MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Beverly McNutt, a Morehead State University graduate assistant from Maysville, has applied her fine arts training to practical graphics as part of her work in the Appalachian Development Center (ADC).

McNutt received her A.B. degree in art education (Magna Cum Laude) from MSU in Spring 1983, and that fall became a graduate assistant to Garry Barker, ADC communications coordinator. By the time she completes her M.A. degree in May, McNutt also will have completed two years of professional graphic design and paste-up work.

According to her supervisor, McNutt's performance has been exceptional. "Beverly delivers professional quality artwork on a tight schedule," said Barker. "I give her the job and get out of the way. What impresses me most is that Beverly--a 20-hour per week graduate assistant--functions more as a full-time staff member. We certainly will miss her when she graduates."

McNutt has designed logos for the Appalachian Writers Association and the Northeast Kentucky Beef Improvement Federation. She produced posters, signs, banners, and the catalog for the recent NKBIF sale. She has done artwork for posters and flyers advertising the Great Clean-Up, the Appalachian Celebration, the Kentucky Logging Show, the Appalachian Arts & Crafts Market, and numerous small business workshops. She has designed brochures for clients of the Small Business Development Center, plus charts and illustrations for the ADC Research Report Series.

Most recently, McNutt did original illustrations for magazines publishing short stories by Barker. Her work will appear in the May/June issue of "The Mountain Spirit" and the Winter/Spring issue of "Appalachian Heritage." Barker, a Fleming County native, is the author of "Fire On The Mountain," a book of short stories.

McNutt, the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Morgan of Maysville, graduated from Mason County High School in 1979, and returned to do her student teaching at Maysville High School in 1983. Her senior exhibit in MSU's Claypool-Young Gallery was in Spring 1984. During the summer of 1984, McNutt spent five weeks in Madrid, studying Spanish and Spanish artists; she was selected by the Kentucky Institute for European Studies through a competitive application process.

"Going to Spain was the highlight of my life," says McNutt. "I would encourage more students to take advantage of the opportunity to live and study abroad."

She plans to teach this fall, but McNutt always has a skill to offer other employers. "Working at ADC has been good practical experience," she says. "I've learned a lot about design and printing, and have been encouraged to totally complete projects from concept to finished product."

More information on MSU's graduate assistant program is available from the Graduate Office, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky., 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Morehead State University will offer a summer course, Theatre 599: Workshop for High School Teachers in Costume, June 22 - July 3.

The class, which will be taught by Kozy Hamilton, MSU theatre costume coordinator, from 8 a.m. - noon, will include techniques of designing and making costumes for high school productions.

The course is basically for teachers and graduate students, but anybody can take the course, according to Hamilton. "The main thing I will be teaching is short cuts and how to get there real fast," Hamilton said.

"The course isn't just for theatre people," Hamilton said. "The techniques can be applied to making clothes for yourself or somebody else."

The class, which offers three hours of graduate credit, will be taught in Combs 115 (Costume Shop).

Additional information is available by contacting Kozy Hamilton, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky., 40351. The telephone number is (606) 783-2715.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Andrew Mitchell, a Morehead State University freshman from Flemingsburg, recently won a sail board in a promotional give-away during Ford Motor Company's Ford Great Start Day.

MSU hosted its second Ford Great Start Day April 16-17, offering an opportunity for the campus community to see and touch Ford's new cars and trucks in an informal campus environment.

MSU was selected by Ford Motor Company to have this free program, according to Susette Redwine, associate director, Division of Student Activities and Organizations at MSU.

Co-sponsored by MSU's Program Council, the program started with the selection of six different motion pictures which were shown free to the student body in January and February.

"In return," Redwine said, "we selected two days in the spring for them to show their products."

"We hope that they were pleased with our campus setting and the way we handled the program and will continue this as an annual event," Redwine said.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Two riding camps will be offered by Morehead State University this summer, according to Tammy Adye, assistant professor of horsemanship and instructor for both camps.

An elementary horsemanship camp will be offered for students 12 to 16 years of age. An intermediate horsemanship camp will be offered for high school juniors and seniors and will offer the option of one hour of college credit.

Students will learn to lead, groom, saddle, bridle, mount and dismount a horse properly in the elementary horsemanship camp. They will also learn to ride the horse at a walk, trot, canter and perform simple riding maneuvers.

In the intermediate horsemanship camp, students will learn more advanced riding skills such as leg aids, rein aids and canter leads. They will study in detail gaits, equipment and dress. Training skills will be taught also.

The elementary camp is scheduled for June 16-21, and the intermediate camp is July 14-19. Each camp is limited to 16 students.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Kimberly Moore, a senior at Morehead State University, has been selected to serve as an intern for the Office of International Programs during the second summer session of 1985.

She will prepare written and photographic publicity materials on the Cooperative Center for Study in Britain and will also be taking a class in London, England.

Moore, who is from Ashland, said the tour should be very interesting because she will be studying while adapting to another country. Since she has never been outside the United States, she said her tour will benefit both her and MSU.

Moore also will compile a presentation of 100 slides to be used at Morehead State University to encourage more students to participate in overseas study.

Moore plans to enroll in the graduate communications program at MSU in the fall.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The Morehead State University Board of Regents has tabled action on a one-year contract extension requested by President Herb. F. Reinhard.

Dr. Reinhard, who assumed the presidency on a two-year contract last July, said he was "surprised, but not overly surprised" by the board's 5-4 vote to delay a decision.

"The vote says a lot for the future direction of Morehead State University," he said, adding that he would begin looking at other opportunities.

"I did not come here to be a one- or two-year president," Dr. Reinhard said. He also noted that he believed that the majority of MSU's alumni, faculty, students and the local community was not represented by the vote.

Dr. Reinhard, who was inaugurated as MSU's ninth president two weeks ago, said he would not again place his request on the board agenda. "If the board comes back to me with an offer, I'll be glad to discuss it, but I may have several questions to be answered," he said.

Regents in favor of tabling the request were Mrs. Patricia A. Burchett of Paintsville, who proposed the motion; Walter W. Carr of Morehead, Circuit Judge James M. Richardson of Owingsville, Eunice Caston of Winchester and Faculty Regent John Duncan.

Voting against the motion were Dr. Forest M. Skaggs of Lynch, Lloyd Cassity of Ashland, Board Chairman Robert M. Duncan of Inez, and Student Regent Michael Fox of Olive Hill. Harry LaViers Jr. of Irvine was absent.

Earlier, the Regents approved a $39.2 million operating budget for 1985-86 and ratified a seven percent increase in tuition which was mandated by the Kentucky Council on Higher Education. However, the Regents also eliminated 89 individual course fees.

The operating budget, increased by $1.3 million from last year, includes a three percent salary increase for university personnel.

Campus officials were authorized to sell three MSU-owned houses and to gradually phase out two mobile home parks near Morehead.

In other action, the Regents:

--Awarded the 1985-86 banking services contract to the Peoples Bank of Morehead, the 1984-85 audit contract to Kelley, Galloway and Co. of Ashland, the 1985-86 medical services contract to the Morehead Clinic and the 1985-86 student insurance contract to Guarantee Trust Life Insurance Co., represented by Bellamy Insurance Agency of Morehead.

--Approved the appointment of an 11-member mission and long range planning committee composed of representatives from the Board of Regents, faculty, students, MSU Foundation and the Alumni Association.

--Granted tenure to seven faculty members, promoted 13 others, and approved sabbatical leaves for five more.

--Renamed the Palmer Development House which has been renovated to house the University fund raising programs.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Scholar-in-residence duties for Morehead State University's ninth annual Appalachian Celebration will be shared by two noted Appalachian scholars.

Loyal Jones, director of the Berea College Appalachian Center, and folklorist Thomas G. Burton of East Tennessee State University will serve as lecturers and consultants to the June 24-29 Celebration.

Jones, author of "Radio's 'Kentucky Mountain Boy' Bradley Kincaid" and "Minstrel of the Appalachians: Bascom Lamar Lunsford," just released by the Appalachian Consortium Press in Boone, N.C., is an expert on mountain values, folk arts, music, and religion. He will present a public lecture on Tuesday, June 25, at 6:30 p.m., and will participate in the Jesse Stuart Symposium.

Dr. Burton, acting chairman of the Department of English at East Tennessee State University in Johnson City, Tenn., has edited or co-edited six books on Appalachian folklore and music. Burton will participate in the "Gathering of Traditional Musicians" on June 28.

Both Jones and Burton will lecture to Elderhostel classes, and be available for individual consultation.

Previous Scholars-In-Residence have included Cratis Williams, Jim Wayne Miller, and Loyal Jones.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The Morehead State University Alumni Association, Inc., has announced its support of MSU President Herb. F. Reinhard.

In a resolution adopted Saturday by unanimous vote of its Executive Council, the Association said:

"The Executive Council strongly endorses the direction and leadership being provided Morehead State University by the administration of Dr. Herb. F. Reinhard and encourages the support of this leadership by all who are interested in the future of this institution."

Alumni President David Bolt of Morehead said copies of the resolution were being distributed to MSU faculty and staff members and the Board of Regents.

"The Executive Council is concerned that the public be aware that we are proud of President Reinhard's leadership and that we fully support his efforts to strengthen our Alma Mater," Bolt stated.

Dr. Reinhard assumed the MSU presidency last July 1 on a two-year contract which expires June 30, 1986. His request for a one-year extension of that contract was tabled at a recent meeting of the Board of Regents.
