MOTHER IN LAW OF HARLIN BLAIR DIES

Mrs. S. B. Houston who passed away Sunday night at her home in Hayward was laid to rest, Tuesday afternoon in Lee cemetery, beside her daughter, Mrs. Harlan Blair.

Mrs. Houston was well known in Morehead having visited her grandchildren here on numerous occasions.

Funeral services were held in Hayward, Mr. Harlan and daughters Mildred and Catherine and son Franklin attending.

AT LAST!

No more does Diogenes need to roam around with a lantern in search for an honest man. He has been found. He dropped into the office of Joe McKinney Tuesday morning wearing a driver's license. Joe was asking him the routine question such as "How old are you?" when he came to the question "Are you addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors?" Without a moment's hesitation the young man answered "Yes."

Joe leaned back and stared. He insists that it was the first license he had issued where the applicant had answered that question that way.

The boy changed his answer.

A SLOGAN

A trip through the state convinces us that the weeds along the state highways are ready in need of cutting. The highway department has apparently just come to realize that fact. Judging by the number of men at work along the highways cutting weeds, they should soon have "a man for every weed, and a vote from every man." As one observer suggested a good slogan for the Rhea forces would be:

"A weed a day, and a vote for Rhea."

We only hope that the supply of weeds holds out until after the August primary so they may need them for the September one.

Judging from the slow motion pictures of the weed cutting gangs, there is little danger of the supply being exhausted.

FROM EDMUNDSON COUNTY

The Edmundson News, a paper published at Brownville, Kentucky, in Edmundson county, adjoining Logan county where Mr. Rhea lives, comments thus on the statement made by Congressman Carey that 111 counties of the state were represented at the Rhea opening address in Bowling Green: "We wonder what will happen to the vast and highway employees in the other nine counties who dared to stay at home. Bet they lose their jobs."

WE'RE "AGINERS"

Guess we're "aginners." Any way we're agin the Sales Tax. We're agin the administration which forced the sales tax on the people. We're agin those that are supporting the sales tax. We're agin those that voted for the darned thing. We're agin any law that takes the money for any purpose whatsoever, from the pockets of people who cannot afford it.

But then again, we might say that we're "for" a number of things. We will, for instance, we're for the common people and want a tax load lifted of their backs. We're for the candidate for governor who pledges himself to do that thing. We're for other forms of taxation that will place the big burden where it belongs on the backs of those who can stand it and carry it on. We're for an income tax graduated so that the burden will be distributed. We're for a whiskey tax of 50 cents a gallon instead of 5 cents a gallon. We're for a graduated real estate tax with home-stored exemptions. We're for Happy Chandler.

Bids On Power Heat Plant Are Opened Monday

Forty Nine Contractors Submit Bids Of College Buildings.

On Tuesday of this week, at a meeting of the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College held in Louisville, forty nine bids covering contracts on the erection of the new power, heat, light and water plant of the local college were submitted and opened. The contract will probably be awarded the latter part of next week, according to the Board of Regents.

The total cost of erecting and completing the plant is divided into ten contracts. These are: 1. Building for power plant, 2. Tunnel, 3. Smoke stack & Heating and piping, 5. Boilers and stokers, 6. Plumbing, 7. Wiring including switch board, 8. Elevators and conveyors, 10. Dams Turbines and generators, 9. Bumpers and creek work.

A total of forty nine bids were submitted on the entire project. As these bids were rather complicated, it is necessary to tabulate them, figure them up, total them and then decide after this week, which will take several days to complete, which is the actual lowest bid. After this is done, the figures must then be submitted to the architects and engineers, who will select those bids which they wish to recommend to the PWA authorities. After the PWA authorities have taken them under advisement they will be returned to the Board of Regents. The Board of Regents will meet and award the contracts to the bidding firms approved.

That may seem like more or less of a complicated arrangement, but in fact the process through which the approval of the government authorities is obtained. It is expected, since the work has progressed as far as

Bill Gillespie Goes To Ashland Position

One of the regrettable business changes recently made was the severing of the connection of Mr. W. H. Gillespie, who for several years has been serving as druggist at the C. E. Bishop Drug Company, Mr. Gillespie has accepted a position in the drug store at Ashland where he went Monday to assume his new duties.

Mrs. Gillespie will remain in Morehead for the time being, at least until the close of the first of this month, while the children are in school.

During his residence here, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie have made many warm friends who regret their departure to their new home in Ashland.

Mr. H. M. Heberle, of Shelbyville is employed at the Bishop Drug store in the place of Mr. Gillespie.

Docket In Court Is To Be Cleared

As the second week of the June term of the Rowan Circuit Court draws near a close, the docket has about been cleared up, with the trial of Mrs. Bernard Day for the murder of Oscar Williams being the outstanding case to be tried at this term. Indictments were returned against Mrs. Day Wednesday morning of last week, and the trial opened on Thursday when both sides addressed themselves as ready. The trial occupied a day and a half, and attracted large crowds to the court room while the evidence was in progress of being taken. Friday afternoon, the attorneys made their pleas and the trial went to the jury. The result was a hung jury, with reports stating that eleven men were for acquittal and one for conviction. The trial has, according to reports been set down for the next term, Mrs. Day set on home.

Jarvis Sale Is Huge Success Says Store

The closing out sale at the Morehead Department Store, beginning last Friday was one of the most successful sales, that Morehead has experienced in years.

In spite of the down pour of rain which continued throughout the day, the store was crowded all day long, and soon after the doors were closed until room could be made to admit more people.

This paper carried a full page ad, and in an interview with Mr. Jarvis, a reporter was informed that the sale will continue until all stock and fixtures are sold. Prices will be further reduced each week until all is sold.

We wish to thank the people of Morehead and vicinity not only for purchasing made by them but for the excellent department of everyone.

Mrs. Lettie Bradley Dies At Age Of 93

Mrs. Lettie Wells Bradley died at the home of her son in this city following a long illness. Funeral services were held at the home with Dr. G. H. Fern in charge, assisted by Rev. H. L. Moore and Rev. B. H. Kase. Burial was made in Lee Cemetery.

Mrs. Bradley was one of the oldest, if not the oldest citizen of Rowan county, being at the time of her death ninety three years of age. She was born in Virginia on June 10, 1842 and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Wells. "OH DOCTOR" DRAWS CROWD TUESDAY NIGHT

The musical comedy, "Oh, Doctor," given at the Morehead High School auditorium on Tuesday evening, attracted a large audience and furnished a great many amusing situations that served to relieve the evening. The players in the comedy, all local talent, proved their capacity by putting on a real show.

The play was given under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Christian Church and netted a neat sum to that organization. Miss Nelle Ray of Greensboro, N. C. was the director.

Drew Fultz Kills Lige Thornberry

Lige Thornberry, living near the Morgan county line, was shot and instantly killed last Friday by Drew Fultz of Morgan county. The killing occurred shortly after noon, according to neighbors who heard the shots fired.

According to reports, Fultz and a friend named Easterling were seen to go to the home of Thornberry by Drew Fultz of Morgan county. The killing occurred shortly after noon, according to neighbors who heard the shots fired.

Neighbors living within a short distance heard the shots and investigated, finding Thornberry dead. Four shots were fired, evidently from a .38 revolver, as the shells were found on the porch.

According to report, Easterling stated that he was not in the house when the killing occurred but had gone to the barn. Both Fultz and Easterling were arrested following the coroner's inquest held by Coroner Jim Brown. Fultz charged with murder and Easterling with aiding and abetting. The trial of Fultz is now under way in Rowan Circuit Court.

Home Loan Closes Application Today

A number of property owners in Morehead have already made application for home loans, according to Chester Hogue, but there are many more who should take advantage of the opportunity to have their indebtedness scattered over a long term of years. Their debt applies to those who know that they have pending indebtedness which will have to be taken care of before long, what ever the court in the test case which is scheduled to be tried this court. Many of these property owners have already made application for loans, subject of course to the action of the court in the test case.

He suggests that any property owner who is involved in these cases should make application before the

COUNTY AGENT SUGGESTS PLANTING LATE CORN

Corn planting is very much delayed due to unusually wet weather, experienced throughout May and June. Farmers are being advised by County Agent, C. L. Goff to plant some early maturing variety of corn such as Woodburn's Yellow Dent. Planting of this variety may be continued until a few days after July 1. It is usually unwise to plant corn in this county after July 5.

Land that was intended for corn and has not been planted by July 5 had better be planted to Soybeans or Cowpeas. These crops will not mature but may be harvested when necessary to escape frost and make good hay.

Richmond Out Of Governor's Race

One of the most important announcements in connection with the political situation over the state is Superintendent James E. Richmond from the race for governor. Friends of Mr. Richmond have maintained that he withdrew in favor of one or another candidate remaining. Mr. Richmond in the announcement of his withdrawal from the race set the fears at rest definitely by stating that he would support the Democratic nominee in November, as in his opinion the campaign pledges of all those making the race are equally satisfactory to the school men and women of the state, as all of them had endorsed and agreed to maintain the present $12 per capita tax.

Mr. Richmond's statement follows: TO THE DEMOCRATS OF KENTUCKY:

I am making this opportunity to announce my withdrawal from the

F. H. Bee Shows Are Drawing Good Crowds

The F. H. Bee Shows, which have been coming to Morehead annually for a number of years, and which have always drawn good crowds in spite of weather and depression, are again showing in this city this week on the Bradley Lot, and the crowds are apparently undiminished.

"Practically all the attractions are new for this season," said Mr. Bee. They lay stress on the new $100.00 sky ride; the motor drome in which a lady rider travels at the rate of ninety miles an hour; the giant python snake; the Hawaiian show;

A Scotchman was up in the mountains in Switzerland, and he came into the doctor at St. Moritz, and he had to be treated for a frozen tongue. He couldn't even talk.

The doc got to work on him, but he said he never heard of such a case before, and he asked the guide how it happened. He said he wanted to write a piece about it for a medical paper.

"Oh," that's not so uncommon," says the guide. "This bird is Scotch."

"But what's that got to do with it?"

"Well, we was traveling on a glacier, and somebody knocked the canteen of whiskey out of this guy's hand while he was drinking. It spilled all over the ice, and a-course the bird from Aberdeen didn't let it go to waste."

City Councilmen Accept Proposal In Water Situation

Offer Of College To Supply City With Water Is Accepted.

The city council by a unanimous vote at a special meeting held last Friday, accepted the proposition made them by the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College, whereby the college will, on the completion of the new heat and water plant, furnish the city of Morehead with its water supply. The proposal was made to the city several months ago, but has hung fire while the members of the council debated the advantages and disadvantages of accepting the proposal.

According to the offer accepted the college agrees to rent from the city their present water equipment to the extent of the two reservoirs and the main pipe line leading to the reservoirs, at a rental of $50.00 per month. They agree to give the city 50,000 gallons of water each month for the purpose of lighting, fires.

On the other side, the college agrees to sell to the city of Morehead their entire water supply at a base charge of 10 cents per thousand gallons. In other words the city pays the college ten cents for every thousand gallons that pass through the master meter for the use of the inhabitants of the city.

Both parties to the agreement were satisfied with a clause which permitted either party to terminate the contract by giving notice twelve months in advance.

Points Resigns From Local Bank

Mr. A. H. Points has severed his connection with the Citizens Bank and has moved with Mrs. Points to Ashland, N. C. Points announced his determination to give up his position as Cashier of the bank several weeks ago, but agreed to remain in charge for some time until Dr. H. Van Antwerp could take over the duties of cashier temporarily.

Mr. Points has been in the services of the Citizens bank since it was organized in 1927 and since that time has devoted his entire time and attention to the work of establishing the bank firmly in the financial circles of Rowan county. That he succeeded over huge obstacles is a credit not only to him, but to the local men who had the foresight to select him to take charge of the affairs of the bank.

The younger set seems to be taking possession of Bays Avenue, judging by the numerous homes that are now in process of construction on that street, and those that are already completed.

Another new home being built on Bays Avenue is that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Fannin are also building a new home in that section.

SUBSTITUTE FOR THE SALES TAX

There are those who insist that A. B. Chandler has no tax program to offer as a substitute for the Sales Tax when it is repealed. There are those who fear that he will close the schools of the state by failure to supply funds for their maintenance. That belief would be ridiculous if it were not so serious.

Look for a moment at Mr. Chandler's platform. With regard to the schools of the state he says that he will take them out of politics, make it unnecessary for the teachers to be always walking under a cloud of fear that they will be cut off or their salaries cut off. He pledges them that if he is nominated and elected he will maintain as a minimum the $12 per capita now prevailing.

Now let us see for a moment what the present administration has done for the school. At the beginning of the regular session of the 1934 legislature they cut off the real estate tax, or rather cut it to such a low figure that it now costs more to collect than the state receives out of it. They thus cut off revenue from the schools of the state of Kentucky, without offering a substitute. They refused to pass an income tax bill for which Mr. Chandler and the majority of the Democrats in the legislature stood, a part of the revenue from which would have solved the problem of the payment of salaries to the teachers of the schools. They flatly turned down a 25 cent whiskey tax which would have taken care of other needs and produced ample revenue. They refused a graduated real estate tax produced by Judge Allie W. Young which would have solved the problem in itself.

Those tax measures were proposed and had the support of Judge Young and A. B. Chandler and the majority of the Democrats in the Senate. Each of them in turn was defeated for the express purpose of enabling the governor and his friends and supporters including Mr. Rhea to be able to say to the school teachers and the people, "the legislature failed to provide any revenue to conduct the schools and to carry on the state business. Now, we have you in a position where you either get behind the Sales Tax or Starve. If the Sales Tax is not passed, then the schools will have to be closed." With that ultimatum ringing in their ears the teachers went en masse to Frankfort and the show was on.

There is no question about the schools receiving ample support. There is no question about the teachers receiving their pay if A. B. Chandler is nominated and elected. There is equally no question about the schools being taken out of politics. They will cease to be a political football to put over the pet schemes of ruthless politicians who care no more about the schools than to inject them into a political situation the like of which has never been seen in Kentucky.

A few teachers and school men fear that Mr. Chandler will offer no platform of taxation. The facts are that they have only to look over the records of the 1934 legislative session to see that Mr. Chandler's tax platform has already been stated so often that he has no need to state it again. He worked for: First, an income tax; second, a graduated real estate tax; third, a whiskey tax.

But more than that, his position is plainly stated in his platform. He will not ask for any form of taxation until he has reduced the expenses of the state government from the forty two million and more of cost today to a minimum consistent with efficiency. He believes that with a proper reduction of expenses and an efficient management, there WILL BE NO NEED FOR ADDITIONAL TAXES OF ANY SORT. H believes that the simplifying of the governmental machinery together with the elimination of waste and extravagance will solve the problem of the state without cutting the welfare of any citizen or group of citizens. However, if that does not prove to be the case he is ready to submit his tax program which is well known over the state. Incidentally he is open to suggestions from citizens of the state at any and all times.

ROWAN AND THE SALES TAX

Some considerable capital has been made of the fact that Rowan county has received more money back from the sales tax than she has paid in. That is probably true. The excess tax comes from the poor and starving people of Jefferson county, on whom the burden of paying the Sales Tax rests, just as the same burden rests on the poor people of Morehead and Rowan county. We do not believe that Rowan county citizens are selfish enough to want to profit by the suffering of the poor people of Jefferson county. We do not believe that Rowan county wants their roads paved with the blood of the poverty stricken people who must pay; not a three cent tax on their food, but a tax that ranges from five to ten percent of their pitiful income.

So far as we have been able to learn the money that is sent here from the Sales Tax has not lessened the county tax one cent. You still pay the 20 cent road bond tax which was voted on the people when the road bonds were issued. The money coming from the Sales Tax cannot be used for any purpose other than to retire those bonds. It cannot be used to pay indebtedness. It is set aside for one purpose only, to retire the road and bridge bonds already issued by the county. But it does not mean that you do not have to pay the twenty cent road tax you voted. That tax is to be collected and you still pay it as well as the Sales Tax.

We repeat, let us not pave our roads and highways with the blood of little children of Kentucky because a few politicians want the funds to carry on an over expensive state government, creating a few more jobs for a few more friends and climbing to power over the crushed and wretched bodies of the great masses of Kentuckians.

ABOUT TOWN

Kentucky has developed a new sport. It is called "Rhea-sweeping". The Rhaesweepers are building the fences and organizing their highway reserves, mustering their men, assembling their gang and getting ready to ride. Now altogether men, three Rheas and a Bronx cheer for Sales Tax Tom.

A Rhea supporter told us the other day that Happy Chandler was throwing too much mud. We have heard Happy make three speeches and we have never yet heard him throw any mud. He told the truth about the administration and it sounded like mud. But the truth is the truth and cannot be gained. We have yet to hear him refer to Mr. Rhea in person as anything but a gentleman. He disagrees with the Rhea-Lafoon viewpoint on the questions of government for the benefit of the people, that's true. He disagrees with the methods of the present administration. That's true. So many hundreds of thousands of citizens of Kentucky who are grown up under the weight of the Sales Tax, a burden placed on their backs by the administration seconded ably by Tom Rhea. But he has not entered into personalities and he will not do so.

The day after the News was out last week the big Rhea banner which according to reports cost a tidy little sum met its fate at the hands of the elements and collapsed. Conservation gripped the "Foes" of Mr. Rhea. They immediately began to suspect scullery on the part of Chandler's friends. As a matter of fact, the Chandler men had nothing to do with it. It was merely a demonstration that the elements themselves are arrayed with the forces supporting Mr. Happy Chandler and in favor of the Sales tax on a loaf of bread.

THE SCOUTS' TRIP

Preparations were being made for the annual hiking and camping trip of the Boy Scout troop. Food was the chief topic of discussion. Some of the boys were worried about the amount they would have to carry, but the others had different ideas. We don't need to carry much, they said. There are farms near camp and along the road we're taking.

That's right, fresh vegetables and milk. Nothing better than that. The farmers have butter too, and we can get bread at the village store.

What about the milk, asked one boy. Will it be safe?

Sure it will, replied one who seemed to be posted. Some of the farmers pasteurize their milk at the farm and the other farmers are approved by the state inspectors.

Wait until you see those dairy barns added another, they're as clean as a kitchen. And you won't find any diseased cows either. The state is very strict. You'll drink milk all right, a quart every day. That's what I'm going to do.

Peas and string beans will be ready, and young carrots, lettuce, and tomatoes. Boy! I can taste them now. Berries for dessert, some eggs from the farmers and some bacon and meat from the store. We're all set. Let's go.

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright by W. H. Wright

Markham, Heath and I had been booted in the room from the hall as neatly as if we ourselves had shot the bolt and locked it. And there was no evidence of any kind—save the discernible pin-point hole in the crack of the wall—to show that it had not actually been bolted from the inside.

The sergeant, after a moment's stupefaction, threw back the bolt and opened the door.

"It worked?" asked Vance, coming into the room.

It worked, mumbled Heath laconically, lighting the cigar he had been chewing on viciously for the past half hour.

Markham sat for several minutes in a dazed way.

"As you say, Vance, he remarked without looking up, the technique of the bolting of the door from the hall explains one phase of the problem, but I can't see that we're any further along toward a solution of the double murder. Brisbane, after all, was a victim. Why should he have been incarcerated in bulling A. Really, I couldn't say. Vance appeared as puzzled as Markham. It might not have been Brisbane at all. The fact that the pins and the string were in his overcoat pocket means little . . . and yet.

If you want my opinion, pin it to Heath, it was that Chink. Chinkmen are full of tricks. Look at the puzzles these yellow babies think up.

At this moment one of the detectives that had been sent to check Miss Lake's and Grassi's alibis returned to report. His report verified Grassi's alibi, but left a three-period unaccounted for.

Heath made a grimace at Markham.

What I want know is where he was between eight and eleven.

He was shutting to and fro over our complicated transportation system—according to his tale, smiled Vance. Then he turned to the detective. I say, did Doctor Montrose give you any tidbits of gossip regarding Grassi's dinner.

When the detective had gone

Vance went to the phone and called Doctor Montrose at his home. After a few minutes conversation he hung up the receiver and paced up and down.

"That phone call to Grassi, he murmured, very strange. Doctor Montrose says it upset Grassi terribly. Hardly finished his dinner, and seemed in a hurry to get away. The phone was in the hall just outside the dining room door and Montrose couldn't help hearing some of Grassi's end of the conversation. Montrose says he protested bitterly against the message he received—called it an outrage, and intimated strongly that he would take steps.

Steps—now what could that mean, and who could have called him an upstart him? Who knows he was going to Montrose's for dinner? Perhaps Brisbane. Or Archer . . .

Vance sat down and inhaled deeply of his cigarette.

Archer, yes, it could have been. Sergeant, suppose you fetch the signor.

Heath went from the room, and Vance said to Markham:

Ceramics, I know. Nothing would be so likely to stir up Grassi as a disappointment along that line.

The Italian was ushered by the sergeant, and Vance went straight to the point.

Who telephoned to you, Mr. Grassi? Doctor Montrose's yesterday during dinner?

Grassi gave a slight start; then looked definitely at Vance.

It was a personal matter—my own affair.

It was Mr. Archer Coe who phoned you, was it not, Mr. Grassi? came Vance's flat and unemotional voice.

Grassi neither moved nor spoke.

Perhaps he rejected the bargain I had made with you, Vance continued. Perhaps he decided to call the deal off, after thinking it over alone with his treasures. Perhaps he thought it best to inform you immediately of his decision so that you might not talk of the transaction to Doctor Montrose.

Still Grassi did not move, but the inevitable impression he gave was that Vance had guessed the import of the telephone call he had received at the curator's home the night before.

I can well imagine how you felt, Mr. Grassi, Vance went on without alteration of tone. After all, the bargain had been made and you held Mr. Coe's letter of confirmation. But really, you know, you should not have threatened him.

Suddenly the Italian's pent-up emotion broke forth.

I had every right to threaten him! he burst forth, the blood rushing back to his face. For a week I have been negotiating—meeting his constantly increasing prices. Finally, yesterday, we reach an understanding. He puts it in writing, and I am able to Italy announcing my success. Then he rejects the agreement; he tells me he will not sell—that he has changed his mind. He insults me over the telephone; he says I have swindled him. He said he would break every case he owned before he would let me have them.

Vance gave a mirthless smile.

No wonder you were a bit disconcerted at the sight of those Ting yo fragments! But Mr. Coe didn't match the vase, Mr. Grassi. That destruction was achieved—inadvertently—by the person who killed him. Most unfortunate, what?

Vance got to his feet wearily.

That will be all for the present, he said.

Grassi made a low bow and left the room.

Markham addressed Vance as soon as Grassi was out of hearing.

A curious and ominous situation Grassi is refused the collection, on which he has obviously set his heart and staked his honor; and he threatens Coe. Then he disappears for three hours, saying he took the wrong train! and this morning Coe is found dead, with all the superficial indications of a suicide.

But why should he also stab Brisbane? Why should he stab Heath? And why the revolver? And why the bolted door? And especially why the Scottie?

You were counting a great deal on the dog this morning, Markham observed.

Yes, yes—the dog. Vance lapsed into silence for a while, his eyes gazing out of the east window. And no one here liked dogs—no one but Wrede. I fancy he should give his pet away. Vance's voice was scarcely audible; it was as though he were thinking out loud. A Doberman Pinscher too big, of course, to keep in a small apartment. And I wouldn't take Wrede for a dog lover. Too unsympathetic. I think I'll have converse with him.

He stepped to the telephone. A moment later he was talking with Wrede. The conversation was very

The notion still prevails with some women that certain vegetables must be cooked for long periods. Some economic specialists at the University of Kentucky point out that cooking is only for the purpose of softening vegetables, reducing their bulk and making them easier to digest, and sometimes to change their raw flavor.

Long cooking tends to make them mushy, destroys their original flavor, and makes them indigestible instead of easier to digest. It often almost wholly destroys the food value, especially if vegetables are cooked in much water and the water then poured off. With the water goes such minerals as calcium, phosphorus and iron. Valuable vitamins are destroyed by excessive boiling.

The rule to follow, suggests Lillian Brinkman, extension food specialist, is to add as little water as possible, cook only until the vegetable is tender, though still a little crisp, and then use all of the liquid.

Cabbage cooked 5 to 15 minutes has a delicate flavor and practically no odor. Cooked long, a chemical substance in the cabbage decomposes into bad-smelling sulphur compound which goes through the house. This also applies to cauliflower, brussels sprouts, broccoli and any of the cabbage family.

Chandler Endorsed By Anti-Sales Tax Association

The advisory committee of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Kentucky today declared that "an able and beleaguered candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor."

The way of Rhea will be the way of Lafoon, the committee's statement said. It will be the way of state and the way of the sales tax; the citizens who are taxed on their bread and meat and milk to finance extravagance at Frankfort will get no relief if he's elected.

The Anti Sales Tax Association has endorsed Lieut. Gov. A. E. Chandler for the Democratic nomination and Circuit Judge King Swops for the Republican. Both are critics of the sales tax and the current administration of state affairs.

The committee's statement had to do particularly with the candidacy of Chandler. It cited his long opposition to the sales tax, his advocacy of the enactment of the recommendation of the advisory commission experts that submitted a detailed report on Kentucky's governmental system and his successful efforts in behalf of a compulsory primary law.

"Throughout his career," it said of Chandler, his record has been distinguished by an unflinching allegiance to the public.

It continued, Chandler's success in politics is due to the fact that he is a better politician than the politicians. Where they look to horses for orders, he looks to the people. Where they heed private considerations, he looks to public welfare. His first and only loyalty has been to the great mass of citizens. Never has he betrayed them. And never will. That's one reason he'll be the nominee."

The committee spoke of the sales tax law as that stretched piece of legislation that Lafoon demanded as an emergency measure while departments of state were wasting millions.

"Chandler's platform includes: repeal of the sales tax, reorganization of state government along the lines of the Griffenhagen report; reduction of governmental expense; a one-cent cut in the gasoline tax; rehabilitation of the state's penal and charitable institutions; a careful and proper use of the pardoning power, adequate support of education of institutions; and retention of the $12 per capita and just administration of the tax laws.

brief but during it Vance jotted down some notes on the phone pad. When he had replaced the receiver Markham gave an exasperated grunt.

"Why should you be concerned with Wrede's former pet?" he asked.

"I'm sure I don't know, Vance admitted frankly. Some vague association perhaps. But Wrede and dogs don't go together—the combination is almost incongruous as was the presence of the wounded Scottie in the hall. And I hate incongruities.

Markham strove to control his irritation.

"Nothing staggered him. He heard the Doberman only a few months brought him at a show in Wilschester. When he moved from his house in Green-village to his present apartment he gave the dog to some friend of his. He pointed to the phone pad. "I have their names. Think . . ."

EXCEPT WATER PROPOSAL

The contention of those advocating the acceptance of the proposal was that the new college plant will insure a pure and wholesome supply of water, which they contend we do not have at present. While the water supply at present is treated with chlorine, they say it is not filtered and the solid matter is permitted to remain in it, thus giving Morehead a supply of water that is anything but sanitary.

They maintain that it already has cost the city in the neighborhood of ten cents to pump the water necessary to supply the town, and that the city is thus merely changing a questionable supply of water for a pure supply at practically the same rate of cost.

Under the proposal accepted, the city will not pump the water after the plant is completed but will turn that work over to the college plant.

(Continued From Page One) race for the Governorship. I entered this race in good faith and at the earnest solicitation of many loyal Democrats from every part of Kentucky; but the political situation is such that, in my judgment, my own personal interests and, greater still, the interests of the Democratic Party can be served best by my withdrawal. The success of the Democratic Party in the coming state election is of greater importance than the candidacy of any one individual, and I am withdrawing from the race in the interest of Democratic harmony. A Democratic victory in Kentucky this fall will contribute much to the success of a national victory in 1936, at which time our great President will be re-elected.

Governor have pledged themselves to a sympathetic interest in our schools and have subscribed to the policy of the $12 per capita. This is most encouraging to the friends of education.

It is not necessary for me to say that I shall give loyal support to the Democratic nominee for Governor and his associates on the ticket. I have never failed to do that. My services have always been available to the party, and are now. We must win this fall's election, thus paving the way for the re-election of our great liberal president, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

PEARS PAIR WELL WITH MANY FOODS

NOT pared pears but paired pears is what we have in mind in this story because pears, so sweet and juicy all by themselves, pair off wonderfully with other fruits and foods. You can make a nutritious fruit cocktail, for instance, by pairing them off with grapes. Here's the recipe for Grapes in Syrup: Drain syrup from a can of Bartlett pears, tint a pale pink and bring to boiling. Scoop out the pear halves, making cases. Add to the syrup and simmer gently until a pale pink. Remove from the syrup and chill. Skin and seed some green grapes. Fill the pear halves with them, and squeeze over a little lemon juice. Tuck three or five salted almonds in each nest of grapes, and serve like cold small green glass plates.

Marvelous with Meats. Pears pair off with meats in an equally appetizing fashion. They will even go inside them deliciously in this: Pigeon Chicken with Fruit Stuffing: Mix three cups dry crumbs with three-fourths teaspoon sage, three-fourths teaspoon thyme, three-fourths teaspoon summer savory and salt and pepper. Add one-third cup melted butter. Then add one-third cup apple sauce and three halves of canned pears and three halves of canned apricots. Mash. If the mixture is not moist enough with canned pears, more of any of the fruits may be added. Stuff a roasting chicken with this as usual, and roast as usual. This is enough for a three to three and a half pound chicken. When making the gravy, after the chicken is cooked, use half and half milk and the combined fruit juices. Try pork chops with panned pears, and you'll serve it often.

According to W. H. Rice, college engineer in charge of the local arrangements, the work will be pushed to the utmost in order to start construction at the earliest possible moment. So far as possible, local labor is required to be employed on the construction, a fact that should meet a great deal to working men in this county and city.

The plant, according to the plans is to be one of the most complete and modern in the state and will prove a decided asset to the community.

There is nothing in the human make-up more conducive to action and progress than enthusiasm. It is also one of the most contagious of man's better attributes, swaying both the individual and the multitude. Enthusiasm is not only an energy to its original possessor; it creates energy in all who come within range of it. It is the real magic of all human intercourse—in both the social and the business worlds. One really enthusiastic person in an organization will work wonders. But enthusiasm must be real. All imitations of it are flat.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. D. H. Kase, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: Liberty Under Law (Temperance Lesson) Rom. 14:13-21; 1 Cor. 9:3-13.

GOLDEN TEXT: "It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth," Rom. 14:21.

Undoubtedly the law of the three is temperance in all things. Certainly there are many things absolutely forbidden, but in all other temperance is urged. We are apt to misunderstand the term "liberty" and interpret it in the term "license." Freedom of action does not mean a license to do as one pleases.

"The liberty is limited by law and animated by love." Text is a summary unexcelled. It is the definition in law that guarantees liberty. It is the love of man to man that provides helpfulness and privilege.

1. The first passage (13-15) in the text speaks of consideration for others. You may be doing something which seems no wrong if you. But your brother may feel that what you are doing is sin. If so, consideration for him would prevent you from doing that particular thing in order that you may not offend him. You are concerned about your brother and you make the concession in order that he may not be offended by your conduct. This is true brotherly consideration. This is the law of Christian brotherhood. The reason for this is given in the 17th verse. It is every so important that we get every little thing we want in this world; we can give up many of them for the sake of our brethren. The great thing in our living is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost.

2. In the second passage (18-21) we are reminded that our conduct should be such as to commend us to our brethren. "Follow after the things that make for peace." Why not? Should not the children of God be "strong in such conduct" and things whereby one is edified another? Have always in mind the doing of something that will edify and build up in others a better sort of living. Reference here is made to the things of meats. Under the Christian rule there was no particular sin in eating meat, but if some of the Jewish brethren, believing in wrong, opposed it, give it up. Don't destroy the work of God for meat. Don't drink if it causes the weaker to stumble (v. 21).

3. The third passage (1 Cor. 9:22) teaches us to have a consideration toward others. The Christian religion brought new liberties. It broke down legalism and gave freedom to the weaker to stumble. We have liberty in Christ. It is no reason why we should offend the brother who does not understand. Consider him as if all. These indiscretions can be omitted without loss to us. The action of omitting them may save our brother from stumbling.

You will notice that I have used the term "brother," not "fellowman," and this is very significant. This lesson is not to be interpreted in the light of world relationships. "Children of God" are under law rules. They must act on the responsibility of their profession. They profess Christ, they are called to live by the rules of that profession. Their conduct must be considered not only on its moral involvement but also from the fact that they are Christians and therefore must be separate and different from the world. These scripture passages were directed to Roman and Corinthian Christians, not to the world. The world will be judged on more stringent laws of conduct. Their sin against God is the chief factor; the Christian will be judged also by his sin against his brother.

Everyone has his favorite economies and extravagances. The average man saves today to spend tomorrow.

Business is looking up for those who are looking it up.

Why watch the clock? It may be going but it can't get away. Some people believe so strongly in the pursuit of happiness that they make themselves miserable trying to get more out of life than there is in it.

PLAY TROUPE HERE JULY 1

WESTWARD - HO

Bergman Players To Present Drama Again This Year; Crowd Expected.

The Bergman Players, directed by Gene Bergman and featuring his wife in equal roles, will appear here on Monday, July 1, in a play. The production has not been announced as yet.

Miss Tully Bergman, wife of the director, was seen here last week when the troupe played "The Girl and the Man." At that time she was divided into two separate parts in the performance. She played for many years on Broadway with success.

A packed house greeted last year's appearance of the Bergman Players and according to reports from the booking agents, the cast has been strengthened for the summer tour.

BETTER HOUSING
Rusty automobile fenders, deteriorated tops, and other reasons for unnecessary repair bills often may be traced to damp and poorly ventilated garages, according to the Federal Housing Administration, which is insuring moderation credits made by private financial institutions.

Considerable economic loss occurs as a result of poorly designed and improperly built garages. When built on low ground and not drained it is practically impossible to keep the garage dry even when a good floor has been laid. Many garages do not have sufficient windows or louvers for light and ventilation. The result is that when a car which has been exposed to rain, sleet, or snow is driven into the garage and the garage closed, up slightly a very humid condition results that becomes especially serious when the sun's heat down directly on an uninsulated roof. This hot, humid condition in a garage readily causes decay and rust.

While repairing and painting the garage and otherwise getting it into suitable condition it is also a good idea to install running water and artificial light. A heating pipe made of the water pipe, thereby saving expense which would result from separate installations.

An interesting recent visitor to Washington was William Courtney, who has been making a preliminary study of the San Diego Exposition, to determine how far this latest effort at a "world's fair" is likely to attract attention, particularly of travelers and tourists from the East.

Mr. Courtney predicts that more than ten million visitors from all parts of the United States will visit San Diego this summer. His study of the exposition shows that it establishes a new record in world's fair financing. For San Diego committee with the use of emergency relief funds, shoestring financing and other devices, has built a $10,000,000 exposition with a capital of about $750,000 in cash.

"World's fairs," says Mr. Courtney in an article in Collier's Weeklies, are useful strutting places for mankind's ego. They take you window shopping along the avenues of nation's progress. He told administration officials in Washington that the Chicago Fair will complete the job.

Profits of the Exposition will begin with the 3,000,000 th visitor. Then all the money which the Fair makes afterward will go into a community advertising fund.

The San Diego Exposition is located in the center of the city's famous Balboa Park, a 1,400 acre tract which was set aside as park land many years ago, and has since been converted into one of the most beautiful playgrounds in America. Mr. Courtney sums up his appraisal of San Diego's newest effort as follows: "This exposition is not the largest the nation has ever known, but the others had different ideas. Your soul will be touched, rather than your muscles. You will be vastly entertained, educated and wholly charmed."

The chap with the get-up-and-go generally has some staying qualities.

heated during the severe winter months, may be laid in the trench made for the water pipe, thereby saving expense which would result from separate installations.

SPORT AS A SPURGE

It seems that just as we are about to get up some enthusiasm for over the prospects of the Morehead baseball team of the Kentucky State League...

beginning to perk up and take an interest in life. Then they went to Paris and due to the absence of several regulars from the lineup they dropped an important decision to the tail-enders.

where they had jobs and could play ball in their leisure. No body blames the boys. They have themselves to look after and it is a decidedly thankless job to try to run a baseball team on fresh air and sun alone.

players interested. The first half of the season is not over and Morehead will probably try to continue in the league for the balance of the year.

Morehead Wins Two Games From Paris Thurs.; Lose Sun. Other League Games Sunday

Drop Sunday's Encounter By Take Double Header Thursday 9-5 Score; Owingville From Tail-Enders; Dale Stars.

SCHEDULE OF LEAGUE GAME SUNDAY, JUNE 30

Next Sunday Morehead meets Brookville here in what is billed as a double header. With the lineup revamped to fill the holes left by the loss of Carter, Clayton, and Fraley, the dope gives Brookville the edge in the conflict.

Striking a winning streak last Thursday, Morehead jumped on the Paris battery when the smokes had cleared away after a double-header were two more games to the good.

Woodson Dale put the first game on ice for Morehead, holding Paris to six hits, while his teammates were making hay with eight.

Playing with a patched lineup including only two regulars, Tolle and Carter, the Mayville Baby Bees were routed by Brookville Sunday 15 to 2.

It was apparently a Dale Day. In the third inning of the opener, Morehead pushed over three runs on hits by Day, Carter, Clayton and Dale and a base on balls. Paris scored their lone tally on singles by Williams and Morgan while Morehead added a fourth on a walk and a double by Clayton. The final score was Morehead 4; Paris 1.

TIRES MAY LOOK ALIKE ON THE OUTSIDE ON THE INSIDE THEY ARE DIFFERENT

HEAT on the inside created by friction is the main cause of blowouts. Firestone Tires are different on the inside—they are built with the patented extra process of Gum-Dipping that soaks every cord and insulation every strand with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat.

When you realize that there were 882,000 automobile accidents in 1934, injuring 954,000 people and killing 36,000, and that 43,000 of these accidents were caused by blowouts, punctures and skidding, you will be more interested in the make of tires you use on your car.

Firestone performance records again emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof, but give greatest protection against skidding. There are three questions and answers that will solve the problem of what tires to buy:

QUESTION 1—Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?

ANSWER—Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes. For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race every year since 1927. This is the undisputed evidence that Firestone tires offer greatest protection against skidding.

QUESTION 2—Are they blowout-proof?

ANSWER—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the thrilling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Kelly Pettito won the race and broke the record over this 26-year-old rough track without tire trouble—in fact, not one of the 33 drivers had his trouble of any kind.

Joe Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles in 23 1/2 hours, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120° without the trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—Without sacrificing these two important safety features they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?

ANSWER—Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile. This is made possible by the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher modulus and a wider, flatter contour. This thick, rugged, scientifically constructed tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented combination of two outer layers of cords under the tread. This is a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners and greater evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

CHEF'S MEN TAB TWICE FOR LEAD

The chase for the soft ball pennant of the first summer semester began officially Monday when the History team upset the Big House by the lopsided score of 15 to 3. Later the same afternoon, the Cafeteria eked out a 5 to 2 decision over Thompson Hall.

Exhibition games were held on Friday, previous to the opening of the Big House team was shut out 6 to 0 by Joe Lykins, who pitched a no-hit, no-run game for Thompson Hall. In the second exhibition, the Cafeteria beat the History aggregation 10 to 5. Fred Malinko pitched for the History, Shinkles for Cafeteria. Charlie McClave led the Cooks with a homer, triple and double in three trips to the plate.

On the opening day of the regular season when the history downed the Big House, Malone held the boarding house boys in hand thru the six with no hits registered against him. In the last frame, loose balling let the Big House shove three markers.

Miller held Lykins and Thompson Hall in check in the second game on the Monday card, and the Cafeteria scored its second victory of the season, 5 to 2.

The Cafeteria added a third victory on Thursday by trouncing Big House, 9 to 5. Shinkle, for the Cafeteria, opposed Goodson.

In their first start of the season, the Business Men shut out Thompson Hall, 2 to 0. Riddle was effective in the pinches for the oldsters, while stars, but for poor support, might have had better luck.

Umpires who have been chosen to call the league games are Joe Adams, Lloyd Nolan, Roy Adams and Glenmore Hodge.

For Those Weary Hours

The wearing of a handsome reglige gives one feeling of supreme luxury that nothing else quite equals. It's relaxing just to view the pretty fabrics that the summer season has brought forth in luscious appeal. There are washable soft satins and all silk crepes, and even a group of ruffled, printed cotton numbers for the young and fluffy miss. French blue, dusky pink, turquoise and sea green are among the delectable hues that fashion-wise women are selecting to suggest coolness to them before and after the day's warm and crowded hours.

While the trend is away from the college girl version of tailored robe—at least for the summer—a new era is coming. Plain types in darker colors, with frog closings often appearing in the most contrasting colors.

Any bride would want to own the Royal Maid wedding dress of French blue satin with its simple but elegant. Luxurious A-line lace in delicate swirls and effectively in a good treatment of unusual beauty.

AT THE THEATRES

COZY

He may be a great actor to the world but to his Irish Franchot Tone is still a young son with plenty to learn—and there's nothing the old gent can't teach him.

Franchot Tone appears in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "One Night of Love," which opens Wednesday and Thursday June 26-27 at the Cozy Theatre.

Professing to be tired of reading encomiums of praise about his son's career, and calling it unfair that the family should see Franchot on the screen whenever they liked, without his being able to see them, Tone's father filmed a two-reel picture in which all the members of the Niagra Falls family were actors.

He did, in Joan Crawford's little theatre. Before his startled eyes his nephew delivered a monologue to the effect that he, as a growing adolescent, was suffering from "unhappy" the same name and consequently being compared with such a celebrity of his name.

Other shots showed the family unwrapping their Christmas presents from Hollywood, and a burlesque of a supposed morning obscenity before a portrait of the Hollywood young man.

COLLEGE

The charm and beauty of the Mediterranean setting in "Let's Live Tonight" which shows Friday at the College Theatre, provides an entrancing background for the captivating love story the film unfolds. Co-starring Lillian Harvey, who has never appeared more beautiful, and the suave, colorful Tullio Carminati, fresh from his recent triumph in "One Night of Love." "Let's Live Tonight" is a delightful entertainment.
