I. E. Pelfrey Resigns Position To Enter County Judge Race

Board Member Gives Up Job; Term Was To Expire This Year

NEW REGULATION IS PASSED AT MEETING

Teachers Required To Have Health Certificates From County Physician

I. E. Pelfrey tendered his resignation as a member of the Rowan County Board of Education at the regular meeting held Monday, June 7.

County Health Doctor T. A. E. Evans appeared and urged them to pass rules and regulations requiring teachers to secure health certificates before permitting them to teach school in the Rowan County School System. Dr. Evans assured the Board of the cooperation of the Health Department and asked them for a small contribution for the upkeep of the health unit of Rowan County.

The Board passed the following resolution in regard to teachers:

"That all teachers will be required to secure a health certificate signed by the Health Officer of the Rowan County Board of Health, before the opening of school in the fall of 1937-38. Failure to do this would render their contract with the Board void."

This motion was passed in accordance with Rule 64 in the Health Laws of Kentucky and sections 2049, 2047 A-1 Kentucky Statutes.

There was also a motion passed that children found to have contagious or infectious diseases be excluded from school until they could present health certificates signed by the Health Officer of Rowan County or a reputable physician.

The census report of the school year of 1937-38 compiled by the Attendance Officer was presented to the Board. The report showed an increase of 600 pupils over the census of last year. The report was accepted and confirmed by the Board.

Salversville Will Dedicate Building

Modern School Will Be Formally Opened On Friday, June 11

Plans have been made for the Dedication, June 11, of a modern up-to-date school building in Salversville, Ky. It is recognized as one of the finest school buildings in Eastern Kentucky. Construction was done through the PWA, costing over $163,000. The structure is of brick and native stone, consisting of a modern classroom building, an auditorium and gymnasium combined. One of the largest crowds ever to assemble in the school of Salversville is expected for this occasion.

George H. Sager, Jr., PWA Administrator for Kentucky, Dr. Frank L. McVey, President of the University of Kentucky, and H. W. Peters, Superintendent of Public Instruction, will take part in the Dedication Program. Preceding the dedication exercises there will be a parade of the Salversville Schools led by the Salversville High School Band.

The outstanding feature of the day will be an informal gathering of native sons and daughters of Magoffin County who will return and renew old acquaintances and share in the celebration of the occasion. This information was given by Dean Judd, who will begin at 9:30 a. m. in the high school auditorium. Everybody is invited to attend.

'Kentucky's System of Government Is Universally Copied, Chandler Declares

"Kentucky's present system of government is being studied by every state in the Union and copied by the Federal Administration," declared Governor A. B. Chandler in a 30 minute address to the graduating class of the Morehead State Teachers College here Thursday morning.

The Governor, making his first public appearance here since he was elected to Kentucky's highest office told how the State budget had been balanced, the greatest appropriation in history made for education, the advancement in building and maintaining roads and his plan for the penal, charitable and eleemosynary institutions.

"You are fortunate to live in a state and a nation that are at peace and are progressive," he told the Morehead graduating class. "Your opportunities, as you enter life's struggle, are not limited."

With the background of the training from your Mother's and Father's, plus the education that you have received from the common schools and with a belief in and the help of God you are well fortified to embark upon life," the Governor told the 30 Seniors.

In opening his address Governor Chandler said that his last visit to Morehead auditorium was a sad one, for it was at the funeral of the late Senator Allie W. Young. "The major portion of the credit for the advancement of education in eastern Kentucky belongs to the distinguished, honest and far-thinking ex-Senator from Rowan County," he said. "It was he who had the vision of this great institution, supported by the state to give the mountain boy and girl an equal opportunity with their neighbors in other sections of Kentucky."

The Governor was introduced by H. K. Babb, president of the Morehead State Teachers College, who presided. Music for the ceremony was furnished by the Foster Choral Club, under the direction of Prof. Lewis H. Horton and the College Orchestra, directed by Prof. Keith Davis.

Degrees were conferred by President H. A. Babb to the following: Sanford Adams, Whitesburg, Ky.; Clyde Wilcox, Albany, Meigs, Ky.; Jethro Ammons, Coyle, Ky.; Harold Francis Blain, Morehead, Ky.; Mabel Eblevin, Mt. Sterling, Ky.; Clarice Breeding, Morehead, Ky.; Mae Carter, Morehead, Ky.; Alma Riddell Coyle, Owensville, Ky.; Shirley Jacqueline DeBorbo, Louisville, Ky.; Dorothy Williams, Whitesburg, Ky.; Sylvia Graham, Cherokee, Ky.; Sally Jane Haydon, Wilmore, Ky. Commission Warns Retail Merchants Of Tax Deadline

July 1 Is Last Day To Secure Kentucky Permits For Operating Stores

The Department of Revenue announced today that store license applications for the year 1937-38 are being mailed to all persons required to procure such licenses. It is the duty of the Department, and advised that such applications would be considered a request for payment, which must be made on or before July 1, 1937.

The law requires all merchants to secure a 1937-38 store license by July 1. Single store units are required to pay $2 dollars license tax. The tax is graduated as the number of stores under one management increases. A 20 per cent penalty is applicable to delinquent payments.

Assistant Attorney General J. W. Jones recently ruled that manufacturers were not subject to the Kentucky store license tax. In his opinion, he pointed out that the court distinguished between manufacturers and merchants. The Kentucky license was imposed upon merchants only. However, a manufacturer is liable for tax if he sells merchandise he himself does not manufacture.

Chandler Outlines Program For State Penal Institution

Kentucky Will Spend Millions On Eleemosynary And Charitable Construction

A broad program for the care and cure of the wards of the State, including a complete overhauling of the physical plant where they are in custody, was announced this week by Governor A. B. Chandler.

The construction program the Governor has coupled a definite curative plan—probation, training and parole for the law-breakers, and intensive treatment for the mentally-ill.

An adequate physical plant will be invested in, in general, within a year, the Governor said. The addition will include enlargement of the Edyville Penitentiary, construction of a new prison in Oldham County, and a new hospital near Herrington Lake.

Even those additions may not be enough, said the Governor, when the entire property used for the care of the 12,000 lawbreakers, mentally-ill, and insane, is made intelligible, was looked at as one plant, it obviously was inadequate.

The three plants' physical plant will be closely studied, under the Governor's plan, with further overhauling provided at the Institute for the Feeble-Minded and the Kentucky Houses of Reform if the need is demonstrated. State starts its efforts to restore the State erect a super-structure for the care of many of its wards.

"Take the problem of lawbreakers, for instance," he said. "The State problem begins when the offender is convicted. The State starts its efforts to restore the offender to society immediately, under the probation system. Probation is new in Kentucky, having been enacted as a State policy at the beginning of the present Administration. Governor Chandler sponsored it seven years ago when he was State Senator, but the legislative body turned it down.

F. D. R. Says Court Bill Will Pass In Senate And House

Nation's Leader Criticizes Justices For Not Deciding Important Controversies

DECLARES NATION IS READY FOR CHANGES

Tennessee Valley Authority One of Measures That Has Not Been Passed On

President Roosevelt criticized the Supreme Court this week on the ground that it is leaving important administration cases undecided while it takes a four-month vacation.

Asserting that there was no question that his reorganization bill would pass at this session of Congress, he told a press conference that the people are growing impatient with quick decisions on cases of major public interest.

His decisions, he thought, should be handed down in six months at a maximum. By contrast, he said, under present practices cases go unsettled for periods ranging up to three years and sometimes even longer.

While Robinson busied himself with the Cabinet reorganization bill, Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Senators in charge of two other measures on the reorganization bill. Mr. Roosevelt classified last night as "desirable."

He talked about the farm tenancy situation with Senator Charles McNary, Democrat, of Alabama, and about housing the slum clearance with Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York. Other items on the list were the court bill, tax evasion and labor standards.

The President told his press conference he had consulted the law covering the times at which the Supreme Court must meet. It stipulated that one term each year beginning in October, with the court left free to decide when to meet.

When it adjourned last Tuesday until next October, he said, it postponed until fall decisions on the Securities Exchange Commission. The fourth he did not name.

Worksheets Must Be Filed June 12

County Agent Urges Farmers To Make Applications Immediately

June 12 has been set as the final date for preparation of worksheets to participate in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program.

Farmers who have not prepared worksheets by June 12, for their farms and who were not in the 1936 program will not be able to take advantage of the Conservation Program this year. There are 666 farmers eligible for the program and many are expected to become eligible by preparing worksheets this week.

A worksheet is a statement of how the farm has been operated in 1936 and during the past few years. From this data the County Committee will assign soil depletion bases and a soil conservation plan to the farm. These bases are used to calculate payments for soil building practices and other improvements that lead to soil conservation.

Committeemen Will Be Elected In June

Meetings will be held on June 15 and 16 for the election of committeemen of the Rowan County Agricultural Conservation Association. The Committeemen elected are to serve for the year beginning on June 1, 1937.

RURAL FIRE LOSS HIGH

According to Managing Director Franklin H. Wentworth of the National Fire Protection Association, one of the most serious phases of the fire problem is the continued high aggregate losses in rural and small town districts.

Various causes are put forward for these losses, and intensive work is being done by stock fire insurance companies, fire prevention organizations, and the U. S. Department of Commerce in seeking to reduce them. It is pointed out, for example, that there has been a phenomenal spread in the use of electricity in farming districts, and this has brought with it a need for an electrical inspection routine to achieve the results regular inspection achieves in cities. A model state law covering inspections is now being framed, and should be adopted by all states.

Carelessness with smoking materials is naturally one of the worst county hazards. Little can be done to reduce the damage caused, unless the individual smoker firmly realizes his responsibility—and also realizes that it is in his own interest to be unremittently careful. Too much effort cannot be given to correcting this evil.

An interesting experiment in another field is being conducted by a group of middle western stock fire insurance companies. These concerns are offering reduced rates on farm property where there is a local water supply, a telephone and a rural fire department adequately organized and equipped.

All of this work is gradually bearing fruit. And in the meantime, farmers and rural dwellers should make "personal fire prevention" an unending goal. Country fires get out of hand far more easily than city fires. Their menace to property and life is greater. And the finest campaign to reduce losses ever planned by experts, will be useless unless every individual takes an interest and does his part.

HAMSTRINGING THE RAILWAYS

"The people of this country should understand what is involved in the bill now before the Senate to limit the length of railway trains to seventy cars," says the Indianapolis Star. "The bill curbed the representation that it is a safety measure, although two Federal courts have ruled that it is not."

"Nevada and Arizona enacted laws to limit trains to seventy cars. The excuse in both cases was that such a regulation would tend to prevent accidents. The court in the Nevada case said: 'The frequency of train and train service accidents is directly related to the number of trains units operated and when more train units are run than are necessary, to handle a given amount of traffic the hazard of accident in handling such traffic is correspondingly increased.'"

"The court held in the Arizona case: 'We are convinced from the evidence that the law bears no reasonable relation to safety of persons and property...'"

"Long trains and improved equipment have actually contributed to the safety of railway employees, according to records."

"The proposed train bill aims to force the railway companies to operate a larger number of trains... It is elemental that the larger the number of trains going over grade crossings the greater the likelihood of accident to highway traffic."

"It is estimated that the passage of the measure, which is Senate Bill 200, would increase the operating costs of the railways by $80,000,000 a year... for train crews that are not needed. The burden would be saddled onto the companies on the specious theory that safety would be promoted."

MEDICINE WORSE THAN DISEASE

During their current sessions, legislatures in 29 states have been asked to consider bills which would compel motor vehicle owners to take out bodily injury liability insurance. No one quarrels with the intent of this kind of legislation. It is intended to give a practical and certain means of redress to persons injured in motor vehicle accidents. There are many cases on record, according to the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, where lack of some public protection against the accident victim has worked a hardship on innocent parties and their dependents.

Nevertheless, the compulsory automobile insurance law has not proven a remedy. It fails to accomplish in practice what it promises in theory, as ten years of experience has shown to the people of Massachusetts—the only state where such a law exists. In the Bay State, motorists complain of the high cost of liability insurance; in many cases it is from 50 to 100 per cent higher than formerly. Insurance companies point to the excessive cost and frequency of claims. Bookkeeping is faked, fraudulent and exaggerated claims are made.

Moreover, an improvement in the accident record, contemplated by the law, has failed to materialize. The opposite, if anything, is true! Under a system where all vehicles must be insured and where outside influences rather than business judgment control the acceptance or rejection of questionable risks, the reckless driver does not fear an inability to secure insurance.

Indeed, in the opinion of authorities, the compulsory automobile liability insurance law has created if evils more abuses far greater than those it sought to correct. The medicine has been worse than the disease.

SUMMER FIRE HAZARDS

The advent of each season brings special fire hazards. Now that summer is here, due precaution should be taken by property owners against the dangers that follow cessation of rain, and the arrival of dry, warm days.

Some of the worst fires have started in vacant, grassy lots. Uncut, dry grass can almost explode into flame at the touch of a match or spark. It is essential to community safety that adequate laws control the care of grass—and that these laws be enforced. Farmers and others living outside of town should be no less zealous in reducing this hazard.

During good weather homes are cleaned and renovated. Great amounts of trash must be disposed of, often by burning. Here is still another source of destructive fire. The burning operation should take place only in a metal container of adequate size and under constant supervision.

In addition, there is an excellent time for using forethought to the end that our homes may be safer from fire next winter. Before fall comes, every furnace should be inspected and repairs and replacements made where necessary. A few dollars spent in this fashion now may save thousands—and prevent a family from losing its lives.

Finally, no matter what you do or where you go, be ever awake to the peril of fire. Do you like to drive in parks and forests? Then remember that carelessness with fire has destroyed more trees than man ever cut for a useful purpose. Have you a most beautiful picnic spot? Then bear in mind that the most beautiful place nature ever devised can become an eyecore in a few short minutes if fire strikes.

HOW THE DICTATORS WORK

Late news from Italy shows how the minds of dictators work. To quote an A. P. dispatch of May 9, "Fascist Italy, angered by printed jeers at the prowess of Italian fighters in Spain, virtually broke off press relations with Great Britain today." Official order recalled all Italian correspondents from London, and banned all but three English newspapers from Italy.

This dictatorship achieves its ends by keeping its people in darkness, and shutting them away from any knowledge, any facts, any opinion which may suggest that the man or the party in power is less than perfect. Under various dictatorship the right to vote in free and honest elections has been taken from the people. The right of free speech has been taken from them. The right of free assembly has been taken from them. The right to open trial by jury has been taken from them. The right of a free press has been taken from them.

Between the United States and such tyranny stands the Constitution—a living document, reasonably interpreted by uncontrolled, non-political judges. We must continually be on our guard lest, in our eagerness for seeming advantage, we unknowingly sacrifice the liberties for which millions of men fought during centuries of bloody history.

BUILT ON SOUND PRINCIPALS

Not so many years ago agricultural producer cooperatives were in their infancy, so far as any widespread influence was concerned. They were eyed with suspicion, and it was believed in many quarters that their chance for success was slight.

Today producer cooperatives, which dispose of agricultural crops at wholesale to established distributors and retailers, are an essential part of the agricultural world. They are almost universally approved by farmers, consumers, industry and government.

Reason for their growth and rise is a simple one. They have been built on sound business principles. They continue to operate in a business-like manner, with capable executives, careful cost accounting, and without asking subsidies or special favors. The cooperatives which have not lost sound principles in mind have failed—a failure which was foredoomed from their inception. The sound cooperatives have gone ahead, until today millions of farmers are represented on their ever-growing membership rolls.

FRIEND OF GOOD HEALTH

One of the most notable services of the life insurance industry to the American people, has been its work in raising the standards of public health. The institution as a whole has always taken an active interest in both preventative and curative medicine.

A feature of the forthcoming American Life Convention will be lectures by authorities concerning medicine and surgery in its relation to insurability and prognosis.

Many a person, on applying for insurance, has been refused because of a liability of which he knew nothing, in time to prevent it reaching the incurable stage. Others have learned, through insurance counsel and advertising, the dangers of implicit in home medication, and the wisdom of visiting competent physicians when symptoms first appear. Life insurance is the friend of good health and human longevity.

CANADA WANTS CORN HUSKS TO CLEAN FURS

An inquiry from the Belgian Congo for the purchase of American-made fishing nets, reels, and lines for deep sea fishing is included among the foreign trade opportunities just received by the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce.

American-bred Angora goats are wanted in Colombia; bathroom scales are inquired for from Czechoslovakia; Canada wants to purchase granulated corn husks for cleaning furs; an opportunity exists in the Dominion Republic for the sale of folding paper boxes for shoes.

Guessing at any soil practice is never advisable, notes a statement from the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Farmers are advised to make sure to what extent they have a lime problem. This can be done by applying a small strip across the field and measuring the results in crop yields; or it can be done by applying an acidity test to samples of the soil.

MORE FOREIGN TRADE DATA NOW AVAILABLE

Additional data which may be of much value to business in the Louisville trading area have been added to the services which the Louisville office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce provides. Through the efforts of S. M. Saufley, Louisville district manager, business men of this area—for the first time since 1892—are in a position to be informed currently of the quantities and values of the various commodities shipped in foreign trade to the Louisville customs district.

The chief value of imports by classification was $19,369 for imports of inedible vegetable products, except fibers and woods, including cigar and cigarette leaf tobacco from Cuba, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Turkey and the United Kingdom; various seeds such as red clover, mangel-wurzel, orchard grass, spinach, kale, flower and radish from France, Denmark, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom.

U. S. VISITORS TO MEXICO WANT U. S. CIGARETTES Mexican cigarette receipts were practically all from the United States and noted an increase of about 50 per cent during the first 11 months of 1936, as compared with the year 1935, says a report to the Department of Commerce.

PIANOS

No doubt you will remember we had a piano selling campaign in and around Morehead some few months ago. During that time we sold one small upright and one small "Baby Grand," that must be reclaimed because of non-payment and no intentions to fulfill contract. If you are interested in my transferring these accounts to you for the small balance due please write me care of Ventura Hotel, Ashland, Ky., at once, stating which one you are interested in.

These pianos are Kimball made and carry our full guarantee. No finance Co. to deal with. Just enough down to cover handling charge and 3 years to pay the balance. Please write at once as my time is limited in this territory.

Chandler Outlines Program For State

(Continued from Page 1) longer risks making hardened criminals out of first offenders if there is any opportunity of restoring the offender to a worthy niche in society," the Governor declared.

"Kentucky is trying the probation system as a method of restoring many first-offenders. It is well-drawn law, and in a year of its operation, it has worked well. Decision as to who will be given another chance is made by local authorities; supervision over the probationed men is carried on by the State. That is an ideal set-up.

"From a financial viewpoint alone the probation system is worthwhile. It is less costly to supervise the life of an offender.

than to keep him in custody. With the increasing scope of governmental service for the people, it is prudent to be economical whenever possible. But the significant feature of probation is that it helps offenders become respectable citizens in such a large number of instances.

"The next step in the effort to restore lawbreakers to respectable citizenship should commence when the lawbreaker enters prison. The prisoner should be put to work. If at the same time the State can prepare him for a better chance to earn an honest living when he leaves, it should give him that preparation."

In Picture "Silent Barriers" Which Opens Summer Program At College

For the official opening of the summer season at the College the offering is a tremendous dramatic spectacle entitled "Silent Barriers" and featuring Richard Arlen and Lili Palmer.

The story deals with the building of the Canadian Pacific Railroad. The battles fought to construct the gigantic enterprise from coast to coast, in the face of dissension and financial crises in the board room with steamer opposition from mountain and swamp at the rail head makes the show compare with the great epic features treating the conquest of the American continent. The real drama lies in the wilds of the Canadian country, where the railroad settlement, filled with rough and riotous workmen, while a party seeks a pass through the Rockies provide plenty of thrills and adventure.

WILLIAM JOYCE COWEN'S THEY GAVE HIM A GUN

THE STORY THIS FAR: Determined to slay out of the war because it is none of his business, Fred Willis, hard-boiled young circus barker, impulsively changes his mind after talking to a couple of young recruits in training camp he carries to the barracks Jimmy Davis, a sensitive, high-strung chap who faints during bayonet practice. Jimmy wants to run away, but Fred prevents him from doing so.

CHAPTER TWO

Fred watched the changes in Jimmy during the next few weeks with mixed feelings of amusement and surprise. He had learned to use a bayonet with a cold, machine-like intensity and he fired a rifle as though he had been brought up in a drillmaster's family.

and motioned to the corporal next in command. "You'll 'round past the church," he said. "We'll have to flank those fellows." Within five minutes the sergeant's own platoon had been steeled for action. A hand was raised... the signal given... the men charged.

And the inevitable day came when they were sent into action against the long-stemmed German line.

Finally his eyes went upward. They remained glazed on a figure in a German uniform, perched above the bells, inside the little steeple. Fastened to the enemy's arm by a sling was a dully glinting machine gun barrel on one of the roof-tips. He whirled, away.

On the housetop directly below crouched a crew of eight German machine gunners. They were handling a pair of guns, and it was the destructive fire from these weapons that had wiped out the Americans as they advanced.

Jimmy had become an unerring marksman during his months of drill practice. He raised his gun through a tiny hole in the lattice, took careful aim and fired. One man toppled over, while the others looked about wildly.

A second man fell, and a third. The German squadron had now spotted the direction of fire, and frantically tried to turn one of the machine guns that way. Jimmy laughed, slipped a new charge into his magazine, and fired twice more. Only three men were left. They raised their hands.

with mud, Fred made his way into the barracks field hospital. A smartly dressed colonel entered through the other door at the same moment, and Rose eyed him. "This hospital is for stretcher cases only," she said, "You'll find the dressing station down the road."

And the inevitable day came when they were sent into action against the long-stemmed German line.

"No Davis so far," said Rose, coolly consulting her list. "Please stand aside." "Say, gorgeous, you don't have to be so tough about it!" answered Fred. "An orderly noisily entered. He gave Rose some identification papers. She glanced at Fred as a stretcher followed.

"Fred understood from her look that it was Jimmy. He stood speechless and speechless, as Rose beckoned to a doctor at the door and hurried inside with the stretcher.

Knowing that further appeal to Rose would be futile, Fred waited until another nurse had come on duty. She was tall, a bit rangy, had a good-felloried smile, and her name was Saxe.

"Say could you park me someplace just for a little while?" he begged. "Park you?" she echoed, puzzled. "Yeah, the military police are gunnin' for me, and they shoot on sight."

I've got to be near him, don't you see? You've got to keep me here somewhere, just until—" There was no mistaking his earnestness, and Saxe was swayed by it. She rose, led him to a clothes hamper inside the nurses' corridor, and closed the door behind him. Fred sank down and prepared to keep his vigil, while Jimmy was fighting for his life.

9,012 SMOKES IN FOREST SINCE JANUARY FIRST

Forest Supervisor R. F. Hemmings today announced that a report received by him from the District Rangers on the Cumberland National Forest revealed that 9,012 smokes have been discovered and reported since January 1 by the twenty-one lookout towers on the Forest. Of this number 690 of smokes 126 proved to be fires which were suppressed by the National Forest Fire-Fighting Organization.

Before the opening of the fire season all the residents on the Cumberland National Forest were contacted by forest patrolmen under the employment of the U. S. Forest Service. A total of 6,271 of these residents reported either to fire towers, CCC camps, or Forest officers the time they intended to burn their property during the spring fire season. 690 of fires has been kept relatively low as these people have cooperated as well by notifying the Forest Service when they would burn areas endangering timber lands.

The total number of fires up until June 1, 1937 is only about 40 per cent of the total number on the same date in 1936. An intensive program of education through exhibits, motion pictures, talks, literature and through law enforcement and the fine cooperation of a large number of residents has done much to make this marked progress possible. It is the aim of the Forest Service to eliminate all man-caused fires on the National Forest, which in turn will mean the possibility of producing timber, protecting water sheds, furnishing homes and food for wild life and making the forest more attractive to local people and tourists seeking recreation.

U. S. HAS TREMENDOUS CANADIAN INVESTMENT

British and foreign capital investments in the Dominion of Canada at the end of 1936 are estimated at approximately $8,877,000,000, with a capital from the United States estimated at $3,956,000,000 and Great Britain accredited with $2,824,000,000, according to a report to the Louisville district office of the Department of Commerce.

Canadian capital investment abroad are estimated at approximately $2,165,000,000 which $1,357,000,000 is placed in the United States.

SPRING SEASON CANDY SALES UP 10 PER CENT

Sales of candy in the United States for the first four months of 1937 amounted to $84,500,000 compared with $76,500,000 for the corresponding months of 1936, according to reports to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department.

Manufacturing confectioners selling their products through wholesale channels more than accounted for this increase in 1937 sales over 1936.

The largest increases were reported from concerns located in the Middle and South Atlantic Coast States, the North Central States, and the Pacific Coast areas.

Highway Heads Bid On Highway

A syndicate, headed by Blyth and Company Chicago, was the successful bidder for the $21,000-000 Kentucky Bridge Revenue Bonds, project 12, issued by the State Highway Department for the purchase of the C. & O. Bridge over the Ohio River between Covington and Cincinnati. The sealed bids were opened Tuesday morning, June 2 by Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys and the letting was made immediately after the announcement of the high bid.

The successful bid for the bonds, which will be issued in denominations of $1,000 each, was for 2 1/2% plus accrued interest in addition to a premium of $21,840. Four other concerns including a syndicate headed by Harris Hall Company, Chicago; Altmstedt and Company, Chicago; Bancamerica-

Blair, New York, and Otis and Company, Cleveland, Ohio, bid for the bonds. The bonds mature on July 1, 1947.

Negotiations for the bridge, which was owned by the Covington and Cincinnati Elevated Railroad and Transfer and Bridge Company, were completed last month with the state paying $2,100,000 for the span. The bridge will be taken over by the state on or before June 11, it was recently announced.

By virtue of the purchase the Commonwealth now owns two important bridges over the Ohio River in the Cincinnati area. It has owned the Newport-Cincinnati bridge for several years.

TO BUILD BIRD HOUSES

A well-built bird house is durable, rain-proof, cool, and permits easy cleaning. Wood is the best building material. Paint greatly improves the weathering property. Brown, gray or dull green is frequently preferred.

As a rule, houses should be low, not in dense woods, on poles rather than in trees, and with the opening away from the prevailing winds. Many of Kentucky's 4-11 club members feel that as birds keep down insect life, it pays to build houses for them. Those who want more definite instructions should obtain Farmers' Bulletin No. 1456, "Homes for Birds," from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Owing to the increasing preference for cigarettes on the part of German tobacco consumers, factory consumption of cigarette tobacco is showing an upward trend. Most remarkable in Mexican tobacco export statistics is the sharp decline during the year 1936 in cigarette and cut cigar exports, as compared with -235.

made by dragging a log or keg back and forth in a furrow.

Another pest to appear this spring was the seed corn maggot, which destroyed seed when germination was delayed by cold weather. Farmers were obliged to replant in several sections of the state.

Blue mold, a disease of tobacco plant beds that did much damage in more southern states this spring, was found in a large number of Kentucky counties, but apparently reached the state too late to do much damage. Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist, predicted it would not reduce the acreage of tobacco this year.

As a precaution against carrying blue mold over to next year, Dr. Valleau advises farmers to mow their plant beds when thru setting, cover them with straw or other material and burn them.

COLD, WET SPRING FAVORS FARM PESTS

The cold and wet weather of the early spring is blamed by experts at the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station at Lexington for the appearance of several farm pests.

The latest threat is the army worm, well known to many farmers because of its destruction in 1921. It appeared first this spring in Union county, where it also was found first in 1931. Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist, advised farmers to examine their small grain and grass and spray infested areas before the caterpillar should begin to march in fields. Once it starts to march, it can be checked by dust furrows

Meeting Daily Needs

Everyone has daily needs, and in many cases they are numerous. Thus, everywhere people are engaged in devising ways and means of meeting these needs.

Food, clothing, and shelter are generally considered to be the most important daily necessities. Throughout the ages, humanity has worked to cultivate the soil for crops, to weave material for clothing, to build homes for shelter and repose and ships for transportation. These and other methods of supplying the needs of mankind are constantly being increased in scope. In their turn the world's busy workers receive payment with which to buy these necessities.

But sometimes this so-called law does not seem to be working properly. On the one hand there appears to be unemployment, stagnation of trade, poverty; and on the other, such a surplus of food that there is no longer any demand for the supply with which to rent from houses or lands, may bring a sense of insecurity and even, at times lack to the one who has relied on a settled income for the supply with which to meet his needs. In this maelstrom of material living everyone needs to find a reliable source of support, one which cannot possibly fail, because its basis is neither material or limited.

In that most wonderful of all sermons, the Sermon on the Mount, our Way-shower Christ Jesus, said (Matthew 6:24), "No man can serve two masters," clearly showing that we cannot put our reliance on matter and material methods and still avail ourselves of the true and enduring substance which does not fail. Illustrating the need for simple trust in God he said (Matthew 6:26): "Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet our heavenly Father feedeth them." Evidently the Master discerned humanity's fear of limitation and the consequent anxious hoarding of material

"I Said Goodbye to Grey Hair Forever!"

"My hair was faded and streaked with grey. I looked old. I felt old. Now I look and feel young. I owe it all to Clairol. In one simple 3-in-1 treatment my hair was shampooed, recolored and dried back to the color and luster that was the envy of my girlhood friends."

things. He continued, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and ye shall be added unto you."

The kingdom of heaven, the reign of harmony for each one, is ever at hand, because our Father-Mother, God, the only source of real supply, is omnipotent and omnipresent. No longer, then, need we turn wholeheartedly to God, and realize man's inseparable oneness with Him, with all good, we can be certain that our need will be supplied. We shall begin to see that our real need is to know and demonstrate more and more of our God-given freedom, health, and happiness. Encouraging us along this pathway of right thinking, Mary Baker Eddy says in "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany" (p. 186): "Rest assured that He in whom dwells all life, health and holiness, will supply all your needs, according to His riches in glory."

What unspeakable comfort, and what a loosening of heavy burdens, for all whose family, business or career needs daily care! When one seeks first the constant supply of spiritual ideas, of wisdom, intelligence, loving-kindness, co-operation and purity, through quiet, unselfish contemplation of the spiritual nature of man as the child of God, every right endeavor will be abundantly blessed for the benefit of all.
