From the Maywille Eagle. Mr. Eprron: After paying a kind of fly ing visit to your city, I have taken the lib-crity to jot down a few of the impressions made on my sind during my sojourn in your place. A transient visitor is first strock with the rapid chan we that have tastrock with the rapid chan."'s that have ta-keen place. Where a short time since four of the principal corners of your streets were piled with the ruins of a succession of de-structive fires, now, in the lapse of a few short months, they are again covered with blocks of Ware-houses and Store Rooms, four read for business that successions (just ready for business,) that would proudly grace the corners of A Great City. In passing up Second street, the eye of the traveller rests on two blocks of elegant store-rooms, on either side of the street, apparrooms, on either side of the street, appar-ently too grand to keep company with their more humble neighbors. Whilst carnesdy watching those evidences of Maywille en-terprise, we cordially adopted the remark made to us a few days since by one of the most enterprising farmers in this country, that, after long observation, he was now convinced that Maywille was destund to be a place of very commanding importance. But, sir, all of us are aware that the per-manent errowth of a circ. Means to the source of the manent errowth of a circ.

But, sir, all of us are aware that the per-manent growth of a city, depends on the investment of capital in Manufactures—. Your city can already boast of a fine Col-ton Mill, costing its caterprising owner more than sixty thousand dollars, and es-tablishing a character for its Yarus, inferior to noue in the Union. But, whilst speaking of the manufacture of Hemp, we must notomit to mention the improvement making by which your inge-nious townsman, Dr. Leavit, proposes to break unrotted hemp from the rick. He has already got his machinery partly in oper-lion, and having lately conversed with farm-ers, who have in their possesion specimeas of the broken hemp, they express no doubt as to the complete success of the Doctor's chinery near Louisville, which is acknowl-edged to be very inferior to his new ma is ackny prices.
