The nucleus of the Rowan County Business Men's Club was formed on Thursday night of last week when a number of the local business men gathered at the city hall to complete the organization by the election of a board of directors and officers. The meeting was attended by four members of the Ashland Business Men's Club, who explained the working of that organization and assisted in organizing the local club.

The membership voted to give every business man in Rowan county an opportunity to join the organization. Many of them have already been approached and have indicated their intention of joining the organization. A list of those who have already signed their intention of becoming members follows:

Gets Appointment As Road Foreman

A recent change was made in the personnel of the local road maintenance force whereby the resignation of Harvey Mannin as maintenance foreman for Rowan county went into effect and John Butcher was appointed to his place. At the same time, John Fench was relieved of his work as maintenance foreman in Elliott county and Oscar Bays was appointed in his place.

Mr. Mannin has been maintenance foreman in this county for the past twelve years and has made a very satisfactory record in that position. He has no plans for the immediate future.

Mr. Butcher is well known in this county, having served one term as county court clerk where his record was excellent. He assumed the duties of his new position on February 1st. Mr. Bays is a resident of Sandy Hook.

Fiscal Court In Special Meeting Scores Proctor

The Rowan Fiscal Court composed of Squire Fred Burrows, Jim Rose and Ben Hamm, and headed by County Judge Chas. E. Jennings met at the Court house on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of allowing claims against the county, a claim of particular interest to the county was brought by County Judge Jennings with the comment that it should receive minute consideration from the members of the court, before it was allowed or rejected. The claim was presented by Foster Thurburg Hwyl, Co. and was for the sum of $100.00 covering the cost of a battleship bluebeam sign on the floor of the County Attorney's office.

Judge Jennings in presenting the claim, stated that in his opinion the claim should be rejected on the fact that the county attorney had purchased the rug without authority and that in addition the cost was entirely outside of the bounds of reason.

Motion was made by Squire Fred Burrows that the claim be rejected on those grounds with Squire Rose not voting on the motion, and Judge Hamm voting Aye. County Judge Jennings stated that he wished to have his vote recorded twice in the Aye column.

The "College Slant" was edited last spring by Dr. Payne, Ives Paul Humpal, English department head; Aimee Ives Moore, training school critic teacher; Dr. W. W. Weller, biology instructor and Ralph M. Hudson, Trail Blazer editor and instructor in the department of art.

Total Enrollment Surges To New High Peak; 1343

Sweeping ahead of the enrollment of the Murray State Teachers College for the first time since its foundation, and taking third place among the state teachers colleges, the enrollment for the semester at the Morehead Teachers College mounted to new heights when the total enrollment jumped to 973 Wednesday. Including the enrollment at the training school the total for the semester runs for 1342, an increase of 216 over last year.

Figures published by the Murray State Teachers College gave their college enrollment as 862 students, 110 less than that of Morehead. Those figures are mentioned not for the sake of criticism but for comparison.

The reporter for the News called Dean W. H. Vaughan Wednesday afternoon. He gave the enrollment as 972, a figure less than one minute the phone rang and Dean Vaughan said raise the number by one. If that rate continues one minute, the enrollment will be enormous. Authorities at the college are delighted with the wonderful increase in the popularity of the local college. They feel that the growth is an endorsement of their plans to make a sturdy and lasting growth and to eventually build the college into the leading teachers college in the state.

TAXES MUST BE PAID BY FEBRUARY 28th.

According to Sheriff Mort May, taxes will become delinquent on March 1, and unless they are paid not later than February 28, a penalty and interest will be added. So far as Mr. May has heard there will be no further extension of time for payment. He urges all who are interested in saving the cost, to meet their tax bills not later than February 28.

No insurance was carried on the house or its contents.

City Council Works Out Plans For Taking Over Sale Of Gas Under Franchise Sold By City Recently

W. H. Rice Working Out Plan To Borrow Funds From PWA To Build

If the plans of the City Council of Morehead work out as they appear to be working out, Morehead will not only have a municipally owned natural gas system as well. Plans are in the making which call for the purchase of the franchise has the assurance of the PWA authorities at Louisville that they will have no difficulty in putting it over within a comparatively short time to borrow $30,000 from the PWA for the purpose of constructing the pipe system for conveying the natural gas to the citizens of Morehead.

The project billed down to simple terms consists in the plan to buy gas at whole sale from the Gas Company which purchased the franchise from the city a few months ago, and sell it at retail to the consumers. The money borrowed from PWA will be used for the double purpose of furnishing work to the men of the community and to construct the pipe system for the city. The sum, $30,000, is said to be ample to construct the mains past every residence in the city, so that every citizen may easily have the gas available for the cost of installation.

Under the PWA arrangement, the city would receive an outright donation of one third of the sum of ten thousand dollars, and would be required over a long term of years to repay the balance of $20,000. This balance would be repaid without interest to the citizens a penny in added taxation, since it would be paid out of the revenue produced by the sale of the gas to the consumers. This Morehead would have an up-to-date and modern system for gas distribution without the investment of a cent.

But the big advantage of the plan, according to the city council, is that they will be able to carry on their business without additional taxation.

SUFFERS INJURIES WHEN FRONT TIRE BLOWS OUT

The car of Woody Hinton was completely demolished in an accident Saturday night, when a front tire blew out, throwing the car and its occupants into a ditch. The accident occurred at the Carter Rowan line. Mr. Hinton was severely bruised about the head and face and suffered a sprained ankle. Other occupants of the car were Miss Eva Brown and Jack Smith.

According to Mr. Hinton the accident occurred about 11:30 p. m. and they were thrown unconscious for several hours. They were not found until about 5:00 a. m. Sunday morning.

Sale Of Auto Tags Shows Big Increase

Either Rowan county citizens have more money than they had at this time last year, or they are becoming more public minded. If the records of the automobile license desk at the office of the County Court Clerk are any indication, At this time last year, on February 5, records showed that five truck licenses had been secured, while 116 passenger car owners had complied with the law. At that time it was a record in Rowan county.

This year, however, his passed that mark with a more than comfortable margin to spare. On February 5, the auto clerk had issued 366 passenger car licenses and ninety truck licenses to prove that whether there is more money or not, there are more people making an effort to comply with the law.

Up to the present Circuit Court Clerk, Joe. McKinney has issued 1261 drivers licenses in the county.

WHY DO FIRE HAZARDS INCREASE?

Another fire in Morehead, and while not as disastrous as some in the past, yet it served forcefully to call to the attention of the citizens of Morehead the pitiful inadequate fire-fighting apparatus possessed by the city to prevent fire.

The editor of the News heard the alarm and happened to be near the city hall when the firemen arrived. The truck refused to budge for a moment. The drive stepped on the starter. It kicked once and quit. Three firemen hooked on to the sides and pushed. The old "one Hoss Shay" groaned moved up an inch or two and died. Again the boys and the driver made a concerted effort, and again it made a concerted struggle to get going. It would be useless to go on. Finally the truck started with a super human effort and rumbled and rumbled out of the station.

In the meantime the firemen had gone on ahead and arrived at the fire long before the truck drove up to the house. Fortunately the chemical truck came ahead and the fire was under control.

It is a sad commentary on the fire fighting apparatus of Morehead that the last several fires have been disastrous. Considerable criticism has been heard of the men who compose the fire department. It is not only possible but extreme probable that if Morehead would equip the fire laddies with a truck that would run and was modern in its equipment, they would be able to render the city some service.

Insurance rates in any city are based upon the fire question. Fire hazards are figured scientifically on the amount paid in the community by the insurance companies. The fact that Morehead turns the fire company out with an old model T fire truck, on its last legs, certainly does not have a tendency to reduce fire hazards or cost, but on the contrary, it raises them.

If the city council were to buy a new fire truck, modern and up-to-date, it would undoubtedly cost them considerable money. But that money would be one of the best and soundest investments they could make. And it would be returned to the tax payers in a very short time in reduced insurance premiums.

It is time to stop blaming the fire company for failure to take care of the fire situation, unless the city is prepared to furnish them with equipment with which they can adequately fight fire hazard.

How's Business

A FACTORY

Among the businesses and new industries Morehead could well support and one that would furnish employment during the operating season would be a small canning factory. Such an institution would serve a number of purposes. Farming conditions in Rowan County are ideal for truck farming, with small areas located conveniently to Morehead as a central depot. Roads are little or no difficulty in trucking such now that there would be the products to Morehead. The farmers of this county would profit by a cash crop, with the sale of their crop guaranteed in advance. It would turn money loose in the county.

A cannery would furnish employment to a number of persons during the canning season. It would help the town, and help the county. It's a good thing to think about and then to act on.

A NEW STORE OPENS

Another new firm has been organized and is now ready to serve in the location formerly occupied by the Dixie Grocery. The new firm goes under the title of the Morehead Mercantile Company, and is composed of G. W. Pritchard and J. B. Fraley.

The new dry goods establishment opened for the first time Monday. The patronage, in spite of the fact that their stock has not nearly all arrived. Watch for their first announcement in this issue of the News.

STILL PICKING UP

A conversation with the management of the Midland Baking Company revealed the fact that they are more than pleased with their new location in Morehead, and they are not basing their conclusions on sentimental reasons. They are headed business people who came to this city for the purpose of improving their business. They are not only satisfied with the results, but they are highly pleased. Their sales have mounted and are continuing to mount. They have already doubled their production and are preparing to put on at least two more trucks. People of Morehead are showing a marked preference for Morehead made bread, to such an extent that the sales in this city alone have justified the move.

Well, Morehead should be proud of the bakery and should support it because they have done something for Morehead, and a considerable something, by locating in this city. A thousand dollar a month payroll added to the city is not to be sneezed at, and Morehead seldom sneezes. This is not the Bakery slogan, but it should be a Morehead slogan: "Buy Morehead Bread!"

Hatchability In Relation To The Relation Of Hatchability To Intensity Of Production

The production of a bird is usually divided by the poultryman into winter, spring, summer and fall. The meaning of these periods of production will be taken up later in other articles. Intensity of production is commonly understood to mean the number of eggs produced in a given length of time, as one month, two months, or three months. Thus the eggs laid during the winter period may be spoken of as winter intensity and the same would be true during the other periods. A hen laying 40 eggs in the winter months would have a lower intensity of production than one laying 60 eggs during the same period. A poultry breeder should never save a bird as a breeder with a winter egg record of less than 40. Intensity can be measured only by the use of the trapnest. It is possible to take the winter intensity and predict rather accurately past and future production.

The question arose as to whether intensity of production prior to the hatching season had any effect on hatchability of the eggs. Warren (1924) studied this problem but failed to find any significant difference in hatchability due to the influence of intensity of production. Thus we might say that high rate of laying does not handicap hatchability of pullet eggs, in fact

Hatchability In Relation To The Slight Difference Occurring In The Hatchability Was In Favor Of Those Birds Of High Intensity.

Incubation. Holding Temperature of Eggs. Before Being Incubated. After the eggs are gathered from the nests and are to be used in incubation of 56.2 degrees F. and candling of chicks they should be properly handled. It is not always possible to put the eggs under the hens or in the incubator as soon as gathered. There are several factors that may affect hatchability of the egg before it is incubated. The following is a brief review of what has been along this line.

Philips (1909) mentions that eggs held at a temperature of 50 degrees F. hatched much better than those held at a temperature of 65 degrees F. Eggs held at a temperature of 80 degrees F. failed to hatch. Edwards (1902) noticed that embryos begin to develop at about 52 degrees F. On the other hand Mauro (1923) failed to observe any embryonic development in eggs kept 10 days at 32.9 degrees F., others kept at 57.2 F. showed development in 60 percent of the eggs. Jull (1930) mentions that temperatures at which eggs are being held prior to being incubated is quite important, a high temperature being more injurious than a low temperature. Just how low the temperature may be allowed to go without endangering embryonic development has not been determined. It is reported by Elford (1921) had packed eggs for shipment and held them 14 to 26 degrees F. for 5 hours and secured a hatch of 80 percent. Scott (1924-25) found that when eggs were held for 6 hours at 32 degrees F. hatchability was not impaired. Daugherty (1922) exposed eggs to a temperature of 28 to 32 degrees F. for 3 consecutive nights did not find the percent hatchability lowered. Scott (1933) held White Leghorn eggs at a temperature of 50 degrees F. and Bantam did not lose any development if hatchability until after the 6th day of the holding period. Turkey embryos are not injured at the same temperature as in hen eggs. Therefore, a temperature of about 50 degrees F. is about the best to hold eggs prior to hatching time. Eggs should be gathered frequently in warm weather and sub-zero weather to prevent the development of abnormal embryos.

Length Of Time To Hold Eggs Prior To Incubation. The period of holding eggs prior to hatching has considerable influence upon the hatchability of the eggs. Even as early as 1862, Broca and Lavigne (1862) found that when eggs were held as long as 27 days before setting their hatchability was considerably lowered. Darestre (1888) came to the conclusion that the longer the eggs were held before being incubated the greater was the number of abnormal chicks among those hatched. Phillips (1909) secured low hatchability from eggs kept for two weeks. Kirkpatrick (1918) using Rhode Island Red eggs, secured a hatch of 71.1 percent from 3 to 5 days old as compared with 63.5 percent when the eggs were held 11 to 12 days before incubating. Waite (1919) mentions that the hatchability of eggs dropped below 50 percent when they were held longer than 10 days. Scott (1933) concludes that holding eggs at temperatures varying from near or above physiological zero (60 to 75 degrees F.) for prolonged periods, or at rather low temperatures (36.3 degree F.) causes many embryos to die during the first few days of incubation. Thus, from the above, we might conclude that eggs held for hatching should not be held much longer than 7 days. The earlier they are set the better is the percent hatchability, other things being equal.

Position Of Egg Prior To And During Incubation In Relation To Hatchability. Goveil (1902) and Jackson (1912) did not find that position of egg prior to incubation had any influence on the percent hatchability obtained. Holding temperature and length of time the egg was held had a much greater influence. A number of experiments have been conducted to determine to what extent hatching results might be affected by the position of the egg during incubation. In the hen's nest, the eggs lie flat on their sides but most hens prefer a concave nest that fits their rounded body which in turn puts the eggs in an oblique position. With this in mind, some incubator manufacturers have made trays where the eggs fit tight and stand on end as the trays are tilted from side to side several times a day. Darestre (1888) found that eggs with their large ends up hatched normally while those with small ends up hatched abnormally. Graham (1903) and Jackson (1912) found that standing eggs on their small ends for the first three days in order to set more eggs, tending to remove the infertile eggs being done on the fourth day, the hatchability of the fertility of was not affected. Eylesmyer (1907) found that position of eggs did not affect their hatchability yet B-uses

I'd rather not go on till we hear from Stinkin. Do you mind waiting, Markham?

Have it your own way, Markham cumbled. But I can't see the importance of the suitcase. There's small probability, it seems to me, of its being at the station. And in the event it isn't there, we will be no better off than we are now.

On the other hand, Vance returned. If it is at the station, we may conclude that Archer did not go to Chicago last night. But I'm quite sure he intended to go. And if he didn't go, something unexpected happened to him here.

But his being in New York doesn't connect him with Archer Coe's murder.

Certainly not. But Markham, that last minute decision of Brisbane's to get out of town had some connection with Archer Coe's death, I'm sure he intended to go. And if he didn't go, but anyway I want to be sure.

The phone rang. Heath answered it and after listening for several minutes, replaced the receiver on the hook.

The suitcase is there all right, he announced. The bird at the window says a middle aged nervous guy checked it around six last night, saying he'd missed his train, and he was shaking so he could hardly lift the bag to the counter.

Vance nodded slowly. I was afraid of that, and yet I'm hoping it was it so. Markham I don't like this situation; I don't at all like it. Something unforeseen has happened; unforeseen, and sinister, it wasn't on the cards. Brisbane Coe intended to go to Chicago last night, and he didn't go. Some terrible thing stopped him. And someone stopped Archer Coe before he could change his shoes. Don't you see what I mean? Those shoes of Brisbane Coe's and the stick of Brisbane. That stick in the front hall! It shouldn't have been there. Ohmy precious aunt! He threw his cigarette into a tray, and hurried toward the door.

Come Markham, Come Sergeant! There's something hideous in this house, and I don't want to go alone.

As he spoke, he ran down the stairs, Markham and Heath and I followed. We had reached the lower hall he pulled the portiere aside and entered the library door. Looked round him and passed into the round him, and then passed into the dining room.

After several minutes search, we returned to the hall.

Maybe the den, he said and hurried through the drawing room where Wrede and Grass sat near the window, he went into the small room at the rear. But he came back at once, a bewildered look in his eyes.

Not there. His tone was unnatural. But he's somewhere, somewhere.

He came again into the front hall.

(1925) secured slightly better results when the eggs were placed in an oblique position. Thus we might conclude that the position of egg is of very little importance as incubator manufacturers equip their machines with egg turning devices which saves time in turning eggs. Part IV. Hatchability in Hen's Eggs

He wouldn't be on the third floor, and he's not on the second. There's his stick, he said; but his hat and jacket. Oh, what a fool I've been. He brushed Gamble out of his way, and walked swiftly down the narrow corridor along the stairs until he came to the closet door at the rear of the hall.

Your flashlight, Sergeant, he called over his shoulder. He pulled the door open, revealing only a great rectangle of blackness. Almost simultaneously, the circle of yellow light from Heath's pocket flashlight penetrated the gloom.

Lower, Sergeant! came Vance's diatatorial voice. The floor, the floor!

GAS SYSTEM

(Continued From Page One) The council has a proposition from the gas people, whereby they can purchase the gas at a low rate at wholesale, and will be able to sell to the consumer at the rates established in the franchise. After paying all the expense of operation, such as meter reading, bookkeeping, etc, the most conservative estimate leaves a balance in the city treasury of from $2,500 to $3,500. This of course would be used, first to pay the debt of the rate, and secondly to finance city expenses. This naturally would eventually result in a reduction of tax rates to the taxpayers of Morehead.

Judged from the actual facts, it would appear that the city council would be extremely short sighted if they failed to make application for the loan, or to use it if they get it.

According to W. H. Rice, who has been in touch with the PWA authorities in Louisville, there will be no difficulty in obtaining the loan. He has their assurance that it will be one of the first to receive consideration and to be allowed.

Asked when it would be possible to obtain the loan, Mr. Rice said that he did not wish to appear unduly optimistic, but that in his

Eagles Draw Eastern In 1st KIA C Tilt

Eagles To Meet Ancient Enemies Friday Afternoon In Feature; At Bowling Green

Team Expected to Leave On Thursday Morning; Back Sunday Morning

BULLETIN

Last evening, Wednesday, the Morehead College Eagles took the measure of the Berea Mountaineers, the score being 31-28. The Eagles played some brilliant basketball to win. Ryan and Percy Caudill were individual stars.

Morehead drew their ancient enemies in the K. I. A. C. drawing for the annual Kentucky College basketball tournament to be held in Bowling Green, Ky., on February 21-22-23. The Eagles are scheduled against Eastern State Teachers College on Friday afternoon at 4:30. They will play their first tournament game. Morehead was one of the lucky five teams to draw a bye game, if they are so fortunate as to win from Eastern, which would give them a rest until Saturday afternoon.

Coach Downing has obtained a very favorable train schedule and a rate of around $8.00 for the round trip that anyone who wishes to accompany the team may obtain. They will leave here on Thursday morning and arrive in Bowling Green late that evening.

While it is impossible to tell at this time, just what the prospects are for a win, it will be remembered that Morehead made one of the best showings in the tournament last year, and that following a none too good a season, There is this to be said, if the Eagle squad is on, there is no doubt but that they will make a creditable showing, as when they are in the tournament. However, they will remain a mystery until after the tournament.

Georgetown Trips Eagle Team 28-19

Georgetown College Tigers again bared their claws and overwhelped the Eagles of Morehead State Saturday night at Georgetown, by coasting along in front of an early 10-0 lead. The score at the final curtain was 28-19 with Morehead trailing all the way. The Eagles turned on to take the preliminary encounter from the Georgetown cubs 30-22.

Fourteen minutes of play saw the Eagles held scoreless, while the Tigers romped through their defense for ten points. Oxley, substituting, broke the ice with a crisp shot for two points. With two minutes to go in the first half the Eagles trailed 16-6, but a burst of steam cut the margin to 16-11 at the half.

Week's Menu In Basketball

The basketball schedule for the coming week including the high schools games will offer some choice morsels to the lovers of the hardwood game. The menu for the week actually began last week night with the Berea game and at present is history. However, the Eagles have several good games in the offing before they start for Bowling Green to enter the K. I. A. C. tournament which opens there on February 21.

Saturday night the Eagles meet Wesleyan here, Wesleyan holds a win over the Eagles and are out for revenge.

Next Wednesday night, February 13 they meet the University of Louisville in a return game here. The visitors also have won from the Eagles at Louisville. However if the Eagles are hot, they won't disappoint the crowd.

Next Wednesday night, February 13 they meet the University of Louisville in a return game here. The visitors also have won from the Eagles at Louisville. However if the Eagles are hot, they won't disappoint the crowd.

Breckinridge Training school which turned back Russell in an upset last Saturday night has a try at the same team on the Russell floor on Saturday night of this week. Arrangements are being completed for a game with the Breck alumni team on Friday night.

the opening of the second half brought the score 16-12, the small margin the Tigers ever allowed. With five minutes gone in the first half, the Tigers whipped in a 21-12 lead. Ryan was the only man on either team to score in the next five minute period, Georgetown led 20-19, the only score to be made after that being a two pointer by Lusk.

Georgetown made 13 field goals and made good on three free throws out of eight. Morehead located the basket for eight field goals and made good on three free pitches out of eight.

The Eagles, however maintained their record of but one defeat for the season by throwing the Cubs for a loss, 30-22.

BRECK BREAKS LOOSE TO WIN OVER EWING

The Breckinridge Training School Eagles again fought their way to victory over the strong Ewing five which had previously defeated them by the score of 49-23. The game played at Ewing in which Ewing held the Eagles to 0 while piling up 20 points. In the second quarter the Eagles broke into the scoring column and the half ended 15 to 8, Ewing. The third quarter the score was Ewing 19, Eagles 14, and with one minute left to play Ewing led by one point. The Eagles shot a field goal as the game ended to win 24-23.

SPORT SPLURGES

In spite of the defeat of the Eagles by the Georgetown Tigers in their second encounter last Saturday night, the basketball horizon in Morehead seems to be looking up a bit, since the Breckinridge High team scored an overwhelming victory in what was regarded by Russell fans, at least, as an upset. Russell has been touted as the most probable regional champions, and their defeat at the hands of the training school, was a surprise to the Russell fans.

As a matter of fact, the so called "up set" was not so much of an upset after all, especially to those who have followed the development of the little Eagles. Coach Holbrook has not been able through the inability route, to put his full strength on the floor up until the past two weeks. Three of his most valuable men were on the shelf, one through transfer from another school and two through indisposition. These three are now able to take part in the play, and "what a whale of a difference" a few men make, to paraphrase a certain cigarette advertisement, James J. Johnson was recognized as a student last season, while Paxton Davis, playing his first game last Saturday, showed himself as a comer. In fact, for the first game he had ever played, he made a remarkable showing. Eugene Calvert is the third to add to the string on newcomers who also adds strength and height to the fast little squad that has carried the first semester burden at this school. It looks from here as if, a new center had entered the ranks of possible district tournament winners, making it a four way game between Olive Hill, Grasscroft, and Breckinridge Training School.

We just can't figure what's wrong with the Eagles. From all appearances they are a decidedly off and on basketball team. In their game with Transylvania, they were so hot in the first half that they almost set the gym floor on fire and caused the Morehead Fire Department to turn out in force. Although they let down in the second half they still turned in a very creditable performance for the game.

In the Eastern battle, they struck with the force of a cyclone in the last half, after leading until the last minute of the first, when the score was tied at thirteen. All the last five minutes were the best basketball team that ever raced the hard wood for Morehead.

In the meantime, they journeyed to Centre and lost by a big score. After what was reported as a Berea and put another sorry exhibition. And Saturday they played were defeated after forty minutes of sluggish play in which they never appeared to get their bearing by a score of 28 to 19.

Looking at the Eagles when they are hot, you wonder how they do it. And looking at them when they are not going, you wonder why they don't.

As a matter of fact there is no doubt in anyone's mind but that the Eagles have material the equal if not the superior, of any school in the state, with the possible exception of state.

However, we believe as most of the fans believe that the Eagles will get to clicking by tournament time, as they clicked last year, when they made an enviable record at Louisville. They have the quality and they have the reserves and there is no reason why they should not go places and do things, the things that their supporters expect them to do and hope they will do.

VIKINGS DROP ANOTHER TO RACELAND RAMBLERS

The Raceland High School Ramblers defeated the Morehead Vikings at Raceland last Friday night by the score of 25 to 12. The Ramblers were in good form, while the play of the Vikings continued rather weak. However, the Kings are coming to the front slowly and may show something before the season is over.

Boxing Match At Morehead Hi

Lovers of the many art of self defense will be offered a treat on Saturday night of this week at the public school gymnasium when the CCC boxing team from Frenchburg meet the CCC team from the local camp in a series of four round bouts. The show will be put on at the gym beginning at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. Ring side seats will be 50 cents and general admission seats 25 cents. The entire proceeds will be contributed to the athletic fund of the Morehead High School. This is an opportunity to see an exhibition of real boxing and an admission price that is within the reach of all, and at the same time help the local high school finance their athletic program.

College Team Ties With CCC Boxers

College Pugilists Win Two Matches Via The K-O. Route: Draw One.

In a return match, the Morehead boxing team broke even with the C. C. C. boxing team at the college, Tuesday evening, January 22. In a previous engagement the college team defeated the CCC boys three bouts to two.

Each of the teams scored two wins and a draw. Dean Henderson marked up victories for the college boys on knockouts and Howard won for the Three C's. Johnson of the college and Andrews of the C. C. C. fought a four round draw.

Andrews, C. C. C. pugilist, and a thrilling exhibition in the feature bout of the evening. The judges voted a draw after the two fighters had battled through four hectic rounds without either of them demonstrating any marked superiority.

In the opening bout of the evening Meritt of the C. C. C. had little trouble disposing of Patrick of the college team and won a four round decision.

Howard of the three C's met stiffer opposition in Byron of the college but earned a decision in a thrilling, closely contested four round bout.

Earl Dean, college over brought his dangerous right uppercut into play in the second of a scheduled

Eagles Romp Over Union College To Win 37-28; Breck Takes Russell 30-20

Eagles Upset Red Devils in Hectic Battle Here Saturday Night

Breckinridge Training School came out from under the wraps last Saturday and uncovered some real basketball to win from Russell's Red Devils by the score of 30-20. The Red Devils, rated as one of the best teams in this section of the state, were even only once during the game, the score being tied at the end of the first quarter, when the Breck defense and offense both began to click at the first time. At the end of the half the training schoolers were out ahead, by 16-10, at the end of the third quarter their lead was 21-13 and the final window showed them leading 30-20 to win a hotly contested battle, and one that during the second half waxed rough.

Outstanding in the Breck team was Paxton Davis, not because of his brilliant play so much, because it was his first game in action. He fought hard and came through with flying colors. Davis shows possibilities of developing into a real pivot man, as he has good control of himself and keeps his head under fire. He controls the ball at the pivot position and his defensive work was excellent.

The surprising reversal over what they expected apparently threw the Red Devils off balance and during the second half they routed it up 20-10. Reports of the contest published in a neighboring daily were, however greatly exaggerated. Only two Russell players were ejected from the game by the foul route. Russell as a team drew 17 fouls while the training school ran a close second with 13. One Russell player was put out of the game for unnecessary roughness, in the last minute of play, but coach Patterson had ample reserves on the bench with which to substitute had he so desired.

Howard of the three C's met stiffer opposition in Byron of the college but earned a decision in a thrilling, closely contested four round bout.

Earl Dean, college over brought his dangerous right uppercut into play in the second of a scheduled four round bout and knocked out Edwards of the C's to give the college team its first victory.

In the fourth bout of the evening Bruce Hennessy, college pugilist, scored a technical-knockout over "The Sailor", three C's man.

Eagles Flash 22-9 Lead in First Half; Percy Caudill is Sten

Staffing off a last quarter rally, the Morehead Eagles revented a previous losing by defeating the Union College basketball team, 37 to 29, here Wednesday night. The Eagles spurred to a 14 to 2 lead early in the first half and protected this margin stubbornly as Union drew close in the last half. In a previous game Union defeated the Eagles, 38 to 34, at Barbourville, in three overtime periods.

The Eagles started a revamped line-up against the Bulldogs and almost the entire squad saw action during the evening. Morehead appeared to click effectively in the first half, and with Percy Caudill cranking pivot shots, and John Shuey sinking long heaves, led the Bulldogs 22 to 9 at the half time. When Shuey fouled out late in the game the Eagles' defense went temporarily to pieces and the Union team, led by Davis and Gaines staged a rally. The Bulldogs scored ten points while holding the Eagles scoreless and came within two of tying the score. At this point with the tally standing at 30 to 28, the Eagles collected their scattered forces and pulled away to win, 37 to 29.

Both teams were accurate in sinking free throws as Morehead connected with 9 out of 14 shots and Union caged 11 out of 19 tries. Roy Caudill won individual scoring honors of the evening with 10 points. John Shuey turned in a brilliant defensive performance for Morehead and scored 10 points. For Union, Gaines and Davis were led with nine points each.

BRECK JUNIORS WIN ONE

The Breckinridge Junior High basketball team scored a surprise victory over Mt. Sterling's ninth graders, Friday, January 25, and won 24 to 14, in a game at Mt. Sterling. The locals are coached by Billy Babt, Trail Blazer staff member. Breckinridge's line-up, Payne, Crosthwaite, Tatum, Fraley, and Carr.
