MOREHEAD, Ky.--Enrollment for both of Morehead State University's summer sessions was higher than last year, according to figures released by MSU Registrar Gene Ranvier.

Enrollment for Summer II, which ends Friday, is 1,414 students, as compared with 1,392 in 1985. Summer I attracted 1,869 students against 1,827 last year.

"This is the first time in recent years that MSU has shown summer enrollment increases and the upswing is a very positive sign," Ranvier said.

Noting that factors influencing summer session enrollments vary greatly, Ranvier attributed the increases to a schedule of classes meeting students needs and the University's new registration by mail system.

Registration for MSU's fall semester will be conducted Aug. 25 and 26 with classes commencing Aug. 27.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's matching gift program will be prominently featured in a national directory to be published this summer by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE).

The University's matching gift program, part of the MSU Foundation annual giving program, will be used as the primary example in the introductory section of CASE's directory of matching gift programs at member institutions, "Profiles: Educational Institutions."

"We were looking for a state institution with its own foundation and pretty good numbers in matching gifts and alumni support," said Cheryl Martin, project coordinator for Profiles. "MSU met our criteria," she said.

According to Bill Redwine, MSU development director, the University files a report each year with CASE on the annual giving programs. "It was on the basis of our 1985-86 Survey of Voluntary Support of Education that CASE made its selections," Redwine said.

According to Redwine, the dollars generated last year from 18 corporations matching 28 individual gifts represented roughly 4 percent of the total individual gift contributions. "The foundation received $244,624 from individuals, plus an additional $9,000 in corporate matches," he said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The 1986 state conclave of the Kentucky DeMolay will be held on the campus of Morehead State University Aug. 7-10.

Approximately 150 young men, representing 15 local chapters from accross the state, are expected to attend the conference, according to Kelly Tutt of Lexington, conclave director. Also meeting during the conclave will be the Kentucky DeMolay Mother's Club and DeMolay Sweethearts with more than 50 participants expected.

DeMolay is a Masonic-sponsored organization for young men ages 13 through 20 designed to build character and develop leadership potential, Tutt said.

The four-day conference will include general sessions, athletic competition in swimming, track and field and softball, and ritualistic competition as well as the election of state officers during the formal meeting of the state DeMolay Congress. MSU President A.D. Albright will welcome the youth to the campus.

In addition to these activities, a grand banquet scheduled for Saturday, and highlighted by the crowning of the state DeMolay sweetheart, is expected to draw about 350 DeMolay members and Masons, Tutt said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Alumni Association of Morehead State University has established an alumni chapter for graduates in southern Ohio.

Elected to serve as officers were:

*President--Patricia Dorton Price of West Union, career development counselor for Ohio Valley Local Schools.

*Vice president--Sam Snyder of Hillsboro, a teacher at Hillsboro High School.

*Secretary/treasurer--Janie Richmond Kirker of West Union, a teacher at West Union Elementary School.

"Our main purpose is to support Morehead State University and its programs," said the newly-elected president. "We are proud of the opportunities we received at MSU and would like for others to share that experience."

A fall activity is being planned for all MSU graduates in the Ohio Valley area. "We are inviting all alumni to join us," said Price. "We want to have a strong, productive organization."

"We are excited about the enthusiasm of our alumni and their willingness to support MSU," said Don Young, MSU's director of alumni relations. "I encourage all alumni in the area to actively participate in the chapter's activities."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--More than 90 youth from Kentucky and Tennessee will spend next week at Morehead State University taking a first-hand look at life as a police officer.

MSU and the Morehead City Police Department are co-sponsoring the sixth annual Regional Law Enforcement Conference and Competition which lets youth explore career opportunities in law enforcement, according to Roger Holbrook, security shift supervisor for MSU's Office of Safety and Security.

The four-day conference, which begins Thursday, Aug. 7, will include guest speakers, demonstrations and competitive events. Participants will be representing four Kentucky police posts: Louisville, Morehead, Shively and Somerset; and four Tennessee posts: Knox County, Union County, Nashville and Chattanooga.

"Participants, between 14 and 21 years old, will get to learn about law enforcement work by actually assuming the role of police officers," Holbrook said.

The eight posts will participate in competition as police officers trying to solve five simulated crimes: a felony traffic stop, traffic accident investigation, a domestic disturbance, a burglary in progress and a courtroom testimony.

"Each post will be observed by a panel of judges which will rate each post on how well it handles each crime, and then we will award trophies to the posts which did the best jobs with the cases," Holbrook explained.

Featured speaker, Tim Farrar, resident agent at the Department of Treasury's Tobacco and Firearms at Ashland, will make a presentation on bombs and explosive devices. Farrar also will demonstrate a specially-equipped van which is used for investigating cases involving explosive devices.

MSU SUMMER COMMENCEMENT: A Picture Story

MSU President A.D. Albright conferred degrees on nearly 270 undergraduate and graduate students with more than half of them attending. Some 1,500 friends and family members were present for the ceremonies in Button Auditorium.

Opening her remarks with Robert Frost's "The Road Not Taken," student speaker Meleah Saxon of Morehead told her classmates that although most roads seem to have already been heavily traveled, "it is our traveling that can make all the difference." Citing the accomplishments of MSU graduates, Saxon added that "regardless of whether we have chosen careers that lead us far away into different worlds, or professions that keep us close to home, the opportunities for fulfillment and professional satisfaction are there for us all."

"No professional challenge is so small that we can afford to overlook it," Saxon added. The daughter of Tommy and Neva Griffith, she earned the B.A. degree in elementary education, graduating magna cum laude.

Echoing the imagery begun by Saxon, MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn reminded the graduates that "Those who taught you have drawn some lines to guide you on the road of life."

"If you are going to travel the road of life only for yourself, without compassion for your fellow men, then step aside. There's room out there on the road for those who know where they are going. No sense traveling the road if you don't know your destination," he cautioned.

Comparing education with the lighting up of a mind, like a match to a flame, he told the audience that some lights were candles and others were beacons.

"That beacon is not a stoplight. To some it may be a caution light, but it should be a green light," the former governor said. "What you have achieved is only part of what you can accomplish in this life. You can and surely will make a contribution," he added.

Lisa Browning of Owingsville, MSU Alumni Association first vice president, welcomed the new graduates into a "family of 25,000 brothers and sisters. Our family name is Morehead State University," she told them. "I challenge you to maintain the good name of our family."

Cutlines:

2--Reminding the audience that commencement was special not only for the graduates but for their spouses, parents and grandparents as well, MSU President A.D. Albright asked the crowd to recognize them as they stood.

3--MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn and student commencement speaker Meleah Saxon look as if they might be comparing their maps for the road of life.

4--"Our family name is Morehead State University," Lisa Browning of Owingsville, MSU Alumni Association first vice president, said as she welcomed the new graduates into the family and challenged them to "maintain the good name of our family."

5--Bursting through the doors of Button after commencement, it seems as if the graduates are eager to set foot out upon the road of life.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"I'm too old for college. I've been out of school too long and I won't be able to make good grades. I have to take care of my family. There's no way I can afford it."

Those are concerns often voiced by adults who would like to earn a college degree. Morehead State University officials believe they really are not stumbling blocks to achieving a degree.

"Adults, who originally feared the thought of coming back to school, are finding they can make it academically, financially and socially at MSU," said Anna Mae Riggle, counselor for MSU's non-traditional students.

"Nationwide, approximately 34 percent of college students are above the age of 25," Riggle said. "By 1990 that number will be closer to 50 percent," she added, attributing this to several factors.

"The economy, new technology, job changes and changing roles for women in today's society all play a part in the increasing number of older students at MSU," she noted. Women, as well as men, are realizing the need for marketable skills, Riggle said.

Last fall, MSU's student population included 638 non-traditional students -- a majority of them were full-time students and 60 percent were women.

Previously, MSU classified undergraduate students between ages 25 and 60 as non-traditional; but this fall will begin including those adults age 23 in the classification.

Not only do the older students fit in with the college atmosphere, they also do well academically. "Our non-traditional students are among our best achievers. Last fall, 62 percent of them had at least a 3.0 grade point average and 23 percent had 4.0 grade point averages.

Financial pressure is another concern for many non-traditional students. "We try to help our students find solutions and alternatives to meet their financial needs," said Tim Rhodes director of financial aid. "MSU offers a variety of programs for all students, and Pell Grants and Guaranteed Student Loans are still available to eligible students for the fall semester."

Ruby Riffe, Louisa freshman and mother of two children, said she wasn't sure she could meet all the challenges of being a mom and a student--especially since she had been out of school for 13 years. "I wasn't sure I could make it, financially," Riffe said. "This is the first time I've been on my own."

After being a housewife for 11 years, Riffe, 30, and her two children, ages 8 and 12, moved into MSU's campus housing, and she began pursuing a secondary teaching certificate in math. Riffe said she has enjoyed her life at MSU so much that she hopes to complete a doctorate degree someday. "MSU has so much to offer for me and my children, and I know I can make it," she said.

Louisa junior biology major, Reva Ford had similar thoughts about MSU's opportunities for non-traditional students. Recently remarried, Ford came to MSU three years ago as a single parent with two children, now ages 8 and 5. She said MSU has been good for her children by giving them access to facilities they might not otherwise be able to enjoy.

"MSU has an I.D. card system for a student's spouse and children so they also can attend ballgames, movies and other activities sponsored by the University," Ford said. "My kids also have access to the University's indoor pool, library and arcade."

Greenup sophomore Deborah Morrison, 34, is studying speech at MSU, lives on-campus with her 10-year-old daughter, has a work-study job at the University and is helping start a new organization at MSU for non-traditional students. This group will include non-traditional students and married, as well as single parent students, according to Morrison.

Morrison said that the older students also need social activities to fit their busy schedules. "MSU's counseling center along with campus tutoring services are great for helping get back into the swing of being a student again," Morrison said. "We hope our new organization also will help non-traditional students learn from others by spending time together and sharing experiences."

MSU's fall semester begins with registration Aug. 25-26, and classes begin Wednesday, Aug. 27.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will conduct a Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) session Friday, Aug. 15, for all freshmen and transfer students who recently were admitted to the University and for those who were unable to attend previous SOARs.

"The day is actually designed as a mini-SOAR program for new students and their parents," said Bruce Heasley, acting director of admissions. "Our earlier sessions were extremely popular with both students and their parents, so we scheduled this extra one."

SOAR acquaints new students and their parents with MSU's academic programs, student services and campus life. Check-in for parents and students for this session will be from 9 to 10 a.m. at MSU's Laughlin Health Building.

Welcoming students to campus will be Dr. Gary Grace, vice president for student development, and Porter Dailey, vice president for fiscal and administrative services, will explain campus services.

The parents' program calls for them to spend the morning hearing about University support services and getting an academic overview from Dr. Roberta Anderson, vice president for academic affairs.

After lunch, students and parents will return to their respective groups. Students will spend the afternoon with academic advisers and pre-register for fall classes, while parents will learn about University support services and campus life.

Students and parents interested in attending this SOAR session should call MSU's Office of Admissions toll-free, 1-800-262-7474 in Kentucky or 1-800-354-2090 out-of-state.

"Students who have not chosen a college but are interested in MSU are encouraged to call our office if they have questions," Heasley added. "There is still time to apply for admission, and some Pell Grants and Guaranteed Student Loans are available to eligible students."

The fall semester begins with registration Aug. 25-26, and classes start Wednesday, Aug. 27. Additional information about admission for the fall semester is available by calling either of the above toll-free numbers.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library recently received high commendations for its Government Documents Collection.

After an inspection by the federal government, MSU's collection received an excellent rating--the highest possible--in four of seven areas: organization, maintenance, service to the public and depository cooperation, according to Larry X. Besant, director of Libraries. The collection also received second highest ratings for depository collections and space standards.

"MSU is extremely pleased and proud to have this collection rated so highly by the federal Office of the Superintendent of Documents," Besant said. "We especially appreciate the hard work and determination of the library staff responsible for this collection."

"This is the highest rating MSU has been given since becoming a depository in 1955," said Margaret Davis, documents librarian. "We are pleased with this rating and want to continue enhancing our collection."

For the past 31 years, MSU's library has been a selective depository for documents published by the federal government, according to Charles Meade, supervisor of government documents and microforms.

"The idea of a depository goes back to Thomas Jefferson's idea on an informed public," Meade explained. "Through documents, the public can be informed of how funds are used and what the government is doing."

Meade said the library receives about one-third of all available documents and on topics such as farming, health and welfare, coal, education and commerce.

Government documents are located on the fourth floor of the library. Additional information is available by calling 783-7061.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Adron Doran University Center Cafeteria will be closed Aug. 10-23, according to Jean Wells, acting director of food services.

"We have scheduled this two-week closing in order to prepare for the opening of the 1986 Fall Semester," Wells said.

The cafeteria will re-open, beginning with brunch at 9 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 24, and operate on a regular schedule throughout the semester.

Wells, who retired January 1985 from MSU's food services staff, will serve as acting director until a permanent director is found, according to Porter Dailey, vice president for administrative and fiscal services.

"We are extremely pleased that Mrs. Wells has agreed to come out of retirement to assist the university and we know that her many friends on campus and in the community will want to welcome her back," Dailey said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--District C of the Kentucky Home Economics Association will hold its first meeting at Morehead State University on Aug. 11.

Previously meeting only once a year as a state organization, KHEA has been divided into three districts which will hold gatherings in their respective areas in addition to the state meeting each spring, according to Carolyn Taylor, assistant professor of home economics at MSU.

"District C encompasses 65 counties east of Lexington," said Tina Sandy of Fayette County, district president. "All Eastern Kentucky home economists, with degrees in that field or a related field, are cordially invited to attend the meeting and KHEA membership is not necessary," she added.

Beginning with registration at 9 a.m., the meeting will be held on the third floor of MSU's Adron Doran University Center.

After a welcome to campus by MSU President A.D. Albright, participants will hear from Dr. Lena Bailey, dean of the College of Home Economics at Ohio State University.

An MSU alumna, Dr. Bailey will speak on "Insights: The Future of Home Economics." A distinguished graduate, Bailey has received several MSU honors including a Hall of Fame Award from the Alumni Association in 1979.

After lunch, Dr. Robert Bodkin, president of Midway College, will speak on career potentials for women.

Registration for the meeting is $10. Additional information is available by calling MSU's Department of Home Economics at (606) 783-2966.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences will offer a workshop for nurses on their role in adoption from 3:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 20, at Mary Chiles Hospital, Mt. Sterling.

Linda McNabb, MSU clinical instructor of nursing and obstetric unit manager at Mary Chiles Hospital, and George Moore, Mt. Sterling lawyer, will conduct the one-day workshop.

The workshop will provide information on the nurse's role as it relates to counseling, decision making and emotional support for both the biological parents and the adoptive parents, according to Pauline Ramey, coordinator of Nursing and Allied Health Education.

"This program is designed to provide nurses with information on the legal and moral issues surrounding adoption," Ramey said.

Specific topics to be discussed include the law as it regards adoption and the legal and emotional rights of the adopted child.

Registered nurses will receive three contact hours credit from MSU for participating in the workshop, which is approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing. Registered nurses will be asked to furnish their nursing licenses and Social Security numbers in order to receive continuing education credit.

The fee for this workshop is $10. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2632.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University envisions participation in its Kentucky Beginning Teacher Internship Program doubling this year.

"Last year we had 175 interns from our service region participate in the program," said Dr. George Troutt, MSU's coordinator of teacher in-service education.

"With a cap on the number of students allowed per classroom resulting in an increased demand for more teachers, we expect the number of interns to exceed 300 this year," Dr. Troutt added.

According to Bridget Brock of Rowan County, who interned last year, the experience was very rewarding.

"The program was very helpful to me," said Brock, who taught at Morehead Grade School under the supervision of resource teacher Joanne Setser and principal Gary Trent.

"With it being a new program, I didn't know what to expect," she added. "But the observations and evaluations, pointing out my teaching strengths and weaknesses, gave me a chance to make changes," Brock said.

"Throughout the year, interns are in close contact with their peers," said Dr. Troutt. "A resource teacher observes his teaching abilities and confers with him outside the classroom for a total of 50 hours. Observation is also done four times by his principal and a university person.

"The intern is evaluated by each of these persons," continued Dr. Troutt. "The evaluations are very detailed and designed to chart his professional growth."

"My resource teacher helped me a lot," said Brock. "We exchanged information and materials. Being new, I didn't know what questions to ask, or who to ask, but with her being in such close contact, I had someone to call on."

Morehead State University, one of seven regional training centers, is responsible for the new certification program in the 31 school districts in its 22 county service region.

Another MSU intern, Michael Eugene Stanley of Catlettsburg, was invited to make a presentation at the Kentucky Education Association's summer meeting in Louisville regarding his impressions of the internship program.

Under legislation enacted by the Kentucky General Assembly, participation in the one-year internship is required for certification. Now in its second year, the program is designed to assist first-year teachers in becoming more effective classroom teachers. The program also enables experienced teachers and administrators to determine if beginning teachers are capable and suitable to pursue teaching as a career.

"A major impact of the program is the additional year of teacher training that is now required," said Dr. Troutt. "However, it has placed certification of beginning teachers in the hands of the public schools."

Interns are full-time employees of their respective school systems. They are on contract status, receive retirement eligibility and benefits, and the internship year is also counted as teaching experience.

Results of the overall evaluation of MSU's 1986 KBTIP stated that the new program helped build confidence through positive feedback, according to Dr. Troutt.

Dr. Troutt is conducting workshops in the service region during the summer to train additional educators to participate in the internship program. He estimates there will be 4,000 participate in the training by the end of the 86-87 school year. The workshops, funded by the state, are open to participation by principals, resource teachers, superintendents, and the public domain.

SPECIAL TO THE MOREHEAD NEWS

MOREHEAD, Ky.--What better way to learn about being a police officer than to experience the job first-hand?

That's the theory behind the sixth annual Regional Law Enforcement Conference and Competition recently held at Morehead State University.

Co-sponsored by MSU and the Morehead City Police Department, the conference and competition brought more than 110 young men and women from nine Law Enforcement Explorer Posts in Kentucky and Tennessee to MSU to explore careers in law enforcement through presentations, demonstrations and participation as police officers.

Although the guns were actually water pistols and the crimes were simulated, the 10 Morehead participants learned that even training for law enforcement is much more difficult than the average game of cops and robbers.

"We had 10 young men ages 14 to 21 years old sponsored by the Morehead post," said Roger Holbrook, manager of security special services for MSU's Office of Safety and Security. "We simulated five crimes and let each post use its expertise in handling the cases."

Not only did the nine posts have to solve the crime, the members had to use professional methods and handle each situation as if it were real and possibly dangerous.

Holbrook explained: "One of the crimes which we simulated was a felony traffic stop with each post taking turns solving the crime. A University police officer and a city police officer pretended to be armed robbers who had kidnapped a man and stolen his car. The participants had to handle everything from taking the call, to stopping the car, to arresting the robbers."

In addition, each post was judged on its techniques in handling each of the crimes.

Although the main thrust of the conference/competition was learning about careers, participants said they also learned much about themselves and others.

"The explorers is a good program for young people interested in law enforcement because you get a first-hand look at what really goes on in police work," said Brent Jaynes, 20. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jaynes of Morehead.

Now in his fifth year with this conference, Jaynes, a junior at MSU, is chief of the Morehead Explorers Post. Impressed with what he's learned, he hopes to pursue a career in law enforcement.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Appearances by tall timber topper Dennis Butler will highlight the 1986 Kentucky Logging Show scheduled Sept. 20-21 at Morehead State University's Derrickson Agricultural Complex, three miles north of Morehead on Ky. 377.

A native of Oregon, the 26-year-old Butler has been competing professionally for the past six years and holds the Indoor Speed Climbing World Championship, setting a record for climbing 80 feet in 20:47 seconds.

He also holds the Canadian Record, Labatts World Tree Climbing Championship for 100 feet in 28:99 seconds and set another world record of 31:72 seconds for climbing 100 feet up a bark tree which earned him the Timber Carnival World Championship.

Sponsored by the Kentucky Forest Industries Association (KFIA) and MSU, the show spotlights Kentucky's forest products industry.

Displays of the latest in logging equipment and other forest products industry supplies, lumberjack contests, loader and skidder competitions and other exhibits will be featured both days of the show.

Other highlights include a horse pulling contest on Saturday and the Kentucky lumberjack events and mule pulling competition on Sunday. Butler, who will perform both days of the show, will demonstrate several aspects of tall timber topping in addition to speed climbing.

"We view the Kentucky Logging Show not only as a showcase for the forest products industry, but also as a family event, featuring entertainment for all ages," said Harry Ryan, KFIA executive director.

The show is being held concurrently with the Kentucky Harvest and Hardwood Festival which features an arts and crafts fair, a quilt and afghan display, hot air balloon rides, demonstrations of the Kentucky long rifle and a show by the Olympic Archers. Also contests for liars and fiddlers are scheduled as well as musical entertainment.

The festival will be held in downtown Morehead and at the Trademore Center. Plans are being made for shuttle service between the two locations and the Agricultural Complex, according to Ryan.

Admission to the Kentucky Logging Show is $3 for adults and $1 for school age children. The admission covers a full day's activities on the show grounds. Free parking will be available for the show activities.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University is intensifying its efforts to recruit outstanding students in the high schools and two-year colleges of 22 counties in Eastern Kentucky.

MSU President A.D. Albright has announced that, effective this fall, the top two graduates of each of the 47 high schools and four colleges who enroll at MSU will be guaranteed major academic scholarships.

"We are pleased to redirect our attention to our own service region in this effort to attract the best and brightest students to Morehead State University," Dr. Albright said. "We hope to recruit the valedictorian and salutatorian from each school and will be striving to attract as many of the other outstanding students as possible."

The MSU president said the new aid program, to be known as "Regional Honors Scholarships," is being offered in addition to the other academic grants now available at MSU. The top student will receive a renewable scholarship valued at $2,000 yearly and the next student in academic standing will receive a renewable grant worth $1,800 yearly.

The new scholarships are available to graduates in the Class of 1986 and several already have been awarded to students entering MSU this fall as freshmen and transfer students from two-year colleges.

"We have had a measure of success in attracting excellent students from several areas of Kentucky and nearby states but, in the process, we have not been sufficiently aggressive in pursuing Eastern Kentucky students," Dr. Albright added. "We want everyone to know that we are renewing our historical commitment to the people of this region and that we intend to serve them first and foremost."

New Scholarships

Detailed information about the new scholarship program has been sent to high school and two-year college officials throughout the region. Interested persons are invited to contact Tim Rhodes, director of financial aid at MSU, at (606) 783-2011.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Bus transportation to the Field Day at Morehead State University's Mountaintop Agricultural Complex in Martin County will be available to area residents on a first-come, first-served basis.

MSU will conduct its first public Field Day at the complex on Thursday, Aug. 21, beginning with registration at noon followed by tours of the complex.

Program speakers will include Kentucky Secretary of Energy George Evans, MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn and MSU President A.D. Albright.

Buses will depart from the front of Adron Doran University Center at 9 a.m. on Thursday for the complex, located nine miles southeast of Inez. Passengers will need to bring a picnic lunch, according to Robert Wolfe, coordinator of the Mountaintop Project.

The buses will begin the return trip to campus at the close of the program which should be around 4 p.m., Wolfe said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Stuart S. Sprague, Morehead State University professor of history, is the author of a new history of 49 Eastern Kentucky counties from pioneer days to the present.

"Eastern Kentucky: A Pictorial History" is described by Dr. Sprague as a "fresh look at a region that is all too often seen as just a series of stereotypes. The volume is a visual feast with nearly 500 photographs taken primarily between 1884 and 1940 which record the region's rich heritage," the Kentucky historian explained.

Among the highlights are two duotone pages displaying the photographic artistry of Marian Post Wolcott. Although she was in Eastern Kentucky for less than a month in 1940, her human interest photographs are considered classics, Dr. Sprague noted.

Other Breathitt County memories include school scenes from Big Rock and Fugate, a funeral, a Frozen Creek granny and grandchild, a mailman on Morris Fork and the Jackson swinging bridge.

Also featured are views of the old Imperial Hotel, the courthouse, an early photograph of Lees Collegiate Institute and two photographs taken for the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis.

Many of the photographs are either from his own postcard collection or the Clayton collection of circa 1915 candids. Dr. Sprague also gathered additional photographs from the National Archives and Library of Congress in Washington and eight Kentucky repositories.

"Eastern Kentucky" is the second pictorial history compiled by Dr. Sprague. His first, also published by Donning, was "Frankfort: A Pictorial History."

A noted Kentucky and Appalachian scholar, Dr. Sprague has been teaching at MSU since 1968. Receiving both his B.A. and M.A.T. degrees from Yale University, he earned his doctorate from New York University.

Information on how to obtain copies of "Eastern Kentucky" is available by writing the author, UPO 846, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351.

Among the book's highlights are a sketch of Ashland's Aldine Hotel done by a Civil War soldier and a postcard print of the Boyd County courthouse.

"One can gain a better appreciation of the historical base for Boyd County's economy through some of these photographs," said Dr. Sprague. His book provides glimpses of the steamboats on the Big Sandy and Ohio Rivers as well as the railroads bringing coal and iron to Boyd County, which created a transportation network supporting Catlettsburg's timber trade and Ashland's iron industry.

Many of the photographs are either from his own postcard collection or the Clayton collection of circa 1915 candid. Dr. Sprague also gathered additional photographs from the National Archives and Library of Congress in Washington and eight Kentucky repositories.

"Eastern Kentucky" is the second pictorial history compiled by Dr. Sprague. His first, also published by Donning, was "Frankfort: A Pictorial History."

A noted Kentucky and Appalachian scholar, Dr. Sprague has been teaching at MSU since 1968. Receiving both his B.A. and M.A.T. degrees from Yale University, he earned his doctorate from New York University.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Stuart S. Sprague, Morehead State University professor of history, is the author of a new history of 49 Eastern Kentucky counties from pioneer days to the present.

"Eastern Kentucky: A Pictorial History" is described by Dr. Sprague as a "fresh look at a region that is all too often seen as just a series of stereotypes. The volume is a visual feast with nearly 500 photographs taken primarily between 1884 and 1940 which record the region's rich heritage," the Kentucky historian explained.

A double-page spread of the screening and loading incline at the iron mines around 1884, a 1930s photograph of improvements to the courthouse, an oil well in the Ragland field and a view of the springs are among the book's highlights.

Many of the photographs are either from his own postcard collection or the Clayton collection of circa 1915 candid. Dr. Sprague also gathered additional photographs from the National Archives and Library of Congress in Washington and eight Kentucky repositories.

The earliest known panoramic view of Morehead taken in the 1890's and a 1906 bird's eye-view of the community are two of numerous Rowan County photographs featured in the volume published by Donning Publishing Co., Norfolk, Va.

Among the many other photographs are the Morehead and North Fork Railroad, Railroad Street in 1887, the old courthouse with bell tower, moonlight schools, the World War I monument--with bayonet, an aerial view of MSU's campus about 1970, and Adron Doran with hog rifle.

Also included are some outstanding Marion Post Wolcott photographs from 1940--Clark School 5, Poplar Grove Baptist Church and a baptism, according to Dr. Sprague.

Many of the photographs are either from his own postcard collection or the Clayton collection of circa 1915 candids. Dr. Sprague also gathered additional photographs from the National Archives and Library of Congress in Washington and eight Kentucky repositories.

A "bird's eye" view photograph of Olive Hill--one of the earliest known--taken just a few years after the railroad reached the town and a postcard view of Grayson's 1898 High School are among the many Carter County highlights.

The volume also features an 1875 map of the Tygart Valley Iron Company's land in Olive Hill, a photograph of an 11-foot thick fire brick clay bed and a postcard depicting the General Refractory Company's brickworks.

Among the visual highlights of Grayson are photographs of the Bagley Memorial Methodist Church and a view of the Courthouse just after completion in 1907.

Other photographs from Carter County's past include the Mount Savage Furnace, Hitchins School around 1930 and 1884 shots of Olive Hill and the clay mines.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--If you listen to one of Lexington's leading rock stations, you may be listening to an MSU graduate.

If you're interested in buying advertising time on that station, you may be talking to an MSU alumnus.

If you're concerned with station policy, you may discuss this subject also an MSU graduate, Keith Yarber, WKQQ's general manager.

Morehead State University graduates top the personnel list at WKQQ FM 98 in Lexington. From the general manager to the on-the-air personalities, six of the 31 employees of WKQQ are alumni of MSU.

"We're proud of the MSU grads who work for our station," said Yarber, a 1979 graduate from Mt. Sterling. "They've had the hands-on experience it takes to move in and assume a responsible position."

Yarber, a vice president with Village Communications which owns WKQQ, wanted to manage a radio station ever since he was in college. While a graduate assistant in production at WMKY FM 90, Morehead's on-campus public radio station, he received the background necessary to complete his goal. Today he is responsible for WKQQ's budget, personnel and ratings.

"The training skills I received in communications at Morehead has helped me advance to my present position," said regional account manager Tim Wagner, a 1978 graduate from Independence. "At MSU, I learned to write--as well as produce--radio commercials which has helped me better serve advertising agencies buying time on our station."

A former admissions counselor at MSU, Wagner is an experienced traveler. Today his sales territory includes Louisville, Nashville, Columbus and Indianapolis in addition to Lexington-based businesses.

Local account manager Joe Martin credits MSU's "personalized education" for helping him find a job in the competitive market of public broadcasting. "My professors were concerned about me," said the 1984 graduate from Northville, Mich. "When I saw an instructor, he remembered my name; that's an added advantage."

Creating new ideas is one responsibility of Larry Hall, also a local account manager. A former disc jockey at MSU, he originates new production themes for his clients.

"The communications program at MSU is outstanding," said Hall, a 1984 graduate from Cynthiana. "I had an opportunity to obtain on-the-job training which isn't available at very many colleges. Knowing what's possible on the production end is a great asset in sales."

"At MSU, you design yourself to succeed or fail," Hall continued. "The equipment and leadership are there; you just have to apply yourself."

Familiar to WKQQ listeners are the voices of disc jockeys Jeff Tilford and Keith Krey. Tilford spins the records from 7 p.m. to midnight weekdays, while Krey is the weekend announcer.

Known as "Tony" on the air, Tilford wants the audience to recognize him as a personality. "I enjoy my work," the 1985 graduate from Newport said. "I want my audience to identify with me.

"I feel I gained some valuable experience while in college," he continued. "I was a member of the sports staff at WMKY for three years and also hosted "Audio Visions," playing rock music from 10 p.m. to midnight. WMKY's staff members included myself, Krey, Martin and Hall during that time."

"MSU's hands-on experience is tops in Kentucky," said Krey, a 1984 graduate from Burlington. "The training I received at WMKY allowed me to get a job shortly after graduation." He worked in sales for WCLU in Alexandria and WNOP in Newport before joining "QQ."

I'm a music trivia buff," he said. "I like to include information about the records and the artists when I talk about the music I play."

Six different personalities; six different objectives. Yet they have similar goals, to advance to bigger markets. They all agree on the importance of their former training at MSU.

"If you wanted to know how to do something, at MSU all you had to do was ask," said Hall.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University, in cooperation with the Kentucky Council on Higher Education and Kentucky Educational Television (KET), will offer seven college courses on television during the fall semester.

"The telecourses include televised educational programs and printed materials to enable students to study at their own pace," said George Eyster, director of MSU's extended campus programs.

Each of the courses are worth three credit hours. Mail-in registration is now under way and will continue through Aug. 26. Undergraduate tuition is $129, and graduate tuition is $189 per telecourse.

This fall, MSU will add three new courses in its telecourse schedule: The Africans, SOC 399; The Middle School, EDUC 599; and The Earth Explored, GEOS 107.

With nine television programs in the 13-week course, The Africans explores the history and contemporary life of Africa through its triple heritage: native, Islamic contributions and Western influences.

This course, which is offered through the Department of Sociology, examines Africa from the inside looking out with a series of on-location footage, Eyster said.

The Middle School, a graduate-level telecourse, deals with developing teaching strategies for middle school students. The course focuses on the nature of the students in terms of their physical, social and intellectual uniqueness.

A second new undergraduate course, The Earth Explored, is an international field trip in physical geology. Beginning with a historical look at the Earth, the course takes students from the top of the Alps to the bottom of Death Valley examining specific natural resources.

Additional undergraduate courses repeated this fall are:

The Business File, MNGT 160, studies the complex functions of business focusing on detailed internal and external operations which affect both large and small businesses. Including interviews with professional business leaders in various locations of the country, the telecourse will also feature mini-documentaries, computer graphics and close-up looks at successful businesses in operation.

____ _Covering major areas in the field of psychology, Understanding Human Behavior, PSY 154, explores methods of gathering psychological data, and the social, behavioral and biological perspectives of human thought and behavior.

Progressing from the simple chart account to complex financial statements, Principles of Accounting, ACCT 281, is an introductory course covering the theory and principles of accounting while explaining the processes and language for actual business situations.

DATA 201, The New Literacy, an up-to-date survey of electronic data processing, prepares students to understand and use computers in both their personal and professional lives. This telecourse examines computer hardware and software systems, developments for further advancements and a comprehensive overview of the computer.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will implement a new student I.D. card process this fall.

During registration for the fall semester, each Morehead State student will receive a new photo identification card which will be used until the student graduates, according to Myron Doan, assistant to the vice president for Student Development.

After the student pays his fees for the semester, he will be issued a sticker which validates his card. Stickers will be color-coded by semester, according to Doan.

Along with identification information such as birthdate, classification and Social Security number on the card, the sticker will also list the student's current address.

"Similar processes are used at several other universities," Doan said. "With a permanent I.D. card, students won't be inconvenienced by waiting in line at registration every semester to have a new card made."

I.D. cards will be made during on-campus registration Aug. 25-26. Students, faculty and staff also may have I.D.'s made at the Office of Student Development on the second floor of Howell-McDowell Administration Building weekdays after classes begin Wednesday, Aug. 27.

"Businesses, which offer student discounts requiring proof of identification, should look for the blue sticker which indicates the student is enrolled at MSU this fall," Doan said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will conduct registration for the fall semester Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 25-26, from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days. Part-time students may register between 5 and 6 p.m.

Undergraduate students who did not pre-register will need their trial schedules approved by their academic advisers before entering the registration area, according to MSU Registrar Gene Ranvier.

The process will begin in Wetherby Gymnasium and students will register by an alphabetical system based on their last name. Schedule adjustments for students who pre-registered also will be processed at this time.

Registration for MSU's off-campus classes will be conducted Monday, Aug. 25, from 5-7 p.m. at the six regional centers: Ashland, Jackson, Maysville, Pikeville, Prestonsburg and Whitesburg. Additional information and registration forms may be obtained by calling MSU's Office of Extended Campus Programs toll-free 1-800-262-2044. Registration forms must be postmarked by Aug. 26. Off-campus classes will begin Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Additional information about admission to MSU for the fall semester is available by calling toll-free 1-800-262-7474 in Kentucky or 1-800-354-2090 out-of-state.

Aug. 18, 1986

MOREHEAD, Ky.--More than $4,000 in prize money will be on the line for participants in the 1986 Kentucky Logging Show's lumberjack competition.

The show, co-sponsored by the Kentucky Forest Industries Association (KFIA) and Morehead State University, will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 20-21, at MSU's Derrickson Agricultural Complex, three miles north of Morehead on Ky. 377.

Lumberjack events range from axe throwing and horizontal chop to modified and stock chainsaw. Men, women and "Jack and Jill" teams will compete for prizes and bragging rights with cash awards going to the top three finishers in each event.

The show will include both open competition on Sept. 20 and the Kentucky Lumberjack competition on Sept. 21. Two overall champions--a Kentucky and Open--will be crowned based on total points earned during the individual events.

The reigning Kentucky Champion is Billy Joe Kerr, a Campbellsville dairy farmer, who has held the title for two consecutive years. The 1985 Open Champion is West Virginian Bill Cogar.

There will be a $4 entry fee for each event. Additional information on the contests may be obtained from Chauncey Lohr, Kentucky Division of Forestry, 627 Comanche Trail, Frankfort, KY 40601. Telephone: 502-564-4496.

The show also will include a skidder and knuckle boom loader contest, horse and mule pulls and displays of modern logging equipment. Also featured will be demonstrations by tall timber topper Dennis Butler of Grants Pass, Ore., holder of several world speed climbing records.

The show is being held concurrently with the Kentucky Harvest and Hardwood Festival which will feature an arts and crafts fair, fiddler, and liar contests and a demonstration of the Kentucky long rifle.

The festival location will be downtown Morehead and at Trademore Center. Shuttle service between the festival sites and the Logging Show is planned.

Admission to the Kentucky Logging Show is $3 for adults and $1 for school age children and includes a full day's activities. Free parking will be available for show events.

The Kentucky Logging Show is designed to spotlight the state's forest products industry and its importance to Kentucky and the United States, according to Harry Ryan, KFIA executive director.

"But, it's actually more than that. It's an event for the whole family, with something for everybody," he added.

Fact Sheet

Public Information • Morehead State University • UPO Box 1100 • Morehead, KY 40351 • 606-783-2030

--The Martiki-Morehead State University Mountaintop Agricultural Complex is a national model surface-mined land reclamation project on one site of the largest single ongoing surface mining operation in Appalachia.

--Located off Wolf Creek in Martin County, nine miles southeast of Inez, the project was launched in August 1982 as a joint venture of MSU, the Martiki Coal Corp., and the Pocahontas Development Corp., a subsidiary of Norfolk Southern Corp.

--Over a 15-year period, 4,000 acres of surface-mined mountaintop land will be reclaimed for agricultural uses, increasing the level land available for development.

--MSU officials expect to reclaim approximately 200 acres annually.

--Currently the project includes approximately 350 acres in various grasses, animal facilities and other support buildings as well as a water storage tank and irrigation system.

--Approximately 150 acres of pasture land is covered in fescue, orchard grass, timothy, alfalfa and various clovers.

--With enriched soil producing surplus forage, 50 head of beef cattle have been added as the start of the project's cattle operation.

--Primarily designed for large-scale agriculture production, the complex also includes research plots for testing the adaptability of various strains of grasses and clovers.

--Small garden plots have been started, yielding tomatoes, cabbage, broccoli and other vegetables.

--A 240-sow farrowing to finishing operation currently is producing 5,000 market hogs annually at an average weight of 220 lbs. each.

--The swine operation also produces 16 tons of manure daily which is used to restore top soil, adding valuable nutrients, organic matter and humus.

--The poultry facility, a high-rise laying house for 81,216 birds, which began operation last year, not only yields eggs for market, but also 11 tons of fertilizer daily to be used to enrich the land.

--MSU agriculture specialists estimate the swine and poultry facilities will provide more than $250,000 worth of fertilizer annually which can be used to enrich the land.

--Plans call for eventual development of sheep facilities and cultivation of row crops, orchard crops, greenhouse flowers and vegetables and forest areas for commercial wood products as well as wildlife.

--In addition to agriculture specialists, the project involves MSU faculty and student resources in mining, reclamation and energy studies.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Some of our greatest days are ahead," Morehead State University President A.D. Albright told faculty and staff members at the annual assembly signaling the start of a new academic year.

"I hope you are as excited and encouraged about the opportunities as I am," he said, recalling his recent visits to MSU's 22 service area counties.

"It is the expectation of the people of Eastern Kentucky that Morehead State as a regional University must dedicate itself to the people, problems and prospects of this region," Dr. Albright said, reminding his audience that MSU was the "University of the mountains."

He told the crowd in Button Auditorium Friday (Aug. 22) that he had logged in 2,200 miles to find out how people felt about MSU, to raise their level of confidence in what it can do and--in the face of declining enrollments--to get more people acquainted with its programs.

Praising the faculty for going "extra lengths in the past," he told them that the emergence of the nontraditional student "calls upon us to be ingenious in extending the University to meet their needs."

Noting earlier that his remarks would center on "what's out there" and "what's in here," Dr. Albright said that MSU's faculty represented 34 states and degrees from 154 different American universities and two foreign countries with a record "heavily emphasizing teaching.

"There's a general feeling among our former students out there that they received a good education and "I wish I could translate the depth of affection they have for you and this University," he said.

He challenged the crowd of approximately 400 employees to rededicate themselves to the serving the region by identifying its problems, extending its programs and increasing its research services.

He called for a strengthening of existing undergraduate programs as well as initiating new ones. "We need to continue innovative ways of doing what we do well even better," he said.

Urging application of University research to the quality of life in Eastern Kentucky, he noted that Office of University Regional Development Services had been established to assist the region in four areas: economic, community development, educational development and preservation of the region's cultural heritage.

"We need to feel pride in our own accomplishments and pride in each other's achievements," he said, calling for "institutional self-esteem."

As he closed his "State of the University" address, Dr. Albright called for cooperation among individual faculty members, departments and colleges. "If there is an openness within an institution, we can solve our problems together. If we do these things, we can have greater professional pride than ever."

Prior to Dr. Albright's address, new faculty and staff members were introduced to their colleagues. The day began with a "Welcome Back" continental breakfast hosted by Camden-Carroll Library staff.

The bulk of the afternoon was in meetings on the college and division, department and office levels and rounding out the day was a cookout on campus hosted by President and Mrs. Albright.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Morehead State University wants to put its admissions office on wheels.

In fact, MSU is in the market for a travel trailer, bus or recreational vehicle which could be converted to a mobile admissions unit for visits to fairs, festivals and other public events.

"We obviously would prefer to receive such a vehicle as a gift but a purchase at a reasonable price certainly would be considered," said Keith Kappes, MSU's director of university relations.

He added that plans call for the vehicle to be refurbished to create interior space and facilities to accommodate promotional displays and staff members who would provide information on admissions, financial aid, housing and other aspects of MSU.

"Friends of the University have offered to assist us in getting such a vehicle on the road this fall as another part of our effort to be more aggressive in student recruitment," Kappes stated.

Persons interested in the project are invited to contact him at 606/783-2031.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Kool Ray and the Polaroidz will perform in concert with the Fabulous Thunderbirds at Morehead State University's Academic-Athletic Center Thursday, Sept. 4, at 8 p.m.

Tickets for the concert, sponsored by MSU's Student Government Association, will be $3 for MSU students with valid I.D. cards and $5 for the general public. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the SGA Office, located on the second floor of Adron Doran University Center, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. They also will be sold at the door the evening of the performance. Additional ticket information may be obtained by calling (606) 783-2298.

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz is perhaps best known for its hit single "Diane" and the accompanying video. This past year, the musical group has performed at Collegiate Ski Week and headlined the "20 Year Anniversary of Spring Break" at the Safari in Daytona Beach, Fla.

The group also was one of 15 national bands to be chosen to appear on the American Rock Network. Kool Ray's arrangement of "Diane" received honorable mention at the "45 of the Month" in the April issue of Music Row Magazine.

Based in Austin, Texas, the Fabulous Thunderbirds is climbing the music charts with the album "Tuff Enuff," which features "Down at Antoine's" and "Wrap It Up."

Acclaimed by music critics as one of the nation's leading blues groups, the T-Birds recorded "Stagger Lee" for the soundtrack of Porcky's Revenge and toured with the Rolling Stones as well as backing Carlos Santana on his "Havana Moon" single.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Horse and mule pull competitions will be among the many attractions scheduled during the 1986 Kentucky Logging Show to be held in Morehead on Sept. 20-21.

Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Forest Product Industries Association (KFIA) and Morehead State University, the show will take place at MSU's Derrickson Agricultural Complex, three miles north of Morehead on Ky. 377.

Competitors will vie for more than $2,000 in prize money with light weight horse and mule divisions set for Saturday and the heavy weight events on Sunday. The contests are sanctioned by the Blue Grass Horse Pulling Association.

Weigh-in will be at 11 a.m. at the show grounds with competition slated for 3 p.m. both days. Additional information on the events and the registration process is available from David Feldham, chairman, by calling (606) 792-2561 or (606) 792-2764.

The Logging Show also will include a skidder and knuckle boom loader competition, lumberjack events, entertainment, tall timber topping demonstrations and displays of the latest in logging equipment.

"The show is designed to spotlight the state's forest product industries, but it is truly more than that," said Harry Ryan, KFIA executive director. "We plan the show as a family-oriented event with something for all ages," he added.

"Morehead's Kentucky Harvest and Hardwood Festival is scheduled the same weekend and includes a variety of events that tie right in with the Logging Show," Ryan noted.

Admission to the Logging Show will be $3 for adults and $1 for school age children. This includes a full day's activities. Free parking for show events also will be available.

MSU MOUNTAINTOP AGRICULTURAL COMPLEX FIELD DAY: A Picture Story.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The miracle on a mountaintop in Martin County.

That might describe the feeling of the nearly 150 persons who toured Morehead State University's Mountaintop Agricultural Complex during a recent Field Day.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn, chairman of MSU's Board of Regents, told the crowd: "I lift mine eyes unto these hills once again from which cometh my help because I recognize the important and significant role which MSU plays in the development of this great area of Kentucky."

Gov. Nunn was describing the surface-mined land reclamation of the Complex, a joint enterprise of Martiki Coal Corporation, Pocahontas Development Corporation and Morehead State University's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources. It is located nine miles southeast of Inez off Wolf Creek in Martin County.

"You can see what happens when private enterprise joins education," Gov. Nunn continued. "It's this type of cooperation that will get the job done and make life better for all of us."

Congressman Chris Perkins agreed that this type of project could provide additional jobs for the people in eastern Kentucky and supplement the coal economy of the area.

"Where we stand was once abundant with the energy of coal and now it is covered with the grasses and energy of agriculture," said George Evans, Kentucky secretary of energy.

Field Day

The Complex is 15-year experiment in reclaiming more than 4,000 acres of land for agricultural uses. After only three years, it comprises 350 acres in various grasses, animal facilities, support facilities and water storage for irrigation purposes. The facility currently includes a 240 sow farrowing to finishing operation which produces 5,000 market hogs annually and 16 tons of manure daily which is used to restore the top soil. A poultry facility for approximately 82,000 birds began operation last year and yields eggs for market plus additional fertilizer to enrich the land.

With the soil enrichment, 150 acres of pastureland have been reclaimed, making it possible to add 50 head of beef cattle to start the project's cattle operation. In addition to the present livestock and facilities, plans call for the addition of sheep as well as row crops, orchard crops, greenhouses, vegetables and forests for commercial use and wood products as well as wildlife in the coming years.

"MSU is the university of the mountains," said MSU President A.D. Albright. "We can and will serve as an economic force for jobs and growth in eastern Kentucky," he added.

"It's amazing," one visitor commented, "to see this change from a useless wasteland to an agricultural wonderland."

The project is considered a tribute to industry and education, to Martiki, Pocahontas and Morehead State University as well as a model for the nation and an achievement for eastern Kentucky.

Among those attending were several representatives of the Martiki Coal Corporation and Pocahontas Development Corporation.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Larry Jones, provost and vice president for academic affairs at Bloomsburg (Pa.) University, has been named dean of the College of Professional Studies at Morehead State University.

Announcement of his appointment, effective Oct. 1, was made by Dr. Roberta Anderson, MSU vice president for academic affairs.

"Dr. Jones has 15 years of experience in higher education from the classroom to administration. He has a proven track record as an administrator and we are pleased to have him join Morehead State's family," Dr. Anderson said.

"I publically commend the search committee members who worked so diligently to find such an outstanding administrator. I also want to extend special thanks to Dr. Barbara Russell for her service during the past year as acting dean," Dr. Anderson added.

"I look forward to working with the faculty at Morehead State as together we develop new directions for the College of Professional Studies and strengthen existing programs," said Dr. Jones.

The new dean also served as interim and acting president at Bloomsburg. Prior to joining the staff there in 1981, he was academic vice president and dean of the faculty at Eastern Montana, where he was founding dean of the School of Business and Economics. He also held various administrative and teaching posts at Moorhead (Minn.) State University.

As a former American Council on Education Fellow in Academic Administration, he served as assistant to the president of Oregon State University. He also has been a Bush Leadership Foundation Fellow and a Mott Foundation Fellow.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Kentucky Council on Higher Education will meet at Morehead State University Wednesday and Thursday (Sept. 3-4), beginning with a public forum at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

The forum is designed to allow Council members to hear from the university community and the public-at-large on higher education issues of a statewide nature.

Those who wish to speak at the forum need only appear at the meeting and sign the speaker's register.

As coordinating agency for higher education, the Council makes budget and capital construction recommendations, sets tuition rates, establishes minimum admission standards, develops statewide plans for higher education, approves requests for new academic programs and reviews all existing academic programs.

The Council is most interested in hearing comments on these and related issues, according to Council Chairman Burns E. Mercer. "Of particular interest," he said, "is the public's reaction to the Council's recently completed Strategic Plan for Higher Education and suggestions for its implementation."

While at MSU, the full Council also will meet at 9 a.m. Thursday at ADUC. Also scheduled are meetings of its Finance and Program Committees on Sept. 3 and the Ad Hoc Committee on Centers of Excellence and Endowed Chairs will meet on Sept. 4. All meetings are open to the public.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Pulitzer prize-winning journalist Harrison Salisbury will open the 1986-87 Concert and Lecture Series of Arts in Morehead (AIM) at 10:20 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17, in Button Auditorium at Morehead State University.

Salisbury's lecture is one of 10 outstanding programs in this year's series which also includes a concert pianist and a special pre-Christmas program for the whole family, according to Dr. Glenn C. Rogers, series committee chairman.

Salisbury has been designated as the 1986 William Exelbirt Distinguished Lecturer, a continuing lectureship funded by the MSU Foundation.

The 1986-87 series also will include:

Oct. 8, Phyllis Frelich, founding member of the National Theatre for the Deaf and a Tony Award winning actress, 10:20 a.m., Button Auditorium.

Oct. 20, Ann Schein, concert pianist and member of the University of Maryland keyboard faculty, 7:30 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Nov. 12, The Orpheus Chamber Orchestra, an American ensemble which has achieved critical acclaim on three continents, 7:30 p.m. Duncan Recital Hall.

Dec. 4, Cincinnati Opera Ensemble Company in "Hansel and Gretel" with the Rowan County High School Chorus, 7 p.m., Button Auditorium.

Feb. 9, Ridge String Quartet, which has performed in 43 major American cities and is considered "one of the most exciting" new ensembles in years, 7:30 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Feb. 19, Al Smith, editor of the London Sentinel-Echo, discussing recent developments in education in Kentucky, 10:20 a.m., Button Auditorium.

March 3, Austin on Tap, an exploration of rhythm and movement in classical, modern and contemporary dance, 7:30 p.m., Button Auditorium.

TBA, Anthony Zerbe, Shakesperean, film and TV actor, presenting "A Dramatic Evening with e.e. cummings."

April 1, Sister and Miss Lexie, a tribute to Eudora Welty featuring Brenda Currin, 7:30 p.m., Button Auditorium.

"We think this is truly an exciting season," Dr. Rogers said. "We feel especially fortunate to be able to bring the Cincinnati Opera Ensemble Company here with the children's operatic classic 'Hansel and Gretel.' And we are delighted to welcome Kentucky's own Al Smith to the series as well as welcome back Ann Schein to our stage," he added.

Season tickets are available for all 10 events at $25 for individual and $40 for a family. "This is really a bargain as season memberships represent a savings of nearly 50 percent over single admissions," said Elizabeth Paxon, AIM's performing arts chairman.

"Of course, for those who want to encourage bringing programming of this caliber to the region in the future, there are supporting membership categories in which a portion of the contribution is tax deductible," Paxon added. These are: Contributor, $50; Patron $75, and Benefactor, $125.

Additional information on tickets may be obtained by calling Rogers at (606) 783-2788. Brochures on the season are available by writing AIM, P.O. Box 250, Morehead, KY 40351.

AIM is a cooperative effort of Morehead State University and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council Inc. The appearance of the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra has been made possible in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts Federation of which the Kentucky Arts Council is a member.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will offer four additional courses this fall at Prestonsburg Community College, launching an effort to meet the demand for upper division level courses.

The classes will begin the week of Sept. 8 and students may register in the Pike Technology Building Auditorium at 6 p.m. on the first night of the class.

The new additions are:

ACCT 575, Controllershship, Monday nights

FIN 360, Business Finance, Tuesday nights

GOVT 290, Introduction to Paralegalism, Thursday nights

EDEL 228, Literature and Materials for Children, Thursday nights

Additional information on these courses and the registration process may be obtained by calling James Ratcliff, coordinator, (606) 886-3863.

In addition to the MSU classes, PCC will offer six undergraduate evening courses which will fulfill requirements toward MSU's four-year degree in nursing.

They are: Introduction to Literature, Applied Mathematics, Introduction to Music, Food and Nutrition for Man, Introduction to Art, and Developmental Psychology.

Registration for these classes also has been extended and will be conducted at 6 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8, in Johnson Administration Building Room 129, according to Robert Allen, associate director of PCC.

Also from 1 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 10, Betty Porter, chair of MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences, will meet with students interested in MSU's B.S.N. degree program and evaluate transcripts in the Pike Technology Building Auditorium. She will be accompanied by Elizabeth Tapp, assistant professor.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences will offer a workshop for nurses on caring for patients with cardiovascular disease from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 18, at MSU's Adron Doran University Center.

Sheryl Glasscock, director of Nursing Critical Care Service at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington, and Elizabeth Bryan, clinical practice coordinator, will conduct the workshop which will provide information on heart sounds, principles of hemodynamics, pacemaker utilization and congestive heart failure, according to Pauline Ramey, coordinator of Nursing and Allied Health Education.

"This session will include a lecture, audio-visual aids and several group activities," Ramey said.

Specific topics to be discussed include normal and abnormal heart sounds, and the differences between right and left heart failure.

Nurses will receive seven contact hours credit from MSU for participating in the workshop, which is approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing. Nurses will be asked to furnish their nursing license and Social Security numbers in order to receive continuing education credit.

The fee for the workshop is $42 which includes refreshments on arrival, two breaks and handouts. Additional information is available by calling (506) 783-2635 or 783-2632.
