MOREHEAD, Ky.--Sometimes it pays to be somewhat of a packrat.

At least it did for Dr. Michael J. Biel, associate professor of radio-television at Morehead State University, when a colleague in the National Broadcasting Company's research department called him for help with a problem.

The problem was in preparing for "The Today Show at Night #2" aired earlier this fall by the network. NBC-TV couldn't find an early ABC logo in its archives.

That's where Dr. Biel came into the picture. A fanatic collector with a feeling of obligation to completeness, Dr. Biel possesses his own library of film and videotapes. An associate at NBC knew of his extensive collection and called Dr. Biel asking if he had any footage of an early ABC logo. Not only did Dr. Biel provide NBC with the missing logo, he also loaned them footage with logos from NBC and CBS, which were 10 years older than those NBC had in its library.

"I got the ABC logo when I was in graduate school," Biel said. "It was the original. You have to go back to originals for the best picture quality," he explains.

The television special on the 1986 fall season included a history of early network shows. Dr. Biel's footage of the early logos was used to essentially open the show and he was given special thanks in the ending credits of the program.

A native New Yorker, Dr. Biel has numerous collections. Besides old radios, phonographs and "other assorted stuff" he has more than 600 video cassettes, a book collection of more than 5,000 volumes and his record collection exceeds 30,000.

Possessing a phenomenal memory, he constantly cites dates and specific historic events with knowledge stemming from ongoing pursuit of information. he notes that he is uncomfortable with an incomplete series in a collection.

Dr. Biel stores his library of television and film history in two warehouse spaces, his garage, and three rooms in his house. "Actually four, if you count the bedroom as video storage," he added.

He hasn't always collected only records, as a child he also had a stamp and baseball card collection. He is quick to add that he still has many records from his childhood. He now has a children's record collection which fills more than three shelves in his home.

Dr. Biel explains his interest in records by saying that he enjoys having items of historical and cultural significance. Dr. Biel believes records contain a piece of history. They are "cultural artifacts," he says.

A member of MSU's faculty for eight years, Dr. Biel received his B.S. degree from Temple University and both the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Northwestern University. He currently is serving as president of the Association for Recorded Sound Collections and is a frequent columnist and speaker at conventions.

He is his wife, the former Sheila Kaplan of Teaneck, N.J., have a daughter, Leah Rebekah.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Individual Events (IE) team placed third in a recent tournament held at Marshall University in Huntington, W.Va.

In addition to the team's high ranking, Radcliff senior Margaret Holt was named "Outstanding Tournament Speaker." Holt finished in first place in informative speaking and rhetorical criticism; second in extemporaneous and third in impromptu and after dinner speaking. Her wins also placed her first in pentathalon.

Helping the team bring home 14 awards from the competition which drew 14 schools and 80 competitors were:

Kevin Cockrell, Mt. Sterling junior, with third place in sales; fourth in prose; fifth in dramatic duo and sixth in extemporaneous.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Buford Crager, assistant professor of health, physical education and recreation at Morehead State University, has been named MSU's coordinator of special observances.

Crager, a former vice president, also will continue to teach, according to MSU President A.D. Albright. Crager assumed his new post on Nov. 1.

"Buford Crager is well known in the region and we are very pleased that he has so enthusiastically accepted these additional responsibilities," Dr. Albright said.

Working with other MSU administrative staff members, Crager will be involved in planning many of the University's special events, including Founders Day and the Athletic Hall of Fame induction ceremonies.

"I am honored to have this opportunity to work with President Albright, the students, staff and faculty in this new role," Crager said.

A three-time graduate of MSU, Crager began his professional career at MSU in 1967 when he was named dean of students and later became vice president for student affairs, a post he held from 1976 to 1984. Prior to joining MSU's staff, he taught and coached in the Ohio public schools.

A member of Phi Delta Kappa professional fraternity for educators, Crager is also active in Phi Kappa Phi honor society, Southern Association for College Student Affairs and National Association for Student Personnel Administrators.

A charter member of both the MSU Quarterback Club and MSU Parents Association, Crager is active in the Morehead United Methodist Church.

A native of Floyd County, he is married to the former Jenny Kay Ball of Ashland. They are the parents of two children. Crager is the son of Mrs. Marietta Crager of Prestonsburg.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky. — Morehead State University's Department of Music will present the University Chorus in concert Thursday, Dec. 11, at 8:15 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall.

The concert is free and open to the public.

The University Chorus, under the direction of Vasile Venettozzi, MSU associate professor of music, will be accompanied by Larry Keenan, MSU associate professor of music, on electone.

Also appearing on the program will be the newly-formed Rowan County Community Choir, under the direction of Noel Weaver, Rowan County High School choral director.

The program will include works by Niles, Bach, Fissinger, Wilhousky, Peeters and Saint-Saens. Soloists for the Saint-Saens "Christmas Oratorio" will be Joe Sartor, tenor; Edna Bivins, soprano; Elizabeth Bivins, mezzo-soprano; Jo-Anne Keenan, alto; and Dr. Earle Louder, baritone.

Sartor, MSU assistant professor of art, has performed regularly with the MSU Chamber Singers and Concert Choir.

Edna and Elizabeth Bivins are an unusual mother-daughter combination. Edna is a member of the Lexington Singers and soloist with the Emmanuel Baptist Church Choir in Lexington, while daughter Elizabeth is a junior music education major with an emphasis in percussion at MSU.

Keenan, MSU instructor of music education, is a soloist with the Lexington Singers and the MSU Chamber Singers, and Dr. Louder, MSU professor of music, has had extensive choral and solo experience.

Additional information may be obtained by calling (606)783-2470.

PHYSICS STUDENTS VISIT MSU: A Picture Story

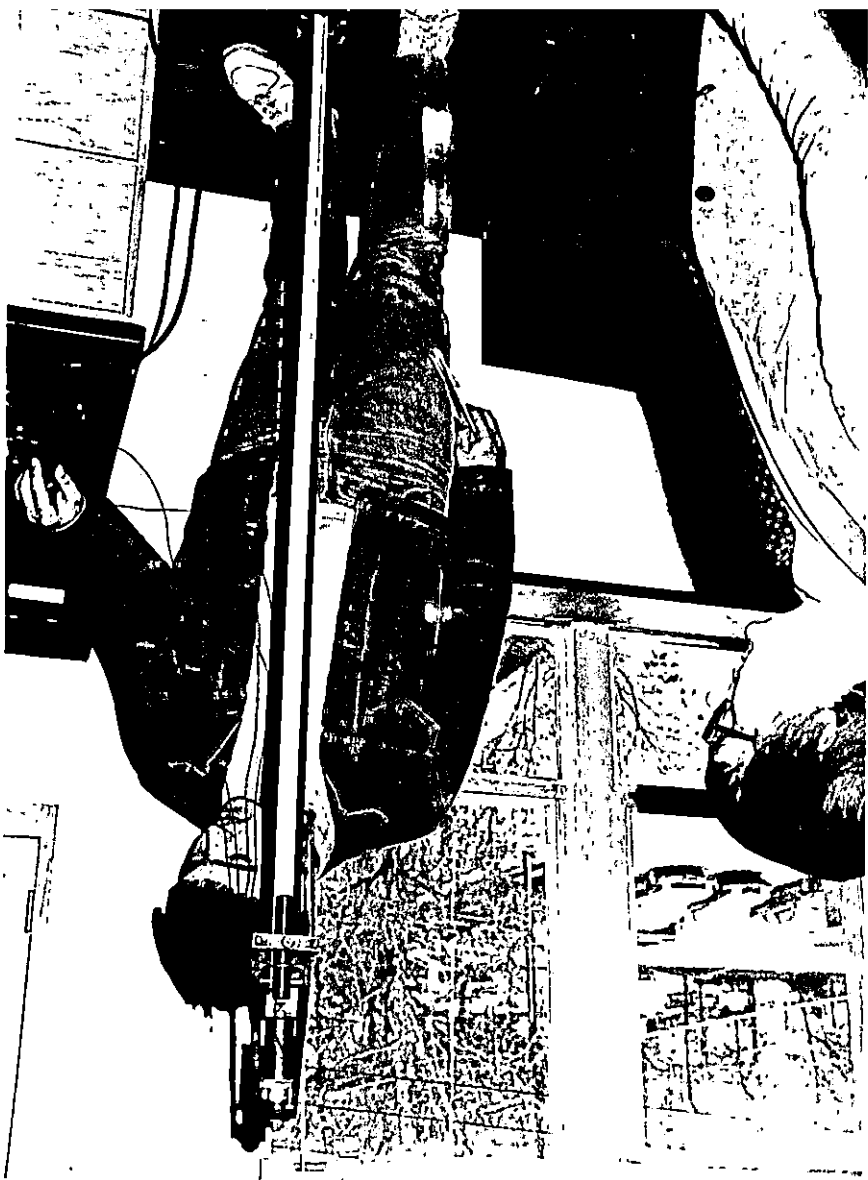

Menifee County High School students from Charles Chandler's physics class recently visited Morehead State University to tour facilities in the Department of Physical Sciences. The day's program included discussions of such astrophysical topics as white dwarfs, neutron stars and black holes; a walking tour of the Science Museum; a visit to Lappin Hall's planetarium, and a film tour of the universe. Also the students had the opportunity to try their hands at various laboratory experiments involving different methods of measuring acceleration.

Most people probably have never heard of a Miss Rodeo Kentucky Pageant, and with good reason--there's no such thing.

Kentucky doesn't have a statewide rodeo association, so there was no statewide pageant. But John Garner, a prominent Pulaski County businessman, saw Bicknell showing a horse this summer and nominated her to the Eastern Pageant director to represent Kentucky at the Miss Rodeo American Pageant.

"I had no idea I was even being considered," said Bicknell. "I was shocked, but very excited when I was called on my birthday and asked to do this. It was a great birthday present."

Bicknell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bicknell Jr. of Russell Springs, has ridden Western Pleasure most of her life at county fair shows, and is participating in intercollegiate shows this semester at MSU.

She will represent Kentucky at the Miss Rodeo American Pageant under way now through Dec. 11 in Las Vegas, Nev., and there has never been a winner from east of Mississippi.

Forty-four girls from across the United States and Canada will compete for the title which is awarded based on horsemanship, personality, appearance, and a three-minute speech on the state which each contestant is representing.

The winner will receive several prizes, including an $8,000 perpetual crown, a diamond and ruby Miss Rodeo American belt buckle, a horse trailer and scholarships. But the most important prize, said Bicknell, is a job for one year, working in Colorado Springs for the Pro Rodeo Association, in which she will tour and promote Bicknell feels her weakest spot will be in her knowledge of rodeos. "I've been around horses all my life, but not rodeos. I know nothing about rodeos, but I've always loved to watch them," said Bicknell.

To compensate, she has been reading up on rodeos so she will be more familiar with things such as current events and the rodeo lingo. She hopes her lack of knowledge on the subject will not be too much of a disadvantage.

"Of course I'd love to win," said Bicknell, "but even if I don't, I look at it as a good experience all around."

Bicknell has been riding horses since she was six years old, and showing since she was 10 years old. She remembers her first horse. "I always begged for a pony, but Dad said I could have a horse--not a pony. One day he just pulled up to our house with a horse trailer and a horse inside," Bicknell recalls.

Her main goal right now is to complete her pre-vet work at MSU and apply to a school of veterinary medicine.

"Right now I'm just taking things one step at a time," said Bicknell. "I'm not exactly sure where I'd like to work, but I know I want to practice veterinary medicine."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Seven Morehead State University faculty members will share more than $24,000 in institutional grants during the 1986-87 academic year.

The awards for research and creative production, designed to stimulate research and creative projects on the campus by helping to defray project costs, were announced by Dr. Roberta T. Anderson, MSU vice president for academic affairs.

"The University is pleased to encourage our faculty members in this critical area of their professional growth by allocating these funds to them," Dr. Anderson said.

Stephen Tirone, associate professor of art, was awarded an MSU Creative Production Grant in the amount of $825 for a project entitled "Bas-Relief Sculpture."

The recipients of 1986-87 MSU Research Grants include:

Dr. David L. McNeely, assistant professor of biology, $4,841 for a study, "The Role of Water Quality in the Distribution of Clinostomus elongatus in the Licking and Red River Basins."

Dr. Ted Pass II, professor of biology, $4,597 for a study, "Water Quality: A Survey of Drinking Water Supplies in Eastern Kentucky for Bacteria and Opportunistic Fungi." Assisting him in the project will be Vanceburg graduate student Tammy Lyles.

Patsy P. Whitson, associate professor of sociology, $3,875 for a study, "Adherence to Medical Regimen: A Study of Hemodialysis Patients."

Dr. Jean Wilson, associate professor of education, $1,460 for a study, "The Impact of Maternal Alcoholism on the Self Actualization of Adult Male and Female Offspring."

Proposals for specific projects are solicited by MSU's Research and Patent Committee, which reviews them under the University's guidelines and makes funding recommendations to the vice president for academic affairs.

Creative Production Grant projects should have potential for contributing to the professional growth of the faculty member. Proposals for Research Grants should involve studies that have potential for contributing to the current pool of knowledge.

The committee includes six faculty members--two from each college--elected annually by the Faculty Senate, three full-time graduate students--one from each college--and the director of the Office of Research, Grants and Contracts, who serves as committee chairperson.

Additional information on institutional grants may be obtained from Carole Morella, chairperson of MSU's Research and Patent Committee, Office of Research and Contracts.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Getting along with others while learning to manage time and money.

Morehead State University's home economics students learn these assets first-hand through participation in supervised home management experiences.

The home management experience, a requirement for a home economics degree, means students live as a family in the home management house. They share the cooking, cleaning, grocery shopping, entertaining and other duties of everyday living, while trading roles on a weekly basis.

Four MSU students recently completed this special six-week experience. They are Janie Fryman, Martha Henderson, Sally Maxey and September Colbert Cardiff.

Fryman, daughter of Bill and Sue Fryman of Flemingsburg, plans to be an extension agent when she graduates in May. "I have enjoyed the experience of working as a family," she said. "I have learned a great deal about time management and menu planning." Her favorite job was setting a formal table, she said.

Henderson, daughter of Bill and Barbara Henderson of Olive Hill, is debating between becoming a teacher or an extension agent. "The teaching methods at MSU are geared to the area in which we live," she said. "The thrust is always toward a good education." Food services is her special interest.

Maxey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Maxey of Flemingsburg, hopes to teach after her May graduation. "I want to see a student's face light up because he understands what I have taught him," she explained. "That is only one of the rewards of the profession." She believes it is important to relate to students, giving them the necessary background they need to succeed, even if they don't realize its informational value until years later.

Cardiff, daughter of Dave and Lorraine Briggs of Williamstown, had a different situation to deal with. Each day she ate at least two meals in the house and did her share of the chores before returning to her campus residence and husband Tom. "Although I had two homes during this time, I enjoyed learning to prepare different meals," she said. "With each meal, you strive to do your best." She credits the influence of her high school home economics teacher, Karen Davidson, for choosing this field.

Getting along with other people is a big part of the class, according to Carolyn Franzini, lecturer in home economics, who has been teaching the class for two years.

"This is a special class," Franzini said. "Students learn to manage their time and money while working with others. They learn to make decisions together," she continued.

For someone beginning the home management house experience, Cardiff offered this advice. "Everyone's schedule is different and things come up unexpectedly," she said. "You need to be aware of this and plan accordingly," she added.

"Because everyone's values and opinions are different, you have to work around this, just like in a real family," said Maxey.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa received this year's "Outstanding Chapter Award" for Kentucky and also the "1986 Annual Fund Award" for the state at the recent district conference in Charlotte, N.C.

Phi Delta Kappa is an international professional fraternity composed of public school and university teachers and administrators. MSU's chapter is one of nine in the state of Kentucky.

The "Outstanding Chapter Award" recognizes chapters for service. Chapters are evaluated in the areas of membership, attendance, service activities and scholarship sponsorship. MSU tied with the University of Kentucky chapter of Phi Delta Kappa for this honor last year.

The "Annual Fund Award" is presented to the chapter in Kentucky offering the most financial support for the international organization's Foundation Program. The Phi Delta Kappa Foundation Program coordinates activities within the organization.

The two awards are the only honors given to local chapters, according to Dr. Larry Griesenger, MSU professor of education, who is president of the campus chapter.

"The members of MSU's Phi Delta Kappa Chapter are to be commended for their efforts which have resulted in this signal achievement--capturing both of these honors," said MSU President A.D. Albright. "This is further evidence of the commitment of the University and its personnel to serving the educational needs of the region," Dr. Albright added.

MSU will host the Phi Delta Kappa state leadership conference in April.

ITALIAN ART ON DISPLAY AT MSU

A collection of art from the Guild of Genoa, Italy, is on display at Morehead State University's Adron Doran University Center and Camden-Carroll Library until Feb. 1. The exhibit, entitled "Ars Januae," is comprised of 56 pieces of varied works which show movement and boundary between the fine arts and crafts. The display of wood carvings, leaded glass, polychrome refractory pottery and sculptures, includes this piece being viewed by Gari Lynn Turner, MSU sophomore from West Liberty. A traveling exhibit, it is on loan from the Headley-Whitney Museum of Lexington.

MSU'S CROSS-CULTURAL CLASSROOM

Promoting understanding among people of different cultures is the goal of a special Morehead State University project called the "Cross-Cultural Classroom." Funded by a National Association for Foreign Student Affairs grant, the program involved a series of visits by MSU foreign students to elementary schools in Rowan County during the past year. Both the foreign students and the children they visit benefit from the interchange, according to Gary Silker, project director. Sharing information on customs of their home in Malaysia with students in Ginny Pass' third grade class at Clearfield Elementary school are, from left, Wann Ahmadwan Yusoff and Ahman Tahir Dzul kifli.

The students rotated in teams of two, and each spent two days working with veterinarians Dr. Pat Mysinger of Auburn, Ala., and Dr. Newell Hicks, owner of the Woodford Veterinary Clinic in Versailles.

"This program gives our students practical hands-on experience in real cases as a part of their veterinary large animal diseases class, that wouldn't be available to them if not for the NAILE," said Donald Applegate, MSU coordinator of veterinary technology.

The NAILE is the largest all-breed, purebred livestock show in the world. Dr. Mysinger was responsible for maintaining the health of 8,000 head of dairy and beef cattle. Dr. Hicks, the official veterinarian for the NAILE for 13 years, handled the quarter horses, draft horses and sheep, approximately 6,400 head of stock.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will hold its 1986 Winter Commencement at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20, in Button Auditorium.

Approximately 374 students, including 87 graduate students, are candidates for degrees to be conferred by MSU President A.D. Albright.

Commencement speakers include a representative of MSU's Board of Regents, Dr. Albright and graduating senior Kimberly Clay Isner, a native of Pike County.

A candidate for the B.S. degree in interior design, Isner will address her fellow graduates on the "Importance of Education to Eastern Kentucky's Future."

A College of Applied Sciences and Technology student, she was selected to represent the graduating class by the college deans and Dr. Roberta T. Anderson, MSU's vice president for academic affairs.

Isner, the daughter of James and Colleen Clay of Virgie, is a former president of MSU's Future Interior Designers Association and served on the Student Advisory Council of the Department of Home Economics.

She and her husband, Don, reside in Lexington, where she is an interior designer with A Slight Indulgence Interiors, Inc.

Following the conferring of degrees by Dr. Albright, the new graduates will be inducted into MSU's Alumni Association.

Dr. Marc D. Glasser, professor of English, will serve as grand marshal with Dr. Everett J. Campbell, professor of economics, and Dr. Frances Helphinstine, professor of English, assisting as faculty marshals.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Job Training Program will offer classes in three medically-related fields beginning Jan. 19.

The 18-week courses, sponsored by MSU's Office of Extended Campus Programs, will include:

*Health care clerk. This program gives a basic understanding of drug terminology, medical transcription and billing.

*Pharmacy technician. Training includes assisting a pharmacist in non-professional aspects of preparing and dispensing medication.

"The courses are designed to train people for jobs available in this area," said Jacquelyn Scott, job training coordinator. "JTPA classes combine classroom teaching with hands-on experience." Five people currently enrolled in these courses have already found jobs and there is still two weeks more of training, according to Scott.

Funded through TEN-CO Private Industry Council, the classes are free to qualified residents of Bath, Boyd, Bracken, Fleming, Greenup, Lewis, Montgomery, Mason, Robertson and Rowan Counties.

Additional information is available from Scott at (606) 783-2370 or the Department of Employment Services.

SPECIAL TO DELTA MAGAZINE/SIGMA NU FRATERNITY

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Strong leadership is the key to success.

That's the philosophy of Morehead State University's 10th president, Dr. A.D. Albright, who in just six short months has brought the institution through what many considered a critical period.

Undaunted by the projection of a 9 percent enrollment drop for the fall term, Dr. Albright was the impetus behind an aggressive recruitment campaign which resulted instead in a 3.5 percent increase in students after nearly a decade of enrollment erosion.

When Kentucky's 73-year-old "Statesman of Higher Education" took over the leadership role on July 1, 1986, he also inherited a campus which had become polarized as a result of strong philosophical differences between the previous Board of Regents and his predecessor.

Those highly publicized differences had nearly overshadowed the institution's continued commitment to education and had tarnished MSU's image throughout its service region and beyond.

Through Dr. Albright's efforts, the campus is stabilizing and a renewed sense of pride in the institution's record of service is evident not only internally but outside in its service region.

In addition to authorizing a media campaign to increase public awareness of MSU's successful alumni and outstanding educational programs, Dr. Albright himself logged more than 3,000 miles in his first three weeks as president, paying personal visits to educators and civic leaders in all 22 of the school's service region counties.

One-on-one contact is typical of Dr. Albright's style, not just externally but on the campus itself as well. On nearly any given day he can be seen around campus talking with professors, custodians and students--sometimes about important matters of state or, as often as not, about themselves.

More importantly, he is a listener. "Dr. Albright has the ability to make you feel that you are the only person in the world when you are talking with him," said one of his colleagues.

The ability to bring out the best in people with varied talents and interests is the hallmark of a good leader and there are many who will tell you that Dr. A.D. Albright excels at this.

In 1931, when he became initiate 396 in DePauw University's Beta Beta Chapter of Sigma Nu, one of the lessons A.D. Albright learned was how to work with people of differing opinions and styles.

"There was a camaraderie there despite our differences," Dr. Albright recalled, noting that some of his brothers turned out to be educators like himself while others became businessmen, ministers and journalists.

"No matter what our problems may have been, we knew that within the bonds of the brotherhood there would be someone who could and would help," said Dr. Albright. "You could always depend on the support of the fraternity."

The president, who recently received honorary membership into the campus chapter of Order of Omega and was recognized as "Brother #1" in MSU's Theta Tau Chapter of Sigma Nu, believes the Greek system has a place in campus life.

"The Greek system can perform a significant role on a university campus today, but only if its leadership emphasizes the university's main purpose--scholastic pursuit," Dr. Albright said. "Anything other than that detracts from the Greek system," said the educator, who came out of retirement to accept the challenges at Morehead State.

(In fact, before voting to extend the post to him, MSU's Board of Regents had to waive a University policy prohibiting hiring anyone age 70 or older.)

Dubbed by the media as an "educational Mr. Fix-It" for his many years of trouble-shooting in the academic diplomatic corps, Dr. Albright theoretically retired in 1983 after seven years as president of Northern Kentucky University, a school he is credited with bringing into the mainstream of the state's higher education system. Earlier he was called on to serve as executive director of Kentucky's Council on Higher Education from 1970 to 1973 guiding it through a transition period.

That role had followed a 16-year career at the University of Kentucky where he had held numerous top level administrative posts, including vice president for institutional planning, interim president, executive vice president and provost.

In addition to a Fulbright Lectureship to Belgium and a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship at New York University where he earned his Ph.D., Dr. Albright's awards include honorary degrees from several institutions including Thomas More College. He earned his A.B. degree from Milligan College and his M.S. from the University of Tennessee.

He has been a member of the Carnegie Foundation National Advisory Panel, chairman of the Commonwealth of Kentucky Committee of Presidents and has served as a consultant for state, national and international governmental and professional bodies.

His leadership efforts also extend to the national education scene, where he has served on the boards of the American College Testing Program, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the Southern Regional Education Board and is a former chairman of the Committee on State Relations, American Association of State Colleges and Universities. He also has been active in the Kentucky Educational Television Authority.

The listing of professional credits could go on and on, but it tends somewhat to create a sterile profile of a very remarkable, warm human being who has very quietly and methodically gone about to fulfill the only mandate he received from the Board of Regents--"to lay the groundwork for the person who comes in next."

When MSU's 11th president, Dr. C. Nelson Grote, now chief executive officer for the Community Colleges of Spokane, Wash., comes on board July 1, he will find that A.D. Albright again has successfully fulfilled his mission.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Individual Events (IE) Team closed out the fall semester of competition last weekend with two second place finishes and a collection of 296 sweepstakes points in Rhode Island.

With George Mason University of Rhode Island taking first, MSU placed second at the University of Rhode Island and traveled to Brown University, for a second tournament claiming second place honors.

Competing against 25 universities from the eastern United States, Morehead placed higher than such teams as Emerson, Brown, William and Mary, New York University, University of Virginia and Southern Connecticut.

Bringing home more than 37 awards and trophies, MSU added 10 national qualifiers to the list of those going toward competition in Minnesota in the spring.

Coach Gene Alesandrini was particularly pleased that all of Morehead's entrants won trophies and contributed equally to the 296 sweepstakes team total.

"Ordinarily one or two team members stand out, but this particular weekend everyone on the team did extremely well and helped propel Morehead to its impressive finish," Alesandrini said.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Jack Henson, manager of Morehead State University's Adron Doran University Center for 17½ years, will join the Department of Business and Economics faculty full-time, effective with the spring semester.

"Teaching has always held a strong attraction for me," said Henson, who has taught business education on a part-time basis since 1970. "I have wanted to enter the classroom on a full-time basis for sometime, but the timing just hadn't been right. I'm really looking forward to this," said Henson, an assistant professor of business education.

Announcement of the change and the appointment of Clyde James, MSU's Greek affairs and student organizations coordinator, to succeed Henson was made by Michael Mincey, vice president for student development.

James has been part of the student development administrative staff since 1974 in various posts, including four years as associate dean of students. He began his MSU career in 1967 as a member of the business faculty and taught until 1973.

"I'm delighted to have these new challenges in a field that offers me the opportunity to continue working with students," said James. His coordinator duties will be assumed by Myron Doan, assistant to the vice president for student development, according to Mincey.

"Mr. James' years of experience in working with students, plus his business background will provide him with excellent resources to draw upon in his new post," said Mincey.

"We are most appreciative of Mr. Henson's years of service and are pleased that he has this opportunity to reach his goal of teaching full-time," Mincey noted.

Henson earned the B.S.E. and M.S.E. degrees from Arkansas State University and holds an M.H.E. degree from MSU. He is a member of several organizations including the College Personnel Association of Kentucky and the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators (NASPA).

A past distinguished lieutenant governor of the Kentucky-West Virginia District of Optimist International, he also is active in the First Baptist Church of Morehead.

James, a native of Morehead, earned his B.S. degree from MSU and a master's degree in education from Indiana University.

Named as one of 1979's "Outstanding Young Men of America," James is a former president of the College Personnel Association of Kentucky and is active in the American College Personnel Association, NASPA, and the Southern College Personnel Association.

He also has held offices in Phi Delta Kappa professional fraternity for educators and the Morehead Men's Club.

"You Can Do Magic" was the theme of the weekend conference designed to help nearly 1,600 students and their advisers analyze their leadership qualities.

"MSU students served as workshop leaders and attended Future Homemakers of America and Home Economics Related Occupations (FHA-HERO) advisers' sessions," according to Jane C. Ellington, MSU assistant professor of home economics, who also attended the conference.

MSU participants were:

- *September C. Cardiff, senior, daughter of Lorraine Briggs of Dry Ridge;

The third in a series of nationally sponsored training conferences, the leadership session offered 20 workshops for participants. Workshops included project management, community service, fundraising, peer education and communications.

Ellington called the conference "a valuable experience on a national level of leadership" for MSU students.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--When Capt. Bart Jeffrey accepted a position as assistant professor in the Department of Military Science at Morehead State University, he was really coming home.

Coming home to his roots, that is.

Although he was born in South Carolina and grew up in Virginia, Jeffrey's heritage goes back to Eastern Kentucky. His great-great-great-grandmother was Jenny Wiley, the pioneer woman who was captured by the Indians in 1789. A state park in Prestonsburg is named in her honor.

When Jeffrey discusses his grandmother, he describes her as a remarkable individual. "She suffered so many hardships and still remained a strong woman," he said. According to history, she saw her children killed by the Indians and was forced to travel many miles over rough terrain. Maintaining her sanity, she was able to escape after nearly a year in captivity.

"It has only been during the last few years that I learned of this relationship," Jeffrey said. "Since that time, I have been trying to locate people who were related to my family," he continued. His family ancestry includes the surnames of Price, Vickers, Tackett, Dillon and Sellards.

Jeffrey, a 15-year veteran of the U.S. Army, has served in Europe and most recently in the Panama Canal Zone before coming to MSU earlier this year.

He and his wife Barbara Ann have two children.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Six Morehead State University professors have been chosen to serve academic administrative internships under a new program designed to provide management experience for faculty.

"The Academic Affairs Associates Program really serves two purposes," Dr. Roberta Anderson, MSU's vice president for academic affairs, said.

"It provides faculty members with an opportunity to demonstrate their administrative ability and offers the University a way to tap into the expertise already here on campus," she added.

Selected for the program were:

Pauline Ramey, assistant professor of nursing and coordinator of continuing education for nursing and allied health, who will serve as academic affairs associate for administration;

Working with various faculty committees, Ramey as administration associate will be involved in such areas as workload, academic policies and revision of the faculty handbook.

As curriculum associate, Dr. Wilson will work with the University undergraduate curriculum committee to develop and distribute guidelines for program reviews or curriculum changes. She also will assist departments in preparing curriculum review information.

In his role of faculty wellness associate, Dr. Rogers will be involved in a wide range of program planning in personal and professional development areas including physical fitness, financial and social.

Dr. Hammons, fiscal resources associate, will assist Dr. Anderson in developing the academic affairs budget for 1987-88. He also will work with the Salary Equity Committee and the Faculty Senate's financial affairs committee.

As academic advising associate, Dr. Luckey will work with the faculty to establish an institution-wide advising system which will include computerized record keeping. She also will assist in revision of the advising handbook and developing inservice training in academic advising.

Dr. Demaree as retention associate will be responsible for assisting departments and appropriate committees in designing programs to increase student retention. She also will develop a profile of MSU's students to determine specific retention problem areas.

During their six-month internships, the associates will continue to teach, but will receive either reassigned time or overload credit as well as a stipend, according to Dr. Anderson.

"The concept is not new, as similar programs have proved to be highly successful on campuses nationwide. In fact, it has been employed here informally as well. The associates program formalizes it and offers additional recognition to participants," Dr. Anderson said. "All faculty members were invited to apply or nominate a colleague," she added.

MSU'S WINTER COMMENCEMENT: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Addressing a standing-room-only crowd, Morehead State University President A.D. Albright charged December graduates to be "ambassadors of education in this region."

Seated, standing along the sides and back, and even overflowing into the lobby of Button Auditorium, friends and relatives of the graduates watched as Dr. Albright conferred degrees on some 370 graduate and undergraduate candidates during MSU's Winter Commencement on Saturday, Dec. 20.

Estimated at nearly 1,800 people, it was the largest turnout for Winter Commencement in its three-year history.

Noting that there were some "who should be here but aren't," Dr. Albright reminded the audience that too many of Kentucky's youth who enter high school do not graduate and re-emphasized the University's commitment to work with leaders in the region to alter that pattern.

Pointing to recent announcements from Toyota that the firm would not hire anyone without a high school education, he told the graduates that the University needed their help to reduce the number who fall by the wayside.

"MSU also must devote more time and energy to helping young people enter college after high school," he said, calling for an increase of 10 percent in the number of high school graduates entering college--whether at MSU or elsewhere. He urged the class members to talk to others about the value of education.

Student speaker Kimberly Clay Isner of Lexington also reminded her classmates of the importance of being well equipped with a higher education in today's technological society.

Commencement

"Doors will be opened and opportunities will be available to those who are well prepared," said Isner, daughter of James and Colleen Clay of Virgie. "Careers not even thought about today will be open to a person who has received a quality education," she added.

The recipient of a B.S. degree in interior design, Isner urged her fellow students to continue their education throughout their lives, saying "Education is a never-ending process and knowledge is a valuable asset."

Representing MSU's Board of Regents, Dr. John R. Duncan recounted his own doubts and insecurities as a student at MSU, stressing how he received encouragement and support from the University community to realize his potential.

"That is the mission of this University," the faculty regent said, "to take persons like yourselves and help you realize your potential. We owe you this, but you owe this institution as well," the professor of education continued, adding that the graduates should see that MSU keeps its goals firmly fixed.

Cutlines:

- 2--Button Auditorium was filled to capacity and then some as friends and relatives of the December graduates turned out for that very special moment.
- 3--MSU President A.D. Albright, noting that Winter Commencement had drawn its largest crowd, expressed concern for "those who should be here, but aren't." He urged the new graduates to be "ambassadors of education in this region." In the background are, left, Dr. John R. Duncan, faculty regent; Carlos Cassady of Inez, student regent, and Dr. Roberta Anderson, vice president for academic affairs.
- 4--"Doors will be opened and opportunities will be available to those who are well prepared," said student speaker Kimberly Clay Isner, whose parents James and Colleen Clay are themselves educators in Pike County.
- 6--Afterwards, it was the time for family and friends to greet the new alumni.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Addressing a standing-room-only crowd, Morehead State University President A.D. Albright charged December graduates to be "ambassadors of education in this region."

Seated, standing along the sides and back, and even overflowing into the lobby of Button Auditorium, friends and relatives of the graduates watched as Dr. Albright conferred degrees on some 370 graduate and undergraduate candidates during MSU's Winter Commencement on Saturday, Dec. 20.

Estimated at nearly 1,800 people, it was the largest turnout for Winter Commencement in its three-year history.

Noting that there were some "who should be here but aren't," Dr. Albright reminded the audience that too many of Kentucky's youth who enter high school do not graduate and re-emphasized the University's commitment to work with leaders in the region to alter that pattern.

Pointing to recent announcements from Toyota that the firm would not hire anyone without a high school education, he told the graduates that the University needed their help to reduce the number who fall by the wayside.

"MSU also must devote more time and energy to helping young people enter college after high school," he said, calling for an increase of 10 percent in the number of high school graduates entering college--whether at MSU or elsewhere. He urged the class members to talk to others about the value of education.

Student speaker Kimberly Clay Isner of Lexington also reminded her classmates of the importance of being well equipped with a higher education in today's technological society.

"Doors will be opened and opportunities will be available to those who are well prepared," said Isner, daughter of James and Colleen Clay of Virgie. "Careers not even thought about today will be open to a person who has received a quality education," she added.

The recipient of a B.S. degree in interior design, Isner urged her fellow students to continue their education throughout their lives, saying "Education is a never-ending process and knowledge is a valuable asset."

Representing MSU's Board of Regents, Dr. John R. Duncan recounted his own doubts and insecurities as a student at MSU, stressing how he received encouragement and support from the University community to realize his potential.

"That is the mission of this University," the faculty regent said, "to take persons like yourselves and help you realize your potential. We owe you this, but you owe this institution as well," the professor of education continued, adding that the graduates should see that MSU keeps its goals firmly fixed.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Veterinary Technology Program has received full re-accreditation through 1988 by the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA).

An associate degree offering of the College of Applied Sciences and Technology's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the program has maintained its full accreditation status since 1977.

The re-accreditation came following a review by an inspection team from the AVMA's Committee on Animal Technician Activities and Training which studied the program's budget, faculty members, research projects and curriculum, according to Dr. Applegate, program coordinator.

"The faculty, staff and students involved with this program should be very proud of their record of achievement," said MSU President A.D. Albright. "In fact, the vet tech program has repeatedly attracted national recognition which reflects on the University as a whole," Dr. Albright added.

The past year has been an exciting one for the program which saw one of its graduates earn the highest score in the nation on the National Board Examination for Animal Technicians, according to Dr. Judy Willard, department chair.

In addition, MSU has asked the Kentucky Council on Higher Education to approve the offering of a four-year degree in veterinary technology in addition to its associate degree program. If approved, it would be one of only three in the nation.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--High School seniors from Floyd County will receive career information, be eligible for free concert tickets, and have a fun time, all in the same evening in early January in Prestonsburg.

Morehead State University will host "Senior Opportunity Night" on Wednesday Jan. 7, at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

High school seniors and their parents from Allen Central, Betsy Layne, McDowell, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright high schools have received special invitations to attend.

The evening's activities begin with registration at 7 p.m. A video presentation depicting campus life and welcoming remarks by MSU President A.D. Albright are included.

Tim Rhodes, financial aid director, will advise students and their parents on the procedure of filing financial aid application forms. Personnel from MSU's various colleges and academic departments will be present to discuss each student's areas of special interest. Representatives from admissions, housing and student development and organizations also will be available.

The seniors will be eligible for several door prizes, including MSU memorabilia and tickets to the Beach Boys and .38 Special concerts, scheduled at MSU in February.
