As a Woman sees it.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart editor the Mountaineer published at Morehead sensibly remarks:

Representative J. J. Huff's bill, providing for skirts to be thirty-one inches in width, shows at least, a wholesome interest in moral and physical welfare of the feminine sex. Mr. Huff is a mountain man, and naturally modest and possessed of a high sense of decency. That he should be shocked by seeing women hobble along at a gait which the Chinese even cannot imitate, hampered by narrow skirts, is no wonder, and his spirit of freedom for which mountaineers are noted, very naturally set to work to free the poor, fashion-bound mortals who had not courage or sense enough to free themselves. Mr. Huff is used to seeing women wear clothes enough to keep them warm and enough to keep them covered. The clothes may not be in the newest cut for up here in the mountains we still believe that clothes were first designed for comfort and use, and that is the purpose to which we are still adapting them. If Representative Huff, from Poorfork, Harlan county, has not given the scantily-clad women of the cities a rebuke, we do not know a rebuke when we see or hear one. The bill deserves to pass just to show woman that all men do not admire the ridiculous fashions to which we have permitted the fashion makers to subject us.
