

SPEECH OF MR. CLAYMAN OF PENNSYLVANIA

In Senate, Friday, January 29, 1861—In defence of the Kentucky Resolutions, and in support of Mr. Crittenden's charge of extravagance in expending the public money.

Mr. Clayman rose to answer each of the four specific charges of extravagance which had been made by the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. Crittenden) against the present administration...

And in the first place, said Mr. B. permit me to observe that I, at least, have never introduced into this Senate, as to topics of debate, "log cabins, hives, and combs," nor have I ever made an observation here which would be turned into a reflection upon either the integrity or intelligence of the people of the United States...

If I know myself, said Mr. B. I came to Congress in December last with the desire and with the expectation that this would prove to be a business session...

For a similar reason I might have been refrained from attending the session of the pre-emption bill, as it has now been, and ever has been, to me, had I then known that the instructions before the legislature of Pennsylvania were such as to require me to do as that of the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands...

For, one, it was both my design and my desire so far as was consistent to devote this session to the necessary business of the country, and to visit patiently until Gen. Harrison should get into power...

which I commenced. I shall not presume to show that the charge of extravagance which has been so often made and reiterated against the present administration...

Now, in regard to this class of expenditures, I have never had any complaint of the amount or that they had risen from seven to thirteen millions of dollars between 1833 and 1859...

Then there was the money expended in the payment of pensions, amounting to upwards of $1,000,000...

Now, in regard to the extraordinary expenditures of the present administration, I have not the least objection to be made...

What are these indemnities? Gen. Jackson, during his prosperous administration, succeeded in obtaining satisfaction for the old debts which our citizens had against foreign governments...

period of his administration, heavy expenses, of an extraordinary character, which he could not have avoided, were rendered absolutely necessary...

Under such circumstances, ought he to be denounced because the necessary expenses of government happened to exceed, under his administration, those which were incurred under his predecessors?

One large item in this amount was for more extensive public buildings. Is there a single member of the Senate who either raised his voice or gave his vote against the appropriations for this purpose...

Another most extraordinary charge against Mr. Van Buren, consisted in the aggregate of one hundred and thirty millions paid out of the treasury in discharge of the national debt...

Now, fortunately for the country, neither present or any future President of the United States is justly charged with extravagant expenditures, except in a few cases, should Congress do their duty...

But the present administration has done more than all his predecessors to secure to the public money in the hands of our receiving and disbursing agents...

Now, according to the terms of the treaties, these indemnities, obtained from foreign governments for our citizens, were paid into the Treasury to the credit of a fund paid out of the Treasury to them, as soon as it was ascertained how much each one was entitled to receive...

I should have been rejoiced if the subject of the expenditure of the present administration had not again been introduced under the accession of General Harrison...

Another most extraordinary charge against Mr. Van Buren, consisted in the aggregate of one hundred and thirty millions paid out of the treasury in discharge of the national debt...

Now, fortunately for the country, neither present or any future President of the United States is justly charged with extravagant expenditures, except in a few cases, should Congress do their duty...

But the present administration has done more than all his predecessors to secure to the public money in the hands of our receiving and disbursing agents...

such a crime is more felony; and the capital is assigned to the four walls of the penitentiary, or to the guillotine, or to the scaffold, or to the guillotine, or to the scaffold, or to the guillotine...

The President of the United States can only give of extravagance by requesting money by bill of appropriation in Congress to do just what he pleases...

I should have been rejoiced if the subject of the expenditure of the present administration had not again been introduced under the accession of General Harrison...

Another most extraordinary charge against Mr. Van Buren, consisted in the aggregate of one hundred and thirty millions paid out of the treasury in discharge of the national debt...

Now, fortunately for the country, neither present or any future President of the United States is justly charged with extravagant expenditures, except in a few cases, should Congress do their duty...

But the present administration has done more than all his predecessors to secure to the public money in the hands of our receiving and disbursing agents...

on both sides. The nearest I can get to the positive antagonism, as each side kept up with deliberation, and a display of military skill and discipline, marching and countermarching, and doing which would be to the advantage of one tree or another in the forest, or to the advantage of one side or another in the game of chance...

"In the present course of our Government," said Mr. Crittenden, "I have never seen a more complete and successful display of military skill and discipline, marching and countermarching, and doing which would be to the advantage of one tree or another in the forest, or to the advantage of one side or another in the game of chance..."

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT. By and with the advice and consent of the Senate, Daniel Webster, of Massachusetts, is Secretary of State...

JOHN ELLIOT, of Tennessee, to be Secretary of War. GEORGE E. BADEN, of North Carolina, to be Secretary of the Navy.

JOHN J. CATRETT, of Kentucky, to be Attorney General. JOHN W. WALKER, of New York, to be Postmaster General.

MAKING BETTER. No deceiver was ever so successful as the man who can make his own words do as he pleases. He can make his words do as he pleases...

RENOVATION OF MANDERLY. Following method is said to be effective in rendering writing visible which has been effaced by acid: Take a piece of paper and write upon it with a pen and ink...

WILL MILACLES NEVER CEASE. Henry Clay, denouncing the United States Bank, told it was not in Washington that Henry Clay was made of the United States Bank...

All kinds of Confectionery. FOR SALE by wholesale and retail.

LOVE AND SPECULATION.

"Give her up! I cannot! I will rush to her arms. Singleton, I am in the affectionately clasped by Cablage. This meeting is as unexpected, as if...

would come to a small musical party at her house, that evening. Mr. Cameo drew his grey suit to the cub stool, in his party turn-out, and invited him to ride...

"I was so nothing, and Wholesopoli's lot related with a premium to purchasers." Mr. Timberlock buttoned up his coat, put his handkerchief in his pocket, and strode up...

YORKE'S COURT OF FORTUNE.

LITERATURE LOTTERY.

Authorized by the State, for the benefit of Shelby College. A. F. YORKE. Having been set aside in selling prizes of various denominations, from $300 to $500...

The Payment of Prizes Guaranteed by Security to the State.

Table with columns for Class No. 95, Class No. 96, and Class No. 97, listing prize amounts and winners.

Patent Sate Manufacture. JACOB GUTTEN, Jr. respectfully ATTORNEY AT LAW. Will regularly attend the County...

ATTORNEY AT LAW. J. J. HARRIS. Will regularly attend the County...

James C. Coleman. ATTORNEY AT LAW. Will regularly attend the County...

L. J. Procter. ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW. Will make collections and render...

Doctor Shuckler. OFFICE. Second, last door below...

R. H. Stanton. ATTORNEY AT LAW. Will practice in the courts of...

Martin & Johnson. Will continue the Sadding Ball...

G. Davis & L. Ward. Have formed a copartnership in the...

REMOVAL. H. H. Reed, of the firm of Reed &...

New Wholesale Drug Store. The Subscriber respectfully informs...

Class No. 97. To be drawn at Covington, Ky., Tuesday...

Class No. 98. To be drawn at Covington, Ky., on Saturday...

Class No. 99. To be drawn at Covington, Ky., Tuesday...

James Morris. Practical House Carpenter & Joiner...

Stray Horse. SOMETIME in October last, a Bay...

James Morris. Practical House Carpenter & Joiner...

F. A. LAW NOTICE. F. A. LAWYER & S. S. COZ...

JUST received a fresh supply of...

Disolution of Partnership.

The partnership heretofore existing between...

Land for Sale.

In pursuance of the last will and testament...

Painting!

SMITH & HARMAN. DEC have respectfully inform their...

Land for Sale.

One Thousand Acres of LAND, in Nicholas county, Ky...

All kinds of Confectionaries.

FOR SALE by wholesale and retail...

FRESH ARRIVAL.

AT KELLY'S CASH STORE. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.

230 N. 2ND ST. KY. 230 N. 2ND ST. KY.