LACK OF NEWS CAUSES COMMENT OF COUNTY JUDGE JENNINGS ON ABSENCE OF FELONY DOCKET

No Felony Cases On Docket Since March Term Of Court

Has Rowan county gone moral? Or are we sitting on a keg of dynamite waiting for it to explode a crime wave?

Those are the questions that are agitating the minds of the county officials who have to do with the law enforcement.

For the past six months there has been no news of the starting variety connected with crime in this county. Of course there have been misdemeanors, but of felonies there have been but scattering few, and those of the minor type that do not attract attention, or if they do, only passing attention.

According to Judge Chas. E. Jennings, for the first time since he was inducted into office in January 1934, there is not a hold over felony case on his docket. There have been none since the March term of court and for some months before that time none had been filed.

The last case of any moment, a case by the way which attracted national attention was the abduction of Prof. H. C. Haggan and his daughter last fall. That abduction would hardly be credited to Rowan county, since it was a "furriner" who was attempting to escape from the county. Since that time nothing of news interest has developed. It is safe to say that the newspapers of the county are almost at a total loss for copy with which to fill their pages. As a matter of fact this is a case in which no news becomes news.

A few years ago it was impossible

LITTLE JACK HORNER TALKS

We attended the Democratic banquet held at the Henry Clay Hotel in Ashland Tuesday night and sat through an hour and nine minutes of torture while Governor Latford played Little Jack Horner to an impatient audience.

You remember Little Jack Horner, don't you? He's the boy who sat in the corner, eating Christmas pie. You will also remember that he "stuck in his thumb and pulled out a bone" and said, "what a great boy am I."

For one hour and nine minutes, "Little Jack Horner" reached down and pulled out plums and held them up dripping juice for the inspection of a bored audience. "That's what I did," he said.

And just before he closed he did manage to mention one or two OTHER great Democrats, such as Thomas Jefferson in whose honor the banquet was held and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

HOW'S YOUR DUST?

It won't be long now, at least it won't be as long as it was, that you will have to eat dust from Main Street as you have for the past few weeks. The street has been torn up and certainly has been an inconvenience to traffic, up and down the main thoroughfare. But there is a more that bright silver lining to it when you stop to consider. The street will be finished within a comparatively short time and then, the dust will be forgotten in the pleasure derived from the sidewalks and the widened street providing so much more comfort to the traveling public, and so much more convenience to the pedestrian.

FARTHER UP THE STREET

So far we have not been able to learn whether or not the work of improving the street will be carried to the upper end of the city or not.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA

"We have lost the spirit of the pioneer, the old pioneering spirit that made America," said a visitor to the News office the other day, in speaking of the apparent lack of pride and lack of initiative evidenced by those men and women who are willing to sacrifice their self respect and who, because they are on relief refuse to accept honest work that calls for honest effort. We thought, how true that is. We had never heard it expressed in just that way before. But it is the answer to America's problem today, just as it was the answer to her development in the past.

The Pioneering Spirit. What that meant to the America of a hundred years ago! The spirit that led your ancestors and mine across the oceans; across the mountains; over obstacles that appeared at the time insurmountable; across rivers and through forests to the Promised Land of Kentucky and the Midwest. The Pioneering Spirit that forced our forefathers to leave their comfortable homes in the east, to undertake appalling journeys into the unknown and feared sections. The Pioneering Spirit that caused them to seek new homes and better homes in lands where they were beset by perils the like of which we can hardly imagine.

Think of that Pioneering Spirit. And then think of the spirit of today. The slinking, spirit that permits the descendants of these grand old pioneers to beg for a living. Able-bodied men and women, content to accept charity; satisfied to take a hand-out from the government; their only pride being that they are living without effort on their part off of the money doled out to them.

These people, these men and women, look at them. These are the descendants of the hardy pioneers, who girded themselves, bundled their families in wagons, or marched on foot that they might hew out a home from the virgin forests of Kentucky. These men and women, are the ones who point to Daniel Boone and his followers as their forefathers. These men and women, are the ones to whom Kentucky must look to carry on the Kentucky standards and to keep Kentucky to the fore.

Yes, we need the pioneering Spirit. We need it now more than we have ever needed it. We need men with "grits" to stand up and say: "No, I don't need your help. I need a job and I'm going to make a job for myself." We need men who have personal pride enough to say, "I am able-bodied and I can work. Give me work to do instead of charity." We need men who are determined to make a living for their families. We need men who are not afraid of toil. We need those who can farm on five or ten acres as their forefathers did and as they themselves did up until the government took charge, and who can wrest a living from that ten acres or five acres or less. We need free men and bold. We need red-blood instead of yellow. We need back-bone instead of wish-bone. We Need the Pioneering Spirit, the Spirit of Old America.

BETTER RURAL ROADS

This is the season of the year when it becomes most apparent that great strides are still to be made in the improvement of farm to market roads—roads that mean much to every merchant and resident in a community where farming is the principal business.

While highways of which we are justly proud have been constructed to connect metropolitan centers, every spring brings unpleasant reminders that county roads for the most part are still of the type that became rutted and muddy—probably impassable at times—for several weeks each spring, depending on the season. Increased use of trucks to transport farm produce makes the need for better roads, more pressing.

Fortunately, progress in the science of road building brings the vision of a complete network of hardsurfaced rural roads within the realm of possibilities. Stable all-weather roads, developed through soil studies by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, and constructed by the proper mixture of local materials and calcium chloride, are inexpensive in first cost and greatly reduce the cost of maintenance.

Hundreds of miles of such roads have already been constructed principally in Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota and Ohio, and the method of construction is rapidly becoming standardized.

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE Copyright by W. H. Wright

There came a pounding of heavy footsteps on the hall stairs, and the next moment Heath was standing in the door, beaming triumphantly. He held something in his hand and, crossing to the table, he threw the object down for our inspection.

It was one of the most beautiful and interesting Chinese daggers I have ever seen. The blade tapered from a thickness of about half an inch at the guard to a stiletto-like point, and was partly encrusted with dried blood. The cylindrical handle was wound with vermilion silk, with the usual row of knots surmounted by a tiny figure of Kuan Ti, the Chinese god of war, carved in brown jade. That this dagger was the murderer's weapon was obvious at one glance.

Good work, Sergeant, said Vance. Where did you find it? Under the cushion stay of the easy chair where we found the dead guy this morning.

Oh, I say! Really? In Archer Coe's bedroom? Vance seemed astonished at Heath's announcement. Most amazing.

Heath watched him a moment and then looked back at the dagger.

And not a chance to pick up a finger print, he complained with disgust. A silk handle. He chewed viciously on his burnt-out cigar.

No—no fingerprints, murmured Vance without lifting his eyes from the floor. But that isn't the chief difficulty, Sergeant. Brisbane Coe was stabbed hours after Archer Coe was stabbed. The whole thing is mad.

He continued pacing in a brown study. Suddenly he drew up short. Sergeant! Bring me Brisbane's topcoat—the black and white tweed one—from the hall closet. His voice held a tinge of excitement.

Heath left the room and returned shortly with the garment. Vance began turning the pockets inside out. From the left-hand outside pocket he drew two two-pieces of fine, waxed linen string about four feet long. He was about to throw these to one side, when he suddenly bent forward and inspected them. One end of each piece of string was tied securely to a large bent pin.

Heath was looking on with rapt fascination.

And what might that be, Mr. Vance? he asked. Vance did not answer, but put his hand again into the left-hand pocket of the topcoat. When he withdrew it he was holding a long slender piece of steel.

Ah! he exclaimed with satisfaction.

We all looked down at it with wonder. It was perhaps the last thing in the world we expected to see.

The object which Vance had taken from the pocket of Brisbane Coe's topcoat was a darning needle!

Markham looked from the needle back to the little pile of string, and then at Vance.

Well, what does that mean—if anything? he asked.

Vance slowly picked up the needle and the two pieces of string and held them in his own coat pocket.

It means deviltry, Markham. And it means that we are dealing with a brew of subtle, and tricky brain. The technique of this crime had been thought to several decimal points—and everything went wrong. The murderer was forced to add complications to his plot to cover himself. And he has confused the issue out of all recognizability.

But who used this string and needle and for what purpose?

Vance looked up gravely. If I knew who used them, I'd have an important key to the entire situation. The fact that they were in Brisbane's topcoat means little. That's the logical place that anyone would have put them after having used them. It's always safe, don't you know, to throw suspicion on a dead man.

Markham stiffened and his eyes became hard.

You believe the same person killed both Brisbane and Archer?

Vance nodded. Unoubtedly. The technique of both murders was used in both killings.

But, argued Markham, the dagger was found in Archer's bolted bedroom.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kazee, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

Subject: The Holy Scriptures, Psalm 19:7-14; 2 Tim 3:14-17.

Golden Text: "O how I love thy law! it is my meditation all the day." Ps. 119:97.

The Bible says, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my Word shall not pass away." If that be true, and I do not hesitate to believe it, here is something to which we may anchor all our lives. In a world where all things seem to perish it is good to find something which will endure when even the world itself passes away.

In the first passage, taken from the Psalms, there is a beautiful tribute to the Word of God from the experience of one who has long delighted in it. After all, they who learn the spiritual meaning of the Word are the immortal they will endure when even the world itself passes away.

That's another incredible complication, Vance returned. Really you know, the dagger shouldn't have been there, it should have been here in the library.

Here? Markham uttered the word with astonishment. But why in the library? Neither man was killed here.

I wonder—, Vance leaned over the table, deep in thought. It would have been the logical place—and yet neither body was found here.

Why was this room the logical place? Markham asked sharply. Because of this substituted Tao Kuang vase and the broken piece of Ting Yao porcelain with the blood on it. He stepped abruptly and his eyes drifted into space. That blood-stained Ting Yao!—Ah! What happened after that Sung vase was broken? What would the stabber have done then? Would he have come out, taking the blood with him? No! He wouldn't have dared—it wouldn't have fitted in with his sinister purpose. He would have been afraid. He was hiding something from us. That's it! He was hiding something unexpected happened—something he hid it—and then something startling an upsetting, the corpse should have been here in the library, d'ye see; and therefore the dagger had to be here.

Word are the only ones who are competent to make true statements about it. In the Psalms' description of the Word we find (1.) A group of words descriptive of the Scriptures, "Law, testimony, statutes, commandments, fear, judgments." In these we will find that our enjoyment and comfort are not, rather our instruction, it may tend to comfort or rebuke or sorrow. But whatever is in them will be best for us. While they hold before us the glory of the immortal they also tell us of the destruction of the mortal. While Heaven is in them Hell is also there. And as they tell us of God and the Savior they also tell us of Satan, the destroyer. His commands are not always easy and they bring us pain sometimes, but the reward of all this is joy if we obey His word. (2.) There is a group of words descriptive of the attributes of the Scriptures. The last is impressive: "Perfect, sure, right, pure, clean, and righteous altogether." There is nothing wrong in God's Word. All that is pure and holy issues from them, Nothing else does. Lives that are nourished by the Word are pure and holy. (3.) There is also a group of statements showing the effects of God's Word on human lives. "Converting the soul"—"making wise the simple"—"rejoicing the heart"—"enlightening the soul"—"enduring forever" (all other words shall fail)—"more to be desired than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honey comb."

There is also in this passage a general prayer for a clean life. A study of the Scriptures will lead one to pray, even as earnestly as this. Read the words in the scripture text and let them become your prayer.

The passage from Timothy is generally regarded as the best known writing from the hand of Paul. He seemed to understand that Timothy was to take His place in the world and it is important to note what Paul emphasized here as among the important things for his continuing colleague. "But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them." In other words, stick to what I have told you; then he explains: "You know what I mean—that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith in Jesus Christ." The Holy Scriptures are the imperishable things. They are the living Word of God. Stick to them! For, they are given by inspection of God (God's Word spoken to man) and they are profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. Think of all this in the Holy Scriptures! And yet we search everywhere else for something to guide us. Search the Scriptures! There you will find life, for there you will find Christ.

o'clock was largely attended. There was no service at night.

The automobile race in the Bible school dashed forward at a terrific speed Sunday morning. In spite of the speed of the buick the Ford managed to keep ahead and at the close of the morning race was some three hundred miles in the lead.

Next Sunday is to be another big day in both the Bible school and church. There will be no services at night, except the Christian Endeavor at 6:30, on account of the Baptist revival.

Farm And Agriculture News

By Professor Henry C. Haggan

Head Of Agriculture Department, Morehead College

As Prof. Haggan was unable to get an article ready for this issue, we are running other timely "farm news."

In the state as a whole, the important feature is overlooked, particularly this feature, that by storing them, fresh vegetables (food may be had all through the winter, at an obvious saving in canning labor and canning containers, besides. The root crops should more generally be part of the summer diet, as well. Perhaps this could be brought about by disseminating new ways to prepare them, but that is outside the province of this discussion.

In order to produce root crops of utmost quality, the land should be fertile, but balanced; too great a proportion of nitrogen will result in excessive leaf growth, but light yield. Since they consist so largely of water, they require a deep seed-bed capable of storing moisture, and the soil must have water retentive ability as well, through being heavily charged with humus. Well rotted manure is excellent to use, most of its nitrogen gone, and the litter finely broken up so that the roots can form symmetrically, without forking, and with a minimum of side-roots. In addition to the manure, a complete fertilizer such as 4-8-6 should be used. The fertilizer may be broadcast or sown with a wheat drill at the rate of 250 pounds over a space 100 feet square, or it may be sown in the row, under the seed, at the rate of 1 pound to 25 feet.

The root crops include parsnips, salsify, beets, carrots, radishes and turnips. The amount of seed needed to sow 100 feet of row is: 1 ounce, for carrots, radishes and parsnips; 1-2 ounces for turnips; and 2 ounces for beets and salsify. The rows may be as close as 15 inches, in a hand worked garden.

Sowing time for parsnips, salsify radishes and early turnips is as early in the spring as the ground can be prepared; for the early crop of carrots, seed should be sown June 1 to 15, and for the winter turnips, August 1 to September 15. A good thing to know is that if a small proportion of radish seed be mixed with that of parsnip, salsify and carrot, they will be helped through any crust that may have formed, and the row is "marked" so that cultivation can be early begun. The radishes are entirely edible and they will cause no discomfort to the crops whose "companions" they have been.

The United States Department of Agriculture announces that it has no seeds or plants to sell or give away. It has been telling the people this for 12 years, it says, and yet thousands of requests for plants and shrubs and seeds pour in to it every year.

Skim milk and buttermilk, rich in protein and minerals, are excellent for promoting growth and for fattening children and young animals. Stock farmers producing them in abundance have an advantage over farmers feeding grain and hay alone.

Scaring does not hold meat juices, but dries out and shrinks roasts, which is not desirable, especially if the meat is a little tough. Roasting temperatures should not be extremely high; 300 to 350 degrees are recommended. A higher temperature may be maintained 15 minutes where a browned roast is preferred, and then reduced.

Cinders placed around septic tank drainage lines tend to solidify and block the water rather than absorb it. Coarse, crush rock is preferable, and should be used where the soil is of a tight nature. Pile of moss also may be used to absorb drainage.

No crop of its kind has attracted so much attention in Kentucky in recent years as has lespedeza. It will grow on worn and sour soils, helps to build up and maintain fertility, and produces grazing and hay at a minimum cost for seed and seeding.

reported, however, according to Superintendent Dudley Caudill.

The Christian Church had 156 present with a reported reading of 450 chapters. The Baptists totaled with an attendance of 129, which, after all, was a good record in view of their usual work. The total attendance was 624.

Next Sunday will be known as Neighbor's Day. Invite your neighbor to Sunday School and let us swell the attendance next Sunday to a new high. For Bible readings this week read First Corinthians.

Maysville Opens Season With Thrilling 2 To 1 Victory Over Paris; Play Game At Maysville

League Race Tightens Up As Tailenders Reverse To Make Place

In a fast straight game unmarred by a single error, the Maysville baseball team triumphed on Vanceburg's highly touted nine yesterday afternoon at Forest Avenue park to win, 2 to 1, its first victory of the 1935 season.

Manager John Rudy's laconic "Well they won't finish in answer to a pre-game query as to the quality of the local club seemed in the first stages of being proved and then some as the B. M. C. outplayed an aggregation rated the strongest in the Kentucky State League. Led at the bat by Roush and Tolle, who got two hits apiece, Maysville sliced in all departments of play. Keatley, on the mound, struck out seven Vanceburg batters while Siedel struck out six. The feature of the game was Clin's sensational one-hand catch of a foul ball near the railing, the hitting of Tolle and Roush and a mighty three batter by Carter.

Vanceburg scored first, in the initial innings, and led until the sixth when Maysville with timely hitting led the count. A ninth-inning rally won the game for the B. M. C.

BASEBALL

A brilliant performance by Babe Ruth both in the field and at bat overshadowed all other developments as the major league baseball season got under way last Tuesday.

An injury to Mazy Dean, remarkable pitching by half dozen established stars, heavy hitting at Cincinnati and Philadelphia, all these mighty Ruth blasted out a single and a homer to help Boston down New York 4 to 2.

At Cincinnati, the Pittsburg Pirates downed the Reds, 12 to 6, in a free play contest. Pittsburg garnered 14 hits to Cincinnati's 12.

At Boston, the Braves, aided by Babe Ruth's two runs outscored New York and Carl Hubbell, 4 to 2. At Philadelphia, Brooklyn downed the Phillies, 12 to 3, and at Chicago, Warrack and the Cubs downed Dean and the Cardinals, 4 to 3.

In the American League, Wes Ferrell blanked the New York Yankees with two hits as Boston won, 1 to 0. In another pitcher's battle Cleveland nosed out St. Louis, 2 to 1.

Morehead Officials Attend Conference Meet in Ashland

Coach Austin Riddle and Principal Dennis D. Caudill represented Morehead High at the Eastern Kentucky Athletic Conference held in Ashland last Thursday night. At the meeting two new schools, Grayson and Louisa, were admitted to the conference. The conference now includes Olive Hill, Grayson, Boyd Co., Greenup, Raeland, Louisa, Calliettsburg, and Morehead.

On a motion made by D. D. Caudill the conference voted to limit membership to ten schools. The membership to ten schools, the school needed to round out the loop, will probably be taken in during the summer.

A five game schedule was voted in order for a team to get a Conference rating. Mr. Riddle was appointed as a member of the committee to draw up the constitution for the consideration of the conference at its next regular meeting, Sept. 9th.

Morehead High has already scheduled four games and will schedule four more games within the next few weeks.

The games scheduled thus far are home games. They are:

- Sept. 27 — Olive Hill — Here.
- Oct. 4 — Open.
- Oct. 11 — Greenup — Here.
- Oct. 18 — Open.
- Oct. 25 — Boyd County — Here.
- Nov. 1 — Raeland — Here.
- Nov. 8 — Open.
- Nov. 15 — Open.

The school officials announced this week that all new equipment would be purchased for the fall campaign.

It is expected that Morehead High will have one of the largest squads in the history of the school on hand when Coach Riddle begins practice early in September.

Flemers Take Second Game

Flemingsburg, who suffered a stinging 2-1 defeat last Sunday in their league opener, when Owingsville took their measure, came back Sunday to get revenge on Paris, by a score of 7-1. The game was featured by the stellar pitching of Kit Stumbo and the heavy hitting of J. Vinson. The Bourbon county team suffered a complete rout.

Stumbo struck out seventeen batters while Vinson made two home runs and a single in four times at bat.

The Paris moundman had an off day and the Flemers got to him at will, getting one run each in the first, third, sixth, seventh and eighth innings and two in the second. Flemingsburg made 19 hits and no errors and Paris six hits and two errors.

Morehead, Kentucky

Eades, Morehead pitcher delivered Sunday in better style than anyone had any right to expect, considering that his arm was not in shape and that it was his first game of the season. It looks like he is a find that will fill the gap that has been apparent in the local line-up.

With the pitching position filled the Morehead team should go places. They have what is considered the pick of the league when it comes to the other positions in the field. Eads, by the way is the kind of pitcher who takes the game seriously. He took care of himself and used considerable headwork in his mound stuff Sunday. He refused to extend himself, taking care of the situation while eating them up. That he has the goods is evidenced by the fact that the Owingsville club managed to get three hits off his delivery, two of them being of the "scratch variety."

Stumbo or Stumbo? Flemingsburg has a novel situation to face. In Sunday's game the score keeper yelled "Stumbo at bat" and almost the entire Flemingsburg team jumped up and started for the plate.

The reason was simple. Seven members of the team answer to the name of "Stumbo". We have learned whether or not they are all brothers. Maybe it is a case of the Dionne quintuplets only more so.

College Team To Begin Practice

Baseball practices will begin on Monday of next week and will be held three days each week with the first game scheduled for May 10. Coach Downing has some good material lined up for the brief schedule that has been arranged which includes five games. No more are planned to be scheduled as the present arrangement takes them up to May 25. As exams are held the following week, other games will not be scheduled, although Morris Harvey and Alfred Holtbrook colleges are both asking for games.

The following is the schedule: May 10 — Wesleyan College at Winchester.

May 14 — Eastern at Richmond.

May 17 — Wesleyan College here.

May 22 — Transylvania here.

May 25 — Eastern Teachers, here.

By arranging the baseball practice held three days a week, the college authorities have made room to sandwich in the soft ball league which will include about sixteen teams. These games will be played on the other three days of the week. The plan on playing at least two games each day on these three days and will finish the soft ball league season at about the same time the baseball season closes.

Probably the most interesting boxing match of the evening, from the point of view of the local fans will be that in which two local boys tangle, "Concrete" Cassidy will whale away at Elwood Dillon in a feature bout. Elwood weighs around two hundred and Arch is well, Concrete. It will be worth the price of admission to see this encounter alone.

In addition to the above, there will be several preliminary events that will make up the balance of a well balanced program.

Faculty Members Recover Proficiency After Examinations And Down Y Volley Ball Team

In the third and final clash between the volley ball teams of the Y. M. C. A. and the faculty, the sportsmanlike but inconsistent Y-boys went down to defeat Monday night of the past week in Brockridge gymnasium. This was the third time that these teams have met, the teachers' winning the first time and the Y-boys the second.

The second evening, being immediately after the mid-semester week-long averages and recording grades found the teachers very much in need of exercise, but far below their usual high standard of athletic proficiency. The result was an easy victory for the Y-boys.

A GOOD SEASON

It begins to look as if the Morehead team would have a successful season under the management of Bob Day and Claude Clayton in spite of the poor start and prospect of poor support. With the team rounding into shape there is every hope that the locals will put on a good show and be well up with top when the play-off series rolls around.

The crowd Sunday was a fair example of the results of winning ball. The boys just about broke even on the season so far, according to reports and if they can do that under the handicap they have had, they should have no particular worries.

However, baseball fans should remember that it takes money to run a baseball club and that if they want a team the best way to show it is to patronize the team and make it possible for them to pay expenses.

Speaking of Stumbo on the Flemingsburg team, they do not have much on the Taylors on the Morehead College football squad. Judging from the number of squanders by name, they should be able to keep the equipment from showing too many rents and tears.

There are four Taylors on the squad and they are all stout fellows. Meet Joe Taylor, Meet Sherman Taylor, Meet Herman Taylor (no relation to Sherman), and meet Homer (Bull) Moses Taylor. They are the Taylors boys who fear nothing. And they are all out for the squad in spring practice.

Morehead Team Reverses Form In Sunday's Game To Even Standing

The Morehead Pirates showed over two runs in the seventh inning to break up a pitcher's battle between Eads and Feedback and downed Owingsville, 3 to 1, in a Kentucky State League battle, here, last Sunday. This victory gave the Pirates an even break in league play, to date, as they bowed to Mt. Sterling a week ago in their opening day contest.

The Pirates appeared in million-dollar form and committed but one error a surprising strength at bat in the field. They also demonstrated they found Feedback, one of the most effective hurlers in the Kentucky League last season, for six hits.

Eads, a former Middle Atlantic League hurler making his debut with Morehead, led Owingsville to two hits and drove in one run himself with a rousing double in the second inning.

Bob Day, at first base, led the Pirates in hitting with a double and a single and also turned in an errorless performance in the field. Feedback, Owingsville's sensational southpaw, pitched courageous ball to hold the Pirates to six hits, but lack of support from his team mates, in field and at bat, contributed to his downfall.

Owingsville scored first on a walk and Davson's double in the first half of the second inning but the Pirates came back in the same inning to tie the score as Day doubled and Eads drove him in with another two bagger. The Pirates threatened again in the third on successive singles by Ryan and Day but Feedback tightened up and struck out stages for the last out. Owingsville came back with one out in the fourth, as Rusey, Owingsville catcher, reached first on a fielder's choice and Feedback advanced him to third with a spilling infield single but this rally was nipped as Owingsville's first sacker, Combs, hit a weak infield roller and was out at first works then Fowler advanced he tried to steal home.

The Pirates won the ball game with two runs in the last of the seventh. Fraley singled to start the first works then Fowler advanced him to second on another single. Manager Clayton sacrificed to send Fraley to third and Fowler followed him a few moments later as Carter flied to Thompson. Eads, aided by some brilliant fielding by the Pirates outfield held Owingsville hitless through the rest of the game.

Much of the time has been spent in drilling on fundamentals but few plays being given out. "An effort will be made to divide the squads as evenly as possible so far as strength is concerned and the game is expected to be one full of interest."

Coach Downing is very well pleased with the progress that has been made in the practices up to date.

College Features Glamorous Star

The ready response of the public to a new and impelling star personality is as inspiring to the film producer, one might say, as the discovery of a new continent by an explorer. The quick and enthusiastic acceptance of Jessie Matthews by the picture-going-public was just as exciting as to Gauting to the film officials was the arrival of Gerta Garbo, Charlie Chaplin or Marlene Dietrich to their fortunate sponsors. Miss Matthews' ability to excel in singing and dancing, as well as acting, coupled with her odd mixture of charm and glamour stirred her discoveries to dream of attaining Olympian heights with her array of talents.

Consequently it was with a certain amount of confidence that Gauting British embarked upon an exceptional expenditure and lavishness in the preparation of her ambitious vehicle, "Evergreen" which is to be the offering on Friday, April 26 at the College Theatre. For one night, it comes to the Theatre following a triumphant engagement at the world famous Radio City Music Hall.

Russell Presents Musical Romance

In his first job in pictures, W. S. Van Dyke, famous director of "Naughty Marietta," played twenty different roles in twenty different muckups!

This was disclosed during the filming of the new Jeanette MacDonald Nelson Eddy musical spectacle, coming to the Russell Theatre, Sun. and Mon.-April 28 and 29, with Walter Long arriving to play the pirate chief.

Long, who was on the stage with "Van's" mother, and later went with D. W. Griffith, got Van Dyke, then a boy, a job in "intolerance." He played twenty different characters ranging from a Roman soldier to an Abyssinian slave, later Long.

The musical picture, based on Victor Herbert's famous musical romance, is a spectacular romance of Creole days in New Orleans.

ABOUT TOWN

There has been considerable delay in arranging for the needed rights-of-way due to the fact that several of the property owners have not thus far agreed to give the highway department the necessary deeds. It is hoped that these property owners will fall in line with the rest of the owners of Main street and permit the federal and state government to continue the work, which not only provides a suitable street for a growing town, but furnishes work to men who need it as well.

LACK OF NEWS

To get on a paper without a story of one of more robberies being perpetrated in Morehead. Several men were held up at the point of a gun and forced to turn over their money. Bishop's Drug Store, Benson's, the I. G. A. Bays Jewelry store, the Big Store, almost weekly they were visited and their stock stolen. Either the gang has been broken up or they are having less awaiting an opportune time to resume their activities. At any rate none of these places has been bothered lately.

It will be remembered that Battison's Drug Store was broken into twice and robbed within a few months of each other. Bishop's, also broken into once and held up once. A few weeks later Sam Allen was held up on his way home from his store on Railroad Street. The Caudill Grocery Company was not injured.

There were only a few of the series of robberies that took place during one year.

Is Rowan county assuming a more friendly attitude toward law and abiding? Or - Are we sitting around waiting for an explosion that will demonstrate that there is always a calm before the storm and a more friendly attitude toward law and abiding? Or -

Are we sitting around waiting for an explosion that will demonstrate that there is always a calm before the storm and a more friendly attitude toward law and abiding? Or -

Officials hope, they are marvelling over the present state of affairs, but they are happy to be able to marvel. They are not sorry that the law breakers are cut down on their apparently things are on the up and up.
