anyone is interested in tiling some of their land or knows more about how they could use tile to benefit their farming operation, contact us at the Soil Conservation Office at Morehead and we will be glad to assist you.

REAPPORTIONMENT VOTE The Senate, by a vote of 44-38, has adopted a nonbinding request to federal courts to go slowly in reapportioning state legislatures on a population basis. Democratic senators who since August 12 have been conducting an on-and-off filibuster against a proposal to impose a mandatory delay in district courts' application of the Supreme Court's one-man one-vote ruling.

THREE TIMES A DAY

You'll be glad you cook electrically!

With other ranges, even one day of cooking can add another coat of soot and grease to kitchen walls.

Not so with electric. Electric heat makes all the difference in the world... gives you the cleanest cooking of all.

And because it's contact cooking (heat goes directly from surface unit to utensil), your kitchen will stay cooler while it stays clean.

Every day, all year round, you'll be glad you cook electrically. Buy your electric range now - take a big step toward the joy of total electric living.

HIGH TOTALS

Almost All Children Get Screenings

As of October 7, 1944, 98.4 percent of the children in the county had been scheduled for physical examinations by a physician.

Screenings were held at the following schools: Morehead, Woodrow Wilson, and the high school.

The public health nurse discussed the results of each examination with the child's parent and where necessary referrals were made to family physicians.

Money still talks, but in these days of inflation it takes a mighty wad of it to say something important.

Employment Again Hits New Record

August marked the 31st consecutive month monthly total for employment in Kentucky as non-farm jobs reached 722,749, an increase of 12,500 over the same month last year and 9,400 over this July.

State Economic Service Commissioner Earle V. Powell said August 1944 was the second only to last December when there were 729,500 Kentuckians employed. The commissioner said the August mark continued the record upward in employment in business and industry which began in February, 1942.

Powell also reported that Kentucky's rate of growth in employment for non-manufacturing activity has been 10.5 percent during the last year, which is a tenth of a percent higher than the national average.

Average weekly earnings in manufacturing industries were up 35 cents during August this year over the same month last year and about $1 more than during this July, Powell said.

The average number of hours worked per individual remained substantially unchanged at 40.9 hours for each worker.

Nearby Primitive Wea. Area Is Unique Section

The further man advances technically, the more he seems to be fascinated by things of the past. Witness the collector of arrowheads, the hunter who makes guns by hand, the revival of ancient flint-making methods, practitioners of folk medicine, hand-woven and do-it-yourself crafts.

For the benefit of Nimrod who loves of the ancient ways, Kentucky's Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has teamed up with the U.S. Forest Service and set aside an 8,000-acre tract in Cumberland National Forest as a primitive weapons area.

This part of the forest, in Bath and Menifee counties, may be hunted only with primitive weapons. These are defined as longbow crossbows, muzzle-loading rifles and muzzle-loading shotguns. (They don't mention blowguns, blinghorn or spear, in case you're wondering.) This unique arrangement is located in an ideal environment which is the hill of this huge and beautiful forest are heavily timbered.

Apart from the restriction on the use of weapons there is no change in the prevailing game laws. Open season on squirrels began Aug. 25, dove Sept. 1, rabbit and quail will be fall game Nov. 19 and ruffed grouse Dec. 1.

Kentucky's deer season begins with 34 days of archery hunting Oct. 15 - Nov. 15, in which crossbows as well as longbows may be used in the "primitive" area. Nov. 25-29, exclusively, the primitive hunter may use his muzzle loader. Those are the governing dates for deer hunting in the primitive area by those using conventional weapons.

A Kentucky hunting license costs $5.25 for residents, $15.50 for non-residents. A deer permit costs an extra $10.50 for every body.

FARM BUREAU in Action

by Loris Bonnett
Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

The Senate Sept. 24 in its 44 to 38 vote to accept a weak and ineffective substitute for the Dixon amendment to the foreign aid bill killed legislative efforts to delay application of the Supreme Court reappointment decision.

The Dixon amendment temporarily would have limited application of the federal courts to so-called immediate pressure on the state to comply with Supreme Court's legislative apportionment decision and give the states time to consider ratification of a Constitutional amendment.

The substitute, offered by Senator Miss Mansfield (D-Montana), merely expresses the "sense of Congress" that the Senators should proceed slowly in legislative apportionment cases. It does not have the effect of law. It was opposed by Senators who had spoken in favor of prompt and effective action.

After the Senate voted, Jack Welch, president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, said this to say:

"The defeat of the bipartisan proposal to delay application of the Supreme Court re-apportionment decision is highly regrettable.

The time-tested and successful pattern of representation on an area basis in the U.S. Senate and on a population basis in the U.S. House of Representatives provides a workable system which insures a truly representative government with consideration for minority and local interest.

It is an essential part of our Constitutional system of checks and balances. The same pattern should certainly be permitted in state and local units of government.

All of our Congressmen in Kentucky except one were with us in our effort to get the Dixon amendment passed, and we commend them for their wise judgment.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau for some time has proposed a change in the State Constitution which would establish one house of the state legislature.
