M. S. BOWNE FAMILY SUMMERS IN NEW YORK

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Bowne and family are spending several weeks at a camp at Keuka Landing, New York. They have leased the camp for the summer and will spend the hot weather there, enjoying the opportunity to fish and bat.

Rhea-Rhea! Happy!

A New Independence Day

The following letter is a copy of the letter said to have been received by every employee of the Highway Department in this district:

Cynthiana, Ky. July 2, 1936
Mr. Rhea, Candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, has arranged to speak here next Saturday, July 6th. Harrison County Democrats are arranging to have an all day meeting, serving "burgers" and other good things to eat.

It has been suggested by a good many of the employees of the State Highway Department that we all work on July 4 and take our holiday on the 6th in order that we may all attend this meeting. I would like very much to see all of the employees in my district together with their families, at this rally. We will have plenty of music and an all-around good time. There will be plenty of shade and free ice water, so come and bring all your neighbors and let's have a grand time.

Yours Very Truly,
(Signed) Frank Lebus.
It would seem that Mr. Lebus-Rhea sets himself up as the dictator of fashions in Independence Day. For 159 years these United States have celebrated July Fourth as Independence Day. It seems that we have all been wrong. Mr. Lebus says "Work on the Fourth and take your holiday on the Sixth."
Is it possible that Mr. Rhea would be, not only governor of Kentucky, but the originator and founder of the United States. "Take your holiday on the Sixth!"
Like all dictators, it looks like the Rhea-Lebus combine has slightly over-reached itself.

MR. RHEA'S PROMISE

Mr. Rhea out-Rubbed Ruby Saturday in his speech at Cynthiana to a burgoo-filled audience. He out-promised, out-pledged, out-talked, Ruby a thousand fold. He took taxes off of $7,500 worth of property. IN PROMISES. He took the Sales Tax off of food. IN PROMISES. He paid the teachers more than $12 per capita. IN PROMISES. He balanced the budget. IN PROMISES. It seems that four years ago, Ruby in his race for governor, made all most identical promises especially so far as living within the means of the state was concerned. Ruby, however, promised not to levy any taxes. Mr. Rhea, in his anxiety to succeed Ruby, went farther. He promised to find out just how much taxes the people could pay and then promised to tax them to the limit. That is undoubtedly one promise he will try to keep.

Just by contrast Happy Chandler, a man of performance, not promises, said that he would reduce the expenses of state government by practicing economy, cutting out useless and unnecessary jobs, cutting down the personnel, eliminating waste and extravagance and thereby save the state upward of six million dollars. He would cut out the Sales Tax entirely. Then, when he has cut out

NEWS STARTS SERIAL STORY I IN THIS ISSUE

In this issue of the News appears the first of a three installment story that will prove of interest to our readers. No more serials, a story based on the moving picture of the same name, a story with a lot of comedy, a lot of fun and a lot of heart interest. We are glad to be able to offer this story in generous installments for the pleasure and entertainment of our readers.
Also, you may see some pictures at the Cozy theatre some time the latter part of the month.

WPA Closes Many KERA Projects To Reopen Soon

Five Projects Are Closed With Many Men Laid Off; On Relief.

With the prospect of the opening of the new WPA, which is the alphabetical 'K' of the new Work Progress Administration, the KERA offices locally have been instructed to close down the present work projects as rapidly as possible, according to Dixon Shouse. Five projects have already been closed down, affecting the labor of 152 men. These men for the time being, unless they are able to find other suitable employment are being carried on a direct relief roster.

This state of affairs is expected to terminate as quickly as it is possible to clean up the present set up and refund which have, not yet been taken care of. In the meantime, projects for WPA are being worked out and submitted for approval.

Five projects have been closed up to be present. They are:

The Morehead and North Fork Road Grade, The Trent Ridge Road, The Upper meeting, The Road, The McBrayer Road, The Bluestone and Bull Fork Road. As stated the five projects were furnishing employment to 152 men.

A new project of considerable extent has been submitted under the WPA setup. It is the Licking River Road which extends a distance of about sixteen miles. This road has been surveyed and is ready for action, according to Mr. Shouse, but as yet nothing has been heard from the State office, as to whether the project has been approved or not.

The new WPA setup, is designed to take every man off of relief and put them to work at an established rate of wages. The work, according to the plans is designed, to give men employment without resorting to direct relief. It is expected by that time it is turned over to the state and county, it may eventually mean the establishment of a poor farm in this county.

CITIZENS BANK RECORD SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

In this issue appears the statement of the Citizens Bank, which is published twice a year. The statement this time is one of the best times the bank has published for some time, showing as it does a decided growth in the past six months. When the statement was published in December, the deposits were only $70,000. At present they are close to $100,000, a gain of $30,000 in six months. It will be noted also that for the first time in a long period the bank shows a net gain in profits, a fact that is of particular interest to the community.

The Citizens Bank, depositors are protected by the United States Deposit Insurance, which guarantees depositors up to $5,000.

REISNER BILLED FOR GRADUATION FINEAL

Dr. Edward Hartman Reisner, professor of education at the Columbia University Teachers College, has consented to deliver the commencement address to the graduating class of Friday, August 16, at 11:00 A.M. held at this year.

Dr. Reisner is a well known lecturer at Columbia for the past 11 years. Before going to the New York institution he taught at Kansas State Agriculture College, and previous to that time, he was at Washburn College in the same state.

He received his preliminary instruction at Cumberland College in Pennsylvania and then attained the bachelor of arts degree at Yale in 1908 and the masters a year later. In 1915, he was granted the doctor of philosophy degree by Columbia University.
At the conclusion of his understanding that work Dr. Reisner was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary fraternity.

Governor J. C. W. Beckham Announces Support Of Happy Chandler Candidacy

J. C. W. Beckham, former Governor and United States Senator, Wednesday night advocated the nomination and election of Lieut. Gov. A. B. Chandler, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor. Governor Beckham was speaking over WHAS, radiophone of the Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times.
In his fifteen minute address on the "Political situation in Kentucky," Governor Beckham stated the right of dictate to the Democracy of Kentucky, nor to criticize any of the candidates for Governor. He expressed the kindest personal regard for each of the candidates.
The former Governor said he had no ambition or personal interest to serve, and expressed his belief that the personal interest elected, would allow no personal influences to interfere with his consideration or temp of power nomination.
Governor Beckham reviewed briefly the record of Mr. Chandler and expressed the conviction that Mr. Chandler would be "decidedly the strongest" candidate in the general election.

"The serious condition of affairs in our state is well known to all intelligent citizens," the speaker said, "and the time is at hand when the Democracy of Kentucky should take a firm hold of the situation and give to the people of the State a candidate for Governor and candidates for the other offices whose records and characters inspire the confidence and support of the people in the November election."
"It is useless for the voters in the general election to turn to the Republican candidates for relief from the evils of State Administration. That experiment has been tried several times in the past with unfortunate results and deep disappointments."

Dance For Baseball Club Tuesday Night

The Morehead Baseball Club brings a unique treat to amusement lovers of Morehead; and this vicinity next Tuesday evening in the form of Bill Pearson and his broadcasting orchestra and a floor show that played in New York City for 6 months last year.
The floor show which lasts for more than thirty minutes is more than worth the admission price. Bill Pearson carries a 12 piece orchestra. He could not have been secured for an engagement here, except that the entire Kentucky State League gave him a contract of 7 times or a week's tour through Kentucky.

The dance will be held at the Morehead High School gymnasium, and the hours will be from 9:30 until 2:00. Tickets will be on sale at all business houses in Morehead on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

HON. B. M. VINCENT TO SPEAK IN SANDY HOOK

Hon. B. M. Vincent will speak in Sandy Hook next Monday afternoon in the interest of the candidacy of A. B. Happy Chandler for Governor. Mr. Vincent, who is also a candidate for the office of Attorney General on the Democratic ticket, is thoroughly familiar with the issues of the campaign and a large crowd is assured him at the neighboring county seat town.

Mr. Vincent is scheduled to speak in Morehead on Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the court house.

HAROLD BLAIR PLAYS IN HAWKINS' ORCHESTRA

Local theatre goers were given an opportunity to hear one of their own numbers last week when Bud Hawkins shows were entertaining in this city. One of the orchestra members was Harold Blair who played the saxophone for the between acts numbers. Mr. Blair offered several solos which were given a great hand.

White Hussars, Arrive At College Friday

Herbert Petrie's White Hussar, a brass ensemble, will present a varied programme at the College Friday, July 19, shortly after the opening of the second term of summer school.

Attired in the brilliant white uniforms as the calvarymen of Croatia and Hungary, from whom they derived their name, the Hussars perform many novel feats with the trumpet and other instruments. With them are vocalists and pianists who vary the programme of musical numbers. They play everything from classic music to ragtime on eleven different instruments.

The director, Herbert Petrie, who at one time solo conductor in John Philip Sousa's famous Naval Battalion Band. For the past six years he has been in concert throughout the United States, Canada and the possessions.

Mr. Petrie, who takes a prominent part in the production, is a student of James E. Westerfield, a senior in the College.

LAST OF SERIES IN MUSIC PROGRAMS

"Come, Let Us Sing" by Mendelssohn will be the name of a cantata to be presented by the music department next Thursday evening. More than 50 voices will sing the chorus parts of the concert. Soloists for the cantata will be Mrs. M. E. George, Nannie Lee Vaughan, M. E. George and Keith Davis. This will be the concluding number in the series of music programmes sponsored by the department.

The college band under the direction of M. E. George presented a programme of band music Thursday night on the library terrace. The feature of the concert was "On The Mall," Kolar-Bela's overture, "Last Step" was also played.

Dorothy J. Riggs, piano instructor, gave a recital June 28. The music of Chopin and Liszt were the features of her programme.
Violin solos were played by Keith Davis for the second number of the musical series. His outstanding selection was "Frank Sonata."
Lewis H. Horton, baritone, head of the music department, opened the June 14, with Schubert's "Erlking," Debussy's "Mandoline" and other songs.

Fair Association Meets To Elect Officers On July 8

Same Group To Have Charge Of Plans For This Year's Fair.

The Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair Association held their first meeting of the season Monday evening in the office of Sup. Roy E. Cornette. The meeting was called to order by President Mrs. Lester Hogge, and the matter of election of officers for the ensuing year was taken up. The following officers were elected.

President, Mrs. Lester Hogge; Vice President, Prof. H. C. Haggan; Secretary, B. H. Kades; Treasurer, Dr. H. L. Wilson. The President appointed the heads of departments as follows: School, Roy E. Cornette; Agriculture, C. L. Goff; Home, Mrs. C. U. Watts; Athletics, Austin Riddle.
The matter of printing the catalogue was discussed and the Secretary was instructed to prepare specifications and advertise for bids on the printing. Sealed bids are to be presented in person by the bidder or their representatives Friday evening of this week, when another meeting is to be held for the purpose of letting the contract for the catalogue and for other business relative to the fair.

The date for the fair was set for October 4th and 5th, with registration beginning the afternoon of the 3rd. This appears to be a late date, but it will be pointed out that some of the schools will not have been in this year for more than a month by this time, and will be unable to prepare for the fair sooner. A late season is an advantage which should be taken. The date will be early enough for good seasonal showing.

COUNTY TEACHERS TO HOLD MEETING

MASONIC LODGE TO GIVE THIRD DEGREE TO EIGHT

On next Thursday, July 18, will be a red letter day in the history of the Masonic lodge here, according to present plans. Eight candidates are scheduled to receive the third degree work that day. The ceremonial will begin at 2:00 p. m. and will last far into the night with a banquet served at the usual evening hour.

Members of lodges in the surrounding territory have been invited to attend the ceremonial and many have already signified their intention of being present, so that a crowd of between two and three hundred are expected to be in attendance. Several of the officers of the Grand Lodge have also signified their intention of being part of the crowd.
At the regular meeting of the lodge of Saturday of this week, candidates will be given the first and second degree.

Rural Schools Of County Open Monday

Teachers and school authorities in this county are getting up their trunks and rolling up their sleeves in preparation for the opening of the new school year of 1936-1936. At 2:00 p. m. every rural district in the county will open for the next seven months on Monday July 15.

The board of education has authorized the erection of two new school houses, built according to modern ideas of construction. A new school room is being added to the Clarke School house which thus becomes a two-room school.

The teachers have been notified of a teachers meeting to be held in Morehead on Saturday, July 13, at the Morehead Public School. An interesting and instructive program will be issued to the teachers.

Two Are Killed In July 4 Car Crash

One of the most tragic accidents to occur recently resulted in the death, last Thursday of J. W. Howard and Leonard Lowe, when the automobile on which they were riding crashed in a truck loaded with coal. The crash occurred on the Sandy Hook road near the Van Hogre Store on Christy Creek Thursday morning July 4. Howard who was riding on the running board of the car, with Lowe, was instant killed, while Lowe died later that day after being taken to Lexington to the hospital.

The death car, a Durant, owned by Leonard Lowe, was driven by Clarence Williams. Other occupants of the Durant were Jonah Slagans and Brown. According to Williams and Brown they were driving up the road toward Elliottville and were on a narrow bridge over the road. As they neared the curve on which the accident occurred

PAVING OR CEMETERY?

Won't it be fun in the dim distant future when our descendants drive over Rowan's highways to see the little tablets erected alongside the stretches of concrete, each one "to the memory of....."

Won't it be interesting historical land mark, when our descendants point out with pride the marker that reads: "This inch of paving paid for with the Sales Tax money that should have gone to buy meat and bread for little Johnny Jones, or Susie Smith, or Annie Brown?"

Then our descendants will go on thoughtfully: "They had funny ideas back in 1934 and 1935. They had what they called a Sales Tax, a tax which collected a penny on every dime that Johnny's or Susie's or Annie's mother spent for bread or meat. And they used it to pay for a large number of jobs that they had to make in order to get votes to pass the tax. And a little of it, they sent back to the counties to pay on bonds they had issued to build the roads and highways. But they still collected the 20 cents road tax."

"Sometimes, according to the stories they tell, Johnny's or Susie's or Annie's mother did not have the extra penny to pay and sometimes she couldn't buy meat to go with the bread. Those old timers, (meaning, of course; us) didn't care much about Johnny or Susie or Annie. But that didn't worry them."

"But," our descendants will add, "there was one man who was not afraid to take a stand for the people. His name was A. B. Chandler, and they called him Happy Chandler, because he went about spreading joy and happiness among the people of Old Kentucky. He stood up and made a fight for the common people. And people flocked to him and heard him and cried out, 'Here is the man we want for Governor of Kentucky! Here is the man who will save us from the politicians who are building roads and having highways with the blood of our children! Here is the man who will return the government of Kentucky to the hands of the people, who will restore the happiness of the citizens!'"

"And that summer on August 3, they turned out in great masses, walking; riding; running to get to the polls to cast their vote for the man who had championed their cause, who had fought against the Sales Tax and who would save their children from the ruthless grind of the politicians."

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Saturday afternoon, from 1:30 to 3:30, citizens of Kentucky had an opportunity to listen to the two outstanding Democratic candidates for the nomination to the office of Governor. Happy Chandler and Thomas S. Rhea. If, after listening to the two addresses they were not able to make up their minds as to which of the two candidates represented the thought and interests of the average citizen, there is something wrong with the picture.

Mr. Rhea, the administration candidate spoke from 1:30 to 2:30. He placed his case before the people of the State. From 2:30 to 3:30, Happy Chandler discussed the issues of the campaign before a Graves county audience at Mayfield.

Mr. Rhea, with all due respect to him, made the average politicians appeal to the voters. He had served the people before, he stood for an oppressed and down-trodden people, he wanted a balanced budget, he pledged that the state would live within its income, he was for a modified Sales Tax with the tax taken off of foods; he loved Kentucky; he would build roads and more roads; he was in favor of finding out how much taxes the people could pay and then soaking them the limit; again he loved Kentucky; he was for the laboring man, let him labor; he loved Kentucky some more. In fact it would seem that Mr. Rhea was courtin' Kentucky, he loved her so.

And Why not? It reminds one of the old time song, called "Treat me Rough, Grover, I like it."

Mr. Chandler, on the other hand made one of the most statesman like speeches we have listened to. He told of his platform, of his plans for reorganizing the state government on a strict economy basis; of the savings he expected to make; he pledged himself to the elimination of the Sales Tax; he showed that the administration had every opportunity to amend the present Sales Tax law to cut out the tax on food stuffs in 1934 and refused to do it; he told of his fight to pass the primary-law which finally was passed, while Mr. Rhea failed to mention it; he challenged Mr. Carey with the ringing statement that he had never bolted the Democratic ticket in his life and he never would; he said that the relief would have been taken care of without the Sales Tax. Governor Laffoon had allowed them to pass the 50 cent whiskey tax in 1933, and added that when the whiskey was moved out of this state to Pennsylvania they put on a $2.00 tax in that state. He stated that expenses of our government could and would be reduced by several millions of dollars if he were elected; that he believed the Sales Tax would be unnecessary, but that if other taxes WERE needed he would ask the legislature to pass taxes that would place the burden where they belonged. He showed that Mr. Rhea, in spite of his statement that he was not opposed to other forms of taxation in preference to the Sales Tax, had been instrumental in defeating every proposed tax measure during the 1934 session, thereby putting the state in a position where teachers, laborers, relief workers and all; were shoved into politics in order to put over the Sales Tax. He proved that he was the friend of the laboring man; that he had always worked; had earned his way through high school and college; that his sympathies were those of the man who knew by experience. His was a masterly presentation of a subject in which he had his heart. His was not a political speech, prepared and read. It was not to include every vote getting scheme that politicians could incorporate. He simply and directly appealed to the people on a platform of honest effort, honest government and honest savings.

News of Yesteryear FROM THE FILES OF THE "NEWS"

8 YEARS AGO, JULY 14, 1927

Judge Allie W. Young was honored at Owingsville last Monday when he was assured the support of the entire district for his nomination for state Senator. He will have no trouble in carrying Mason County, the seat of this district, realize what Judge Young has accomplished and what he will do in the future and they do not hesitate to say they are supporting him.

Miss Flora Hamberg and Johnny Hamm, of Clearfield, were married at the home of John Bradley, this week.

Ruby, the seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dailey, died at her home July 4, at 3 a. m. James Butcher, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dutcher, of this city, suffered serious and painful injuries Tuesday afternoon when he was run over by a wagon loaded with lumber.

5 YEARS AGO, JULY 1930

To say that Morehead appreciated their own talk, which was put on last Friday at the Cozy Theatre for the first time is putting it mildly, judging from the number that attended the show. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cornette are the parents of a baby girl, Margaret Sue, born on Sunday of this week.

Miss Lucy Lee Cooper, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cooper, of Walz, died on July 1, at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Roe, of Laurel, Ky. Mr. Robert-Caudill, who died at St. Petersburg Florida on July 5, was buried in Morehead July 7, at the Caudill Cemetery.

Citizens of Morehead are asked by the water commissioner to economize on the water during the drought.

1 YEAR AGO, JULY 5, 1934

The last case of the June term of Rowan Circuit Court before adjourning Saturday was the sentencing of James Carpenter of this county to 15 years imprisonment for the murder of Ben Dawson three months ago at Dawson's Restaurant and filling Station in West Morehead.

Larry Fraley, a hometown lad, gained a spot in the hearts of Morehead fans again Sunday afternoon, as he stretched his string of consecutive hits at Jayne Stadium to twelve as the Pirates administered a double beating to Cythnians.

AT BAT
When parents want something really serious and important to ponder, think of a boy's baseball game. There's no subject more profound.

The truth of that you will have to discover yourself by analysis. I can't do it in the space at my disposal. Nor can you prove it, if you're an adult, by playing the game. Adults play for fun. They re-locate. Boys work at it. To them baseball is serious. There's all the difference in the world.

Look into the face and eyes of a boy standing at home plate when the bases are filled and a hit means winning the game. Try to imagine situation! Pitcher against batter. Skill against skill. Wits against wits.

No fooling there. But a real case of "delivering the goods." He's got to "come through." It's no time to say "Gee, sellers, I gotta go home, my mother wants me." No quitting under fire. No faltering. Just nerve, concentration, giving every bit of one's self. Such are the times when character is born and tried. If he tries, that is all the boys ask. He may not hit the ball, but if he did his best, he passed the test. He's got the "stuff". He's good material for shaping into a man.

(Are bare feet dangerous? Dr. Ireland will discuss some facts and fallacies about them in his next article.)

J. N. Kennard Announces For Railroad Commissioner

J. N. Kennard of Ashland, has announced his candidacy for Railroad Commissioner in the third district in this week's Rowan County News, subject to the action of the Democratic Party at the August primary. Mr. Kennard is at present Sales Manager for the Sandy Valley Grocery Co., of Ashland. He has wide business connections through out the district which should make him a strong contender for this important office, and he is promising a strong and vigorous campaign for the nomination.

He was born in Morgan county, Ky., in 1894, the son of Fleming Kennard and Martha Lykins Kennard. His mother died when he was four years of age, but through courage and determination he gained his education, and early experience. He began his career as a school teacher in Morgan county, later teaching a few years in the schools of Magoffin county. He has had a wide experience in the mercantile business. In this section and she in Paintsville, where he lived before moving to Ashland. First-hand information regarding rates and a deep interest in the promotion of Kentucky shippers and consumers will be the basis of Mr. Kennard's plea to the voters of this district.

In 1916 Mr. Kennard was married to Miss Lula Wheeler, daughter of the late Chas. W. Wheeler, of Paintsville, and he was associated with Mr. Wheeler in business for a number of years. For the past 11 years he has been a resident of Ashland, and has been very successful in his present position. During this time he has had daily contact with heavy freight shipments and understands the needs for constant vigilance here. He is a brother of N. E. Kennard of this city, which assists him of a heavy majority here.

Mr. Kennard said when inquired that the support and influence of Fleming County Voters would be highly appreciated.

Mr. Kennard should get a good vote in this county, as he is well known.

Many a Friend Recommends

BLACK-DRAUGHT

People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it. — Mrs. C. C. Roberts, Lawrenceville, Ala., writes: "A friend recommended Black-Draught to me a long time ago, and it has proved its worth to me. I find that taking Black-Draught prevents the common headaches which I used to have. It is a purely vegetable medicine."

THE FARM AND HOME

Good hay comes from cutting as in early stage of maturity, quick curing, and so handling that as few leaves and as little green color as possible are lost. Experiments show that hay cut before it is fully ripe is more nutritious and palatable.

Two vegetables besides potatoes should be part of the daily menu. These should include green leafy vegetables three times a week, a green or yellow vegetable three times a week, a green or yellow vegetable daily, and tomatoes two or three times a week. A raw vegetable daily is recommended.

Keeping work horses and mules on pasture during idle days and at night provides them a place to rest and to have free access to water, aside from giving them needed green feed. When on pasture at night, horses need a third to a half less hay.

The Federal department of agriculture says that fewer hogs will be slaughtered this summer in the United States than in many years. Statistics in May was the smallest in 35 years, and stocks of pork were the lowest in 53 years.

CHAPTER I
The Florida had risen high over the heavens. It streamed in broad golden bands, through the windows of the hotel suit, occupied by Marcia and Sherry Warren.

"Marcia," Sherry called into the bedroom. He lounged into the doorway, and a telegram from Fanny, Marcia's grandmother. It contained the handsome old creature's heartiest congratulations on this, their first wedding anniversary. Sherry's eyes traveled with lax appreciation over Marcia's figure as she struggled with the fastenings on her bathing suit. Then the door was swiftly closed in his face. He promptly raised his voice in loud complaint.

"It's against the law for a wife to lock her husband out of her bedroom," he howled.

Instantly the door opened with a rash and Marcia hurried herself into his arms.

Sherry then proceeded to kiss her abundantly with fervor. Releasing her for a moment he looked at her craftily. "Darling, it's a lovely after-noon—here," he said, "don't you think perhaps—we'd better stay in?"

Marcia slowly melted into his embrace with rapturous content. Her fancy basted itself with the past year, the days and weeks of almost unbearable happiness that she and Sherry had shared—all in spite of the gloomy predictions of their crash on the rocks.

Shaking their heads pessimistically they had one and all pointed out Sherry's reputation as a philander and Oliver Alder, one of Marcia's disappointed suitors had put it even more bluntly to Fanny. "He's a rotter bad influence in any girl's life. He's over thirty and he's been a professional lady-killer since he was seventeen." The malice in his voice had been edged with just a faint unconscious tone of envy.

Fanny's mouth had quivered, then she had sighed a little guiltily perhaps, for Sherry's undeniable charm had won her too, albeit unwillingly. "There's a good deal to be said for libertines," she had admitted reluctantly. They're a much abused lot. Fragrance delights their eagerness, excites them. More often than not, the libertine is more his own victim than any of his so-called victims.

And now as Marcia curved herself into his arms Sherry thought of that night a year past, when he and Marcia had faced, each other breathlessly.

Marcia had looked at him with shining eyes. Just a moment my good man. Let's get this straight. We're a pair of fools.

They haven't a chance. It's bound to be a most bad ending, top.

"Hideous. Sherry had pulled her close to his pounding heart. But Darling, I make only one promise. I'll never call you darling unless I mean it."

They both started now as the telephone rang with discordant shrillness. It was Fanny, telephoning them long distance for good measure.

As Marcia habbled excitedly into the telephone for what appeared to be the beginning of a long session, Sherry, feeling vaguely disconcerted, left the room. Strolling to the beach he ensconced himself under a beach umbrella.

Not many minutes later Marcia said quietly, just behind him, why the fellow's so good."

He jerked about guiltily. Hello darling. Was I frowning? Maybe it was because I wondered whose you were.

She was a very pretty girl. Marcia said, poking gentle fun at him, the while her eyes gazed after the retreating back of a slimly attractive girl. Marcia had seen her rise hastily just as she had appeared. Who is she?

She says her name is Sally French and I suppose she knows. He rubbed his chin reflectively. She's pretty isn't she? Then he explained. Casually, the young woman in question had drifted to his table, introduced herself as the friend of an old friend, then, after some desultory conversation had abruptly left.

There was the solid ring of truth in his words and Marcia believed him. She took a swift breath. I will not torture myself every time you look at a pretty girl. Especially if she's not too pretty. Her mouth smiled on him generously. Have cock tails with her tomorrow. Certainly not.

"I've been waiting half an hour. There she included Sherry in her gaze. How do you do, Mr. Warren? Her smile was consciously alluring.

Why hello, Terese, how are you? he answered, remembering dimly the chance encounter with her in a night club where she had beguiled the patrons with softly tuned banjo music.

Wouldn't you know it? Edgar groaned and all the resentment of past years was in his voice, years when Sherry had somehow always managed to walk off with every girl he had ever fancied.

It's a small world, isn't it? Sherry glibly said.

And now circumstances seem to be conspiring against Edgar for he was being summoned to the telephone. With an agonized backward glance he left.

Sherry seated himself at the table with Terese. He had decided to give her one drink and then make a dash for the railroad station where he was to meet Marcia. They were talking the six-to train to the country and had sentimentally decided to have a week-end alone—with Fanny!

No, Sherry smiled vaguely, still Terese looked at him under drooping eyelids. I don't suppose you remember losing your cigarette case that night at the Cascade club and getting it back with a note in it from me?

Sherry stirred uncomfortably. Why yes. Yes. Although I suppose it would be better if I didn't. You see, he continued in answer to her uplifted eyebrow, while sudden and unaccountable temptation assailed him, you're really terribly attractive and it isn't so easy to—

And I still mean what I said in that note, can't the soft reply.

Sherry was silent. His head seemed to be buzzing. Marcia's voice was in his ears, Marcia's glowing smile was before him and yet, curiously, she seemed hazy and far away. He passed his hand over his eyes and rose abruptly. Then, stammering out a hurried goodbye he bolted for the door.

Reaching the street he consulted his watch. There was still time to get home, Crossing to the other side he walked into Joe Williams's bar, seated himself and ordered a drink.

Then, startled, he glanced at the door.

Edgar stamped in furiously. Well, where is she? he bellowed.

'Darling, it's a lovely afternoon here,' he said, 'don't you think we had better stay in?'

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kazee, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: NAOMI (A woman of Faith and Courage). Ruth 1:14-22; 4:14-17 (Read the entire Book of Ruth).

GOLDEN TEXT: "A woman that feareth the LORD, she shall be praised." Prov. 31:30.

In the study of Naomi it is very difficult to keep Ruth from becoming the heroine and absorbing our interest. Indeed Ruth is the heroine of the story, but we must realize that something was back of Ruth which made her what she became. Thus we must recognize Naomi, her mother-in-law.

Naomi represents what we would call a great Christian Mother. How scarce they are today! The writer has in mind a mother much like Naomi. They bear with patience every sorrow, both their own and those of others, and their faith in God never wavers, no matter how hard the test, Naomi was able to share the fellowship of Job.

The story is sad, yet beautiful. A serious depression struck Judah; a famine threatened. The entreprising citizens sought refuge in other parts. Naomi, helpful and willing in this trial, accompanied her husband and sons to the land of Moab, seeking food and shelter. Her husband died. Her sons found wives among the beautiful women of Moab, heathen though they were. Yet she became a good mother-in-law to them. Through her kindness she won their respect and love. Then the sons died. Sorrow had filled her cup and left her with no man in the family. Two daughters-in-law looked to her now for advice and help. Naomi told them in motherly kindness, "There are no more sons in my family, I am a woman consumed in sorrow. I can give you nothing now that would help you. You are both young. Go on back to your people and I shall return to mine, where I will be cared for as a widow." Orpah took her counsel and returned. But Ruth had discovered something in Naomi which was too grand and serene not to be desired with all her heart. Naomi's religion, faith in the God of Israel, had sustained her in all her sorrow. Was there not something to be desired in that? And could she find it in her heart to go back to her heathen religion from that which had so impressed her in the life of Naomi? No! It was an impelling force which held her, and so, forgetting all her prospects at home; facing the sadness of a life with her widowed mother-in-law; impelled by a love which had sprung from the patience and kindness of a godly mother-heart; Ruth declared in all solemnity: "Whither thou goest I will go, where thou lodgest I will lodge, thy people shall be my people, thy God shall be my God; where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried."

A Gentle converted to the faith in Jehovah through the patient, living, living religion of a godly mother. Exit there was blessing in store for Ruth. A wise mother like Naomi took advantage of her opportunities. The marriage of Ruth to Boaz is indeed the turn of a beautiful romance. The wisdom and act of Naomi, wholesome match-maker, but she was, in an attractive part of the romance. And then a child was born, Naomi becoming a grand mother nurse to it, and that brought gain into the family the man child which was to perpetuate the family. A Gentle was privileged to see the blood line which was to give birth to David, and to Christ the Son of God in the earth.

Back of all his marvelous story we must not forget that our heroine Naomi, godly mother, with faith and won the heart of beautiful Ruth to the religion of Jehovah, and courage that sustained her. We might ask the question: Is our religion attractive enough, does it mean enough to us, to make anyone else want it?

"Kentucky is a great Commonwealth and no better people live anywhere than within its borders. They deserve the best Government possible, and I hope to see the Democrats in the August Primary offer to the people such candidates whose names will give assurance of for Governor and other office an honest and economical administration of State affairs.

"I have been requested by a great many people in the State to let them know what was my position in reference to the Governor's race in the approaching Democratic primary and I am taking this means of doing so in answer to the numerous inquiries in letters and in person. It is not my purpose to assume the right to dictate to the Democracy of Kentucky whom they should nominate for that high office, but as a Democrat and a private citizen I can see no objection to my expressing by preference among the candidates.

No Personal Interest. "I shall never cease to be grateful for the confidence and esteem shown me by so many good people of the State in urging me to become a candidate for Governor; and because I did not see my way clear to do so did not mean that I was lacking in a sincere and profound interest in the cause of good Government in our state and in the welfare of our people.

"In this present contest for that office I have no ambition or personal interest whatever to serve and the only request I shall make of the candidate whom I support will be that, if nominated and elected, he will allow no personal consideration or temptations of powerful influence to prevent him from giving to Kentucky an honest, fearless and intelligent administration of its public affairs. That is my only interest and concern in the present political situation.

"I shall not undertake to discuss the issues involved in this campaign, nor shall I say a word of criticism of any of the candidates for Governor, for whom I have the kindest personal regard.

"But in considering the conditions in our party and in the State it is my candid and firm conviction that the Democratic Party in the August Primary should nominate, and the people should elect, as Governor for the next four years, Hon. A. B. Chandler.

Lewis Chandler's Record

I have observed his course and conduct of office for some years, and I have found nothing in his stomach, worthy of praise and commendation. He is a fine product of Kentucky's young manhood. He is a self-made man. As a struggling youth, with no means except what he himself could earn, he worked his way through school and college until he secured a good education. He has experienced the hardships and privations of a hard-earned home-reared in affluence, but with a courageous and happy nature he met those difficulties and learned those lessons of human sympathy and tolerance essential to one who would govern a people wisely and well. In his services as legislator and as Lieutenant Governor, I have never heard of an instance where he was in the least influenced by a privilege-seeking or corrupt organization against what he considered the best interests of the people. He has courage to a high degree has been shown on several occasions, notably when he spoke in the exercise of a constitutional right and duty, he called the General Assembly in extra session to pass a primary law. It was a timely and wise act. But only a brave official would have done under the circumstances. His fearlessness at all times in championing the rights of the people has made him some enemies; it should make him many more friends among all lovers of good government.

Called Strongest Candidate.

"He has impressed me with an intelligent and earnest purpose to be of real service to the State. He is a comparatively young man, active, vigorous and capable. Some critics would speak disparagingly of that characteristic of his represented in his nickname of 'Happy'. On the contrary, I like it. Through all the vicissitudes of his life, he has won that title by his cheerful disposition in meeting difficulties, and we may with confidence indulge the hope that as Governor, in a wise and successful administration of State affairs, he would distribute some of that happiness throughout Kentucky and that more of our people could also adopt the title of 'Happy' than has been the case for some years.

"It is my opinion that Mr. Chandler is decidedly the strongest candidate we can nominate in the primary to carry the banner of democracy in the autumn campaign, and to meet attacks of the Republican candidate.

"In closing, let me take the liberty of reminding the Democrats of Kentucky that if I had not been con-

EARNEST E. SHANNON for AUDITOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

Ernest E. Shannon, above, of Louisa, a former member of the state board of charities and corrections and the first purchasing agent of Kentucky, is receiving wide support for the Democratic nomination for state auditor. Mr. Shannon is a brother of the Rev. Fredrick F. Shannon, pastor of Central Church, Chicago, one of the noted pulpit orators of the country, and is a close friend, politically and personally, of Congressman Fred M. Vinson. He was a member of the 1929 general assembly during the administration of the late Gov. P. Morrow and, although he has never before sought an elective public office, is one of the outstanding Democratic leaders of the Big Sandy section. Mr. Shannon was for a number of years engaged in the hardware business at Louisa, but more recently has devoted his time to his farming interests.

the prompt and statesmanlike action of Mr. Chandler in calling that extra session, they would not have had the privilege of naming their candidate for Governor, and that, therefore, I would seem, considering his other qualifications for the office, that they should give him, as I shall do, their active and hearty support for the nomination."

TOBACCO PRODUCTIONS

(Continued From Page One) The central committee has appointed five supervisors for measuring land in tobacco and checking other features of Compliance. The supervisors are John D. Caudill, Geo. Brown, Ray, Frank B. C. Linton and John Caudill, with Willie Anderson as Alternate. The measuring of tobacco land is to be completed this month. A vote is being taken at the same time that compliance is checked. Each contract signer and all tobacco producers not under contract are given a chance to express their wishes as to whether or not they want the tobacco program continued after his year.

THREE C. CONTEST

(Continued From Page One) third prizes will be one dollar and fifty cents respectively. The CCC Camp is now known as Camp Co. 578 and the officers and employees want a name that will in some way describe the camp or the work carried on by the camp. Any name will be accepted if only one will be selected as official. A committee of the officers will be the final judges and they will not know the name of the winner until it is published in the camp newspaper. Folks, get busy and give the CCC Camp at Clearfield a name worthy of the splendid road they are making in the county and the training for citizenship they are giving to the hundreds of deserving young men.

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE Copyright by W. H. Wright

"When Vance and I arrived at the Coe house, Markham and Sergeant Heath were already there. There was a detective from the homicide bureau sitting glumly on the front steps.

We went to the second floor, walked back toward the front of quarters. The curtains were drawn the house, and entered Grass's and all the lights were on.

Heath and Markham stood at the foot of Grass's bed, looking at the postulate figure lying there. Sitting in a straight chair, on the opposite side of the bed, was a capable looking man of about forty.

This is Doctor Lobenz, Markham informed Vance. Gamble called him in.

Doctor Lobenz looked up, nodded and went on about his work with swift efficiency.

Grass lay on his back, clad in white silk pajamas. He was ghastly pale, and the arm nearest us moved restlessly on the sheets, like that of a person under the influence of hyoscin. There was an area of blood perhaps 12 inches in diameter, on the sheet at his left side nearest the doctor. His pajama coat was also stained with blood. His eyes were closed, but his lips were moving inconspicuously.

Presently the doctor rose. I think that's all I can do for him at the minute, Mr. Markham, he said. Ill send for the ambulance immediately.

Markham nodded. Thank you, Doctor.

Then he turned to Vance. Grass was stabbed through the left arm. Doctor Lobenz says it is not a dangerous wound.

Vance's eyes were on Grass's face. Without looking up he spoke. Just what is the nature of the wound, doctor?

He was stabbed at the outer border of the biceps tendon, where it crosses the dimple of the anti-Cubital fossa. The thrust punctured the median basilic vein and caused a profuse hemorrhage. But it luckily missed the basilic artery. What shaped weapon would you say was used? asked Vance.

The doctor hesitated. The wound was a bit ragged, and of a rather peculiar conformation; it was not made with a knife, but with some instrument like a very thick awl.

Could it have been a small dagger with a diamond-shaped blade? Yes, very easily.

Vance nodded. You're taking him to the hospital? (Continued Next Week) the waste and extravagance and cut the expenses of the state to where they ought to be. He will propose taxes which will produce sufficient revenue to run the state government on that basis.

He believes that there will be sufficient money without the Sales Tax, but if they should run a little short, he is prepared to carry out a tax program that will give just an equitable taxation without placing the burden on the backs of the depression stricken people. There you have the two extremes of taxation. "Find out how much burden the people can pay and tax them to the limit" and "Cut the cost, eliminate the Sales Tax and raise just as little as necessary."

Which program appeals to the voters of this county?

Ernest Fannin to whom the truck belonged and who was driving at the time the accident occurred, stated that he saw the car coming driving on the wrong side of the highway, and realizing that he could not stop attempted to pull over to his left and thus avoid the collision. Witnesses who examined the scene immediately following the crash stated that the truck indicated that Fannin had been on his own side of the road and had pulled over to avoid the oncoming car.

Both Fannin and Williams were held under bond of $1,000 for appearance at the next term of the Circuit Court.

Funeral services were held at Sand Gap on Saturday for Mr. Howard and on Sunday for Mr. Lowe.

HUDDLESTON FOR GOVERNOR

His nomination means much for You The political bosses don't want him. Therefore he must be a man in whom the people can place their trust.

Democrats must seek to get in the run-off primary, the man who will be strongest in November.

To the Democrats who sincerely desire to defeat Tom Rhea, in the second primary, the Huddleston candidacy offers you your only hope of success.

To the Democrats who desire to defeat the Republicans in November Huddleston is your only chance.

Huddleston as state treasurer has proven his worth. He will stabilize the sales tax and raise the state's revenue through a luxury and an income tax.

He pledges himself to save the people $4,500,000 annually in the operation of the state government.

Write me Room 543 South Hotel, Louisville and tell me what you are going to do in your county.

AVOID THE DANGER OF BLOWOUTS

Firestone removes the danger of blowouts by preventing their main cause—internal friction and heat. This is accomplished by Gum-Dipping.

THERE ARE THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS THAT WILL SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM OF WHAT TIRES TO BUY.

1 "Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

2 "Are they blowout-proof?"

3 "Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Jr. Merchants Take Game From Mt. Sterling Saturday In A 11 To 10 Victory

Come From Behind To Nose Out Victims; Lead League Race

Morehead's Junior Merchants took the lead in the Junior League Saturday when they defeated Mt. Sterling at Mt. Sterling, after nine innings of hectic play. The extreme heat of Saturday made the boys play hopeless ball until they woke up to find themselves in what looked like a hopeless hole, Mt. Sterling leading 8 to 2.

The Merchants then came to life and put out some advertising. They rolled up a total of sixteen hits, which overtook the lead of Mt. Sterling and in the first of the ninth forged ahead just enough to take the game and put it on ice.

Walter Gehr, hurling for the Merchants, held the Mt. Sterling team to six hits, but numerous errors behind him allowed the Mt. Sterling boys to pile up the score.

However after they tightened up, they showed the fans some real baseball. Ligon Kessler, catcher for the Merchants added to his hitting record with three hits Saturday. Kessler has established a real record for himself this season, with ten doubles and seven triples to his credit.

For the fourth time the Merchants have scheduled a double header with Owingsville to be played here Saturday afternoon. The boys have had to postpone their meeting with Owingsville three times already on account of rain and various other things. This time they hope to be successful in meeting and defeating the visitors. They would like to have as many fans out to see the game as can arrange it. They feel that they are just as much Morehead's team as the older fellows and just as important. We rather believe they are right.

According to their report, Vanceburg is expected to be in the Junior League the last part of the season.

STRONG FIVE SEEN FOR WINTER P L A Y

Few Regulars Lost; Freshmen Will Require Strong Material To Fill Gaps Left.

Prospects for a winning basketball team during the school year of 1935-1936 are excellent due to the fact that only three were lost from last year's varsity squad, and five or six star freshmen will be available to fill the gaps left by graduation.

Roy Adams, John Shuey and John Rossin, strong guards on last season's team will return in September. The nucleus of the winter hardwood team will be formed around those boys, it is believed.

William Ryan, regular for two seasons, and John Francis, sub guard, will be available next year. It is possible that one or two others may be shifted to a forward berth. Wade Hall, who played in his freshman year, will also be available. Coach G. D. Downing said that it was possible that Fred Caudill, sub forward, would be out for the team.

Willard Johnson and Lus Oxley, regular forwards who were lost by graduation, will be replaced by Barnes (Peeney) Peters, Cecil McKinney, Carl Bach, Bert Bach or some other members of last year's strong freshman team.

Roy Caudill, varsity center, will be replaced by Lawrence Carter, if the latter is eligible by the time the basketball season rolls around.

With a strong S. I. A. A. schedule to be played next winter, it is probable that the hardwood players will develop the strongest team produced here at Morehead. Plenty of reserve material will be available to support the well-balanced first team.

SPORTS PLURGES

Will Morehead continue their efforts during the second half of the year? That is the much mooted question that is agitating the baseball minded of this section. The first half will close this week with the playing off of several postponed games. The local team is hopefully going the running even if they were to win all three of their games this week.

The second half schedule has not yet been arranged. According to Bob Day he will be unable to devote any time to baseball the second half. Other members of the team are discouraged over the poor showing they have made, the loss of prominent players, and the poor attendance at the games.

There is little doubt but that Morehead demands a winning team. At least a team that has a fair standing. The local fans apparently do not fall for a loser. The result has been that the attendance has dropped to such an extent that the team is unable to meet even the light expenses of this year.

There is really only one solution to the local problem. That is to establish the league as an amateur proposition playing only local men and dividing the receipts after expenses are paid.

On the face of it, Morehead had two successful seasons in baseball. The fans should be able to stand an off season every once in a while. But the fact remains that they don't.

History had proved that the average small town will support a baseball team for about two years. Then the finances are exhausted and the town requires a rest of about five years or more. Let's see how the average applies.

Haldeman maintained a good ball club for several years. Gradually the team became weaker and the support smaller and the team at last broke up. Since that time Haldeman has not had a baseball team. About the time Haldeman was in his baseball glory, Olive Hill came through with a good club. It lasted for about two years and then gradually faded out of the picture. Now only a memory.

Several years ago the Blue Grass League was in existence and Morehead had what is recorded as its best ball club. But those boys are all dead and have scattered and grown old. That was the last effort of Morehead to maintain a team until the organization of the present league three seasons ago.

After all, it all goes back to finances. Given sufficient backing any town can maintain a good club. But it takes money and after one or two seasons of "paying the kitty" the business men decide that it is about time to recuperate and save up to replace some of the money spent.

Then locally there is the other question of Too-Much Sports.

That may seem far fetched. But consider that Morehead is a town of about one thousand inhabitants, supports four football teams, four or five basketball teams, and what have you. The fans here are gluttons for punishment when it comes to sports. But observation leads us to believe that in the summer most of them want a rest. They want to go placid and do things. They want to get away from the sports of all kinds. Naturally we are talking only the average fan.

Anyway, there will probably be a baseball team of sorts during the second half. It is a winner; if it finds a manager who will devote his time and money to the task. We hope so for the sake of the boys.

Morehead Drops Two Games Sunday To Give Owingsville League Lead; Other Contests

5 S. I. A. A. ELEVENSON ON GRID SCHEDULE

Georgetown Scheduled For First Time In History Of School.

Five Kentucky teams, two from Tennessee and one from Ohio, will probably appear in the Eagle's football schedule next fall, according to Coach G. D. Downing.

Georgetown will be played for the first time this year. Four other Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association teams will be met. They are Union, Transylvania, Eastern and Louisville, which have appeared in the Morehead schedule in the past.

Negotiations are underway with Hanover College, East Tennessee State Teachers College, Tusculum College to fill out the card. In the last two years, Morehead has split lost there in 1933 by the score of 7 to 6 and winning here last fall, 10 to 12.

The schedule is as follows:
Oct. 5. — Georgetown, there.
Oct. 12. — Open.
Oct. 19. — Union, there.
Oct. 26. — Transylvania, here.
Nov. 2. — Eastern (homecoming).
Nov. 9. — Open.
Nov. 17. — Louisville, there.
Nov. 23. — Open.

POULTRY DISEASE

Reports received at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, indicate an unusual amount of diseases and parasites among chickens and turkeys this year, probably due to the wet weather.

Turkeys have been troubled with coccidiosis blackhead, tapeworms and saprozoites, and coccidiosis, has been prevalent among chickens. In both turkeys and chickens, these troubles affected birds at a younger age than they normally do.

The organism that carries coccidiosis is gotten off in the droppings of sick birds, and in this way the feed and water become contaminated.

The disease may be prevented by sanitation. Equipment should be cleaned often, and a minimum amount of litter that is free from dust and mold used. Clean water and milk receptacles daily, using boiling water, and so protect them that the birds cannot get into them or otherwise contaminate them.

As soon as evidence of coccidiosis appears, give one tablespoonful of cymon salt in the drinking water for each 100 young birds, and for 50 birds four weeks old or for 12 older birds.

With the peak of egg production for the year in the past, it is expected that prices will continue comparatively good. The 15 percent larger business of hateries may tend to increase production in late fall and winter.

The College of Agriculture has a catalog of farm buildings plans suitable to Kentucky conditions. From this catalog, plans may be selected and blueprints ordered for the cost of labor in making them. Ask for Extension Circular No. 111.

Mt. Sterling Wins Two From Brooksville; Holding Second Place.

Morehead took another slump Sunday when Owingsville slipped again into the league lead by two wins of a double-header over the locals. The games were played at Owingsville, and gave Feedback an opportunity to chalk up another win. Feedback, at his best Sunday, narrowly missed a no hit, no run game. He delivered brilliant ball until the first of the ninth, with the Morehead team entirely at his mercy. Not a man had hit safely in the first eight innings. In the first of the ninth, Vinson, playing short for Morehead landed on one of Feedback's offerings for two bases.

Both games furnished some nifty hitting, the first going to Owingsville by a 2 to 1 score, and the final going the same route 2 to 0.

Dale for Morehead in the first game was effective, in all but the first two innings when Owingsville scored one run in each. Morehead was helpless against the pitching of McKenzie until the seventh when they scored one run, which was two less than enough to win.

Leslie, hurling for Morehead in the nightcap led Owingsville down with two hits, but it was enough when Feedback allowed only one.

With four games won and two losses, the Morehead Junior Merchants lead in the Junior League, although Mt. Sterling has the same standing. Mt. Sterling has played three games, having won two and lost one. Owingsville has played two, won one and lost one. Flemingsburg has played three and lost them all.

Vanceburg won over Mayesville Sunday, thus keeping themselves right up in the top bracket in the Kentucky State loop. Vanceburg follows close on Mt. Sterling and Owingsville for the league leadership.

Paris took two games from Flemingsburg in the Kentucky State League Sunday lifting themselves out of the cellar and showing Flemingsburg and Morehead that they are still in the game.

Morehead has a dropped the twin bill to Paris. The result in the two games were 5 to 2 and 11 to 2.

Flemingsburg made six errors in the last game.

Pacing right along with Owingsville, league leaders, Mt. Sterling took two from Brooksville Sunday. The games were played at Mt. Sterling. Mt. Sterling took the "Three game to 1" and ended a perfect day by winning the second 8 to 2.

Q.—The climate where we live is rather humid, and we have trouble with mildew growing on the woodwork of the house. How can this be removed and treated so as to eliminate it further trouble.

A.—The mildew may be removed from the painted surface with an alkali cleaning compound, such as trisodium phosphate or sal soda. Dissolve 1 pound of either in 1 gallon of water. Wash off the milder with this solution and then rinse in clear water. Then ask your painter to apply a paint which has been treated to resist the development of mildew. Paint manufacturers have made recommendations concerning the proper fungicide which should be added to the paint for this purpose.

GRID OUTLOOK DEPRESSED AS STARS "FLUNK"

Loss Of Frosh. Vets Expected To Prevent Successful Season In Fall.

Coach G. D. Downing anxiously awaits the call for football practice in September to see how many of his varsity and freshman prospects have been held by ineligibility or withdrawal. To date, 13 highly-considered gridsters have dropped from the roster of team possibilities. "Flunking" subjects has been the principal menace.

However, if the coach can assemble the remaining material next fall, a fairly strong team is to be expected. Out for backfield posts: Furten, star fullback on last year's team; John Wray, a veteran; Pete freshman team; Jarrell Vinson, star passer; Woodson Dale, freshman signal-caller; William Ryan, veteran end and half-back, and Tim Wyant, freshman half.

Claude Clayton, star halfback, and Bill Reynolds, first string full last year, have stated that they would not be back to school. Earl Mowery, one of the most promising halfbacks seen on the local gridiron in recent years, failed to make his standing. Earl Baber and Graydon Hackney, regular ends, will not return. William Moebebe, varsity quarterback, may return next fall. Coach Downing said.

Only two sophomore ends will be available. They are Bruce Henderson and Luke Vainey, freshman footballers. Henry Addington, veteran, will be back to fill one of the tackle posts, and other vets, Triplett, Frank Merritt will hold down the other tackle berth if they attain eligibility by that time.

Only one guard at present is available for duty, Jim Noe. Sterling's modern, promising freshman guard, has signified that he would not return to school.

It is probable that Joe Taylor will take the center position, having played there last season on the freshman team.

Other prospects who have been lost are Robert Brashear, center; Elijah Grinstead, guard; Dan Carson, tackle; Homer Taylor, guard, and Phil Hardin, tackle.
