MILLION DOLLAR PROGRAM IN ROWAN

ANNUAL FAIR DISPLAY TO BE OPEN COLLEGE, CITY AND COUNTY TO PROFIT BY HUGE SUMS SPENT IN EMPLOYMENT WORK HERE

SCHOOL AND AGRICULTURAL FAIR OPENS HERE FRIDAY MORNING WITH ANNUAL SCHOOL PARADE

Thousands Of School Children Of County In Parade Through Streets.

School children by the hundreds and thousands are expected here Friday when the fifth annual Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair, which was first sponsored by the Rowan County News, will be held. The fair actually opens with the school parade, although the previous day is set aside for making entries to the fair, which will be held at the usual place, the Morehead Public School gymnasium.

While considerable interest has been manifested this year, it is expected that the number and variety of exhibits will be somewhat smaller than last, due to the backward season of the past summer.

In the past Rowan county farmers have proved by their exhibits that this county can produce as many varieties and as good quality as any county of the Blue Grass region.

Fair officials are doing everything in their power to carry the 1935 fair to a successful conclusion.

The general program is as follows: Registration of Exhibits Until 10:00 Parade Begins at Gymnasium 10:30 Athletic Events at Stadium 1:00 to 1:30 Judging of Special Features 1:30 Old Fiddler's Contest (Prize to Winner) at High School Building 7:30.

Horseshoe Tournament at Stadium 10:00 Soft Ball Play Off Series (Three games) 10:30 Awarding of Prizes at Gym. 1:15 Checking out Exhibits 3:00

SORGHUM TIME

An announcement in this issue leads us to repeat an oft-repeated tale. It's "Sorghums time in Old Kentucky."

E. E. Elam of Clearfield is responsible. Mr. Elam makes sorghums each year that are sorghums. Sorghums that melt in your mouth. Sorghums that even the preachers like.

It is barely possible that, you wonder how we know. Each year Mr. Elam gives each preacher in Morehead a gallon of delicious sorghum freshly made from this year's crop of the cane. Needless to say, our preachers do not delay long after the first call is issued to report at the Elam farm near Clearfield to obtain their portion. What we have never been able to figure out is just why Mr. Elam includes the editors of the News in the preacher class. Not that we object in the slightest. In fact we are rather pleased than otherwise.

But so that it is rather a coincidence. The notice from Mr. Elam appears in this issue. As soon as the preachers

Jesse Williams To Make Educational Race

In this issue appears the announcement of Jesse Williams of Clearfield as a candidate for the office of member of the Rowan County Board of Education, subject to the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 5.

Mr. Williams is well known throughout the county, having been born at Ellettsville in this county and having spent the past nine years at Clearfield where he was until the past year employed by the Morehead and North Fork Railroad Company, until it was discontinued, since that time he has been connected with the Clearfield CCC Camp and with the Forest Reserve.

REPUBLICAN YOUNG FOLKS ARE ORGANIZED

A meeting of the "Young Republicans" of Rowan county was held at the court house Monday evening for the purpose of completing an organization. The following officers were selected: Chairman, Clarence Allen, President, Elwood Allen, Secretary, Lottie Powers, treasurer, Crosthwaite.

The next meeting will be held on October 12 at 2:00 p. m. at the court house. All young Republicans are invited to attend.

Kryl Symphony In Band Concert Mon.

The performance scheduled for Monday October 7, 1935, by Kryl's Symphony Band was held at the court house Monday evening for the purpose of organizing the band for the coming festival season. Since the first announcement of Kryl's appearance at the Morehead State Teachers College such unusual interest in the event has been manifested by the whole community that a hearty welcome and an audience that will tax the limits of the College Auditorium its utmost capacity are assured for Kryl and his musicians.

Kryl's success with the masses and the classes alike is easily understood by those who study him. His general personality, his unaffected manner and his genuineness of purpose win him an instant response from his audiences. Kryl has no mannerisms, nor idiosyncrasies, he is just Harve Fultz is also up for investigation. Other cases of importance will be taken up by the grand jury

A. B. "HAPPY" CHANDLER TO OPEN ROWAN CAMPAIGN WITH ADDRESS THURSDAY P. M.

"Happy Days are here Again," for A. B. "Happy" Chandler will address the citizens of Rowan and surrounding counties here this afternoon, according to an announcement from Democratic headquarters. The lieutenant governor was not originally billed to speak in Morehead at this time, but a last minute change in his schedule, made Monday night, sent him here instead of to his regularly scheduled meeting at Prestonsburg.

The local Democratic committee immediately got to work and had their advertising scattered over the entire section by Tuesday morning.

It had been originally planned to schedule Mr. Chandler at a later date, when more time to plan the meeting was available. However, a large crowd is expected to hear him discuss the issues of the campaign in spite of the shortness of the time to get out the notices.

Mr. Chandler has already appeared before a Morehead audience when he made the second speech of his campaign here last May. He was greeted at that time by the largest audience that has ever heard a political speech in Rowan county, even though it was so early in the campaign that no excitement had been raised.

Plans have been made to have the candidates for the offices of Senator, Mr. W. A. Crockett and for representative, Mr. J. J. Thomas to meet the Rowan county voters at that time.

News Contracts For New Story Series

Through an arrangement with a national firm, the News is now in a position to offer its readers a series of short serial stories which will run in coming issues for the next year. Each story will run in four successive issues and will include such stories as "China Seas," now running, "Anna Karenina," "O Shaughnessy's Boy," and "I Live My Life." Other stories will be contracted as they come off the press.

These stories will be of particular interest to theatre-goers, as all of them have been pictured and may be seen in the near future at the Cozy Theatre.

Many other stories besides those listed above will appear serially in the News during the next twelve months.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE YOUNG VOTES HERE

Democrats of Morehead met last Friday night at the court house for the purpose of organizing the district precincts and of making plans for the county organization, Lester Hoegge who served as campaign chairman for the Chandler organization was elected as Democratic campaign chairman, Charles Holbrook, who was one of the prominent leaders in the Rhea campaign was chosen as vice chairman, Clark Lane was elected as secretary and Mike Flood as treasurer.

President Proclaims Fire Week In West

President Roosevelt has proclaimed the week of October 6 to 8 "Fire Prevention Week."

As the fall season approaches, forest residents in the Cumberland National Forest area will be interested in the prevention of forest fires as a means of preserving the growth of young timber as well as saving other property from fire damage.

The sixth motion picture release of "The March of Time" has opened in first-run theatres throughout the country and will continue through the next four weeks at second and third-run theatres. One entire episode of the new issue is devoted to the activities of the CCC; fire-fighting and other activities of the CCC men and boys are depicted in this new "March of Time."

EXTENSION DEPARTMENT AT COLLEGE IS CROWDED

With several new units of the Extension department of the Morehead State Teachers College already functioning, calls for additional units have exceeded the expectations to such an extent that the college is unable to supply the demands, according to Dr. R. B. Judd, head of the extension department of the college.

Two units have been established at Grapen under the supervision of Dr. F. F. Terrell. Two are operating at Vanceburg with Dr. A. Y. Lloyd in charge. Miss Betty Robinson has two units at Ashland, and Dr. Frank B. Miller has established two at West Liberty. The extension classes meet every Friday and Saturday in the various cities.

Circuit Court To Open Monday

Rowan County's October session of the Circuit court will open on Monday morning, of next week, with Judge D. B. Caudill giving his time to the selection of the grand and petit juries and instructing the Grand Jury after they are sworn in.

While the docket already arranged is decidedly light, there appears to be but little question that the session of the court when it gets under way, will be one of the heaviest in several years. Many new cases are expected to be docketed when the Grand Jury swings into action Monday afternoon. Several murder cases are up for examination and indictments are expected to be returned as rapidly as possible.

Cases already docketed, as of murder cases ready for trial, that of Mrs. Bessie Day, charged with the killing of Oscar Williams. This case has already been given one trial, which resulted in a hung jury. It is again scheduled for early trial at this session.

The case of Buddy Alfrey charged with the killing of Everett Johnson, and the case of J. D. Wilson, charged with the killing of what appears, a white-headed, generous man. Above all these, Kryl

REV. B. H. KAZEE IS INJURED IN WRECK

As we go to press word comes that Rev. B. H. Kazee was slightly injured in the wreck of his car. The accident occurred Tuesday as he was returning to Morehead with his uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Conley of Salsersville, Ky.

Rev. and Mrs. Kazee were anticipated the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Conley as this was their first visit away from their home. They are past seventy years of age.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Conley were injured in the wreck, although not seriously, and were taken to Fainville to the hospital.

King Swope Talks To Large Audience

King Swope, circuit judge of Fayette county, opened his campaign as Republican candidate for the office of governor in Morehead last Wednesday afternoon. Judge Swope was greeted by a large gathering, which filled the courthouse and gathered on the lawn.

Judge Swope spoke for about an hour discussing the issues of the campaign and pledging himself at one time to "build all the roads that Mrs. Elbas has started and Happy Chandler has promised."

He made a particular plea to the Democrats, saying that his wife was a Democrat and that he wanted all the Democratic votes he could get. He pledged himself to establish non-partisan boards and commissions. He stated that he was in favor of old age pensions, that he would support a $12 per capita, that he opposed the addition of new taxes.

Judge Swope assailed Happy Chandler as the tool of Ben Johnson, saying that "the voice is indeed the voice of Happy Chandler, but the hands are the hands of Ben Johnson."

Clark School Wins In District Soft Ball

The hardest fought soft ball game in the Rowan County softball League was played between Clark school and Little Brushy school. Clark won 9 to 7. This was the deciding game for the championship of none No. 1. The winner will compete at the fair for the county championship.

The teams to compete for county championships are Clark, Bluestone, Little Brushy and Clearfield. All four schools have good teams and some interesting games will be played at the fair Sat. Oct. 5.
The Line-up:
Clark: Harry Clark, Stephen Buckland, Vada Estep, G. Alderman, E. Estep, C. Estes, J. Riggs, H. Riley, G. Brown, L. Johnson, L. Estep, S. Estep, C. Clark, C. Clark

Two New Buildings To Be Built At College;

Other Projects

Almost a million dollars has already been earmarked for use in Rowan county during the next twelve months, according to announcement from federal authorities in carrying out the program of the United States government for furnishing employment to every man in the county.

The program as laid out up to the present calls for the following:

$255,000 for the erection of a complete heat, light and water plant and system for the Morehead State Teachers College, which is already under construction.

$256,000 for the erection of a science building at the Morehead State Teachers College.

$181,000 for the erection of a dormitory at the Morehead State Teachers College.

$25,000 for the erection of a city jail in Morehead.

$25,000 for the completion of the sewage disposal plant.

$5,363 community sanitation project in Rowan county.

$6,400 community sanitation project in Morehead.

$36,657 repair program at Teachers College.

The above projects are, with the exception of the two new buildings at the college, WPA projects. The buildings are PWA projects which call for a loan and a grant. A loan for the science building was made from PWA, of $141,000 and a grant

Oscar S. Hall To Announce For Board

Oscar S. Hall, who is making the race for the office of member of the Rowan County Board of Education, and whose announcement will appear in this paper in the next issue, is a native of Rowan county. Mr. Hall was educated in the local school system, having finished the eighth grade and having had one year of college work. He is qualified both by education and by an intimate knowledge of the Rowan county schools for the position he seeks at the hands of the voters.

Readers of the News are invited to read his announcement in the next issue of the News.

Civic Chorus In Regular Meeting

Want to sing? Then join the Morehead Civic Chorus in the College Gymnasium Monday night at seven o'clock. This will be the final date for taking in new candidates and a chorus of at least one hundred voices is anticipated.

More than fifty persons have already joined the chorus and each member has been asked to bring a new candidate to McGlady's rehearsal. Practice hours will take place regularly in the Auditorium, but due to the band concert this week the rehearsal will take place in the gymnasium. Singers will be through practicing in plenty of time for the concert.

Students, faculty and townspeople make up this singing group which promises to be a permanent organization. The work on which L. H. Horton, director of the chorus is drilling the group at present is Handel's famous oratorio, "The Messiah." It will be presented to the public shortly before Christmas.

THEN AS NOW---

The following editorial appeared in the "Morehead Advance", the forerunner of the Rowan County News in a special edition of the paper published in July 1896. We can republish the editorial and add, "them's our sentiments."

When this addition of the Advance shall be fished from the depths of some old cedar chest one hundred years from now, and new generations shall gaze upon the faces of people long since laid in peaceful slumber, beneath earth's emerald robe, it would be interesting to hear the comments and listen to the speculations upon what an unfortunate people we were, All the pride and glory of our little city will have been swallowed in the advancement of the ages. All marvels of electricity will have been eclipsed, the systems of locomotion revolutionized, the art of photography metamorphosed, printing brought to a mere matter of pressing the button.

We shall appear strange "old foggies," with queer costumes and queer habits, engulfed in inconveniences and difficulties that through life were scarcely worth the living.

For the benefit of future generations the Advance desires to state that we people at the end of the nineteenth century believe ourselves "some pumpkins." If by any possibility pumpkins may have become an extinct vegetable, it may be necessary to say that by considering ourselves "some pumpkins" we refer to the fact that we are "up to snuff." Now, snuff, a light, airy, ephemeral sort of stuff, may have been gathered upon the wings of the wind and wafted into oblivion; so that, in order to be perfectly explicit and make our meaning as clear as the "pooday sun," allow us to explain that "there are no flies on us." Flies never die. Their power of suction shall never be lost so long as a bouquet of bald heads exists.

We live in perfect comfort. We have all the necessities and a luxuries of life, and so far temperance, morality and religion are concerned, the world has never seen our equals. When the time for departure from this existence shall arrive, the majority of us will be ready for the journey, and will, we hope, leave for the benefit of those that are to come the testimony of lives that have been well spent and work that shall live after us.

TRIBUTE TO WEEKLIES

Some of the late Will Rogers' philosophic and humorous paragraphs will go down in literary history as masterpieces. And perhaps one of the finest of these is his tribute to the "home town paper," one of his last writings.

"Take away my ham, take away my eggs, even chili," said Will, "but leave me my newspaper. Even if it has such purely local news as 'Jim Jones came home last night unexpectedly, ensued' or 'Jesse Bushyhead, our local M. D., is having one of the best years of his' career, practically speaking—but they just won't pay him when they get well," the county seat was packed yesterday with prominent people from out of town, attempting to renew their notes and election ain't far off and everybody is up for office that can sign an application blank."

"Now all that don't seem much news to you. But it is news to you, especially when you know the people and they are your own folks. So no matter how punk you may think your local newspaper is getting, why just take it away from you and see how you feel. The old newspaper, I think, is just about our biggest blessing. So let's all read and be merry, for tomorrow the paper may not have enough ads to come out."

Marriage is a funny thing. The ceremony is of the least important, but more fun is made about it.

Some folks object to following the footsteps of others, because they want to make bigger footsteps themselves.

Those who are careful where they put their confidence are not so apt to lose it.

Emerson up to date: If you can produce better claptrap the world will beat a path to your door.

Little Miss Jo Ann Cecil entertained a number of friends at a party on the occasion being her seventh birthday.

Mrs. Drew Evans suffered a very painful injury this week when her hand was caught in the wringer of an electric washing machine.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. S. H. Kazee, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: Isaiah Portraying The Suffering Servant. Isaiah 53:1-12

GOLDEN TEXT: "But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." (Isa. 53:5.)

The prophecy of Isaiah is the grand center of the Old Testament. It pictures the Servant of Jehovah with great wisdom gloriously executing the divine purpose of redemption at the cost of great suffering.

The Servant here means the coming Messiah. He was exalted to this great station by God the Father and was sent to bring the righteous reign to God's people here on earth. The prophets declared his exaltation and tho it may seem to some that he failed in His purpose, He is now exalted as the Conqueror at the right hand of God. He is coming again to be received in His kingly glory.

He is depicted here as despised and rejected. The Unbelief of the Jews showed that they were unable to recognize Him. They expected a warlike Messiah. Jesus came in simple humility; Jesus came in red; his personal appearance was nothing to attract. He was a man of sorrows instead of a conquering King. He was a sin-bearer instead of a sin-punisher. Thus, to His people, He appeared to be an imposter. In their sight He was contemptible,

Democratic Press Supports Chandler

Evidence that the Democratic press of the state will support the ticket chosen in the recent primary is very gratifying, said Attorney General Bailey P. Wootton, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee.

"The most influential Democratic newspapers of the state, immediately following the primary election and they rejected Him.

Then came the vicarious suffering. His griefs and sorrows were not His, but ours. "We thought he was crucified of God and smitten." But "Our transgression," "our" iniquity. His suffering was ours, not His. His, "our" chastisement were upon Him, and with His stripes "we" are healed.

Then came death. He was led as a lamb to the slaughter, not speaking in His own defense. A strange silence, unlike the behaviour of men. Men failed to discern the fact that His suffering was for them, thus, He had no defense to make for Himself. He lay down with the wicked and the rich in His grave, crucified between thieves, buried in Joseph's new tomb.

He was victorious in that His suffering expressed the divine will. The Lord Himself laid this burden on Christ who willingly took it. It was all according to the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God. This was according to the truth Christ uttered: If a man lose His life He shall thereby save it. Corn that falls in the ground must die ere it bring forth a new stalk. Through death shall come the realization of the fond hope of God's own.

To understand the Cross one must have had the experience of the Cross interpreted to Him, through the new birth, by the power of the Holy Spirit. No intellectual conceits of man's mind can reach the meaning of the Cross. "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness," and the Democratic press of the state will support in the final campaign," General Wootton said. "The Democratic press of the state is one of the most valuable assets of our party," he continued.

"The fine attitude shown by the Democratic press in accepting the ticket chosen in the primary is a commendable mark to the credit of our party," he said.

"The Shelby Dispatch, Gov. Wood's hat and the Louisville Courier-Journal are all for the ticket," Mr. Sterling Alderman said. "No wise man can put a bet on it." "It is the time for all Democrats to forget the past differences and get behind Chandler and do all they can to assure election in November."

Estill Herald "There was no fever, if any, Democrats who took part in the primary who will prefer a Republican to a Democrat, and before November comes, there should be and doubtless will be, perfect harmony and unity."

Winecup Messenger: "The concentration of the Messenger, which preferred to see Chandler as the best grudgingly admitted."

Winecup Messenger: "We are sorry for the nominees. We expect to see him in November."

Carlisle Mercury: "The Mercury will give its support to the ticket selected."

Providence Enterprise: "The election is over and this paper pledges its support to A. B. Chandler."

Mr. Sterling Sentinel Democrat: "Selection of Mr. Chandler as the standard bearer for the party insures the success of the election this fall."

Lyon County Herald: "It is the part of good sportsmanship for every man woman who participated in the primary election to abide, in good spirit, with the will of the majority and give loyal support to those named by the Messenger, the Democratic electorate."

Danville Messenger: "Victory is certain and we all should have a part in the triumph."

Hickman Courier: "This is no time to keep factions alive. The issues are too important. Every true Democrat must keep his eyes on November."

Murray Lodger And Times: "There is no reason why Mr. Chandler shouldn't win in November."

The Highlander: "Kentucky Democracy has nominated an exceptionally strong and an admirable ticket."

Adair County News: "A militant and audacious young leader has been chosen to lead the fight in the final election. Let us enlist with enthusiasm under his banner."

Union County Advocate: "The Democratic ticket is well balanced. Its nominees represent money should develop plenty of power."

Elizabethton News: "It is our times of the state. As constituted it belief that with the certainty of a Democratic legislature in both branches, it is far better for the state of Kentucky to elect a Governor of the same political faith."

Carlisle Mercury: "A strong ticket has been nominated with Mr. Chandler, both the Bhas and Chandler groups represented on that ticket. This should be helpful in solidifying the Democratic party behind the ticket in the final campaign."

Lexington Herald: "No good Democrat can find any reason for not giving now to Lieutenant Governor Chandler and his associates on the Democratic ticket whole hearted support."

Cynthiana Democrat: "The Democrat will support Mr. Chandler and the ticket and give them everything it has in the house to put them over in November, and it is unthinkable that a Republican ticket could win in a Roosevelt year."

The World

A world in which God is not the supreme Head is a world not fit for human habitation. Man cannot live without God, for as Jesus said, "man lives by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

In consciously establishing God as the Head, by making a "world for God," mankind is following a natural tendency.

In this period of world wide distress, the present holds that which draws mankind into a common fellowship.

This is not a new thought, or a new condition. Mankind, confronted with some strange and disquieting situation, tends to break down the false alignments which in more pleasant circumstances divide him.

This was true in the great World War, and in every other war. It is true in famine, plague, flood and quake, and wherever on earth these things occur.

There is a oneness about humanity when in danger or suffering, that draws all classes into a sympathetic, understanding and appreciation for the other fellow's welfare.

Happier times tend to separate the race. There are divisions of wealth and of position, of learning and ignorance, of good and bad, or "what have you?"

But the fact that Man is one, sprung from a common Father, destined to a common future, is one of the lessons of the present depression. The first step in making a "World

For God" is to make our own private world for Him. We must give ourselves, freely and entirely, relying on the Christ to make straight our way.

You can learn more about this by writing a personal letter to this newspaper, or to the nearest Minister of the Gospel.

Dean Organizes Saturday Classes

Saturday classes in Contemporary British Literature, and in Public Finance were organized last week. These classes are to serve students who desire college credit and who are unable to attend classes during the week.

Approximately thirty students enrolled in the two classes. Inez Faith Humphrey, head of the department of English, will conduct the English course and a professor for the economics course is to be appointed.

Students from several surrounding towns are taking advantage of this opportunity.

Hogge Again Heads Lloyd Debate Club

Elijah Hogge was re-elected president of the Lloyd Debating Club at its first regular meeting of the school year Tuesday night. Harry Davis was elected vice president and other officers will be elected at the next meeting of the club.

Prospective members will be given on a chance to tryout at the next club meeting.

Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, head of the department of history and government, will again serve as club sponsor.

Johnson Thanks Rowan County

"I deeply appreciate the vote given me by the Democrats of Kentucky and Rowan county especially," said Keen Johnson, Richmond, publisher, who won the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor in the recent primary.

"I realize that this expression of confidence in me carries with it grave responsibilities. I will try to justify that confidence and acceptably meet those responsibilities," he continued.

"My success in the primary was in no sense a personal victory, but was due entirely to my good fortune in having numerous loyal friends throughout the state who regarded me as an acceptable person for the office I sought, and worked enthusiastically in my behalf. I still wear the same size hat, but have an increased appreciation of my friends. Democrats of Kentucky have selected a good ticket. It is worthy of whole hearted support in the final election. Differences and disappointments of the primary should be forgotten. Every effort should be made to restore harmony in the party and under the leadership of "Happy Chandler" for the final campaign. The best interests of Kentucky and the nation demand election of the Democratic ticket.

COMMERCIAL NEWS HERE AND IN FOREIGN LANDS

NY A EMPLOY 75 STUDENTS

Daily average sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas for July, 1935, showed a larger increase over July, 1934, in the South than in other parts of the country, according to reports to the Louisville district office of the Department of Commerce. Estimates of its Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, based on rural chain store and mail order sales, indicate that sales in the South were about 35 per cent above July, 1934, as compared with an increase of 29 per cent for the country as a whole. The smallest gain was in the East, where an increase of 20 per cent was recorded.

Industrial machinery exports from the United States in the first half of the current year, recorded a gain of approximately 22 per cent compared with the corresponding period of 1934, according to a report to the Louisville district office of the Department of Commerce. Increased export trade in mining, well and pumping machinery and in miscellaneous industrial machinery items largely accounted for the increase. The chief foreign customers in order were: Canada; United Kingdom; Mexico; Japan; Venezuela; Brazil; Argentina; Italy, and the Union of South Africa.

American chewing gum can be further popularized in Canton, China, according to a report received by the Louisville district office in the Commerce Department.

The people of Canton are in general more open to Western innovations than those of most other Chinese cities. Almost all the brands of chewing gum sold in the city are American, although there are a few brands produced by Chinese companies. The report suggests that it might be of value to have samples distributed during the intermissions in the programs of local motion picture houses.

The effects of Germany's new export scheme of grading liberal subsidies to manufacturers engaged in export trade became apparent during the first month of its operation, according to a report to the Louisville district office of the Department of Commerce. This new plan provides for subsidies to export in sufficient amounts to enable them to lower export quotations to levels competitive with foreign countries and is obtained from a rate ranging from 1 to 7 per cent on all goods produced for domestic consumption. This new system of export promotion constitutes a serious drain upon German industrial concerns in lowering profits from their domestic business but greatly increases their ability to compete in foreign markets. The country enables them to meet virtually any competition of the transaction under negotiation is considered advantageous from an economic and financial standpoint.

Young Is Director Of Youth Administration Program

Seventy-five Morehead students are at work under the National Youth Administration, new setup to replace the FEERA aid to students according to Z. T. Young, director of the local project. Students are employed as assistant teachers in the training school, assistants to instructors and professors and are building two new tennis courts and improving the athletic field.

The quota for the college is based on the enrollment of Oct. 15, 1934. Twelve percent of this total are permitted to work. The full quota of seventy-five are now employed.

Under the new rules, students are permitted a maximum of fifty hours a month. No student can work more than eight hours a day or thirty hours per week. The rate of pay is thirty cents per hour, making it possible for a student to earn $18.00 a month.

Only students who need the help to stay in school and can maintain an average of "C" are registered. Work is based on the calendar month and only half a month's work will be allowed in September.

The work in Kentucky is under the direction of R. D. Peterson.

Morehead Frosh Bow To State 20 to 6 In Season's Opener

Earl Sands, 205-pound fullback from Louisville, swept across Stoll Field Saturday afternoon to lead the University of Kentucky freshmen football team to a 20 to 6 triumph over the game and surprisingly strong Morehead College Eagles. Sands, who is comparable to Bert Johnson, his varsity brother, teamed with Coleman, a West Virginia boy, to crush the smaller team, with Sands accounting for the first two touchdowns for the Greens and Coleman breaking into the clear on numerous occasions for long runs.

Howington, a Jenkins boy, tallied for Coach B. L. Pribble's team in the third quarter from the 5-yard line, after he had thrown a long pass to Lawrence, former Paris Henry Clay High School star, for a 35-yard gain.

Coach W. D. Scroggins of Morehead forecast prior to the game that the Kentucky yearlings would defeat his club 75 to 0. The mentor was as surprised as some 200 spectators, who braved a drizzling shower to watch the game, when his club pushed over the initial score early in the second quarter, with Reynolds carrying the ball.

Sands led the Green Club to its first score in the second quarter, when, after a series of power plays with him and Hodge, former Paris Greyhound star, carrying the ball, he carried it over from the 6-yard strip. The Louisville lad took over the ball-carrying assignment again late in this stanza and following a brilliant 32 yard run by Boaz, a former Mayfield high school ace, made the second touchdown from the 6 yard line. He plackicked the extra point after Hodge had failed to convert after the first score.

The University of Kentucky freshmen mentor used all the sixth players on his squad, with the visiting coach permitting his entire squad of twenty-six men to see action.

The kittens appeared weak at blocking at some points of the contest, but presented a powerful line with followers of the Kentucky eleven expressing the belief that the institution has its best yearling club on record. Time after time, Coaches Pribble and Bernie Shively, freshman line mentor, would send in players of a more powerful build than their husky predecessors.

Raceland Hi Downs Breckinridge 38-0

Bob Fraley, Midget Brock
Back Turns In Stellar Performance.

Edgar McNabb's Raceland High Ramblers smashed Morehead Training School 38-0 here Friday afternoon in a oneup game for their quest for their third conference championship.

The Ramblers showed great improvement over their game a week ago when they bowed to Prestonsburg 13-6.

The running and punting of Brown stood out for the Ramblers. Charles turning in touchdowns, gallops of 35 and 40 yards, Thompson, McCoy, Reed, and Gibson did well in the backfield and Bowling, Bradley and Smith on the line.

The Ramblers started slowly with a number of fumbles but came back strong in the second half.

Pritchard was the sparkplug for Morehead with some fifty running and punting, kicking his team out of danger on several occasions.

Young, Long and Johnson also did on defense two men stood out for Breckinridge Training, little Bob Fraley, whose tackles were both numerous and neat, and Bert Johnson, who helped to fend off a number of attacks by brilliant tackles.

As a matter of fact the game was not nearly so one sided as even the first downs indicate, as Morehead held Raceland without an advance on many occasions, for three downs only to have the Ramblers race off the weak side of the line to put it over.

Analyzing the team, a little more strength on one side of the line will put it decidedly in the running in future games.

Morehead made two first downs on each side of the line and penalized five yards to 20 for the winners.

Raceland stuck to a running attack, trying no passes. Training school completed two of ten attempted and had one intercepted. Morehead punted 11 times. Raceland once.

Thompson and Brown scored twice each and McCoy and C. Reed once each. Brown and Fannin made the extra points.

Substitutions: Raceland: Short, Warren, Campbell, Beckett, Fannin, Wilson, Downing, Fields, Bowling, Truitt, Arthur, Burris, Auri, Burris, Adkins, M. Reed. Morehead: Caudill, A. Fraley, and Camp.

ABOUT TOWN

Maybe three or even four will be at the read it, one or perhaps two and the News office laying plans to visit the Elam farm not later than Friday to get the sorghums that have been laid by.

So far we have never failed to get our share.

ELECTIONS

With the time for filing city tickets drawing to a close, it is high time that Morehead citizens beting themselves of the importance of selecting a ticket for the coming year.

While we have heard no particular talk with regard to this important local matter, the News wishes to go on record as endorsing the entire present council. The Mayor, of course does not change, since he was elected for a four year period. So far as the present councilmen are concerned, we believe that they have started a program of improvement that they should be given an additional term in which to finish.

We have not talked to any of these gentlemen, with regard to the coming election and we do not know that they would consider putting themselves up again. We do believe, however, that they are the logical men to succeed themselves and that they should file for another term, even though by so doing they may inconvenience themselves. It will be for the public's good.

Interest is also manifesting itself for the Board of Education election to which two members are to be elected this year. This year's election differs from other years in the board race, by being county wide instead of by districts.

A number of candidates have already announced their candidacy and several others are being discussed for the positions.

LEIGION AND TEACHERS COLD, SO NO BURRO BALL

The teams selected to play the game of burro ball at the College stadium on Tuesday night proved to be as balky as the burros themselves with the result that the combination of cold weather and lack of teams, caused the burro ball game to be of the chilly atmosphere and was called off by the management.

A small crowd gathered in spite of the cold weather and were entertained by exhibition riding of the donkeys.

EAGLES GO TO GEORGETOWN

Tigers Lost To Xavier 34-0
In Their Season Opener.

The Morehead Eagles will meet the Georgetown Tigers at Georgetown in their next scheduled game, October 5.

Hard work and plenty of it is being dished out by his squad by Coach Ed Gray, of Georgetown. The Tigers lost their season opener to the strong Xavier University team of Cincinnati by a count of 34 to 0, since no injuries were sustained in the Xavier game and they are being pointed for the Morehead encounter.

Woodrow Griffer, halfback, will be one of the Eagles' key players, according to sport writers. He showed up to advantage in the game as a ground grinder, and also as a defensive player. Shields and Turner, Indiana products, will give the Eagles plenty of trouble in the wing positions.

If the Eagles sustain no injuries in the Rio Grande fracas, they will have plenty of time to get in shape for the Tigers. Early predictions are that the Eagles should take Georgetown into camp, if they are successful with the Rio Grande game.

Coach Downing was not at all made last Saturday and has been satisfied with the showing the team trying out different men in various positions with a view to strengthening his line.

Not much is known here about Georgetown team, although reports keep in, indicate that they will be strong contenders for the S. I. A. state honors this season.

Forestry Projects To Be Announced

One of the chief aims of the federal government in developing forestry projects under the Resettlement Administration is to demonstrate to private land owners in Kentucky the value of the farm forest as a permanent investment according to James M. Gray, of Raleigh, N. C., Regional Director of Resettlement's Land Utilization Division.

"We expect to be able to make definite announcements regarding plans for forestry projects in Kentucky within a short time," Gray said, "and I sincerely hope that private land owners in this section will watch closely the development of these projects."

The Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, the state forestry departments and the forestry divisions of the state agricultural colleges have made great strides in emphasizing the value of farm forestry. The Resettlement Administration will carry out all of its forestry projects in close cooperation with these important agencies. Many of us have had an opportunity to observe the work they have done and the Resettlement projects will be so located that it will be possible for an even larger number of private land owners to watch development of these projects from the very beginning.

Morehead Loses To Rio Grande Saturday; Score Is 7 To 6

VIKINGS LOSE TO OLIVE
HILL HIGH COMETS

The Olive Hill Comets overpowered Morehead 16-0 Friday in a return Kentucky Properties game. Phillips retained a kickoff ninety yards for a touchdown in the third period and Ernst ran seventy nine for another in the final.

Phillips added another, McClave collected three and Cartwright one. Extra points were made by Fuhs, who had two. Dingus and Cartwright. Olive Hill outgained Morehead 272 yards to forty-seven on running plays and totaled twelve first downs to three.

Reese played half the game for Olive Hill which gained the conference lead with one gain and a tie.

"By following the forestry methods mapped out by government experts, private land owners will be able to develop their own lands along agricultural lines. Properly planned, small forest tracts will make your farm more prosperous and will enhance its value as an investment."

In the development of its forestry projects, Gray said, the Resettlement Administration will utilize land which is classified as unsuitable for agricultural purposes. The land to be devoted to forestry is only a portion of the acreage of farm land which the government plans to acquire and put into uses for which it is better adapted. In addition to forestry, other projects for which this land will be utilized are recreational areas, grazing lands and wild life sanctuaries.

Land will be selected for purchase either because it is needed for some public purpose, such as recreation or wild life protection, or because the continuation of some adapted usage tends to produce serious social and economic problems that can best be solved by public acquisition and control. Because of the necessity for blocking out solid areas that can be administered efficiently, it is not possible to land side in most cases the purchase of separate tracts of land not located within a project.

When the approximate location of a proposed project has been decided upon, land owners within the project area will be notified of the government. Gray explained. The possibility of selling their land to price paid for land will depend upon the expert appraisal of each separate tract. Land owners will be able to deal directly with representatives of the land utilization Division, and need employ no intermediaries agents.

The Division will also render some necessary assistance to families who, after selling their present farms to the government in connection with this program, ask for further help in finding satisfactory homes elsewhere.

Fishing a defense that was brilliant at times, Morehead College Eagles bowed to Rio Grande College of Ohio last Saturday here, the final score being 7 to 6. Both touch downs were scored in the final quarter, which Rio Grande showing over the extra point to win, while the Eagles failed to make it.

It was the season's opener for Morehead, who went into the game practically untried. With only two weeks of practice under their belts, they were as good as an inexperienced team and showed the lack of coordination that makes a team a team.

Throughout the first half the teams played on an even footing neither being able to work the ball into scoring position. Rio Grande had a slight edge in the punting.

Morehead started out like winners, showing the ball into Rio Grande's territory to the 20 yard line, but advanced the ball to midfield and were held for downs. Rio Grande punted, Morehead taking the ball on the 26 yard line and punting to midfield. Rio Grande carried it back to the 23 yard line where Vinson intercepted a pass to break up a drive.

In the third quarter the Eagles advanced the ball to the 19 yard line but failed to gain.

The Eagles pushed over the first score of the game when Dale passed to Ryan on the 12 yard line and Ryan stepped over for the six point lead.

Rio Grande scored on an intercepted pass, intended for Varney but deflected to Dale on the 25 yard line on a series of plays. Both passed to Blume who carried the ball over for Rio Grande. The extra point followed a line drive.

HELD TO GRAND JURY UNDER BOND OF $5,000

Ed Hall who was given a preliminary hearing and examining trial last Thursday morning, was bound over to the October Grand Jury and held under $5,000 bond pending his hearing before that body.

Mr. Hall waived examination on advice of attorneys. He is being held in connection with the death of Charles Crum, who passed away in a Lexington hospital last week, where he was taken on September 6, following an altercation with Mr. Hall, during which Crum was shot. Mr. Hall was on official duty as policeman at the time of the shooting.

Announcement

To The Voters Of Rowan County:

I desire to announce to the voters of this county that I am a candidate for the membership of the Rowan County Board of Education subject to the will of the voters of the county at the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 5.

I have been a resident of Rowan county all my life, at Cleafield and at Elliottville, and my children, as well as myself have received their education in the Rowan county schools. I believe that I am familiar with the problems that face the teachers and schools and am qualified for the position as board member. I served for four years as trustee of Elliottville school district.

I will appreciate your support and influence at the November election.

Very truly yours,

Jeese Williams.

Vinson Help To Get Buildings

Morehead State Teachers College will see two new buildings under construction, according to the action of PWA authorities which on September 27 approved projects including two new buildings for the local college. The two buildings are a science building to be constructed at a cost of $256,364.00 and a dormitory to be erected at a cost of $181,818.00.

According to Mr. W. H. Rice, superintendent of buildings and grounds at the college, construction work will be gotten under way by December 1. Plans have already been drawn and submitted. Much of the work of putting over the projects with PWA is in the hands of Congressman Fred M. Vinson. The following letter was received by the editor of the News from Mr. Vinson with regard to approval of the projects:

September 27th, 1935.
Mr. Jack Wilson,
Morehead, Kentucky.

Dear Jack:
Since our return from Kentucky, we have been battling away with the Public Works Administration trying to secure their approval on some of the projects effecting our section of Kentucky. Today we got through the project covering improvements and additions to the Morehead Teachers College as follows:

Science Building
Project approved — provides an allotment of Federal Funds of $256,364.00.

Dormitory
Project approved — provides an allotment of Federal Funds of $181,818.00.

I assure you that it afforded me a great deal of pleasure to lend my efforts toward securing the passage of this project, as I feel it will be of material benefit to our School, as well as our folks throughout section.

With the kindest of personal regards,

Your friend,
Fred M. Vinson.

CHINA SEAG

CHAPTER ONE

Thirty minutes before sailing time Captain Alan Gaskell, his white English sandy mused and his face dark with a stubble of beard, stepped out of a rickshaw and shouldered his way through a mob of sweating coolies to the gangplank of the steamer. Kin Linker hurried to her Hong Kong dock. Beneath his gill helmet his strong young face, with its gray eyes sharp as a blade of Transgum steel, reflected back mood. A three-day hangover had left his nerves on edge, and the famous Gaskell temper was primed for instant eruption.

Sir Guy, hard-bitten owner of the Kin Lung, stood chatting with the white passenger, as Gaskell came up the companyway.

"She talks me, startled Sir Guy, while on his captain, 'that you you've been ashore.'"

Gaskell ignored the horrified protests of the lady passenger. He looked at Sir Guy. "If you don't like my behavior ashore, or aboard ship, you can always get a new boy. In fact I wish you would."

Sir Guy laughed. He had a pretty fair understanding of the world beneath the swaggy front of Alan Gaskell.

"You wouldn't leave her if you could?" Sir Guy scoffed. "I've heard men say that for fifty years. The weak ones speak out of the China beam—but the bulldozers like you stay on!" He glared fiercely at Gaskell, and abruptly his grin faded. "How about a little sport to keep your brain from adding 'No time'?" snapped Gaskell. His eyes glamped angrily. "I've got to get the goods off your fleet under way."

"He went to the middle, where Dawson and Kingston, the first and second officers, felt the biting edge of his tempers. The third make-up in Sepoy Hospital with a white wound in his kidneys. His successor was a hunted, uneasy little man named David, whom Gaskell recognized as a disgraced captain whose ship had been plundered by pirates.

"No time to look for a man, now," Gaskell grunted. You'll have to do. After a few minutes Gaskell went down to his quarters. He was surprised to find the door of his bedroom locked.

"Who's in there?" he shouted.

"Just a minute darning—I've the body beautiful!" The gray voice was showering the dew drops off its feminine, very bright and very flippant.

Gaskell's dark brows met in a straight line of anger. He wanted justly into the door opened. The girl whom the Archipelago knew as China Doll—was, with slightly more formality, as Miss Portland smiled out at him tantalizingly.

"What the devil are you doing aboard?" Gaskell greeted her. "Didn't we spend about seven hours saying goodbye, or whatever you all fit?"

China Doll's smile widened slyly. Her money you could see all the money we won at the Tai Fair!"

"So where were there after all?" His mood softened as he accepted the pills she handed him with a reticent smile. "Now get going."

"What are you making about?"

"Why are you so anxious to get me out of sight?" He was used to her passionate changes of mood, but the note of jealousy puzzeled him. "Is the making the round trip?"

"What are you making about?"

"That red-headed Russian prince who was aboard from Singapore."

"Just a minute, Dolly." The gray of Gaskell's eyes deepened and his voice was curt. "We're great going, but a lot of fun together, but I don't remember making any vows to you. Nor do I recall asking for you."

"Don't get polite at me! When you talk with a high hat on, I mean, it's not in my nature." Her humanity was swept away suddenly by fiery indignation. "Who do you think you are, anyway? If I had five cents worth of pride—"

"The fire standing in your way, if that's how you feel."

"The flame died down in her. He was so strong, so vital, so disappearing and about that her anger was gone. "That's just the soup I'm in—I don't feel that way at all—you no account dog." With a tremulous laugh of surrender, she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him passionately.

"That's more like it," said Gaskell gently. You'll have to do. Now come on, nuisance—overboard with you!"

"But Alan, dear—" In another lightning change of mood she assumed the bewildered innocence of a young bride. "What am I going to do with my ticket—all paid for and everything?"

He grabbed the stub from her with a suspicious scowl. "I know you had something up your sleeve—some one—I'll get your money back."

"I've got a job waiting for me in Singapore—honest I have."

"Sure you have," he said sourly. They elected you mayor."

"On the level, Alan." She fumed in her purse for a letter. "Honest I offered me a contract at Vanderbilt for the rest of the season."

"Your grim smile warned her she was setting nowhere, and she seized the woman's embarrassment over their relationship. "I know how you feel but I don't come near you. No you'd realize that."

"I'll be right here," she said.

"All right?" China Doll's voice was very small and very hurt. "You—you win, Toon. I—I hope you've a good trip, Goody."

"The arms crept around his neck and he kissed him impudently. The wounded look in her blue eyes, as of a puppy cruelly kicked, melted him.

"All right, all right," Gaskell said, furious with himself for his surrender. "If you've got a ticket and a job, I don't suppose I've got any right to—"

"Lambie!" cried China Doll, and knew herself open China with a wild little shriek of happiness. She drew from her embrace thoroughly.

"Don't start sweating me around!" Gaskell left perceptively and returned to the dock. Several seamen were moping down a large steamer pulled on a deck cargo. A strip of pig in cigar-shaped center of split hair was being lowered into a hat under the supervision of James McArdie, a trader well known to Gaskell. McArdie's eyes were on the two large, wavy-haired girls standing in the crowd.

The last trumpet call was sounded as Gaskell started his way through the crowd of passengers, saying that last minute goodbyes. And suddenly his face set into an incredulous, stinging mask. A dark-haired girl with the clear skin of the English-Scots was dead at his feet, waving to a couple on the dock.

Gaskell's shock was the "stricken, numbing link, that comes to a man who sees a precious dream come to life before his eyes. Her slender figure and aristocratic profile fit together and danced deeply into his memory.

He raced across the deck and clapped the girl's hand with astonished delight, and thrilled to the amazed recognition which deepened and dark violet of her eyes.

"Sybil!" he cried. "Sybil Barclay!"

"Alan!" The eager throbb of her voice ran through him like a searing flame. "It is Alan!" Her fingers tightened on his with a convulsive little pressure. "So this is your ship! I am lucky!"

"Yes—I'm captain of this tub. His intense glance enfolded her hungrily that them both apart from the moment of incredible wonder for whom words could not erase the magic of both, and their halting, stammered it. "Visiting out here?" he asked lamely.

"Just traveling." Her eyes absorbed him and he was conscious of his own face. "I have been—just traveling—So some time."

Gaskell said, very quietly: "Don't do that, I mean to go. He's dead. Next is slow—get her."

"Of course, Alan," she said gently. "We were so out of touch."

"Yes. Things—people—sit away—in five years."

"We used to talk about you—wondering what you were doing."

"Getting into trouble, mostly. He smile was wry.

"You're in the more trouble—being looking after me for a while you look again that lightning pressure on the head. Gilliam in the significant blank spaces in her words—"

"I'm in your hands—again—Alan!"

He watched her disappear up the deck, the harsh strong lines of his face softened. Fool that he was, to have believed he had fought down and crushed the memories which once had driven him to bitter flight. Sir Guy, flinching at the boat's departure, stopped beside him.

COLLEGE HOLSTEINS AVERAGE POUND DAIRY
The herd of registered Holsteins owned by the University of Kentucky Experiment Station named a daily average production of 11.1 pounds of butterfat a cow during the first 314 days of the current annual production test.

One cow topped the 400-pound fat mark and seven cows produced more than 300 pounds each in the 314 days. U. K. Beth produced 404 pounds of fat and 19,118 pounds of milk in that period. In milk production, U. K. Honorable Lass holds the record with 13,029 pounds of milk and 360 pounds of fat to her credit.

During the last month of the test the herd was headed by U. K. Beth and 1,938 pounds of milk. Recently the three-year-old U. K. Beth, with a yield of 64 pounds of Honorable Lass completed a lactation record of 402 pounds of fat and 13,212 pounds of milk, in Class C.

while Hickman county farmers received $256,231 for their cotton. The rest was divided among Ballard, Calloway, Carlisle, Graves, Mc Cracken, and Marshall counties. Of more than a million dollars received last year for cotton in this state, $63,147 was in the form of rental and parity payments in connection with the adjustment program, including all money received last year.

HORSES AND MULES MAY CONTINUE HIGH
The increased demand for work stock together with the comparative scarcity of good horses and mules, may mean continuing high prices for several years, points out a statement from the University of Kentucky of Agriculture.

"Horse prices will go higher and remain high for the next four or five years," declares Wayne Dismore of the Horse and Mule Association of America. "Breeding was neglected during the depression years and it will take several years to make up the shortage."

LAND TESTED FOR MEAT PRODUCTION
The value of soil treatment in making better grazing and producing more meat was tested on three 10-acre fields at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton.

Field No. 1, was given no fertilizer treatment; Field No. 2 was treated with 1,200 pounds of rock phosphate to the acre, and field No. 3 received 1 1/2 tons of limestone and 500 pounds of superphosphate to the acre. All were seeded to a grass mixture.

As an average for six years, field No. 1 carried approximately one steer to 4 acres each year, field No. 2 one steer to 1.8 acres, and field No. 3 a steer to each 1.6 acres.

The average annual gains for the three years grazing field No. 1 was 479 pounds, field No. 2, 1,184 pounds, and field No. 3 was 1,365 pounds.

KENTUCKY COTTON CROP BRINGS OVER MILLION
Although little known in the past as a whole, Kentucky's 1934 cotton crop brought farmers 21,307, 147. More than half of this amount, or $651,548, went to Fulton county.

Feeding plenty of mash is one of the best ways to increase egg production in October and November, the months in which egg prices are usually the highest. Eggs are scarce in these months because many of their layers are molting.

Three ways to prevent soil erosion: terrace, cover crops, keeping steep land in grass. Now is the time to sow winter cover crops. Terraces may be made any time the ground can be worked. Plow to put the hillside in hay, pasture, or trees.

In Leicester she saw the town hall built in 1450 where Shakespeare produced some of his plays. She also took a trip through the Warwick country. She visited Warwick castle, Lincoln cathedral and York cathedral. She spent some time at Abbotsford, the home of Sir Walter Scott.

Two of the most beautiful things seen on her trip, according to Miss Humphrey, were the war memorial in Edinburgh, and a statue from Greece in Paris.

Home Society Sponsors Drive

October 1, 1935 Mr. Jack Wilson, Editor, R.E. can County News, Morehead, Ky. Dear Friend:

The Kentucky Children's Home Society is putting on a Membership Campaign throughout the State the week of October 21st. -26th.

Most fortunately the writer of this letter happens to know that the campaign is a most refined and interesting and informational. The public is invited.

Christian Endeavor will be held Sunday night at 8:15 by Dr. Pratcher and the singing will be directed by Mr. Howard Moore. All young people including college students invited. Preaching service comes at 10:30. Dr. Fern will speak. Services out in time for picture show.

It is needless to go into details relative to the economic conditions which have confronted every one of us and you may well believe that the Kentucky Children's Home Society during this past year has had more calls than at any time in its history. During these past few years of what has been termed "The Depression," the Kentucky Children's Home Society has never refused help in any needy child and has accepted every boy and girl who has needed assistance.

In the next week or so we will appeal to you either from our office here in Lydon or through you, local County Chairman, to give as much publicity to enable us to make a success of this campaign. Please remember that the Kentucky Children's Home Society is, figuratively speaking, the Court of last resort for the helpless children of our State.

For your further information, this campaign is being put on from our office here in Lydon without any additional help. In other words we are employing no professional campaign manager, thereby eliminating the usual overhead costs in similar campaigns put on elsewhere.

Thanking you for all past favors, we are very truly, Sincerely, Kentucky Children's Home Society D. E. Waller, Manager.

Mrs. Landreth Passes Away

Mrs. L. E. Landreth of The Ridge in Elliott county died at her home on September 28. She is survived by her husband, Mr. L. E. Landreth and by her son, Cecil Landreth of this city.

Funeral services were held at the home on Sunday of this week, conducted by Rev. Charles W. Van Sant and Rev. Logan Woolbridge of Sandy Hook. Burial was made in the home cemetery.

Mrs. Belle Landreth was born on March 26, 1888. She was converted and united with the Methodist Church in the year 1917. She was a faithful member of that organization since that time.

In 1924 Mr. and Mrs. Landreth moved to Morehead and later returned to their old home in Elliott county. She had been in ill health for nearly three years.

Assisting at the funeral were the pastor of the Church of God from Morehead, including Ouster Ramey, Worthy Hall, Gladys Caudill and Marie Howard.

At The Theatres

COZY THEATRE

A kitchen on a truck, a traveling garage, and a traveling power plant provided all the comforts of home for the oldest location company ever sent out onto the highways and byways to film a picture. This was the Motorcade, or motorized studio, filming "Parasit," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adventure romance of the high road, with Chester Morris and Sally Eilers in the principal roles. It was filmed in Greensboro, Oct. 2-3 to the Cozy Theatre.

The story deals with the adventures, some comic, some humorous, of a young couple spitting a child, involved in a guardianship suit, out of the state. Action is on the highways, in auto camps, on farms, along the Mexican border—in fact every scenic means a new location.

The camera care and sound tracks followed the auto in which Morris and Miss Eilers transported little Scotty Beckett, playing the child in the case. Meantime lunch was prepared in the efficient truck. "Ed" usually sat in the driver's seat, although the company were only a picnic. When twilight came the portable light furnished light.

Edwin L. Martin directed the new picture, based on the L. G. Blockman story, "Gaitan Highway," adapted by Wells Root, C. Henry Gordon, Henry Travers, Graverl Bates, Minor Watson, Harold Huber and Dorothy Peterson are among the players.

Hazelton (Kans.) Herald Mr. Hyatt was a former resident of Morehead having left here in 1909 going to New Mexico and later to Halleton, Kansas, where he has since resided.

College Band To Give First Concert

Solos by various members of the band and orchestra and the popular German Band will be the special features of the opening concert by the M. S. T. C. Band, to be given next Wednesday night in the college auditorium.

The band is larger and better than ever before, and the solos by two new members of the band: Howard Eklies, French hornist, and Ralph Schwartz, xylophonist, will feature the program.

There will also be a trombone solo by Paul Young, who is well-known for his musical ability and achievements, and as the added attraction, the German Band will render a little concert of their own.

A string group selected from the orchestra, and under the direction of Keith Davis, will present a few numbers. This will be of special interest to the lovers of classic music and to the students who are taking music of any sort.

NEW BUILDINGS

In the case of the new dormitory a loan of $190,000 was made from PWA revolving fund and a grant of $300,000 was made from the new Works-Relief appropriation.

On the other projects under WPA the sponsor, for the city of county is equipped to contribute a small amount to each project. On the jail project the city contributes $3,750. On the sewage disposal plant the city contributes a like amount of $3,750.

In the county sanitation project the county contributes $6,800. On the city sanitation project the local contribution is $50.

Taken as a whole, the program which employment is designed to find already approved and practically every man and woman in the county who needs employment for the next twelve months.

Other projects have been submitted and several others are expected to be approved almost immediately.
