ROWAN VOTE IS INCREASED BY 99 ON SATURDAY

Gives Chandler Majority Of 612 In Hotly Contested Battle Here.

Piling up a majestic majority in the Saturday run-off primary, A. B. Happy Chandler, Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, swept through Rowan county and when the final vote was counted had increased his August majority in this county by 99 votes, to lead his opponent Thomas S. Rhea by a total of 612 majority.

It was a great victory for Chandler forces and committee in this county. Chandler carried every precinct but two in the September race, one of them Brushy where he cut down the Rhea majority by four votes and the other Haldeman where numerous Republicans were allowed to vote for Rhea. He carried Cranston and McKenzie in Saturday's primary, both of which he lost in August, and increased his majority in every other precinct in the county with the exception of the two Farmers precincts where he dropped nine votes.

Hogtown stood out among the rural precincts by almost doubling the Chandler lead over August. Lays dropped two votes in the August lead but made an excellent showing. The three Morehead precincts showed up with big increases over the August primary. Number Seven and Ten led by 18 votes, Number Seven by 35 votes, and Number Ten by 25 votes. Considering that Morehead precincts were the battle ground for the opposite forces the Chandler supporters were more than satisfied with the results shown.

Plain where Rhea failed to register a vote in August came through with 15 in September, but the largely increased vote in September held up the Chandler majority and increased it one vote, although the percentage dropped considerably.

Pine Grove increased their Chandler lead from 16 in August to 47 in September, while Cranston went from 1 for Rhea to 24 for Chandler. Dry Creek which was in the Chandler column in August by 2 votes, went over to the September giving him 32 majority in September. Analyzing the vote throughout the county, it appeared that among the Democrats who voted there was a general trend in favor of the Versailles candidate.

SEPTEMBER ELECTION ONE OF QUIETEST EVER HELD IN STATE SAY WATCHERS

The contents of opinion was that the election held Saturday was fair and just. Precinct officers and workers in every precinct in Morehead appeared to be in perfectly satisfied that everything was conducted on the level and so far we have heard no complaints from either side. When both sides are satisfied that they got all that was due them, there is no reason for argument. Precinct number Ten had some trouble getting started to voting and several votes were forced to leave before they had cast their votes for their favorites, due to the fact that the Republican officers failed to appear to serve. The voting was held up for over an hour until the election officers and supporters of both Rhea and Chandler located two Republicans who were sworn in to serve. The only difficulty was in finding two Republicans on the ground.

Saturday's election as you know was strictly a family affair, with no Republicans allowed. Only a very few attempts to vote, and those who did were refused the ballot.

The surprising and gratifying thing about the primary election of Saturday was the spirit in which

WPA Projects To Be Pushed Here

The following list of projects submitted by Rowan county was received late for publication in the last issue of the News.

Sponsor's proposal No. 1
Grading, draining and surfacing the native stone, or gravel, 6.3 mile county road. Farmers to in-charge of U. S. Forest Trail at Cogswell.

This project is to furnish employment for 7 months to 150 common laborers, 7 semi skilled and 2 skilled men. Request has also been made for the employment of 6 teams and drivers and 6 trucks and drivers for 152 days each. Total estimated cost of project $27,881.00.

Sponsor's proposal No. 2
A project proposal for training work center making of clothing for 50 women for 12 months. Total estimated costs of project is $22,350.00.

Sponsor's proposal No. 3
A project proposal for the grading, draining and surfacing with native stone or gravel approximately 2.6 miles, farm to market U. S. Main county road. Farmers to in-charge.

GILL JOHNSON PURCHASES INTEREST IN C U T RATE

A business deal was completed last week, whereby Bill Johnson purchased the interest of Dan Parker in the Cut Rate Grocery, and will with Mr. Chandler Click conduct that establishment in the future.

Mr. Johnson is an experienced grocer and meat cutter, having been employed for several years at the company store at Haldeman.

both sides fought a family fight to nominate their favorite candidate for the office of governor. At every precinct in Rowan county, and so far as we have been able to learn in the entire state, there was little or no friction such as was naturally expected in as heated a contest as had been developed throughout the state. Locally it was one of the quietest and most orderly elections ever held in this county. Reports from every precinct in the county indicated the total lack of friction. It is possible but not probable that some were disappointed at the apparent lack of excitement, as so many had predicted that trouble would arise.

That of course does not mean that both sides were not doing their utmost to win the precinct or the county. They were, but it was because they were so intent on doing their best for their favorite candidate, that they had no time to indulge in the pleasant pastime of quarrelling and dodling.

Be that as it may the relations reserved at the polls was one of utmost cordiality and courtesy. The site of the News has some pictures.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME OF MR. AND MRS. JONES

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones in the Thomas addition Monday night of this week. The loss to both the home and its contents was partially covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, together with their baby had gone to visit her sister who was ill. They saved only the clothing which they wore.

The local fire department responded to the fire alarm, but the fire had gained such headway that they were unable to save any of the contents of the house.

COLLEGE TO OPEN FALL SEMESTER WITH FULL REGISTRATION EXPECTED

The Morehead State Teachers College will open on Monday of next week for the regular fall session according to announcements from college authorities. Rumors have been circulating that the college would not open at the regular time on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Morehead State Teachers College planning this fall to offer Saturday classes for the benefit of students in this territory who are unable to attend during the week but who possibly to take classes on Saturdays. These classes will be given by regular instructors of the college and will give residence credit.

To give the courses most in demand, the College is asking that all those interested in taking work in this way meet at the College on Saturday morning, September 14, so that a schedule satisfactory to the most people may be worked out.

The College also announces that a plan for night classes might be worked out if there was a sufficient demand for them.

CARRIES FIVE OF NINE DISTRICTS TO TAKE LEAD

Eighth District Goes To Rhea By Small Margin In Run Off.

With the final count in the 4219 precincts of Kentucky completed, the majority of A. B. "Happy" Chandler reached the total of 26,565, according to figures issued from Louisville late Wednesday afternoon. The count was completed early Wednesday morning.

With Mr. Chandler, the following minor candidates were elected: Lieutenant Governor: Ken Johnson; Secretary of State: Charles D. Arnett; Attorney General: B. M. Vincent; State Treasurer: John E. Buckingham; Clerk of Appeals: W. B. McConnell.

A. B. Happy Chandler, smiled his way through the most heated campaign in the history of Kentucky politics in last Saturday's primary, to win by a margin of nearly 30,000 votes, according to complete returns. The Versailles candidate carried five out of the nine congressional districts, and narrowly out the lead of Thomas S. Rhea in the other three. This was particularly noticeable in the second district where Mr. Rhea lives, and even more so in Logan county where again the huge vote of the August primary was duplicated. Chandler was picked up an average of seventeen votes to the precinct in that county, while Rhea was dropping almost an equal number.

Jefferson county where the vote at the time this was written had not been counted completely, was given Chandler a majority of around 5,000. Chandler had carried the city of Louisville by about 2,000 votes, a victory which in August had gone to the Rhea column, by about the same margin and still had the rural precincts of Jefferson county to fall back on for further margin. The trend indicated that Chandler would pile up his margin in that section.

Harlin county, which was again visited by the troops held a peaceful election and gave Chandler a margin of over six thousand votes.

In practically every county in the state Chandler either increased his lead or cut into the Rhea margin. Boyd County, in this, the eighth district, was one of the exceptions to the rule. Boyd which gave Rhea a margin of 220 votes in August, increased his lead by 500 in the September primary.

Fleming county which gave Chandler a majority of 711 in August, increased the lead to 1120 in September. Mingo county which went to Chandler in August by 394, gave him over 800 in September.

Meigs county, in this judicial circuit, went to Rhea by 141 majority.

Work To Begin On Licking Road

News of vast importance to residents of the Upper Licking Valley is that the Upper Licking Road, which was project Number One of the WPA program in this county has been approved and funds have been set marked for immediate use. According to County Judge Chas. E. Jennings, work is expected to start immediately on the project.

W. T. Welsh, assistant supervisor of projects and planner for the work, says the Morehead Tuesday and together with Judge Jennings and Dixon Shouse made a final survey and inspection of the first two miles of the project. Mr. Welsh approved the survey and will order the project speeded immediately, according to Judge Jennings.

The Women's project has also been approved, but no funds have been allocated for it as yet. It has been expected to be ready in the near future.

CHILDREN'S CRIME HOUR

Listening, as we do, to repeated complaints of parents who object to the penny dreadful type of broadcasting that comes over the radio to their children at supertime we wonder at the shortsightedness of many advertisers and radio stations.

Concern over this type of program finds reflection not only in the ill will of potential customers toward the sponsors and the advertised product, but also, a statement by Anne S. Prall, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. Mr. Prall is certain that some of the dime novels of the air are injuring children. He reminds us that "about half dozen stations have been taken off the air in recent years for failure to live up to the proper standard of public service."

The resentment against this type of program is not of the negative sort that is received and forgotten with an indifferent shrug; an embittered parent is a dangerous adversary for any institution, no matter how big, to face. School officials and educators in general have repeatedly emphasized the demoralizing effects of these programs. Highly strung children are keyed up to an uncomfortable pitch by radio shrieks and horror tales; and even the most placid child is apt to have his vocabulary corrupted and his standards warped in formative years by what might well be described as the Children's Crime Hour.

Many of these programs are a nuisance to parents also, and to a degree which it is hard for adults without children of their own to appreciate. Once a child's sympathy has been aroused by the sponsor of a product, it will plead and beg incessantly for the purchase of that product. In a current radio sequence, children was made to believe, though it was not actually stated, that purchase of a certain article would aid the fictional hero in securing money to pay for the necessary operation on his ailing mother.

The sheer impudence of an appeal to any child in the home, over the parents' heads, in behalf of an advertised product might be enough to give the sponsors pause; but combined with the ill effects of such programs upon the child, as shown by Professor Busse of New York University and others and the resentment engendered in grown ups, it would seem that, even if advertisers do not, the radio powers that be would take heed in their own interest.

THE PUBLIC FRIEND

We have heard much of late about the Public Enemies. The United States government is pursuing certain conspicuous characters whom it declares to be Public Enemies, and it has disposed of several conspicuous figures in that class. There is a whole army of Public Enemies with whom the country has to contend, and many of them have never seen the inside of any prison.

Meanwhile we should recognize that we also have a great many public Friends, as well as Public Enemies, and warm tributes should be paid them, and people should be encouraged to qualify for this class. What are the characteristics of the Public Friend.

The Public Friend believes he must take some part of carrying on community work in his home town. If he is asked to take some office in some good community affair he will not say, "O, no, I could not possibly do anything like that. You find him taking that task that are more or less distasteful. You will probably see him at your door some night offering you an opportunity to give money.

The Public Friend is interested in everything that promises progress for his home town. He attends meetings and gatherings considered to discuss local problems. He offers suggestions when he can see things that should be done.

The Public Friend makes his purchases at home whenever he can, which is practically always.

The Public Friend always speaks good words for his home town. He does not think it smart or funny to take a superior attitude and point out its defects, but he always speaks of its kindly and friendly spirit, and the public institutions built up over years of labor.

Sole Vital Statistics From Canada

AN American insurance man recently appeared in the mountains of Alberta and flung his business of estimating among the residents. The first man he went after was a young fellow who had just returned from a business trip to the States. He was supposed to account for the health of his parents. He admitted that his father had died of tuberculosis at the age of thirty-nine and that his mother passed away from a heart attack at the age of twenty-seven. The agent at once passed him up as a bad risk. The owner of his rejection took wings and the neighbors discussed his misfortune in detail. The next questionnaire turned in by the applicant for insurance, this time to another company, was a more optimistic life document. It set forth in substance that the applicant's wife died at the age of ninety-five as a result of a fall from a polo pony. Concerning his mother, he wrote:

"She lived a care and useful life and brought a large family into the world. At the age of sixty-nine, she passed away after a lingering illness brought on by childbirth."

SCHOONER S. PARKER IN TROUBLE AGAIN

In serious trouble with the elements again, the schooner Seth Parker, now a fish boat, was swallowed yesterday in heavy seas 625 miles southeast of here today. A coast guard boat raced to her rescue.

Until a few months ago, when a fever set of commissions ended her career as a ship of commerce, the schooner was the globe's premier broadcasting ship of Phillips Landing, Alaska.

Her skipper, Frank Eckman, reported she was leaking badly and in serious condition. There was three feet of water in her hold. Her crew were out of commission and her engine of fifteen was fouled.

The Coast Guard boat, Tiger, putting last night, was expected to require three days to reach the Seth Parker. Doubt was expressed here whether the schooner could remain afloat that long.

UNIFORM LAWS NEEDED

One of the greatest barriers to safe and efficient enforcement of traffic laws is the lack of uniformity in the penalty codes of different states.

As a traffic authority recently pointed out, when he drives from one state to another, he is faced with a maze of different laws and penalties.

It is suggested that a uniform code of traffic laws be adopted by all states, and that the laws be made uniform in their penalties.

Housing Hints

TIPS ON HOW AND WHAT TO IMPROVE

AN OUTDOOR OVEN

An outdoor oven in the garden will prove to be an enjoyable addition to Summer living and entertaining.

The oven may be constructed of brick, stone, concrete, or another material which will harmonize with the walls or other features in the garden.

NEW KITCHEN FAUCETS

Many old houses have obsolescent two faucet systems.

The modern kitchen has an improved mixer type of faucet. This removes the danger of the housewife holding her hands with the steaming hot water from the single hot water outlet.

CALL BELL

A service call bell installed in the dining room is a great convenience. A chapper bell rung at the table will often interrupt an interesting conversation.

CLOTHES HAMPER

A soiled clothes hamper may be built into the bathroom and will add to the convenience of this room.

If it is sturdy built, the hinged cover may be upholstered with waterproof cloth and be used as a bench.

CLOTHES DRYER

In rainy locations, where it is difficult for the housekeeper to hang her clothes out to dry during the long Winter months, a clothes dryer may be added in the basement or first floor laundry room.

Before Fall consult the companies providing this equipment. They will give estimates on the cost of installation as well as the cost of the unit itself.

YELLOW PAINT

It is difficult to get a clear yellow paint coat. Yellows do not cover easily and four coats may be needed to cover a fairly dark under surface.

IRON CRACKS REPAIRED

Cracks and leaks in cast iron can be repaired with iron cement. This comes in the form of a fine powder. Mixed with water it forms a thick paste. Blend it well, for water and powder do not mix readily.

The cement must penetrate the crack. For a pipe, radiator, or other work which must be water tight, use a slender tool for widening the crack to a width which will permit the proper penetration of the cement.

Force the cement into the crack and pack it by hammering with a flat tool.

If there is considerable pressure in a pipe, reinforce the mended section with a hose clamp such as that used on water connections of an automobile engine.

If there is a possibility that the crack may extend and become longer, drill holes at each end and fill these with cement.

CHIMNEYS HEIGHT

The height of a chimney has a decided effect on its efficiency. Tom authorities recommend 30 to 35 feet as a minimum height. Many one-story houses have efficient chimneys less than this height, however, there are few chimneys tend to be erratic in their action.

Strong prevalent winds, the height of the chimney above the roof, the presence of overhanging trees, and other factors cause disturbances in the action of the drafts. These considerations will modify or increase any arbitrary minimums which can be set forth.

WALL FOUNTAIN

The sun room may be made more attractive by the addition of a wall fountain. It will add to the effect of coziness in this room.

Colored tile can be used to form a niche, which may hold a piece of statuary or a formalized decorative plant form. Blue grass tile is furnished with white wire furniture.

ENTRANCE LAMP

It is often difficult to locate a driveway unless it is marked in some manner. Of course it is more urban residents also have drives which are not easy to locate at night.

Atttractive lamps may be placed at the entrance. These may be placed on gate posts or on specially standards erected for the purpose. The name of the street number, the residence can be cut out of flat metal piece and used in the shade for the light. If properly designed this will add to the attractiveness as well as the usefulness of the lamps.

The lights need not be bright. On the contrary, a soft glow is preferable and will satisfactorily serve to mark the dimensions of the drive.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

To anyone who has not studied chemistry, it must be baffling to read about iron in the blood, lime in the bones, and phosphorus in the nerves. Indeed it does sound spooky. Nevertheless, it is true. More than that, the presence of minerals in the right quantity is very important, not only to general health but in the prevention of certain diseases.

Of course, the source of minerals is the food we eat. Perhaps the best known source is milk and milk products. From these we get most of the lime and calcium and phosphorus we use. In children, these minerals furnish the building material for bones and teeth. When they are in sufficient amount, the well known disease called "rickets" results.

Iron has long been a stand-by among home remedies. Adults will remember the days when "iron tonics" were popular. Today, we know that iron is easier and pleasanter to take in food. The best sources are cabbage, lettuce, spinach, milk, egg yolk, liver, peas, string beans, and beef.

Iodine is familiar to residents of the so-called "goiter belt" in this country. Its great contribution is to the very important thyroid gland. We find it in many foods, but most abundant in fish and other seafood, oysters and lettuce.

Perhaps you have noted this fact while reading. The mineral rich foods are also the vitamin foods. This fact makes everything simple. Just build meals around the essentials—green vegetables, fruit, milk, bread, and butter and stop worrying.

In spite of wars and rumors of wars some folks keep on playing golf, and that's a happy fact. If we were not for folks who keep on playing while other folks fight, this would be a hard world.

Probably don't have any license to some men who live a dog's life, do so.

BREAKFAST

Begins Business And Makes or Breaks the Day

EVERY morning in his office a man begins doing business on the breakfast that he has eaten that day. If it was a good breakfast, with nice, fresh vacuum packed coffee, and other foods that appealed to him, he's all set for a successful day. But if it was one of those unimaginative breakfasts, so like yesterday's and tomorrow's that it's hard for him to remember what he ate, he won't be feeling so peppy and well.

So why not plan your breakfasts in advance, not only for variety's sake, but for the sake of the family budget? That won't be so preposterous either if it's one of those unimaginative breakfasts for the breadwinner of the family won't be able to "bring home the bacon", and that's a mighty nice thing to have, at breakfast especially.

How to Plan Them. The way to plan better breakfasts is, first of all to remember that there are a great variety of fruits in addition to oranges and many kinds of cereals besides oatmeal, that eggs make excellent breakfast dishes but not the only possible ones, and that there are many different kinds of hot breads. Toast tastes fine—occasionally, so do corn sticks, fruit

And that adds up exactly to a dollar and a half, whether you do it in your head or write it carefully down on a slate.

Here Are the Recipes. Of course you already know how to make most of these things, but here's the way to extend a can of tomato soup so that it will serve six people, and the recipe for the dessert.

Tomato Soup: Combine one can tomato soup, two cups water, half a chicken bouillon cube, salt and pepper, and bring to boiling. Add a pinch of soda. Pour this very slowly into one-fourth cup scalded cream, and serve at once.

Cherry Tapioca: For this recipe you use half of the fruit and all the syrup from a No. 2 can red pitted cherries. The remaining cherries may be used in a salad the next day. Add one cup water to one cup cherry syrup, bring to boiling, add four tablespoons minute tapioca, place in double boiler and cook for ten minutes, stirring often. Add two tablespoons sugar and a few grains salt and pour the mixture slowly into two beaten eggs. Return to double boiler and cook one minute longer. Add half the cherries from the can, turn into glass dishes. Of course they wouldn't cost exactly the same in every city and town in the country, but they'd come pretty close.

Household Hints

Nothing can make your iron smoother, if rough, than running it over a fresh spray of cedar. The oil in the cedar keeps it smooth for a long time and makes your linens shine.

To remove mildew dip the article in butter milk and lay in the sun. When making muck to be fried in a little milk with the water, and it will brown quicker.

Use the liquor from pickled peaches, cherries, plums, or other tart fruits in your mince meat. It will take the place of boiled cider usually called for and sometimes hard to get.

Adding sugar to taste to stewed or creamed turnips makes them delicious.

In making open face fruit pies remove some of your dough before adding water and crumble on top of filling and cover with cream. Makes a delicious looking pie.

Ink stains can be removed from the fingers by dampening and rubbing with a match head.

Before blackening the stove dip a cloth in vinegar and rub over it to remove the grease.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Continuing booming trade at the opening of the fall season over the same period last year is shown by department of commerce report from 33 key cities scattered over the country, according to report of last week's business just received by its Louisville district office. Wholesale trade is also booming, reflecting steadily improved conditions in the retail lines. The Louisville office reported from thithere.

Cooler weather the past week has proved additional incentive to retail buying and sales are continuing above same period of year ago, gains in various lines reported at from 8 to 12 per cent. Indiana reports most retail lines made less than usual seasonal decline; department store buying well above a year ago. Hardware and plumbers supplies continue to lead wholesale buying, which is broadening in many lines. Paper box manufacturers very busy.

National Reemployment Service made 800 placements in positions past week, a gain of 134 per cent. highest in over six months; government deposit at Jeffersonville, Ind., added large number to payroll. Reopening of building stone quarry in Hardin county is giving employment to 50 men using 15 trucks daily.

Louisville clearings show gain of 21.6 per cent over corresponding week in 1934, Jeffersonville, Ind., debits 3.1 per cent over month ago and 5.3 per cent above same period year ago.

Below normal temperatures have retarded rapidly maturing tobacco crop but no damage reported resulting; same reports of "wild fire" but no serious damage from this disease anticipated; fires are being started in barns and curing is getting under way, with very satisfactory final results anticipated. Low temperatures not good for late corn but early crop anticipated; and reported excellent. Barring killing frost within next ten days, Indiana's corn crop not expected to be damaged by cool weather. Sale of thousand pound steers reported in Grant county, Ky., at $11.50 per hundred pounds. Choice Blue Grass farms bringing up to $175 an acre in fall sales, 100 per cent increase over two and three years ago.

Building activities in Louisville during August exceeds those of same month of 1934 by $343,243, or more than 100 per cent, city buildings inspector announces; 128 projects in volved expenditure of $592,125, 38 per cent for new construction and 70 for alterations and improvements; 20 permits were for one-family residences. Contract for construction of two story brick school building at Glasgow Junction, Ky., at figure of $36,340. DeWitt firm awarded contract at $36,466 for construction of waterworks plant at Milltown, Ind.

Kentucky country newspapers report opening of new hotel at Brandenburg, and 13 new stores in various towns during the past month. Glencoe distillery, Jefferson county operations past week with capacity for distilling 1,000 bushels of corn daily.

Avery Building Association, Louisville, reports best six months experience in over five years. Receipts of Louisville-Jeffersonville, Ind., 1934 municipal bridge tolls show gain during August of $1,426 over August, Carroll Company, tobacco dealers, chartered at Carrollton, Ky., capital of $18,500. Indiana's mortgage bill has been reduced approximately $8,000,000 during past year according to records in office of Auditor of State. People's Deposit Bank and Trust Company chartered at Paris, Ky., past week with $150,000 capital. Under auspices of Louisville Board of Trade, committee has been named to make intensive study of reduced exports of American sugar, tobacco.

city in August, but in September reversed its vote, and gave Chandler a majority of 35 votes. Powell county also came out of the Rhea column and gave Chandler a nice majority.

Morgan county which gave Chandler 55 majority in August, switched to the Rhea column, giving the Logan county man 100 majority in September. This was said to have been due to the fact that Charles Arnett, a native of Morgan county was on the Rhea slate for Secretary of State, a fact which lined his relatives up for Rhea.

The Eighth District, which gave Mr. Rhea a margin of over 4,000 in the August primary was still in his column, although his lead was cut down to one thousand votes. The margin that the Eighth district has two primary commissions, one in Breathitt county and one in Harrison, is ample reason for holding the Rhea lead. Breathitt county gave him a margin of 1468 while Greenup came through with 1430 majority for Rhea.

Bath county increased their August margin by a few votes in spite of the fact that the Rhea forces grabbed all the election officers in the September primary. Carrying with him a number of his state, Mr. Chandler had the satisfaction of seeing B. M. Vincent given the nomination for Attorney General; John E. Buckingham went out for State Treasurer; and W. H. O'Connell take the nomination for Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Lost on the Chandler slate were Senator J. E. Wise who was defeated by Keen Johnson of Richmond by a wide margin; and Miss Maja Hudday who was opposed by Charles Arnett for Secretary of State.

In the Judicial district, comprising four counties, Mr. Chandler was winner in all of them. Bath gave him a majority of ... Rowan gave him 412; Menifee gave him 33; and Montgomery gave him 377.

SEPTEMBER ELECTION

There is always one good thing about an election. Everybody is glad when it is over and they can settle back to their usual occupation of making a living for the family. There is a certain amount of relief from the tension and a certain feeling that, win or lose, you have done the best that was in you for the candidate of your choice.

The election is over and Chandler carried Rowan by an impressive majority of 612 votes. This was an increase of 99 over the majority given him in the August primary, this in spite of the fact that numerous Republicans voted in the Haldeman precinct to carry the precinct for Rhea and to cut Chandler's majority of 42 in that precinct to a majority of 5 for Rhea.

Off-setting this however, the majority in Brushy precinct was cut from 20 to 14, while Cranston changed over from 1 majority for Rhea to 24 majority for Chandler.

Plank Precinct held up its majority and increased it one although they were unable to maintain the unimpaired record of the August primary. They carried the precinct by 27 votes Saturday.

But perhaps the banner precinct of the county so far as fight was concerned was McKenzie. Arranged against a fighting machine, Johnny Ellis and his friends made a real battle ground in McKenzie, and when the smoke cleared away and the vote was counted, they found they had vindicated themselves by carrying the precinct and overcoming a previous majority of 11.

Wagner precinct dropped its majority for Chandler from 15 votes in August to 1 in September. Wagner was the center of the Rhea battle with Doc Lambert and Rev. Wesley Cox leading the Chandler fight against odds. That they carried the precinct at all in the face of the circumstances with which they were faced, is a victory for them of the first ranking.

Four High Schools Open For Year

A largely increased enrollment at the four consolidated schools of the county will give them well over a thousand students for the coming year, according to figures compiled by the principals of those schools.

The Morehead school leads in the number of students, with approximately 400 on the rolls in the various grades. Haldeman came second with 325 students. Farmers has an enrollment of 125 and Elliottville has 150.

An added feature in the Morehead High School curriculum this year is the manual training department under the direction of Buell Hogue. A commercial course including typing and shorthand is again being offered by Miss Anna Lee Martin.

New equipment including tables and chairs has been purchased for the schools. With the opening of school at Farmers, Ted Crosthwaite is substituting for Mrs. Beulah Burrows who is ill at present.

The first issue of the Viking Voice is expected to appear during the school year.

O. J. Clay Announces For School Board

TO THE VOTERS OF ROWAN COUNTY:

At the urging of numerous friends I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Member of the Rowan County Board of Education, at the November election on Tuesday, November 5.

I am a resident of Farmers, Kentucky and have been interested in the welfare of the schools of the county for many years.

If I am nominated and elected I pledge myself to devote my time to the interest of the schools of the county and to do everything in my power to make them second to none in this state.

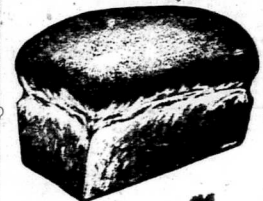

I expect to see most of the people of the county between now and the November election, but if I should be unable to do so I will appreciate the influence and support of every citizen of Rowan county.

O. J. Clay, Farmers, Kentucky.

Chas. Crum Is Shot By Marshall Friday

Charles Crum who was seriously injured last Friday, when shot by Ed Hall, local policeman, is recovering from his injuries, according to reports from the Lexington hospital where he was hurried immediately after the shooting. Crum, who was said to have been drunk, was shot after he had run from Hall, who was attempting to arrest him. The bullet entered his abdomen from the back, passing through the body and coming out the front.

Mr. Hall was released under $5,000 bonds which were signed by Mayor Harlan Blair and Rev. T. F. Lyons.

Farm And Agriculture News

Colling of molting and non-producing hens is recommended for this month. Keep hens that laid through the summer and are still laying, not only because of their egg production but because the eggs of persistent layers should be used for hatching.

Experts predict continued good prices for hogs, cattle and poultry products. Dairy cattle are decreasing in number. Use in part to a switch to beef production; but more plentiful feed may tend to increase dairy production.

Never add water when canning tomatoes. Pack the tomatoes, whole or cut into quarters, into jars without crushing, and cover with boiling tomato juice prepared from small tomatoes. Add a teaspoon of salt per quart, partly seal, process and completely seal.

Eggs in the diet are important for iron and other minerals, for vitamins A and D and for protein. They are especially good for the children and should be eaten liberally by adults. Give children one or two daily, and adults two to four.

Cool weather and fall rains are good for starting the garden. A recommended mixture is made of 4 parts by weight of bluegrass seed and one part by weight of redtop seed. Sow any time during September.

Failure to mow fences, pasture fields and other places will prolong forever the battle against weeds. Weeds now mowed before they go to seed should be burned in the fall, so the seed will be destroyed. The better way is to cut them before their seed matures.

The fall of the year marks the end of the season's gardening, and is properly the time when a gardener should look back over his labors and, against them, check his results.

The continued wet weather that prevails in parts of the state changed the ordinary routine of gardening in several ways. One was in reference to fertilizing. Gardeners who have long been depending on manure as a fertilizing means, have written complaining of lack of thrift and of general slowness of their crops. The reason was, in many instances, the leaching away of the nitrogen that would ordinarily have been taken up by the burned manure. These correspondents were benefited by the suggestion that they supply side dressings of commercial nitrogen, but by reason of the advice coming late, time was lost, and consequently, some vegetables lost the remedy he forgotten, and in order that it may be used, should conditions in 1936 repeat those of this year, a note should be made before the matter slips the mind.

Another common trouble, in the rainy parts of the State, was the ground running together. This is serious trouble, for there is no immediate remedy. There is a preventive, however, which is to improve the condition of the soil. Soil runs together, because it lacks humus. Humus is an end-product of the breaking down of vegetable matter. If manuring is usually done, the humus content of soil is automatically maintained, but if dependence is placed in commercial fertilizer as the plant food fertilizing source, year after year, the soil actually becomes burned out, not because fertilizer burns soil, but because vegetables remove the humus on which sponginess and easy workability of the soil depend.

Manure is not the only humus material gardeners may use, however. Specially sown cover and manner crops may be used; so may composted lawn trimmings, tree leaves and vegetable tops, provided there was no disease in the garden that might be carried over. For that matter, an abundant coat of weeds might be used to furnish humus, except for the fact that in an efficiently run garden no weeds become large enough to be of much service in this regard.

Another extraordinary condition brought about by the wet weather in that part of the state so blessed or so afflicted, was that of the prevalence of garden disease, particularly the mildews and the blights. For mildew, sulphur is a preventive, applied in time; at least a cheap whenever applied. For the leaf spots and the blights, Bordeaux mixture is indicated, to check spread, but better to prevent their coming, applied before any symptoms appear. Those gardeners who stopped these troubles, even after they had made considerable headway, will know how effective these measures were, but to appreciate the value of preventing their coming at all, they will want to be armed against them, and will make note to include in next year's garden budget a fund to cover the material for these sprays, as well as for equipment properly to apply them.

Some parts of Kentucky were exceptionally dry and many gardens baked and the vegetables failed. Just what can be done about the weather is problematical, but one may conduct his garden so that a rain or two, more or less, does not matter. This is to see to it that the humus supply is kept up, and to continue to break up the soil by deep breaking and fitting and later proper cultivation. If a dry season follows, precautions against excessive dryness apply in an excessively wet season as well, and are to preparation for a season that is ideal.

A study made by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture of the records of 30 farmers living in the principal hog raising areas of the state indicates that profits may be increased by early breeding and by full feeding.

Farmers made more money when they had their sows farrow from January 15 to March 15 and from April 15 to September 15 than they did when the pigs came later in the spring and later in the fall. Farmers generally do not have their sows farrow early in the spring because of unfavorable weather conditions. Contrary to this opinion, the study showed that the death loss of pigs may be small with early farrowed pigs; and the net returns greater than with late farrowed pigs.

The care of pigs farrowed from the middle of January to the middle of March or from the middle of July to the middle of September does not conflict with spring and fall work, and makes it possible to market hogs during the periods of high prices each year. In order to have sows farrow between these dates they should be bred from September 26 to November 23, and from March 26 to May 24.

Two systems of feeding hogs are generally used in this area. One is to full feed them from birth until they are sold, and the other is to limit their feed for a period and then full feed them to market conditions. In the case of the 30 farmers, whose records of three years were studied by the college's farm economics specialists, the full feeding system was more profitable.

Kennel Murder Case

BY S. S. VAN DINE
Copyright by W. H. Wraib

No. 10, Markham. Vance cut in, his eyes staring straight ahead. That's just what happened the other night, Archer. Coe—already a dead man—walked upstairs. And what is even more terrible, Markham—he didn't know he was dead.

Vance turned quickly and went to a set of thick quarto volumes on the lower shelf of one of his book-cases. He ran his finger along the books until he came to volume "E". He turned the pages and found what he was looking for. Then he glanced down the column of fine type.

Listen, Markham, he said. Here's a historical case of a dead person walking. He read from the encyclopedia, Elizabeth (Amelie Eugenie) 1807-1826, consort of Francis Joseph, emperor of Austria, a daughter of Duke Max Milian Joseph of Bavaria and Louise Wilhelmine, was born on the 24th of December, 1807, at Lake Starberg. He turned the page. But here's the passage regarding her death. Elizabeth spent much of her time traveling through Europe and at the palace she had built in Corfu. On the 10th of September, 1826, she was walking through the streets of Geneva with her entourage, from her hotel to the steamer when an anarchist, named Luigi Lucchini, ran suddenly into the roadway an detached her in the back, with a shoemaker's awl. The police immediately pounced upon the man and were about to drag him away, when the empress stayed them and gave the order they should release him. He has not injured me, she said, and I wish on this occasion to forgive him. He has which was more than half a mile distant, and made a farewell speech to her subjects from the deck. She then retired to her cabin and lay down. Several hours later she was found with a broken neck. She actually stabbed her without her being aware of it, and she had died hours later of an internal hemorrhage. This crime was the final misfortune which came to the Austrian empress, and all Europe was aroused to a state of intense indignation.

Vance closed the book and threw it to one side. Now—do you see what I mean, Markham? he asked. A dead person often does strange things without knowing he is dead. Do you recall what Doctor Doremus said? An internal hemorrhage! That's the whole story—that's the key to everything. That's how Archer could have been killed in the library and still have walked upstairs.

Markham stood up and walked back and forth across the room. Good G! His words were scarcely audible. So that's the explanation. No wonder we couldn't understand the things that happened there that night. Unbelievable!

Vance had sunk back into his chair, relaxed. He took a deep inspiration, like a man who had suddenly found a friendly settlement in the midst of a hostile jungle. Finally, Markham, he said with a slight upward glance, taking out his cigarette case, I'll never forgive you for this—never! It was you who guessed the solution—and I knew it all the time, but I couldn't correlate my knowledge.

Markham came to a sudden halt. What do you mean by saying that I guessed the solution, Archer? I didn't you say, asked Vance mildly, that the only way you could explain the circumstances was by the assumption that a dead man walked upstairs. No Markham I am sure I shall never forgive you.

Markham sat down and muttered a disgusted oath. He smoked a while in silence.

The internal hemorrhage explains many things, he admitted finally. But I still don't understand Brisbane's death, and the bolted door.

Any yet, d'ye see, returned Vance. It all fits in perfectly, now that we have the key.

He lay back in his chair and stretched his legs. He took several puffs on his cigarette and half closed his eyes.

I think, Markham, I can reconstruct the amazing and contradictory occurrences that took place in the Coedonville last Wednesday night. I doubt it. Vance actually planned to murder Archer Coe that night. The idea had no doubt been in his mind for a long time, for he had obviously taken the precaution of securing a duplicate key to the spring lock on the rear door. But I have a feeling that he wished only to argue various matters out with Archer last Wednesday night, before actually resorting to murder. It's obvious that he called on Archer that night and tried to convince him that he would be the perfect mate for Hilda Lake. Archer disagreed—and disagreed violently. That was no doubt the argument that Vance overheard. I imagine that the debate reached the point where blows were struck. The poker was quite handy, don't you know, and Vance, with his tremendous sense of personal inferiority, would naturally reach for some outside agent to help him over the top. He snatched the poker and struck Archer over the head.

Markham stood up and walked back and forth across the room. Good G! His words were scarcely audible. So that's the explanation. No wonder we couldn't understand the things that happened there that night. Unbelievable!

The idea had no doubt been in his mind for a long time, for he had obviously taken the precaution of securing a duplicate key to the spring lock on the rear door. But I have a feeling that he wished only to argue various matters out with Archer last Wednesday night, before actually resorting to murder. It's obvious that he called on Archer that night and tried to convince him that he would be the perfect mate for Hilda Lake. Archer disagreed—and disagreed violently. That was no doubt the argument that Vance overheard. I imagine that the debate reached the point where blows were struck. The poker was quite handy, don't you know, and Vance, with his tremendous sense of personal inferiority, would naturally reach for some outside agent to help him over the top. He snatched the poker and struck Archer over the head.

PLANNING FOR THE MINES

Governor Martin of Oregon has inaugurated a project which could be followed to advantage in a number of other states. He has appointed a committee of seven well known Oregon citizens to lay plans for developing the state's mining industry.

Even in states where mining is highly developed, similar committees could be producing of much good. They could study mining's tax and legislative problems, thorns in the side of the industry even in normal times, and make recommendations to state officials. They could lay the groundwork for a long range program which would encourage it and help it operate profitably, to the benefit of labor and the state.

Mining is one of the basic industries which are vital to the nation, in war and in peace, in good times and in bad. It deserves intelligent, thoughtful aid.

SECURITY COMES FIRST
There are two main reasons for the exceptional record of stability and safety made by the life insurance industry years of unparalleled stress.

First, the whole investment program of life insurance has but one watchword: Maximum safety. The men entrusted with the handling, in vesting, selling and re-investing of life insurance assets are thoroughly trained and are intimately in touch with industrial conditions throughout the country. They have expert fact finding organizations at their disposal, which produce important information, long before the public is aware of it. In brief, they provide what the average investor is absolutely unable to provide for himself, scientific, realistic, hard headed security analysis that makes few mistakes. As one life insurance executive has said, "Bternal care and study in selection is the price of safety."

Second, life insurance assets are widely distributed, both from the standpoint of geography, and the type of holding. For example, the investment setup of a representative life company is somewhat like this: Government bonds, 30 per cent; railroad obligations, 15 per cent; public utilities obligations, 24 per cent; other bonds and stocks, 3.1 per cent; farm mortgages, 7.9 per cent; other mortgages, 24.7 per cent; policy loans, 17.7 per cent; real estate, 3.8 per cent; cash, 2.5 per cent; miscellaneous, 1 per cent.

Wide distribution of stock to obtain maximum security is the guiding principle of life insurance. The experience during depression shows how sound that principle is.

AN EXACT COPY OF BEAUTIFUL STRANGES DRANK APPEARS IN "MAD LOVE" THE STRANGE IS SO LIKE ME THAT HE CAN CHANGE PLACES IN THE PICTURE! (MISS DRANE HAD TO PUT THE FACIAL MARKS UP ON THE STUPEL HERSELF!)

IT'S TRUE! that if a young art student hadn't bought a cheap camera to help himself study drawing, the screen world might not have had 'Metropolis,' 'Variety' and others of the brilliant European pictures that revolutionized photography," says artist Wiley Pagan. "This was how Karl Freund, distinguished Bohemian director, and pioneer of fantastic photography, whose most recent work 'Mad Love' with Peter Lorre, first became interested in pictures.

At The Theatres

COZY THEATRE

Wednesday and Thursday, September 11 and 12, the Cozy Theatre will show the great Hungarian character actor, Peter Lorre, who is cast as a mad surgeon in M. G. M.'s "Mad Love," supporting him will be beautiful Francis Drake, Keye Luke, a Chinese artist, who will play the role of an oriental scientist, Colin Clive, who acted the title role in "Frankenstein" and other of M. G. M.'s leading artists. An added attraction will be a comedy sketch "Four Star Border."

On Friday and Saturday the Cozy Theatre will show its feature picture of the week "County Chairman," starring Will Rogers, deceased, supporting him will be Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Louise Dresser, Mickey Rooney and Stepin Fetchak.

On Will Rogers pictures which will come to the Cozy Theatre soon are "Judge Priest," "Steamboat Round the Bend," "In Ole Kentucky" and "Life Begins at Forty."

Is there really any difference in the way Frenchmen and Americans make love?

The answer to that constantly recurring query can be found in Paramount's frothy romantic comedy, "Pass in Spring" which comes Saturday and Monday, September 15 and 16 to the Cozy Theatre. In this picture you will see curley Tullio Carminati make love to Mary Ellis and Ida Lupino, and you can draw your own conclusions.

Miss Lupino is coupled with James Blakeley in the supporting cast. She loves Blakeley and Miss Ellis loves Carminati, but to make each jealous, they switch sweethearts.

The action of the films ranges from the historic Eiffel Tower through the gay night life of Paris. It reaches its comedy climax in an old French castle where the penitent lovers are rejoined after a hectic night of comedy and mix-ups. Lewis Milestone directed the film which also features Lynne Overman.

COLLEGE THEATRE

College Theatre starts new year with three big shows.

For Friday and Saturday, Sept. 13th and 14th, the performance stars Katherine Hepburn in "Alice Adams."

An intensely interesting character study of life in a small Midwestern community is presented by Katherine Hepburn in "Alice Adams." Its human interest should strike a responsive chord in the hearts of all.

The production achieves its triumph through the genius of Miss Hepburn, whose portrayal of the sensitive ambitious daughter from a poor provincial family in the Midwest is a triumph of subtle artistry rarely achieved by any star.

The story is a screen version of South Tarkington Pulitzer Prize novel of 1922, which was one of the best ranked books of its day. It has lost nothing of its charm and appealing human interest in its transition to the screen.

Its heroine is a young girl who fights for love and social recognition and wins a well satisfying victory over wealth and social barriers. "Call of the Wild," 20th Century's colorful filmization of Jack London's immortal story of the Yukon Gold Rush, comes to the College Theatre Saturday, Sept. 15th.

A human unit headed by Clark Gable, Loretta Young, and Jack O'Connell faced danger and starvation in sub-zero Mount Baker, Washington, to film this Darryl Zanuck production.

Gable and O'Connell are seen as Thornton and Shorty, two buddies seeking gold in Alaska. They rescue beautiful Claire Blake from wolves and learn that her husband has been lost in the Alaskan wilderness. She possesses details regarding a rich "lost claim" and realizing that she is helpless singlehanded the girl casts her lot with Thornton and Shorty. After a perilous journey the trio locate the strike, finding it unbelievable rich Thornton and Claire have fallen hopelessly in love when Thornton's dog Buck finds Claire's husband. Thornton rescues Claire and sends the couple off to file claim on the property.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thompson's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grove folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they undergo their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thompson's Black-Draught (powder) about fifteen years, since it is for children. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I would like to see the new Syrup of Black-Draught. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just what I need."

There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all 'body types — the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine — an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful . . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The beat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobacco, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish.

When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.
