Support Level For Top Leaf Increased $1 A support price of $74 per hundred pounds for the best grades of burley tobacco during the 1964 sales season was announced Friday by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

The top support, up one dollar from last year, will apply to 75 other grades of burley and three grades previously not eligible for support were added to the list.

The three new grades are one cent quality buff, red and green products, designated respectively as N2L, N2R, and N2C, with supports at $40, $23, and $22.

W. L. Staton, executive secretary of the association, said approval of the new support program in Kentucky and four other states.

Staton has contended that burley in the NC categories is good, merchantable tobacco, just as worthy of support as the other grades, he noted.

The 1964 crop will be supported at an average of $58.50 per hundred pounds, a gain of 66 cents per hundred over last year's figure.

Self-Sufficiency Is Objective Of Rehab Unit For Handicapped

to work at 8 a. m. Can they get along with people who work with other people? Are they able physically to work all day? Will they be competent? And will they be obedient?"

Those unable to meet all these requirements at the start are moved only gradually into full-time work, Hampton added.

The privately-operated Opportunity Workshop in Lexington is a good example of cooperation between the State Rehabilitation Bureau and local effort. The State agency pays the tuition, $60 per month. The Workshop was started by the very active Junior League of Lexington, Inc., which continues to work closely with its board of directors.

Of 75 persons trained during the last fiscal year, Hampton said, 26 have been hired, and 30 still are working in the shop. The remainder have been sent out to further training, some to vocational schools.

A deaf mute is among those employed at the Lexington school - he tests electronic pedals by vibration.

Amarly among workshops, the Lexington Workshop last year showed a $1,306 profit on $95,174 income and $93,868 expenses. Most shops have trouble in even breaking even.

The Workshop bids competitively for contracts for assembling and sorting, even buys the parts necessary sometimes. Actual work evaluation is made of each trainee, something not done in all industry.

Rehabilitation Pays Dividends

ASSEMBLY JOBS like this were part of the training process for Christine Davis at the Opportunity Workshop, Inc., in Lexington. She is shown here with Kenneth Powell, supervisor of contract work at the rehabilitation unit. Christine assembled as many as 1,600 of these latch covers a day. Burned severely and also a polio patient as a youngster, Christine even in her wheelchair now makes $52 a week, more with overtime, as the final tester on an electronic device. Her training, her progress, and now her self-supporting employment reflect the opportunities available in rehabilitation workshops. Some of these workshops are operated solely by the State Rehabilitation Bureau or in cooperation with other State agencies. Others, such as the one in Lexington, are made possible by local effort in cooperation with the State Rehabilitation Bureau.

Christine Davis, 34-year-old Lexington woman, never earned more than $5 a month until she was 32.

She was burned severely as a 11-year-old child when a hot clothescauger fire from a wood stove. Then she was a polio victim at 12.

Christine was hospitalized continuously for eight years. Intermittently for the next several years, she was hospitalized for various orthopedic procedures. She's been in a wheelchair for five years.

But now -- thanks to the State Bureau of Rehabilitation Services and to the Opportunity Workshop, Inc., in Lexington -- Christine is making $52 per week and often earns overtime pay.

She's the final tester in quality control on an electronic device, a 70-part foot pedal for recording equipment. All the parts come separately and are assembled by other handicapped trainees in the Workshop.

Christine's money-making ability did not come overnight, even after she began to learn how to work. She started at 25 cents an hour and has now advanced to $1.30 per hour.

She started learning in assembling, packaging, and sorting assignments. So do all other newcomers to the Lexington Workshop, according to R. G. Hampton, its executive director, since it opened in January 1962.

Now, Christine's family lives within the Lexington City limits. She goes to work and back home in a taxi. She swings herself in and out of the cab from work to the wheelchair. A fellow employee pushes her wheelchair up and down the ramp that leads to the first-floor work area.

But, that's easier than when she commuted from the country, catching a ride with whoever she could. Christine sometimes did not get away from the Workshop area until 7 p. m.

With her economic improvement, Christine has bought most things she's wanted. Like a whole set of dentures. And the sewing machine which she makes her own clothes.

She's even started a savings account.

Christine's economic independence reflects the policy of the Rehabilitation Bureau, which is in the State Department of Education.

"We don't consider a rehabilitant fully rehabilitated until he or she is on the job, working, and self-supporting," according to Ben F. Coffman, Bureau director.

Kentucky led the nation in the last fiscal year in growth rate (58 per cent) of rehabilitation of mentally and physically handicapped persons. This is based on the increase of rehabilitants over the previous year -- those persons now able, by training, to support themselves.

A record-breaking total of 2,976 handicapped Kentuckians were rehabilitated during the last fiscal year.

Coffman pointed out that it costs about $475 per person to rehabilitate the handicapped to self-supporting lives. This is cheap, he added, "for the 2,976 rehabilitants. Last year, now are adding more than $5 million annually to the State's income instead of being on welfare."

Self-sufficiency is a primary objective at the Opportunity Workshop, too, Director Hampton emphasized.

"We've interested in several things. Can the trainees come

State Lets Contract On Camp For Boys

The State has signed a contract for construction of a $188,000 camp on Lake Cumberland in Wayne County for older delinquent boys.

Officials of the Monticello Construction Co., Monticello, which was awarded the contract, said construction will begin immediately and is expected to be complete by the spring of 1965.

The project includes a one-story dormitory, a superintendent's residence, a sewage treatment plant, and a water pump and filter house.

The camp will accommodate 40 older delinquent boys, aged 16 to 18, selected from those committed to the State Reception and Diagnostic Center at Lyndon and to Kentucky Village near Lexington.

The boys will participate in an active conservation work program, including forestry and reforestation practices, clearing and systematic development of the 560-acre tract of land. Construction of small waterways and planting of food and cover crops for wildlife.

The project will be carried on in cooperation with the Kentucky departments of Natural Resources and Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The camp, 18 miles northwest of Monticello, is the State's third boys camp. The other two are the Woodbend Camp in Morgan County and the Alben W. Barkley Camp near Gilbertsville in western Kentucky.

State Child Welfare Commissioner Richard J. Clendenen explained that the "chief difference between the Lake Cumberland

Boyle Is Named 'Jaycee Of Month'

Raybourn Boyle has been named 'Jaycee of the Month' by the Morehead Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Boyle's work in obtaining signatures on the library tax petition, and in filling special engagements before PTA meetings, was responsible for his winning the award for October, members of the Jaycee selection committee said.

He is employed at the Citizens Bank.

There are three types of rehabilitation workshops operated in Kentucky by State agencies in cooperation with local groups, Coffman explained. These include those for only the mentally-retarded, such as the one operated in Louisville by the Jefferson County Council for Mentally Retarded; extended-type workshops, such as the one at the Kentucky Industries for the Blind, also in Louisville; and the multiple-type workshop represented by the Lexington school.

"The multiple type is the best," Coffman emphasized, "because it accommodates all types of handicapped persons, mentally and physically. Units are operated solely by State agencies around the Commonwealth. They include departments in all four State mental hospitals, Coffman said. They are operated by the Rehabilitation Bureau in cooperation with the Department of Mental Health.

Similar programs are approved for the mentally-retarded at both the Franklin State Hospital and School, and the Outwood State Hospital and School, near Davison Springs.

Seven special projects are sponsored by the Bureau in the Appalachian area of Eastern Kentucky. And a rehabilitation clinic has been approved to serve the severely handicapped at the Appalachian Regional Hospital in Harlan, according to Coffman.

Two other projects involving both the Bureau and the Kentucky Department of Economic Security have provided for the rehabilitation and public assistance recipients and applicants.

Smile Farmer Is Delegate To SCS Session

Lowell Murray of Smile will represent Southern States Cooperative members in this area as delegates to the organization's 41st annual stockholders meeting at Richmond, Va., Nov. 12 and 13.

Also attending will be William T. Garey of Morehead manager of Southern States Cooperative Service agency in this section.

Two of the highlights of this year's session will be the presentation of the annual report of operations by General Manager W. F. Steele, Jr., on Thursday morning, Nov. 12, and an elaborate product show, including "American Agriculture - The World's Food Basket," to be held that evening.

Other features of this year's meeting will include an address by Carroll P. Streeter, editor of Farm Journal Magazine, who will forecast for delegates, guests and Southern States personnel "Your Future in Farming."

Breck Opens 24 Game and Nov. 20 With Clinton Co.

Breckinridge Training School's 1964-65 basketball team will open a 24-game schedule here two weeks from tomorrow and will play on consecutive nights.

The Eagles will meet Clinton County Nov. 20, and the following night will play host to Carter City.

In addition to the regularly-scheduled 24 contests, Coach Paul Wariner's eagles will take part in a Christmas tournament at scheduled Dec. 21-24 at Olive Hill.

One unusual aspect of the Breck schedule is the number of games which will be played in the afternoon. Six such contests have been added, primarily to allow the visiting teams to be guests at Morehead State College basketball games which are scheduled later in the day.

Wariner said this week that he anticipates stout forward Danny Cornett to be a top contender for all-state honors and he predicted that the 1964-65 squad would "give good account of itself."

Other members of the team are: Roger Wilson, Tommy Caldwell, Norman Roberts, Mike Gullett, Martin Poudouf, Alan Hackney, Johnny Coffey, Mickey Calvert, Robert Johnson, Charles Ray, Ricky Bradley, Mar-

Holbrook, John Jayne, Rickey Collis, Scott North and Billy Bon. The complete schedule:

FLAT SECOND HALF

Eagles Drop From OVC Chase

"We played fine football for almost a half but a flat second half ruined us," Morehead's Guy Penny said following Morehead's 21-9 loss to East Tennessee.

halback Bill Binder earned starting berth Saturday against Western Kentucky and several other starters may be benched. On offense, Penny had high praise for speedy fullback Russ Campbell who gained 86 yards in nine carries and for the offensive showing of junior center Bill Hornbeck and sophomore end Bill Brockmidge.

"But all in all," said the likeable young head coach, "we played far below our capacity and were flat both physically and mentally."

Penny said his charges would work on defensive fundamentals this week in preparation for Saturday's p.m. encounter with Virginia Tech in Bowling Green, Ky.

When the Drury brothers built homes side by side in Lawrenceburg, they first investigated the most reasonable, most satisfactory type of heat. They not only chose electric heat, they built Total-Electric homes. Are they ever glad they did!

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Drury love their electric dryer.

Mrs. A. L. Drury says, "My electric heat is more than reasonable, and really saves me work on housecleaning. And I like its good, even heat and room-by-room control."

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Drury say, "We both work, and it's so nice to come home to a warm house with no work involved. All electric living is for us—and it costs so little."

For more information on electric heat, call our local office. We'll estimate your total annual heating cost before you decide.

By Joe Jordan (Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, a Confederate States Army force of 32 men, led by Col. Robert I. Breckinridge, Jr., rode into Williamstown at 3:30 p. m. and went to a store operated by N.C. Tuttle. They were acting on a tip that a large sum of money belonging to the United States government was in the store's safe. However, the money had been removed. They did find and take away with them 30 Union Army muskets.

The Civil War In Kentucky

Lafayette of Pendleton County, "an old man, a political prisoner," Elijah Horton of Carter County, and John Jones of Mason County.

The firing squad waited while the Rev. B. B. Sayre offered a prayer. As he said, "Amen," one of the four prisoners made a dash for it, but fell almost at once, his body riddled with bullets. The three others, who had not moved, were next killed, and all four were then buried in a shadow grave under coffin. What was then Major Hunt's pasture is now a part of the State Capitol grounds. A plaque marks the scene of the executions.

The next day four more prisoners were removed from the Lexington jail. They were taken under heavy guard to Pleasantry, in Henry County, where they were shot to death in retaliation for the killing of two Negroes a few days before, by unknown persons. Sixteen hours later their bodies were still lying on the floor of the depot. During the same week, two men were executed in Hart County and three in Nelson County, also in retaliation for crimes committed by others.

downward upon his completely motionless body. He felt a Must a doctor be interrupted from his fishing? The golfers felt it was unanswered and returned to the scene of the accident and possible tragedy. Some feared they could not face it and remained silently and motionless in their tracks upon the playground. Those who remained back went to work as they watched the brave ones view the remains of the parachute in the air. The two who shook their heads. Then they walked slowly away. No one seemed to offer any help or care for the fallen one.

Maybe you have not guessed why you probably would be interested in it. It is like we were that the floating object was not that of a body attached to a parachute, but of a long, fluttering roll of white opaque toilet paper that Bobby Falk had excitedly tossed at that small white ball on the Wood street.

No doubt Bobby enjoyed the excitement he produced.

Raymond Williams was just about mad as a wet hen, though when he came up to Williba. He was peered at by Henry Ogas. Henry came down to Raymond's house to check on buying a trade. It may be a cow or a steer. Somehow they couldn't trade. Henry was telling Raymond the price of stock was down which always seems to be the way prices are going when selling to anybody who has a stock. The prices are never up, Raymond thought. The prices are to be up and he was not a lot of money. He was not a lot of money. He was not a lot of money.

Raymond Williams was just about mad as a wet hen, though when he came up to Williba. He was peered at by Henry Ogas. Henry came down to Raymond's house to check on buying a trade. Henry was telling Raymond the price of stock was down which always seems to be the way prices are going when selling to anybody who has a stock. The prices are never up, Raymond thought. The prices are to be up and he was not a lot of money. He was not a lot of money. He was not a lot of money.

Raymond stated he had always respected Henry Ogas and thought him to be a kind man, ingenuity, and other stuff; but after he kept that penny, Raymond lost a lot of stock in his friend.

We tried to comfort Raymond and we explained to him how it was always possible to really find a person out if there was money involved in any way. Raymond made have never heard out a bout Henry if it had not been for that penny being found in Raymond's hand. Raymond said, "I hope it burns a hole right thru his pocket."

By the time you read this, the action will be over with. The Liberalists might have their hands in the Treasury of the United States Government as small as setting them color and Reserve Notes trickle thru their fingers. They will get pleasure out of this money-making thru their fingers; but then after a while, they'll gather up big handfuls of this money and start handing it out to just anybody that will have it or that is old enough to vote. They'll send it out in every direction. They'll send it way over yonder to them other countries and they'll spend it on the new type of defense weapons that will be used a century or so from now in one of their Liberal jungles. The Liberalists like to fight with old, out-of-date equipment. It makes little war last longer and gives the Liberal countries that we fight with a better chance in the patriotic battles.

Lot of us don't know why we fight these wars, but the government don't want us to know everything noway.

The Liberals will play around with this money and give it away all alone and may stuff a few million in their own pockets, and then they will run plumb out of cash. The Liberals Congressmen will be session and quickly some new tax laws will be passed that will liberate some more cash that some poor soul thought he might have and before many more years they will be so liberal that they are giving the money in their hands for to give away and nobody else won't have none a piece.

It is possible that the people want Liberalism now and when you read this the Conservative might not be ready to throw a few more years before the m huge locks on the Treas-sure doors of the United States of America. The Conservatives don't spend money wisely and don't give it all away to just anybody that will have it or can use it. The Liberal give money away to anybody who will keep it for a rainy day, or at least they won't just up and give it to anybody who will keep it with his hand stuck out. A lot of us hope that the Conservative will have a lot of money and can happen yet. It might. At least you should know right now you need it.

Some people like to brag that they are Democrats or they are Republicans. They ain't. These two parties are gone and only be mentioned mostly in history books. The two party system in America is over. It is over. The Liberal and Conservative and with most of the Conservatives just about half gone. When it comes to their own individual self. The Liberals resemble the old democratic party none and very little. The Conservatives have held on to the quirks of the old democratic party none and very little.

If the liberals win again, they are at this time very busy a trying to figger up some more real governing to offer you for a bit more of your freedom. You are standing to lead and waiting to step in a bit more of your dwindling freedom for any type of bargain the Liberals might be offering. They might let you sell your husband if you will. They might add another little to the commodity you will get it up. They might let the age limit for universal "draw" to 59 1/2 years. You'll check your birth certificate. They might give everyone a medical card. You'll have to pay for it. You'll have to pay for it. You'll have to pay for it.

Let of us don't know why we fight these wars, but the government don't want us to know everything noway.

The Liberals will play around with this money and give it away all alone and may stuff a few million in their own pockets, and then they will run plumb out of cash. The Liberals Congressmen will be session and quickly some new tax laws will be passed that will liberate some more cash that some poor soul thought he might have and before many more years they will be so liberal that they are giving the money in their hands for to give away and nobody else won't have none a piece.

'APPRECIATION WEEK'

Optimists To Honor Community Youth

Morehead's Optimist Club will recognize a number of "outstanding" youth in the community next week as a part of the group's observance of International Youth Appreciation Week.

Ray Horton, club president of the club, said boys and girls are being selected from grades 4 through 12 on the basis of commendation from ministers, school principals and adult leaders in the community.

Dr. C. Nelson Gore, chairman of the Boys' Work and Community Service Committee of the Optimist Club of Morehead said Youth Appreciation Week is designed to "give the young people of America a pat on the back for their worthwhile activities."

Optimists strive to give young people a pat on the back for their worthwhile activities during this week. Breathitt said in his proclamation, "and residents of Kentucky wish to join them in expressing appreciation."

Scalp Ringworm Calls For Look By A Physician

Now that school has been in progress several months, Dr. Kenneth S. Welsh, M.D., county health officer advised that all parents and school children be informed on ringworm of the scalp, an infection which is likely to appear among school children.

It is important to know ways to avoid ringworm of the scalp and to what to do in case it is contracted, Dr. Welsh said, "as it is highly contagious and often difficult to cure."

Ringworm of the scalp is a fungus infection which occurs most frequently among school children, particularly boys between the ages of 7 and 12. The infection causes redness, scaly, or crusted patches on the scalp covered with broken hairs. Sometimes the hairs may have a whitish sheath around them.

Ringworm of the scalp generally starts through poorly sterilized barber's instruments whether they be used in a barber shop or the home.

Dr. Welsh advised parents who suspect that a child may have ringworm, to take him to a doctor at once. Treatment of the infection is sometimes difficult and may take a long time, but can be cured, he pointed out.

"It will be the decision of your doctor whether the child should go to school. Be sure to follow his advice completely."

FARM BUREAU in Action

The things that make any organization's annual convention successful are now wrapped up and ready for Farm Bureau members. Talent, entertainment, well-known speakers and business matters all are important to make a convention what it should be.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, Capt. Harold R. Smith of Ft. Knox, the first Kentucky Farm Bureau scholarship winners, and Owen Cooper, president of the Kentucky Chemical Corp., will address the convention Monday morning. Jack Welch, president of KFB, will deliver the president's address.

Other convention speakers are Chairman of "Lum and Abner" L. Lauck, O. Long, field services director, American Farm Bureau Federation, and a number of other speakers. This column writer said they were far sale and to send 25 cent to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, 20540.

Ed Doolittle took a collection on the party line and immediately for this book. "I'll give you the latest in baby-sitting, Mister Editor," just as soon as we get this volume and it can be digested by our school at the store.

Claig Sprout ... And His Friend, TIMOTHY TUGMUTTON ... Sez

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: I was reading a piece by one of them Washington column writers in the "Observer" who spent $5,380 to get a book wrote and printed for baby-sitters; I found this item up at the county store Saturday night and all the fellers was agreed that baby-sitting has got to be a curious matter among that generation of parents, but they was curious how anybody could think $5,380 worth of baby-sitting.

Ed Doolittle took a collection on the party line and immediately for this book. "I'll give you the latest in baby-sitting, Mister Editor," just as soon as we get this volume and it can be digested by our school at the store.

$1 Million Sought For SOS Plan

Protestant congregations throughout the United States will be asked to contribute $1,075,850 during the Thanksgiving season to finance the annual State Our Substance program which through millions of needy persons overseas receive life sustaining food.

Church World Service, the overseas agency for the National Council of Churches of Christ, announced that during 1965 approximately one-third billion pounds of food stuffs donated to U.S. Government stocks, valued at $18,000,000, in addition to 5,000,000 pounds donated by the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP), will be sent to areas of acute need in many parts of the world.

There's one thing this house doesn't have!

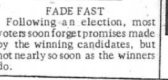

What a pity! A beautiful, modern home with an old-fashioned heating system. Had it been built on our lines, the owner could have installed safe, modern Electric Heat. And he would have saved money doing it, too!

Electric Heat costs less to install because there are no expensive ducts and chimneys. No need for buy storage tanks, either. But the real savings come later... savings in heating bills and maintenance costs.

More important, Electric Heat is the superior heating system. Gives even, healthful heat. Temperature is controlled to "just right" warmth in each room. And Electric Heat is as safe as a light bulb because it's flameless!

ELECTRIC HEAT

The cost of this chimney could have been eliminated. Electric heating could have been installed free of labor cost. This home owner should have checked with his Co-op office.
