(Special to the Morehead News, Trail Blazer and Ashland Independent)

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Former Morehead State University President Morris L. Norfleet, who recently retired after 25 years of service to MSU, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon here Monday, May 11.

The noon luncheon in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center is being hosted by President and Mrs. A. D. Albright.

Dr. Norfleet, who was MSU's eighth president from January, 1977, through June, 1984, had been serving as a special consultant to the president. He came to MSU in 1962 as director of student teaching and became vice president for research and development in 1968. A native of Pulaski County, Dr. Norfleet holds degrees from Purdue and the University of Kentucky.

"We are pleased to join with other friends and colleagues of Dr. Norfleet in recognizing him for 25 years of dedicated service to the University," Dr. Albright said.

Reservations will be accepted until Friday, May 8, at noon. The telephone number is 783-2031.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University staff member has been honored by the Kentucky Forest Industries Association for his efforts in forestry.

Pete McNeill, special projects coordinator for MSU's Office of Regional Development Services, recently was named KFIA's 1986 Kentucky Tree Farmer of the Year.

The award is given in recognition of conservation, preservation and utilization of forest resources by registered tree farmers, according to a KFIA spokesman.

McNeill, who owns and operates more than 960 acres of forest land in Fleming County near Hillsboro, has planted more than 110,000 tree seedlings on burned-over forest land since 1959.

Among the species to be found on his land now are white, loblolly and Scotch pine along with walnut, ash and poplar. In addition to restocking the forest land, McNeill makes his registered tree farm available to various youth organizations and other groups for hiking and recreation.

Expressing his appreciation to the KFIA and the Kentucky Division of Forestry, McNeill also noted that he had long believed that tree farming was a valuable part of forest resources management from both a business and recreation aspect.

"If we don't work to renew our forests, then our country stands to lose one of its most important assets," he said.

McNeill has been at Morehead State since 1984. His professional background includes four years as Fleming County agricultural extension agent and working with the Fleming-Mason RECC. He also helped develop rural cooperatives in South Korea and Thailand. McNeill was general manager of the Bluegrass RECC in Nicholasville and spent several years in the Philippines with the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association and later served as a consultant to the Indonesian government. He is a former president of the Eastern Kentucky Production Credit Association.

A native of North Carolina, McNeill is a graduate of Berea College and has taken graduate work at Cornell University. He also completed the NRECA Management Institute training program.

He and his wife, the former Anna Lou Planck of Flemingsburg, have five children.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"On the road again" might be an appropriate theme song this spring for Dr. Earle Louder, professor of music at Morehead State University.

A popular euphonium soloist, Dr. Louder has been traveling the state and at times crossing over into Indiana or Ohio to perform as guest artist with high school bands or with MSU's own ensembles.

On May 16, he will appear in Ashland at the Paramount Theatre at 8 p.m. with the Paul Blazer Band, directed by David Miller, and on May 21 he will travel to Calhoun to perform with the McLean County High School Band, directed by Doug Calland, at 7 p.m. at the high school. Both Miller and Calland are MSU graduates.

Dr. Louder also was featured euphonium soloist for MSU's Symphony Band during its recent tour of Lexington area schools. The band performed at Lafayette, Bryan Station, Henry Clay and Danville high schools.

Earlier he appeared with the MSU Tuba-Euphonium Quintet at Alice Lloyd College, Paul Blazer High School and Ironton (Ohio) High School. He also was featured with MSU's Tuba-Euphonium Ensemble when it appeared at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind., and still found time to perform with the Bourbon County High School Band.

MSU's associate director of bands, Dr. Louder has been assistant conductor, principal euphonium and featured euphonium soloist with the Detroit (Mich.) Concert Band for the past 11 seasons.

Before joining MSU's music faculty, he was principal euphonium and brass department head of the U.S. Navy Band in Washington, D.C. for 12 seasons.

SPECIAL TO THE MOREHEAD NEWS

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Nurses play a significant role in hospital and other health care arenas and Morehead State University plays an equally significant role in educating Eastern Kentucky's nursing professionals.

While MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences has offered a two-year degree in nursing since 1971, the department has launched a new four-year, Bachelor of Science degree and phased out its associate level degree in nursing.

"Nursing organizations strongly advocate a four-year degree for professional nurses," said Dr. Betty Porter, department chair at MSU. "The BSN, however, is not necessary at this time for licensure. The profession is encouraging its members to strengthen their education to meet the demand for new skills needed for today's health care technology," she added.

The BSN program has two components. The R.N. component, designed for registered nurses with diplomas or associate degrees, was implemented last fall. "Students in the R.N. track are admitted as juniors because they already have the basic educational background and nursing skills," Dr. Porter said.

Also this past year, MSU offered nursing theory classes in Maysville, Ashland and Prestonsburg to students in the R.N. track as part of the new undergraduate regional program thrust.

This fall, MSU will launch the second phase of the program: the generic component, which is designed for students who wish to become nurses. Students who have completed general requirements will be admitted at the sophomore level. That first generic class currently has 30 potential candidates, according to Dr. Porter.

All 10 members of the nursing teaching faculty hold master's degrees in a variety of clinic specialties and both the department chair and BSN program coordinator have doctorates.

The curriculum offers students seven areas from which to select an emphasis, according to Dr. June O'Connell, BSN program coordinator. These are: care of the adult, pediatric nursing, childbearing family care, mental health nursing, community health care, gerontology and critical care nursing.

"The curriculum, which is still in developmental stages, combines nursing theory classwork with clinical experiences and even includes a research focus," Dr. O'Connell said. "The four-year degree also offers nurses the foundation for graduate level study," she noted.

Clinical experiences begin in the sophomore student's spring semester and continue throughout the program. Students work in a variety of health care settings: hospitals, homes, health departments, ambulatory care centers, schools and geriatric agencies.

"We place the students with various health care agencies in Mt. Sterling, Morehead, Ashland and Maysville and MSU faculty members are there to provide direct supervision," Dr. Porter said.

When the last two-year degree nursing students graduate from MSU in December, they will join approximately 600 others who gained their nursing education at Morehead State. The associate degree program, accredited by the National League for Nursing since 1982, also saw all members of its past two graduating classes pass the national licensing examination for registered nurses.

MSU's four-year degree program has been approved by the Kentucky State Board of Nursing, but--like all new programs--it must graduate its first class before applying to the League for accreditation.

Not only does MSU offer nursing education for the undergraduate, but the Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences also has a continuing education program for registered nurses.

According to Pauline Ramey, who coordinates the continuing education program, next fall the University will offer 12 workshops at various locations throughout the region. Four of these, slated to be held on MSU's campus, will be targeted at nursing and allied health educators.

These will deal with health policy, ethical decision making, legal aspects in health care education and the use of computers in nursing. Also planned is an update session for emergency medical technicians.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A musician/educator and a psychologist with extensive research credentials were honored by their colleagues as the 1986-87 recipients of Morehead State University's most prestigious faculty awards.

Dr. Earle L. Louder, professor of music, received MSU's Distinguished Faculty Award which was established in 1964 by the Alumni Association. Honored with the Distinguished Researcher Award, given annually since 1979 by MSU's Research and Patent Committee, was Dr. Bruce A. Mattingly, associate professor of psychology.

The awards were presented at MSU's third annual Academic Awards Convocation held in Button Auditorium, which launched a week-long tribute to the scholastic achievements of the University's faculty, staff and students.

Dr. Louder has attained international stature as an euphonium soloist. The associate director of MSU's bands also is frequently called on to serve as a conductor, clinician and adjudicator by schools nationwide. Since 1976, he has been assistant conductor and featured euphonium soloist for the Detroit (Mich.) Concert Band.

Before joining MSU's faculty in 1968, Dr. Louder was principal euphonium soloist and head of the brass department of the U.S. Navy Band for 12 years and performed before four U.S. presidents.

He earned his doctorate in music from Florida State University and was the first person to earn the doctorate in euphonium performance.

Active in several professional organizations, Dr. Louder serves on the international board of directors for Tubists Universal Brotherhood Association (TUBA) and the board of directors of the Association of Concert Bands of America.

Dr. Mattingly earlier this year gained the added distinction of becoming MSU's first participant in the Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research (EPSCoR) Visiting Scholars Program of the National Science Foundation. He received a $10,002 grant for the study of drug-induced neurological changes in rats. His research into brain chemistry and behavior has received international attention.

A member of MSU's psychology faculty since 1980, Dr. Mattingly is noted for his involvement of students in research activities. He is the author or co-author of 18 articles published in various scientific journals and more than two dozen research papers presented at professional meetings.

He earned his undergraduate degree from MSU with honors and holds a master's degree and doctorate from the University of Kentucky where he also was a post-doctoral fellow at the Medical Center.

A member of several national and regional professional associations, Dr. Mattingly currently serves as chair of the Psychology Section, Kentucky Academy of Science.

In addition to the faculty awards, recognition was given to the outstanding graduate and undergraduate students in each department.

Named as recipients of Outstanding Graduate Student Awards by their departments were: David Dugan of Aberdeen, Ohio, Agriculture and Natural Resources; Jeff Anderson of North St. Paul, Minn., Art; Tammy Liles of Garrison, Biological and Environmental Sciences; Mark Parks of Flemingsburg, Business and Economics; Mary B. MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dan Cornett, a Morehead State University staff member since 1979, has been named assistant director of admissions at the school.

Cornett, formerly associate registrar, assumed his new post May 1, according to Tim Rhodes, MSU's director of university enrollment services.

"Dan is a welcome addition to our staff as he brings a wealth of academic record keeping experience to the position," said Rhodes.

Cornett will be responsible for overseeing the internal operations of the Admissions Office primarily as related to processing of admissions applications. "Actually, he will be involved in all aspects of the admissions process, including seeing that admission standards and residency requirements are met," Rhodes said.

"The new post offers me a diversity of new challenges and I really look forward to working with the staff members in admissions," Cornett said.

A native of Hazard, Cornett earned his bachelor's and two master's degrees from MSU. Prior to joining the staff, he was assistant manager for Martin's Department Stores, Inc., Morehead.

He is married to the former Andrea Fultz of Olive Hill. He is the father of two children: Daniel and Robert Cornett of Morehead.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University administrator has become the first Kentuckian to receive the Henry Stone Award from United States Judo, Inc., the national governing body for judo.

Bill Rosenberg, director of communication services, was honored by the USJI for his outstanding contributions to the sport of judo through efficient program administration at the opening ceremonies of the 1987 National Judo Championships last month in Pittsburgh.

As the nation's governing body for judo, USJI also is officially recognized by the U.S. Olympic Committee to develop programs and activities in the sport for the Olympics.

Rosenberg's love affair with judo began in the early 1960s when he saw a sign advertising classes in the sport at his hometown YMCA. He tried it and obviously liked it. Later when he entered the Air Force, he discovered judo was an integral part of his training as a military policeman. It's been an integral part of his life ever since.

Leaving the service in 1966, the Chester, Pa., native earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from MSU and established the campus Judo Club while an undergraduate. Today he still serves as the group's faculty adviser.

In 1984, Rosenberg was one of 10 individuals selected nationwide to serve on the judo technical staff for the Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

Now considered an Olympic sport, judo had its beginnings in the martial art of jujitsu, according to Rosenberg. "The sport involves throws and holds rather than the kicks and strikes found in the various forms of karate," he explained. "It's closer in form to collegiate wrestling," he added.

Rosenberg, who has been on MSU's staff since 1970, chairs the Services Subcommittee of USJI's Development Committee. The subcommittee provides the administrative leadership for the following subcommittees: National Managers, National Trainers, National Grassroots Development and National Scouting and Research.

He also is a member of the National Tournament Committee and has been head scorer and technical director for the last three U.S. International Open Judo Championships at the I.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs.

An experienced international manager, Rosenberg managed U.S. judo teams for the Canada Cup, the Dutch Open, the West German Open and the Pre-Olympic Tour in 1984. He also managed the country's teams for the Pacific Rim and Pre-World Training Tour in 1985, the Moscow Women's International Invitational in 1986 and the 1986 Jigoro Kano Cup.

Head scorer for both the Olympic Festival and National Junior Olympic Championships in 1986, Rosenberg also was manager for the U.S. Olympic Festival in 1983 and 1985.

The job of a manager is to make certain the athletes are there and prepared to meet the competitors' schedule in the host nation, according to Rosenberg. "The manager arranges for transportation, housing, feeding and uniforms as well as making sure everyone has the necessary equipment," he explained.

The Henry Stone Award isn't the first time Rosenberg has garnered a first for the state with his judo activities. In 1982 he became Kentucky's first certified national judo referee.

Rosenberg and his wife, the former Alice Clark of Wheelwright, are the parents of a son, William T. Jr.

MSU ACADEMIC AWARDS CONVOCATION: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Defining academic excellence as "superior achievement at a school or university," Joyce Seagraves, Grayson senior, urged her Morehead State University classmates to maintain high expectations and to be involved.

Seagraves, a 4.00 student majoring in mathematics, was the speaker for MSU's third annual Academic Awards Convocation on Monday (May 5). "Achieving academic excellence isn't easy," she told the audience which had gathered in Button Auditorium to recognize academic achievements of faculty, staff and students.

"It takes a lot of work and time," said Seagraves, who will also speak at MSU's Commencement. "Academic excellence is more than studying and working on projects," she noted. "It also demands leadership in campus and community organizations and activities."

Her remarks preceded the recognition of academic achievement on the part of two MSU faculty members: Dr. Earle L. Louder, recipient of the University's Distinguished Faculty Award, and Dr. Bruce A. Mattingly, who received the Distinguished Researcher Award. The University's most prestigious faculty awards, they are given by the Alumni Association and the Research and Patent Committee respectively.

In addition to the faculty awards, recognition was given to the outstanding graduate and undergraduate students in each department.

Named as recipients of Outstanding Graduate Student Awards by their departments were: David Dugan of Aberdeen, Ohio, Agriculture and Natural Resources; Jeff Anderson of North St. Paul, Minn., Art; Tammy Liles of Garrison, Biological and Environmental Sciences; Mark Parks of Flemingsburg, Business and Economics; Mary B. Tyler of Morehead, Communications; Judy Stewart of Morehead, Education;

Also honored were students with 4.00 grade point averages and Honors Program graduates.

William P. Gehringer of Greenup was named as MSU's Veteran of the Year.

Cutlines:

- 1--Expressing his appreciation for the honor given him by his colleagues, Dr. Earle L. Louder noted that through all of MSU's turmoil in the past the "one element that has persisted is the teaching excellence of the faculty." I'm proud to be a member of this institution's faculty, he said.
- 2--Dr. Roberta Anderson, vice president for academic affairs, presented Dr. Bruce A. Mattingly, associate professor of psychology, with his medallion as Distinguished Researcher.
- 3--Honors distributed, the platform party begins to leave Button, led by Dr. James Gotsick, director of Graduate and Special Academic Programs, followed by the Convocation speaker Joyce J. Seagraves and the Rev. Thomas Van. Brunt of St. Alban's Episcopal Church.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Registration is now under way at Morehead State University's Academy of Arts for the Suzuki violin lesson classes this fall.

Taught by Terry Durbin, the classes will be available for children age four through seven at both the beginning and intermediate level, if there is sufficient enrollment.

The registration deadline will be June 30. "Class size is limited for these very popular lessons, so I encourage parents to enroll their children as soon as possible," said Yvonne Baldwin, assistant director of the academy.

The 12-week program includes 15 minutes of private instruction coupled with 15 minutes of group instruction each week. A parent must accompany the child to class. "The classes are only 30 minutes long, because the students are so young," explained Baldwin.

"The registration fee will depend upon enrollment, but we are projecting a cost of $165 per child," Baldwin said. That figure includes instruction, violin rental, all books and materials, plus a registration fee.

Fees may be paid at registration or in September when classes begin. Also available is a deferred payment plan with three payments of $55 each due on Sept. 1, Oct. 1, and Nov. 1.

Additional information on the classes and registration is available by calling the Academy office at (606) 783-2659.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Anyone 65 years of age or older who is a resident of Kentucky may take classes at Morehead State University free of charge under the Caudill Fellowship program.

The Caudill Fellowship is a state-wide program which provides tuition and fee waivers for older students. It was established in the mid-1970s by the Kentucky General Assembly. All state-funded universities participate in the program.

"Each year we usually have five or six people who are Caudill fellows," said Tim Rhodes, MSU director of University enrollment services. "We want to increase this number."

According to Rhodes, the Caudill Fellowship is open to students pursuing degrees and those who are taking classes for personal interest. Most Caudill Fellows take between three and six hours of classes.

"In the past, more women than men have used this opportunity. Students in the program range between 65 and 75 years of age," Rhodes said.

"We encourage older students to explore the Caudill Fellowship whatever their reason for taking a class. It doesn't matter whether it's because of an interest or a hobby or just to give them something to do," Rhodes said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Gregory D. Ramey of Inez has been elected as the 1987-88 student representative to Morehead State University's Board of Regents.

A senior majoring in paralegal studies, Ramey will assume the post in July, succeeding another Martin County native, Carlos Cassady, who served as MSU's student regent this past academic year.

Ramey, newly-elected also as vice president of MSU's Student Government Association, said he ran for the regent's seat because he "wanted to make a significant contribution" to the school before graduating.

"I really wanted to be more involved," said Ramey. "Since SGA President Steve Strathmann was ineligible as a nonresident of Kentucky to serve as student regent, I thought this would be a way of becoming more involved, helping not only my classmates but the school as well he explained.

Describing his role as that of "the students' conscience" to the board, Ramey said he would be an advocate for the needs of handicapped students, married student housing and the commuter student.

Ramey, the son of Mrs. Patricia R. Buskirk of Inez and the late Harold Ramey, is a graduate of Sheldon Clark High School. At MSU he is a charter member of Pi Sigma Alpha political science honorary, chairman of the Presidents Council and vice president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. He has been selected to attend the SAE Leadership Foundation, a week-long leadership seminar, this summer in Chicago.

The new student regent, who plans to enter law school after graduating next spring, also works part-time at The Man's Shop, Ltd., in Williamson, W. Va.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Ernest R. Begley II of Mt. Sterling has been named general management consultant for the Morehead office of the Eastern Kentucky Small Business Development Center at Morehead State University.

Housed within MSU's Department of Business and Economics, the EKSBDC covers 25 counties and Begley will be responsible for the 10-county area of Bath, Bracken, Fleming, Lewis, Mason, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Robertson and Rowan.

Created to support development and growth of small business in the region, the EKSBDC offers a wide variety of services to existing and newly-launched small businesses. The services include management and technical assistance, counseling, training and other educational programs.

Begley's responsibilities will include serving as a liaison with professional and civic organizations as well as private industry to promote EKSBDC's services; counseling businesses; helping existing businesses solve problems, and assisting entrepreneurs in planning new businesses. The Morehead office also will be involved in gathering, analyzing and disseminating economic and business data.

Begley earned the B.B.A. degree from MSU and holds Basic and Standard Certificates from the American Institute of Banking. He has an extensive background in business, having been marketing and advertising director for Central Bank and Trust Company in Lexington; department manager and buyer for McAlpins; sales manager and credit officer for Baumann Paper Company, and general manager of the Mt. Sterling Auto Auction.

He also is a former Mt. Sterling city administrator and at one time served as assistant director of alumni relations at MSU. A member of the National Association of Credit Managers for three years, he served a one-year term on the NACM's board of directors.

Begley and his wife, the former Julia L. Wingate, are the parents of four children. They reside in Mt. Sterling where she teaches at Mt. Sterling Elementary School.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will hold its 1987 Spring Commencement at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, May 16, in Ellis T. Johnson Arena of the Academic-Athletic Center.

Approximately 586 undergraduate and graduate students are candidates for degrees to be conferred by MSU President A. D. Albright.

Commencement speakers will include MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn, Dr. Albright and graduating senior Joyce Joanne Seagraves of Grayson. The platform guests will include Dr. C. Nelson Grote, president-elect of the University.

Seagraves, a candidate for the B.S. degree in the College of Arts and Sciences, is a mathematics major and has a 4.0 grade-point average. Named the Department of Mathematics' Outstanding Undergraduate Student she also is pursuing teaching certification for grades seven through 12.

She is vice president of Cardinal Key, past president of Gamma Beta Phi, and a member of Phi Kappa Phi national honor society, the University's Honors Program and the Special Services Advisory Council.

A graduate of East Carter High School, she is the daughter of Donald and Betty Seagraves. A student teacher this semester at Boyd County High School, she plans to teach at the high school level while earning a master's degree.

After the degrees are conferred by Dr. Albright, the new graduates will be inducted into MSU's Alumni Association by its president, William L. Phelps.

Dr. Marc D. Glasser, professor of English, will serve as grand marshal, assisted by Dr. Frances L. Helphinstine, professor of English, and Alex D. Conyers, associate professor of finance.

Seagraves

Student marshals will be William Dennis McKay of Maysville and Gregory Craft of Olive Hill, representing Graduate and Special Academic Programs; Deborah Doyle of Flemingsburg and Tamara Allison Crouch of Mt. Sterling, College of Applied Sciences and Technology; Rhonda Vaughn of Carlisle and Todd McLean of Whitesburg, College of Professional Studies, and Eva Henderson of Clearfield and Melissa L. Philley of Morehead, College of Arts and Sciences.

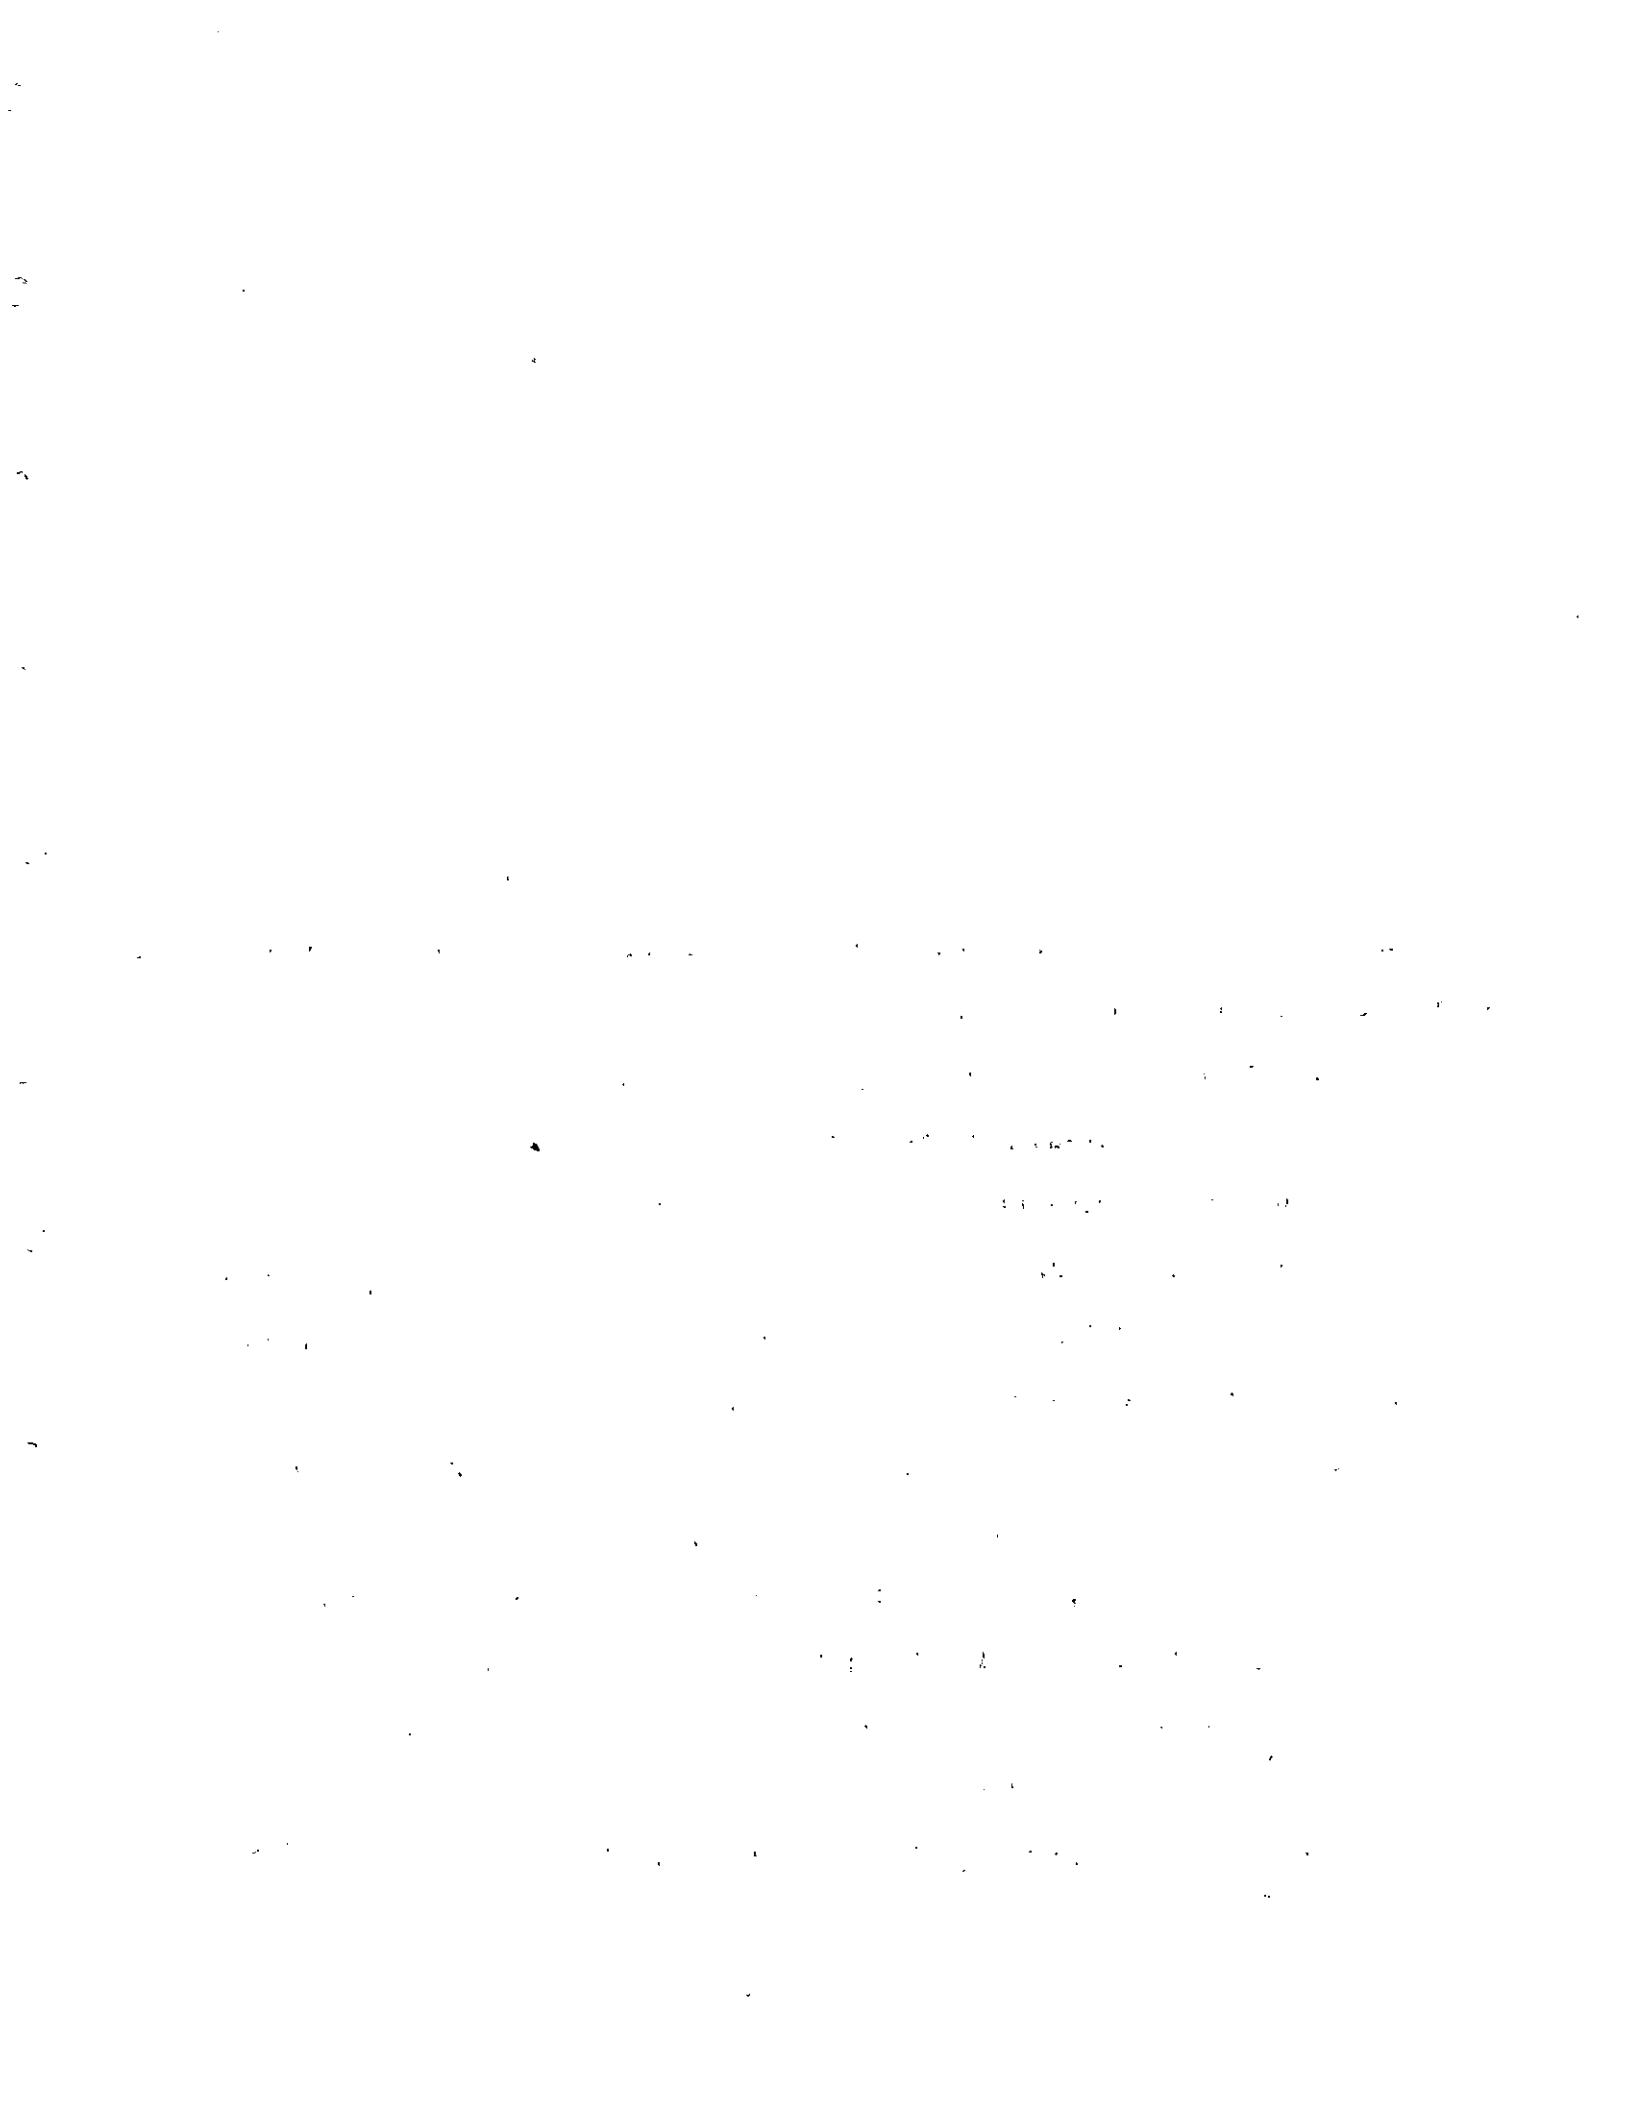

Following commencement, Dr. and Mrs. Albright will host a reception for new graduates and their families on the northeast lawn of the Academic-Athletic Center.

Commencement activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday with the traditional pinning ceremony for graduates of MSU's associate degree in nursing program in Reed Hall Auditorium. Pauline Ramey, coordinator of continuing education for nursing and allied health sciences, will be the featured speaker.

At 10:30 a.m. on the lawn in front of Button, MSU's Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps will hold its 30th annual commissioning. Nineteen students are expected to receive second lieutenant commissions at that time. Dr. Grote will be the main speaker for the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Five members of Raider Comapny, Morehead State University's military-related service club, and their adviser, recently participated in a three-day hike along the Sheltowee Trail.

As a community service to the U.S. Forest Service of Morehead Ranger District, the Raiders inspected the Sheltowee Trail and reported any downed trees, erosion, destruction or violation of national forest rules.

The adviser, Master Sgt. Ladislau Szilagyi, led the Raiders on the 30-mile hike. The students involved included Steven Sexton, Pikeville junior; William Hall, Mayking sophomore; Stacey Holbrook, Mayking sophomore; David Sexton, Ezel junior and Lon Russell, Morehead freshman.

On the first day of the hike, the Raiders learned about foot care, the prevention of heat injuries and how to build shelters using Army equipment.

Breakfast the next morning was composed of "MREs" - Meals-Ready-to-Eat. After a lecture on survival food by Szilagyi, the Raiders were given two hours to find supper for that evening. The meal consisted of salamanders, frogs, crayfish, tree bark, wild onions and a large snake.

Among other things, the students learned how to organize and pack equipment for a trail hike, how to use Army water purification tablets and the Army's old can opener, the P-38. They also discussed animal traps and snares.

On the third day the Raiders returned to Morehead. The grand finale of the hike was a Coke and pizza party at Mr. Gatti's sponsored by the Department of Military Science.

DR. NORFLEET RETIRES FROM MSU

Dr. Morris L. Norfleet, left, a former Morehead State university president, has retired after 25 years of service to MSU. Presenting him with a framed print of Eastern Kentucky author Jesse Stuart was MSU President A.D. Albright. The presentation was made at a luncheon hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Albright and attended by nearly 250 friends and colleagues. Dr. Norfleet, who headed MSU from January 1977 through June 1984, has been serving as special consultant to the president. A native of Pulaski County, he began his career at MSU as director of student teaching in 1962 and later became vice president for research and development. During the luncheon it was announced that the MSU Foundation had placed an additional $500 in the Morris L. Norfleet Scholarship Fund and another $500 in unrestricted monies was give to the Foundation by the MSU Alumni Association in Dr. Norfleet's name.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two Morehead State University undergraduate students recently presented research papers at the Carolinas Psychology Conference held in Raleigh, N.C.

They were Dawn Letcher, Carlisle sophomore, and James Rowlett, Newbern, N.C., junior honors student. Serving as co-authors of the work were graduate students Billie Jo Hatton of Whitesburg and John White of Clarksburg, W. Va.

The papers dealt with behavioral effects of long term use of drugs which alter specific brain chemistry. The research is part of an ongoing project supported by an MSU Research and Patent Committee grant to Dr. Bruce A. Mattingly, associate professor of psychology.

Participation of the students at the conference was made possible by support from the University's Honors Program and the College of Professional Studies.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Four Morehead State University faculty members, who collectively have given nearly 100 years of service to the school, will retire this year.

They include: Dr. Reedus Back, professor of education; Dr. John J. Hanrahan, professor of history; Dr. Robert C. Needham, professor of education, and Victor A. Venettozzi, associate professor of English.

A member of the faculty since 1960, Venettozzi will retire this month after 27 years of teaching English and linguistic courses at MSU. He previously taught at Cornell College in Iowa and Eastern Kentucky University, where he was named Distinguished Professor in 1959.

He earned the B.A. and M.Ed. degrees from ECU and an additional master's degree from Morehead State. A student of linguistics, Venettozzi took additional postgraduate work at the University of Kentucky and the State University of Iowa.

The author of several short stories, Venettozzi has been a member of various professional organizations, including the National Kentucky Education Associations, the American Association of University Professors and Kappa Delta Pi.

He and his wife, Vasile, are the parents of three children, who are all graduates of MSU.

Dr. Needham, who joined the University's faculty in January 1961, retires June 30 with 26½ years of service. The professor of education served as chair of MSU's Department of Education from 1969 to 1981. Prior to his career at MSU, he had been a teacher, coach and principal in the Rowan County schools.

A native of Jackson, Dr. Needham earned his A.B. degree from Transylvania University, an M.A. degree from MSU and the Ed.D. from the University of Kentucky.

He has held membership in the American Association of School Administrators, American Association of Secondary School Principals and the National and Kentucky Education Associations.

He is married to the former Patricia Allen of Greenup County and is the father of three children.

Dr. Back, a former director of University Breckinridge School and dean of Graduate Programs from 1975 to 1984, will retire July 1 with 25 years of service as a teacher/administrator at MSU.

Before coming here in 1962, Dr. Back was principal of Pendleton High School, Butler High School and taught at Madison Central High School. He earned his B.S. degree from Berea College and both the M.S. and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Kentucky.

A past president of the Kentucky Association of Secondary School Principals, Dr. Back has held leadership posts with the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and the Conference of Southern Graduate Schools.

Dr. Back, a native of Blackey, has done extensive research into school evaluation and is the author of several handbooks, articles and papers.

He and his wife, the former Carrie Jane Courtney of Cynthiana, are the parents of three children.

Dr. Hanrahan, a member of MSU's history faculty since 1969, earned the B.S. degree from Boston College, the M.A. degree from Columbia University and the Ph.D. degree from Fordham University. He retires June 30 after teaching MSU students for 18 years.

An American history specialist, Dr. Hanrahan also has done research on Woodrow Wilson and on the Vietnam War. Among his honors are a National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Fellowship to the University of California-Los Angeles, a Kentucky Oral History Commission grant, and a visiting professorship at Laval University in Quebec, Canada.

He has been active in various professional organizations, including the American Historical Association, the Organization of American Historians and the Oral History Association.

He and his wife, the former Jacqueline Pooler, are the parents of eight children. They plan to reside in Alfred, Maine.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Board of Student Publications has announced the key staff positions for the University's student publications for the fall semester.

The editor of the Trail Blazer, the student newspaper, will be Tom E. Lewis. A sophomore communications major, he has been copy editor for the paper. Lewis, the son of John F. Lewis of London, is active in the Baptist Student Union and the Student Alumni Ambassadors.

The university's yearbook, Raconteur, will have Tresa Roberts as its editor. A junior journalism major, she was the associate design editor during this semester. Roberts, the daughter of Jackie Roberts of Farmers, is a member of Cardinal Key National Honor Society and the Symphony Band.

Donna Wills, who has served as copy editor during the last year, will advance to the position of managing editor of the Raconteur. A freshman journalism major, she is the daughter of Willie Wills of Vanceburg.

Both publications are funded through MSU's Department of Communications. Richard Banks, associate professor of journalism, serves as adviser for the Trail Blazer. Larry Dales, assistant professor of journalism, advises the Raconteur staff.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--William H. Redwine, formerly of Sandy Hook, has been named director of alumni relations at Morehead State University.

Redwine, who is currently serving as MSU's director of development, will assume his new post on July 1, according to a joint announcement by MSU President A.D. Albright and Alumni President William L. (Bill) Phelps of Versailles.

Redwine, 30, succeeds Don Young, who resigned this spring after 15 years to return to teaching.

"We are pleased that this important position will be filled by an energetic, enthusiastic graduate of the University who has considerable experience in working with alumni as a result of his six productive years in the Office of Development," Albright and Phelps said.

"As an MSU alumnus, I'm proud to have this new opportunity to serve the institution and I look forward to working with the Alumni Association leadership and our other alumni," Redwine said. "I hope to continue many of the programs already in existence and to add new programs designed to further develop alumni support of the University."

Redwine, a graduate of Elliott County High School, earned his B.A. degree in government and public affairs at MSU in 1979 and is a former instructor/counselor with the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program. He assumed his fund raising duties at MSU in 1981 and has served as adviser to the MSU chapter of Sigma Nu social fraternity since 1980.

He is the son of William R. and Mattie H. Redwine of Sandy Hook. Selected as an "Outstanding Young Man of America" in 1980, Redwine is a past master of Hepburn Lodge 576 at Sandy Hook and is a noble in the El Hasa Shrine.

He and his wife, the former Susette Dalton, are the parents of a son.

DR. MORRIS NORFLEET HONORED: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Student contact has meant the most to him over the years, according to former Morehead State University president Morris L. Norfleet, who recently retired after 25 years of service at the University.

Dr. Norfleet was guest of honor at a luncheon Monday hosted by MSU President and Mrs. A.D. Albright, which drew nearly 250 friends, colleagues, educators and civic leaders from the region.

After stepping down from the presidency in 1984, Dr. Norfleet had served as special consultant to the president. He began his MSU career in 1962 as director of student teaching and later became vice president for research and development.

As master of ceremonies for the luncheon, Keith Kappes, director of university relations, cited various milestones in MSU's growth during the Norfleet presidency, including establishment of several academic programs and the completion of the Academic-Athletic Center.

The addition of $500 to the Morris L. Norfleet Scholarship Fund was announced by Harold Bellamy on behalf of the MSU Foundation. Joyce LeMaster, representing MSU's Alumni Association, also announced that the Association had made a $500 unrestricted gift to the Foundation in Dr. Norfleet's name.

Also speaking were Greenup County School Superintendent Jack Webb, a former student of Dr. Norfleet; the Rev. Don Mantooh, pastor of the First Baptist Church where the Norfleets attend, and MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn.

In his remarks, Dr. Norfleet noted that he didn't think of his as retiring, but as "changing careers" and said he planned to be active in a newly-formed Kentucky Appalachian Foundation, which would be working to improve educational and cultural opportunities and further economic development in the region.

Commencement

2-2-2.

Dr. Grote, who assumes the presidency July 1, pledged to continue and build upon the programs begun by Dr. Albright and said: "I want to lead this University to the greatness it deserves."

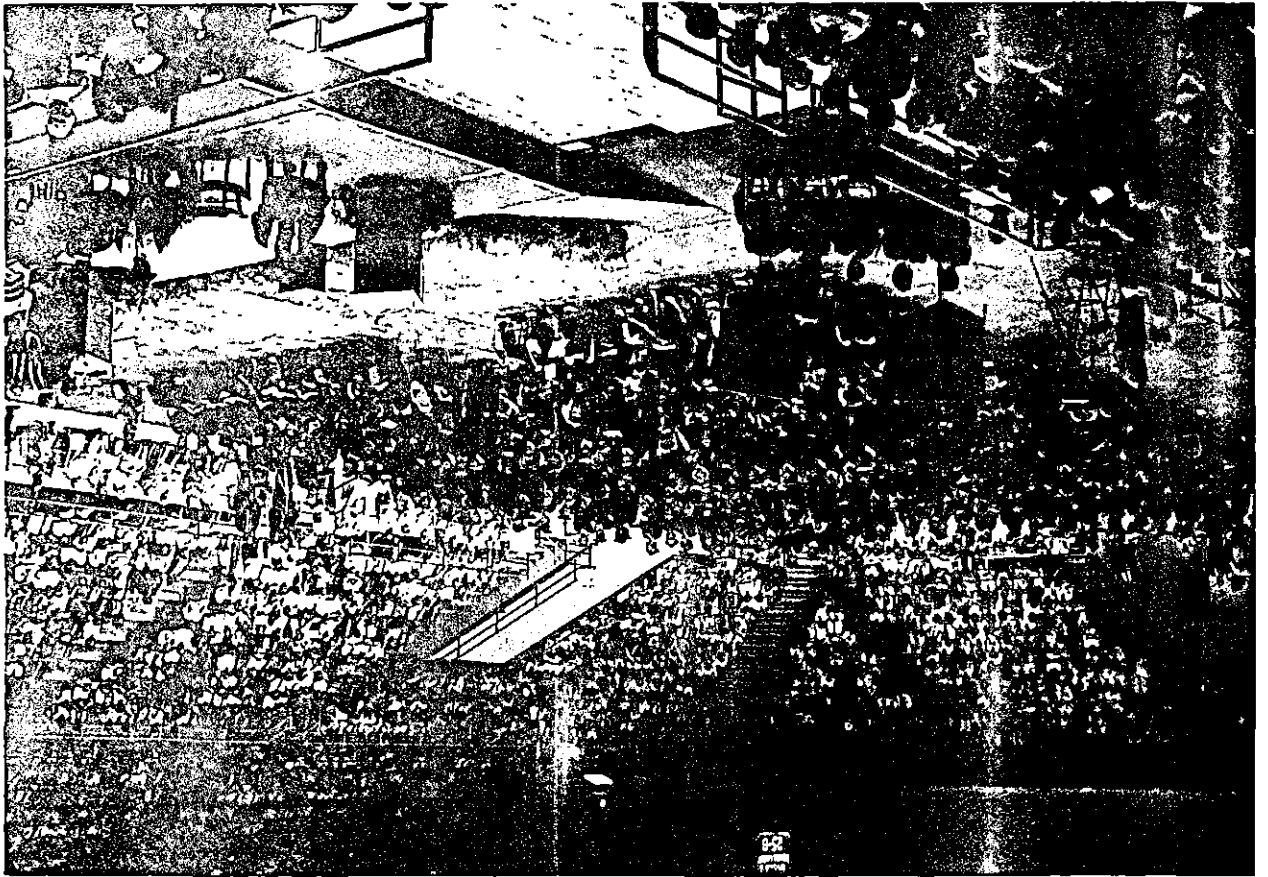

Earlier in the day, Dr. Grote spoke at the traditional pinning ceremony for graduates of MSU's associate degree in nursing program and at the Army ROTC commissioning. Both are programs which he was involved with 16 years ago as a former MSU administrator.

Cutlines:

- 2--The spring graduates filled the floor of Ellis T. Johnson Arena while approximately 5,600 family members and friends of the former students watched from the bleachers.
- 3--Student speaker Joyce Joanne Seagraves of Grayson expressed appreciation to MSU for "making higher education actually affordable" and urged her classmates not to end their learning process with commencement. Seagraves, named the Department of Mathematics "Outstanding Undergraduate Student," received the B.S. degree, graduating with a 4.0 grade-point average.
- 4--MSU President Albright took time during the ceremony to recognize the support given to the graduates over the years by their grandparents, parents, spouses and friends.
- 5--Dr. C. Nelson Grote, who becomes MSU's 11th president on July 1, paid tribute to the achievements of Dr. Albright and pledged to lead MSU "to the greatness it deserves."
- 6--MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn, who predicted a period of "unprecedented growth for MSU," greets a new associate degree program graduate. Each graduate received personal congratulations from President Albright and former Gov. Nunn.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The ninth annual Jesse Stuart Symposium will be held at Morehead State University on Tuesday, June 23, as part of the week-long Appalachian Celebration.

An annual summer campus event, MSU's Appalachian Celebration features concerts, classes, exhibits and demonstrations emphasizing the rich heritage and culture of the region.

Focusing on Kentucky's renowned author who died two years ago, the Stuart Symposium is sponsored by MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy.

"Jesse Stuart's Legacy," a talk by Joyce LeMaster, MSU associate professor of English and co-director of the Jesse Stuart Tape Project, will launch the day's events at a 12:15 p.m. luncheon in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

Reservations will be necessary for the luncheon, but not for the other activities of the day.

Following the luncheon, other guest speakers will discuss Stuart, his books and the Kentucky of his time. Featured speaker for the Symposium will be Al Smith, editor and publisher of the London Sentinel-Echo. His topic, "Stuart's Kentucky," will deal with the history of politics and tax support of education in Eastern Kentucky.

"Al Smith is very familiar with Kentucky education and politics," said Dr. Ron Dobler, department chair. "He's also an enthusiastic speaker."

George Brosi, bookseller and Stuart bibliographer, will discuss "Back to the Classroom: Returning Jesse Stuart to the Schools through His Books," at 1:30 p.m. in the Gold Room, ADUC, with Smith's presentation to follow at 2:15 p.m.

As an added attraction, MSU theatre students will present selected readings and dramatic interpretations of Stuart's "The Thread That Runs So True."

In addition to the one-day Symposium, all-day tours of Stuart's home in W-Hollow, Greenup County, will be conducted Monday, June 22, and Wednesday, June 24, by James Stuart, brother of the late author.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Office of Extended Campus Programs will accept applications for VISTA Volunteers for a special adult literacy program through June 5.

"We are looking for eight volunteers who will be assigned in pairs to assist with literacy efforts in Elliott, Morgan, Bath and Rowan counties," said Shirley Hamilton, extended campus programs training coordinator.

Volunteers need either a high school diploma or GED and strong people skills, plus a desire to help others, said Hamilton. The assignments are for one year and include a monthly living allowance, medical insurance and a year-end stipend.

Under the Region III Action Agency-funded program, each volunteer will train 20 reading tutors and each tutor then will work with three students who wish to improve their reading skills or prepare for GED testing.

Training for volunteers will be provided by Action and MSU under the direction of Bonnie Burrell, coordinator of MSU's Appalachian Adult Learning Center.

The program, according to Hamilton, is the first phase of a three-year plan designed to improve literacy skills in 12 eastern Kentucky counties. "We will work closely with literacy efforts already under way in our target counties," Hamilton said. "We have received excellent cooperation from the school superintendents and other officials. They have a real understanding of the importance of an educated work force to economic development of our region," she added.

During the program's first year, according to Hamilton, 480 potential new readers will be reached. The program will be monitored by an advisory board and each county will have its own advisory council, she said.

Additional information or volunteer applications may be obtained by calling (606) 783-2077.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Jack G. Jones has been named director of personnel services at Morehead State University.

The appointment was announced by Porter Dailey, MSU vice president for administrative and fiscal services.

A member of the University staff since 1976, Jones has been serving as acting director since last August.

"Jack Jones has a proven track record in administration and has consistently demonstrated his management abilities," said Dailey. "We are pleased that he has accepted this new role."

"We are a service-oriented office," said Jones. "Our objective will be to improve wherever possible the personnel services offered to University employees," he added.

Formerly grants officer for MSU, Jones has held various administrative posts elsewhere. He has been a budget and management analyst, personnel officer and payroll office supervisor. He also is a former chair of MSU's Department of Military Science.

A native of Pulaski County, Jones earned his B.S. degree from Auburn University.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--When asked why he enrolled at Morehead State University, James Russell (Russ) Williamson said he could name several reasons.

"It was very familiar to me," said the sophomore from Sarasota, Fla.

"When I was growing up, we always stopped by the campus when we were traveling through Kentucky on our way to visit my relatives."

Williamson is the grandson of Russell Williamson of Inez, a member of MSU's first graduating class in 1927 when it was Morehead State Normal and Teachers College. His father, the late Robert Williamson, and his mother, Marie Williamson, also are MSU alumni, making him a third generation MSU student.

"My grandfather's brother and sisters had attended Morehead," he said. "They were always telling me how the school was when they were here." One difference in their description of the school is that the students now go home a lot more often than they did then, he said.

A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, Williamson likes to fish and play basketball in his free time. The latter comes as no surprise to those who remember his grandfather for bringing two state basketball titles to the Eastern Kentucky town of Inez and whose basketball achievements were commended by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association when he retired.

"My parents never pressured me to come to Morehead," he said. "After high school, I attended a junior college in Bradenton for one year, then transferred here. I like the rural atmosphere and the smaller college," he said.

Majoring in business administration, he hopes to follow in his father's footsteps and secure a position in sales somewhere in Florida after graduation.

"I had a good relationship with my father," Williamson said. "We spent a lot of time together, sharing a hobby of restoring old cars to their original condition." He now owns a 1966 Chevelle which he and his father reconditioned. "In judging, this car won third place in the state of Florida for its class," he added.

Williamson is planning for the summer and getting a job. "I worked for Kingsway Pools last summer." he said. "I'm not sure if I will do that again, or find something else."

When the 1987 fall semester begins at MSU, Williamson is looking forward to having another family member on campus. "My brother Bobby (Robert Alden Williamson) is coming to school here to study art," he said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Private giving to Morehead State University this year has topped the $1 million mark for the first time in history, MSU President A.D. Albright said today with the announcement of a major bequest.

"It has been a tremendously successful year thanks to the generosity of our friends," Dr. Albright said. Included in the $1,180,853 in private gifts to date are MSU's largest corporate and individual gifts, as well as the bequest, he noted.

"We are very pleased to announce that the late Dr. Norman Tant, a former faculty member, has provided the University with a gift to help future students," Dr. Albright said.

Dr. Tant, who died last November, earmarked $100,000 from his estate for the Norman and Deane Rust Tant Scholarship Endowment Fund, co-named for his wife who died in July 1986.

The scholarship program will aid students from the six-county area of Bath, Rowan, Menifee, Fleming, Carter and Elliott.

Dr. Tant, a survivor of the Bataan Death March, taught at MSU from 1952 to 1977 when he retired as professor of library science and instructional media. He also served as chair of the Department of Library Sciences and was director of audio-visual education.

For many years, the Tants operated Dean's Jewelry in Morehead. Mrs. Tant also was well known as a milliner.

In establishing the endowment before his death, Dr. Tant noted that residents of the six counties had supported his family businesses and that he and his wife wanted to help them in return.

In addition to the initial bequest, MSU also will receive a portion of Dr. Tant's residuary estate.

Morehead State's banner giving year also included $150,000 as the first phase of Ashland Oil's $500,000 commitment which is MSU's corporate gift and $681,878 from Terry and Susan Jacobs, the largest individual gift, for artificial turf at Jayne Stadium.

In addition to significant one-time or capital gifts, the MSU Foundation's annual giving program showed an 11 percent increase from the previous year, representing more than 1,200 individual donors.

"While the large corporate and individual gifts are vitally important, we are just as appreciative of those individuals who give on a more modest scale each year," Dr. Albright said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--After 26½ years of teaching at Morehead State University, Dr. Robert C. Needham will retire at the end of June.

A native of Jackson, Needham currently holds the rank of professor of education and from 1969 to 1981 served as chair of MSU's Department of Education.

Prior to joining the MSU faculty in 1961, Dr. Needham was a teacher, coach and principal in the Rowan County schools. He earned the A.B. degree from Transylvania University, the M.A. degree from MSU and his Ed.D. degree from the University of Kentucky.

He has been a member of the American Association of School Administrators, American Association of Secondary School Principals and the National and Kentucky Education Associations.

Dr. Needham is married to the former Patricia Allen of Greenup County and is the father of three children.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Art will offer a variety of activities for participants in the 11th annual Appalachian Celebration, slated June 21-27.

The Celebration, now a traditional campus summer event, features concerts, classes, exhibits and demonstrations, all emphasizing the rich cultural heritage of the region.

Launching the week-long tribute to Appalachia will be a reception, hosted by the Department of Art, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday, June 21, in the main gallery of Claypool-Young Art Building.

The gallery also will feature a special exhibit during June and July in conjunction with the Celebration. The exhibit is called "Building on the Past: Significant Works from the First 25 Years of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen."

"This particular exhibit gives an excellent overview of artistic and craft expression over the past 25 years," said Adrian Swain, Folk Art Collection curator for MSU. "We timed this show specifically for the gallery audiences who will be in Morehead for the Celebration."

During the Celebration, the main gallery and Folk Art Collection will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Two craft workshops will take place in Claypool-Young, meeting from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. They are weaving and natural dyeing taught by Granny Toothman, MSU artist-in-residence, and traditional flat reed basketry with Cheryl Cain. The fee for each is $30.

Celebration-goers also will have an opportunity to view outdoor demonstrations by department members. Tom Sternal, department chair, and Swain will demonstrate their skills in wood carving and pottery-making respectively on Wednesday and Thursday, June 24-25, on the lawn of Camden-Carroll Library.

On Saturday, Granny Toothman will repeat last year's popular "Sheep to Shawl" demonstration on the Laughlin Health Building grounds.

Additional information about the Department of Art activities for the Appalachian Celebration or registrations for craft workshops may be obtained by calling the department at (606) 783-2766.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Education will offer special summer instructional programs for elementary and middle school children in reading, math, language arts and social studies.

The one-week sessions will be conducted by upperclassmen and graduate students enrolled in education courses at MSU and will include a number of certified teachers.

"The instructional program is not only designed for those students who need additional aid in their basic skills, but also for students interested in increasing their abilities in an area through indepth study," Dr. Paul McGhee, chair of MSU's Department of Education, said. "The instructional program can be adjusted to each student's needs," he explained.

During the week of June 22-26, instruction will be offered in math for students entering grades one through eight; in social studies for those entering grades one through nine, and in reading for those entering grades two through eight.

Language arts (spelling, handwriting, grammar and creative writing) for students entering grades two through six and reading for those entering grades two through eight will be the instructional areas offered during July 20-24.

Also, a special reading program will be available July 8-July 31 for those students who need extensive help with reading skills.

The instructional program carries a fee of $5 per student in each program and special rates may be arranged for those participating in more than one program. Parents will be responsible for transporting their children to and from campus.

Additional information may be obtained from the Department of Education, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351. Telephone (606) 783-2841
