DOCKET AND JURY LIST FOR JUNE TERM OF ROWAN CIRCUIT COURT READY; DOCKET IS VERY LIGHT

No Cases of Importance Listed for Trial At Court Opening.

With Circuit Court for the June term meeting on the third Monday of the month, Circuit Court Clerk, Joe McKinney has completed the docket and has issued copies of the jury lists.

Without question, the present docket is the lightest that has ever been before the court, according to Mr. McKinney. The felony docket has very few cases and those that are listed are of minor interest.

The recent killing of Oscar Williams will probably call for an indictment at the session of the Grand Jury, but whether or not the case will be tried at this term is a question.

Below is a partial list of the felony docket, including only the more important cases to be tried. There are other cases on the docket but they are of minor importance.

The following cases are set down for the second day of the term:

John Springer charged with cutting and wounding another.

Earl Dean charged with breaking into a dwelling house.

On the third day the only important case set for trial is that of H. C. Denny and James W. Blankenship charged with obtaining property under false pretenses.

The third day will see the trial of the following:

Richard Smith charged with shooting and wounding another.

DECORATION DAY

Decoration Day, judged by the crowds which visited Morehead for the occasion has come to be a day of family reunions in this section. And why not? Relatives come to spend the day and to unite with other members of the family in paying tribute to the dead of their families. The living visit, the memories in groups and then meet the friends whom they perhaps have not seen for years and renew old acquaintances dropped because of distance.

It was interesting to visit the local cemeteries on Decoration Day, which by the way is not Memorial Day, which comes the Sunday preceding. Little groups were gathered around the various lots and graves, family groups intent on cleaning and decorating the graves of loved ones. Then there would be an interruption while some old friend of the family approached and renewed old acquaintances.

It was a day of sunshine and tears, sunshine for the living who were back years for the first time in many years; tears for the loved ones who made the reunion with the living possible.

OFF AGAIN

The record is broken. No more can we "point with pride" to the fact that for the past six or eight months Rowan county has not suffered from the dread malady of crime or killings. On Saturday of last week the first killing of several months took place here. So unexpected was it, after the period of only minor violations, that even those Morehead was shocked by the know-

Vacation Days End As College Opens

A short vacation between terms at the Morehead State Teachers College this week leaves Morehead in a state of apparent relaxation. The school colony almost to a student has gone home for the week, although many of them will return with the opening of the summer term next Monday.

As the day for the opening approaches the prospects for a greatly increased enrollment for the first summer term remain increasingly bright. Authorities expect upward of a thousand students to be enrolled during the next week. New teachers are being added to the faculty to take care of the expected overflow in the various classes.

Work Praised By Fiscal Court

The Rowan County Fiscal Court at their meeting Saturday approved the work being done by the Rowan County Health Department during the past year and without a dissenting vote, approved the appropriation for the carrying on of the work for the next year. The Fiscal Court desired to extend the appropriation for eighteen months rather than for a year, but owing to the fact that state appropriations are made yearly, it was not possible.

In approving the appropriation, the Fiscal Court praised the work being done by the Health Department under the supervision of Dr. T. A. E. Evans in no uncertain terms. This county appropriation is $500.00 for the year.

Children To Attend First Summer Term

Two ungraded rooms are being opened in the Breckinridge Training School for the first summer term, extending from June 10 to July 15th, and the citizens of Morehead are being asked to send their children to this summer term. The daily meeting time is from 8:20 to 12:00, and the first three grades will be grouped together for their work, and grades four through six will be grouped, with competent and experienced teachers in charge of each of these rooms. If your child needs additional training in any subject so that he may go on with his grade or progress more rapidly next year this will provide that opportunity. There is no tuition charge, and facilities are being provided to take care of at least ten children in each of the grades one through six.

Many Old Timers Meet To Renew Friendships Here

Reunions Of Former Residents Of Community Held Thursday

Decoration Day might have been Old Timers Day in Morehead, judging from the number of former residents who visited in the city on that day. It might well have been called Old Settlers Day.

Among the former residents of this city who returned to celebrate the day were Dr. F. G. Davis of North Judson, Indiana and his brother Rev. W. L. Davis of North Middletown, Kentucky. Dr. Davis lived here about twenty years ago and was a former student of the old Morehead Normal School. His brother was also a former resident. Phil Barfield and his five year old daughter, of Washington, D. C.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a fellow out in the Kansas oil fields that I heard of some about. They say he and his big family wanted to get refined, so they started in trying to live up to their fortune, instead of letting it live up to them. So they kinda hired people to teach them how to be refined and all that.

One day the family was at a picnic, and the neighbors and friends looked at 'em kinda curious. "What's the matter with your faces?" says one of the old neighbors. "All broke out like you was having a challop or something."

"How do you mean, comes with the money?" says the old neighbor. "All broke out like you was having a challop or something."

FIRST READER LESSON

Six little boys met on a highway and began throwing rocks at each other.

Each had his pockets full of stones.

Each little boy was hurt. Everyone was soon bleeding. So they quit for awhile.

But the sixth little boy wouldn't throw away his stones because the fifth one wouldn't.

And the fifth little boy wouldn't throw away his stones because the fourth one wouldn't.

The fourth little boy wouldn't throw his stones away because the third one wouldn't.

The third little boy wouldn't throw his stones away because the second one wouldn't.

The second little boy wouldn't throw away his stones because the first one wouldn't, and the first one wouldn't throw his stones away because the sixth one wouldn't.

So all kept stones in pocket. Whenever they met, a fight generally always occurred. The little boys had such names as France, Germany, England, America, Japan and Italy.

HOW GOOD IS BUSINESS?

How good is business? Outside of those industries which are facing the threat or the existence of strikes, it is doing well and, seasonal changes taken into account, is improving in various basic lines.

Steel production recently stood at 45 per cent of capacity, an encouraging level for this time of year. March sales of passenger cars were 98 per cent ahead of last year—show no sign of diminishing. Chrysler's sales for the first quarter were the highest in its history. Machine tool makers had the best April business in five years, and electrical goods manufacturers are reporting increased orders. Residential construction is exceptionally good, will probably improve with summer.

PREPARING FOR THE NEXT DEPRESSION

The recent observance of Life Insurance Week has focused public attention on an industry which has been of invaluable service to the nation during depression—and which promises to be of still greater service in the future.

Life insurance has paid out hundreds of millions of dollars in the past five years, through matured policies and surrender values. A very large percentage of that money has gone to people who had little else in the way of financial resource. It has prevented untold misery and want. It has stood between thousands of people and utter despair and breakdown of morale. Thus, it has been as splendid and as great a social as an economic influence.

It is a noteworthy fact that life insurance sales have been steadily increasing for the last year or two—even during periods when business was stagnant or retrograding. That can mean but one thing—more of the family budget is today being devoted to life insurance in one or another form than in the past. It is being purchased by the foresighted both as an investment and a protection—and as an assurance that the next depression, if it comes, will not find them without a safe and secure financial rock on which to lean.

It always happens when one driver is in a big car and the other in a revere.

Men watch the clock most when sleeping on the job.

We better give up the things we can't keep for the things we can't lose.

Money buys only the cheaper things.

A snob is one who eats a big meal at noon and calls it lunch and a snack at night and calls it dinner.

"Doctor," began a worried mother, "Betty is complaining again about drinking milk. Does she really need so much?"

"Yes, she does," the doctor replied, "and that isn't just my opinion. We know it is true from countless scientific experiments. The findings have been checked and tested over and over again. Betty is growing. She needs the minerals of milk for her bones. She needs the vitamins to keep her healthy and growing. And we know that most children need the full quart to get their share."

"I know you're right," the mother said, "I'll keep after her."

"No don't keep after her. That may give her a real dislike for milk. Try some digestive instead. Let's see now. There's ice cream and junket; custards and puddings; milk on berries; crackers and milk, cereals, egg-nog. I'm sure you know of many other ways."

"How about cheese? Have you tried that? And perhaps Betty her notice the change if you offer her a glass of cool milk in the middle of the morning and the afternoon instead of at meals."

"I see what you mean, doctor. Thanks, I'll try it."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kasse, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: The Work Of The Holy Spirit. John 16:7-11, Rom 8: 16-17, 26, 27.

GOLDEN TEXT: "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." (Rom. 8:14).

Once while Jesus was here on earth He said to His disciples: "Without me ye can do nothing." Few of us have learned that He meant just that as He said it. But Jesus did mean exactly that and nothing else. Then, when He went away, He told them He would send His Spirit who would act in His place and do the same things He had been doing, except that the Spirit would give them greater revelations and do greater works through them than Jesus Himself had done. So, the Spirit of Jesus is here now doing His office work. What does our lesson teach that He is doing among us?

1. He is here to convict. Conviction is the first work that the Spirit does in the individual heart. Conviction is merely God's revelation to the sinner that he is just; that is, it is God showing the sinner His true self as God sees him, if he could have men convicted for sin we could have men saved from sin. This is a step which no man can take for another. This light most often comes through God's Word, but it is the Spirit's revelation of God's Word and not the intellectual understanding of it. Any man may be made to feel that his sins are wrong and that He should not have done these wrongs, but the Holy Spirit alone can show him that he sins against God most terribly when he fails to believe on the Son of God as Savior. The Holy Spirit will convict men of the sin of unbelief; of the righteousness of God and the sinner's need of it; of the judgment of sin, either in Jesus Christ for us who trust Him or the judgment when the sinner must answer for his own sins. The Holy Spirit alone, through the preaching of the Word, can bring a sinner to a sense of these things.

2. He is here to quicken. To those who realize they are dead in trespasses and sins He brings power to arise from sinfulness and trust the living God for salvation. Only through the help of the Spirit can this be done. Then, when this has been done, the Spirit supplies the life necessary to go on and grow after the fashion of Christ in holiness. Here again is where Christians stray. Much of what we do is not Spirit impelled. We do in our own strength and therefore it is not effective to the ends we intend. If the Spirit dwells in us we are told in the passage from Romans that He shall quicken our mortal bodies. This is not the resurrection from the dead. It is while we are living we shall have power that shall control our bodies to holiness and Christian living. The Spirit shall direct us aright and give us the desire and power to follow. Then will our work be effective to holy ends.

3. The Spirit is here to intercede for us. While we pray, and even when we are not praying, the Spirit of Jesus is here interceding in our behalf. And so much deeper is the spirit of prayer laid upon the Holy Spirit that He intercedes with groanings which cannot be uttered. We have never prayed that way, perhaps, but He does for us. How blessed to know that And His praying is much more effective for us because He knows the mind of God and He prays for us according to the will of God.

Few of those who profess to know Jesus know anything about the Holy Spirit. The churches of today are powerless, and so are individuals, because they work in their own strength and the supernatural powers is unknown. At Pentecost the Holy Spirit moved men to speak and their words were powerful. He has done many times since. But most of us are powerless because the Spirit does not have possession of us.

BY S. S. VAN DINE
Copyright by W. H. Wright

Vance's declaration left us both perturbed and mystified, Markham was the first to speak.

Are you certain Vance? "Maybe you overlooked—"
Oh, no, Vance made a gesture of finality. It shall be there—oh, quite. Some one put it there after I'd examined the chest.

But, who in heavens name? Come, come, Markham, Vance smiled grimly. One doesn't know 'y' know. But I'd say it was the same person who tucked the dagger under the cushion of the chair in which Archer Coe Passed away.

The dagger.
Yes, yes—the dagger. That mystery is at least cleared up—the poker explained that incongruity. The dagger didn't belong in Archer's boudoir. Quite the contrary. Its presence there confused me abominably. Both the poker and the dagger belonged in the library here. And they weren't here, if ye see—they weren't where they couldn't possibly have been. A gap—a mishap—a bit of superficial thinkin' on some one's part. Panic? Yes, that's what it was. Movin' things from one place to another. Silly idea. People always think that by movin' things they can confuse an issue. More often they merely clarify it.

I'm glad you see some clarity in this damnable situation, Markham grumbled.

Oh, but I'm not blinded by any dazzlin' illumination yet, I wonder. The sergeant projected himself imachly into the discussion.

If some one did carry the dagger and the poker upstairs, who'd have had the opportunity? That's what I'd like to figure out.

Almost anyone might have done it, Sergeant, returned Vance lazily. Both Wrede and Grassi have passed back and forth before the room while we were downstairs.

Heath thought a moment.
That's right. And then do you remember how that Miss Lake rushed to the chair when she first came in the room and put her arm back of the corpse? She coulda stuck the dagger under the seat with all us looking at her. And that cagy butler he coulda done it.

And don't overlook the Chinaman, Gamble sent him to fetch Miss Lake's breakfast while we were all down at that.

Heath gazed at this remark.
That's the guy! he declared.

Just a minute, Sergeant! Markham supplied him Archer's bedroom, and turned to Vance, if, as you believe, the dagger and poker were taken from this room this morning the inevitable conclusion is that the murderer is one of the persons who have been in the house this morning.

Not necessarily, Vance shook his head mildly. There are several persons here who know more than they're admitting. No, no it was a stupid act. The murderer was too dumb to do a foolish thing like that, to hide weapons where they never could have been. The murderer wanted the weapons found in this library. That's why he tried to hide the dagger twice—once in the egg shell Ting yao vase, and the second time in that Yung Cheng Ting yao. And he wanted the weapons in this room where Archer Coe was sitting when Gamble left the house last night. He figured on this library being the murder room. And something went wrong—the murderer came back, it was too late to rearrange the setting.

Came back? Too late? repeated Markham. What do you mean.

Just that, Vance halted and looked down at the district attorney. Oh, he came back—he had to come back. Brisbane was killed hours after Archer. And the reason he was too late to figure on the scene of the crime was that Archer's door was bolted on the inside. The scene of his murder had shifted—and he, the murderer, was locked out. He knew last night that neither the dagger nor the poker could be found in the bedroom. Therefore it was not the murderer who placed them there this morning.

I'm very sorry, sir, to interrupt, he began, but an item—if you know what the item is, it occurred to me. Ordinarily I would have thought little or nothing of it, but in view—

What's the item? Markham snapped.
It's—It's this little gadget, sir, Gamble stammered, laying a small cylindrical lipstick holder on the table. I found this in the wastepaper basket in this room this morning before I discovered the master's body upstairs, and I threw it out. But a few minutes ago I began thinking about this terrible affair.

Practically empty, he mused. Not a gold case—therefore thrown away. His swagger stick of the rouge on his finger and smelted St. Dupain's Carmine. Made for blonds. Most interesting. He looked at Gamble. You left the house last night, when?

And you are quite sure Mr. Archer Coe had no visitor at the time?

Oh, quite, sir, Gamble was again becoming worried. As I told you—Yes, Yes, So you told me. Vance was watching the man from under his eyelids. But a lady seems to have been here. Do you know of any appointment Mr. Coe may have had with the possible owner of that lipstick?

An appointment with a lady? The butler, for some reason, seemed shocked. Oh, no, sir, I'm sure Mr. Coe had no such appointment. He was—if you understand me, sir, a most abominable man.

Vance dismissed him brusquely. That will be all Gamble.

When the man had gone, Vance looked waggishly at Markham. I fear, old man, despite Gamble's assurances, that Archer did entertain a lady yesterday afternoon between, let us say, five o'clock and eight—which is probably about the time he was killed.

Heath was growing impatient. I can't see that it makes any difference anyway. Suppose the old boy did have a dame in for a visit, that's not explaining the cockeyed things that happened here last night. What about that bolted door upstairs? You had something in mind, Mr. Vance, when you asked me to get that bolt fixed, didn't you?

My notion was a bit vague, Sergeant. Vance crushed out his cigarette. Of course, people don't get murdered in bolted rooms except in detective novels; and something Miss Lake said to me suggested that I might find a solution to that peculiar and illogical circumstances.

What was that? Markham curly demanded.

When she was talking about Brisbane, don't 'y' know. You remember she mentioned that he was interested in criminology and was sufficiently clever to cover his tracks if he'd decided to go in for murder. A significant remark, Markham.

But I don't see the connection. Markham was puzzled, Brisbane was the victim—not the murderer. Suppose you elucidate—that, if possible.

And went toward the door. What do you say to Miss Archer's bedroom as the scene of the interrogation?

Markham gave a resigned sigh, and we went upstairs. Heath sent Gamble to ask Miss Lake to join us there; and a few minutes later she came in, swaggering but chilly, and I thought suspiciously.

Vance pushed a chair forward for her.

We wanted to ask you, Miss Lake he began gravely, just what you meant when you spoke of your uncle Brisbane having dabbled in criminology—I believe that was your phrase. What form did his interest in criminology take?

Only reading. Criminal cases, court cases, court records, detective stories—the usual thing. There are hundreds of volumes in his room.

Were you too, interested in your uncle Brisbane's books?

Oh, yes. There's nothing else interesting in the house.

Then you too, have dabbled in criminology?

She shot Vance a quick look and gave a forced laugh.

Oh—Then perhaps you can help me. Vance's air became jocular. We crave to know how this door could have been bolted on the inside. Obviously Archer couldn't have done it with a bullet in his head.

Or a dagger through his lungs, she supplemented, and became suddenly serious. But he might have done it before the bullet entered his head.

But he was dead at that time. Vance, too, had become serious and was watching the woman closely.

Have you never heard of cadaveric spasm, or rigor mortis? she asked contemptuously. Men, with revolvers in their hands at death, have been known to fire them hours after they were dead, as a result of muscular contraction.

Vance nodded without changing his expression or shifting his gaze.

The Tomato's Past

ORIGINALLY known in Europe as the Love Apple, used as a decorative garden plant and considered unfit for human consumption—the tomato today is one of the most valuable and popular of all foods. It is one of the most largely produced of all canned foods, and has won its tremendous popularity not only by its flavor but by the nutritive properties which the medical profession has discovered it to possess.

Tomatoes are rich in vegetable acids and contribute to the diet significant amounts of desirable elements. They combine the properties of fruits and green vegetables. They are one of the very best sources of Vitamin C, and a good source of Vitamins A, B and G. Canned tomatoes are now said to be an even better source of Vitamin C than raw tomatoes bought in the market and cooked in the usual way at home.

A Grand Combination
And, speaking of ways of cooking tomatoes, here's a grand combination of tomatoes and another well-known health food, known as Cabbage and Tomato au Gratin.

The ingredients are:
2 cups cooked cabbage
1 lb. of raw tomatoes
1 1/3 cups grated cheese
Salt & pepper
1/2 cup dry crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Pat alternate layers of cabbage, tomatoes, cheese and sprinklings of salt and pepper in a baking dish, repeating until all the ingredients are used up. Top with crumbs, dot with butter, and bake for about twenty minutes in a moderately hot oven. This recipe will serve six people, and should cost incidentally, less than thirty-five cents.

All Aboard for a Good Dinner Costing $1.50
Serves Six Persons at a Cost of 25 Cents Each

ONE way to serve a good dinner for six that will cost only twenty-five cents a person is to serve fish. The production of meat this year is the lowest it has been in fifty years, and according to the index numbers of the Department of Agriculture its cost jumped in one year from 1925 to 140.1, and is expected to go still higher. So fish is coming into its own as cheap, nutritious and healthful food, and the following menu takes this circumstance into account.

Tuna Fish and Corn Pudding: Make a white sauce of two table-

Modern Coffee Table For Saw-and-Hammer Boys

MANUAL training students and other amateur woodworkers who would like to surprise their mothers and wives with a piece of their own craftsmanship will make a happy choice if they build the modern coffee table suggested in the accompanying illustration.

The use of one-quarter inch pressed wood, obtainable at almost any building supply dealer, not only makes for uniformly good appearance, but also simplifies construction. Pressed wood, used in major construction and for fine interior trim as well, is perhaps one of the most versatile and durable building materials ever developed. It is a one hundred per cent wood product, made by exploding clean waste wood and then pressing the resulting fibers into a thin hard board that will not split, chip, crack, warp, or swell, under any normal conditions. It saves readily, and ledge that a man had been killed. And so, when circuit court sets on June 17 there will again be a murder placed on the docket, as soon as the Grand Jury meets.

It so happens that the people involved in the killing were not long time residents of Morehead, having moved here recently from Bath county.

Without passing judgment on the merits or demerits of the killing, it seems that there is ordinarily little excuse for such extreme measures. Killing is seldom justified. There are usually easier means out of a situation than getting the blood of a human being on your hands.

One of the chief causes of shooting, is the fact that people persist in carrying guns. If every man or woman would leave his gun at home, where he would have to make a trip to get it, the chances are ten to one that by the time he returned he would be out of the mood.

Killing is seldom done cold-bloodedly. It is usually in the heat of passion that the bullet is fired. If the killer has the opportunity to cool off there would be many fewer murders.

That is stated as a general proposition. There are, we admit, certain conditions under which killing is justifiable. Personally we by never been in such a position, and therefore probably cannot fully appreciate them.

sent to penal institution for the purpose of punishment, but to remove them from society. He said that the young men and boys should be separated from hardened older criminals and placed in a separate institution in which they could be taught to help themselves so that when they were turned out they would be in a position to become useful citizens.

He criticized the recent wholesale pardoning of Governor Ruby Laffoon, saying that while he believed that there were instances in which pardons should be granted he was absolutely opposed to any such wholesale methods. These men, he said, were sent to Frankfort to remove them from society. No governor, he added had the right to turn them back on society without any protection.

Summing up, Mr. Wallis stated that he is opposed to the sales tax in any form, and that if he is elected he will see that it is removed from the statute books; he does not believe in a bipartisan combine that can overthrow party responsibility; he is opposed to the departure of government being brought into politics and forced to contribute campaign funds to perpetuate an administration; he stands for reforms of the prison and asylum; he favors a business administration. WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same protection that race drivers demand

KELLY PETILO ON MAY 30, WON the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.24 miles per hour.

This record is an outstanding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23 1/2 hours. This was an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

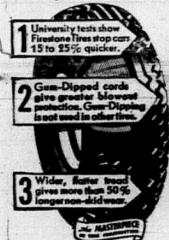

- 1-"Will the tread give me the greatest friction and protection against skidding?"
2-"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
3-"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tire I can buy?"

ANSWER No. 1—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 1/2" quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

ANSWER No. 2—Unequaled performance records for storm consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.

ANSWER No. 3—Thousands of car owners report unequalled mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Farm And Agriculture News

Rental and benefit payments to Kentucky tobacco growers from May 1934 to April, 1935, totaled $5,776,354, says a report of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture on the farm situation. Of this total, $5,068,368 went to burley growers, $408,954 to fire-cured growers, and $299,028 to farmers producing dark air-cured tobacco.

Cattle prices continue good, as the available supply of beef is small, compared to the demand. Market receipts of cattle in April were only 80 percent as large as a year ago.

Hog receipts have been only 60 percent of normal. The spring low price was reached in late April, with an advance in May. Heavier feeding is in evidence, hogs averaging 5 pounds larger than a year ago.

A good pasture season has produced high quality lambs, the marketing season being in full swing. Increased activity in wool is noted, with better prices a possibility.

While the demand for butter has been good, it has not been sufficient to hold prices for the heavy spring production. Imports continue heavy. Production is slightly under a year ago.

Egg prices have held unusually well, due in part to high prices of feeds in general. Production is under a year ago, and probably will continue under 1934. Poultry receipts are considered moderate and prices steady. Increased hatchings mean larger laying flocks next fall and winter.

The late potato crop is not regarded as of much importance in Kentucky, at least not in a commercial way, but all over the state are farmers and gardeners who grow the potatoes their families consume during the winter. There are two distinct kinds of winter potatoes grown, one from seed whose nature is such that it can be kept in proper condition until planting time in mid-June; the other from seed that has been kept on cold storage.

"Potato land" is a term used to describe soil that is deep and deeply prepared, full of humus so that it can retain moisture well, and high in natural fertility. Growers concerned with the moisture factor, for in the early season rains are usually frequent enough for even mediocre soil to bring out the growers' late potatoes. On the other hand, must prepare themselves for a dry season, hence they must do such things as to manage it that an adequate supply of moisture is held. The best way to begin preparing for late potatoes is to break the land early, before the spring rains are over, turning under a coat of stable manure or a sod or other green manure. The furrow slices should then be cut with a disk and the land dragged down. When weeds start, digging and dragging should be done again, and perhaps again, two or three times, depending on the season and on how rapidly the weeds grow. By the time the planting season is at hand, two or three crops of weeds will have been killed, and their competition with the potatoes eliminated, to say nothing of the saving in cultivating labor.

Supposing that plans were not made as far back as the preceding paragraph indicates would have been desirable, the grower may remedy this oversight by plowing the land and then discing in as deeply as he can, a generous amount of well-rotted manure. The depth of plowing should be greater for summer planting potatoes than for the early crop, because that is part of assuring a generous moisture reservoir. Ten inches is not too deep to break potato land, in fact, it is a matter of demonstration data that with every inch of breaking depth more potatoes result. Potato land should be fertile of itself, but its natural fertility and that which comes from whatever manure has been used, must be supplemented with commercial fertilizer, so as to insure fertility balanced to the potatoes' needs. The state over the best fertilizer analysis for summer planted potatoes is 4-10-4, or better still, if it can be gotten, 4-10-8. Some of the soil nitrogen and some of the nitrogen contained in the manure will have been made available by the warming up of the soil. The extra potash, the third figure in the formula, is particularly needed in overflow bottoms, where this element is likely lacking.

Banks Rapidly Reduce Debt

Although the sum of $1,500,000,000 has been advanced to banks and trust companies by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation since it began operations in February, 1932, down to April 30, 1935, these institutions have repaid no less than $1,340,000,000, or more than 75%. This rate of repayment is reported as being considerably in excess of that made by any other type of borrower.

Simplification of Bank Checks

New York—In a bulletin issued by the Bank Management Commission of the American Bankers Association, plans are described for carrying on the simplification of bank checks, notes, drafts and similar instruments in respect to size and uniformity of arrangement of subject matter.

National Bank Notes

Changes in our money on the scale of about $500,000,000 are now going on through the retirement of national bank notes. This is reflected in increasing deposits in the Treasury of lawful money to replace bonds held against outstanding notes which will require some time for withdrawal from circulation.

Folk Song Festival To Be Held Sunday

An exhibit of mountain art and handicraft is to be a feature of the American Folk Song Festival this year, on June 9, and Kentucky and West Virginia artists are giving time and talent to make it a success. As in other years the festival will be held at the Traipsin' Woman Cabin, on the Mayo Trail, sixteen miles south of Ashland, and is under the direction of Miss Jean Thomas. The program begins at 2 p. m. and is free to the public.

In the morning hours on the festival grounds there will be a good old fashioned mountain "singing" gathering. Rev. William Dawson of Boone county will sing the hymns and the Sloan family, three sisters and a brother of Rowan county, will help to lead the singing. Many of the mountain people bring their dinner baskets and make a day of it.

The festival program is presented from a great variety of sources. It is a series of historical music into which are fitted all the old mountain ballads, which are the Kentucky folklore. Native singers or singers of mountain folk songs present the program.

Donkey Ball Game Is Played Wednesday 7:45 p. m. Under Flood Lights At Jayne Stadium

Game Between Business Men And Legion Packs "Laffs" For Crowd.

Morehead sports and fun lovers will have a chance to laugh themselves sick and still help a worthy cause, when Burro Ball makes its debut here Wednesday night, June 5.

The American Legion is sponsoring this new game that is merely soft ball played on burros or donkeys. The real live, kicking, bucking kind. A team composed of Legion members will meet a picked team of Morehead business men Wednesday night at 7:45 p. m. under flood lights specially installed for the game at the College field.

If you can imagine local men who are too descript to ambluate the bases on their own running gear, being provided with burros to get around the bases and fielders trying to speed up on one of these slow mounts you'll know you're in for a real treat Wednesday.

The Legion team is to be picked from this group by Sam C. Goodill who has been selected as captain.

LEGION TEAM

Howard Sparling, M. S. Bowen, W. N. Nickell, Moody Aldeman, Clay Clayton, Sam Caudill, Jim Rigby, John Francis, Norman Wells, J. H. West, Prof. Haggan, Eddie Badridge.

Reserve will be on hand to replace those crippled by contact with the burros' heels with more enthusiasm than judgement, are recruiting a group of stars from this group.

BUSINESS MEN

Graydon Hinchey, Dub Bellamy, Jack Lewis, Laurence Fraley, Clarence Allen, Fred Caudill, Harvey Goldberger, Cecil Landreth, Roy E. Holbrook, W. E. Guntcher, Lon Fannin, Austin Ridge.

The little cabined animals make the real show of the game with their queer and stubborn antics. A favorite trick of Clarke Gable, Tom Thumb, Huey P. Long and Madam Queen (the crowned burro bassooners) is to lay the unsuspecting rider in the dust. Another bad habit the burros have acquired in over 200 games is to start whiffing for the first base, and then, just

No Games Played Sund'y; Rain Again

Morehead and nearly every other team in the Kentucky State League remained idle Sunday afternoon due to the rain that appeared to be rather general. Consequently there was no change in the standing of the teams. Morehead now has five games to make up, games that have been postponed on account of rain.

Sunday, the locals meet Vanceburg here in what likely to prove one of the outstanding games in the circuit. Vanceburg leads the league at present with Maysville ready to step up into the leadership if Vanceburg should slip. The game here Sunday has all the earmarks of a battle royal.

McNabb will occupy the mound at Morehead according to the prediction. After the game at Maysville in which Mac did himself proud, although he failed to win, fans here are expecting a real pitchers duel. Vanceburg also has a pitching ace who has had much to do with the success of the team. Mac will be put to the test again.

Short of the bag develop an overwhelming desire of rest.

There will be a play by play description of the game given over an amplifying system, which will probably mean the spectators will know more about how the game is progressing than the actual players.

McNabb is changed in a few particulars to suit the addition of burros. The game is played by time, in 15 minute innings, with each side to bat ten minutes. The batters are allowed as many strikes as it takes to get a fair ball. The fielders' rights must ride to the ball, with one step of it, before picking it up and they must then throw the ball after re-entrancing.

If laughing is contagious, they'll probably have to quarantine the game Wednesday night. The game is called for 7:45 o'clock and the admission is to be 25c and 10c for children under 12. Boosts and betwixt selling at a pace that is winning games. The game will be played at Jayne Stadium, and with two attractions, McNabb hurling and Vanceburg opposing a record crowd is expected.

Plans are getting under way for the organization of a Soft Ball league this summer. The down town coaches who broke Chief Gammage's heart last summer by beating out the cup, are planning on defending their title. There seems to be a bit of opposition to the Down Town Coaches, but that is expected to be ironed out before the league official gets underway.

Once more a rainy Sunday left the standing of the teams in "status quo". Morehead of course has at the bottom of the heap with two games won, incidentally Woodson Dale has credit for both of them.

McNabb who pitched such sterling ball against Maysville only to drop the decision, was to have been on the mound for Morehead last Sunday, but the 13th interfered. He will probably dish up against Vanceburg Sunday.

By the way it looks like Morehead against the league leaders in Sunday's tussle, as Vanceburg leads the league in games won. They have been dishing out the hot stuff against the best in the leagues and are clinging to the top run of the ladder. The game should be one of the best in the circuit, with Morehead apparently settling down to their last year's form and with Vanceburg going at a pace that is winning games. The game will be played at Jayne Stadium, and with two attractions, McNabb hurling and Vanceburg opposing a record crowd is expected.

of coaches who are anxious to improve excellent for a large enrollment prove their knowledge of the game and get new ideas for the fall workouts.

McMillin and Rupp are both leaders in their work. McMillin being now coach at Indiana University while Rupp has established a record at Kentucky. The college is fortunate in being able to obtain such outstanding coaches with national reputations to take charge of the coaching school. The rates, by the way, are the lowest that could possibly be expected with such talent in charge, $15.00 tuition for the week.

Mt. Sterling was disconcertingly surprised in the game last Thursday when the tail-enders reversed on them to take the game. Evidently Dale and his team-mates are poison to Mt. Sterling, whether they are to their own teams or not. They have won both their encounters with the Montgomery team.

"Never Heard of It." That's the statement heard on every side about the great game of Burro Ball or Donkey Ball played here Wednesday night. The game will be played at Jayne Stadium under flood lights, and is said to be one of the Annist and most spectacular ever witnessed. The game is being played under the auspices of the American Legion between teams composed of Legion members and business men of the town.

It is said to be a scream. Every rider rides a donkey and plays his position from the back of a burro. Some of them will make "burros" of themselves.

Morehead Takes Thursday's Game From The Mt. Sterling Team In A 5 To 1 Victory

Vanceburg Here For Sunday Game

Sunday's games in the Kentucky doesn't overtake them as follows: The league leaders, Vanceburg, who by virtue of the win Sunday in the State League, providing the rain only game played in the league stepped to the fore, by a full game, will meet the lowly tansenders, who proved last Thursday that they are still to be reckoned with, when they come to Morehead for their first game. They have already defeated the Morehead team once this season. But their opposition will be far not so much Sunday, according to dope. Owensville meets Maysville the same day at Maysville, Mt. Sterling smarting under the defeat administration by Morehead last Thursday, will try to outdo Flemingsburg at Flemingsburg. Paris and Brooksville meet in the other league encounter.

Sunday's schedule. Vanceburg Vs. Morehead at Morehead. Owensville Vs. Maysville at Maysville. Mt. Sterling Vs. Flemingsburg at Flemingsburg. Paris Vs. Brooksville at Brooksville.

SOUTH AFRICA TO TRY TUNG OIL CULTIVATION

Although planting of tung trees in South Africa has not been widespread and commercial production of the oil has not yet been reached, considerable interest has been aroused, particularly in the coastal belt of Zululand and Natal Province and in the Northeastern part of the Transvaal, according to a report to the Louisville district office of the Commerce Department. A number of local farmers have made application for seed, as wide publicity has been given to the world demand for tung oil, used largely as a raw material in the manufacture of paints and varnishes.

Dale Hurls Locals To Win; Teammates Give Real Support

Behind the stellar pitching of Woodson Dale, Morehead took a new lease on life last Thursday at the Decoration Day baseball game played here in the afternoon. Dale was in vincible and the game ended with Morehead tallying up 5 runs to 1 for Mt. Sterling.

Dusty Rhodes, Mt. Sterling ace, suffered from the first actual battling rally of the locals when they found him in the seventh to get across four runs. Rhodes was put to the showers. McLennore relieved him and managed to drive the Clayton team for the balance of the game.

Dale was supreme when he needed supremacy. He struck out eight batters and allowed only five hits. The only run garnered off his delivery was due to a base on balls and an error.

Duck Carter was the batting star for Morehead with two singles, a double and a base on balls to his credit. Clayton, Day, the Nolans and Stagg all landed safely, bringing the total to fourteen for Morehead.

When Davis Takes Pen in Hand

By IRVIN S. COBB

4000 DAVIS, editor of Munsey's magazine, is one of the best letter writers in the world, as those who have had personal or professional correspondence with him can testify. He packs as much of wisdom into three lines on a sheet of office notepaper as some people could put into a whole book.

I remember once that a friend of mine sent Davis a very bad short story. Davis returned the manuscript with these words: "Dear Bill: This yarn smells to Heaven. Control yourself, my dear boy—control yourself!"

But I think he rose to his most inspired heights here just the other day when he received from an unknown author a jingle. The sender, in a letter accompanying the verses, declared them to be his very own. But somehow or other, as Davis has packed as much of wisdom into three lines on a sheet of office notepaper as some people could put into a whole book. He pondered a bit and then he had the answer. "Line for line, an almost word for word, the poem was copied from a lyric which had been sung years before in the 'Yankee Prince'."

So Davis, used the offering back to the plagiarist with this letter: "My Dear Sir: I do not believe I care to use this work of yours. It may be original, as you claim. Far be it from me to take issue with you on that point. But I will say this: "It's satirically too much of a George M. Cohenidence!"

DIXIE THEATRE

OLIVE HILL, KY.
"An absorbing story, and the presence of the one and only Shirley Temple, make the 'Little Colonel' which opens a 5 day engagement at the Dixie Theatre Friday, Saturday, and Sunday is an extraordinary screen event."

Once again, America's golden haired sweetheart captures, with her unpretentious art, her hues, acting, the hearts of old and young. She is co-starred with Lionel Barrymore in this heart stirring superb story of a bitter 'Kentucky family feud during the days following the Civil War, when prejudices still rankled, and a woman who had given her heart to a hated Yankee was ostracized by friends and relations.

The five-year-old screen sensation will be the role of a tiny girl whose childish love and laughter rouses the bitterness and false pride that make wretched a stern old Kentucky aristocrat who has turned his back on his daughter.

Shirley's charm shines in this picture which is as tender as her baby heart. Not only is her work extraordinary as an actress, but she quite captivates the most blasé with her singing. Her surprises one with her dancing talents when she appeared with Bill Robinson and accompanies him in his famous stir dance.

As if this wealth of surprises were not enough, this Fox Film picture produced by B. C. DeSylva ends in a blaze of Technicolor. For the first time in her meteoric career, Shirley Temple is presented in color. "The Little Colonel" is heartily recommended to all picture lovers.

COZY THEATRE

"Sequoia" (pronounced "See quoyah"). Metro Goldwyn-Mayer's unprecedented drama of wild animal revolt against man, opens June 11 at the Cozy Theatre as something totally out of the ordinary in motion picture entertainment.

In every theatre where "Sequoia" has been previewed the audience has burst into applause—not once, but dozens of times.

Stern visaged men, who have spent many of their moments of leisure tracing game in the wilds of California wept unashamed as they sat in the theatre and watched a tiny cub puma displays its fruitless affection for the mother lion just deprived of her life by the bullet of a hunter's gun.

Sophisticated men and women of the picture business sat on the edge of their seats, thrilled to the marrow, as a full grown mountain lion crushed on the deer's head ready to spring, at the deer, which had been his friend throughout his cub days, banded gracefully down the runway beneath him.

In a flash the puma leaped in front of the deer—and the latter, obviously in ecstasy, reached down and nuzzled his supposedly life-long enemy—kissed him—fondled him—in a scene that no romantic young couple could possibly duplicate for genuine emotional thrills.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Ferner, Mrs. Lester Hodge and daughter Barbara Ann and Mrs. C. O. Peratt were in Lexington Monday. Dr. and Mrs. Ferner attended the commencement exercises of Transylvania and The College of the Bible.

Mrs. W. L. Jayne and Mrs. Grant Barber spent Tuesday in Grayson with Mrs. Jayne's son Wurtz who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.
