FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's 10th annual Appalachian Celebration, slated, June 22-28, will be a family affair with something special for everybody--including children.

A Children's Workshop for youngsters ages 6 to 12 will provide a variety of activities including storytelling, games, songs, arts and crafts and explorations of other Celebration events.

Also scheduled will be workshops in Appalachian Music and in Dulcimer-Making, designed to appeal to young people.

"The Appalachian Celebration itself offers an excellent opportunity for children throughout the region to learn more about their cultural heritage," said Jeannie Huie of MSU's Child Development Laboratory. She and Karen Hammons, CDL director, will lead the Children's Workshop sessions.

Registration is under way now for that workshop, scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., beginning June 23, at the Child Development Laboratory in Lloyd Cassity 102. Children may be enrolled for one day or for the whole week of activities. The fee is $20 per day, but for those enrolling for the entire week and registering before June 15, the fee will be $80.

Persons interested in additional details or in registering their children may call Huie or Hammons at (606) 783-2106.

Taught by David and Janine Musser of Wolfe County, the Children's Appalachian Music Workshop will offer music lessons on child-sized instruments to children ages 6 to 12. Lessons will be given on the Appalachian dulcimer and guitar as well as introducing the fiddle, banjo and mandolin. The cost is $25 per student for the week.

Musser, a Kentucky Arts Council artist in the Wolfe County schools, designed a special child-sized guitar and developed a new approach to introduce children to music.

Musser also will teach the Dulcimer-Building Workshop, again using a slightly smaller version of the instrument. The pieces are pre-cut and the students will sand and complete the finishing of their own instrument. The workshop is for children age 8 and older. The cost is $65 per student.

Both of the Musser-taught workshops are 30 minutes long and meet daily. Additional information may be obtained by writing David and Jeanine Musser, Valeria Rte. Box 109, Campton, KY 41301, or by calling (606) 725-4860.

Other Appalachian Celebration events of special interest to children include Appalachian Family Night on Thursday, June 26, at 7:30 p.m. in MSU's Duncan Recital Hall, and the animal exhibit and petting zoo to be held mid-week, sponsored by the Vet Tech Club at Morehead State University. Many outside exhibits are slated for Saturday, June 28, near MSU's Laughlin Health Building where the Arts and Crafts Market will be. These include a pedal powered tractor pull for children under age 7 and an open stage for musicians.

Information on all Appalachian Celebration events is available from Pete McNeill, tourism/industrial development specialist at the Appalachian Development Center, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will conduct a national search for a new president with a July 1 deadline for receiving applications from candidates seeking the post.

A search committee, composed of five members from MSU's Board of Regents, met recently to establish search procedures and criteria for selecting a successor to Dr. Herb. F. Reinhard Jr., who assumes the presidency of Frostburg (Md.) State College on July 1.

Chaired by former Gov. Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt, the committee approved a set of criteria offered by MSU's Faculty Senate which called for academic eminence and teaching experience as well as leadership, management and public relations skills.

With the selection of an interim president imminent, the board also agreed to advertise the availability of the post "on or about" Jan. 1. Notices of the vacancy will be placed in leading educational periodicals as well as metropolitan and regional newspapers in addition to distribution to nearly 500 other colleges and universities.

The committee also will recommend to the full board at its May 16 meeting that a nine-member screening committee be established with representation from the faculty, students, administration, alumni, foundation, secondary education and the public-at-large.

Letters of nomination or applications may be sent to Presidential Search Committee, P.O. Box 575, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- An evening of French culture will be offered by Morehead State University's French students and the Kentucky Institute of European Studies (KIES) as they present Cafe Theatre, Thursday May 8, from 4 to 6 p.m., at the Brass Eagle Restaurant.

Cafe Theatre is a combination of French style food and entertainment, according to Mary Netherton, MSU assistant professor of French. Dinner will be served while guests enjoy French comedies, poetry and folk songs, she said.

Tickets, sold only in advance, are available by calling Netherton at 783-2779 or Roger Jones, MSU professor of art, at 783-2776.

Dinner and entertainment are included in the price of tickets, which are $6 for students and $7.50 for the general public.

Scenes from two comedies by French playwright Eugene Ionesco will be presented--first in English and then in French--by Morehead community members, MSU students and faculty. Several selected French poems will be read and Laura Caudill, Morehead English major, will perform a French folk song.

Other entertainers include:

Dominique Ah Chong, french major from Paplemousses, Mauritius;

Dr. Hunter Black of the Morehead Clinic;

Dr. Ruth Barnes, professor emeritus in MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy, from Morehead;

Kathy Lamport, physical education major from Saint Pierre, Mauritius;

Jamie Lester, French major from Chesapeake, Ohio;

Netherton of Morehead;

Angela Portman, communications and French major from Louisville;

Kevin Reber, English major from Clearfield; and

Drs. Judy and Glenn Rogers, professors of English, from Morehead.

The proceeds from Cafe Theater are to be used to establish a scholarship fund for MSU students planning to study overseas through KIES.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Morehead State University student Keith Conley of Paintsville performed with MSU's Jazz Vocal Ensemble at the Lexington Opera House recently.

Conley, a sophomore majoring in speech-theatre and English, is the son of Mrs. V. F. Conley.

He sang with the ensemble in its performance of "Birdland," "Tugue Sandwich" and "Sunny Side Up."

MSU's Jazz Vocal Ensemble has just completed its spring tour and is directed by Jay Flippin, MSU associate professor of music.

In addition, Conley provided musical entertainment during the International Day dinner hosted by MSU's Cosmopolitan Club recently.

Social chairperson for the club, Conley sang two songs at the dinner: "What I Did For Love" and "Mem'ry," both from Broadway musicals.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Older unemployed workers often are their own worst enemies, because they lack confidence and have become discouraged by their own fear of being old," said Jacquelyn Scott, Job Training Program director at Morehead State University.

To combat this, MSU is offering a new program to assist the older, unemployed worker--those over age 55--in learning new employment skills and in developing better self images.

Funded by TENCO Private Industry Council, the Older Workers Program is designed to provide educational assistance to those who need it; pre-employment testing and counseling to determine career interests and skills, and classes to improve the effectiveness as an employee.

In addition, after completion of four weeks of classroom sessions and field experiences, program participants will gain on-the-job training in health care related fields and in retail sales. "Studies have shown that these are areas not only with high employee needs, but also ones that the older worker is well suited for," Scott said.

Assisting Scott with the Older Workers Program will be Janie Baldrige and Marjorie B. Thomas, trainers, who will conduct the various classroom sessions on communication, stress management and work attitudes.

Baldrige, a native of Morehead, has a wide background in teaching and business. Currently a part-time instructor of education at MSU, she also has taught in the public schools in several counties, including Bath. She is a former acting director of MSU's Office of Career Planning and Placement and has worked in sales, recruitment and training with Mary Kay Cosmetics. She also was on the executive board of the Northwest Welcome Wagon in Cincinnati.

An alumna of MSU, where she did her undergraduate work, Baldrige earned her master's degree from Eastern Kentucky University.

Thomas, who previously worked in various student financial aid posts at MSU, has taught in the Rowan, Fayette and Leslie County schools as well as having been librarian at University Breckinridge. She earned her undergraduate degree from Eastern Kentucky University and a master's degree from Ohio University.

"We are currently screening applicants for the program which is scheduled to begin later this month," said Scott. Anyone living in the counties of Bath, Rowan, Montgomery and Fleming, who is age 55 or older and unemployed, interested in the program may contact Scott at (606) 783-2379. The training program is free to eligible participants.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Whether you want to learn to play the bluegrass banjo or to clog dance, Morehead State University's 10th annual Appalachian Celebration is the place to be June 22-28.

Designed to create a deeper appreciation for the Appalachian culture, the week-long observance will offer a wide variety of activities and special programs. "The learning opportunities are endless," said Pete McNeill, tourism/industrial development specialist for MSU's Appalachian Development Center and coordinator for the Celebration.

Lessons on the old-time banjo, bluegrass banjo, fiddle, Appalachian dulcimer, hammered dulcimer and other instruments will be offered all week, taught by David Musser, Kentucky Arts Council artist in the Wolfe County schools. The cost for the week is $50. Additional information on these workshops may be obtained from Musser, Valeria Rte. Box 109, Campton, Ky. 41301. Telephone: (606) 725-4860.

Scott McKee, a national clogging champion, will teach beginning and advanced lessons in clogging and square dancing.

Master dulcimer craftsman Ken Ratcliff will offer an intensive five-day course in dulcimer-building for adults at his shop in Morehead, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. daily, beginning June 23. The cost including supplies will be $110. Additional information on Ratcliff's workshop may be obtained from him at 170 N. Wilson, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

In addition to noon concerts on the campus each day and on Saturday, Celebration events also include a Gospel Night on Wednesday, June 26, Appalachian Family Night, Thursday, June 27, and the Reunion of Traditional Musicians on Friday, June 28. Each is free and open to the public with performance time set for 7:30 p.m.

The Celebration will close Saturday, June 28, with a concert featuring Louise Mandrell and The Kendalls, at 8 p.m. in the Academic-Athletic Complex. Billed as the first "Kentucky Conservation Concert," it is sponsored by the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. Tickets will be $8 in advance and $10 at the door.

Full details of all Appalachian Celebration events are available by contacting McNeill at the Appalachian Development Center, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

MSU'S ROTC CONDUCTS EXERCISES

Nearly 50 Morehead State University juniors and seniors took part in the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program field exercises held recently at Cave Run Lake. The students, all in their third and fourth year of the ROTC program, engaged in activities and exercises to sharpen their survival skills. Crossing a rope bridge was Chris Walker, Franklin Furnace, Ohio, junior.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A psychologist who has done extensive research into brain chemistry and behavior and a professor of English are the 1985-86 recipients of Morehead State University's most prestigious faculty awards.

Dr. James E. Gotsick, professor of psychology, was selected for the Distinguished Researcher Award, given annually since 1979 by MSU's Research Committee. The Distinguished Faculty Award, established by MSU's Alumni Association in 1964, went to Dr. Marc Glasser, professor of English.

Both professors were honored at MSU's second annual Academic Awards Convocation Monday night (May 5) in Button Auditorium. Also announced at that time were the outstanding graduate and undergraduate students in each department. The convocation launched a week-long tribute to academic excellence during which scholastic achievements of faculty, students and staff are recognized.

Presenting the research prize was Dr. Roberta T. Anderson, vice president for academic affairs, while MSU Alumni Association President David Bolt made the faculty award.

Dr. Gotsick, a member of MSU's faculty since 1968, earned the B.S. and M. Ed. degrees from Pennsylvania State University and his doctoral degree from Syracuse University. He has been a research associate in psychology at Purdue University and in psychiatry at the A.B. Chandler Medical Center, University of Kentucky.

A native of Pennsylvania, Dr. Gotsick is author or co-author of several articles which have appeared in professional publications and has presented numerous papers at scientific meetings. He is the recipient of several research grants.

Dr. Glasser, who teaches composition, creative and technical writing and literature, joined MSU's faculty in 1972. He previously taught at Indiana University where he earned the doctorate. He received his undergraduate degree cum laude from the University of Massachusetts.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Larry Keenan, Morehead State University associate professor of music, will present a unique multi-keyboard recital program at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 11, in Duncan Recital Hall.

Keenan has arranged and digitally-recorded the orchestral parts for the works on the program, using the FX-20 "Eagle" Electone, and will play the solo keyboard parts with this prerecorded orchestral accompaniment.

"This is the first time that this type of program has been performed in this country and I am pleased to present its debut at Morehead State," Keenan said.

The program, entitled "Kaleidoscopic Keyboards III," is the third in a series of multi-keyboard recitals originated and performed by Keenan. "My first two were experiments in presenting multi-keyboard programs using serious music and I have begun planning a fourth in the series which I hope to take on tour next year," Keenan said.

The program will feature works by Bach, Hancock, Rachmaninoff and Khatchaturian written for harpsichord, organ, DX-7 synthesizer and pianoforte and normally accompanied by orchestra.

Keenan is founder and director of the Claivers, a multi-keyboard synthesizer ensemble of college and high school students. The ensemble recently performed the orchestral parts for Vivaldi's "Gloria" with the Rowan County High School Chorus under the direction of Noel Weaver.

The winner of 18 piano and organ competitions, Keenan will appear this summer in his 24th season as organist and associate music director for the Stephen Foster Story at Bardstown.

A member of MSU's music faculty since 1967, Keenan earned the Master of Music degree from Indiana University.

Keenan, a former minister of music at the First Presbyterian Church, will be a guest soloist on the Paramounts Arts Concert next year.

Dear Ken,

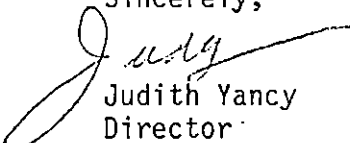

John Sherman, Channel 27's regional reporter, did a segment on Morehead State University's Sheep Industry Development Project which was aired Wednesday, May 7, during the 5:30-6:30 news.

The folks here were quite taken with it and would like to have a copy of the bit for their files and for use in explaining the program to others.

Would it be possible for us to have a copy? Just on the off chance that your staff can provide same, we are sending along with this request a three-quarter inch tape for dubbing. Please mail to the above address.

Thanks so much for your assistance.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Four Morehead State University journalism students have been named 1986-87 recipients of Kentucky Publishing Company Scholarships.

They are Lynn Fisher, Ashland freshman; Terry L. May, Pikeville sophomore; Kevin Goldy, Mt. Sterling junior, and Bridget Blevins, Olive Hill senior.

The Kentucky Publishing Company publishes the Morehead News, Olive Hill Times, Grayson Journal-Enquirer, Greenup News, The Shopping News and Menifee County News.

The scholarships, awarded annually since 1978, are renewable if the students maintain a 3.0 G.P.A. in all journalism courses, according to David Brown, associate professor and journalism program director.

The scholarships are designed to encourage area students to pursue a career in journalism. Freshmen recipients are selected based on high school records and recommendation of their teachers.

"We really appreciate the generosity of the Kentucky Publishing Company in making these awards annually," said Dr. Richard Dandeneau, acting chair of MSU's Department of Communications. "Over the years, Kentucky Publishing has made it possible for several of the department's outstanding students to continue their studies at Morehead State.

"Many of these students are now award-winning community journalists here in the state and others are making a name for themselves throughout the country," Dr. Dandeneau said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will offer special classes in mining technology this summer at two sites in Eastern Kentucky.

Coal Mine Roof and Rib Control, taught by Charles Patrick, assistant professor of mining technology, will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6 to 8:30 p.m., June 9-July 30, at Prestonsburg Community College.

Mine Blasting and Explosives will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 8:30 p.m., June 10-July 31, at Ashland Community College. Patrick also will be the instructor.

Coal Mine Roof and Rib Control is designed for people who deal with purchase, design, installation or maintenance of underground support systems, whether for small or large coal operations, Patrick said. The course was developed to provide participants with basic coal mine ground control principles to assist them in economically creating a safer underground working environment.

Safety and efficiency also are the objectives for Mine Blasting and Explosives which is designed for people who purchase and handle high explosives and those interested in mining blast design. According to Patrick, it will cover such areas as types of explosives, blasting theories and blast design as well as control and effects.

Both courses offer three credit hours and the fee for each is $120. Registration is currently under way and additional information may be obtained from Patrick at (606) 783-2649.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will conduct a two-week, intensive workshop on log home building as part of its 10th annual Appalachian Celebration scheduled June 22-28.

The workshop classes will begin a week before the Celebration on June 15 and will be taught by Bill Peyton, founder of American Timbercraft, Ltd. Designed for both the novice and professional builder, the workshop includes hands-on experience, lectures and films. Participants will peel and groove tulip poplar logs and construct an actual log home during the dawn to dusk sessions.

Peyton, an experienced and internationally recognized log home builder, founded American Timbercraft to provide log construction skills for builders. One of his special interests is encouraging the use of native timber for low-cost housing.

All materials and necessary tools will be furnished. In order to provide individualized instruction class size will be limited.

Additional information may be obtained from Phil Kenkel, Appalachian Development Center, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

Coordinated by MSU's Appalachian Development Center, the Appalachian Celebration is a week-long tribute to the mountain culture and features a variety of arts and crafts exhibits, workshops and demonstrations, including an Arts and Crafts Market with more than 100 artisans participating and concerts, including Louise Mandrell and The Kendalls on Saturday, June 28. Details on the Celebration are available from Pete McNeill, ADC, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Jesse Stuart Symposium, traditionally part of Morehead State University's Appalachian Celebration, will be conducted Tuesday, June 24, at the Adron Doran University Center.

This year's Symposium also is part of the statewide 80th anniversary observance of the late Kentucky author's birth, according to Joyce LeMaster, MSU associate professor of English and 1986 Symposium coordinator.

Launching the Symposium events will be a luncheon at 12:15 p.m. in the Red Room, ADUC, featuring Dr. Stuart Sprague, professor of history and noted Appalachian scholar, discussing "Jesse Stuart's Kentucky."

While all Symposium events are open to the public, reservations will be necessary for the luncheon and may be made by calling the coordinator at (606) 783-2738 or 783-2185 or by writing Joyce LeMaster, U.P.O. Box 857, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351.

Moving into ADUC's Gold Room, the program continues at 1:45 p.m. with a reading by Dr. Ron Dobler, Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy chair, from Stuart's "Taps for Private Tussie" with Appalachian fiddle accompaniment by Dr. Gene Young, associate professor of English.

Following the film, "Split Cherry Tree," Jim Shope, a Stuart scholar, will lead a discussion and the MSU Performing Arts Trio will present "Spring and Summer: The Seasons of Jesse Stuart" through music, art and poetry. The trio includes LeMaster as narrator, Lucretia Stetler, MSU assistant professor of music, on piano and artist Doug Adams.

Greenup County native and Kentucky poet laureate Lee Pennington will speak on "Jesse Stuart: a Remembrance." The Symposium closes with a social hour which features James Stuart, brother of the author, with "This is Your Life, Jesse Stuart."

A day-long bus tour to W-Hollow, the Stuart Home in Greenup County, is available either on Monday, June 23, or on Wednesday, June 25, leaving the campus at 8 a.m. There is a $7.50 charge for the bus tour which includes lunch in the Jesse Stuart Room at Greenbo Lodge.

"We hope that students, faculty, townspeople and all interested individuals will join us for one or all of the Jesse Stuart Celebration events on June 24," LeMaster said. "The program is an attractive, exciting and varied one that we feel will appeal to many tastes and interests," LeMaster explained.

Information about other Appalachian Celebration activities is available from Pete McNeill, Appalachian Development Center, MSU, Morehead KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Richard A. Hall, a graduating senior from Mt. Sterling, will be the student speaker for Morehead State University's Spring Commencement on Saturday, May 17, at 1:30 p.m. in Jayne Stadium.

Also speaking at the ceremonies will be MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn and President Herb. F. Reinhard Jr.

Hall, the son of Billy Joe and Joyce Hall, is graduating with a 4.00 grade point average and is a candidate for the B.S. degree in biology. He has been accepted into the fall medical class at the University of Louisville School of Medicine. He was selected to represent MSU's graduating class by the college deans and Dr. Roberta Anderson, vice president for academic affairs.

An MSU Student Alumni Ambassador, Hall also has been a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi scholastic honorary, Lambda Sigma honor society and Prae Medicorum Club. He was selected outstanding undergraduate student in Biological and Environmental Sciences. He is married to the former Sandra Donaldson of Mt. Sterling, who will receive her degree in secondary education with a major in English.

After undergraduate and graduate degrees are conferred on the nearly 600 candidates by Dr. Reinhard, MSU Alumni Association President David Bolt will welcome them as new alumni.

Dr. Gary C. Cox, professor of geography, will serve as grand marshal for commencement, with Alex Conyers, associate professor of finance, and Dr. John Philley, Department of Physical Sciences chair, as faculty marshals.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Charles Gambill of Jackson has been named Veteran of the Year by Morehead State University's Office of Veteran's Affairs.

Currently a senior at MSU, Gambill served 10 years in the U.S. Army from 1966 to 1977. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gambill and is married to the former Rita Combs, also of Jackson.

In addition to being the Veteran of the Year, Gambill received recognition at a recent honors luncheon held by MSU's College of Applied Science and Technology. For achieving academic excellence, he was awarded a certificate and a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Gambill attended Lees Junior College where he received an associate degree in mine reclamation. Presently he holds a 4.0 grade point average at MSU. He is a December 1986 candidate for the Bachelor of Science degree in mining, reclamation, and energy studies.

Gambill's other activities include being president of MSU's Chapter of the Society of Mining Engineers. He has worked for the Golden Oak Mining Company in Letcher County for several summers.

The Veteran of the Year award is sponsored by the Office of Veteran's Affairs and is given in recognition of outstanding academic achievement, involvement in campus activities, and prior military service record.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Three Morehead State University geology students will attend classes this summer at the Indiana University Geologic Field Station in Cardwell, Mont.

Keith Collingsworth, Catlettsburg senior and son of Norman Collingsworth, Robert B. Perkins, Morehead senior and son of Clayton Perkins, and Ronald Maggard, Ashland junior and son of French Maggard, will join approximately 140 students from across the country enrolled in "Field Geology in the Rocky Mountains."

Classes at the Northern Rocky Mountain field station are offered in two summer sessions. Perkins will attend the first session from May 31 through July 14. Collingsworth and Maggard will attend from July 8 through Aug. 20.

The three MSU geology majors will take part in a six-week program designed to improve their skills in solving geologic problems in the field. The students will also gain experience in field techniques of data collection and geologic mapping from aerial photographs.

"This field station is rated as one of the best in the United States," according to Dr. John Philley, chair of the Department of Physical Sciences. "Competition for admission into the class is quite keen and we are fortunate that three of our majors were accepted," Dr. Philley said.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Morehead State University's reading faculty has named Patricia Thompson Hatfield, Louisa graduate student, as recipient of the William Curtis Hampton Distinguished Scholar Award.

Hatfield received the honor during MSU's College of Professional Studies Honors Breakfast held recently as part of Academic Awards Week.

Named for the late Dr. William C. Hampton, professor of education, the $500 scholarship was established by his colleagues and friends in conjunction with his wife, Mrs. Coleene Hampton.

The scholarship is awarded annually to a graduate student in the education program who has excelled academically and shown intellectual curiosity, dedication to service and diversity of interests.

"Mrs. Hatfield's dedication to the teaching profession made her an outstanding candidate to receive the award," according to Colleta Grindstaff, director of MSU's Reading Center.

Hatfield is employed full-time as a kindergarten teacher at Louisa Elementary School. She attends off-campus MSU classes in Ashland, and is a full-time student in the summer.

A member of the International Reading Association, Hatfield is also a school representative for the Kentucky Education Association and was the recipient of the Lawrence County Conservation District Teacher Sponsor Award.

Hatfield received her teaching credentials and undergraduate degree from MSU, where she still holds a grade point average above 3.5. She is also a member of the Gamma Beta Phi and Lambda Sigma honor societies.

She is married to Dennis Ray Hatfield, superintendent of the Peter Cave Coal Company in Lovely.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--PCB regulations and compliance will be one of several topics addressed during the annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of Physical Plant Administrators scheduled May 20-21 at Morehead State University.

Nearly 200 directors, department superintendents and other physical plant supervisory personnel from the state's public and private colleges and universities are expected to attend the sessions, according to Joe Planck, MSU physical plant director, who is coordinating the campus arrangements.

Bob Young of the General Electric Company, St. Louis, will address the topic of PCB regulations Wednesday, May 21, at 10 a.m. in Adron Doran University Center.

Speakers for other technical sessions include Ralph Rice of Service Engineering Associates, Inc., of Atlanta, Ga., who will discuss misconceptions in cleaning management; Ted Crawford of Dickerson Aerial Surveys, Inc., of Frankfort, who will discuss computer aided mapping and facilities management, and Martha Norris of MSU's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources and Dr. A.J. Powell of the University of Kentucky, discussing campus appearance.

MSU President Herb. F. Reinhard will be the luncheon speaker on Wednesday and Porter Dailey, MSU's vice president for administrative and fiscal affairs, will welcome the group to campus.

In addition to the formal program, there will be exhibits and displays by various vendors both days.

Following registration which begins at noon in the lobby of ADUC on Tuesday, May 20, there will be tours of Cave Run Lake, Eagle Lake, the fish hatchery and MSU's Derrickson Agricultural Complex.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has launched an intensive effort to find out what its alumni think about their alma mater through "Alumni Input 86," the first comprehensive attempt to survey all living MSU alumni.

"We have addresses for approximately 25,000 alumni and we plan to mail copies of the survey to every one of them," said David Bolt of Morehead, MSU Alumni Association president.

Bolt noted that the alumni had been surveyed periodically on a lesser scale in the past, but this was the first comprehensive attempt. "It's a fact that often alumni can provide an institution with a fresh perspective on the quality of programs and services offered," Bolt said. "However, this time we are extremely interested in hearing how our alumni feel about the University's image as well as its programs," he added.

The survey is accompanied by a letter from MSU President Herb. F. Reinhard urging alumni to invest in the university's future by "thoughtfully" responding to the survey.

MSU officials expect the results of "Alumni Input 86" will be a very important aid to the next president, the Board of Regents, and alumni in charting new directions for the institution. The survey was developed by a group of faculty and staff members headed by MSU President Emeritus Morris Norfleet.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Myron Doan has been named assistant to the vice president for student development at Morehead State University.

"Mr. Doan has been serving in the post since fall in an acting capacity and has done a tremendous job," Dr. Gary Grace, MSU vice president for student development, said in announcing the appointment.

"He is a talented and dedicated student-oriented administrator, who develops and sustains excellent rapport with students," Dr. Grace added.

The assistant serves as the division's judicial officer, handling student discipline cases.

Doan, who holds the bachelor and master's degrees from MSU, has been on the University staff since 1973. He formerly was assistant manager of WMKY Radio and has taught radio and television.

He is adviser and district vice president for the campus chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Active in Alpha Epsilon Rho broadcasting fraternity, Gamma Beta Phi Society and Phi Kappa Phi, he also is adviser to MSU's cheerleaders.

Doan is a member of the MSU Alumni Executive Cabinet and chairs its student relations committee. The son of Mary Doan of Falmouth, he is a member of the First Christian Church.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Gerald L. DeMoss, a Morehead State University professor, has been appointed chair of MSU's Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences.

Dr. DeMoss will assume the post July 1, succeeding Dr. Jerry Howell, who resigned as chair to devote more time to teaching and other professional activities, according to Dr. Robert L. Burns, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Howell had headed the department since 1980.

"Dr. DeMoss has been an outstanding teacher and we are pleased that he has accepted the new challenges in directing this department, one of the most active on campus," said Dr. Burns.

"We appreciate the dedicated service that Dr. Howell has provided as leader of the department and believe that he has left an excellent foundation for his successor to build upon," Dr. Burns added.

A native of Silver Grove, Dr. DeMoss is an alumnus of MSU and earned the Ph.D. degree from the University of Tennessee. A member of the faculty since 1968, Dr. DeMoss is an entomologist. He is on the board of directors for the Kentucky Association of Environmental Education, the board of trustees for the Kentucky Chapter, Nature Conservancy and the Kentucky Advisory Council for Environmental Education.

He has authored or co-authored several papers which have appeared in scientific journals and served as consultant in benthic biology for the Sierra Coal Company. He also has conducted workshops for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife as well as the Department of Education. Dr. DeMoss is active in the Kentucky Academy of Science.

CORRECTION

A release dated May 20 incorrectly stated that the Drewey G. Emmons family of Wallingford held the record for having the most children to graduate from Morehead State University. There are several families with a similar number of children or more to receive degrees from MSU.

The second paragraph should read:

Emmons is the sixth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drewey G. Emmons to graduate from Morehead State, placing the family in an elite group who have six or more children as graduates of the University, according to MSU's Alumni Association.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--History was made Saturday (May 17) at Morehead State University when Wallingford senior Lee Emmons was presented as a degree candidate at commencement.

Emmons is the sixth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drewey G. Emmons to graduate from Morehead State, giving the family the distinction of having the most children to graduate from the University, according to MSU's Alumni Association.

Emmons received a Bachelor of Arts degree in communications. Her emphasis is in radio/television.

Along with their six daughters, three of the Emmons' sons-in-law also graduated from MSU.

The five other daughters who were graduated are:

Martha Emmons, who received her Bachelor of Arts degree in 1975. She studied communications with an emphasis in theater. Married to Hutch Smith, she is employed as a McCracken County 4-H agent in Paducah.

Mary Emmons Stanley, who received her Bachelor of Arts degree in 1978 in business management. She is married to Jon Stanley, a 1978 MSU graduate, and is employed as a buyer for Diamond Shamrock of Lexington.

Sarah Emmons Wilson, who received her Bachelor of Arts degree in communications in 1979, with an emphasis in journalism. Married to Tim Wilson, a 1977 MSU graduate she is employed as the director of publications at Transylvania University.

Barbara Emmons, who received her Bachelor of Arts degree in business management and also an associate degree in industrial technology in 1982. She is married to Larry Oney, a 1979 MSU graduate, and is employed as a research engineer for Lockheed Aircraft in Los Angeles, CA.

Naomi Emmons-Ison, who received her associate degree in fashion merchandising. She is married to Eddie Ison, who also attended MSU. She is employed in the management department at McAlpins in Lexington.

"My parents are proud. Neither of them went to college but they wanted all their children to attend college," Lee Emmons said.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmons also have a son, David Emmons who is employed by Fleming Mobile Homes in Flemingsburg.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Michael Hussey, a Morehead State University graduate student, will serve as an intern for U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell this summer.

Hussey, son of John and Ann Hussey of Maysville, has been pursuing a master's degree in history. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree cum laude with a major in government and history last August at Morehead State.

On May 19, Hussey began a five-week stint as an intern in the Senator's office in Washington, D.C. In September, Hussey will enter the Air Force.

"I am greatly elated by Senator McConnell's appointment and I promise to do my best in Washington," Hussey said, when discussing his internship.

Senator McConnell said, "I am looking forward to working with this dynamic young man."

During McConnell's 1984 campaign, Hussey was active on and off campus promoting McConnell for senator.

While at MSU, Hussey has also been chief justice and associate justice of student court, a member of the University Graduate Committee, president of the Young Republicans and coordinator of graduate assistants for the Department of Geography, Government and History.

In the summer of 1985, he also studied in Austria through the Kentucky Institute for European Studies.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University professor of music may be heard as a performer in the musical soundtrack for an upcoming ABC-TV documentary, "The Indomitable Teddy Roosevelt."

Dr. Earle L. Louder is principal euphonium with the Detroit Concert Band, which recorded the score for the two-hour special to be aired by the network on Sunday, June 1, at 7 p.m.

Dr. Louder also is assistant conductor for the Detroit Concert Band. Leonard B. Smith is conductor. Before joining MSU's faculty in 1968, Dr. Louder had performed for more than a decade with the U.S. Navy Band, where he was principal euphonium, featured euphonium soloist and head of the brass department. During that period he played for four presidents.

He holds a doctorate in music from Florida State University and frequently serves as a guest soloist, clinician and adjudicator for schools nationwide. Active in several professional organizations, he is on the international board of directors for Tubists Universal Brotherhood Association and the board of directors for the Association of Concert Bands.

MSU SPRING COMMENCEMENT: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--With cheers from their friends and families ringing in the air, Morehead State University's 1986 spring graduates marched across an outdoor stage on the field of Jayne Stadium to receive congratulations from MSU President Herb. F. Reinhard.

Combatting 85 degree temperatures, many of the graduates wore slightly less than traditional garments under their academic gowns with shorts being the dress of the day. One student from the United Kingdom, Tracey J. Dunn, even draped the Union Jack over the back of his robe.

Two-thirds of the nearly 600 candidates for graduate and undergraduate degrees participated in the second outdoor commencement in MSU's history, according to University officials.

A crowd of more than 5,500 people heard former Governor Louie B. Nunn, now chairman of MSU's Board of Regents, tell the graduates that "Morehead State University has been an avenue to march down on your road to life."

Reminding them that the learning process did not end with graduation, he said that there was no end to the opportunities to become more learned in any field they chose.

He also challenged the graduates to become student recruiters for the University and offered $1,000 to the graduate recruiting the most students. Calling Morehead and the region, the "heart of America," the former governor told the graduates that they were "the hope of America" and reaffirmed the board's pledge to make MSU "a better University than it has ever been before."

Student speaker Richard A. Hall of Mt. Sterling called commencement a day of transition. "Yesterday we were college students and tomorrow we will be college graduates," said Hall, who received the B.S. degree in biology and will enter medical school this fall at the University of Louisville.

He urged the students to become ambassadors for Morehead State University and cautioned that being an ambassador carried the responsibility of being successful in the outside world.

He added that success varied with the individual. "To some, success may be recognition or prestige and to others it may be gaining the respect of their peers," he said.

Receiving a standing ovation from the graduating classes, MSU President Reinhard urged the students to be active people. "Society has need of your talents and skills today even more so than before," he said. President Reinhard also challenged graduates to support their alma mater, saying "Morehead State is at a crossroad and needs your support and guidance. You are part of the annals of this institution."

In closing, the president asked that they daily thank "a supreme being for the opportunities and freedoms they enjoy."

- 2--About two-thirds of the nearly 600 undergraduate and graduate degree candidates took part in the ceremony held against the lush green backdrop of the hills of Eastern Kentucky.
- 3--Challenging the graduates to aid their alma mater by recruiting students, former Gov. Nunn offered $1,000 to the graduate recruiting the most students for the fall semester.
- 4--Eager and intense, the faces of MSU's soon-to-be alumni reflect many moods.
- 5--Student speaker Richard A. Hall of Mt. Sterling told his classmates that success had many meanings. "To some, success may be recognition or prestige and to others it may be gaining the respect of their peers," he said.
- 6--Receiving a standing ovation from the students, President Reinhard urged the graduates to be active. "Society has need of your talents and skills today even more so than ever before."
- 7--Prior to commencement, MSU ROTC students received their commissions on the lawn of President and Mrs. Reinhard's residence. For young Paris Leyes of Waynesville, Ohio, it was a long reach to pin second lieutenant bars on his sister Bobbi Joe Leyes.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Many people use a chain saw to cut firewood, Tom Sternal also uses one to cut wood--but not to burn.

Sternal, chair of Morehead State University's Department of Art, has gained national recognition for his artistry in sculpting wood with a chain saw. One of his more recent monumental scaled sculptures has become part of the campus scene at Arkansas State University in Jonesboro.

Entitled Table Form 2-86, it was created from Arkansas oak and Kentucky limestone. It is part of a series which includes similar pieces which have become part of the landscape at the University of Notre Dame, the University of Pennsylvania and Temple University. Others have been commissioned and will be in place by October, according to Sternal.

"I prefer to use native woods in my work whenever possible because they add an extra dimension to what I am attempting to do in environmental sculpture," said Sternal. He describes his works as pieces that can exist in harmony with their environment rather than at odds with it.

Sternal said he prefers to create functional pieces that encourage participation by the viewer--works that can be touched, climbed on, or even sat on.

A native of Minnesota, Sternal came to MSU as professor and department chair in 1984 from Winona State University where he was head of the department. He also taught at Hung IK University in Seoul, Korea, and Muhlenburg College.

A graduate of the University of Minnesota where he did his undergraduate work, Sternal earned the M.A. and M.F.A. degrees at the University of Montana.

His work has appeared in more than 40 exhibits, including 15 one-man shows, and he has had numerous commissions for large and small scale works.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Gifted students from 31 Eastern Kentucky high schools are invited to face learning challenges this summer during Morehead State University's fifth annual "Project Challenge."

"Project Challenge" will bring 40 academically gifted high school students to Morehead State's campus for 12 days of intensive academic enrichment and hands-on experiences, according to Dr. George Troutt, director.

Although many Kentucky schools now have programs for gifted students consisting of about five percent of their student body, most schools still do not have the facilities or the capability to adequately challenge these students, Troutt said.

"Project Challenge" allows its participants to spend six hours each day expanding their thoughts and ideas through critical thinking and writing.

Dr. Glenn Rogers, MSU professor of English and coordinator of general education in English, will teach the writing course. He said the students will read and write critical analyses of selected literature.

Critical thinking is an important area which just recently has been added to the curriculum in some area high schools and colleges, according to Dr. George M. Luckey, MSU professor of philosophy and the instructor for intensive sessions in analytical thinking.

"Reading and writing are skills which have always been stressed, but thinking can also be taught," he said.

Each evening, students will also participate in a three-hour art experience.

Robert Franzini, MSU associate professor of art, will teach the art experiences. He said that although there will be some lecture and perhaps a movie, much of the three hours will be spent in actual hands-on experiences ranging from photography to drawing.

High academic achievers who will be in high school during the 1986-87 school year are eligible for this program. A school official must nominate the student for this program and must also identify him as "gifted."

Dr. Troutt said "gifted" students are those who are high academic achievers and are the "A" or high "B" students.

(MORE)

"Project Challenge"
2-2-2-2-2-2

"Project Challenge" begins July 6 and costs $450 per student. This fee covers all meals, housing, books, materials, recreation, health services and insurance provided by the university. A $100 deposit to ensure enrollment is needed for registration before June 30.

Nomination forms, applications and information are available from Dr. George Troutt, Director, Project Challenge, Morehead State University, UPO 1356, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2894.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University is again participating in Kentucky's Math/Science Incentive Loan program.

The number of Morehead State teacher trainees entering the science and math fields has tripled in recent years partially because of this program sponsored by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority since 1980, according to Dr. William R. Falls, MSU's coordinator at the Center for Science Education.

Loans up to $2,500 per academic year are awarded to undergraduate students interested in teaching mathematics, physics, chemistry, earth science, biology or geology.

All recipients must be enrolled full-time at participating institutions. No awards will be given on a part-time basis, Dr. Falls said. Students must have and maintain a 2.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Graduate students and secondary teachers who return to school for certification in math and science are also eligible for summer scholarships of up to $833 per summer term; however, funds for this summer have already been disbursed.

"For each year the participant teaches math or science in Kentucky, one year's loan and the 12 percent interest is forgiven," said Dr. Falls.

Applications are available from Dr. Falls, Morehead State University, UPO 682, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2948.

Completed applications must be returned to Dr. Falls no later than June 25.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University is a participant in Kentucky's first Teacher Scholarship Program to encourage the state's outstanding students to become Kentucky teachers.

Offering 100 scholarships statewide, this program awards $5,000 per academic year for each recipient. Scholarships are renewable annually, and recipients may receive a maximum of $20,000 in funds.

To be eligible, a student must be a U.S. citizen, a Kentucky resident and have been graduated or currently attending a Kentucky high school and be in the top 10 percent of the class. Other requirements include having at least a 24 composite on the ACT and attending a participating institution on a full-time basis.

Recipients must sign a statement verifying their enrollment in a qualified teacher education program at a participating institution, must obtain a Kentucky teacher's certificate and must teach one semester for each semester a scholarship was received.

Selection is based on the rank in class, cumulative grade point average and ACT score. The application deadline is June 30.

Applications or more information is available from the Office of Student Financial Aid, 305 Howell-McDowell Administration Building, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone (606) 783-2011; and the Office of Admissions, Breckinridge Hall, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2000.

Completed applications should be sent to: Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, ATTN: Teacher Scholarship Program, 1050 U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, KY 40601.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Student Association recently presented a $10,000 check to the MSU Foundation, earmarked for the SA Scholarship Endowment Fund.

The SA has a $50,000 goal for its endowment, established a year ago by the association under the leadership of former SA president Mike Fox of Olive Hill, according to Bill Redwine, MSU's director of development.

This year's contribution which brought the fund level to $12,000 was presented to foundation officials by the outgoing SA president, Ben Iden of Bloomingburg, Ohio.

"This is an outstanding example of students helping other students," Redwine said. "The Student Association is to be commended for its efforts. This will benefit other students for many years to come," he added.

According to Larry Stephenson, University Center and Student Activities director, the SA wanted to do something to help other students which would have lasting benefits. "Knowing the critical need for student financial aid, it decided that an endowed scholarship fund was the most appropriate way to go," said Stephenson, who serves as SA adviser.

At the $50,000 level, the SA Scholarship Endowment Fund is expected to provide four scholarships of $1,000 each annually, according to MSU officials. As an endowed fund, the principle will remain untouched, while the interest is used to fund the awards.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A limited number of seats are still available for the Canadian bus tour, "To Stratford for Shakespeare," offered jointly by Morehead State University and the University of Kentucky.

Sponsored by MSU's Division of Continuing Education and UK's Office of Community Education, the tour will include performances of "Boys from Syracuse," Brecht's "Auturo Ui," and "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead," in addition to Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale," "Macbeth," "Pericles" and "Hamlet."

Also scheduled are backstage tours, shopping in Toronto, and a visit to Kitchener's farmers' market.

The bus will depart for Stratford, Canada, at 7 a.m. on Saturday, June 7, from the MSU campus. The fee, which includes transportation, lodging and tickets to eight of the Stratford Shakesperean Festival, is $355.

For those who wish to combine pleasure with an educational experience, three hours of academic credit in English is available by making special arrangements with Dr. Frances Helphinstine, MSU professor of English. Telephone: (606) 784-8051 or (606) 783-2778.

Tour participants also are encouraged to attend a series of discussions on Shakespeare and the festival plays which is scheduled on May 31, beginning at 10 a.m., on the ninth floor of Ginger Hall. Another session will be held after the tour group returns.

Additional information on the tour itself may be obtained from Dr. George Eyster, director of MSU's Office of Extended Campus Programs. Telephone: (606) 783-2038.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Eagle Lake recreational complex will reopen for the summer at 10 a.m. on June 1.

The lake will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. throughout the summer, according to Mickey Wells, MSU director of intramural and recreation programs.

"We encourage the public as well as students, faculty and staff to enjoy summer activities at the lake," Wells said. In addition to hiking, picnicking, fishing, sunbathing and swimming, lake-goers can either go around the lake in row boats or paddle boats, he added.

Certified lifeguards will be on duty during the hours of operation and swimming will only be allowed in the beach area. Innertubes may be rented at 50 cents per hour. There's also a concession stand offering snacks and beverages for sale.

Children 12 years or younger must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. There will be a $1 access fee per person to the swimming and picnic areas, which is good for the entire day, Wells said.

The 30-acre lake, which was created in 1953 by the impoundment of Evans Branch, was developed into a summer recreation area by Morehead State last spring.

MSU HIGHLIGHTS

MSU's Chamber Singers performed at New York's prestigious Carnegie Hall this spring.

MSU had three students among the 17 legislative interns serving the 1986 General Assembly.

MSU tied with UK for the state's 1985 Outstanding Phi Delta Kappa (education honorary) Chapter.

MSU's Pi Gamma Mu (social sciences honorary) has achieved Roll of Merit status for 13 out of 15 years.

MSU mining technology students were first in the nation to participate in a new program at the Federal Mine Safety Academy, Beckley, W.VA.

MSU student acceptances into medical school has been 70 percent of those applying for the past five years. The national rate is 40 percent. Those students also perform at the top of their classes.

MSU has the only two-year veterinary technology program in the state accredited by the American Veterinary Medical Association.

MSU publications--both student and staff produced--are award winners. Trail Blazer this year received 14 awards and was ranked fourth overall in its division by the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association. "Viewbook," the University's primary recruitment brochure, was one of three publications out of 200 to receive top honor award from a nine-state district of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE.)

MSU was the only public university in Kentucky to be a finalist in the CASE/U.S. Steel Alumni Incentive Giving Competition this year.

MSU art faculty are invited to exhibit nationwide and are award-winners in juried competitions.

MSU faculty and staff serve as officers on the state and national level in their professional organizations as well as playing active roles in their community's civic and service organizations.

MSU faculty members also receive recognition from their peers for their leadership and for their classroom skills.

For those who read last fall, the gloom and doom stories about the lack of distinction by MSU teacher education students taking the National Teacher Education Examination in the Spring of 1985, here are some interesting statistics of the spring 1986 performance.

Based on the scores of 119 MSU students taking the NTE this spring, MSU's average was equal to the state and national norms in communication skills. In general knowledge MSU's and the state's average was slightly higher than the national norm. In professional knowledge MSU's average was significantly higher than both the state and national norms.

HFR CONTRACT CHRONOLOGY

- April 26, 1985--MSU President Herb. F. Reinhard Jr. requests a one-year extension of his contract. MSU Board of Regents table the request. (Note: HFR assumed presidency on a two-year contract July 1, 1984; however by that time the Board's composition had changed. The terms of five board members had expired and new appointees had taken their seats. The board he served under was not the board that hired him.)
- August 23, 1985--The Board of Regents refuses to take any action on his request for contract extension.
- November 4, 1985--Board names transition committee to develop search procedures for new president, while calling on HFR to serve out his contract "to the best of his abilities and to keep the best interests of the University at heart."
- January 10, 1986--Gov. Martha Layne Collins calls for the resignations of all eight appointees to the Board and HFR to go on sabbatical for remainder of his contract. With the ensuing resignations of seven board members, no board existed with which HFR could negotiate sabbatical.
- January 14, 1986--Gov. Collins announces appointments of former governors Louie B. Nunn and Edward T. Breathitt to MSU's Board of Regents.
- February 4, 1986--Gov. Collins announces appointments of former state Supreme Court Justice J. Calvin Aker; William R. Seaton, vice chairman of Ashland Oil, Inc., board of directors; Charles Wheeler, Ashland businessman and former regent; Dr. Allan Lansing, head of Human Heart Institute, and Barbara Curry, social services commissioner for Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government.
- March 4, 1986--New board members sworn in at governor's office in Frankfort.
- March 11, 1986--New board holds first official meeting on MSU campus.
- March 31, 1986--HFR announces resignation, effective June 30, 1986, at second meeting of the new board.
- April 21, 1986--HFR's appointment as president of Frostburg (Md.) State College, effective July 1, 1986, is announced.

MOREHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY -- An Overview

Meeting the educational needs of Eastern Kentucky while striving to constantly improve the quality of its public service and applied research programs are the primary objectives of Morehead State University.

Historically, the University traces its lineage to the Morehead Christian Normal School which opened its doors in 1886. The private school closed in the spring of 1922 when the Kentucky General Assembly established Morehead State Normal School. The state institution accepted its first students in the fall of 1923 and graduated its first class in 1927. Name changes occurred in 1926 when "and Teachers College" was added, again in 1930 when it was shortened to Morehead State Teachers College, again in 1948 when "Teachers" was dropped and, finally, to university status, in 1966. Nine men, starting with Dr. Frank C. Button, have served as president.

Academically, the University offers nearly 120 programs of study on the associate, baccalaureate and graduate levels in three colleges -- Applied Sciences and Technology, Arts and Sciences and Professional Studies -- and 24 academic departments. Classes also are conducted in Ashland, Jackson, Maysville, Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Whitesburg and other regional locations. The Ashland operation includes "Weekend College" on Friday nights and Saturdays. MSU's veterinary technology program is among 24 in the country to gain national accreditation. More than 50 percent of MSU's 300 faculty members hold earned doctoral degrees.

Athletically, the University sponsors 15 intercollegiate sports for men and women in accordance with the regulations of the Ohio Valley Conference and Division I of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Intramural athletics are involved with 20 team and individual sports:

Physically, the University is located in the foothills of the Daniel Boone National Forest in Rowan County. The 500-acre campus within the city limits of Morehead includes more than 50 major structures with a total replacement value in excess of $100 million. Beyond the city, the University's holdings include the 320-acre Derrickson Agricultural Complex, a nine-hole golf course and a 52-acre tract of woodland at Cave Run Lake. The instructional plant includes 120 classrooms and 112 laboratories. Housing facilities include space for 3,500 single students and 300 families.

Fiscally, the University currently operates on an annual budget of $39.2 million with about $23.1 million provided by the state and $13.8 million coming from tuition and other student fees. Grants and contracts from state and federal sources, primarily for research and service projects, generate about $2 million each year. Private giving to the University, mainly through the MSU Foundation, Inc., is approaching $500,000 annually.

Statistically, the University has more than 32,000 alumni, an average fall enrollment of 6,000 and more than 900 full-time employees. The student body represents 104 Kentucky counties, 26 other states and 16 foreign countries. The University attracts more than 30,000 visitors each year and its economic impact, directly and indirectly, on the Morehead area is estimated at $60 million yearly.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two scholars-in-residence who celebrate the diversity of the Appalachian region are part of the Appalachian Celebration June 22-28 at Morehead State University.

Sociologist Dr. William Turner and folklorist Dr. Archie Green will be on hand for several events throughout the Celebration as this year's scholars.

Originally from Harlan County, Dr. Turner has taught at several universities including the University of Kentucky and Kentucky State University. He now teaches at Winston-Salem State University in North Carolina and is the co-editor of Blacks in Appalachia. He also has been published widely on the subject of race and ethnic relations and Afro-American culture.

Dr. Green is a professor emeritus at the University of Texas and now lives in California. His particular interests are ballads, music and labor lore. He has recorded and introduced "Only a Miner: Studies in Recorded Coal Mining Songs" and has edited many folksong albums.

Both scholars-in-residence are coming to MSU for the first time and will be at the opening reception, launching the week-long Celebration. The reception, hosted by MSU's Department of Art, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Claypool-Young Art Building.

Other Celebration events which will feature these two scholars include the Jesse Stuart Symposium, Elderhostel classes and taped broadcasts by WMKY FM 90 public radio from MSU. Both scholars also will meet with classes and Celebration participants.

For the past six years, the scholars-in-residence have been supported by grants from the Kentucky Humanities Council. Dr. Ron Dobler, chair of MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy, is the humanities adviser and a member of the advisory committee for the Appalachian Development Center.

Coordinated by MSU's Appalachian Development Center, the Appalachian Celebration is a week-long tribute to the mountain culture and features a variety of arts and crafts exhibits, workshops and demonstrations, including an Arts and Crafts Market with more than 100 artisans participating. This year's concerts include Louise Mandrell and The Kendalls on Saturday, June 28.

Details on all Celebration events are available from Pete McNeill, ADC, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--More than 100 artisans are expected to take part in the two-day Appalachian Arts and Crafts Market during Morehead State University's Appalachian Celebration June 22-28.

"The single biggest event of the Celebration, the Appalachian Arts and Crafts Market last year drew more than 5,000 people in one day, so this year we anticipate an even larger crowd," said Wilson Grier, market coordinator.

The market will open Friday, June 26, at 3 p.m. in the Laughlin Health Building and remain open until 9 p.m. On Saturday, browsers and buyers may view the various wares from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. There is no admission charge.

"Wholesale buyers are encouraged to attend and see first hand the quality of Appalachian crafts represented," said Grier.

Grier is also the director of the East Kentucky Small Business Development Center, which, along with the Small Business Administration, sponsors the Market. "Our self-governing Advisory Board, representing Morehead State University and regional crafts people, has served to strengthen the organization and quality this year," Grier said.

Crafts featured at the Appalachian Arts and Crafts Market include quilting, fabric crafts, weaving, woodcrafts, pottery, painting, and basketry. All crafts are required to reflect originality and be indicative of the artist or craftsman represented.

The 10th annual Appalachian Celebration, coordinated by MSU's Appalachian Development Center, consists of workshops throughout the week in crafts, music, dance and Appalachian studies as well as evening and noon concerts, the Jesse Stuart Symposium, a log home building workshop and on-going exhibits and demonstrations. There are also several workshops for children. The opening reception is Sunday evening, June 22, and the final concert, featuring Louise Mandrell and The Kendalls, is Saturday evening, June 28.

More information about the Appalachian Arts and Crafts Market, is available from Wilson Grier, Director, EKSBC, Appalachian Development Center, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Twenty-five Eastern Kentucky farmers have become full-fledged participants in Morehead State University's Sheep Industry Development Project.

"We had a limited number of ewes earmarked for leasing, but there was so much interest on the part of the region's farmers that many purchased their own," said Jim Akers, MSU sheep specialist. "We brought in nearly 1,000 ewes from San Angelo, Texas, for distribution," he added.

Eastern Kentucky's newest sheep farmers include:

Gary Ishmal, Jim Porter, Lynn Chaney, Robert Gulley, Steve and Bill Brown, Charles Berry, Jerry Shannon and Dale Whaley, all of Fleming County;

Jerry Redmond, Hillary Underwood and Joe Wilson of Lewis County; Glenn McDavid, Dean Ramey, John Bays and Mickey Franks of Carter County; Aubrey Whitt of Elliott County; Russell Leach, Hoyt Gamble and Bill Lacy, Morgan County;

Ralph Collinsworth, Menifee County; Sam Finch and Brooks Karrick, Bath County; Mike and Jim Padulla, Rowan County, and Dorothy Haddix and Ann Brown, Montgomery County.

"Sheep producers this spring saw some of the highest lamb market prices in years, with lambs selling at slightly more than $80 per hundred weight," Akers added.

With the beginnings of their sheep flocks, the farmers will spend the summer working on pasture rotation and preparation of the ewes for breeding this August, according to Akers.

Funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission, MSU's Sheep Industry Development Project is designed to reintroduce sheep as a viable industry for the region. Prior to World War II, Eastern Kentucky was a major producer of sheep.

"It's truly an ideal industry for our region's hilly terrain, and as the ~~amount of land used for tobacco cultivation declines, we need more options,~~" said Dr. Charles M. Derrickson, dean of MSU's College of Applied Sciences and Technology.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University theatre students were recently recognized for outstanding achievements during the 1985-86 school year. Awards were presented to 13 students at the annual Theta Phi Alpha theatre honorary banquet, according to Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU theatre program coordinator.

Bob Stafford, a May graduate from Vanceburg, was given the award for the Best Actor for his role as the Elephant Man.

Tavia Biggs, Lebanon Junction senior, was chosen Best Actress for her performance as Mrs. Kendall in "The Elephant Man."

Best Supporting Actor went to Ralph Wall, a sophomore from Cedar Island, N.C., for his performance as Bellamy in "The Fantasticks."

Julie Jones, Cynthiana sophomore, was chosen Best Supporting Actress for her role as Pearl Burris in "Greater Tuna."

Belinda Stambough, a May graduate from Salyersville, received Best Performance in a Minor Role as The Dutchess in "The Elephant Man."

The acting awards were determined by a panel of judges selected from MSU faculty and staff and Morehead citizens, Dr. Lockhart said.

The following students, Faculty Award recipients, were chosen by MSU theatre faculty for their contributions to the theatre productions this year.
