SQUIRE FRED BURROWS DIES IN HOSPITAL FOLLOWING BRIEF ILLNESS; FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Attended Meeting Of Fiscal Court On Monday; Was Leading Citizen

Fred Burrows, Magistrate of the third district in Rowan county died at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington on Monday morning at 1:15. Squire Burrows, had been ill but a very short time, having attended the meeting of the fiscal court held in this city on Monday and Tuesday and having spent the rest of the week at the home of his son, Russell Burrows in Farmers. He went to his farm on Thursday and Saturday complained of severe pains in his abdomen. Saturday night he was taken to Lexington where he underwent an operation for locked bowel. He recovered from the effects of the operation but was in such a weakened condition that a blood transfusion was necessary. Apparently he was improved but it was only a temporary improvement, death following in a few hours.

Mr. Burrows was born in Wiaront, Ontario, Canada on September 21, 1862. For several years he resided in Michigan where he was united in marriage to Miss Harriett Garrow at Sault Ste. Marie, forty five years ago. Twenty seven years ago he came to Farmers and engaged in the timber business, later taking up farming as an occupation. Several years he had been retired from active business, until in 1933 he ran for the office of Magistrate to which he was elected. He has looked after the duties of this office since that time. Burrows was preceded in death by his wife, who died about six years ago. He is survived by six children, Mrs. A. F. Burrows of New Falls, New York; Mrs. Wm. Frazier, of Harvey, Ill.; Mrs. Fred Sapper, Farmers; Mrs. Homer Rose, West Liberty; Gerald and Russell Burrows, Farmers. He is also buried in the cemetery here.

SLUMBERS DISTURBED

Coach Downing has decided that the corner on which he lives is no fit or safe place for him. It is entirely too disturbing. Saturday morning he almost became firmly convinced of that fact.

"Let Coach tell it. I had stayed up late anyway and it was about 1:30 when I went to bed. I was just thinking about how I could sleep late the next morning when the baby woke and I had to get up to look after her. I went back to bed and in a few minutes Dudie woke up and I had to get up again."

"Well by that time it was almost morning, but I had got the babe settled and I made up my mind that I'd get some rest by sleeping late. About that time I ever heard the darndest racket I ever heard. I thought the house was coming down on our ears. Kathleen let out a yell and then I heard a crash and then I felt a bump that jarred the whole house. I turned over and reached for my clothes and I said, to myself, and Kathleen, 'Oh, what's the use, I might as well get up.'"

Dangerous To Profs

By the way that particular corner is a dangerous corner for professors. At least four profs have been wrecked or I made up my mind there, it might be well to post a warning sign for the profs, advising them to avoid that corner in getting to the place they want to go, if they would be certain to get where they want to go.

Christians Lead In Attendance

The first Go-to-Sunday School Day of the series, fostered by the local churches was buffeted by a steady down-pour of rain and attendance records were rendered a stiff blow. Sunday was Church Members Day, at which time each church made an effort to secure attendance of church members in Sunday School. Due to the weather conditions disappointment reigned in every church.

The Christian church led in attendance with 100 present and reported having read 450 chapters of the Bible the past week. Next was the Church of God with an attendance of 94. In this congregation 34 had read the Book of John, the prescribed reading for the week. The Baptists came third with attendance of 81. Bible readers were not accurately reported here, according to the pastor, but at least 6 had read the Book of John. Unfinished readings were not reported. The Methodists dropped behind with the attendance of 77, quite un-

Ford Leads Buick In S. S. Auto Race

In the automobile race in Bible school at the Christian Church the Ford passed the Buick in the lap Sunday morning. In spite of the rain a fine attendance was out and interest ran high. The cars are taking on more speed each Sunday. The race closes Mother's Day, which is the second Sunday in May. The school and church is co-operating with the Kentucky Go-To-Sunday-School drive for April.

The church and Bible school are planning a great day for Easter. The day will start with a sunrise prayer service. Special evangelistic efforts will be put forth and members are expected to accept the Gospel invitation at the Easter morning hour.

This probably will be the last opportunity for farmers to sign on an liberal terms as now offered. Any farmer who has raised tobacco since 1929 should investigate the terms of this contract. See County Agent C. L. Goff, for information.

Consolidation Of Schools Endorsed

Program Meets With Approval Of Majority; Means Great Efficiency

Considerable comment has been heard during the past week on the action of the Rowan County Board of Education in consolidating several of the schools of the county at their last meeting. Some of these comments have been favorable, others have been in criticism of the Board action.

The fact of the matter is, that the entire tendency in the modern school system is toward consolidation, bringing the schools under larger units, where more teachers may be employed to take care of the classes, and eliminating the one

Sterling in the afternoon. The Morehead team, headed by Clayton and Day, will present a strong lineup that should be hard to beat. Granted that they have been handicapped by the weather and therefore lack of practice, the team they have gathered should make some teams in the league say a prayer before the end of the season.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS
ONE day a guy went to work wearing dark glasses, and the next day he tied a bandage over his eyes as soon as he got into the subway. A cop grabbed him and took him to jail, and next morning the cop told the judge: "This bird gets into the subway yesterday, and puts a handkerchief over his face. Day before he wore goggles, and one time he wore an eyeshade. He's going to hold up the subway, that's the way I dope it."

"What are you up to?" says the judge. "Are you cuckoo, or do you figure on making somebody laugh."
"No," says the guy from New Orleans. "Sore eyes?" suggests the judge. "Never," the prisoner swears. "Then how come?" says His Honor.
"Well, Judge," confesses the gink from Louisiana, "yep, see, I just can't bear to see Louis standing when I get a seat in the subway. I got to do something, and if you don't let me wear this here bandage, I'll have to 'X' to work."

Ask That Water Be Diverted To Protect Property From Floods

The regular meeting of the City Council was held at the City Hall on Tuesday night of this week. Outside of allowing a number of claims, the chief business conducted was the reception of a committee of citizens and property owners in the west end of Morehead, asking the council to take steps to remedy the flood conditions that have prevailed this spring, and in the past, by altering the course of the branch which overflows at every high water.

Last fall a plan was presented to the property owners along the branch, when the contract for the widening of Main Street was being discussed, whereby the branch would have been carried through the back of their lots and the course altered. The street would at that time under that plan have been widened as is the rest of the distance at the expense of the state highway department. However, several of the property owners objected and the plan was dropped. The recent floods have revived the project. At that time the highway department had appropriated around $40,000 for the reconstruction work, but when it was not accepted, the money was applied elsewhere and is not available at present.

However the council agreed to make an effort to maintain the appropriation of funds through the

A COWARDLY ATTACK

In a recent edition of the Courier-Journal a certain cartoon appeared that, to say the least was not only far beneath the dignity of a metropolitan newspaper, but was unquestionably one of the most unjustified, unmerited attacks on a body of men that should cause any newspaper worthy of the name to bow its head in shame.

The sad part of it was that the artist who drew the cartoon and the editors who sanctioned it knew better. They knew that they were not only drawing on their fertile and feid imagination, but that they were putting the lie out when they attributed to the Veterans any such heartlessness or any such desire.

No organization in the history of America has done more to alleviate the distress of their comrades in arms and their comrades' families than has the American Legion. Yet the veterans themselves have seen money thrown away, NOT for the needs of widows and orphans, because that money cannot be thrown away, but for taking care of men who are able-bodied, who are capable of caring for themselves.

At the same time they have seen their own families want, have had to apply for relief, even though they knew the government owed them, a debt that has long been admitted and for which they held the voucher in the form of an insurance policy that would mature in forty years, long after most of them will be dead.

It should be remembered by the Courier Journal and all such that these men, whom they criticize so strongly now, were the same men who fifteen years ago, were welcomed home with hurrahs and parades. Are they less deserving now than then? They are the same men to whom promises were made by the stay-at-homes, promises made in the heat of a patriotic frenzy that could not last; promises too soon forgot; promises as yet unfulfilled.

The Federal Government has just appropriated four million and more dollars to take care of the relief situation. It is a known fact that a large part of the army of unemployed is made up of service men who feel that they have a right to ask the government which they served unquestioningly and loyally to take care of in this emergency. They are not asking alms. They do not cry for a donation. They feel that they have the right to ask that the government which can appropriate a few million dollars to take care of the unemployed, can appropriate a few million more to pay a debt of fifteen years standing.

The widows and orphans, whether of service men or not, must be taken care of. That is the service man's demand. But while taking care of the others, the men who are physically able to work and earn their living feel that they are not unjust in their demand that they and their families be given an equal opportunity. The fact that several hundreds of thousands would be taken off the relief roles and given an opportunity to get a fresh start, is the answer to the howl that the service man is entirely selfish in his demands. He is asking only for a place in the sun, a place to which he and his family are entitled.

FRIEND OF THE DARK ANGEL

The average motorist, however modest he may be in other respects, becomes an egomaniac as soon as he takes the wheel of his car.

He believes that traffic regulations should be rigidly enforced—so ar as other drivers are concerned—but that he should be an exception to the rule. John Jones should be forced to keep down to twenty or thirty miles an hour—but he, whose abilities are hardly second to those of Sir Maleom Campbell, can be trusted to drive as fast as he pleases.

The accident statistics demonstrate how tragically wrong this average motorist is. Nine out of ten accidents occurring in only one out of ten was the mechanical condition of the car to blame. And in the overwhelming majority of instances the factor that led to the mishap was excessive speed. The best proof of that lies in the fact that the rate of death per accident on highways—where speeds are naturally higher than on streets—was more than 100 per cent greater than the average for all accidents combined.

A heavy foot on the throttle is the best friend the Dark Angel has. At the present time, campaigns are underway in all states and most cities to enforce reasonable traffic regulations. The driver who thinks he can "safely" drive as fast as he wants, wherever he wants, must be taught the error of his ways.

FRANCE TO HAVE ARMY OF 60,000

A French ministerial council decided today to keep 60,000 men under arms to guard her frontiers while 120,000 new conscripts are being trained and while England, France and Italy determine at the Stresa conference April 11 how to secure European peace in the face of German re-armament.

The three powers were constantly in touch with one another. The British cabinet will meet on Monday to have the full report of Capt. Anthony Eden on his European tour and to outline more definitely the British program at Stresa.

There was excitement in the free city of Danzig where a flood of Nazi fervor carried the populace along preparatory to the Volksstag elections tomorrow.

HITLER AIMS SEEN SURE TO BRING WAR

The period which lies between the conversations of London and the conference of Stresa already has proved to be one of the most interesting and important fortnights in most war history. The talk in Berlin between Hitler and Simon served to crystallize the situation. It put an end to the vague hopes and even more nebulous plans for averting actual collision between irreconcilable policies by patching up the post-war peace machinery once more and again prolonging the time of make-believe. Europe now knows what Germany wants and realizes that these objections can be attained only by war.

Broadly speaking, the German demands are twofold. On the territorial side Hitler has outlined his purpose to bring about Austro-German union, first economic and later political to include within the Reich the three and a half million of the German-speaking populace dwelling on the perimeter of Czecho-Slovakia from the basin of the Oder to that of the Danube and, in addition, to recover Memel immediately and the Polish Corridor eventually.

IRKED BY ENGLAND'S ARMS STAND

High Italian quarrels tonight expressed irritation with England and doubt of France in connection with tri-power conference at Stresa, which opens next Thursday.

At Stresa, Foreign Ministers of the three nations will consider rearmament, European problems arising in its wake and the old problems of security against war.

How's Business BUY IT IN MOREHEAD

Why not a "Buy It In Morehead Club"? The idea is not a new one by any means, and is certainly not original. But even old and borrowed ideas are sometimes worth a lot if applied.

How far would such a club go? Well, there are stores here at which may be purchased at prices certainly not higher than prices in neighboring cities, practically any and every article that can be bought elsewhere, in just as good quality and just as modern style.

We know that there are people in Morehead who have the mistaken idea that they must go to Lexington, Louisville or Cincinnati before they are able to find the dress or coat or suit or shoes or what-not that suits them. And we know that many of them come back and find the identical article on the shelves of the local merchant at prices less than they paid.

But there is one article made in Morehead by citizens of Morehead that is of equal if not better quality than that made in Ashland or Huntington, sold at exactly the same price and just as sanitary and wholesome. That article is Morehead Bread, made by and at the Midland Baking Company. Yet, there are those in this city who believe, honestly, that they must have their bread to live.

This is not written in criticism in the least. It is merely a suggestion that every citizen of our community owes it to himself to at least give Morehead Bread a trial. These men are here. They are establishing a business that in a few years will be a credit to any community.

They are actually buying out products that are of equal quality with the best. They make their money here, they spend their money here. They pay taxes here. They help to build, They help to make More-

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright by W. H. Wright

Tell us what you know about this double murder, Mr. Wrede, Vance went on with grim relentlessness.

A shiver ran over Wrede's body. I know nothing about it, he replied after a painful pause, Gamble told me this morning that Brisbane was in Chicago.

He started for the station yesterday afternoon, but returned here last night, to meet his death.

Why should he return stammered Wrede.

Have you any ideas on the subject?

The man's eyes opened wide. Not the slightest idea.

What do you know of the conditions here at the Coe house yesterday? I would like as full a description as you can give.

I was here talking to Archer Coe from ten to twelve yesterday morning.

About ceramics—Miss Lake? Wrede caught his breath.

Both, he answered weakly. The fact is, Archer and I had a somewhat bitter session regarding my coming marriage with Miss Lake.

But it was nothing unusual, he was as you may know, violently opposed to the marriage.

Brisbane took part in the discussion, and called Archer some rather harsh names.

And after twelve?

I unchained in my apartment. Then I went to an auction at the American art galleries.

But I had a bad headache. So I came home around three, and lay down, I did not leave my apartment again until this morning, when Gamble phoned me.

You live next door, do you not?

The first house to the east, across the double vacant lot.

Who owns the vacant lot?

It is part of the Coe estate.

And you remained in your apartment from three o'clock yesterday afternoon until this morning?

Did you see Miss Lake yesterday?

Yes, in the morning when I was here. The fact is, I made an appointment with her for last night, at the Country Club. But when I got home yesterday afternoon, I called her by phone and excused myself, I was in no condition for dancing.

Mr. Grassi substituted for you, said Vance.

Wrede's eyes clouded, and he set his jaws.

So she told me this morning.

When Gamble phoned you this morning, Vance asked, what was your mental reaction to the news?

Wrede frowned.

That would be difficult to analyze. I was not overfond of Archer, he admitted; and I was not personally distressed by the report of his death.

But I was extremely puzzled. It was not like Archer to take his own life; and frankly I had very grave doubts, that is why I advised Gamble to get in immediate touch with Mr. Markham.

You acted wisely, Vance observed, with a tinge of sarcasm. But if you did not believe that Archer Coe had committed suicide, there must have been in your mind another possibility—to wit; that of murder. Who, Mr. Wrede, do you think would have had the sufficient motive to commit the crime?

Wrede did not answer at once. He appeared sorely troubled and ran his fingers several times through his hair.

That is a question I have been trying to answer all morning, he replied without looking at Vance. One may speculate, of course, but it would not be fair to voice evidence of some kind.

Mr. Grassi?

I—I really, Mr. Vance, I'm not well acquainted with the man. He was after Coe's collection of Chinese ceramics; but that would hardly constitute a motive for murder.

No-o. Vance smiled frigidly. What about Miss Lake?

That suggestion is outrageous, he cried, glowing at Vance. How dare you—?

Spare me the drama, Vance cut in, with a contemptuous smile. I'm depressed difficult to impress.

Wrede sat back, with a cumbered remark which could not make out.

What do you think of Liang, the cook? Vance asked next.

The man glanced up with a swift, second look.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kazez, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: CHRIST THE SAVIOR, John 3:14-17, Rom. 5:8-10; Phil. 2:15-11.

Golden Text: For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life, John 3:16.

Today there is a popular teaching in the world to the effect that the important thing about Jesus is His life, not His death. That is, He was a great teacher, a great social worker, a humble man, a great example of holy living. That His attitude and work were to show us how to live, and that this is the chief purpose of His coming among us. The lesson this week shows us that this so-called "social gospel" is a farce in comparison with the real purpose for which He came. Certainly He was all these things which we have mentioned, but greater than that, He is the world's crucified Savior, and if not a crucified Savior He is no Savior at all.

1. From the passage in John we are shown that He must die to be a Savior of men who are damned to die. He must take their place, if the law of righteousness has condemned them to death He who takes their place must die for them. So, just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness... and this, my friend, represents sin judged or punished... so must the Son of man be lifted up... and this, in other words, the death which sin brings was put upon Jesus and He was lifted up on the Cross, instead of us who were condemned. To His death, were bitten by poison serpents did look upon the brazen serpent (brass in the Old Testament represents judgement) and we shall be healed as they were.

2. The passage from Romans teaches us that we were unable to save ourselves... "without strength". Furthermore, we were enemies of God; we did not love Him. We crucified Him with hatred. Yet, in spite of all that, He died for us, and is willing to save even His enemies. Very few men in this world would die even for a good man. But God showed us how different was His love in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. If God loved us that much surely He will save us by the death of His Son.

3. The passage from Philippians teaches us that it was at awful cost that God saved us. The Son has always been with the Father and they love each other in a degree unapproachable to our finite minds, but in the proportion of their love did this separation cause them to suffer. But just the same, Jesus came to earth and took upon Himself the form of a servant. Never in this world did He do anything for Himself; always it was to serve others. And as he served to help men live in this life, He died to make men live forever. He was obedient to death that He might give us eternal life. For such a service He justly became a hero in the sight of God the Father, so that "God hath highly exalted him, and given him a name above every name: That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow... and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." Many will recognize and confess Him humbly to their own salvation; others who own destruction, just the same, refuse to do this in fear to their every tongue shall confess Him as Christ and Lord, either here or in the day of wrath.

Senior Class Begins Practice On Play

The Seniors have started on the play, "Where There's a Will" by Charles George. It is the story of a rich uncle's will, his bequest to a niece who must always talk the truth, and to his hen-pecked cousin who must assert his independence in order to receive his legacy. A book agent, a negro maid, and a group of young college boys and girls supply all that is needed for a rollicking comedy. Watch for the announcement of the presentation date.

Farm And Agriculture News

Some Things To Consider In Purchasing Baby Chicks

Within the past fifteen years, the baby chick industry has passed from the farm to the commercial hatchery. Twelve thousand hatcheries over the United States are turning out approximately 700,000,000 baby chicks annually. The hatcheries vary in size from a few thousand egg capacity to two million. This does not include the chicks incubated each year under hens nor in small incubators at home. It includes hatcheries that are licensed under the N. R. A. code. A million or more farms are engaged in producing hatching eggs. Despite the magnitude of the industry, it is now possible to secure excellent baby chicks that are just as good as those produced at home if a few precautions are taken. For lack of space, only some of the more important factors to be considered will be taken up here.

Choosing A Hatchery

The choice of a hatchery has lots to do with the success of rearing baby chicks. One should ask himself several questions concerning where the chicks are to be purchased. How is the hatchery rated as to reliability? Are all eggs secured from blood tested stock? Are the flocks accredited, inspected several times a year by a competent, non-biased poultryman? Are the eggs incubated under the best of conditions and by experienced hatcherymen?

It is rather strange but it is a common practice for many flock owners to order chicks from distant states thinking superior chicks can often be secured from near by hatcherymen. Chicks are not always superior because they came from another state. If the writer was in doubt as to the reliability of a hatchery, he would write to the poultry department of the Experiment station within that state and inquire as to the reliability. One should keep in touch with his own experiment station and county agent in knowing where superior chicks can be had. It is always best to get a price list from the hatchery and understand what is meant by the different grades of chicks that are being offered. It does not always pay to buy the cheapest grades of chicks. Behind each grade is a background as to quality, production, mortality, high hatchability and the like. These are important factors. For example, the writer has a price list on his desk now from one of the most reliable hatcherymen within the state. Baby chicks are priced in his booklet from $15.00 per hundred on up to $3.00 per baby chick. The baby chicks selling for $3.00 each are out of hens with a known trap record of 325 or more eggs per year and these hens have many sisters of 300 or more eggs per year, and the chicks were sired by a male out of a hen of over 300 eggs per year and has many brothers that are siring 300 egg pallets.

There is no correlation between weight of egg and hatchability unless the egg is very small or exceedingly large. However, there is a definite correlation between size of egg and weight of the chick hatched from it. In many experiments the weight of the chick has been found to be about 65 percent of the weight of the egg. Baby chicks should weigh not less than 8 pounds per 100. If one desires to have large baby chicks, the eggs used should not be less than two ounces in size.

Time Of Hatch In Relation To Egg Production:
The time of hatch has considerable to do with the economic returns than is often realized. Vickers and Cray (1925) in reporting on 150 farm flocks in Ohio found that pullets hatched between May 1 produced 150.9 eggs each as compared with 143.4 eggs for those hatched after May 1. Upp and Thompson (1927) under Oklahoma conditions found that pullets hatched April first gave better egg production than those hatched after this date. Goodale (1918) mentions that Rhode Island Red pullets hatched in March laid an average of 42.95 eggs during the four winter months as compared with 35.4 eggs for those hatched in May.

It is desirable to have the pullets begin their laying not later than November 1. Lephors should mature in from 180 to 180 days by the latest. The time of hatch could be regulated by counting this number of days back from November 1 and allowing 21 days extra for incubation. Lephors from quick maturing breeders may develop a little faster. It is not desirable to have them mature before good body weight is attained. It takes about 200 days for Rhode Island

Red pullets to mature. The hatching dates can be calculated from this. In a previous article on "Why some hens lay more eggs than others, maturity was discussed at length and will not be discussed here. Along with early maturity should be large egg weight.

Other Points To Consider In The Breeding Flock

- 1. Most reliable hatcheries have given considerable attention to these desirable factors in breeding flocks from which they secure their eggs. These will not be discussed at length here but just listed. It is desirable to have these factors transmitted through the eggs, to the baby chick. Many of these factors are inherited and some of the most important ones are as follows:
- 1. Egg weight.
- 2. Rate of maturity.
- 3. Intensity of production.
- 4. High winter rate.
- 5. Persistence.
- 6. Long egg cycles.
- 7. High annual production.
- 8. Color of egg shell.
- 9. Low percent of broodiness.
- 10. High Hatchability.
- 11. Good vigor and vitality.
- 12. Disease resistance.
- 13. Good feathering.
- 14. Freedom from defects and disqualifications.
- 15. Long life (longevity) of high egg production.

It will pay to purchase your baby chicks from hatcheries that can combine most of the above factors into their baby chicks. Your county agent can be of great assistance in assisting you in securing the best baby chick obtainable for the money. Consult him often concerning poultry problems.

MILLER SPEAKS ON A PHILOSOPHY

Dr. Frank B. Miller, instructor in the department of education, spoke at convention yesterday on "Greater Next: A Philosophy of Life." Dr. Miller, who was added to the faculty at the beginning of the second semester, received his doctor's degree from the University of Kentucky and has done graduate work at the University of Chicago and Ohio State University.

"What kind of philosophy do we need to cultivate to cope with our changing world?" he asked and then answered "Let the individual find out what he is suited for in life, permit him to choose his profession, permit him to determine what he shall believe and train him to make up his own mind."

In closing, he said, "Prove it, think and retain that which is good is, perhaps, an excellent maxim to guide us in the pursuit of a Philosophy of Life."

The Joy of Giving
By IRVIN S. COBB

THEY were holding a special meeting of the directors of the bank to pass on a request for donations in behalf of the starving Armenians.

The chairman of the board outlined the proposition. He began by reading a letter just received from the generous persons who were raising the fund. Then he spoke at some length and with deep feeling of the suffering of the fugitives of far-off Armenia.

"I realize, gentlemen," he continued, "that of late years there have been many days in behalf of charitable causes both at home and abroad. We have all done what we could; we are tired of being called upon for contributions. But here is a thing which should appeal to the instincts. We must do something to show where our sympathies lie in this matter. Go now, then, gentlemen, the question is what should we give for the starving Armenians?"

He paused, awaiting a response. It was an elderly gentleman of large means but with a reputation for conservatism in money matters who spoke the little silence. He cleared his throat.

"I move," he said, "that we give three cheers for 'em."

Better Breakfasts

WHY not make tomorrow a red letter day by including a dish-rendered with tasty tomatoes in your breakfast? It will look good; it will taste good; and, with the proper accompaniments, it will start the day off right. Here is a suggestion for such a breakfast menu:

Orange Juice
Omelet with Cream
Poached Eggs in Tomato Sauce
Toast

Poached Eggs in Tomato Sauce: Press the contents of a No. 2 can tomatoes through a sieve, and bring to boiling in a skillet. In this hot liquid poach four eggs, lifting them out when done onto buttered toast on a hot platter. Meanwhile have one small chopped onion sautéing in two tablespoons butter. Add two tablespoons flour, stir smooth and add some of the eggs out of the tomato juice, add it slowly to the tomato juice, stirring until smooth and creamy. Season to taste and pour over the eggs. Serves four.

That Old Debate

So why not have it fresh? The way to do that is so exceedingly simple that it is no more of a problem to a bride than it is to a veteran housekeeper. There are many blends and brands of coffee now packed in vacuum cans and they all stay strictly fresh till they are opened. Be sure that the words "vacuum packed" are on the can of coffee you buy, and you will have solved that part of your coffee problem.

ROWAN COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

BAPTIST REVIVAL

(Continued From Page One) Ohio, and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville. He was pastor for several years at this and Williamsburg, Ky., and is his second pastorate in North Carolina. He sings well and he and the pastor will seek to bring the gospel message both in songs and duets. They have been together in many meetings and are very close friends. They are well fitted to bring the gospel in mutual assistance for the uplift and inspiration of the church and the public.

Evening services will be at 7:15, mid day services at 2:30, p. m. It is hoped that the public will avail itself of this opportunity to hear these gospel messages, and to lend its aid to the betterment of the community. The preachers will be glad to have private consultations about spiritual matters with anyone, and will call at homes wherever opportunity offers. "Without apology," says Pastor Kaeze, "this is a special effort to save the lost and revive the saved." The churches of the town and the entire public are urged to attend.

BASEBALL

(Continued From Page One) past cost them plenty of jack. He tion to fans here as he has in the local lineup, however, as Owensville is also trying to deal with him. At first base Bob Day will officiate. Duke Carter will hold down second base, Fraley will covort at short, and Ryan or Honaker will cover third. In the outfield will be Nolan in right, Varney in center and either Spence or Wooten in left.

While the entire Mt. Sterling lineup is not available at present, it is certain that their battery will consist of Rhodes at pitch and Cloyd receiving, Rhodes is no mean pitcher. He has his full share of victories to his credit and during the first year of the league was one of the strongest pitchers Morehead encountered. Last year he bunted part of the season for Morehead with good results.

The locals should be strong both in the field and with the stick. raley led the league in hits the first season and last year also showed up in good style. While short is not exactly a new position to him, he has usually pastimed in the field. However he is equally at home in the infield and a good man where ever you put him.

Bob Day of course needs no introduction. Bob has been playing first base for Morehead so long that he has come to have a controlling interest in the corner cushion. He expects to continue to play that position as long as they play baseball here.

Duke Carter likewise a local boy, not only covers his position but wields a heavy stick. Varney is reported good in center and a good hitter. Ryan and Honaker either one will cover third, Nolan was one of the best in the league last year, and there you have it.

DAVID NICKELL

(Continued From Page One) office. Mr. Nickell is the son of Dr. H. L. Nickell, and is a graduate of the Morehead High School and Morehead State Teachers College where he received his degree of Bachelor of Science majoring in biology. He is well equipped to do his work efficiently and well.

K. E. R. A. PROJECTS

(Continued From Page One) mentioned above. The total amounts requested are: as follows: Labor, $201.75; Trucks, teams, wagons and scrapers, to be furnished by the county and by interested citizens, $330.00; lumber, nails, and cement, requested from K. E. R. A., $100.94; county to furnish additional material to the amount of $42.30. The total cost $2,490.99. The county are citizens are to furnish $372.30 of this amount.

The second project submitted is a supplemental tool project, covering the distribution of rock on the lower Licking River road from Farmert. The project calls for the use of the county rock crusher and county trucks. K. E. R. A. has been asked to furnish $168 for gas and oil to operate the machinery to crush and distribute the rock.

Thus the attendance for the four Sunday Schools came to a total of 352, with everyone reporting a lower attendance than is usual. Many church members who usually come to Sunday School took the day off.

Next Sunday is Family Day. Whole families are urged to attend Sunday School together. Every family which attends in its full membership will be reported and recognized in a special way. And why not bring the whole family? If it is good for one it is good for all.

During this week the prescribed reading is the Acts of the Apostles. If you do not get to read the entire book report the number of chapters read next Sunday. The following Sundays are designated as Friend's Day, Neighbor's Day and, the last will be Everybody's.

Go-to Sunday-School Day on May 5.

BOXING

(Continued From Page One.) This will be strictly a boxing match without any wrestling, and the boxing fans should receive their money's worth without difficulty. The boys represented on the list are all college students who have been engaged in the boxing bouts during the past winter and fall and have made considerable records.

Services were in charge of Dr. G. H. Fern, pastor of the Morehead Christian Church. Burial was made in the Lee Cemetery at Morehead.

plan, that is that it will cut out several teachers from the county system. That is unfortunate from the viewpoint of the teachers, but all progress is ruthless and is made at a cost to someone. It is hoped that the teachers thus eliminated will be taken care of as they should be by other means. However, the idea itself is one of progress and in the opinion of the Rowan County News the Board has done the right thing in thus trimming expenses and at the same time offering a more concentrated and therefore more efficient school system to Rowan County patrons.

FIRST SPRING SCRIMMAGE IS POSTPONED; TO BE HELD AS SOON AS RAIN STOPS

Scheduled For Saturday But Rain Prevents; May Be Held This Week

Football scrimmage, scheduled for last Saturday, was postponed until Monday due to the wet and soggy grounds, after several weeks of rain. Monday the engagement was again postponed for the same reason. Up to the present time, the college football squad has spent the greater part of their energies in practicing up on the fundamentals of the game. Blocking and tackling have been stressed and the boys are becoming proficient in these departments.

Coach Downing hoped at the time this was written to be able to hold his first scrimmage Tuesday afternoon. He is well pleased with the progress made thus far, in spite of the handicap of unsettled weather.

He is still making efforts to contract several more football games for next season, having at present only five games definitely on the menu. He is at present in contact with Morris Harvey, Marietta, Holbrooks and East Tennessee and hopes to be able to arrange meetings with some of these teams and thus round out his schedule.

Prospects for a baseball team are being arranged, according to Coach Downing, Transylvania, in answering his correspondence along this line, have stated that the college is not sponsoring baseball and that the students are in full charge. Consequently they suggest that it be arranged to finance the games at home in Lexington, but would be willing to play two games here. This would of

YMCA VOLLEY BALL TEAM TROUNCES ERRATIC TEACHERS

Win Two Games From Teachers; Poor Condition Claimed By Pedagogues

The Y. M. C. A. volley ball team defeated the faculty, three games to one in a volley ball series held in the gymnasium the past week. Lack of practice on the part of the professors gave the Y. M. C. A. boys an easy victory in the first game, 21 to 1, but the faculty improved, held them to a 21 to 7, victory in the second game and forced them to rally in the last game to win, 21 to 19.

The faculty team was composed of Miller, Jackson, Horton, Hagan, Lloyd, Hollis and Davis. The Y. M. C. A. team consisted of Moore, Adams, Dobyn, Dean, Risner, Farley, and Sparks.

course put the burden of financing the games up to the local school, a thing which they are loath to do.

Eastern is apparently the only college in the state that is actually preparing to offer a baseball program this spring, outside of Morehead. There would be little objection in getting to the trouble and expense of going ready for a two or three game season, according to Coach Downing. However he is still making efforts to contact other schools in the hope that they will be able to arrange a suitable schedule which have at least six games during May.

This weather, to say the least, is not conducive to a sporting atmosphere. And yet you have to be a real sport to enjoy it or even make the best of it. Spring football has been interfered with to such an extent that it almost might as well not have been. The first scrimmage was postponed and then postponed again. Coach Downing decided that it was not nearly as necessary to drill in the rain, as it was to conserve both man-power and uniforms and save equipment.

Few people realize what it costs to maintain and to clean it after it has been used. The college here spends around two hundred dollars every time the equipment is cleaned and repaired. A very few scrimmages in the mud would make it necessary to spend two hundred dollars.

So it is not likely that the squad will trek through the scrimmage until there is at least a prospect for a little clear weather.

And the Old Weather Man has certainly put the jinx on baseball, for the time being at least. You just can't get up any enthusiasm for baseball with the rain beating down and the days as chilly as they have been. Practice has been and still is impossible, so when the Morehead team takes the field next Sunday against Mt. Sterling, always providing it has stopped raining by then, they will take it without practice and with scarcely having had a baseball in their hands this season.

Nevertheless, the prospects are good for Morehead again this season. They have the material lined up to make a winning aggregation this year as they have had for the past two years.

Going back, it seems that Morehead has always had a good baseball team. For years this city was the center of baseball interest in Eastern Kentucky, and has produced more good baseball players than the average town several times its size.

It seems that for years the entire sporting interests of this city were centered in the national sport. The boys used to eat, sleep and dream baseball.

Then along came football and basketball and sort of divided the interest. For several years Morehead had no town team, taking their enthusiasm for baseball out in watching the college team perform in the spring and the Haldeman team in the summer.

Then for two or three years the college, town and Haldeman were all without teams and the East Kentucky State League which is now the Kentucky State League was formed.

Women's Soft Ball League Formed Here

Plans for this year's girls' intramural softball league were formulated at a meeting in the gymnasium, last Tuesday.

Louise Caudill, who is sponsoring this league, announced that at least three teams, one from Allie Young Hall, one from Fields Hall and one from town, would be entered, with the possibility of three other teams participating.

The lot directly north of the tennis courts will be used as a practice field, according to Miss Caudill, and practice will get underway the early part of next week.

Anyone interested in forming a girls' softball team is invited to confer with Miss Caudill.

THIRD BOUT, UNDER THE AUSPICES OF AMERICAN LEGION, HELD TO-NIGHT

Legion To Close Attempt To Furnish Entertainment If Crowd Not Better

In spite of the loss taken in the first two wrestling matches here, Bill Emrick of Lexington and the Corbie Ellington Post of the American Legion, are holding the third bout at the high school gymnasium tonight. While the interest has grown considerably since the bouts were started, the receipts have nowhere equalled the expenses, and the Legion and Mr. Emrick have decided that, unless the present match showed marked improvement, they will be forced to discontinue offering the attractions.

The match tonight will be a combination affair, including both boxing and wrestling. In the main boxing affair Chick Taylor, will meet Sailor Jack Adams. Both men are said to be good in their class and the match is expected to be a thriller.

Bill Carter of Morehead who was expected to meet Paul Hanson of West Liberty in the main wrestling go, will be unable to be in Morehead for the occasion, and Hanson has been scheduled to meet Johnny Masterson in his stead. Hanson was awarded the decision in the bout two weeks ago, when Buck Jones of Hazard fell through the ropes and "busted" his head on the floor, observers believed that Jones was on the road to a victory when the accident happened. However Hanson became the victor as five more or less in the position of defending his laurels in the match tonight.

The management has arranged a somewhat different scheme of attracting cash customers. They are distributing "courtesy" passes which entitles the holder to a 40 cent ring-side seat at the reduced price of 26 cents including sales tax. Those who plan to attend should bring this pass with them. Otherwise the regular price of 40 cents will be charged.

The bout will begin at 7:40 P. M. at the Morehead High School gymnasium.
