General Taylor's Reception at New Orlean The patriotic inhabitants of the Crescen City, are making the most magnificent pre parations for the reception of the hero of the parations for the reception of the hero of the Rio Grande. A committee has been ap pointed by the different Municipalities to wait upon him. The New Orleans Legion was to be called out, and the greatest anxie ty existed in the public mind, for the hou when he should step again upon the shores of his beloved Louisiana. Gen'l Taylor's modesty would shrink from such public manifestations of enthusiastic almiration and respect, if it were possible to consult his taste alone. But this cannot be; and he cannot no more avoid them, (except by the most perfect seclusion) than the American e can repress the feeling, which gives birth. The very plainness and direct people m hirth. ness of his character, averse from every thing like ostentatious display, while they would doubtless incline him to avoid, will
