MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University staff member was elected president of the Kentucky Association of Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors at its recent fall conference.

Madonna Huffman, director of residence education, will serve a two-year term, beginning immediately.

Huffman holds three degrees from MSU, a bachelors and two masters. She began working as a full-time staff member in 1972 as associate director of student housing. She assumed her present position in 1985.

The Kentucky Association of Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors is a professional organization of women in higher education which focuses on networking in public and private institutions. Its activities are geared to current trends in administration and professional development.

The Association holds a yearly meeting with the executive committee meeting biannually. MSU will host the group's meeting next spring, according to Huffman.

Another MSU staff member, Dallas Sammons, residence hall director, is currently serving as secretary for the Association.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--For the fifth consecutive year, Morehead State University will offer study programs in England through the Cooperative Center for Study in Britain (CCSB).

Opportunities exist for both undergraduate and graduate students to earn university credit in a wide variety of courses, which can be taken at three different times of the year; Christmas, Summer Session I, and Summer Session II.

The purpose of the CCSB is to give students the experience of studying and traveling in a foreign country. The Christmas program is based in London; Summer Session I participants stay with families in parts of England and Scotland, and Summer Session II participants are based at King's College in London with frequent field experiences into nearby areas.

MSU faculty offering courses this year are Dr. Kent Freeland (Education); Dr. Vic Ramey (Education); Mrs. Pauline Ramey (Health Care/Nursing); Dr. Everett Campbell (Business); Dr. Jack Bizzel (Government); and Dr. Ray Bernardi (Business).

Additional information is available from Dr. Roger Jones at (606) 783-2763 or Mrs. Pauline Ramey at (606) 783-2635.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
November 3, 1986

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Morehead State University's Department of Music and the MSU Marching Percussion will host "A Day of Marching Percussion," on Saturday, Nov. 15.

The event is a festival competition for high school marching percussion sections, according to Frank Oddis, MSU assistant professor of music.

High schools from Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina will participate in the event, which is in its fourth year.

The directors of the clinic sessions will be Tom Float of the international champion Blue Devils Drum and Bugle Corps, Mike Bach, an MSU alumnus and head of percussion instruction with the Spirit of Atlanta Drum and Bugle Corp, and Rodney Goodhart, percussion caption head for Drum Corps International Adjudicators.

In past years, the event has brought more than 500 high school students to the MSU campus, said Oddis.

Additional information is available by calling (606)783-2487.

MSU FUN HORSE SHOW: A Picture Story

Staff members of Morehead State University's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources sponsored a Western Fun Horse Show Sunday, Nov. 2, to benefit the department's Horsemanship Program. A number of events were available to the competitors, including costume classes for children and adults. Another fun show to benefit Rowan County foster children is being planned for Dec. 14 and will have a Christmas theme.

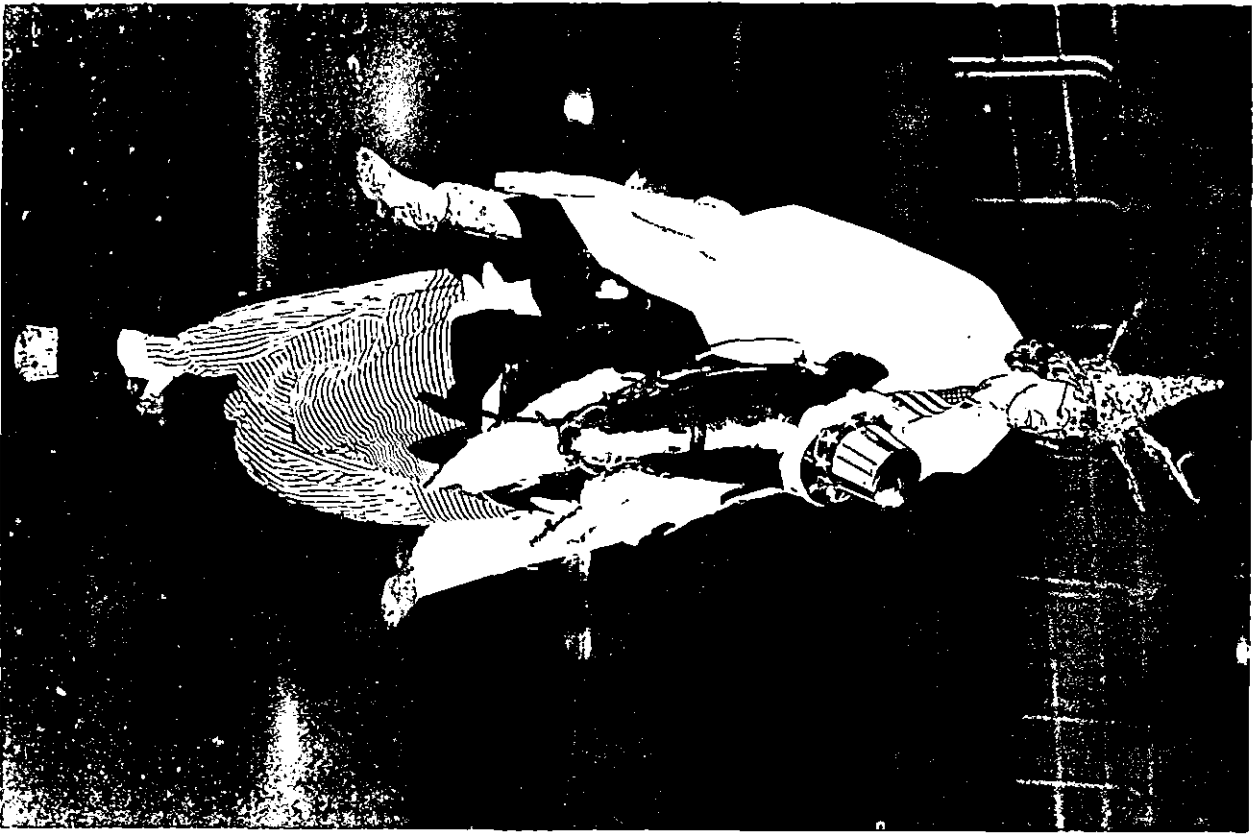

Cutlines:

- 1--Among those watching the equestrian events were, from left, Homer Bowen of Haldeman, his grandson Scotty, and his daughter-in-law Frances Bowen.
- 2--Telina Perkins of Morehead begins the rub down process on her horse, knowing that a little TLC between horse and rider is a winning combination.
- 3--Darrell Fraley of Morehead, one of the show's organizers, shows off his horse's speed and form in a fun version of a flag race.
- 4--Lynn Tapp of Versailles and her steed got into the spirit of the Halloween theme for the fun show with patriotic theme costumes.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Arts in Morehead (AIM) will present the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall.

Admission will be by season membership or by general admission tickets available at the door at $5 for adults and $3 for youth age 18 or younger. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

The New York-based ensemble rehearses and performs without a conductor, which serves to maintain a "spontaneous yet unified expression of energy and community," according to Julian Fifer, cellist and founder of the orchestra.

Formed in 1972, Orpheus is recognized for the scope of its repertoire which ranges from the classical and baroque composers to Bartok and Schoenberg.

Highlights of the orchestra's recent seasons include performances at Washington D.C.'s Kennedy Center, New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, Carnegie Hall, and major universities across the nation. Orpheus has toured Europe each year since 1979 and has toured South America twice.

Reviewing a recent performance by the ensemble, a Miami (Fla.) Herald critic noted that the members "seemed to communicate by telepathy, so unified were they in shaping the music."

AIM is a joint effort of MSU and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The California-based musical group Berlin will perform in concert with opening act, The Rainmakers, at Morehead State University's Academic-Athletic Center Saturday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m.

Tickets for the concert, sponsored by MSU's Student Government Association, will be $4 for MSU students with valid I.D. cards and $8 for the general public.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the SGA Office, located on the second floor of the Adron Doran University Center, from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, or at The Music Machine at Trademore Shopping Center. They also will be sold at the door the evening of the performance.

Berlin is perhaps best known for such hit singles as "The Metro," and "Masquerade," as well as its most recent "Top 40" hit, "You Take My Breath Away." The group recently completed a tour in Europe.

A video of The Rainmakers' single "Let My People Go Go" has appeared frequently on MTV. The song is now on the "Top 40" chart.

Additional information on the concert may be obtained by calling (606)783-2298.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--With the holiday gift-giving season just around the corner, the Morehead State University Foundation's Charity Auction could be the place to shop.

The auction is scheduled for 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15, in Adron Doran University Center, following the MSU Eagles football game against Youngstown State.

More than 200 items ranging from original paintings, pottery and other art to antiques, crafts and new merchandise will be sold with proceeds going to the Foundation earmarked for the Noal F. Oney Memorial Scholarship Fund.

"Area artists, businesses and other individuals have been most generous in contributing articles to be sold," said William H. Redwine, MSU's director of development.

"Those attending the auction may find it to be a perfect way to shop for that hard to find gift for someone special," said Redwine. "They could be helping students further their education while solving their gift-giving dilemma," he added.

The auction, co-sponsored by MSU's Department of Communications, also will feature musical entertainment by the Morehead Piano Trio and refreshments during the viewing period from 5 to 5:30 p.m. Steve Lewis of Morehead will be the auctioneer.

The Oney Memorial Scholarship Fund was established by friends and family of the 1964 graduate who died last year in California. Oney, the son of the late Ernest and Eva Oney of Soldier, was a speech and theatre major.

The scholarship funds are earmarked for either undergraduate or graduate theatre majors, speech and theatre majors or students minoring in theatre.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Master Chief Musician Gary Elliott is director and drummer of the Commodores, the U.S. Navy's premier jazz ensemble slated to perform at Morehead State University Monday, Nov. 24 at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium.

The 18-piece band's versatility will be displayed in a combination of jazz and popular music, offering a mixture of styles ranging from blues to contemporary rock. "Shifting gears is a challenge," says Elliott. "We've found that the variety of our music helps us attract diverse audiences."

No stranger to music, Elliott performed with a philharmonic and jazz ensemble while in college at Indiana University and has performed with numerous dance bands. In the Navy, Elliott was a member of the Marimba Band and Commander's Trio specialty units. He also served as division officer and a percussionist with the Navy Concert Band.

Based in Washington D.C., the Commodores is a specialty unit of the United States Navy Band. The group was formed in 1969 and has toured the United States and abroad. "we've built a loyal following," says Elliott. "Many people who first come to our concerts are surprised to hear music quite different than what they expect from a military band."

For each concert, the instrumentalists and audio technician move their own gear and set up the sound equipment. The audio man is in charge of volume levels and the control board during the performance. Several of the members play more than one instrument during concerts.

In addition to performing, the ensemble often conducts jazz clinics with high school and college music departments. "The clinics give us the opportunity to offer playing tips to students and help the band directors work with individuals," says Elliott. "It's important for us to share our expertise with others."

The Commodores' appearance at MSU is sponsored by MSU's Department of Music. The concert is free and open to the public.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two candidates for the presidency of Morehead State University are visiting the campus this week for meetings with students, faculty, staff and the general public, it was announced today by Louie B. Nunn, chairman of the MSU Board of Regents.

Scheduled Wednesday is Dr. C. Nelson Grote, chief executive officer of the Community Colleges of Spokane, Washington. He will be followed on Thursday by Dr. James A. Adams, superintendent of the Indianapolis Public Schools.

"The board has completed its examination of the background of these two candidates who have requested an opportunity to meet with the faculty, students, townspeople and others interested in the University," Nunn said in a prepared statement.

He added that any of the other three candidates who remain under consideration also would have an opportunity to visit the campus.

The candidates will meet with staff members and the general public at 10:30 a.m., with students at 2 p.m. and with faculty members at 3:30 p.m. All sessions will be held in Breckinridge Auditorium.

Dr. Grote, 58, has headed the Spokane community college district of 65,000 students since 1981. Previously, he served 10 years as president of Schoolcraft College in Livonia, Mich., and spent 11 years as an academic administrator at Morehead State, including five years as dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology. He is a graduate of Eastern Illinois University, the universities of Missouri and Illinois.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Capital construction projects totaling nearly $3 million are on the drawing board at Morehead State University, pending issuance of revenue bonds by the state.

"We expect the state will announce the bond sale for $2,850,000 sometime before the end of this calendar year," said Porter Dailey, MSU's vice president for administrative and fiscal services.

The lion's share of the funds, slightly more than $1 million, has been earmarked for much needed roof repairs to various classroom, office and residence hall buildings.

Another $445,000 will be used for heating, ventilation and air conditioning repairs campus - wide including six residence halls. The request also includes an additional $245,000 for boiler control repairs and $225,000 for an expansion of the energy management system.

Fire safety projects ranging from installation of an elevator fireman's service in several buildings to installation of smoke detection systems in others account for $200,000 of the funds.

Improved handicapped accessibility will be addressed with the addition of elevators in Rader Hall and Combs Building at a projected cost of $220,000.

Upgrading the University's water plant will take $255,000 and another $240,000 will go for resurfacing and repairs of campus streets.

"The projects have been approved by the state Division of Facilities Management and we will begin work shortly after the funding becomes available," Dailey said.

MSU's last bond issue was in 1971 for $6.3 million for renovation of Rader Hall, construction of Reed Hall, installation of a new boiler system and farm development. The last campus capital construction project was the $10 million Academic-Athletic Center, which was completed in 1981.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Seniors from 11 area high schools have been invited to Morehead State University for "Senior Opportunity Days," on Nov. 19 and 20.

Senior Opportunity Days allows prospective students to become familiar with the University's people and its programs, according to Keith Kappes, chair of the Senior Opportunity Days Committee.

Each day's activities will include a tour of the Academic-Athletic Center and the artificial turf at Jayne Stadium. Students also will receive a student-guided tour of campus, ending at Button Auditorium where they will be greeted by President A.D. Albright and Student Government President Carlos Cassady.

Life on campus and entertainment will be presented as part of the general session. Later, students will visit Button Drill Room to view displays by MSU's colleges and departments, student development agencies, student organizations, athletics, admissions, financial aid, housing and intercollegiate and intramural athletics.

Visiting students will be provided lunch in the Adron Doran University Center cafeteria or grill. Special visits to areas of their academic interest also will be arranged.

Seniors at other area high schools will be invited to attend "Senior Opportunity Nights" at hotels in the region. Plans are underway for nights at Ashland, Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Maysville and Pikeville.

MOREHEAD, KY 40351

Nov. 14, 1986
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two years ago Morehead State University didn't have a single student enrolled who had qualified as a finalist or semi-finalist in the National Merit Corp. competition.

Today, as the result of a financially-attractive recruitment program aimed at academically-talented high school seniors, the University has 27 such students on hand.

For several of the highly-sought students, the decision to select MSU also was influenced by other factors.

Mark Manis of Greenup wanted to study at MSU, but thought he'd have to take his first few years closer to home at a community college.

Since her sophomore year in high school, Stephanie Ann Garner of Louisville had known MSU was the school for her.

Garner and Manis realized their dreams thanks to the University's Distinguished Scholar Awards program. Earmarked solely for National Merit finalists or semi-finalists, it offers a fully-funded, four-year college education.

MSU's most prestigious scholarship program was launched in the fall of 1985 with awards to seven National Merit students. Those seven returned to campus this fall and the number of new Distinguished Scholars almost tripled.

Noting the friendly atmosphere, the proximity not only to their homes, but also to metropolitan areas, and the quality education available, returnees Joseph Varacalli and Kristi Spears, both of Portsmouth, Ohio, say they encourage other students to attend MSU.

"I have to work hard to do well in my classes, because the faculty--especially the science faculty--make the classes challenging," said Varacalli, a psychology major.

"I was scared my first year, but the people were so friendly," said Spears, whose father attended MSU. "You really get to know people because the school is not so big," said Spears, an elementary education major. "The faculty members in my department are just great."

Returnees Regan Brumagen and Teresa Fultz, both of Morehead, say their sophomore year is even better than their first year. While taking many of her general requirements last year, Brumagen used the time to decide upon her major.

"This semester is the best," Brumagen said enthusiastically. She is majoring in English with a journalism minor. Her enthusiasm was echoed by Fultz, a biology major in the pre-veterinary program, whose double minors are chemistry and environmental sciences.

Fultz has taken advantage of the many special interest organizations on campus to augment her classroom experiences. She is active in the Geology Club, Environmental Sciences Club and the Pre-Veterinary Club of which she is secretary.

Pursuing a four-year degree in the para-legal program, Deborah Ross of Wellington in Menifee County last year discovered how to become better organized and to think critically. This year Ross has enrolled in one of the Honors Program classes.

Distinguished Scholars new to the campus this year say they are amazed and delighted at the small classes which result in personal attention from the faculty.

"The classes may be hard, but the teachers always take the time to work with us individually," said Garner who fell in love with the campus when she attended a jazz clinic while in high school.

Manis, a history major, noted that students weren't "treated like numbers. It's even easier to find a faculty member with time to talk to you than it was in high school," he added.

"The faculty really want to help you," said Joseph Hoh of Alexandria, who is majoring in mathematics and computer science. He said that MSU already has given him opportunities as a freshman he might not even get as a senior elsewhere, including presenting a paper at a science conference recently at Miami (Ohio) University. "I'm going to explore everything I can while here," Hoh added.

Distinguished Scholar Jamison Todd Graff of Covington says he is looking forward to getting to know some of the faculty in his department even better since he has been selected to work in a science laboratory next semester.

Graff, who spent his senior year of high school as a student in Germany on a Congressional scholarship, is majoring in psychology and biology with a German minor. As a science student, the small class atmosphere is a great plus, but perhaps even more importantly, according to Graff, "the faculty treats you with respect."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The final tally for Morehead State University's 1986 fall enrollment reflects a 3.5 percent increase over the fall of 1985.

This fall's headcount enrollment is 5,894, compared with 5,695 last year, MSU President A.D. Albright has announced.

Preliminary figures released to the media in late September showed a 2.8 percent increase. At that time, Dr. Albright noted that the figures could change between then and the enrollment reporting date set by the Council on Higher Education.

The increase reverses a pattern of declining enrollment which has plagued Morehead State over the past decade, including an 8.2 percent drop last fall from the previous year.

In addition to the increase in headcount figures, MSU reversed the decline in full-time students, actually gaining a student over last fall.

Dr. Albright attributed MSU's improved enrollment to three primary factors. "It was a combination of an intensive recruitment drive, an image-building promotional campaign in the region's media, and the addition of a new program of upper-division undergraduate course offerings at four two-year college sites," he said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. C. Nelson Grote, a former Morehead State University dean, will return to campus as president on July 1 after a 15-year absence.

MSU's Board of Regents voted unanimously Friday (Nov. 14) to name Dr. Grote as the University's 11th president, following a nearly three-hour executive session.

Dr. Grote, currently chief executive officer of the Community Colleges of Spokane, Wash., served as dean of MSU's College of Applied Sciences and Technology from 1966 to 1971 and as Division of Applied Arts chair for six years previously. Leaving MSU to become president of Schoolcraft College in Livonia, Mich., Dr. Grote accepted the Spokane post in 1981.

Moving that the regents select Dr. Grote to succeed current President A.D. Albright, Board Vice Chairman Edward T. Breathitt cited several reasons for the choice. Breathitt, who also chaired the presidential search committee, addressed Dr. Grote's administrative experience, his "outstanding leadership abilities" as demonstrated in his previous posts and his commitment to Morehead State.

Earlier, Board Chairman Louie B. Nunn told the more than 200 faculty, staff, students and townspeople attending the meeting that MSU "is at a crossroads. The action we take will not only affect the immediate but the long-range future of this University."

While all the finalists for the post were "worthy," Breathitt said, "at this time Dr. Grote is the choice we should make."

The apparent front-runners Dr. Grote and MSU alumnus Dr. James Adams, superintendent of the Indianapolis Schools, visited the campus Wednesday and Thursday, respectively to meet in public forums with townspeople, MSU faculty, staff and students.

In those discussions, Dr. Grote repeatedly made the point that he and his wife, Wilma, considered Morehead home and that the MSU presidency was the only position that would lure him from his present post.

"We want to come home," he said. "This is a very special place," he added, noting that although born in Illinois he had "adopted Kentucky. I know Eastern Kentucky people, I love Eastern Kentucky people and I believe I can make a contribution," he said.

Dr. Grote, whose 37 years in education includes 27 in higher education, also stressed that he would not come with "a briefcase full" of plans, but that he wanted to have an opportunity to analyze the issues.

In his first news conference Friday evening as president-elect, the 58-year-old educator/administrator said he planned to visit the campus frequently over the next few months and would "hit the ground running on July 1."

Admitting to feeling a sense of awe, Dr. Grote explained that feeling was not from the size or complexity of the challenges or the title, but from "the expectations of the people here and what they think MSU should be in years to come. It's a heavy responsibility for us," he said.

Dr. Grote said he would place an emphasis on professional development activities for faculty and staff and on marketing the school not only in student recruitment but by following up efforts already begun by Dr. Albright to restore the University's image in the region. He also said he will focus on MSU's ties to public education in the region and to Kentucky's economic development.

Committing himself to "systematic change," Dr. Grote said, "One has to sense how much change an institution can absorb over a period of time."

Dr. Grote received his bachelor's degree from Eastern Illinois University, his master's degree from the University of Missouri and his doctorate from the University of Illinois. He is a former public school teacher and was a vocational education administrator for four years with the Kentucky Department of Education.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dennis Karwatka, associate professor of industrial education at Morehead State University, is senior author of a recently published book entitled "Auto Mechanics."

The illustrated, 600-page volume is a high school level textbook, published by Changing Times Education Service, EMC Publishing.

Karwatka wrote more than half of the book, collaborating with James Van DePolder, associate professor of engineering technology at Western Michigan University, and Melvin E. Wheeler, instructor of industrial arts at Rolling Meadows High School in Illinois.

"The book explains how all parts of an automobile work," according to Karwatka. He called the book "all inclusive," saying that it "contains such information as how to check a car radio speaker."

A member of MSU's faculty since 1970, Karwatka has a second textbook coming out in January. Entitled "Energy in Transportation," the book is directed at the middle school level.

A native of Chicago, Karwatka received his B.S. degree from Rose Polytechnic Institute and the M.S. degree from Indiana State University. A former instructor of physics at Indiana State University, he has been a scout leader for 12 years. He resides in Green Valley Acres, Morehead, with his wife, Carole, and two children, Alex and Jill.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--High school seniors in Morehead State University's 22 county service region are eligible to participate in MSU's first Constitutional Essay and Scholarship Competition.

Contest entrants will write a 1,000 to 1,500 word essay on the topic "How Does the Separation of Powers Help Make the Constitution Work?" The topic is the same as that for the National Bicentennial Writing Competition sponsored by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. Students may enter both competitions, according to William Green, MSU assistant professor of government, geography and history.

The winner will be awarded the MSU Constitutional Scholarship which is valued at $5,520 over four years. The scholarship will go to an entering full-time freshman for the 1987-88 academic year at MSU and is renewable for three academic years. A certificate and book on the Constitution will also be presented to the winning author. The winner's sponsoring teacher will receive a certificate and a choice of a tuition-free, three-hour semester course at MSU or a trip to the 1987 meeting of the Kentucky Council for the Social Studies.

The deadline for the competition is March 1, 1987. The winner will be announced on April 1, 1987.

Joining MSU in sponsoring the competition are the Kentucky Council for the Social Studies, Kentucky Historical Society, Kentucky Political Science Association and the Southern Social Studies Quarterly.

Guidelines for the competition may be obtained by contacting Dr. Green, Department of Geography, Government and History, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky., 40351, or by calling Dr. Green at 783-2128 or 783-2090.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Businesses are often faced with the need to finance inventory increases, production increases, facility enlargement or other expansions to increase capability for more revenue.

Too often, the business person is not always aware of all channels available for financing expansion or for financing start-up of a totally new enterprise.

A two-hour program, hosted by Morehead State University's East Kentucky Small Business Development Center, will be conducted on Nov. 20 in the Butler Hall Conference Room to address some of these areas. The SBDC is part of MSU's Department of Business and Economics.

The topics will include financing business start-up or expansion with emphasis on governmental financial programs and other traditional sources.

Participating in the program will be representatives of the program's co-sponsors: the Small Business Administration, Gateway Area Development District, the Peoples Bank of Morehead, the Kentucky Small Business Development Centers and other financial institutions--such as insurance companies--offering business loans in the state.

There will be a $15 fee. Attendance will be limited to the first 15 people registering in order to focus on each participant's individual needs. The program format includes an hour-long formal presentation, followed by a question and answer session and 30-minutes of personal counseling.

Additional information and reservations may be obtained by calling Georgia Sammons or Jerry Gouge at 783-2077 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Three Morehead State University students received top honors at the State College Music Auditions held on MSU's campus during the Kentucky Music Teachers Association State Convention last month.

Chip Lewis, senior theory/composition major, won the composition category. Son of Charles and Donna Lewis of Flatwoods, Lewis has studied composition with Dr. Frederick Mueller, MSU professor of music, and Dr. Christopher Gallaher, MSU's Department of Music chair. Lewis' original composition was entitled "Menagerie."

Louanna Fillmore, senior voice education major, was the winner of the voice audition. She is the daughter of Sam and Mary Lou Fillmore of Friendship, Ohio. A soprano, Fillmore is a student of Vasile Venetozzi, MSU associate professor of music. She performed selections by Puccini, Roem, Barber and Menotti.

Dianne Martin, junior music performance major, won the woodwind audition. The daughter of Frederick and Deanna Martin of Hamilton, Ohio, she plays flute. Martin studies under Robert Pritchard, MSU assistant professor of music. She performed selections by Guffes, Poulenc, Bach and Cnesco.

Lewis, Fillmore and Martin will represent Kentucky in the collegiate competition at the Music Teachers National Association Southern Divisional Conference in Louisville, January 16-18.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Eastern Kentucky: A Pictorial History" is the title of a photography exhibit compiled by Dr. Stuart S. Sprague, Morehead State University professor of history, now on display in University of Kentucky's Appalachian Center.

The exhibit will continue through Dec. 19. Dr. Sprague's book by the same name is a history of 49 Eastern Kentucky counties from pioneer days to present. Pictures included in the exhibit are representative of those in the volume which contains nearly 500 photographs.

A noted Kentucky historian, Dr. Sprague has been teaching at MSU since 1968. He received both his B.A. and M.A.T. degrees from Yale University and earned his doctorate from New York University.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Popular jazz and contemporary tunes will be featured in a performance by the Commodores, the U.S. Navy's premier jazz ensemble, in Morehead State University's Button Auditorium on Monday, Nov. 24 at 8 p.m.

The concert, free and open to the public, is sponsored by MSU's Department of Music.

Known for its varied styles of music, the ensemble presents sounds ranging from those reminiscent of the swing era to today's high-energy music. Vocals and instrumental solos are featured as part of the band's performance.

Directed by Master Chief Musician Gary Elliott, the 18-piece band is well traveled, having toured Central and South America, Europe and the United States. The Commodores have performed at numerous jazz festivals across the country and have been joined by guest artists including Dizzy Gillespie and Grover Washington, Jr.

The ensemble frequently performs at National Music Educators' conventions and also conducts jazz clinics with high school and college music departments.

"We bring the Navy into communities using the language of music," explains Elliott, "and we're proud to present the pride and professionalism of today's Navy."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--ECCO!, the Ensemble Company of Cincinnati Opera, will present Hansel and Gretel Thursday, Dec. 4, in Morehead State University's Button Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Admission to the performance, sponsored by Arts in Morehead (AIM), will be by season membership or by general admission. Tickets will be available at the door at $5 for adults and $3 for youth age 18 or younger. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

A chorus from Rowan County High School will appear in the operatic production of this classic Brothers Grimm fairytale. Music for the opera was composed by Engelbert Humperdinck in the late 19th Century. It was first performed in the United States in 1985.

Since its premiere, the 70-minute opera has been traditionally performed during the Christmas holiday season. According to Dr. Glenn C. Rogers, chair for the AIM series committee, the production, sung in English, "combines a delightful story with music to entertain audiences of all ages."

AIM is a joint effort of MSU and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Center.

MSU'S 'VIEWPOINT' HAS SPECIAL GUEST

The Rev. Pauline Carr of Flemingsburg, great granddaughter of Harriet Tubman, discussed her family's history on "Viewpoint," a television production of Morehead State University's Channel 12. Visiting before the show were, from left, Jerry Gore, co-host; T.C. Young, director; Carr, and co-host Sharon Thompson, Louisville junior. Tubman, considered the most famous "conductor" of the underground railroad, is credited for never losing a slave. Viewpoint, a student production highlighting black culture, is aired three times weekly on MSU television.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A 16-year friendship has resulted in the gift of 24 artworks, valued in excess of $12,000, to Morehead State University. All but a handful of the prints and posters are originals.

The collection was given to the University by Philip and Muriel Berman of Allentown, Penn., whose knowledge of MSU stems from their long time association with Tom Sternal, Department of Art chair.

Among the artists represented are Gauguin, Picasso, Calder, Francoise Gilot, Motke Blum, Chaim Gross, Pinchas Litvinosky, Leroy Neiman, Dong Kingman and Dali. Included in the five prints by Dali is his portrait of Picasso.

"Morehead State is most grateful to the Bermans for sharing these works with us," said MSU President A.D. Albright. "The gift has more than a monetary value, for one can not place a value on beauty.

"Even more important perhaps is the role that this gift will play in enriching the lives of our students as well as the people of the region who will come in contact with works by some of the great artists of our time," Dr. Albright said. "And for this we thank Philip and Muriel Berman."

The Bermans, former owners of Hess's department stores, became acquainted with Sternal and his work while he was on the faculty at Muhlenberg College from 1970 to 1980. "The Bermans are extremely sincere and generous people," said Sternal, adding that they are probably the most active art collectors in the nation.

This gift is not the first time that the Bermans, who have gained national prominence as art collectors and benefactors, have contributed to the campus art scene. The campuses of Lehigh University, Pennsylvania State University, Rutgers University and the University of Notre Dame have benefited from their generosity.

Also the Bermans were the impetus for MSU's outdoor monumental sculpture exhibit which decorated the campus landscape from spring through fall of 1985.

"That show in itself attracted the attention of art critics, not only in Kentucky, but nationally as well, reflecting upon our art program and campus," said Sternal. "It lent credibility to what we are doing here in Eastern Kentucky in the art field."

The Bermans, whose gift to their own community of nine abstract outdoor sculptures created front page news in the Philadelphia Inquirer, have broad philanthropic interests.

The Jerusalem Biblical Zoo, the Vatican, local scout troops and several major universities have benefited from their commitment to giving.

"When someone asks you and you can afford to help them, if you feel the cause is right, then you should," Mrs. Berman explained in an interview.

A highly successful businessman, Berman began his career with a dealership for International Harvester heavy trucks. He later purchased Hess's Department Store in Allentown and from this store he and his wife, who served as the firm's vice president, built a chain of 39 Hess's stores before selling them.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Music will present Dianne M. Martin on flute in a recital on Monday, Dec. 1, at 8:15 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall.

Assisting Martin will be Mindy Hofferbert, piano; Dr. Frederick Mueller, professor of music, bassoon; Leo Blair, associate professor of music, violin; Suanne Blair, assistant professor of music, cello.

Martin will perform works by Griffes, Poulenc, Bach, Enesco and a commissioned composition by Charles Lewis, senior music composition major, entitled "Menagerie" for solo flute with bassoon, violin and cello.

Martin is the student of Robert Pritchard, MSU assistant professor of music, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Martin.

A junior music performance major from Hamilton, Ohio, Martin has played principle flute for three years with the MSU Marching Band, Symphony Band, and Orchestra. She is also a member of the Concert Choir, Chamber Singers and Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity. In October, Martin won the 1986 Kentucky Music Teachers State Collegiate Woodwind Auditions. She will represent Kentucky at the Music Teachers National Association Convention Collegiate Woodwind Auditions in January, 1987 in Louisville.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Lifestyles are ever changing. Schedules become more complicated. The holiday season is approaching.

To help deal with the tensions of everyday life, Morehead State University's Job Training Program will sponsor a stress management workshop on Wednesday, Dec. 3, at 1 p.m. at the Office of Regional Development Services at Butler Hall on campus.

Presented by St. Claire Medical Center, the session will be conducted by Lygia Williams, a psychologist with SCMC's mental health unit.

Stress is a growing concern in the 1980's and learning to recognize and handle it is important in maintaining one's health, according to Williams.

"We are encouraging our students and others interested to attend the workshop," said Jacquelyn Scott, job training program coordinator. "To have this knowledge is especially important when beginning a new job."

The two-hour program will include topics such as methods of relieving stress. Handout materials will be provided. The workshop is free and open to the public. Advanced registration is necessary. Additional details and registration information may be obtained by calling (606) 783-2340.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--ECCO!, the Ensemble Company of Cincinnati Opera, will present Hansel and Gretel Thursday, Dec. 4, in Morehead State University's Button Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Admission to the performance, sponsored by Arts in Morehead (AIM), will be by season membership or by general admission. Tickets will be available at the door at $5 for adults and $3 for youth age 18 or younger. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

A chorus from Rowan County High School will appear in the operatic production of this classic Brothers Grimm fairytale. Music for the opera was composed by Engelbert Humperdinck in the late 19th Century. It was first performed in the United States in 1985.

Since its premiere, the 70-minute opera has been traditionally performed during the Christmas holiday season. According to Dr. Glenn C. Rogers, chair for the AIM series committee, the production, sung in English, "combines a delightful story with music to entertain audiences of all ages."

AIM is a joint effort of MSU and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Center.
