College-Business Forums Set In Three Locations

The second annual forum for college students and business leaders has been scheduled as the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, G. J. Tankersley, Owensboro, announced today.

The first such symposium met with such success last year, that it was necessary to schedule the 1964 sessions in three separate locations to better accommodate delegates, Chamber officials pointed out.

The symposium will be held in Owensboro, at Gabe's Motor Inn, Nov. 17, in Louisville, at the Browne Hotel, Nov. 18, and in Lexington, at the Flannery Hotel, Nov. 19. The second annual College-Business Forum will be hosted and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce at Owensboro, Louisville and Lexington.

Tankersley noted that the year's meetings would be a team effort between the local and state organizations.

"College students indicated a tremendous desire to discuss face-to-face with some of Kentucky's leading businessmen, the important issues of the day," Tankersley said. "We hope these symposiums

400 Expected At Homemaker Fete

By Janet Sue Boyd, Home Agent

Winter meeting time is here again for the Homemakers Club members throughout Kentucky. Rowan County Homemakers will attract the district's 400 members to the "Homemakers Fete" (Thursday) in Buman Auditorium, starting at 20 a.m. Some 400 homemakers are expected to attend.

Theme of the all-day program will be "Our Changing World" according to Mrs. Mae Pralay, president of the Rowan County Homemakers organization.

Featured speakers will be Elizabeth Helton, University of Kentucky Extension Specialist in Foods and Nutrition and Mary Burdett, U. K. Extension Home Furnishings specialist. In their talk "Money and Me" they will discuss consumer information to aid homemakers in making wise use of the families money.

Speaking in the morning will be Dr. Hattie H. Haines, chairman of University of Kentucky Extension Home Economics Work and Mrs. Mary J. Brann, state president of the Rowan County Federation. In keeping with the program theme, their talk will be "On The Edge Of Change" concerning the changes in Home Economics extension planned to strengthen the program and give service to more people.

Other highlights of the meeting will be a presentation to the group by Dr. Madison Doran, president of Morehead State College, and special music by the college's Music Department. Homemakers also will have an opportunity to visit the campaign "Palmer House" Morehead College's new home management house and Home Economics building after the meeting.

Out Of Gas

The only sale set to make with reference to the election is that those on the losing side will claim their side was rapidly gaining in the home stretch and would have won if the campaign had lasted a week or so longer.

So Fast? Query Routed To Proponents of Library Plan

Methodist Youth To Aid Students

Editor, The News

Two weeks ago the following statement appeared in this paper: "Some 300 children who are enrolled in Rowan County Schools are in need of clothing and shoes in order to attend classes regularly."

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Morehead Methodist Church wishes to meet the challenge of this plea. Working in cooperation with the agencies in this area, we will coordinate a drive to obtain this needed clothing.

The plans are as follows: Clothes and shoes which are located for these children should be left in the lobby of the Educational Building of the Morehead Methodist Church at Church and Stone Streets, the First Floor Store. Or, those who donate clothes or money may call one of the following numbers, 781-460 or 782-472, and a member of the MYF will come and get the clothes.

The clothes will then be sorted and distributed to those who need it, regardless of their religious affiliation.

As we sit in our warm homes, we forget those less fortunate than ourselves. It is our hope that you have warm shoes and clothes which they are not using. We would encourage you to bring the clothes to our school.

Funds For Libraries Total Nearly Million

Kentucky's share of Federal funds from the recently enacted Public Library Service and Construction Act has been set at $200,000 by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is now considering Kentucky's plan for using the new funds.

The proposal was submitted in mid-1963, after President Johnson signed the appropriation measure in September, Miss Willis said.

The appropriation includes $50,000 for local construction and $249,000 for improving public library service in Kentucky. Both amounts are for the current fiscal year. Funds are allotted to states on the basis of population.

The State Library Department plans to administer the Federal construction funds on a matching basis of 64 percent Federal - 36 percent local. Some 15 counties are already submitting plans for approval and architects' plans of proposed library buildings, Miss Willis said.

The $249,000 for improving the library services will open an additional program, providing for eight new bookmobiles, and put more books and library equipment in the existing 125 counties. The Department will also initiate a microfilm service to provide regional and local information with articles from periodicals, scientific journals, and other specialized materials. Part of the funds will be used to enlarge the Department's reference collection in Louisville.

These projects are in addition to library services and materials matching with state funds. This year, State money for another new region, purchase 15 new bookmobiles, and professional staffs for library materials for regional headquarters and counties.

The new Library Service and Construction Act supersedes the Library Services Act of 1956.

Urging Buildings Adaptable For Handicapped

The State Commission on Employment of the Handicapped has issued a plea to all Kentuckians who are planning buildings which will be used by the general public as visitors or customers.

"Don't bar the handicapped from your buildings with architectural barriers," the Commission pointed to these obstacles as being among the most handicapping to persons, both visitors and potential employees.

Barriers include: narrow doorways, revolving doors, narrow doorways, narrow doorways, out-of-reach drink fountains, inaccessible elevators, inaccessible restrooms, inaccessible parking spaces too far distant from entry points.

The Commission's executive director, pointed out that to be used by the handicapped, buildings should include the following:

- At least one entrance which is at ground level; a ramp instead of, or in addition to, stairs.
- At least one rest room, restrooms which can accommodate wheelchair users, easy access to a designated parking for the handicapped.
- Shoemaker stated there are a total of 300,000 handicapped Kentuckians who are prevented by architectural barriers from entering many buildings open to the public.

NEW IDEA HOME DECORATIONS

Most any homeowner would appreciate this linen closet with the slide-out drawers and hamper. It can easily be made from hardboard panel products, using ordinary carpenter tools. Hardboard panel dealers are delighted to help with plans and material selection. They also have ideas for hundreds of other home projects and can get detailed plans which make the job simple for any home handyman.

Typical other home projects for which hardboard panel products are suitable include radiator cover and matching bookcase, snack centers or cocktail bars and room dividers.

Safety Sessions Expected To Attract 1,000

More than 1,000 delegates are expected to attend the statewide Conference on Safety held by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt on Friday at the Kentucky State Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville. Breathitt and State Public Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern will speak on Kentucky's traffic safety problem. Russell I. Brown, president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, Washington, D. C., will outline nationwide efforts now being made to curb the highway traffic toll.

Clearfield PTA Parents Interested

Editor, The News

I attended the monthly PTA meeting at Clearfield School recently.

The attendance was very impressive. It was very obvious that the parents are increasingly more concerned for their children's progress, as evidenced by the number of them present. It was concluded by several, and I am sure that was the largest group we had ever seen at a meeting of this kind.

The Clearfield PTA was announced prior to the meeting. Much credit is due the teachers and especially Mrs. Therman Albright, the principal, for her interest shown in this project.

There weren't any special announcements prior to the meeting, it was the interest in the proposed petition for a public school library that became the main topic of interest to the group.

Mrs. Annette, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Phillips, proponents of the library, all presented the petition in a desirable form for a bookmobile or traveling library.

The only dissenting voice was a question as to whether the charge and disposition of the money collected. This was explained satisfactorily by Mr. Phillips, the visiting speaker.

Long live the Parents and Teachers Association.

Dancing Takes Limelight At Cumberland

Square Dance Vacation at Cumberland State Park near Corbin, October 10-24, is the next parcel in the special series of fall package programs arranged by the Kentucky Department of Parks.

We have a week of square dancing for those past and returning state and other fun and enjoyment lined up for guests."

State Parks Commissioner Robert D. Brown said.

"Nationally known instructors will conduct workshops every morning and afternoon. Then they will call dances at night," he added.

Round-dance, as well as square-dance instruction, is to be available, he said.

The package price of $75 per person includes five nights lodging in the beautiful lodge, meals from Monday evening through Saturday noon, both types of a dance instruction, after-party and, and a choice of two.

Descriptive folders are available on request to the park itself or to the State Department of Parks, Frankfort. Reservations can be made directly at the park or through the Central Reservation Office in Frankfort.

Free linen to the Frankfort office is available from Louisville (938-9779), state that in the Cincinnati area (261-2643), and from Lexington (252-4913).

Two other special packages remain on the program after the Square Dance Vacation. These are the Photo Safari, November 20-22 at Jenny Wiley State Park, near Prestonsburg.

Lack

Not only is there a shortage of schoolroom space, but what many consider equally serious is the lack of sufficient space for high school pupils to park their cars.

Faulty Heater Elimination In Kentucky Asked

The aid of fire chiefs throughout Kentucky has been requested in a drive by the State Department of Public Safety to eliminate through the Central and Eastern Regions of unvented and improperly installed gas heaters.

In a letter citing the recent death of a Louisville resident and their infant son, Fire Prevention Director H. L. Foster said that he has been checking for fire chief to join with him in a concerted effort to provide information which will point towards reducing the possibilities for the occurrence of such tragedies.

Foster urged the fire chiefs throughout Kentucky to assist in alerting citizens to these dangers. He said the primary precautions to be taken are: inspecting on approved equipment installed by competent heating contractors. He said heaters should be checked for proper operation and chimneys and vents should be free from leaks and obstructions.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War In Kentucky By JOE JORDAN (Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, an officer of Maj. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest's Confederate cavalry corps addressed a letter to Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Burbridge, the Union Army's military governor of Kentucky.

The program is supervised at the national level by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service, with individual states directing the program within their own areas.

State personnel and Agricultural Marketing Service program specialists work together to insure the smooth operation of the program in each county and community.

During the week under review forty guerrillas captured Irvine, Erill County, and plundered the town after releasing four prisoners from jail and then burning the jail.

Auto Dealers Provide Cars For Schools

Kentucky automobile dealers provide a 60 practice driving cars to high schools throughout the state for use in driver education courses during the 1963-64 school term. Lew Ulrich, managing director of the Kentucky Automobile Dealers Association, announced today.

Of the cars made available, 77 were loaned to schools without charge by the dealers. These cars had a total value of $132,000.

Leaf Handling Care Urged By Co. Agent

By Adrian M. Razor
County Agent

In spite of the fact that we had a dry fall and the humidity has been such that many of us are finding that as we look at our tobacco barns many of us have fatty stems and many green areas on the leaves that have not cured. As the temperatures become freezing these can cause trouble. Careful handling is required. First of all, it's don't attempt to strip crops that have uncurd stems. Let them wait until the top leaves on each stick in the barn and the stems have dried out. Let's take extra care to make sure that such crops do not freeze in the barn. We can expect heavy frost from now on. Tobacco is liable to freezing and damage. Use considerable supplementary heating in such barns to warm the houses, curing and to dry out stems. Heating barns will help the curing process by which leaves yellow and go through normal coloring processes.

Moderate amounts of supplemental heat are suggested for crops that have just been put into the barn to keep improving curing conditions. The weather is too cold to get curing conditions in barns.

Cucumbers

I have a letter from Hubert Davis of the Horticulture Department of the University of Kentucky saying that if you grow cucumbers commercially, he will bring a representative to the Paramount Food Company here for a meeting. Talk to your neighbor and see if it is interested. It is a good crop to supplement tobacco income and can make a sizeable increase in farm income for many farms in the county. If you are interested let us know because we will need some leadership in each community to work on the project.

Weed Control

Having trouble with plantain and broadleaf plantain in your lawn or garden? Now is the time to spray these weeds with either 24D or a combination of 24D and GAF. Spraying now may save you considerable trouble next spring.

Woolens Give Good Service

If Cared For

Your winter woolens will give you better service if you brush and air them often according to Mrs. Verma McCutison, University of Kentucky Extension clothing specialist.

Wool usually will spring back into shape if you give it the chance, she points out. The wrinkles of wear "relax" with each fiber returning its normal position -- a thing helps this process. Brushing removes hidden dirt particles which cut the fibers, causing wear.

Brush woolens after each wearing, if possible. Use a good clothes brush with strong, firm bristles. Work it from top to bottom with firm brushing strokes; this lifts the nap and helps refresh the texture. Give extra attention to pockets, cuffs, lapels, and pleats.

Give the garment a day's rest if you can, she recommends. Be sure to hang it where it will get air circulation before putting it in a tightly closed closet.

If a woolen garment is very wrinkled, hang it in a steamy shower or bathroom for two hours or more -- the steam usually causes wrinkles to disappear. This method is especially helpful when traveling.

Heart Attacks More Lethal To Hunters Than Are Guns

More hunters die of heart attacks each year than from accidental gunshot wounds, according to the Kentucky Heart Association.

Both kinds of fatalities can largely be avoided with sufficient care, but the ones that arise from heart failure are not apt to happen if these rules laid down by the Heart Association are followed:

- * Go to your doctor for a medical check-up several weeks before you go hunting.
- * Be prepared to tell the doctor such things as how cold it will get at night and warm in the daytime, how far you will have to hike uphill or through marshes and underbrush, and how high the altitude will be at the hunting site.
- * Condition yourself in advance for any such physical exertion, with an increasing schedule of exercises in preparation for that first day.
- * Choose warm but lightweight clothing, to lighten the load your heart will help you carry.
- * Renew your acquaintance with all of the basic first-aid rules and practices, to anticipate emergencies.
- * Be moderate in eating and drinking and remember that the drinking of alcohol mixes with neither beer nor hunting.

- * Never hunt alone if you have a heart condition.
- * If you have such a condition, tell at least one member of your hunting party about it, what medicine you take, how it is given, and exactly where you carry it. Plainly mark the contents of the container.
- * Get a good rest, preferably a full night's sleep, before you start out to hunt each time.
- * If you are going to a higher altitude than you are generally used to, get there a few days early so you will be conditioned to it before you start out, so your heart can make the proper adjustment.
- * Rest along the way as often and as long as necessary, and do it before you become exhausted.
- * Bringing back a deer after the hunt is no work for a heart patient. Let the others do it!

All Right... Let Us Judge CATHOLICS BY THE BIBLE!

Many sincere people regard the Bible as the sole authority for Christian belief.

And they reject the teachings of the so-called Catholic Church because these teachings and forms of Catholic worship are not mentioned by name in Holy Scripture.

"Where...", some will ask, "does the Bible say anything about the Mass or Purgatory? And how about Confession to a priest, praying to Mary, and those seven Sacraments and Catholics talk about? They're not in MY Bible."

Although everything contained in the Bible is true, yet the Bible is not the sole source of all truth. For example, we know that Christ established His Church... that the Church existed long before the Bible was completed... that millions lived and died in the Savior's truth without ever having seen a Bible.

But we are willing to set aside these historical truths for the moment and judge Catholic beliefs and practices by the Bible.

Take first, for instance, the fact that the Bible does not mention the Mass or Purgatory by name. Well, neither does it mention the word Bible by name. Furthermore, nowhere within its covers is it stated what are the writings which contain a sacred rite, is not used anywhere in the Bible. But Holy Scripture does make clear the sacredness of such Catholic rites as Baptism, Confirmation, the Eucharist, Matrimony, Penance, the Last Anointing, and Holy Orders, the latter rite being the deputizing of the successors to the Apostles.

The sacraments were in possession of the Church in full daily use before a single line of the New Testament was written. People were being received into the Church by Baptism long before there was a New Testament. They were receiving Confirmation, were being married according to Christ's teaching, and praying over and anointing the dangerously sick.

Christ definitely did establish His Church by Baptism long before His Apostles, and their successors, to continue His teaching. He did promise that His Church would endure forever, and could not fall into error. But He never said: "All My teachings shall be in a book. Read and believe nothing else."

An interesting pamphlet explaining the Catholic teaching concerning such things as the Sacraments, Purgatory, why Catholics do not eat meat on Friday, why we call it Catholic Church instead of "Roman Catholic," will be sent immediately on your request and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-28.

Barkley Lake Park Development Seen

Work will start this fall on the development of a new State Park on the east shore of Barkley Lake.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt announced this plan during his State Government for a Day recently at Cadiz, seven miles east of the proposed site.

Preliminary work to be done this fall includes dredging for a beach area and a boat dock site, according to Robert D. Bell, commissioner of the Department of Parks.

Bell added that full development of Barkley Lake State Park will depend on voter approval of the $176 million bond issue in November 1965.

After approval of the bond issue, the project will include a lodge and swimming pool, cottages, a nine-hole golf course, boat dock, bridge path, playground and other recreation area, and picnic, swimming, and camping facilities.

Master plans for the park are being prepared by Scruggs & Hammond, Lexington landscape architects, Bell said.

Federal Aide Is To Speak At Meeting

Lawrence N. Stevens, associate director of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in the U. S. Department of Interior, will be the main speaker at the closing luncheon of the fourth annual Conservation Congress, today (Thursday) and tomorrow at the Kentucky Hotel, Louisville.

State Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick, chairman of the Natural Resources Development Committee which sponsors the annual Congress, said that Stevens post "makes him an excellent choice to address this year's Congress, since the main theme is outdoor recreation."

Stevens assists in developing a national outdoor recreation policy, promoting coordination of recreation activities of some 30 Federal agencies, formulating a national recreation plan, and sponsoring recreation research.

He is a veteran government career employee with more than 20 years service. A graduate of Harvard University, he received the master's degree from the University of Chicago in 1939.

Matlick also announced the names of panel, keynotes and members who will appear at the Congress, which also features addresses by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt and Robert Bray, new star of the C. B. S. television series "Lassie."

Keynoting the first panel, "Use and Development of our Land, Water and Mineral Resources for Outdoor Recreation" of the two-day session will be Lloyd S. Parrain, assistant to the administrator of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D. C.

Joe Cawson, Courier-Journal Columnist, Louisville, will keynote the second panel, on the use of forestry, wildlife and mineral resources in outdoor recreation.

The Congress' third panel will cover education for outdoor recreation, and the keynote will be Dr. Richard VanHoose, Louisville, superintendent of Jefferson County Schools.

Matlick said nearly 1,000 people are expected at the Congress which is open to the public. Luncheon and banquet tickets will be available at the registration desk throughout the meeting, he said. Tickets for the first day's luncheon, when heath will speak, are $3 per person; for the awards banquet that evening, featuring Bray, tickets are $5 per person; for the closing luncheon, they are $3 per person.

State Body Hears Of Progress

Progress reports were heard and discussed by the State Board of Agriculture at its first full-scale meeting in Frankfort of the Kentucky Agriculture Development Commission and its 12 agriculture specialty committees.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt appointed the Commission and the committee members in this 12-partisan effort to lead the state toward a billion-dollar annual farm income.

"I tell you what I can do as your Governor to help Kentucky farmers reach this goal," he told them as their chairman in the first morning session in the State Health Department auditorium. "We are studying jobbing and setting realistic goals in all areas of Kentucky agriculture."

Lieutenant Governor Harry L. Waterfield, Commission Vice-Chairman, added that "Kentucky is not a one-crop state, and we can increase the farm income by better quality and higher yield in all crops and also in livestock improve-

Loud reverberations are being heard in all sections of the country in the wake of the summer decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court that states must district both houses of their state legislatures solely on the basis of population.

But none is as shattering or as resonating in its implications as the court case in Kent County, Michigan.

Following the reasoning in the U.S. Supreme Court decision, a circuit court judge in Kent County has ruled that the same standards be applied to the county board of supervisors, and that representation must be on a population basis.

At one time in Michigan, the common practice was for each township to have one elected representative on the county board of supervisors. As cities grew in population, the demand grew for larger representation of cities on county boards. The state law was therefore amended to provide for multiple representation from large townships or cities to more adequately recognize the pop-

Kentucky has always been a looked upon as having a very poor education. But we have always felt better to know that Mississippi and maybe Arkansas were just a bit under us. But more education is going to be a thing of the past for Kentucky. We are going to forge ahead. Already we have a plan made to get more persons who are over 65 and learn them something and bring our educational standards up to the same height. Persons over 65 need to know more than they do. They are the ones that sometimes harbor the idea that this country is doomed unless some of the policies of government and otherwise are changed. They even look at the men and women upon which the destiny of our nation depends and become saddened. They know the nation depends upon the short clad picture that got out at 2:00 A.M. and got up at 2 P.M. They see these boys "scatting off" upon the streets of Washington. They picture the future president as one with very short shorts upon his body and nothing on his feet. He would be befuddled and he will have to hit his comb forward and back to the back. The vice president will come to his eye. The president might have his hair combed around his head and sapped together like a weather-boardhouse in the back. The president of the nation will be setting upon his shoulders in the White House Chair and with his feet propped upon the desk and

Leaf Stripping Tips Are Given By UK Expert

Many tobacco crops in Kentucky are in the condition known for straw on, and farmers are being urged to use leaf stripping tips. Careful handling of these tips is recommended.

His recommendations:

1. Maste urge farmers not to attempt stripping of crops unless maste unrotted (fat) stems. Rather, he says, wait until the top-most leaves of each stalk in the barn, and the stems, have dried out.

2. Take extra care to make sure such crops do not freeze in the barn. Heavy frosts can be expected from now on, and freeze m tobacco is susceptible to freezing and damage. Use supplemental heat to keep the such barns to warm the bonded tobacco, he urges, and dry out stems. Heating barns will help the curing process, by which leaves yellow out and go through normal coloring procedures.

3. Some farmers still have been in the field. Because of weather changes, these crops should be put into barns as soon as possible. Moderate amounts of supplemental heat is suggested for such curing. Some farmers have been over curing conditions. The weather is too cool now to get into barns. Moderate amounts of supplemental heat will be definitely needed on such crops.

He started his education. Leaf stripping will be nothing. Each day and each day he has told me "Nuffin." But he has learned a good lesson, that will help him even though it ain't in the books. He knows who is the best teacher and he knows where they're a apple tree that school youngsters ain't supposed to bother and he says they are real good apples and he knows the chairs at the dinner table. He knows who is the best teacher and he knows where they're a apple tree that school youngsters ain't supposed to bother and he says they are real good apples and he knows the chairs at the dinner table.

Francis told us, "If I were to go to the University and learn me a ABC, I would forget it before I got home. I've got to finish my living upon what I can retain of what I already know."

Some young 65 year old fellows that it would be more sense to give a bit of free learning to the younger one who show promise but are unable to understand the high costs of entering a State College where they'll only be free with the tuition fees. Not the 65 year old youngsters and us what are on the brink of that dropping off age are not interested in the least of entering the UK for to learn nothing else. Of course this information was obtained independently of the University.

Kentucky could have gotten a State financed survey that will be entirely different from that of ours. If it happen this way many times.

If you think you need more knowledge and can retain more knowledge, then apply for admission to the University of Kentucky, at once!

Bill Moore thinks nobody wants to help nobody else until they know it ain't a going to do no good. He says them fellows know old he likes him can't learn nothing new and they ain't no use wasting time at it. Any way if you are 65 or older, you can cut free learn at the University of Kentucky.

Claig Sprout . . . And His Friend, TIMOTHY TUGMUTTON . . . Sez

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The way I got it sized up, the news last week about half good and half bad. That's mighty encouraging, shows the country was holding its own. Makes me recollect about the time the city feller got lost in the mountains. He stopped and asked a old mountaineer how far he was from town. The feller told him it was four mile. After wandering around for a couple hours he stopped at another cabin and asked how far he was from town. "Four mile," the mountaineer told him. "Thank you God," said the city feller, "I'm holding a steady course."

First off, my pamphlet from the U.S. Department of Agriculture advises that for the first time since that agency was founded in 1862 they weren't taking no census this year of horses and mules in the nation. According to this notice, horses and mules was getting so few and unimportant in agriculture it wasn't worth what it cost to count 'em. That's both bad and sad, Mister Editor. It makes it official that we've come to the end of an era in our West to the opening up of Roosevelt fell off his mount and broke a ankle, horse and mules has figured his in American history. I have wrote to my Congressman and suggested they erect a monument to Old Dobbin and set it up alongside the Lincoln Memorial.

And I was reading this piece in the papers where them boys in the Postage has throwed $407 million down the drain in the last 12 months. They paid $116,000 to rent a warehouse for 85 gallon oil drums when they bought $21,854 worth of spare parts from a spare parts dealer that was bought 'em the month before for $1,569. They paid $2 million for 57 air conditioners and found they

About 100 Absentee Ballot Applications Received

With Wednesday the final day for their receipt, approximately 100 applications for absentee ballots have been returned to the Bowen County court clerk's office.

No applications which were postmarked later than Wednesday are valid, a spokesman for Clerk Ostrin W. Elam said.

The ballots themselves must be returned by election day, Nov. 3.

The total is considerably higher than in the past two elections, when a much more restrictive law on absences was in effect. The law in effect from 1960-1964 confined the privilege to persons in the armed services, students and government employees away from home on duty.

It takes 1000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of concrete highway!

That totals approximately 700,000 tons of coal if Kentucky uses concrete to complete its Interstate Highways. Kentucky needs new coal markets. New highways. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways.

Today's new-type concrete is smooth and solid all the way... is laid flat to stay flat. It actually has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because the maintenance. Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage... greater driving comfort, and greater maintenance savings.

Fred Bullard, President of the Kentucky Coal Association, says: "Concrete and reinforcing steel are two basic ingredients of the modern concrete highway. With their high consumption of coal during manufacture, we believe that paving Kentucky's Interstate Highways with concrete would be an invaluable aid to the state's coal industry."
