MSU HOSTS BLACK HISTORY MONTH ACTIVITY

Morehead State University celebrated Black History Month in February by hosting several activities on campus. One event, a candid discussion on the "African American Family: Past, Present and Future," was conducted by Dr. Bette J. Dickerson of Washington, D.C., research and development analyst for the Delta Research and Educational Foundation, and Ralph L. Douglass of Washington, D.C., an educational research consultant in private practice. Visiting after the program were, from left, Douglass, Sherri Jackson, St. Louis, Mo., sophomore, and Dickerson. Dickerson, a 1972 graduate of MSU, is a former program assistant for W.K. Kellogg Foundation in Battle Creek, Mich., and former George Edmund Haynes Fellow with the National Urban League in New York City. Dickerson is a native of Ashland.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's enrollment figures for Spring 1987 show a dramatic increase of 7.3 percent over Spring 1986, according to figures released today by the University.

The spring headcount enrollment is 5,740, compared with 5,351 at this time last year, and includes a 2.3 percent increase in full-time students, MSU President A.D. Albright announced.

"While the full-time student growth reverses the trend of recent years, there are other significant gains to be noted," he added.

"The spring enrollment picture includes a substantial increase, 19.2 percent, in part-time students over last spring, reflecting our increased outreach to graduate students and new undergraduate programs at our regional centers," Dr. Albright said. "The figures demonstrate that we are meeting a real need in our service region."

MSU also saw a 22.3 percent increase in freshmen/transfer students over the previous spring figure. "At the moment, our registration data base has not sorted newly-enrolled freshmen from students who transferred in, but this size increase does tell us that students are recognizing the opportunities MSU offers," Dr. Albright said.

Increases, ranging from 5.4 percent to 9.3 percent, were seen in all classes, except for the sophomore class.

Enrollment

"Dubbed the 'comeback kid' by the news media for last fall's enrollment gains, MSU continues to live up to its nickname. A lot of good things are happening at MSU right now thanks to our friends and the efforts of a dedicated faculty and staff," Dr. Albright said.

The following is a comparison of the 1986 and 1987 Spring enrollments by class.

	Spring 86	Spring 87	Change
 Freshman/ Transfer	1,239	1,515	+22.3%	***
Sophomores	1,001	885	-13.1%
Juniors	816	900	+ 9.3%
Seniors	953	1,004	+ 5.4%
Graduate	1,342	1,436	+ 7.0%
Total	5,351	5,740	+ 7.3%

NOTE: This figure is the combined total of new freshman and students who transferred to MSU this spring.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University was recently recognized for its participation in the YMCA Black Achievers Program of Lexington.

"Through the program, MSU awards three minority grants to black students in the Lexington area," Jerry Gore, MSU director of minority student affairs, said. "The Black Achievers Program decides which students in the program are eligible for the grants, then the University selects the students who will receive them."

MSU uses the following guidelines in awarding the grants: applicant must be admitted as a freshman at MSU, be a Kentucky resident, have demonstrated academic and/or extracurricular achievement and submit a scholarship application to MSU.

The scholarship may be renewed for a total of four years. The applicant must maintain a 2.5 g.p.a. as a freshman and a 2.75 cumulative g.p.a. thereafter.

The Black Achievers Program is sponsored by the YMCA. The purpose of the program is to aid the social and educational development of black students in the Lexington area. It does this by pairing a student with a black professional from the region to act as a role model, according to Gore.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University cheerleaders have been named one of the top 20 squads in the nation.

Following the National College Championship held recently in San Diego, Calif., MSU's squad was notified that it was ranked 11th from among more than 230 squads in the competition. The cheerleaders were awarded a plaque and certification of participation.

Competition was funded by Ford Motor Company. The Universal Cheerleaders Association (UCA) of Memphis, Tenn., hosted the event and staff members served as judges.

The MSU cheerleaders submitted a video tape prior to the competition. Each squad was scored on group participation, performance of a cheer, sideline and fight song routine.

The MSU squad, who also placed in the top 20 last year, received a "superior" rating at UCA's collegiate camp last August.

Cheerleaders representing MSU were Linda Chouinard, Maysville junior; Melissa Collins, Morehead sophomore; Jeanie Large, Ironton, Ohio, sophomore; Beth Lucas, Whitesburg freshman; Donna Jean Roberts, Robinson Creek freshman; Michael Ebright, Carroll, Ohio, senior; William Logan, Ashland graduate student; Mike McBeath, Lexington sophomore, Ronald R. Pies, Harrison, Ohio, freshman, and Richard Pinson, Elkhorn City sophomore. Alternates were Stephanie Dunaway, Clearfield senior and Scott Cooke, Ashland senior.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Weight Watchers Workshop is off and running with a weight loss of 262 pounds for the first two weeks.

Sixty-four people are enrolled in the workshop: three Morehead residents, 16 students, and 45 faculty and staff. Adron Doran University Center cafeteria workers prepare the approved meals daily. Anyone can request the meals at the beginning of the line.

Classes for the workshop meet Mondays at 4:30 p.m. in ADUC's Eagle Room. Registration is $20 and the weekly fee is $8. Joyce Saxon, assistant professor of mathematics, is the counselor.

The program ends May 11, but individuals may still enroll. A few slots are still available for faculty and staff at the reduced weekly rate of $4. To derive the full benefit of the program anyone interested should sign up soon, according to Shirley Hamilton, coordinator of training for Extended Campus Programs.

The workshop is cosponsored and underwritten by the Faculty and Staff Wellness Committee and Extended Campus Programs. Additional information may be obtained by calling George Eyster, 783-2542, or Shirley Hamilton, 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University hopes to have a new men's basketball coach named by April 1, according to Dr. Mike Brown, chairman of MSU's Athletics Committee which will handle the search for a successor to Wayne M. Martin who resigned this week.

March 28 is the deadline for applications in the national search, according to Brown. Applications will be reviewed initially by an eight-member screening committee which will include two representatives of MSU's athletic fund raising body, the Eagle Athletic Fund. Brown said the full committee will conduct interviews and make a recommendation to MSU President A. D. Albright.

"We feel that our men's basketball program is in good shape in terms of players and public support and that we can attract a good coach who can build on Coach Martin's successful nine years," Dr. Brown added.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Noted poet Stephen Corey will be at Morehead State University for a two-day Writers in Residence Program on March 23-24.

The program, sponsored by MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy and the Epsilon Lambda Sigma English fraternity, has been made possible in part by a grant from the Kentucky Arts Council.

Corey is the associate editor of "The Georgia Review." Among his publishing credits are four volumes of poetry and numerous poems published in a variety of magazines including "The New Republic," "Southern Poetry Review" and "Southern Humanities Review." His awards and honors include a Poetry Fellowship from the Georgia Council for the Arts.

Corey will hold hour-long informal discussions with students, faculty and interested townspeople on Monday, March 23, at 9:10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. and again on Tuesday, March 24, at 8 a.m. and 10:20 a.m. These sessions are scheduled in the Wellman Building, located behind the Combs Building on the campus.

Corey will give a public reading in the Red Room, Adron Doran University Center, Monday at 7:30 p.m. A reception will follow the reading. Both are free and open to the public.

Copies of Corey's poetry and single copies of "The Georgia Review" will be available at the public reading, the University Store and the offices of the Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy. Additional information may be obtained by calling 783-2185.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Kentucky Council on Higher Education has selected Morehead State University to receive funds from the Governor's Minority Student College Preparation Program.

MSU will receive $8,060 per year for two years for the Horizon Program. The program is designed to encourage and motivate black junior high and high school students to continue their education. The program will aid the six-county region of Bath, Boyd, Clark, Fleming, Mason and Montgomery.

Activities for the program include:

Minority Junior High/High School Day - Two weekends for parents and students on the MSU campus to provide them with information on the educational opportunities available at MSU and the practical benefits of higher education.

Black Scholars Academic Bowl - A competition for 80 junior high and high school students representing 16 teams.

Minority Scholars and Leaders Academic Excellence Workshops - Two workshops conducted by minority teachers, assisted by minority students, from the service region. The workshops will be on improving academic and leadership skills.

The program is to make minority students and communities aware of educational and career opportunities, according to Jerry Gore, ^{MSU}director of Minority Student Affairs.

"These activities will give minority students a chance to experience university life," Gore said. "We want to change their perceptions of college and make them aware of higher education earlier in their lives. We're trying to make higher education a practical option for the minority student," Gore noted.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Tobacco production, historically an important part of Kentucky's economy, is the subject for a bas-relief sculpture proposed by a Morehead State University professor.

Stephen Tirone, associate professor of art, was awarded a Creative Production Grant of $845 from MSU's Research and Patent Committee. He is the first recipient of this grant.

His first idea for the sculpture was for a more abstract work, but he later decided on a subject more relevant to the Morehead community, farming. The sculpture will depict a farmer in five different poses representing the five stages of tobacco production.

"We feel this is an excellent project. It is a great opportunity for the artist to represent the culture of the region," Carole Morella, chair of the Research and Patent Committee, said.

The work will be an outdoor sculpture. "I want to place it in town, rather than on campus," Tirone said. "I want the work to be displayed where the entire community can enjoy it."

Work on the sculpture will involve several artists. Tirone will be working on it, as well as local artists and graduate and undergraduate art students.

At this point, Tirone is at the scale-model stage; but the finished work will be one foot thick, eight feet high and 16 feet long. "Wood from the Morehead area will be the main material," Tirone said.

The deadline for completion of the project is June 30, but Tirone hopes to have it finished earlier.

~~Tirone has been at the University since September 1982. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of South Carolina-Columbia and his M.A. and M.F.A. degrees from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. He is a member of the National Ceramics Association and the Kentucky Art Educators Association.~~

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" will be the theme for Morehead State University's annual Founders Day on March 26.

Playing key roles in the day-long observance will be four of MSU's past, current and future presidents.

They include Dr. Adron Doran, who headed the school from 1954 to 1976; Dr. Morris L. Norfleet, who served from 1977 to 1984; Dr. A.D. Albright, the current president, and Dr. C. Nelson Grote, who becomes MSU's 11th president on July 1.

"With this panel of illustrious speakers added to some very special people who will be regognized throughout the day, this year's program will be an exciting one," said Dr. William B. Pierce, Founders Day chairperson.

The day begins with the traditional Fellowship Breakfast at 7 a.m. in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center with Dr. Norfleet as speaker.

Dr. Doran will address the Founders Day Convocation at 10:20 a.m. in Button Auditorium. Classes meeting at 10:20 a.m. and 11:20 a.m. will be dismissed to enable students and faculty to attend the convocation. MSU also will present its 1987 Founders Day Award for University Service during the convocation.

As host of a noon luncheon in the Crager Room, Dr. Albright will recognize current and former members of MSU's Board of Regents for their contributions to the institution.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, president-elect, will cap the day as speaker for the Founders Day/Alumni Awards dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Crager Room.

Honorees at the dinner will include Dr. Robert Coleman, a Carter County native and founder of the Massachusetts-based Nova Biomedical; Dr. John Gearhart, a surgeon at Johns Hopkins University, and David Bolt of Morehead, immediate past president of the MSU Alumni Association. All have been selected for induction into MSU's Alumni Hall of Fame.

Honorary Alumni Awards will be presented to Terry and Susan Jacobs of Cincinnati. George T. Young, professor emeritus of history, will receive a special Alumni Service Award.

"We want to see as many alumni and friends as possible here for the day's festivities," Pierce said. "The committee has created a special ticket package for the Founders Day meal programs. All events are open to the public and there is no charge for the convocation."

If tickets are reserved by March 25, the cost per person for all three meals will be $10, representing a $5.50 savings over the per-meal price.

Tickets are available from any member of the Founders Day Committee or by contacting the ticket chairperson, Anna Mae Riggle, Morehead State University, UPO 938, Morehead, Ky. 40351. Phone: (606) 783-2668.

Also beginning March 16, tickets may be purchased in Morehead at Martin's Department Store or at The Music Machine in Trademore Shopping Center.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Northeast Kentucky Beef Improvement Federation will hold its annual performance tested bull sale on Friday, March 27.

Scheduled to be held in Richardson Arena at Morehead State University's Derrickson Agriculture Complex, three miles north of Morehead on KY. 377, the sale will commence at 7:30 p.m.

"Included in this year's sale are 32 bulls representing 7 breeds, which means a much more uniform and higher quality set of bulls than previously offered in this sale," said Jim Akers, secretary/treasurer of NKBIF.

"This has traditionally been a very reasonable sale where beef producers could buy excellent quality, young sires for a fair price," he continued. "The beauty of buying at a performance tested sale is that all the questions are removed and you pay for exactly what you want with some basis to assure you of quality," Akers added.

Beef producers interested in obtaining a catalog and performance information on the bulls can do so by writing or calling: Jim Akers, UPO 702, Reed Hall, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351. Phone: (606) 783-2664

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Individual Events (IE) Team placed first in the Kentucky Forensics Association's State Championships for the 10th consecutive year.

Capturing four of the six individual speaker awards, MSU out distanced second-place Murray State University by 100 sweepstakes points in the competition held at Georgetown (Ky.) College on Feb. 27-28.

MSU IE Coach Gene Alesandrini said he was extremely pleased with his team's overall finish. "Without a debate team we started out with a 43-point handicap, but we more than made up that deficit," said Alesandrini, instructor of speech.

In addition, the speech team qualified for six more slots in national competition for a total of 47 national slots for this year. MSU has two more qualifying tournament competitions still ahead, Alesandrini said.

Emerging as the state tournament's top speaker was Margaret Holt, Radcliff senior. Holt finished first in informative and rhetorical criticism, second in impromptu, third in extemporaneous, fourth in after dinner speaking, and fifth in both duo and persuasion.

Other contributors to MSU's first-place win were: Lisa Shemwell, Winchester senior, who finished as one tournament's third place speaker with first in persuasion; second place in informative and after dinner, third place in rhetorical criticism, and fifth place in impromptu and extemporaneous;

Vonda Ramey, Morehead senior, who finished as fourth place speaker with third place in persuasion and informative, fourth place in poetry and rhetorical criticism, fifth place in duo, and sixth place in prose and extemporaneous; Kevin Cockrell, Mt. Sterling junior, who finished in fifth place with first in impromptu, second place in extemporaneous, and third place in duo, dramatic interpretation, prose and poetry.

Other winners include: Morehead sophomore John Burchett, third place in duo and sixth in after dinner; Somerset sophomore Melissa Noble, second place in rhetorical criticism and fourth place in informative; Ashcamp freshman Lori Hawkins, fifth place in dramatic interpretation and informative, and sixth in poetry; Elkhorn City freshman Darin Blackburn, fifth place in after dinner, and Louisville senior Ricky Vaughn, sixth place in rhetorical criticism.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Harold Rose, Morehead State University professor of education, has received two grants to develop programs to aid adult education in Kentucky.

One, the Adult Education Partnership with Business and Industry Grant totalling $55,142, was funded by the Kentucky Department of Education. This grant involves the General Education Development Foundation, mandated by Kentucky statute last year. The foundation was established to work with business and industry to identify and correct educational problems in the workforce.

"This grant will provide the funds to get the project off the ground," said Dr. Rose, project director. "After Sept. 1, the Foundation will be self-supporting."

The other grant, the Kentucky Adult Basic Education Evaluation Program Grant for $66,402, is designed to develop an evaluation system for Kentucky's adult education programs. This is the first systematic evaluation program for the state in 20 years, according to Dr. Rose. The grant is funded by the Division of Adult Education, Kentucky Department of Education.

"This is the first year of the evaluation program," Dr. Rose explained. "Fifteen adult education programs will be evaluated this year to test the evaluation system. Next year the remaining programs in the state will be tested," he noted.

The criteria used for evaluation was developed by the United States Office of Education and revised by the Kentucky Department of Education and the evaluation teams. The teams composed of three to seven people will conduct on-site reviews of each program.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's third annual High School Art Exhibit is currently on display in the main gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building.

The exhibition of more than 300 pieces will run through March 27. The artists represent approximately 15 schools in eastern Kentucky.

The works cover 16 different art media categories, ranging from pastels to prints. First, second and third place winners will be chosen in each category. First-place winners will go on to the state show in Frankfort where they will be eligible to win one or more $500 scholarships to the college of their choice.

The artworks may be viewed Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In conjunction with the exhibition, MSU will hold High School Art Day on March 25 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. More than 500 students, representing approximately 15 schools from throughout Kentucky are expected to attend.

According to Steve Tirone, associate professor of art, the students will tour the art building and attend student and faculty demonstrations and other events.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--For the fourth consecutive year, Morehead State University's campus will be the site for the Eastern Kentucky Regional Foreign Language Festival, slated Wednesday, April 1.

Nearly 500 French, German, Latin, Russian and Spanish language students from 10 senior and junior high schools are expected to compete in a variety of academic and non-academic categories, according to Regional Festival Director Mary Jo Netherton, MSU associate professor of French. Regional winners will compete in the State Foreign Language Festival scheduled May 16 at the University of Kentucky.

Area schools expected to compete in the regional event, sponsored by MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy and the College of Arts and Sciences, include:

Rowan County High School, Boyd County High School, Paul Blazer of Ashland, Mason County High School (Maysville), Raceland High School, Bath County High School (Owingsville), Pikeville High School, Catlettsburg Junior High School, Summit Junior High School (Ashland) and Verity Middle School (Ashland).

The academic categories include written proficiency, oral proficiency, listening proficiency, recitation of a literary passage, and extemporaneous prose reading. Non-academic categories include art, realia, drama, chorus, and costumes.

Judges for the festival will include members of MSU's foreign language faculty as well as native-speaking students and three guest judges: Wayne Perkins, Fleming County High School teacher; Elizabeth Grannis, Clark County High School teacher, and Martha Maggard of the West Carter High School faculty. Student coordinator for the festival is Debra Riley of Morehead, senior mathematics and French major.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The 20th annual Miss Morehead State University Scholarship Pageant will feature the talent of 12 former pageant winners as nine MSU students vie for this year's title.

The Pageant, with a theme of "20 Years Remembered," will be held on Saturday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. in Button Auditorium.

The nine MSU students competing are: Christine Affinito, Dresden, Ohio, junior; Annette Jean Barnhill, West Union, Ohio, junior; Dinah Michaelle Bates, Topmost sophomore; Susan Joy DeArmond, West Portsmouth, Ohio, junior;

Each contestant will be judged in four areas: a seven-minute private interview, with the judges; evening gown competition; swimsuit competition, and talent competition. Points are assessed on the contestants' knowledge of current events, correct grammar usage, poise, confidence, and personality. Fifty percent of the total points will come from the talent competition where the candidate's potential and performance value are judged.

The winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship, while the first and second runners-up will receive $800 and $600 respectively. Other contestants will receive $25 book scholarships from the University Store.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A photographic biography of regional writer Eudora Welty is on exhibit at Morehead State University now through April 8.

Housed in the Alternative Gallery of Claypool-Young Art Building, the exhibit, entitled simply "Eudora," documents visually the early married years of her parents, her birth and those of her brothers and concludes with the publication of her first book in 1941.

The gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

The photographs, taken primarily by Welty's father, were selected from more than 500 negatives, the most recent additions to the Eudora Welty Collection in Mississippi's Department of Archives and History.

The comments accompanying the photographs are by the Mississippi author, who writes of the family as "the deepest spring" of the heart. The exhibit is funded in part by the Southern Arts Federation through a grant from National Endowment for the Arts.

Complementing the exhibit will be a one-woman show, "Sister and Miss Lexie," based on Welty's writing and featuring award-winning film and Broadway actress Brenda Currin. Scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Monday, April 6, the performance is part of the Arts in Morehead (AIM) Concert and Lecture Series programming. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2788.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. June E. O'Connell, has been named coordinator of Morehead State University's Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree program.

"Dr. O'Connell is highly experienced in designing curriculum for nursing degree programs at both the baccalaureate and associate levels." said Dr. Betty Porter, chair of MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences.

"Her background includes classroom teaching, administration and service as a head nurse for medical/surgical units and other supervisory roles," Dr. Porter said. "Dr. O'Connell's experience will be extremely beneficial to our program as we continue developing and implementing our four-year degree in nursing."

Dr. O'Connell graduated from the Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing in Detroit and earned her B.S. and M.Ed. degrees from Wayne State University. She also holds the M.S.N. degree and a doctorate from Ohio State University.

She is a former assistant to the dean of OSU's College of Nursing, and also has served as Nursing Program chairperson at both Suomi College and Columbus Technical Institute.

Her areas of expertise include clinical evaluation of nursing students, assisting new nursing faculty members assume the faculty role and crisis intervention for adults.

She is a member of the National League for Nursing and Sigma Theta Tau nursing honorary society.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Festival goers may wish to mark their calendars now for Morehead State University's week-long Appalachian Celebration scheduled June 21-27.

An annual summer event, the Celebration features concerts, classes, exhibits and demonstrations which emphasize the rich heritage and current strengths of the Appalachian culture and region.

Highlights this year include: a McLain Family Band Concert Thursday evening, June 25; the one-day Arts and Crafts Market Saturday, June 27, and week-long open classes in quilting, basket making, wood working and other traditional skills.

The Jesse Stuart Symposium is again slated for Tuesday afternoon, June 23, and both Elderhostel participants and children can sign up for a full week of workshops planned especially for them.

Three scholars-in-residence will bring their expertise to the Celebration this year; Michael Williams, Methodist pastor and master storyteller; Marilou Awiatka, Cherokee/Appalachian poet and activist; and Hilton Smith, an editor with Foxfire Press and colleague of teacher Elliott Wigginton.

In addition to the McLain concert, musical events also include Wednesday's Gospel Night and the Gathering of Traditional Musicians on Friday evening. Weekday noon concerts feature, for example, the Berea Dancers, on Thursday, June 25. The open outdoor stage Saturday, June 27, starts at 10 a.m.

Appalachian Celebration

Celebration traditional events continue, including lessons in clogging and square dancing, bus tours of the area, corn grinding demonstrations, dulcimer making, classes in genealogy and Eastern Kentucky history, the petting zoo, and other activities. One of the first-time presentations is an elaborate exhibit about coal and its relationship to the Appalachian Region. It will be part of the exhibits and demonstrations located in the Button Drill Room on the MSU campus.

Designed for the whole family to enjoy, the 11th annual Appalachian Celebration offers a wide variety of activities. MSU offers visitors on-campus air-conditioned housing and the use of all its University facilities.

"We encourage everyone to join us the last week in June, whether for the first time or as a returnee," says Pete McNeill, coordinator of Special Projects for MSU's Office of Regional Development Services. "We offer something for everyone interested in Appalachia."

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Bachelor of Science in Veterinary Technology degree, one of the few programs of this type in the nation, will be offered at Morehead State University beginning with the Fall 1987 semester.

The Kentucky Council on Higher Education approved establishment of the two plus two academic program at its March meeting.

"In today's highly competitive world of new technologies, our students need every opportunity to obtain the skills to compete in addition to a sound basic education," said MSU President A.D. Albright. "This program offers them those additional skills demanded. Morehead State's two-year vet tech degree program has long been recognized for its excellence and we expect no less for the B.S. degree program," he added.

The four-year degree program will allow students more opportunities in different types of jobs, according to Dr. Charles Derrickson, College of Applied Science and Technology dean.

"With this additional training, graduates will be considered paraprofessionals and qualified to assume positions of more responsibility," said Dr. Derrickson. "Employers believe it adds prestige to hire someone with a bachelor's degree," he continued.

Objectives of the new program will be to provide competency in anesthesiology, pharmacology, radiography, and veterinary clinical pathology. Graduates will be qualified to assist veterinarians in all duties except diagnosing, prescribing of treatment and performance of surgical procedures.

"Offering a bachelor's degree will give students the opportunity to pursue additional fields in the area of their chosen careers," said Dr. Judy Willard, Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources chair. "They can now select electives in other related fields. We are delighted with this addition," she added.

MSU currently offers a two-year associate degree in vet tech with enrollment limited to 40 students because of availability of facilities and equipment. The program, begun in 1974, has been fully accredited by the American Veterinary Medical Association since 1977.

With the four-year program, 20 additional students will be accepted. Participation in a two-year program is a prerequisite for admittance.

According to Dr. Donald Applegate, coordinator of the vet tech program, requests are now being accepted for the fall semester. "With 30 percent of the students who receive an associate degree returning for additional training, the demand for a bachelors degree has been evident for some time," he said.

"Now MSU can offer two levels of training, allowing the students to be more marketable upon graduation," he added. Employment opportunities are available with practicing veterinarians, industries, commercial establishments, and animal diagnostic laboratories and facilities.

The Kentucky Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners plans to propose a revision to the Veterinary Practice Act in recognition of the two levels, Dr. Applegate said. Graduates of the two-year program would be called veterinary technicians while participants in the four program would be veterinary technologists.

Plans are now under way to renovate present facilities to allow for implementation of the new program and one new faculty position is expected to be added by the fall semester.

MSU President Albright commended the Veterinary Technology Program staff members for their efforts in designing the successful proposal for a new four-year degree program. Those involved in developing it included: Dr. Scott Rundell, assistant professor; Barbara Krakoff and Vivian Smith, instructors; Paula Williams, clerk/typist, and Dr. Applegate.

Additional information on the new degree program may be obtained by calling MSU's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources at (606) 783-2662, or Dr. Applegate, (606) 783-2328.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The late Dr. Rondal D. Hart, former dean of admissions at Morehead State University, will be honored here Thursday with MSU's Founders Day Award for University Service.

The Corbin native, who died in 1984 after 26 years of service at the University, will be recognized posthumously during the Founders Day Convocation and Awards Ceremony, starting at 10:25 a.m. in Button Auditorium.

Accepting the award in his memory will be his wife and children. Former Gov. Louie B. Nunn, chairman of MSU's Board of Regents, will make the presentation.

"The University is pleased to present this important award in acknowledgement of the dedicated service Dr. Hart gave so freely to this institution and to our community," said MSU President A. D. Albright. "We invite all of the former students and other persons whose lives he touched to help us honor this memory."

A two-time graduate of MSU, Dr. Hart's career included appointments as a faculty member, assistant football coach, director of school relations, director of alumni relations, director of University Breckinridge School, dean of admissions and executive director of the MSU Foundation, Inc.

Dr. Adron Doran, MSU's seventh president, will be the featured speaker at the convocation program.

"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is the theme for the Founders Day activities which feature appearances by past, present and future MSU presidents.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Sister and Miss Lexie," a one-woman show based on the writings of Eudora Welty, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 6, in Button Auditorium at Morehead State University.

The production, part of the Arts in Morehead (AIM) Concert and Lecture Series, features award-winning film and stage actress Brenda Currin.

Admission will be by season ticket or general admission tickets available at the door at $5 for adults and $3 for youth age 18 and younger. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

Winner of an Obie Award, Currin has appeared on and off-Broadway in such shows as "Threepenny Opera" and "My Sister in This House." Her film credits include "In Cold Blood" and "The World According to Garp."

"Why I Live at the P.O." and an anecdote from the novel "Losing Battles" are the basis for the show and are framed by bits and pieces from other works by the Mississippi author.

Critics have praised Currin and her director, David Kaplan, for the production which remains "true to the writers uncanny sense of place and special gift for capturing character through the quirks of speech and the odd, individual observation." Calling the show a "collage" of the southern writer's work, the Chicago Sun-Times also said it "creates a lovely well-crafted image."

In conjunction with the performance of "Sister and Miss Lexie" at MSU, a photographic biography of Welty, one of the nation's most respected regional authors, is on display in the Alternative Gallery of Claypool-Young Art Building through April 8.

FOUNDERS DAY 1987: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Together we can!"

That was the message that Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Morehead State University's president-elect, gave more than 500 MSU faculty, staff, students and friends attending the final event of Founders Day 1987--the Alumni Awards dinner.

That spirit of togetherness was present throughout the day as the University's friends--including many of the people who helped guide it through its 65 years as a state school--gathered together to remember and recognize those who contributed to the institution's growth.

"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" was the theme, but the program might have been hailed instead as "A Presidential Occasion" as four MSU presidents representing the past, present and future shared the speaking honors.

"The future is built on the dreams of yesterday," Dr. Morris Norfleet, who headed the institution from 1977 to 1984, told those attending the traditional Fellowship Breakfast which launched the day. "On this site in 1877 is where it all began," Dr. Norfleet said as he recounted the establishment of the Morehead Normal School by Disciples of Christ as "an educational oasis in this cultural desert of Kentucky."

At the Founders Day Convocation, former President Adron Doran gave his listeners a lesson in history and politics as he recalled events in early 1922 leading up to passage of Senate Bill 14 which resulted in establishment of Morehead State Normal School, the forerunner of MSU.

Dr. Doran, who led MSU from 1954 to 1976, invoked such names from the past as Gov. Edwin Morrow, Speaker of the House James H. Thompson and state Sen. Allie Young as he chronicled the institution's early struggles.

Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn brought a standing ovation from the convocation crowd of nearly 800 people when he presented the University Service Award to the family of Dr. Rondal D. Hart, posthumously recognizing the former administrator's contributions to MSU.

Dr. Hart, a Corbin native, served MSU for 26 years in a variety of positions from assistant football coach to dean of admissions until his death in 1984. Accepting the award were Mrs. Joyce Hart and sons Brad and Ron.

Shifting from the past to today, Dr. A.D. Albright, MSU's current president, was the host for the next event, a luncheon at which nearly two dozen former and current Board of Regents members were recognized.

"Today will have an impact on tomorrow," Dr. Albright said as he prepared his audience for a status report on the University. "There are a number of things that have transpired over the past few months that you should take pride in."

Among these, he said, were the strengthening of the University's partnership with the public schools, the 3.5 percent fall enrollment increase, development of new academic programs to serve the region's needs including the four-year veterinary technology and nursing degrees, and new programs to help students develop stronger academic skills.

Awards were presented to the Ashland Oil Foundation as the MSU Foundation's Most Valuable Giver and to Dan Lacy, MSU alumnus and an Ashland Oil vice president, as the Foundation's Fund Raising Volunteer of the Year. Judy B. Thomas, president, accepted on behalf of the Ashland Oil Foundation, while Lacy's was accepted by his daughter Denise Lacy of Morgan County.

For Dr. Grote, who becomes MSU's 11th president on July 1, the Founders Day-Alumni Awards dinner marked his first formal campus address.

Stressing the need for partnerships between the University and the public schools as well as industry if Eastern Kentucky is to develop economically, Dr. Grote pledged the institution's resources to addressing the state's education problems.

He also called on alumni to become advocates for the University. "Alumni can be one of our many friends who help us to establish our strength through partnerships," he said, urging their involvement in student recruitment and fund raising activities.

Dr. Grote recognized the contributions of MSU's "caring and thoughtful faculty" and said the school was "blessed with exciting and talented students" who also could strengthen it.

His vision of the future, he said, was a University that "stretches itself as a contributing partner to improve the quality of life" in the region. "Each one of us in this room can make a difference. Let's link up hand to hand, arm to arm, shoulder to shoulder. For together we can! That's my slogan for the years ahead," he said.

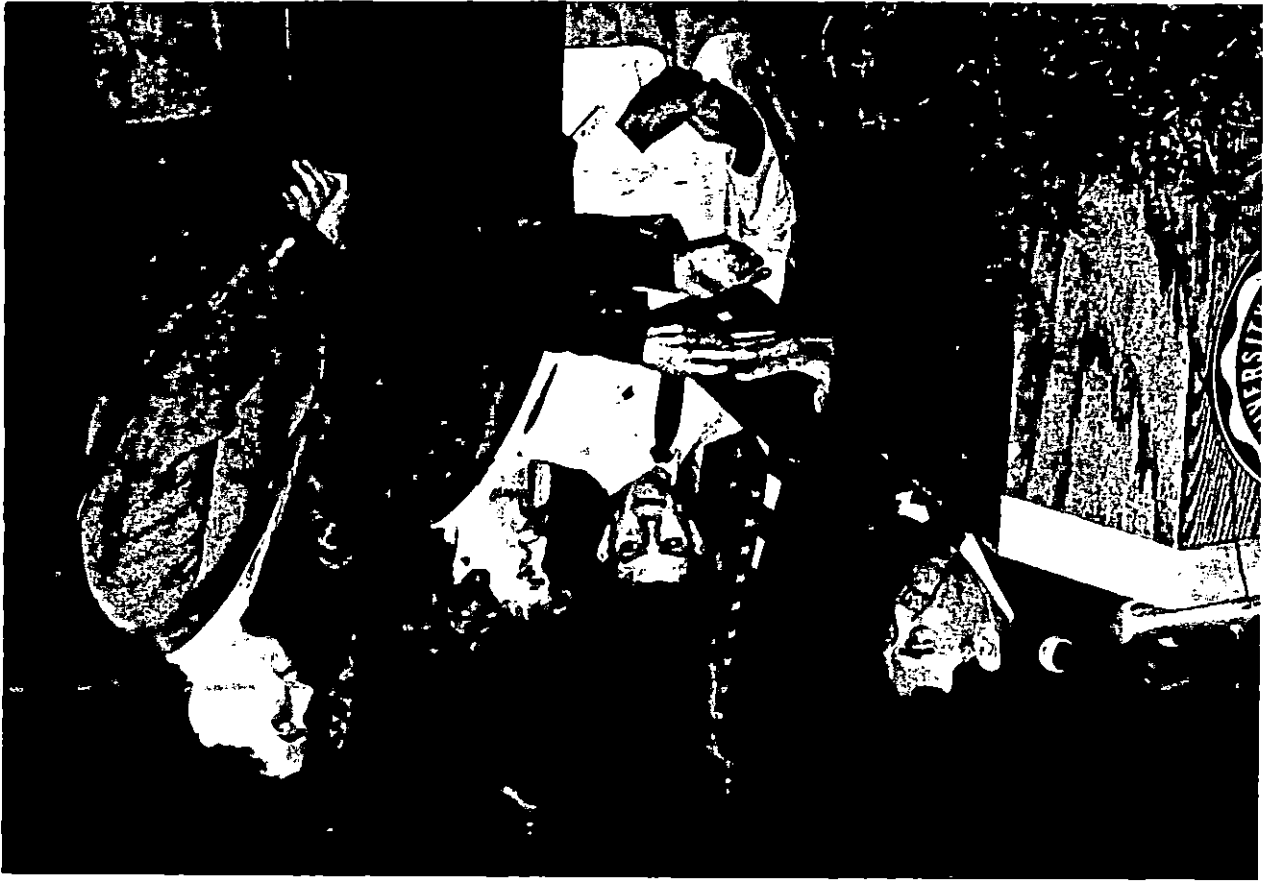

Inducted into the Alumni Hall of Fame at the dinner were Carter County natives Dr. Robert Coleman, founder of Nova Biomedical, and Dr. John Gearhart, a member of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine pediatrics faculty, along with David Bolt of Morehead, immediate past president of the MSU Alumni Association.

Also recognized as Honorary Alumni were Terry and Susan Jacobs of Cincinnati. Bath County native George T. Young, professor emeritus, received the Alumni Service Award.

- D--Dr. John P. Gearhart, left, formerly of Olive Hill, displays the shadowbox plaque commemorating his induction into the Alumni Hall of Fame as Alumni President Phelps extends congratulations. Dr. Gearhart is an assistant professor of pediatrics at Johns Hopkins University.
- E--Bath County native and MSU professor emeritus George T. Young, right, was the recipient of a special Alumni Service Award presented at the Founders Day-Alumni Association Awards dinner by MSU Alumni Association President William L. Phelps. Young, who retired from teaching on the campus in 1979, still teaches one class which he originated--History 544. It's known as the state's "only class on wheels," because students tour Kentucky's historical sites on a University bus. Young also has endowed two memorial awards for MSU students.
