WANTS INDIAN ROCK PRESERVED
BY REMOVING IT FROM RIVER

Honus Welty, a collector of Indian relics and curios, weighs in with a good suggestion. Honus thinks Portsmouth citizens should take steps to preserve the famous Indian rock now exposed to view in the river. He would remove the stone to York place or Tracy park, where it may be seen all of the time. This should be done before the government dam is completed or it will be lost to view forever.