LEGION CAR CATCHES FIRE HERE SATURDAY

Fire Saturday night caused considerable excitement in the West end of Morehead, near the Red Front store, when the engine of the "40 and 8" on its way to the Legion Convention at Lexington, was discovered in flames.

The local fire department was called and the flames extinguished with comparatively little damage, out side of a few burns to the Ashland boys who were accompanying the "train."

"Happy" Days Are Here Once More

Sunday night was a gala night in Morehead, when Happy Chandler came to town on his way to Sandy Hook. Happy and Mr. Burnham spent the night in Morehead, and received almost as great a reception as if his coming had been announced. As a matter of fact, very few knew that he would be here and those tried to keep it a secret. But in Morehead as elsewhere, whenever a crowd gathers it indicates that Happy Chandler is the chief topic of conversation.

A delegation of approximately twenty men from Elliott county waited five or six hours for his arrival. They just wanted to see him and shake his hand before he went to Sandy Hook where he spoke Monday morning before the greatest crowd ever assembled in the Elliott county capital.

Speaking of meetings, that was one of the outstanding meetings ever held in Eastern Kentucky, a meeting that will make history. Almost half of Morehead and a good share of Rowan county was there. All of Elliott county was waiting. It was a triumphal march if there ever was one.

It is estimated that over four thousand people gathered of their own accord on the invitation of the Sandy Hook friends of Happy Chandler to listen to him speak and to partake of the big barbecue dinner provided by the friends of Chandler for their guests.

One of the funny features of the meeting was that advertisement of the meeting put out by the friends of Chandler in Elliott county. They advertised that the Free Dinner was not being paid for by the Administration of the Highway Commission, but by the Chandler Campaign Committee of Elliott county. They invited everybody to come and be "Happy."

The Rhea forces in Rowan are desperately trying to maintain their ranks and morale. They are bolstering up their courage with the statements of leading Republicans that Rhea will carry the county by about 100 votes.

The Chandler men at present make no prediction. As a matter of fact they can't make prediction. So many reports from the Chandler headquarters of precinct after precinct in which there are no Rhea votes, that it seems absolutely unbelievable. However, those reports are not weakening their campaign.

HAVE MUSIC HOUR IN COLLEGE CHAPEL

The regular musical concert, the first of the second term, at the college was held on Wednesday morning at the regular Chapel period, instead of Thursday evening as scheduled. Mr. Keith Davis and Prof. L. H. Horton furnished the number that composed the concert. Chapel programs for the balance of the term are scheduled as follows: Wednesday, July 31, Rev. H. H. Moore, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Monday, August 5, Mc McMinn who will be here for the coaching school.
Friday, Aug. 9, Coach Adolph Rupp, of the University of Kentucky.
Friday, Aug. 16, Commencement.

C. P. DULEY IS CANDIDATE FOR MASONIC OFFICE

To Make Race For Office Of Grand Junior Warden Of Grand Lodge

The local Masonic Lodge, Morehead Lodge No. 654, is sending out letters to the lodges of the state, endorsing the candidacy of C. P. Duley for the office of Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge. Mr. Duley was a candidate last year for the same office, and made considerable headway in his race. However, it was not expected that he would be elected last year, his race being more in the nature of establishing his position for this year.

According to reports, Mr. Duley has a large following over the county and is very likely to attain the dignity of the office to which he aspires.

The following is the resolution adopted by the local lodge:

Resolved: That Morehead Lodge 654 endorse Brother C. P. Duley of this city for the office of Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky and to take no part in the consideration of the various lodges under this Grand Jurisdiction.

Brother Duley is the present Grand Chaplain of the Grand Council of Kentucky R. and S. M., also Past Master of Morehead Lodge 654, Past High Priest, Morehead Chapter 169 R. A. M., Past Eminent Commander of Montgomery Commandery No. 5, Mt. Sterling, Past Worshipful Patron of Morehead Chapter 227 O. E. S. and is instructor for the Grand Chapter of Kentucky Royal Arch Masons for several years. He also served the Grand Lodge as a member of Committee of Lodges U. D.

Brother Duley has for several years been very active in the interest of Masonry throughout Kentucky. His time and energy have always been at the service of the craft.

Although a large percentage of the membership of the craft reside in the Eastern section of Kentucky and no section of our Grand Jurisdiction.

H. B. TOLLIVER BACK FROM HOSPITAL

H. B. Tolliver, who was taken to the hospital at Lexington last week returned home in a greatly improved condition on Sunday of this week, after he had undergone a slight operation for the removal of an abscess. Mr. Tolliver is still confined to his home, but is showing some improvement.

Masons Hold Meet Here Thursday

Thursday afternoon and evening last week saw what was probably the greatest crowd of Masons in Morehead gathered in this city, when Morehead Lodge 654 conferred the third degree on eight candidates at a meeting that began at 3:30 p. m. and lasted late into the night. Two hundred five Masons of high and low degree registered for the meeting although there were many more in attendance.

The work of conferring the degree was done by Dr. H. E. Wilson of this city.

Among the distinguished visitors attending the meeting were Hebert Henderson of Irvine, Kentucky, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge F. & A. M. of Kentucky, and Dr. Ginn, of Ashland, Kentucky, Grand High Priest of the Grand Chapter, R. A. M. of Kentucky.

Thirty four lodges and four states were represented at the meeting. Following the afternoon program which was held at the Morehead High School gymnasium, dinner was served in the basement of the Christian Church by the ladies of the 23rd organization.

Commonwealth Attorney Makes Caustic Statement Of His Position In Politics

A statement appeared in a local paper last week, indicating the Commonwealth Attorney W. C. Hamilton was supporting Thomas S. Rhea for Governor. Mr. Hamilton called the Rowan County News Tuesday afternoon, that the News correct that statement and definitely inform his friends in Rowan county that he is not and never has been a supporter of Mr. Rhea. On the contrary, he said, he is supporting A. B. "Happy" Chandler for the nomination feeling that Mr. Chandler is the logical man to be nominated and elected. He is only supporting Mr. Chandler's candidacy, but he will introduce him to the people when he speaks at Mt. Sterling Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock.

LEGIONAIRS ATTEND PLAN MEETING TO ANNUAL CONVENTION DISCUSS CURRICULA

Several members of the American Legion from Morehead attended the annual State Convention held at Lexington this week. Among those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCullough and son George, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cecil.

Mighty Haag Show To Be In Morehead

On Friday, August 2, just about the time most of the people of Morehead are thinking of getting up, the long line of trucks of the Mighty Haag Shows will begin arriving here and start work pitching their vast city of tents on the Henry lot where they will give two complete performances.

The Haag Show, this year will bring to Morehead more wild animals, horses, ponies and trained dogs than ever before exhibited. This year the Haag Shows are featuring such well known acts as the Tani Aani Japanese Troup in a new act, Johnson Duo of Wire Walkers, Zeldi Troupe of head balancers, Fisher family of Acrobats, and Haag's Herd of Performing Elephants, largest and best trained in the country, presented by Miss Ruby Fisher, who takes her life in her own hands twice daily when she places her head in the mouth of one

FACULTY ARE BUSY MAKING SPEECHES

Members of the faculty of the Morehead State Teachers College here had a busy week for the past week with many of them having speaking dates in various of the surrounding counties.

Dr. J. D. Falls filled four speaking dates at Teachers conventions in West Liberty, Thursday he addressed the teachers of Hazard. On Friday he will address the teachers conventions at Hindman and at Hyden.

Dr. Frank B. Miller who is moving his family to Morehead this week, where they will make their future home, spoke at the teachers convention held at Pikeville on Monday of this week.

Mr. M. E. George, of the music department was on the program of the teachers meeting held last Friday at ...

Dean William H. Vaughan is scheduled for two addresses this week, when he speaks at Salyersville Thursday and at Paintsville Friday.

Boys At Baptist Camp During Past Week

Some thirty boys assembled again at Black Hawk Camp near Carlele last Monday to enjoy the annual Royal Ambassador's Camp, fostered by the Baptists of Bracken Association. Rev. E. H. Exree was a member of the faculty. For four days the boys were incessantly active, in study, swimming, hand ball, nature study and other recreational activities. They returned home Friday afternoon, those attending from Morehead were: Paul Dillon, Andy Jolly, Buddy Judd, Bud Sims, J. G. Black, Jr., Emmerson Wheeler, Robert Tackett and Clinton Tatum.

CHANDLER TO BE IN OWINGSVILLE TODAY

Thursday (today) Happy Chandler speaks in Owingsville at 2:00 p. m. and at Mt. Sterling at 8:00 p. m. A large delegation from this county is planning on attending both meetings. Plans are being made for a motorcade to form at Chandler headquarters here and to drive as a unit to the Bath county capital. Everybody who wishes to go to Owingsville is requested to report to Chandler headquarters before now and that time, so that arrangements may be made to take care of those who do not have cars.

Value Of Farms In County Published

The following table of comparison has been sent from the office of the district manager of the Department of Commerce, Shelton M. Saulsley of Louisville. The comparisons with regard to the value of the land in Kentucky by the removal of the real estate tax and the institution of the Sales Tax.

Rowan county actually saved, according to these official figures $3,215.75 in Real Estate tax, and according to other figures spent upward of $19,000 in Sales Tax.

Comparison of the number of farms, acreage and value in Rowan county in 1935 and in 1930 is contained in preliminary tabulation of reports from the 1935 Census, and just received by the Louisville district office of the Department of Commerce.

The report shows that in this county in 1935 there are 1424 farms as compared with 1261 in 1930; number of acres in these farms in 1935 is 131,080 compared with 110,311 in 1930. Value of farms in this county in 1935 is given as $128,751.1 compared with $108,000 in 1930.

For the entire state of Kentucky the 1935 Kentucky census shows 276,298 farms as compared with 246,499 farms in 1930; containing 20,698,510 acres in 1935 as against 19,927,286 acres in 1930. The value of Kentucky farms in 1935 had decreased to $820,498,700 as compared with a valuation of $871,448,632, in 1930.

ROWAN JAIL IS LONESOME PLACE

Rowan county must be going moral if the cries of Uncle Sam's Stampers are any indication. For practically the first time in history, the Rowan county jail is empty. It is not only empty, but it has been in that condition for several days.

Uncle Sam, says that it is vacation time anyway and he thanks the usual occupants of his penitentiary for their consideration in giving him some time off.

It is a fact that the number that has usually occupied the county jail has been greatly decreased in the first few months, and as a consequence the revenue from the office of jailer has correspondingly decreased.

E. K. E. A. DIRECTORS TO MEET HERE NEXT WEEK

The directors of the E. K. E. A. will meet in Morehead at the Morehead State Teachers College on Wednesday of next week, according to an announcement made by college authorities.

Under the direction of D. J. ... president of the association, the directors will plan their program for their annual meeting this fall.

Frank Havens Opens New Morehead Store

Frank Havens has leased the building formerly occupied by the Morehead 5, 10 and $1.00 Store, and is opening up a modern up-to-date ready to wear store. Mr. Havens plans on carrying a high grade line of merchandise for the women of Morehead.

CHANDLER HAS GREAT CROWDS IN ELLIOTT CO.

Meeting At Sandy Hook And West Liberty Are Enthusiastic

A triumphal march into Sandy Hook in Elliott county, Monday morning, an even more triumphant march into West Liberty in Morgan county, and a final speech in McGuffin county at Salyersville, completed the challenge of A. B. Happy Chandler in his campaign opening in Eastern Kentucky.

Accompanied by well over a hundred friends and admirers from Rowan county, Governor Chandler left Morehead early Monday morning after spending the night here. As an example of the popularity of the candidate in this community may be had, when we realize that in spite of the fact that he had slipped into town late the night before, news of his coming had preceded him and he was early in the morning, crowds had demanded at the hotel that they be permitted to see him. Only the determined stand of Mr. Lykins prevented them from storming his room and getting him out of bed.

Four Legionaires from Carter county, on their way to the Legion Convention at Lexington, heard of his coming here and waited for over an hour. They said they wanted to go on, but they were not going until they saw the next governor.

Leaving Morehead, he was forced to stop every short distance to shake hands with admirers and backers.

Sandy Hook will never forget the day that Happy Chandler spent in this little town. They will be telling their grand children about the time Happy Chandler came to Sandy Hook, bringing to the little city the greatest gathering of people ever assembled here.

Estimates on the number present at the meeting will vary. The most accurate, probably were those that placed the number at between three and four thousand people. Actually there were nearer four than three thousand.

Following the speaking in which Happy discussed the issues of the campaign and asked his hearers to vote for a clean-up of Kentucky politics, one of the most impressive receptions ever tendered a candidate.

Chalmer Caskey In Representative Race

In this issue of the News appears the announcement of Chalmer Caskey who is making the race for the nomination on the Republican ticket for the office of Representative from the Rowan-Bath District.

Mr. Caskey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Caskey and is well known in this county as well as in Bath county. We suggest that our readers view his announcement and platform, and give his candidacy consideration.

LOCAL PEOPLE TRUCK IN WRECK IN CARTER

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Lowe of this city were seriously injured in a wreck Saturday night, when a Pontiac car struck another car, skidded and crashed into the "Low" car. The wreck took place near Grantsville, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe were both unconscious when found, remaining in that condition for some time. Mrs. Lowe was cut across the nose and her lower lip was lacerated. She suffered in addition numerous cuts and bruises while she was thrown through the windshield when the collision occurred. Fortunately, she was not seriously injured. A woman suffered a broken leg.

A WINNING CANDIDATE

The comment heard on every side, that "I have never seen a candidate gain as rapidly as Happy Chandler is gaining," hardly needs comment. He is the most spectacular, and colorful candidate we have ever seen of heard. He is an appeal to the people, an appeal to rid themselves of the yoke of oppression that has been pressed upon them.

In 1896, there was another young man from Nebraska, who had the color, whose cry rang throughout the United States, "Thou shalt not press upon the brow of labor the crown of thorns, thou shalt not crucify him upon the cross of gold."

That man was William Jennings Bryan. Since that time much water has gone under the bridge. And again, this time a Kentuckian cries, "Thou shalt not crucify the poor on the cross of the Sales Tax," thou shalt not burden the oppressed people of Kentucky with burdens they have no right to bear."

That young man is Happy Chandler. He is a young man with ideals. He is a young man with a mission. His mission is to deliver this great state from the hands of the politicians and place it back into the hands of the people where it belongs. He is the rock of salvation for the people of Kentucky. He is the only man to whom they can turn for the assistance which they must have.

The only charge they can bring against Happy Chandler is the charge that he is too young. They forget that the Savior of the world was only thirty three when He died on the cross for humanity's sake. They forget that George Washington was a young man when he first took up his work of fighting to establish this country. They forget that the great east governor Kentucky has ever had was none other than J. C. W. Beckham, who carried on for Kentucky after the death of William Goebel and that when he took the oath of office as governor he was only thirty years of age.

They do not forget, they merely choose not to remember. They can not overlook that fact that that same Governor J. C. W. Beckham has wholeheartedly endorsed the candidacy of A. B. Happy Chandler and that he is at present devoting a great deal of his time to aiding the Chandler candidacy in every way possible. Many of the supporters of the Rhea candidacy were Beckham supporters for the nomination. They should therefore be supporters of his choice for the nomination, to be consistent.

We firmly believe that a new day is coming to Kentucky politics. We believe that a new man and a tried and true man is about to be nominated for the office of governor, a young man, who in spite of his youth has proved that he is uncontrolled and unpurchaseable; a young man who has it in his heart to serve his state and his people to their advantage and not to his own selfish interests.

The third of August will become the new Independence Day for Kentucky instead of that established by Tom Rhea on July 6. It will be a real Independence Day, a day for celebration for years to come, the day Happy Chandler is nominated for Governor.

STATE SENATOR

Up to the present the News has taken no part in the race for the office of State Senator to succeed Senator Judge Allie W. Young. The reason for that is simple. Rowan county had a candidate for Senator in D. C. Caudill, and the News out of respect for Mr. Caudill was playing hands off policy and supporting only A. B. Happy Chandler in his race for the nomination for governor.

Mr. Caudill recently withdrew from the Senatorial race, and the News feels free to suggest that the voters of Rowan County consider their interests in the Senatorial race which now lies between two candidates, Frazee Hart of Fleming county and W. A. Crockett, who was born in Bath county and who now lives in Mason county.

Mr. Hart, an excellent gentleman, is the candidate of the Rhea or administration forces in the district. He is advocating the passage of a modified form of the Sales Tax in line with the Rhea platform.

Mr. Crockett, on the other hand is advocating the repeal of the Sales Tax completely. He proposes, as will be seen by reading his advertisements which appear in this issue of the News, to remove the Sales Tax, which is placing the cost of government on the backs of the poorer people and substituting for it, other taxes, such as a whiskey tax and an income tax, which will place the cost of government on those better able to pay that cost.

In the coming election, it is important that the people elect a man who will be in sympathy with the program of the Governor of the State. This can only be done, if that man they elect for Senator is elected on a similar platform.

The News takes pleasure in endorsing W. A. Crockett for the nomination for the office of Senator, and urges every supporter of Happy Chandler to register his vote against the Sales Tax, by voting for W. A. Crockett as well.

News of Yesteryear FROM THE FILES OF THE "NEWS"

8 YEARS AGO, JULY 1927

The marriage of Miss Margie Anglin to Mr. Walton Gullie was solemnized on Tuesday evening at the Methodist parsonage here. The Rev. C. R. Thomas officiated.

Mrs. Bert Tulliver was hostess to the Missionary Society on Thursday afternoon of this week.

The marriage of Miss Bertha McBrayer to Walker Byard, of Ashland, was solemnized at the home of Judge Evans at Farmers on Tuesday evening.

Once more Judge Allie W. Young has made a clean sweep, this time at Flemingsburg, where county court day drew a large crowd last Monday. Speaking of "Love Feasts," the crowd at Flemingsburg tendered Judge Young a reception such as the Counties of old have rendered a triumphant warrior coming home from victory.

Rowan county suffered this week through a withering heat wave, which so far has taken no loss of lives here, but is creating thousands of dollars in losses in the rural section.

Chalmer Caskey, Candidate For Office of Representative, Outlines Platform on Which He Will Make Race

TO THE VOTERS OF ROWAN AND BATH COUNTIES:

I have been urged for some time by my friends to enter the race for State Representative from the Bath and Rowan County District. I have consented to be a nominee and consequently filed my notification and declaration.

First of all I wish to say that I am for the things that the people of this district stand for. If nominated and elected I will be representing you and feel that what the majority of my constituents are for, I should also stand for.

I AM BITTERLY OPPOSED TO THE 3 PERCENT SALES TAX IN ANY FORM OR FASHION. I believe that this is a needless tax, forced on the laboring man, and the poor people that do not have the money to buy the bare necessities of life, let alone paying a sales tax on them. I believe, in the wealthy meeting the majority of the tax burdens instead of loading it on the shoulders of the laborer and the farmer.

If I become your representative I will do everything in my power to defeat and do away this unjust tax.

If nominated and elected I will stand 100 per cent for the Republican administration. I sincerely believe that Hon. King Swope will be our next Governor, and I dedicate my services to his administration, if I am nominated and elected.

I pledge my wholehearted support to the Morehead State Teachers College, one of Kentucky's greatest resources, and it is up to us to fight for it. Any legislation that is favorable to the Morehead State Teachers College will receive my vote, and I stand opposed to any measure that might in any manner injure this great school placed here to educate the girls and boys from the mountains of Kentucky.

I am for the betterment of all business and enterprise in this district. The backbone is the backbone of a community and I am ready to lend my support to it.

I am for maintaining the school per capita and believe our teachers should be capable and should be paid a fair and just salary. I am for more and better roads in Rowan and Bath Counties, especially in those sections that have been neglected by the Democratic party during the past 4 years.

I have no pick or quarrel with anyone. I feel that I am qualified for this position, and ask that you give me consideration in your judgement of the candidates that are seeking nomination.

Mr. Alf Caskey of Morehead, whom you all know, is my father. I was born and raised in Rowan County and have spent my entire life with you. I personally know most of the voters in Rowan and Bath Counties and feel that I am acquainted with your needs, and shall do my best to fulfill them. I am 25 years of age, and have worked at everything from jacking jobs up.

Your support and influence will be highly appreciated in this campaign. All I ask is for a fair and impartial consideration of my merits and character.

Yours,

CHALMER CASKEY.

Kennel Murder Case

S. S. VAN DINE

Copyright by W. E. Wright

Probably, replied Vance, for the same reason that the person who stabbed Archer and Brisbane Coe put the dagger in the vase in this same room. At least there's a certain consistency in the actions of our stabber.

"You think," asked Markham, that the same person who stabbed the Coes attempted Grassie's life also? Why leap at conclusions? Vance. There are so many other things to be ascertained before we can reach any intelligent conclusion.

For instance? Vance arranged himself comfortably in a large chair.

"Well, he said, inhaling deeply on his cigarette. I could endure to hear the various persons inside and outside the house chat their runes as to what they know of tonight's happenings.

And what have you Cerberus on the stone steps to say about those who may have come and gone tonight? And where, and doing what, was the subtle Mr. Liang during the upheaval? And also what of the doughty guard which I asked to have stationed in Archer's bedroom tonight? Death, who during the entire time we had been at the Coe house had been in a state of silent but aggressive indecision, stood up and separated his shoulders.

Well, Mr. Vance, we'll get all of your questions answered pronto. I'm telling the world I'd like to get the answers myself. I asked that detective out front who'd been in here tonight and he said nobody. But we'll see him again.

He threw the door open. Come here, Sullivan, he howled, and the dejected figure we had passed on the front steps came into the library.

A guy's been stabbed here, Heath blustered. You told 'em no one had come in or gone out the front door. But this is serious business, and we want you to rack your brain, if any, and tell us what you know.

Detective Sullivan was both abashed and defiant. "I told you, Sergeant," he insisted, "that I've been sitting on those steps seven o'clock tonight and nothing or nobody, so much as a cockroach, has passed me, guin' or comin'."

Maybe you went to sleep and just dreamed it all, the sergeant suggested sarcastically.

That's enough, Sergeant, said Vance mildly. I think Sullivan is telling the truth. I have a feeling that no one came in the front door tonight.

Sullivan was sent back to the front steps and Heath went into the library job up.

I'll find out about Burke in Coe's room, he offered.

A moment later he appeared with Detective Burke in tow.

Tell Mr. Markham and Mr. Vance he ordered gruffly, what you've been doing all night. I was sleeping, Burke admitted frankly. I pulled up a chair against the door and forgot my troubles. Was there anything the matter with that, Sergeant. Well, I guess not. You been working all day—and I didn't tell you to keep awake. But a guy's been stabbed right down the hall from you, and he called for help—and now you know nothing about it. The sergeant shook his head with disgust. Well, go on back and see if you can keep awake for a while Nervous, Weak Woman - Soon All Right. "I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Oona Sanborn, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt wonderful. I give Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right. Thousands of women testify Cardui has cured them. If it does not benefit you, consult a physician."

From the stage play by A.E. THOMAS Adapted by BEATRICE FABER From the METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURES

(Synopsis: Marcia Townsend has married Sherry Warren, New York's handsome heartbreaker. But after a year and a half of happiness Sherry succumbs to a girl named Terese, a nightclub banjoist. Marcia is heartbroken but retaliates with a party to which are invited Jim Salston, who is in love with her and Jim's ex-wife Diana, now Lady Moulton, whom Sherry had once stolen from Jim. Terese Moulton, too, is present. Now, as the last straw, Terese has just been announced.)

searching for Marcia. Sherry groaned. Jim forgotten for the moment. In the garden, Terese addressed Marcia hesitantly. "I've had a small time, Mrs. Warren. She hitched up her wrap defensively. Listen, I'm a little tight on (I would say tight) but I hope nothing has happened on account me—what I mean is—I'm not worried about you. I'm worried about him because if he bet you on account of nothing—of me—can I say anything or am I just talking?"

Marcia patted her shoulder. Her eyes shone warmly. "You're saying a great deal only—"

Terese hopped into the car and was gone. Entering the living room Marcia looked inquiringly at Jim. "You find the bag?"

He held it up. "Shall we go?"

Say, listen, Marcia, Sherry will desperately convince. "What's going on? A charade? Am I supposed to guess the right word? What are you trying to do? Get even with me?"

he said in a low voice. He clasped her hand with gentle fervor. But Marcia was shaking her head. "No, Jim, I need you for the charade. Sherry insisted, then joined the group in the living room. The curtains were pulled across the door and they were standing behind them."

Sherry stirred restlessly. Well, whatever the word is, he grumbled, I wish they'd get it over with. He raised his voice. "Hurry up. Aren't you ready yet? There was no response. Marcia, we're waiting. Just stillness."

Stepping forward Sherry jerked the curtains open—only to disclose an empty room.

Marcia, and Jim had left. An excited buzz of conversation filled the room. Sherry sat back, stunned. She's gone, he said to himself in a creaking voice, she's really gone.

Now you can lock the barn door.

and moved toward the door. But I make up my mind at exactly seven minutes past six this morning that it is absolutely useless for Marcia and me to go on any longer.

The front door opened unexpectedly and Marcia stepped in followed by Jim. They both seemed infinitely gay, but Fanny, scrutinizing Marcia's face, noted that it was suffused with an oddly luminous light.

Instantly Sherry changed his manner to a surface gaiety that would match hers. Good morning, he said cheerfully, even nodding to Jim. Well, it seems we gave a party last night. He picked up his bag.

Going into town? Marcia asked with a level gaze.

Yes. Explain to our guests will you? He shrugged dispassionately. Any excuse. Business. My aunt's sick. My wife has been unfaithful to me. Anything, Marcia was silent. He reached his waiting roadster just as Marcia's shadow fell across his path.

"Darling, he said, with a sorry attempt at a smile for the tears were wet on his face, I accept your apology."

Terese blinked, then, since this was not exactly the usual situation to her, bowed non-communally.

Sherry, however, filled with savage resentment at Marcia grasped the bull by the horns. Miss Gargain and I are old friends, he said. His voice was unexpectedly loud, almost belligerent.

Isn't that lucky, Marcia observed weedy, the house is just full of old friends.

Later that evening, with the festivities at their full hysterical height, Fanny pushed her way through the crowded living room, determined to talk to Sherry, to Marcia, or both, in order to end the unpleasant farce.

For hours now she had watched the proceedings with distaste—Fanny, even more drunk than usual, engaged with some of the other—enacting some highly colored charades; Diana, in the corner with a sleekly handsome young man; Lord Moulton and Terese, entwined in each other's arms and worst of all, Marcia and Jim, strolling in the garden, their heads intimately close in whispered conversation.

Just as Fanny reached the silent, watching Sherry, he darted toward the door through which Marcia and Jim had passed a moment before. Making his way to the front hall he nearly collided head-on with Jim as he passed through the entrance. Lost something, old man? he asked grimly.

Why no, old man, Jim replied with an amused smirk. Have you? He peered around. I'm looking for Marcia's bag. We're going to take a little drive.

Sherry essayed a smile through the muscle in his jaw jumped and twitched. The drive with Marcia is out, he returned feebly. A rising tension was making itself felt between the two men. Faintly shocked, Sherry could feel age-old primitive emotions surging through him, hate, a murderous cut-throat hate, the urge to kill. Trembling slightly he jammed his hands into his pockets.

Jim's sudden burst of uproarious laughter was so nerve wracking as a street drill.

What's so funny? Sherry asked hoarsely. And for the first time in his life he understood what the phrase to grind one's teeth to a fraze meant. He was doing it now.

You are, Jim replied, easily. You're even funnier than I was when I went on significantly, when I was in the same boat.

I don't see why I don't give you a good poke in the nose, Sherry said. Terese passed by, wreathed in her wrap. She was leaving and was Punish me for my sins? Marcia was silent. A sick feeling of irresolution came over her. She regarded Sherry's face almost hungrily for a moment. Then her eyes glazed over again as if they had hidden themselves behind impenetrable opaque windows. Sorry, she said implacably, but Jim and I are going out for a ride.

Jim is going home, Sherry stunted. He pointed a shaking finger at her. And if you leave this house with him you don't come back.

If I leave this house with him you don't come back.

If I leave this house with Jim, Marcia said with quite force, and without Jim I don't come back any way, except on my own terms. And they are—that I don't believe you're going to behave any differently from the way you're always behaving—in spite of your saying you're sorry. And if this is the kind of married life we're going to lead I'm going to get just as much fun out of it as I possibly can.

Rot! Sherry spat out. Moulton had wandered up and was begging them all to come in and make whoopee with him.

Everyone stopped as Marcia suddenly held up her hand. I have an idea for a charade. All of you go in the other room.

Jim took her aside. Good night.

Fanny said grimly. Early the next morning she was talking indignantly into the telephone, assuring the shrill cackling voice that came over the wire that Marcia was indeed home and that it had all been just a little joke.

She hung up as Sherry, fully dressed and carrying a suitcase walked down the stairs. Though outwardly calm, his face bore the ravages of the night's vigil—long, frightful tormented hours, thinking of Jim and Marcia, Marcia in Jim's arms, Marcia going home. Then rage would overcome him and again that desire to kill, the blind unreasoning lust to strike back would almost choke his breath away.

Fanny read it all in his face. You're making a great mistake, she warned him. You know that Marcia is coming back. I've talked to her on the telephone—

Sherry shook his head wearily. It's very nice of you, Fanny, but I've listened in on all the calls. She hasn't telephoned.

Now look here my boy, Fanny said sternly, you and Marcia are like a pair of two year olds being broken to double harness. Can't be done in a minute. Bound to be a lot of kicking and a runaway or two. But a fine team is the very best thing in the world.

You're quite right, Sherry said quietly. He picked up his suitcase

I had a great plan, she said with simple directness. My idea was to make something out of my life besides besides another one of these grimly, cheerful devoted wives. Only you know what liked me? My love for you.

Her voice was trembling with the weight of unshed tears. I wish I could take my love for you and draw a line through it or put it in a silk hat and make it disappear. But I can't. I love you, Sherry Warren, God help me, and I shall go on loving you as long as I live.

Irretrievably, Sherry stared at her. Then it wasn't true, Marcia and Jim? There wasn't any Marcia and Jim after all? It was Marcia and Sherry.

Pain pierced his heart at the anguish he had caused her for he, too, had felt the hot stab of jealousy throughout this dreadful night.

And with comprehension of its searing hurt, Sherry felt himself miraculously emerging anew—a wiser and stronger man—never again to bring heartache to his beloved.

Darling, he said, with a sorry attempt at a smile for the tears were wet on his face, I accept your apology.

She was in his arms and all the story of their love seemed to settle like a silken mantle about their shoulders.

A CANDIDATE:

Who will serve the people; not the interests.

Who will remove the Sales Tax.

Who believes in putting taxes on the backs of those who can pay them.

Who believes in cleaning up the government reducing it's cost instead of increasing it, that the people have the right to select their own governor in a primary election, always been true, has been tried and has never failed to stand by and for the people.

Who is young enough to serve well and old enough to know what the people want and how to give it to them.

Who is for the old age pension.

Who is in favor of continuing relief as long as long the federal government continues relief.

Who has never broken a promise.

Who has a record of performances instead of a record of broken promises.

Your Candidate for Governor

A. B. "HAPPY" CHANDLER

ENDORSEMENT BY THE YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB

The young Democracy of Kentucky will not soon forget the debacle of 1928 when the Hon. Alfred E. Smith was our Democratic nominee for president and this great Commonwealth went in excess of 177,000 votes Republican.

The Hon. Louis W. Arnett, former state senator of Nicholasville, at that time conceived the idea of organizing us young Democrats through out Kentucky into a fighting force that would never allow this sort of thing to happen again, and at his own expense, giving his time and ability, and with untold energy, he completed this splendid work into what is now known as the Young Democratic Clubs an consists of 120 clubs in Kentucky with a membership in excess of 47,000.

Everybody connected with the Democratic party in Kentucky knows the splendid showing made by the Young Men's Democratic Clubs in the presidential race of 1928, when our great leader was the party's choice for President. Kentucky went in excess of 180,000 Democratic and no small part of this victory can be credited to the Young Men's Democratic Clubs, who were then a fighting force in the party and who are now the greatest single unit in its continued success.

The members of these clubs will remember that the senator from Nicholasville, every organized meeting, was a part, as a club, we take no part in primary elections and stick strictly to our by-laws in this respect. But as individuals, it was our duty to put on our fighting armor in primaries and see that the one we thought best, most capable and competent to carry the banner of Democracy in November was selected as our Democratic nominee, as only in this manner would the young Democrats get the recognition and honors to which we were so justly entitled, as they have redeemed Kentucky, putting her young Democrats are the ones who back in the Democratic column, and we were the ones who were responsible for keeping her there.

We have one of our number, one who has been most active in our organization and advancement, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, the Hon. A. B. Chandler, one of our most representative young Democrats, so it behooves us to shoulder the rife of Democracy as individuals and see that he is nominated in the first primary, August 3, by such a large majority a second primary will not be necessary. His nomination August 3 assures a Democratic governor in Kentucky for the next four years, and as young Democrats there is only one thing we are called upon to do, and that is to make sure that our brother member in the Young Men's Democratic Clubs, Hon. A. B. Chandler, is elected by an overwhelming majority and we can do nothing better than for all of us 47,000 Young Democrats to volunteer our services, free, out automobiles, and see that every voter gets to the polls, as this will insure Chandler's nomination.

This letter is being written as an individual solely, not as president of Kenton County Young Men's Democratic Clubs, nor as vice president of the state organization of Young Men's Democratic Clubs, urging the young Democracies of Kentucky to stand together, solidly united, fighting for and demanding just and fair recognition for the young Democracy of Kentucky by the way of appointments and elective officers.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our gratitude to our many friends at the time of the death of our beloved baby Jacqueline. We wish especially to thank the pallbearers and flower bearers, the undertaker, Mr. Ferguson, and all others.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Bailey.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of expressing our heartfelt gratitude for the kindness and sympathy extended to us in the recent illness, death and burial of our mother, and grandmother, Mrs. John Nickell. We wish particularly to thank those who sent flowers and everyone who contributed in any way to our need.
Mrs. Amy Stinson and family.

IN MEMORY OF "JACKIE"

A little bud on Earth did Spring
A bright blossom forth to bring
But at Angel door hovered near
And took that bud from me
A brighter flower in heaven to be
Darling baby you have left me alone
But you have gained a brighter home,
Than mother dear could give you here
Jesus will give you his love and care
Until Angels too shall bear me there.
Little flower blooming there
Beside that celestial sea
I can not help but weep for thee
Thy joy I can not know
Until again thy face I behold.
Now a little Angel thy art
Thou saidst when we had to part
Thy greater joy 'twill be when again
I see thee
On that bright shore
Where we will meet to part no more.

diction has more loyal members than can be found in the hills of Eastern Kentucky, yet it has been many years since one of its members has been honored by election to the Grand Body. We feel that it would be only reasonable and fair to ask and expect of the craft a small recognition of their effort by electing one of their members as Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky.

We feel that the election of Brother Duley would not only be a just recognition of his life of service but would create a renewed interest in the craft throughout the Eastern section of Kentucky.

With the foregoing statement of facts Morehead Lodge 654 submits the name of C. P. Duley of Morehead, Kentucky to the consideration of the craft with a belief in the membership of the Grand Body and assure one and all of our appreciation of consideration shown him.

GRANT CROWDS IN ELLIOTT

was given him, in which he was literally mobbed by people wanting to shake his hand, to touch him, to thank him, to pledge him their support, to be near him. For over forty five minutes this reception continued, an ovation the like of which has never been seen in Eastern Kentucky, the kind of reception that is tendered as a rule only to presidential candidates, and then only in large centers of populations.

Mr. Chandler was invited to dinner at the hotel, but refused, stating that the people of Elliott county has prepared a barbecue in his honor and he proposed to eat with his friends. He did. For West Liberty the entourage, accompanied by the entire Rowan county delegation as well as many from Sandy Hook, set out over a road which needs to be built badly they bumped and every bump brought a cheer for Happy Chandler. En route the motorcade was topped, while a farmer asked Happy to name a new town.

And then, the West Liberty reunion. Sandy Hook had done well. They could not have done better. There was only one way for West Liberty and Morgan County to prove on Sandy Hook they could not exceed the enthusiasm. They could have a bigger crowd, because Morgan county is a bigger, more populous county. They did. As Happy Chandler swept into town he was greeted with a roar that shook the buildings, a roar coming from the throats of nearly six thousand people. It was scarcely 1:00 o'clock with the speaking begins for 2:00, yet the court house was packed to suffocating with people thirsting to see the young Moses who they believe has risen for a fall hour they sat there in the blistering heat waiting. The time incidentally was enjoyed by the crowd, when the "Happy Chandler Trio" from Morehead took charge and furnished music, through out the interval.

The court yard was jammed. The street was jammed. Traffic was stopped and the crowd waited. At last Chandler appeared from the hotel. Ten minutes were consumed in going from the hotel less than a block to the court-house.
Not a man there had been bought, every man, woman and child, was for Happy Chandler.

The reception was just as enthusiastic as at Sandy Hook (it could not have been more so), and lasted longer, only because there were more people.

Citizens of both Elliott and Morgan counties, many of them unopinioned, say that there never have been such demonstrations in either of the two counties to compare it any way with the Chandler demonstrations.

It is estimated by those who have a close finger on the political pulse in both counties, that Chandler will carry both Morgan and Elliott counties by comfortable majorities.

They propose to carry on until the last vote is cast. They have no money, no highway department, no saloons no licenses, no contractors, no interest, other than the election of Happy Chandler, and the rest of the state. They ask no jobs, no preference, no position, except that the government be made safe for the people of Kentucky, with that exception they have no objection to the campaign in the hands of Kentuckians.

Better Breakfasts

YES There is a way to make that first breakfast dish of fruit different, and, oh, the difference it makes! The excitement, "But this is something new!" is born to the soul of the sedulous housewife who has to plan three hundred and sixty-five breakfasts a year. She'll hear it and she'll serve the following breakfast:
Orange Slices with Cranberry Jelly Cakes
Flaked Cakes with Cream
Buckwheat Cakes
Sausages
Coffee
The ingredients of the first dish consist of oranges and canned cranberry jelly.
Allow one medium orange for each person. Cut off part of the all white rind. Cut in slices crosswise and lay in an overlapping circle on plates. When some chilled cranberry jelly in small cubes, and pile about one

Mrs. Elbert Johnson who was called to the bedside of her daughter.

There are those who predict that Kentucky can be bought, that Kentuckians are slaves to money and to Ruby Laffoon. We do not believe it any more than we believe that all the highway employees, all the state employees, all the weed cutters and flagmen, land checkers, and what not are going to vote for Rhee.
Kentucky is free. And the free men of Kentucky have their necks bowed as they never have had before, and when they bow their necks, match out.
The boy orator of Morehead is still going fine. In the past week he has made six speeches in the Chanler School-house campaign. In those six speeches he has addressed the largest crowds that have ever attended out for meetings. Already he has spoken to over one thousand Democratic voters in the county, and has made a decided impression on them. Following the meetings, excellent reports have come from every section.
That is only proof of our statement last week that the issues of this campaign are so simple that even a child can discuss them intelligently.

Bhuestone turned out over one hundred fifty Democrats to the Chandler rally held there Tuesday night. Clark Shoup in Pine Grove Precinct gave the Chandler speakers a crowd of over two hundred. McKenzie turned out practically every Democrat in the precinct.
And so it goes. Everywhere, the sentiment is all one sided, the voters are for Chandler.

Until 11:00 o'clock Sunday night a crowd waited on the streets of Morehead for the arrival of Happy, and finally, disappointed, retired. The sound truck however took up considerable part of their attention, and finally drove around the city advertising the speaking at Sandy Hook.

Half of Morehead went to Sandy Hook and most of the other half wanted to go, but couldn't.

Will Rogers Pick A Story For This Spot
I once wrote an article for the Sunday papers trying in what way I could to pay tribute to a great man, a man in politics who really had a sense of humor. Ex-Vice President Tom Marshall. Among a great many letters I have received since then saying, "He deserved all the good things that could be said about him," there was one from James A. Donevan, a lawyer of Boston. He says he was in Frisco at the Democratic Convention and on the Resolution Committee where Tom Marshall was the Chairman.

Everybody was talking at once and trying to be heard, including of course several United States Senators. Mr. Marshall (who had just been for 8 years presiding over the United States Senate) said, "Gentlemen, I am accustomed to presiding over a body of men who, when one man talks, the rest sleep. Let us have order."
When Tom Marshall can pull jokes that a Boston lawyer can get, he was indeed a genius. Bless and rest his soul.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kasse, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: Amos (Prophet of Social Justice), Amos, chapters 4, 7, Passage, Amos, 7:1-17.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Let judgement run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream." Amos 5:24.

The first part of the passage before us tells us of the plumb line figure which God showed to Amos. The plummet is used by builders to see if the walls are straight and true. So, said Jehovah to Amos, "I will set a plumb line in the midst of Israel." The natural result would be the finding of crooked walls. For in the day when Jehovah declared this through Amos, He found the life of Israel much like the life of today, a decadent and abusive life. Cheating, lying, crookedness of all kinds, social sin in its rankest form, unfaithfulness—all these were the mark of that day. The plumb line of God's righteousness as shown through the prophet revealed the sin of the day.

Then the priest of Bethel entered on the scene, and informed the king, Jeroboam, that Amos was prophesying that the Lord would visit him with a sword and that Israel was to be stricken for her sin.

He also tried to persuade Amos not to be so plain in his prophecy, for fear it might hurt the king's position among his people. Isn't that the counterpiece of many a priest of the Lord today? We have them who are afraid to speak forth and denounce against sin because they are afraid they might embarrass some of our high officials. Such priests are time servers, and are unworthy of their place. These leaders of our social life are the ones who ought to be exposed. More than anything else, because they hold high positions, is the reason they should be exposed. Otherwise they lead those who follow into sin. Besides, God's priests have no business harboring sin for any reason whatsoever.

So, Amos, true to the prophet he was, spoke forth cutting words about the sin of his day, not sparing even the king, saying, "Thy wife shall be a harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou thyself shalt die in a land that is unclean, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of his land." What a sentence to pronounce upon a nation! And yet, if we are close observers, it is not difficult to see that this is the sentence on our nation today. Ours are the same sins; ours is the same indifference. We do not think there is any danger, and when a prophet arises to speak these dangers we 'boo' him as a 'calamity howler.' But what if we do? Suppose he is telling the truth. The fact that we refuse to believe it and face it does not change the condition. On every hand it is evident that selfishness is running loose in the world, and greed and force are the law of the land. Lust after every vestige of restraint, and has become full grown, has thrown what the sinful heart desires is being had in defiance of law, moral or otherwise. To close our eyes to this condition and deny its truth is to admit our inability to see with our eyes and hear with our ears.

The true prophet will cry out against sin. He may be, and likely will be, crucified for it by conventional priests and preachers who want to protect the 'higher-ups' in their sin because it brings revenue to the hireling, but that will be nothing more than the fate of Jesus. The conventional Church of that day crucified Him for turning the light on sin. So has it been with nearly all true prophets. It matters not what fate may come to us; the one thing we need to do is to cry out against sin.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL
By Dr. ALLEN C. BEEBE
Author, "Principles and Methods of Teaching" and "The Education of Public Schools"

SUMMER HEAT
Too many cautions cannot be printed against sunburn. No matter how much is said or written, no matter what one's past experience may have been, the majority of people show unreasonably haste in acquiring a suntan. I'm going to be named like an Indian, they say, for getting that the Indian's red-brown skin is natural.
Children are in danger, because they don't know there is any danger. In the summer, they have all day for play. The release from school is tempting, with so many things to do. If parents aren't mindful and watching, the first day or two in the summer sun may bring a suffering, often confined to bed.

And it isn't always as simple as that. Burn from the sun is no different from any burn. It isn't confined to a sore skin. Poisons, or body toxins, are formed. The child may be feverish and nauseated, attempting to throw off the poisons, the kidneys may be injured. Sometimes severe prostration results.

In all cases of sunburn, it is advisable to place a child in a physician's care. Wise treatment will prevent the complications. But the greatest wisdom is shown at the beginning. Take the sunburn gradually, a little each day. Give the skin a chance to tan painlessly.

Mt. Sterling Wins First Of Series

Mt. Sterling won the first of the five-game series to decide the championship of the now defunct Kentucky State Baseball League, defeating Owingsville and Lefty Feaback, 5 to 1, here today.
The game was held up nearly a half hour because of the rain which set in last night and continued until after game time.

Mt. Sterling bunched 10 hits to score five runs off Lefty Feaback, ace Owingsville flinger. All considered, it was a miserable day for the home town team. The best they were able to do was to get six hits, which were kept well scattered, off Rhodes' deceptive deliveries. They had an equally bad day in the field, committing seven errors.

The second game of the series will be played at Mt. Sterling August 4.

Score by innings. R H E
Mt. Sterling... 020 020 01.5 10 0
Owingsville... 100 000 00.1 6 7
Batteries: Rhodes and Cox; Feaback and Raley.

BILIUBNESS

COMMON CAUSE OF BALDNESS
One of the chief causes of premature gray hair is the lack of adequate nutrition to the hair roots. This is due to the fact that the hair roots are made up of a special kind of tissue which is very sensitive to the action of poisons. The use of a hair restorative is essential to the health of the hair roots. NATIONAL REMEDY CO.

COLLEGE
Tapping a Virgin source of screen material, RKO Radio presents "The Arizona" starring Richard Dix as an exciting cinema account of frontier marshall's activity in subduing the rangers who infested the west in its young stages of formation and settlement.

Historical figures like Wild Bill Hickok, Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp were once involved in the fierce conflict between the police and bandit factions. Notable peace-makers of history, they blazed away with six-shooters risking life and limb to preserve order and establish equity.

Richard Dix's role in "The Arizona" has been likened to his in "Cimarron." As Yancey Cravat, it will be remembered, Dix characterized a pioneer who regulated an Oklahoma community at the point of a gun. Critics say that "The Arizona" offers Dix as the public likes him, a strong character with a sense of righteousness.

"The Arizona" is distinguished in its supporting cast. Margee Gramme and Preston Foster, who appeared in the "Informers" have prominent roles in this production.

VOTE FOR S. M. BRADLEY FOR STATE SENATOR

Republican Primary August 3, 1935

In 1916, when our nation was faced with the great war, he was honored to serve you as your state senator. He sought no personal gain—the salary, he gave to the widow of his predecessor, James E. Steward. Today we are in the midst of another great war—a war on poverty and depression. Once again, as candidate for Republican nomination for state senator, he asks you for your support.

He is a native of this section, and he understands his fellow citizens and their problems. In view of their interests he stands for the following measures:

1. Repeal of the Sales Tax—and of any and every tax that burdens the poor man. I have always been the poor man's friend.
2. Aid for the soldier and the laboring man.
3. Abolishment of the useless offices of the state.
4. Support of the Government's Old Age Pension.
5. As a leader, in bringing the State Teachers College to this section, he is pledged to the cause of education. He also pledges his efforts to increase of the per capita of the schools.
6. Development of our resources. He has been a farmer, merchant, miner, manufacturer, and lumberman. Therefore he believes he is fully qualified to serve you, as your personal friend, in the Senate of Kentucky.
