D. B. CAUDILL OUSTED FROM BOARD OF REGENTS BY ORDER OF GOVERNOR A. B. CHANDLER

Says Resignation Was Sent in To Governor On December 30.

Hon. D. B. Caudill of this city, appointed by ex-Governor Ruby Laffoon as a member of the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College was the only local official holder to feel the government's office during the holidays. Mr. Caudill was removed by Governor A. B. Chandler as a member of the Board on December 31, almost two weeks after he had issued his request for the resignations of every member of the board.

According to reports from Frankfort, Governor Chandler issued his order only after it was evident to him that Mr. Caudill did not intend to resign voluntarily. Mr. Caudill, however, since the order went into effect has claimed through the press that he had sent in his resignation on December 30 and that the Governor should have had it by that time. However no statement of the resignation has ever been received has been issued by Governor Chandler.

In the case of two members of the highway commission, whose resignations were slow in reaching Frankfort, and who were ousted in a similar manner, Governor Chandler immediately rescinded the order issued, on receipt of the resignations. It was his avowed intention of doing the same in other instances that caused the order to be rescinded. It was more or less of this order rescinding the order sent in by Mr. Caudill that has been reported.

At the same time that the order rescinding Caudill from the board was issued, Governor Chandler accepted the resignation of Judge Earl Seiff as a member of the Board of Regents. Judge Seiff had immediately tendered his resignation to Governor Chandler in his first request, and the Governor issued his first request, and the Governor accepted it. Judge Seiff has been a member of the Board of Regents, with the exception of two years.

City Council Elects New City Treasurer

The biennial organization meeting of the city council of Morehead was held at the city hall on Monday evening of this week, with the newly elected members of the council present. While it was a new council, there was only one new member, J. B. Calvert, who was elected in the place of T. J. Trumbo. The entire council was sworn in by the city attorney, Lester Hogg, and then adjourned to the clerk's office where they caused for the appointive of...

Chief among the actions of the council in their caucus was the selection of Mrs. Prada Nickell as city treasurer, a post held for the past four years by Dudley Caudill. The appointment of Mrs. Nickell, will when her bond is approved, automatically make the Citizens Bank the depository of the city funds in the place of the Peoples Bank of this city.

Gas Project To Go Through Says FDR

A message direct from President Franklin D. Roosevelt to W. H. Rice, member of the Morehead City Council, states that funds have been definitely set aside for the construction of a gas system in Morehead out of WPA funds. The money to the amount of $25,000 has been allocated and earmarked for that purpose and as soon as the gas company makes complete arrangements, work is expected to start on the construction of another forward step in the building of this community.

It will be remembered that almost a year ago the News carried a story of the plans that were being worked out by Mr. Rice and the city council in this direction, furnishing Morehead with a complete and modern gas distribution system and the connecting with an ample supply of gas for use in the city. Citizens then pruned considerable interest in the proposal which would give them a gas system at a moderate rate which...

1935 PASSES IN REVIEW THROUGH FILES OF ROWAN COUNTY NEWS OF PAST YEAR

It has been the custom of the News each year to publish the recapitulation of the outstanding events of the preceding year. The year 1935 was a memorable year in many ways, bringing with it events of utmost importance to Rowan county citizens. Below you will find the events listed in chronological order.

Slippery Road Causes Wreck Of Attempt To Avoid Striking Woman.

Six persons were injured early Monday morning when a truck driven by Mr. Noah Hall of this city collided with a car driven by Charles Coburn of Flemingsburg, on the Midland Trail near the home of Mr. C. E. Hogg at Gates Kentucky, about six miles east of Morehead. The seriously injured were Mr. Hall and Mr. Coburn, according to reports. Other less seriously injured were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Platt of Cythiana, Kentucky and their baby. A sister of Mrs. Platt also received minor cuts and bruises.

According to reports the wreck was entirely unavoidable accident caused by the slippery roads. Mr. Hall is said to have been coming toward Flemingsburg when his car was headed toward Ohio Hill where its occupants were attending school. As the car and the truck approached, Mr. Hall noticed a woman walking down the middle of the highway. He tried to stop and sounded his horn but the woman paid no attention, holding to her course down the center of the highway. With the other car coming toward him, Mr. Hall was unable to turn out for her and was forced to take a chance by applying the brakes to the truck. As the brakes took hold the truck swung across the highway in front of the oncoming car. It was a question of seconds before the collision occurred. The woman walking on the highway, or her chance, as Mr. Hall's brakes holding him in the road.

Mr. Hall is at present at his home where he is suffering considerable pain, and where his condition is serious. It is thought that he is showing slight improvement at present, although it is not known yet how serious his internal injuries might be. He suffered lacerations to the chest and ribs, and it is possible if not serious bruises about the chest. It was discovered on later examination that he had several ribs fractured.

MONDAY WAS OPEN HOUSE DAY AT STATE CAPITAL AS ASSEMBLY MET

Monday night will be called Open House Day at the Kentucky State Capital City, Frankfort was wide open, with the final day before the opening of the session of the state legislature. It was more or less of a city gone mad, with legislators new and old, rushing madly about button-holing this one and that one, or being button-holed by this one or that one.

Monday was caucus day for both the Democrats and Republicans. And caucus day is the day of days for the job seekers and those that demand and sometimes get political preference. It is the day when the two major parties organize for the session's work. Lines are drawn on Caucus day, organizations are completed, leaders are selected, steering committees are arranged, chairmen are elected, as are speakers, presidents, caucus chairmen, floor leaders, clerks, sergeants at arms, pages and what-not.

Consequently caucus day is a hard day on legislators. Of course the plans are laid long in advance whenever possible. Those backing the administration in this session were certain in the senate and their slate went through without a hitch.

Judged from the number of job-seekers, one was led to wonder who voted for King Swepe. For if everybody voted for Governor Chandler who says he voted for him, the Chandler majority would undoubtedly have been several hundred thousand greater than it was.

There were several hundred applicants for positions as pages to both the house and senate. There were even more asking that certain senators and representatives use their influence "to obtain July plumes for constituents.

All in all it was a bedlam of those who might be in a position to give mixed up with those who are always in a position to take.

Prominent among the legislators who will have much to do with the steering of the course of this session of the General Assembly, will be a man who we like to regard as a local senator, although he represents another district entirely. That is Senator Clarence E. Nickell, who represents the district comprised of Nicholas, Woodford and Scott counties.

Senator Nickell is also a member of the faculty of the Morehead State Teachers College.

Under the leadership of Governor A. B. Chandler, the state government of Kentucky is getting away to a flying start, and thus far every act of the Governor has met with the wholehearted approval of every citizen of the Commonwealth, with the possible exception of those who have been removed from their jobs and positions and power.

These are of course in the minority. They cannot naturally be expected to rejoice. But regardless of their feelings in the matter, and regardless of any personal feeling of any sort, the move instituted by Governor Chandler to clean up and clear out the political nest meets the approval of both republicans and Democrats. It was the only way in which the Governor could clear the stage, as it was necessary to clear it before he would be able to promote his programme for the welfare of the state. With thousands of office holders, holding down jobs that were actually unnecessary, it would be a difficult matter to eliminate them. With them out of their jobs and the jobs left vacant, it would be much more simple to leave it vacant.

Naturally there is a howl from those who for years have enjoyed the benefits of the gravy train without interruption. Naturally those who called themselves politically trained and who know no other means of obtaining a living, do not enjoy or appreciate the action of the Governor in ruthlessly cutting off their source of supply. However, in the mass of citizens, there is little or no sympathy for such. Mr. Average Citizen says openly that he is delighted not only for the fact that they have been released and that many of them will remain so, but chiefly for the fact that Governor Chandler has proved by his action that he intends to carry out his campaign pledges; that he will prune the political pig to a minimum; that state expenses will be reduced to the smallest possible amount; that Kentucky will not only live within its income, but that Kentucky will also save an amount to be applied to the public debt.

Governor Chandler in the few short weeks that he has been in office has raised the hopes of the citizens of Kentucky to a new high. It is being freely predicted that he will establish a record commensurate with the hopes and expectations of his supporters throughout the three hotly contested elections of the past year.

LAND CONSERVATION

Editors Note — The old frontiers are gone. There are no longer vast areas of new land on which a growing nation can settle and expand. It is now up to us to conserve and develop wisely the land which we have. How this can be done is described by L. C. Gray, an authority on land use, in a series of three articles, of which this is the (first).

Land — the raw material of farms, forests and range — is one of our major sources of wealth. Hundreds of thousands of rural families are now enduring a poverty utterly inconsistent with American standards of living largely because of a failure to use the land to its best advantage.

In areas such as portions of the southern Appalachian Mountains, where conditions of living are particularly severe, one reason for the present poverty is to be found in the history of land use. The forest, which formerly provided the chief income for the people of the southern mountains, was cut off without any care for the future reproduction of the trees. The land is on the whole too steep for farming, and cultivation merely aggravates the problem by encouraging the erosion of fertile soil.

With both the forest and the topsoil destroyed, the people have become economically "stranded," and their standard of living has steadily declined. Housing is very poor, consisting often of dilapidated, leaky cabins which give insufficient shelter, and enforce unhealthy crowding. The food supply is so limited that children suffer from malnutrition, and easily fall prey to disease. Education is necessarily limited.

Society must decide whether these conditions can be tolerated. It is especially important when we realize that the poverty of the rural slums means the dependence of large numbers of families upon public charity and relief. Our objective must be not only to restore to these people a chance to attain an American standard of living, but to make them once more consumers and producers of economic goods.

The Resettlement Administration is buying up tracts of land in various problem areas to help restore the natural forest or grass resources which, if properly cared for, can again provide employment for local people. At the same time, this work will put a stop to the needless destruction of soil fertility, which, if permitted to continue, would make the rehabilitation of the people even more difficult and costly.

Families who cannot be employed in forest work will be helped to move out of the hills to flat, fertile lands where they can become self-supporting.

NEWS FLASHES OF THE WEEK

NEW PEACE BILL TO BE OFFERED

Washington, — Senate Munitions Committee members relied tonight upon their forthcoming investigation of J. P. Morgan and Co. to draw increased support for drastic neutrality legislation.

Senator Clark, Democratic, Missouri, predicted that disclosures in the inquiry beginning Tuesday will have the effect of bringing support for more mandatory control of loans and credits to belligerents.

As Administration leaders mapped a quick pace for consideration of neutrality proposals already before Congress, Clark and Chairman Nye, Republican, North Dakota, of the munitions subcommittee prepared to introduce their own bill Monday.

On the next day they will be questioning J. P. Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, on the effect of World War financing in swinging the United States into the conflict in 1917.

Clark said "evidence will be brought out which will leave no doubt of the effect loans and credits extended to the Axis had on influencing American entry into the war."

FURTHER EFFORTS TO REFORM LEGISLATURE DEFER

President Roosevelt has decided to defer until after the coming political campaign any further efforts for reform legislation. It is said tonight by persons close to the White House.

Having rebounded the battle cry in his message to Congress, the President was believed ready to stand or fall on the record of his Administration.

While controversy swirled around the President's assault on his opposition, it was learned that he intends to pursue a quiet course until political fireworks begin to flare in earnest during summer and fall.

When the campaign gets in full swing, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to offer new proposals to the electorate, giving the people the choice of returning him to the office under a mandate for further reforms, or to the tearing down of some of the new Deal practices.

HOUSE BONUS GROUPS UNITE TO PUSH ONE BILL

Washington — Fighting House factions made peace over the bonus today while Senate Democrats, and talking of compromise, instructed their leader to take up the issue with President Roosevelt.

The list of bonus measures at the center of the annual Congressional battle narrowed to two when the Patman bill to provide payment through currency expansion was, in effect, taken out of the conflict.
Its backers agreed to consolidate behind legislation sponsored by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans. Approval by the full Patman steering committee still is needed, but it is regarded as assured.

PENSION FUND NEED PLACED AT $2,700,000

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky must provide a minimum of $2,700,000 of State funds to avail itself of Federal old-age pension legislation. Dr. A. T. McCormick, chairman of the Kentucky Social Security Commission, told Governor Chandler's Special Reorganization Commission today.

Dr. McCormick, Secretary of the State Board of Health, was one of a group who appeared before the commission to discuss various phases of legislation the commission is expected to make recommendations on to the General Assembly that meets next week.

Today's meeting was the second held by the commission since its creation last week by Governor Chandler. It was held in the reception room of the State Capitol, and newspapers were permitted to attend.

CONVICT ROAD WORK IS O. K.'D

Frankfort, Ky. — Gov. A. B. Chandler today approved today at his daily press conference he has received the approval of State labor leaders for his announcement plan to use convict labor on county roads, which he proposes to take over until maintenance by the state.

The approval, the Governor said, was given yesterday at a meeting in Lexington of labor leaders, and several members of the General Assembly.

Today the leaders called on the Governor at the Executive Mansion and urged that the plan be approved. They plan to use prisoners on county roads and to build additional prison facilities, Governor Chandler said.

THE CLANCY KIDS

One Of Those Warm Days.

By PERCY L. CROSBY

From The State Capital

Frankfort, Ky. — The General Assembly, which convened Tuesday, probably will not get away from Frankfort until after the end of April, under plans being worked out by Administration leaders in the House and Senate.

The usual session of sixty days cannot complete the legislative reforms which Gov. A. B. Chandler will present. A division of the work, with the general mass of legislation set apart in one session, and the reorganization program put into another session, probably will be adopted by legislators.

If the separation of tasks is undertaken, the general session may come first. In it all manner of legislation other than bills affecting the structure of the State Government, would be considered. Because the budget and reorganization work should not be in the general session, its usual sixty day length would be cut, probably to thirty days.

Then Governor Chandler would call the General Assembly into an extra session, to begin the day after adjournment of the regular session, to take up the budget, reorganization plan and other bills to bring about economies in the Frankfort Government.

There probably will be one of two exceptions to the general rule, that no Administration-backed bills be introduced before the first session. The one primary bill, and repeal of the Sales Tax with an emergency clause because they are no longer current, would be offered early in the first session.

Such proposals as the reduction of the real estate tax for State purposes from 5 to 1 cent and return to counties of the right of assignment of real estate would go into the session dealing with governmental problems. The plan for old-age pensions and other provisions of the Social Security set-up would go into the governmental session.

Benefits that will come from the plan for an early close of the regular session included the less hurried consideration of complicated proposals for reorganization. The members of the legislature, on the other hand, could give closer attention to the general mass of unrelated legislation that would be offered in the first session.

Little opposition to the plan has been offered by members who have heard it explained. In the end they will work more days, with an opportunity to bring about a reorganization of the State that will have an annual $1,000,000, or $2,000,000 pp.

In the general plan to get more work done, Governor Chandler and his legislative leaders have worked out a procedure to do on the first day of the session. Between noon Tuesday, when the House and Senate meet, and adjournment that day the organization of the Houses will be made, rules adopted, the Governor will deliver his message and the committee will be adopted.

To that end Governor Chandler will deliver his message to the General Assembly at 6 p. m. Tuesday. It will take each House from two to three hours to elect the presiding officers and the clerical help. Then the rules, which will closely follow the rules of former years, will be brought in from the committee for adoption.

That will carry the session into late afternoon. Since the exact time when the House and Senate will be ready to receive the Governor's message could not be foreseen, the two houses will recess for an hour or two after completing organization, and reassemble at 6 o'clock for the message. The Governor's address will be broadcast over WHAS, radiophone of the Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. It will be delivered at a joint session of the House and Senate in the House Chamber. After the message, if plans work out, the membership of the standing committees will be announced. This prompt conduct of business in contrast with former years, 11 times past it has been a week before committee assignments were announced and the houses were ready to receive bills. Formerly the houses met at noon Tuesday, elected officers and adjourned. Then, on Wednesday or Thursday the Governor came with his message. The next day the houses would adjourn until Monday so the presiding officers could make up the committee assignments.

Two weeks ago Governor Chandler wrote the members of the General Assembly for their requests for committee assignments. Most of them have been received, and have been turned over to the men who have been going over the list. A name will name the committees. Ahead that the houses will be ready to work at the earliest possible date.

In the House John Kirtley, of Logan County, will be elected speaker. In the Senate J. E. Wise, of Letcher, will be named president pro-tempore. Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson will pick the Senate committee. The Rev. Brooks L. Harlow, of Harford, will be elected clerk of the House. Robert Humphreys will be clerk of the Senate.

Clarence Evans, Simpson County, who fought the sales tax through three sessions, who favored compulsory primaries and was identified with Governor Chandler's legislative viewpoint, probably would have been named speaker if his health had permitted his assuming the work.

Some talk of opposition to the Administration backed candidates for key positions in the House and Senate organization has developed. For the most part it has been talk, and nothing else. One Representative recently approached another member with a proposal to remain out of the Democratic caucus.

Whether the plan contemplated that those who remained away would openly "bolt" to form an alignment with the Republicans to elect a Republican or whether the plan was to elect one of the "bolting" Democrats with the aid of Republican voters was not disclosed. The plan got no where because the Democrats had no desire to get in such a situation with the folks back home.

The Administration will organize the House easily. The fight in the Senate will be closer, with the chances favoring the Administration through out. Senator Clarence Nickell will be named caucus chairman and Administration spokesman. Ralph Gilbert, Shelbyville, will be made floor leader in the Senate.

This division of authority, placing the caucus chairmanship and floor leadership in different hands, a plan followed many years ago in the House was worked out this time to enable the Administration to carry the mass of work that will fall upon the Senate, when the reorganization plan begins its legislative course. A similar set-up may be found necessary in the House, and in that event will be adopted after the larger number of new members get acquainted with each other.

Dr. B. F. Shields will be caucus chairman in the House. Marshall Barnes will be assistant clerk.

Brother to a Gifted Soul

DWIGHT TAYLOR, the artist-outlaw, brought this one home with him from overseas. A strange youth who was clothed in rags and apparently had no great amount of mentality to spare, was brought before the magistrate in a Scotch village. He seemed to have no visible means of support as a charge of vagrancy had been lodged against him by the local constable. The presiding magistrate proceeded to question the wanderer.

"Where does your father live?" he inquired. "My father is dead." "And your mother?" "She's dead, too." "Have you any relatives whatever, then?" "I 'ave a brother, then." "And where is he?" "At the University of Edinburgh." "Now, nowhere in the world is education more highly revered than in Scotland. So at this claim the magistrate pricked up his ears. "Ah, indeed," he said, in a somewhat gentler tone. "And how long has your brother been at the University of Edinburgh?" "Eleven years." "Eleven years, you say?" queried the magistrate. "Is he a professional?" "No, he is not a professional." "And, then, in what capacity is he there? What does he do?" "He does nothing. He's in a bottle—he was born with two heads!" Breck Splits Double-Header Basketball Tilt With Mt. Sterling Here Saturday

Breckridge Training School split a double-header basketball card with Mt. Sterling, here Saturday night, the Junior High team winning 18 to 9, and the High School losing 20 to 18 in an overtime period.

In the first game the Juniors took an early lead and held it throughout the game to win easily, Breck led 6 to 3 at the half, and 14 to 6 at the end of the third quarter. H. Caudill and R. Egan were high point men for the Juniors with 7 and 6 points respectively. Lockridge, Skidmore, and Whitte made 2 each for first place in Mt. Sterling scoring. Both teams used plenty of substitutes.

The second game was a thriller. Mt. Sterling took a 8 to 1 lead in the first quarter and led 10 to 6 at the half. Prichard scored early in the third quarter and then Daugherty scored on a crisp tie to tie the score, 10 to 10. Just before the quarter ended Hainline dropped one in for Mt. Sterling, giving them a 12 to 10 edge.

The fourth quarter was a pip. Mt. Sterling drew away with a 16 to 10 lead, and then Breck tightened their defense and held the Montgomery county clan scoreless while they ran up 6 points to tie the score as the gun sounded for the end of the quarter. Daugherty again tied the count in the closing seconds of the quarter with a crisp shot.

In the overtime, Long scored a goal for Breck and put them in the lead 18 to 16. Mt. Sterling took time out. Palmer made a foul shot. Barnes made a long shot and Hainline made a foul and the game was over, Mt. Sterling 20, Breck 18. Long, Prichard and Daugherty made 5 points each for Breck. Palmer and Green were high scorers for Mt.

Eagles Open Sched in S.I.A.A. Contests

The Morehead Eagles and Eaglet will play two games each this week. The Morehead team will journey to Georgetown tonight to meet the Tigers on their own floor, and Centre College will come here Saturday night for a double header.

The Eagles looked good in their game against Union and should furnish stiff opposition for both the foreign quints. Georgetown is sure to have a good team, and may give the Eagles quite a fight. Centre will have a classy outfit and the game here Saturday night should be a thriller.

The Eagles, after winning handily from the C.C.C. by a 71 to 6 count dropped a tough game to the University of Kentucky Kittens, 25 to 19 in the Kentucky game, the Eaglet offense never did click like it should and if the boys can get going they should take the Georgetown and Centre fresh into camp.

Sterling with 8 and 5 points respectively. Mt. Sterling (20) ... Breck Barnes (3) ... Allen Henry (2) ... Palmer (5) ... Green (3) ... Hainline (2) ... Substitutes: Mt. Sterling: Heinrich, Imael, Breck: Daugherty (5), Holbrook. Referees: Kufahl and Carter.

SPORTS PLURGES

The Eagles really look like they are going somewhere in basketball this year. After the dreary football season, this is a welcome omen to many Eagle fans. In beating Union, the Morehead quint showed real promise and many people have expressed the opinion that Downing has the best Eagle quint that he has ever coached. The Eagles have a tough schedule with fifteen S. I. A. A. conference games.

Basketball fans will get their fill of the sport this week. The Morehead varsity and frosh will meet Centre here Saturday night. Breck played Sandy Hook here Wednesday night and Morehead meets Haldeman Friday afternoon. This with the Union game Monday night, made a full week for sport fans.

Vikings Lose 2 Battles in Week

Morehead High School dropped two basketball games last weekend, losing to Louisville, 28 to 22, on Friday afternoon, and to Russell, 12 to 3, on Saturday night. Paul "Mouse" Combs, newly hired manager, has not had much time to work his team but they showed considerable promise in the game against Russell, one of the strong teams of this district.

In the Russell game, the Morehead aggregation prevented the Russell team from running up the score, by the simple expedient of freezing the ball. Finding they could not penetrate the Russell zone defense, the Vikings gained control of the ball and held the stronger team to a 6 to 3 lead at the half. Early in the last quarter, the Russell offense began to click and they ran up the score. Marvel Caudill's handling of the ball during the frozen period, was particularly worthy of note. He did everything but put it in his pocket.

The Combs' aggregation will see action again tomorrow afternoon when they meet the Haldeman quint in the Morehead High gymnasium at 2:30 p. m. and the football season is officially closed. Stanford held the Mustangs of S. M. U. back and emerged with victory, 7 to 0, in the Rose Bowl classic at Santa Barbara, T. C. U. defeated L. S. U., 3 to 2, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. Catholic University won an exciting game from Mississippi State in the Orange Bowl Tournament at Miami, 20 to 19. We can only conjecture what bowl tournaments will be added to the list in 1937.

Some wise acres have been going around warning to bet that L. S. U. won the Rose Bowl game. The catch being that the sucker doesn't think quick enough and puts up his money before he realizes that Leland Stanford University (L. S. U.) won.

'It's In The Air' At Cozy Tonight

"Wanted" - radio players with screen personalities. That's what Jack Benny, starting in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's comedy-drama, "It's in the Air," to be seen Wednesday and Thursday at the Cozy Theatre, needs for his forthcoming radio program.

The radio, stage and screen star made plans with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to allow him the use of a camera and sound crew so that he can give applicants screen tests as well as radio auditions.

The reason for his unique plan is that in forthcoming screen vehicles that he wants to use his new radio radio and screen were only divided as well as stage appearances.

"It has always been my belief that by a hair's breadth, and now I am going to try and combine both factors for my new air show," says Benny. The comedian recently finished a starring role in "Broadway Melody of 1936."

Benny's second starring vehicle, directed by Charles F. Reisner, shows him in the characteristic of a Broadway "producer" who is only one step ahead of the law, until, by through a Stratophere flight into which he has been forced by his estranged wife.

The wife is portrayed by Una O'Connell, who incidentally, for the first time in her screen career has a dramatic rather than a comedy role.

Ted Healy plays Benny's sidekick, while Nat Pendleton is the comical "G-Man" Mary Carlisle, Harvey Stephens and Grant Mitchell are also in the cast.

Morehead Wins First SIAA Victory Of The Season Downing Union 28 to 26

Parsley bank a long shot from way out in the floor in the last half minute of play to win Morehead's first SIAA victory of the season, the Eagles downing the quint from Union by a 28 to 26 count. Union was leading 24 to 21 with only four minutes left to play. Leslie and Carter sank two shots to put Morehead in the lead 25 to 24 and Shney got a foul shot, making the count 26 to 24. Catron put one through the hoop for Union knotting the score at 26 all with only about a minute and a half to go. Then Parsley made his winning toss and the game was over right after the toss up.

Union opened strong and in the first few minutes of play were leading 7 to 4. The Morehead offense started clicking. Carter scored two in succession, Parsley and Shney made one each to put Morehead in the lead 14 to 7. Morehead led at the half 15 to 8.

Morehead held their lead in the second half until about six minutes were left to play. Leading 21 to 20, Gaines made a foul shot for Union to bring their lead up to 24 to 21. Carter, Morehead's bid for high scoring honors in the state, was a little off, but managed to make a total of 14 points and lead his team in scoring. Gaines was best for Union with 9 points. John Bosson, stellar Eagle forward was hurt early in the second half but was able to continue the game. The Eagles looked awful good in the first half and in the closing moments of the game.

Farm and Agricultural News

With attractive and colorful accessories, women can usually be smartly dressed even though they do not have many clothes. A hand bag of durable material, scarfs that are rich and warm looking, and gloves that make the difference between style and lack of it.

Digestive upsets may result from lack of exercise, especially in winter, along with dietary indiscretions. Some of the best difference between "staying up" exercises are of real value to persons unable to exercise by work in the open air.

The practice of keeping farm accounts requires little time and serves as the best way of keeping a complete farm inventory in January, and then keep records as recommended by the county agent and college of Agriculture.

Ad dog feeds sold in Kentucky, regardless of the way they are prepared, are required by law to be registered at the Agricultural Experiment Station, and labeled with a state label giving the manufacturer's guaranty, as is the case in all other stock feeds.

Center splitting of the hog carcass, or sawing down the center of the backbone, gives more meat to cure, since the loins can be cured as used in some other way. Where the backbone is removed, the loin must be used as fresh meat or put into the sausage.

Feed calves at a regular time, right and morning, in buckets which are washed at least once daily. Keep them clean, well shined, free from drafts. Calves begin to eat grain when 10 days to two weeks old.

Well-finished young turkeys dress away approximately 40 percent in weight, according to records kept of 58 birds of various breeds, raised at the Kentucky Experiment Station and marked at Thanksgiving time. That is, complete dressing, or the removal of the feathers, entrails, blood, head and feet and cleaning of the gizzard, left a carcass weighing about three-fourths as much as the live bird.

No significant differences in dressing percentages were found among the breeds, between sexes, or between large and medium-sized birds where they were young and well finished. The birds were starved 24 hours, weighed and then fully dressed, including removal of the head and feet and cleaning of the gizzard.

The fact that a turkey carcass dressed away approximately a fourth, means that a 16-pound live bird will yield a carcass weighing approximately 12 pounds, if it is young and well finished, whether it is a young tom or a young hen. Forty cents a pound for a dressed bird therefore, is approximately the same as 30 cents a pound for a live one.

Where a carcass was skinned in water overnight, its weight increased by about a half a pound to a pound. Turning a poultry under the guidance of a highly efficient county agent, Grayson county farmers are finding chickens a paying source of income. In addition to producing large quantities of market eggs, many owners of tested flocks in the county are receiving an extra price for hatching eggs.

Taking advantage if every means of improving the stock, the county now boasts of three National Record of Performance flocks, 14 U. S. Certified flocks and 15 U. S. Approved flocks.

Hens have been entered in Florida and Georgia laying contests, where 32 made records of 210 or more eggs in a year; two laid 284, eggs each, and one 264 eggs.

Nineteen farmers who have cooperated with the county agent in improving agricultural for 10 years or more recently were honored at the Farm Bureau banquet in Taylor county. Each of them has used lime extensively and most of them have covered their entire farms. All are cooperating in adjustment programs and 18 of the 19 are serving on committees. Martha Harmon, J. B. Chandler and Henry Griffin have been Farm Bureau members for 17 years. Eighty-five farmers attended the banquet.

A winter or dormant spray is recommended by the department of entomology, College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, for scale insects which infest many oak trees, particularly the pin oaks.

The attacks of these insects on some trees, especially where the population has been allowed to build up uncontrolled for three or four years in severe. Twigs and branches are frequently killed and in some cases large as well as small trees may be destroyed. In addition to this direct injury, the attacks of the pest render the trees more susceptible to a common trouble known as leaf scorch.

A site name implies these insects are small, usually about one-eighth of an inch long, and one-eighth of an inch in diameter. In bad infestations they encrust the limbs and can be scraped off in numbers with the finger nail.

The insect passes the winter in the half-grown stage beneath an armor which gives it protection. Because of care and thoroughness. Best results this spray should be applied with the following materials can be used: miscible oil, 1 part to 15 of water; oil emulsion 3 percent; or lime sul-fur, 1 gallon of the concentrate to 7 gallons of water.

Successful poultry raisers follow the practice of setting breeding pens of their best birds, and raising these with a male bird from high producing hens. In this way they gradually develop flocks of sturdy stock and high layers.

Because Korean spezzeda is easily killed by frost, many farmers wait until late March or early April before sowing. This is especially preferred where spezzeda is sown with oats in a loose soil. Seeding may be done earlier in an unprepared bed. The Cinnamon toast: Toast bread.

spread with butter and sprinkled with cinnamon and sugar, using three parts of sugar and one part of cinnamon. Let stand in the oven until the sugar has melted. This is especially good for under-weights.

Some housewives prefer to cut meat raw. Cut into convenient sized pieces to serve, pack into jars so that the handle of a wooden spoon can touch the bottom of the jar, and through the center of the jar. Add two teaspoons of salt to each quart. Do not add water. Partly seal.

Proper feeding and careful management of ewes pay big dividends as lambing time approaches. There should be no lack of good drinking water a week before the lambing. Likewise grain and good hay should be fed in sufficient quantities.

The AAA program has made farm accounts almost necessary, and thousands of farmers are keeping records of the first time. County agents will advise farmers regarding inventories and simple forms of practical bookkeeping.

The Gasoline Tax Of Kentucky

The State of Kentucky collected $927,854.19 in gasoline tax for the month of October, which is $81,570.95 more than was collected in October 1934, an increase of 9.6 per cent first ten months of 1935 were $8,397,839.84. The total collections for 1935 are $81,060.45 over the first ten months of 1934 when collections were $71,476,838.35. This is a 9.39 per cent gain over last year. The total collections for the twelve months of 1934 were $9,207,196.37. If the months of November and December show the same rate of gain as the previous ten months, the Kentucky gasoline tax will produce $10,071,752.11 in 1935. This will be a gain in excess of eight hundred thousand dollars over 1934 and an increase over 1933 of over one and three-quarters million dollars. Gasoline tax collections for the past four years are as follows:

1932	$8,203,922.70
1933	8,216,249.08
1934	9,207,196.37
1935 (estimated)	10,071,752.11

1935 gasoline tax collections will represent tax on approximately 201,433,000 gallons of gasoline. If the Kentucky gas rate in Kentucky is 4 cents instead of 5 cents a gallon, the state would have realized $8,357,000, almost as much as the 5 cent tax produced in 1932 and 1933. Kentucky gas consumers will also pay the federal government 10 per gallon on the 201,436,000 gallons of gasoline used in 1935, amounting to $2,014,350.00. Kentucky's total gasoline tax bill will double to over $12,000,000 in 1935.

LOBSTER FOR LUNCH IS LATEST FOOD FAD

EVERYONE is lunching on, not with lobsters this fall. A peculiar new way to make lobster is a most tempting luncheon dish to serve in a salad. So here are some ways to serve this delectable crustacean in salads.

Lobster Salad in Green Pepper Sauce. Remove tendons from two cups canned lobster meat, but keep in as large pieces as possible. Drain one can asparagus tips. Cut off ends of six green peppers, and cut out the white parts and seeds, making cups. Remove several stalks of asparagus upright in each cup and then fill center of cavities with the lobster meat. Season with salt and pepper, garnish with plenty of mayonnaise and capers. Serve six.

Lobster Salad on Gelfer. Dissolve one package lemon gelatin in one and three-fourths cups boiling water, cool and let get thick as honey. Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

I DON'T know how many people in this county eat permissons, but I reckon not a great many. But out in Arkansas and and in that part of the permissons is considered a good food by a great many people. The people that raised permissons had better know how to appreciate the native fruit.

Well, these permisson fans always want to initiate strangers and get them to appreciate the good fruit. So there was a family that came out of New York, and a real neighborly neighbor brought them over a basketful of permissons. He told the eaters how to eat 'em and everything. Next day he put the head of the house from New York, and he says, "How was the permissons? Did I give you any idea as to do for the whole family?"

"Well, says the New Yorker, "I don't know how many permissons you eat, but I'll tell you, my feet and the head girl is only a little bit better than mine, but."

WHO SELLS ELECTRICITY CHEAPER?

Government Agencies Report That Commercial Power Companies Offer Lower Rates

A GOOD many people honestly believe that government ownership of electric power plants (especially municipal government ownership) offers the public many advantages—particularly the advantage of lower rates for service.

Maybe you are such a believer. Maybe not. But as a taxpayer (and who isn't?) you will be interested in the following facts:

The United States Bureau of the Census reports, after a nationwide survey, that municipally owned plants sell electricity for an average price of 2.1 cents a kilowatt-hour, while commercial power companies (including our own group) get an average price of only 2.7 cents a kilowatt-hour.

And the Federal Power Commission reports, after a nationwide survey:

That the average service rates of municipally owned electric plants are "extremely high" for properties exempt from taxation and capital charges.

That, while commercial power companies pay from 10 per cent to 18 per cent of their gross earnings in taxes and must also earn a fair return on their capital investment, almost all municipal plants wholly or partly evade these charges.

That, in spite of this differential in their favor, the municipal plants collect more per kilowatt-hour for their service than commercial electric companies receive.

LIVE MY LIFE

Realization of the Metro Goldwyn-Mayer Picture based on "CLAUSTROPHOBIA" by CARTER GOODLOE—Novelized by HELEN WARE ROBERTS

The Gage house in Connecticut on Christmas eve was echoing to the rafters with the voices of some thirty-odd Gages, young and old.

As gracefully as possible, Kay had retired to her room early, oppressed by the comments, both frank and covert about her engagement to Gene Piper. It was being announced the following day.

A knock on her door however brought her to her feet. It was G. P.

"I noticed you didn't go in to dinner," he said casually as he walked in. "Thought you might not be feeling so good."

She fixed a metallic smile upon her lips. Nothing ever happens to me.

Bentley nodded matter-of-factly. All in all though, you're pretty happy about tomorrow aren't you?"

"I don't know," she said. "I just follow the air."

She gasped, then gestured with a trembling hand. Oh, no. He... he was just another Irishman.

Bentley chewed his cigar. Sure, I figured something like that. Well, he's not then, you're sure, you're happy with things the way they are now?"

She nodded vigorously. Positive. He took a deep breath. Then I guess you're all happy. I've got something to be happy about today too. He paused. This afternoon I managed to clear myself of a four hundred thousand dollar debt. He snapped his fingers... like that.

Kay stared at him, her breath suspended, while the color flooded her cheeks. Then, in the next moment, she was laughing and crying, kissing G. P. and pushing him through the door all at once.

When he had gone she sprang to the telephone. Terry, she slurred happily, as his voice came over the wire, I... I just need to wish you a Merry Christmas and to tell you that I love you very dearly.

His bewilderment came to his ears in baby steps. But what do you mean your letter.

She shrieked with dismay. Oh that letter! Tear it up. Burn it! I'm coming in tomorrow. Now don't run away. This was a jubilant note in his voice. It was right.

I can't tonight, she laughed.

morrow early I love you.

At five minutes past six the next morning, Terry and Betty Collins were entering the Gage house. How beating the maid, the butler and a swarm of suddenly awakened Gages, they demanded, in stentorian tones, to see Kay.

It was not until G. P. appeared however, that they received an encouraging word. But Bentley, beaming serenely led Terry to Kay's room then stole away.

Kay was in the process of packing her bags when Terry opened the door.

"Sanctuary," she cried, flying into his arms. Then wasting no precious minutes, Terry began helping her pack.

Brumbaugh, the maid now entered delivering a message from Grandmother Gage. That august personage would like to see Kay immediately. Kay's answer was brief and to the point. She had just had to see her grandmother or anyone else, feeling from the shock, Brumbaugh left.

Within three minutes the entire clan had gathered outside Kay's door, in awed admiration for the creature who had dared defy Grandmother Gage. Through the door they could hear Terry's voice.

I've got to go back to Greece, he was saying. There's work to be done and I don't like New York.

She answered calmly. My father can't go back to Greece either.

Terry's voice grew louder. I suppose your grandmother convinced you I ought to live in New York. Well let's get this one thing straight about that old battleship. As far as her money and her orders are concerned I don't want any part of them.

Grandmother Gage, framed in the doorway, shook from head to foot with outraged dignity. Who is this man? she thundered.

Terence O'Neill, Kay answered with deceptive meekness.

Where's he from?

Be-fair Ireland.

She whistled on Terry. What do your parents do?

He staked his face up to her's beligerently. My father raises alfalfa outside of Belfast. My grandmother raises alfalfa too. My great-grandfather was a horsefancier.

Miss Gage rapped on the floor with her cane. Hm. Good stock. She pointed a gnarled finger. Do you two love each other?

At their vehement affirmative, she announced G. P. Goodwin, she said imperially. Kay is going to marry Terence O'Neill whose father was a horsefancier.

My great-grandfather!

Your father too, probably. Now Goodwin, have all the papers made up. He marries Kay, he gets the three-million dollar settlement and he's a vice president of Gage and Bentley. We need a horsefancier in the firm.

And in spite of Terry's unhappy protests, he found himself, shortly thereafter, firmly ensconced in a large palatial office in the Gage and Bentley firm. On his door, there was a neat silver nameplate, "Terence O'Neill, vice-president."

And then began the dreadful nightmare of the thing.

To Terry, the free, the brave, the adventurous... each day seemed to bring the four walls of the office closer and closer, until they were crowding him to the floor, strangling the very breath from his soul and body.

Ideas Are Life Blood of Business

EMPLOYEES want real men—men with sound ideas who have enough confidence in their worth to present them, and who are able to defend them if the occasion arises. Neither the "smart guy" nor the "shining violet" can look forward to much in the present-day business world.

Eluff has proved so easily that employers have been forced to learn to detect it no matter how well it is camouflaged. The shy and shrinking employee may have an idea worth a fortune to his employer, but it is absolutely valueless unless he keeps it so well hidden that no one ever knows about it.

Ideas are the life blood of business and if you can provide them your future is assured. They must, however, not only be born in your own mind, they must be carefully worked out, firmly grounded in every detail, and presented so clearly and convincingly that their value will be apparent.

It is in this last respect that many men fall down. An idea because in itself may be still-born because its presentation leaves an impression of flimsiness and insincerity. Similarly the too-modest man may ruin the chances for a good idea by failing to bring out its true value, by depreciating it even while he presents it to his employer.

The solution is by self-analysis to acquire that thorough knowledge of your strong and weak points which in itself gives confidence without over-confidence, and to conduct yourself as a man who knows his real worth without either over-estimating or under-estimating it.

College Features Raft and Bennet

"She Couldn't Take It" comes to the College Friday with George Raft and Joan Bennett taking the leading roles. This is the story of the taming of a rich sea fish young lady and the curbing of her mother and brother.

In the story, Raft, a former bootlegger, and Walter Connolly, a millionaire, are both inmates of a prison for failure to pay the proper income tax. They become friends and when Connolly suffers a heart attack he appoints Raft the sole trustee of his estate. Raft, on finishing his term sees out to do the work which he is appointed, but finds the family antagonistic and unwilling to cooperate. Raft prevents Miss Bennett from marrying a fortune seeking actor, puts the brother to work and cuts down the mother's allowance. Miss Bennett, when threatened with death by gangsters with whom she has arranged a scheme for getting her inheritance from Raft, repeats a scene and after she is rescued by Raft, confesses her love for him. In the meantime, he too, has fallen for her.

"If You Could Only Cook," comes to the College Sunday starring Herbert Marshall, Jean Arthur and Lee Carrillo. In the story Marshall is frustrated in putting through some new auto designs for his company.

As a result he leaves his employer and winds up on a beach in a park discussing with Jean Arthur a butler and cook job. They land the job under the pretense of being man and wife. Carrillo is their boss and he notices that they don't eat like man and wife. He goes to the dining out on the porch and the other inside. Carrillo makes a play for Jean Arthur and Marshall teases it. In the meantime Marshall's scheduled arrivals, and as he is about to say "I'd like to see the Queen of France" Inescort Carrillo becomes touched with the fact that Jean is being left out by Marshall and arranges for his bunch to kidnap Marshall. When he is brought before Jean there is a bit of a snapping and snoring, but as you know the rest. They are married.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants; thus cleansing the intestinal track of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only a few cents for the family package, and a few cents for the trial package.
