COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT WRITES EXPLAINING WORK OF FREE TEXT BOOK LAW; FREE TO 1st 6 GRADES

Heretofore Books Free Only To Pupils As High As Fourth Grade.

The State is rendering a great service through the distribution of free text books to the children of the commonwealth enrolled in the first six grades of our common schools. This county has had its full share and approximately 3000 children have benefited from this service. Over 5700 books have been checked out to the pupils of the County Schools from the office of the Superintendent during the current school year. Because of this service hundreds of children have enjoyed the privilege of using text books that would otherwise be forced to get along without them.

The success of this program of furnishing free texts depends to a large extent upon the cooperation of the superintendents, the teachers, the parents and the pupils in the care of these books. The care and distribution of free books has greatly aided to the work of the superintendent and the teachers and they deserve the full hearty cooperation of both parents and pupils in order to lessen the burden added because of this service. In order to give you parents some aid and information concerning the methods employed in caring for and distributing these books a few suggestions are set up by the State Department of Education and summarized below. We believe that a careful study of these rules by the parents will give them a better understanding of the matter and handling the problem brought on by the distribution of these books.

1. When the pupil receives free books the parent of that child should sign in duplicate a receipt for these books and return to the teacher.
2. If a child loses or destroys a book he should be required to pay the full retail price, if possible.
3. If a child damages a book beyond use, he should be required to pay the full retail price, if possible, and be permitted to keep the book.
4. If a child damages a book, but not sufficiently to cause it to be discarded, he should be fined in proportion to the damage done, the book to remain the property of the State.
5. If a pupil or his parent refuses to settle for books lost or destroyed or for fines assessed for damaged books, the pupil should be deprived of the benefit of free books until damage is paid. (Reasonable wear to be expected and should not be penalized.)

The superintendent can check books out only to teachers and only if the teacher has the authority to check books out to individual children. By caring for the books that we now have we can hasten the day when children in all grades will be supplied with free texts. The smaller the amount spent to replace damaged and lost books the larger the amount for new books, is a fact that may well be remembered by both parent and pupil.

McClain Out Under Bond Of $1000.00

Irvin McClain, held in connection with the shooting of Virgil Harper and Paul Crooks on January 6, has been released on $2,000 bond, according to C. E. Jennings, county judge. McClain's bond was signed by Paul Wood and Walker Horseman. Examining trial for McClain has been set for the first Monday in February. Both of the victims of the shooting are reported out of danger. McClain claims that the shooting he picked up a gun from the floor was accidental and happened when of his car.

Jennings Unseated By House Vote Of 67-32

Tom Jennings was relieved of his seat in the House of Representatives at Morehead by a strictly party vote on Friday of last week, and by the same vote his opponent in the reelection, J. J. Thomas of Owensboro, was seated in his stead. Jennings was elected to his present seat in the November election, but Mr. Thomas claimed fraud and intimidation due to the use of troops and county patrolmen as guards at the precincts in Rowan. Jennings had carried the precincts by an overwhelming vote, and their omission would automatically have defeated him.

The contest was heard by a committee of the House composed of seven Democrats who, after examining the records and depositions, reported unanimously to the House as a whole their findings, that Jennings was not entitled to his seat. The committee report, voted 64 to 2 to remove Jennings and seat Thomas. Mr. Thomas was sworn in immediately following the decision of the House.

CAR LICENSES IN COUNTY ARE GOING VERY SLOWLY

A report from the county clerk's office reveals that 237 cars and 147 truck licenses have been issued by that office. This is only a small percentage of the 724 cars and 104 trucks which were listed last year.

Farm Section Gets Many Compliments

The News has been receiving many compliments on its new feature, the State Farm Section, which appeared for the first time with last week's issue. The section, entirely in Rotogravure, appealed not only to the farmers, but to our readers as well. In answer to a number of inquiries from subscribers, we wish to say that the State Farm Section will be a monthly feature of the News. It will not appear weekly, as some seem to expect. However the News has made arrangements for the appearance each week of a feature of the section that seems to have taken hold. This is the column, "Just a Whittin'" and a "Thinkin'" by Pete Gettys. Mr. Gettys is one of the leading farm column writers of the country, and the News considers itself fortunate to be able to supply a column by such a prominent writer for the pleasure of its readers. Watch for the column each week in the regular edition of the News, and each month in the State Farm Section of the News.

Board Of Education Is Sued For Old Debt

The county board of education of Rowan county was named defendant in a suit filed in United States Court at Chattanooga last Saturday when the W. C. Thornburg Company, an Ohio corporation, filed a civil action for $10,630.

The plaintiff lists ownership of 25 negotiable bonds in the sum of $1,000 each which were issued by the Rowan county board in April, 1929. According to the petition the defendant has defaulted in payment of the interest coupons since October, 1931. Judgment in the sum of $10,630, representing the total amount of defaulted interest payments, is asked by the plaintiff.

The petition was entered through attorneys Nickolas, Morrill, Wood, Marx, and Ginter of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Noah Hall Still Shows Great Improvement

Mr. Noah Hall who was injured two weeks ago in an automobile wreck, and who has been confined to his home since that time, is apparently slightly improved, although he still suffers considerable pain and inconvenience from injuries to his neck and spine. Mr. Hall was thankful for several days to be in an extremely warm condition. However for the past week he has appeared to improve, so that at present, he is able to sit up for short periods at a time and the only difficulty he experiences is the pain in his back. It is expected to gradually clear away, the most important factor being time.

Senator Nickell Put In Judiciary Bill

Senator Clarence E. Nickell spent the week-end in Morehead with his son, Leo, who is attending school at Breckinridge Training School here while his father spends the next few months in Frankfort, making law for the good of the Commonwealth.

Senator Nickell arrived Saturday afternoon. He is one of the most prominent figures in the Senate, being Administration spokesman and caucus chairman. He has taken a prominent part in engineering the administration bills through the senate and will be heard from many times before the session is brought to a close.

Recently one of the bills introduced by the Senate by Senator Nickell is to repeal the so-called "Non-partisan judicial" law, which permits a candidate to file and run on as many tickets as he desires. Senator Nickell, in discussing the bill, stated that he felt that the present law did not serve the purpose intended of taking the office of circuit judge out of politics, but only served to put it further in by permitting a candidate to run on more than one ticket.

Thus, if a man is defeated on one ticket, the present law allows him to file on another and defeat the will of the people. The bill being introduced by Senator Nickell as an administration measure, will undoubtedly become a law.

MADISON LEE WILSON DIES AT HOME OF PARENTS: BRIEF REVIEW OF HIS LIFE

Madison Lee Wilson, notable young attorney of this city, son of Dr. and Mrs. Homer L. Wilson died suddenly from heart failure on the morning of January 17. His sudden death was a great shock to the people of Morehead, where he had grown up and spent most of his life, and to his many friends elsewhere.

Madison was born in Morehead on September 27, 1907, and at the time of his death was twenty-eight years, three months and twenty-one days old. He had been a familiar figure on the streets of this city and in its homes; almost every family felt a loving interest in him. He was a favorite and pet of the older citizens and a pal of many of the younger people. There was, probably no boy ever born and brought up in Morehead who got closer to the hearts of the people or who felt nearer to them than Madison did. He had free access to a number of homes here and when he walked in he was found a welcome and freedom such as he enjoyed in his own home, so was part of the life of this community in a peculiarly endearing way.

Madison united with the Christian Church at the age of twelve. He had been a member of the Sunday School since infancy, having been on the cradle roll until he was old enough to join the primary class. He progressed through the various classes until he reached the Men's Bible Class, of which he was a member when his life ended. His voice was heard in the church choir when he was in his teens, and he also played the cornet in the Sunday School orchestra for several years, which assisted at times in the church service. He was educated mainly at the Morehead State Teachers College and the normal institute at the Morehead Normal School. Under the tutelage of the late Dr. F. C. Burton, and others he enjoyed the happiest of school days and with his zest for learning added gaiety to its campus and joyed his work among his room-mates. Festive events on the campus that delighted both faculty and students. He was a member of the male quartet of the College and also of its Glee Club. He later attended Georgetown College and once after an excursion during which he and his fellow students had aroused some persons from slumber and had damaged some furniture in their party, he wrote in position which is not only well known, but is entirely sufficient to pay for the damage. His smile was so disarming and he had so much good will that no dean or faculty member could hold out against his whimsiness. He was extolled from many a "blithely" break by these qualities. He attended the Tennessee Military Institution at Sweetwater for one year and took his course in law at the University of Louisville at the Jefferson School of Law. He was admitted to the bar in January 1929 and afterward served for a time as city attorney of Morehead.

He organized the Young Men's Democratic Club of Rowan County in 1932 and was its first president. He was a member of the Masonic

Breck Training Top Yellowjackets 21-19

Breckinridge High School broke a long standing jinx last Saturday night when they defeated Grayson High School 21 to 19. This is the first time in the history of the school that Breck has scored a victory over the Grayson school. The Breck junior team also romped to a 21 to 19 victory over the Grayson Juniors. With the Wolf score tied at 8 all, the Breck offense began clicking and at the end of the third quarter they were leading 21 to 15. Grayson scored a goal early in the fourth and two more in the last minute.

Long was high point man for Breck with 11, and Carr was next with 7 points. Carr, forward, played the best defensive game. With "Red" Condit and Pralay scoring 11 and 7 points respectively the Breck Juniors had little difficulty in disposing of the Grayson Juniors. Breck led 10 to 5 at the half and was never in any danger.

The Breck seniors and Juniors go over to Flemingsburg tomorrow night for a double header with that school. The varsity will meet Hadesman here Saturday night. The Juniors do not have a game scheduled but a preliminary game will be arranged, according to Bob Laughlin, Breck coach.

Back To The Church Program

History repeats itself and since the beginning of time God's people have turned away from Him and every man on every land. What is the matter with the church? Has it lost its power. Why are the pews empty? So long the people of Morehead have turned a deaf ear to the invitation "come to church" that gradually the church has lost its appeal.

CHAPTER I

The hot, tropical sun beat down relentlessly upon the white sands of Tofoa. A lazy sea threw a white spray out of its deep blue, and a spanned against the shore, overhead yellow-jackets buzzed restlessly in the morning breeze, while and giant coccoloba swayed gently beneath the sun and the uppermost branches of the mangroves swung gently from side to side, chasing happily at their monotonous, only monotonous, and unceasing, in the jungle, deep in the jungle, and mated at their tables, merrily fish-net of tapa rope, snarpling new larvae for their mosquito spears, or polishing saucers and boards teeth for their heavy necklaces, boys played at archery and javelin-throwing, the women, protecting the cream tan of their skin from the burning glare of the sun, stayed close to the fans, the crute bas of, thatched bambo. The vahines, the younger girls, were already at their morning bath, disporting themselves with gay abandon in the crystal-clear, green-blue water of a snatched pool.

As the canoe slipped silently onto the beach. Taro led the way ashore. Mela was close behind him. The men departed, advancing towards the pool of the vahines. As they waited for their sign for the raid, the girl met, crapped eagerly at the rich beauty of the girls, pale in marked contrast to the darker skins of their own women; and each mated carefully the vahine who was to be his prize. Mela spied Lileo, and his quest was ended. But, Taro was her love, and he determined to have her for his own. Ordering Mela to wait, he rushed forth through the brush towards Lileo.

"It's mine! Seize them!"

At Taro's sharp command, the men broke forward upon the frightened girls. Turning to flee, the vahines found the Taro's advancing from all sides. Lileo dove into the pool, swam under water with swift, sure strokes, scrambled on the far side, and made a frenzied dash up the side of the hill. Mela spied her and sped after her. Straining every muscle of her fine, young body, she forced ahead, but she knew she could not escape.

Other girls fought fiercely to free themselves from the crushing arms of the raiders. A few escaped and fled towards the lagoon, screaming shrill as they ran. Soon, the resounding boom of the log-drum echoed and reechoed through the island, and the Tofoan warriors responded to the call to arms.

When Taro heard the first threatening boom of the log-drum, he issued the command to retreat. Reluctant to leave their captives behind, his warriors, however, feared to disobey, their chief, and they fled to the beach at the first signal of the Tofoan conch-horn. The a eoriate decorated war-canoe rested there in three feet of water, and the disgruntled warriors spashed to it and embarked. For Taro, supported by a scanty six men, was reluctant to face the Tofoans, whose vast numbers, he knew, would more than compensate for their inferior mettle.

Lileo continued her mad flight towards the village. Mela forgot his own safety and sped after her. Over-taking Lileo, he grasped her roughly by the arm and started to join the retreat of his fellow Types. But, Lileo, did not submit without a struggle. Fighting furiously to escape, she retarded his progress at every turn. Then, as they reached a clearing that overlooked the sea, Mela stopped aghast, for he saw that he had been forsaken by his comrades and that the Type war-canoe was racing from the shore in inglorious retreat. Lileo laughed derisively; for now Mela was in her power, alone on Tofoa, her island, the land of the sworn enemies of the Types.

As they watched the retreat of the Type warriors from their vantage-point, high on the hill, they saw that Taro had setled none too soon. For now the Tofoan hosts lined the shore, shouting imprecations at the fleeing raiders.

The Tofoans were not a warlike people. Having chased the Types from their shores, they had no desire to follow them to sea and engage them in conflict. Rather, they returned to their homes and their habitual indolence, singing a war-song that belied their nature.

When Lileo joined in the song, Mela was indifferant. But, when she screamed shrilling to attract her people, he held her securely with his left arm while he clamped his left hand over his mouth. She had long before found the facility of resistance, and, so, she submitted without thought her in his arm and carried her back into the seclusion of the dense, tropical shrubbery.

Now, Lileo screamed again. Hearing shrill rose high above the sea drone of the warrior's song, Mela shook her possibly and warned her to be silent. She laughed at him and cried out again. His heavy fist crashed high on her forehead, and she fell limp into his arms. Unhappily, by his hand, he held her head, and brushed to the ceiling about the wall. He stopped into the water and waded swiftly towards the hills that crowned down from a mountain. A momentary glance carried him through the shallow torrent of the cascade, and he found the entrance of a cave on the smooth, flat side of a stone behind the opaque sheet of falling water.

On Friday, Jan. 24th the Allge Theatre brings to the screen the story "The Calling Of Dan Mathews" adapted from the great story from the famous novel of Harold Bell Wright.

Such of pangsterim has been added to the plot, but since it was Arlen, the minister everpowering the sinister forces of evil and leaving up the town, it is not harmful.

The romance between Arlen and Miss Winters is pleasant, both of them awakening the spectator's sympathy by their sincerity in their love. The fact that Miss Winters' father is in danger of expropriation as a member of the criminal forces, with whom he has been connected innocently holds one in fair steps.

As a minister, proving that the amusement center run by Douglas Dumbille was really a blind for gambling and the selling of liquor, decides to launch a campaign against it and is aided by Miss Winters. Her father has innocently let Dumbille have the money to finance the center, not knowing that it would be an immoral place. Dumbille demands $50,000 for the return of the contract, and Miss Winters, having found out about her father's trouble, decides to pay it. She goes to Dumbille with the money, but after he takes the money, he refuses to give her the contract. Arlen finally secures the contract, and forces the arrest of Dumbille and his son. Arlen then marries Miss Winters.

William Powell, known as the first screen mole in "The Nightingale" and in "The Actor," is in "The Calling Of Dan Mathews" as a minister. He is in the eye by a piece of mail.

So began a typical day on the island of Tofoa, a sat Eden, free even today from the ever widening realm of civilization. A generous nature provided plentifully for the sparse needs of the islanders: fresh bread and pits to be beaten into tapa cloth for pareus and maros; many fish, wild fowls, taros yams, breadfruit, oranges, pineapples, guavas, and mangoes for their food; and the papa, whose root provided an effective bleach for the women's skins.

The vahines were proud of the pale tan of their satiny skins; and, even as they scampered about the mossy banks of the pool, they carefully avoided the darkening rays of the sun. Swimming or ashore, their own garment was a pareu, a wide, brightly colored sash of tapa cloth, that revealed, rather than concealed the healthy allures of the fine, yellow bodies beneath it.

Now, as Lileo and her friends were playing about the quiet pool, twenty pairs of powerful arms pushed a Type war-canoe as lightly towards the beach. Taro, grizzled chief of the warriors, stood forward on the high prow, urging his men to greater speed. Taro was resplendent in his war regalia. A lowering head-dress of brilliant, tropical plumage crowned his head. Heavy necklaces of boards teeth hung about his neck. A maro of dark tapa cloth fell from his waist, ending in clusters of braided tassels. Dark loons of human hair the hair of vanished foes, encircled his neck and wrists. In his right hand he held an elaborately carved paddle-spear of koar wood.

Factories Make Price Sacrifices To Sell Stock

NEW YORK CITY — FLASH — Leading factories concede great price reductions to cooperative buying units of outstanding retail stores from coast to coast in order to clear their stockrooms of winter merchandise. Savings of ten to thirty per cent made by department stores buying executives planning for nationwide Winter Thrift Sale. Big values seen for retail shoppers in towns and cities having participating stores.

PUBLIC SHARE PROFIT

Last minute news obtained from leading stores participating in nationwide Winter Thrift Sale reveals evidence that those stores will "share profits" by giving the public the full benefit of the savings made by their sensational wholesale purchases. Following is a pledge made by participating stores:

(1) We pledge that our Winter Thrift Sale prices will be the season's lowest prices for merchandise of similar quality.

(2) We pledge to give the public the full benefit of savings made in our wholesale purchases.

(3) We pledge that all merchandise placed on sale is of the same high quality on which our reputation has been built.

(4) We pledge the merchandise in our Winter Thrift Sale to be of new, desirable style.

(5) We pledge customer satisfaction with every purchase and that WE WILL NOT KNOWINGLY BE UNDERSOLED!

GOLDE'S IS LOCAL PARTICIPANT IN NATION-WIDE THRIFT SALE

ONLY AT THIS LOCAL STORE CAN PUBLIC OBTAIN THE AMAZING MONEY-SAVINGS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—After due consideration by the executive committee in charge of the nation-wide Winter Thrift Sale, the above firm has been chosen as its town's local participant.

The people of this town will thereby be given the opportunity to share in the most gigantic winter values ever placed before the American buying public. Savings of ten to thirty per cent and in some cases even more will be offered on brand new, desirable winter merchandise. Extraordinary savings made through cooperative buying, which enabled these stores to obtain America's lowest wholesale prices, are responsible for hundreds of additional values. Other merchandise, throughout the store is being reduced to record low prices in keeping with the bargain-giving policy of this event. It is to be remembered that the Winter Thrift Sale is not a clearance sale of odds and ends and the season's left overs, but a sale of fine quality merchandise which is to be placed on sale at America's lowest prices.

A VALUE GIVING TRIUMPH THAT DWARFS ALL PREVIOUS EFFORTS

NOT CLEARANCE STOCK BUT FRESH, NEW MERCHANDISE AT GOLDE'S DEPT. STORE

GOLDE'S — bring to the public of this community the most tremendous array of winter values ever assembled under one roof in this vicinity, during this generation.

This event is the result of one of the most revolutionary steps ever taken in the history of American retailing. It marks a new era in the efforts of independently owned stores to combine buying and merchandising resources in a determined effort to create America's outstanding retail values.

Cooperating manufacturers, appreciative of the tremendous business of these stores, offered their lowest prices — many makers making a distinct price sacrifice in order to unload their winter stocks quickly.

The result of these efforts is found in the sensational low prices which will be in effect during this Winter Thrift Sale — prices so low that they defy duplication by the largest chain store syndicates. In addition, all merchandise is of guaranteed value and service satisfaction.

Shoppers are urged to make comparisons — price for price, and quality for quality, so as to prove to themselves that here indeed is a sale of desirable winter merchandise priced as low — and even lower than so-called "clearance prices."

H. C. of L MEETS DEFEAT

FLASH! — The H. C. L.—High Cost of Living—will go down to defeat in those communities having been taking part in a tremendous nation-wide Winter Thrift Sale soon to be anticipated by a prominent cooperative group of independent owned stores.

The tremendous amount of merchandise purchased by these stores has enabled them to obtain lowest wholesale prices. From information obtained it appears that these firms will offer their buying public lowest prices yet seen on winter merchandise. Thrift shoppers throughout the country will do well to watch their local stores for this coming event.

Event Is Of Such Immensity It's Like Ten Big Sales Rolled Into One

Take the best values of any ten sales you ever attended, combine them into one huge sale and you will have an idea of the bargains that await you at this Winter Thrift Sale.

The weeks of tireless work of buyers and merchandising experts in the shopping centers of America, combined with the efforts of your local participating store have been well spent when viewed from a standpoint of the bargains that await the shoppers at this sale.

Remember, "price" is only half the story behind these values—the rest of the story is "style," "quality" and "satisfaction."

WHOLESALE PRICE TREND UPWARDS

NEW YORK CITY — Despite the fact that the wholesale price trend is steadily rising, the tremendous combined buying power exerted by the various stores taking part in the nationwide Winter Thrift Sale and the placing of orders before recent advances went into effect enabled them to obtain merchandise at prices which would be impossible under any other circumstances, even at this time of the season, when many factories are anxious to close out their winter stocks.

Exciting Time Awaits Shoppers

SENSATIONAL VALUES TO SET NEW RECORDS

— One of the most exciting events ever planned for local shoppers will take place with the inauguration of the Winter Thrift Sale.

Bargain surprise, after bargain surprise will greet the thrifty shoppers in their trip throughout every department.

Selected new styles for personal wear and for the same priced so low that you will be able to buy many more things than you ever planned to get.

Put off usual duties for another day — bring the entire family and make a regular shopping holiday of it. It will be the greatest day you ever had spending money because every time you spend you save.

Latest Winter Styles Now At Lowest Prices

During these days of clearance sales when most stores seek to unload their odds and ends, it is indeed heartening to shoppers to find a sale of brand new, fresh winter merchandise at such low prices that there is no need to be satisfied with buying "clearance merchandise."

The policy of this store is to dispose of odds and ends throughout the season instead of holding them for a "clearance sale." The result is that our stocks are always fresh and new—and as we are not loaded down with the season's left-overs we are in a position to buy brand new goods for our Winter Thrift Sale.

This method of retailing now makes it possible for the public to secure the smartest in style at prices that have no equal.

EAGLES BLOW LEAD AT HALF FRESHMEN WIN

Pioneers Overcome 19 To 14 Half Lead; Fresh Win 52 To 24

The faltering Morehead Eagles blew a 19 to 14 half time lead; take it on the chin to the tune of 40 to 31 at the hands of the Tiger of Transylvania in a tilt at Lexington Thursday evening. The redeeming feature of the double-header was the numbing 52 to 2 setback of Transy's frosh by its Eagles.

Morehead In Lead
The Eagles took an early lead, until the latter part of the second half were headed. Too, during the first period, every man on the Eagle team played splendidly. They control the tip and the rebound, and their guarding was superior.

Napier, Transy forward, bagged short toss and followed with a cut to open the scoring at the start of the second half. This served only as an indication of the tip and the rebound, when Transy began to find the boss Morehead's defense went to pieces. From that time until the termination of the fracas it was a foregone conclusion that the Eagles were to emerge the underdogs.

Napier On Scoring Spree
Transylvania's exceptional forward, Napier, was limited to two free throws during the opening cant. After the rest period, however, he went on a scoring spree to tally eight times from the field for a same total of sixteen points.

Carter, true to form, led his team in scoring, besides turning in a good all-around performance. Rosson also is rebounding very successfully the first half, and the guarding of Shney and Francis was all that could be expected. If Morehead's let-down could be attributed to any one thing it would be the lack of ability to take it in the pinneaux.

Eagles Win Under Wagon
Smith, Ismael, and Horton re-glared consecutively to give the Eagles a lead to which they can scantily add. Arzen, elusive front forward, was the big game offensively. He bagged a grand total of twenty-four points.

Coach Serogin's close guarding proteges allowed the Transy yearlings only one crisp during the entire game. They controlled the tip and the rebound practically all the time. Eker, Smith, and Ismael were responsible for these two vital factors.

Trover of Transy rang up eleven of his teams points and was a constant threat. Defensively the boys of the Blue Grass institution are in good mood. Morehead's high-flying fledglings scored almost at will.

VIKINGS LOSE TO CATTLEBURG 38 - 6

The hard luck Morehead High School quint lost another game Friday when they dropped before Cattlesburg High, 38 to 6. Morehead held the Wildcats to a 4 to 2 lead in the first quarter but their defense sagged in the second quarter and the Wildcats led 9 to 2 at the half. The Viking defense went to pieces in the last half and Cattlesburg scored at will and ran up 22 points while the Vikings were making 4.

Snyder led the attack for Cattlesburg with 14 points and Spers was next with 7. Candill, Goodwin, and Brown did all the scoring for the Vikings, getting 2, 2, and 1 points respectively.

The Morehead B team did not make the trip.

Two One-Act Plays Will Be Presented

The two one-act plays scheduled to be presented by the production class tonight in the college auditorium have been postponed until the second semester. This action, according to Lucille Caudill, director, was due to unavoidable circumstances.

The first presentation will be "A Marriage Proposal" by Anton Tchekoff. The play is a hilarious comedy with a Russian setting. Stepan Trochkin, a country farmer, played by H. K. Collins, has heated arguments with Ivan-Lomov, his neighbor, played by David Leslie, when the latter comes to propose to Stephan's daughter, Natalia, portrayed by Marywood York.

The second production is a Pierrette Pierrrot comedy, "Stars and Greeneries," by Ursula Cooke Mac Dougal. Pierrette, Henrietta Maze and her husband, Pierrrot, Joe Figg, have domestic troubles until Harlequin, H. K. Collins, comes along and endeavors to find a way out.

Eagles Down Eastern 26-15

Morehead State defeated Eastern State 26 to 15, in a game played here Saturday night. Playing a hang-up defensive game, the Eagles led most of the game and had the game on ice with a 23 to 11 lead with 5 minutes to play.

The game opened slowly and Eastern tallied first when Demosley sank a long one. Rosson evaded the count a little later, and Carter got a crisp to make the score 4 to 2 in favor of the Eagles. Rosson got two field goals and a foul, and Shney got two fouls, and Demosley 1 and Fulkerson 3 fouls for Eastern, to make the count 11 to 9, Morehead, at the half.

Fulkerson got a goal early in the second half and Shney got a foul shot to make the count 13 to 10. Then Carter scored two straight and Francis looped in another one to give the Eagles a 19 to 10 lead. Fulkerson shot a foul for Eastern. Parley J. Carter tallied field goals for Morehead, and Carter bagged a foul. With Morehead leading 24 to 11, Shney got two foul shots and Jenkins tossed in a field goal to end the "evening" scoring. Carter got two foul shots just as the game ended.

Carter led the Eagle scorers with 11 points, making his average for the season a little over 12 points a game. Rosson was next with 7 points, Jenkins and Fulkerson led the Eastern team with 5 and 4 points respectively.

Tommy Ryan, who has been out of the Eagle line-up all season on account of an arm injury, got in the game for a little while in the second half and although Morehead was freezing the ball, demonstrated that he had lost none of his adeptness in handling the ball.

HAY EXHIBITS SHOW GRADE DIFFERENCES

In an effort to encourage the production of better hay, the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky is exhibiting in store windows and other places throughout the United States samples of lespedeza hay showing the differences in main characters which make up the color and leafiness, which are the various grades.

There has been a surplus of lespedeza hay produced in the state in the last two years, due principally to the fact that much of the hay was of low quality, graded only as No. 3 or no grade.

According to the college's statement, inexperienced in harvesting and curing has been partly responsible for the low quality of hay produced in the state.

There is corresponding grad. of any other hay that grows in Kentucky...

FARM OUTLOOK CHANGING

As Dr. O. E. Baker of the U. S. Department of Agriculture well said, the depression "is not an episode but the beginning of an epoch."

"Let us take a glance backward. For nearly 150 years American agriculture enjoyed ever-available and increasing abundance of food and fiber.

"Our agricultural efficiency has increased threefold in the last century so that in 1930 only 22 percent of the population was gainfully employed in agriculture as compared with 75 per cent a hundred years previous.

"First, then, we face the problem of a market no longer subject to unlimited expansion. Next we have so increased our agricultural efficiency that we don't need all the farmers we have at a time when the cities would like to be supplying us even more of their own food."

"And in a climax, there has been since 1929 a continued backing up on farms of youth who in the previous decade would have migrated to the cities. So great in fact has been this backing up that what used to be a normal migration movement in 1929 assumed it is estimated that 3,500 there will be a million farmers there there were in 1928 with two-thirds of the increase in the South."

"Sometimes as farmers here in the country feel like it's pretty rough going—all kinds of troubles and heartaches and disappointments—and we wonder why? Maybe it's like in the Bible—in the 11th Chapter of Genesis:

"And the whole earth was of one language and of one speech. And they said, Go, let us build us a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto Heaven, and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth."

"And recollect how the Lord went down and saw the tower and thought they were setting a one top ground and get into their heads that they could get along too well without Him and how He got 'em all at talking all kinds of languages and got 'em mixed up and they never did finish the city and the tower.

Guess it's that way now—don't it?

RESETTLEMENT

The first regional pamphlet describing rural resettlement and rehabilitation activities has just been issued from the Division of Information of the Resettlement Administration's regional office, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Mr. Clarence W. Cobb, who is the Resettlement Supervisor for the Resettlement Administration in Rowan County, is presenting the pamphlet to the Rowan County Extension Agents.

In addition to giving the county bookkeepers and purpose of the Resettlement Administration, the booklet gives a rather thorough explanation of rehabilitation and resettlement which are the two major phases of the Resettlement Administration program in North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, the states comprising Region IV. It also tells who is responsible for the program, outlines the activities and projects which have been started in this region.

"More people will be reached immediately under the rehabilitation phase than the resettlement phase," the booklet states.

farm families, and the employment during the period of construction, of an average of 6,226 laborers.

Under the rehabilitation program loans and practice supervision are extended for the purpose of need, fertilizer and equipment to enable impoverished farm families to get on their feet again.

The resettlement phase is described as a more permanent part of the program. It is based on the fact that there is plenty of good land and that it is a social and economic waste to continue to cultivate unprofitable land.

In the resettlement phase two kinds of projects are undertaken. One has to do with acquiring poor land areas or land unsuited to successful agriculture and developing them into model farmsteads.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

BY J. HOWARD HENDERSON

Frankfort, Ky.—Five of the thirteen recommendations in Gov. A. B. Chandler's legislative program for the short session of the General Assembly seemed certain of enactment with a week when the General Assembly might work this week.

The sales tax repeal actually was out of the way. Reform of the election machinery, including a one-way compulsory primary bill and a lifetime registration law for the entire State, was not complete, but had gone far enough to assure its final enactment.

His request for $120,000 to complete an audit and survey of the State's finances was well on the road. A poll of the members indicated little opposition to his plan to reduce the real estate tax from 5 to 3 cent, or probably to wipe it out altogether.

Legislative procedure lagged on the plan by which the State would carry its own insurance on State buildings and property. The day after the time taken in perfecting details of the plan, meanwhile, the Governor canceled and renewed the policies at a saving of $1,000 for the year.

Two provisions have had such wide support in legislative bodies as the General Assembly has given Governor Chandler. The sales tax repeal, highly controversial subject of legislation two weeks ago, went off the statute books, 136 to 1, consisting the vote in House and Senate as one.

The Senate followed the suggestion for $120,000 to complete an audit, 25 to 7. Tax repeal are popular and legislators vote for them with alacrity, but appropriations of $120,000 usually are hard to obtain.

Both Parties For Primary Bill Repeal of the two-way primary bill, which would abolish the caucus and primary alike voting for it, and for the one-way bill.

A year ago few Republicans voted for the compulsory primary plan. A year before that there were not enough Democrats and Republicans combined to pass a compulsory primary bill through the house. The question like the sales tax, had been on the court of Appeals on appeal from the Governor's race, and Mr. Chandler's legislative program for the people.

The Governor's proposal for a method to obtain advisory opinions from the court of Appeals on proposed legislation before final enactment by the General Assembly met with some opposition from the "constitutionalists" in the Senate, but won easily when put to a vote.

As a member of the lawyers in the General Assembly believe will happen some plan to submit legislation to the Attorney General's office for his opinions on their constitutionality may be evolved. In any event, a plan may be set up to send proposed legislation through the hands of lawyers in an effort to make it constitutional and for clarifying changes in language.

The spirit of cooperation between the Executive and legislative department was not seriously affected by the dissenting effort of two or three members in the House. A couple of Democrats and the Republican floor leader joined hands at every opportunity to strike at the Administration.

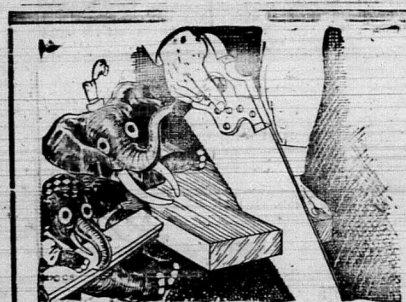

Once during the week the three sought to upset the Governor's plan for a short session, and a special session to follow. They failed, but when they disclosed an intent to cry "wolf" once every day. Previously they had cried out against the rules as being "arbitrary and filled with drastic changes." Serving on a committee to study the rules, they came back with two inconsequential changes.

The Republican House floor leader does not command one wing of his party. The two or three dissatisfied Democrats had fewer followers at the end of the week than at the beginning. In the meantime, Administration men in the House mapped out a plan to make public the session behind the curtains of the disfranchised group.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written Each Week By Rev. B. H. Kazee.

SUBJECT: What Jesus Came To Do. Luke 4:16-30.

GOLDEN TEXT: The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to preach the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord. Luke 4:18,19.

Following the baptism of Jesus, the initial preparation for his public ministry, and the temptation period in which he proved himself, we have incidents mentioned. Jesus became popular in Judea as he came to Nazareth, his home town, and his reputation had preceded him. His ministry in Galilee is to be fruitful, but not in the town of Nazareth. On the Sabbath day, "his synagogue was," he went into the synagogue. Jesus had been a church-goer by habit, and thus was at home anywhere there was a synagogue. The people expected him to be recognized in the services, due to his reputation as a scholar. So, they gave him the scroll of the book of Isaiah and he took up to read. It was the custom to read a portion of Scripture. It seems altogether providential that he should give his hand, for he had immediately to say to the passage which he was that day to fulfill in declaring the work of his ministry. The Golden Text above is what he read; it again. Here is his mission in the world.

The real estate tax reduction bill will become a vehicle for the complete removal of the real estate tax for State purposes. In the campaign Mr. Chandler advocated reduction of the real estate tax, which was good at 40 cents, from the present 5-cent rate to 1 cent. Recently, the Governor has become convinced the tax may be removed entirely, so far as it applies to State finances. If that course is decided upon, the entire real estate tax on real estate will be returned to the counties, which will receive all the revenue collected on real estate.

The Constitution provides that everything in addition to the tax shall be non-protection, and is not self-provision of the Constitution. Real estate tax is tamed, but this, like imposed in every country on real estate might be interpreted by the courts as meaning the constitutional requirements of a tax on real estate. If the way is open to absolute removal of real estate taxes for State purposes Governor Chandler will take that road. Because he may decide to try it, the real estate reduction bill may be changed to provide for complete removal of the real estate tax for State purposes. Much of the Reorganization Committee's work has been held up for lack of funds to hire necessary clerical and advisory help. When the General Assembly completes enactment of the audit and survey apportioned to various agencies, and hastened to completion.

Meanwhile, J. Lyter Donaldson, chairman and long-time member of the State Highway Commission, submitted this week to Governor Chandler his observations of needed change in the management of the Highway Department. Mr. Donaldson estimated savings running into millions annually could be effected, and used to build roads. If the department could be rid of political management. A member of the State Highway Commission, formed from definite road districts, Mr. Donaldson repudiated the plan. In substitution he proposed a smaller commission, picked from the state-at-large. Elimination of district boundary lines would tend to make each commissioner State conscious, rather than an overlord in his smaller district, resentful and intolerant of any exercise of authority by any other commission in his territory.

Governor Chandler was unwilling to risk leaving the State Capital and other State property at Frankfort uninsured. He canceled the contracts let by former Gov. Ruby LaFol's administration December 1, and let the policies at a one year saving of $1,600. Meanwhile, the plan for State insurance on the buildings was perfected, drafted into bill form, and will be pushed by the Governor. Under it in a few years, with a reserve built up, the State would carry its own insurance.

On a fair June morning the fond husband calls up the waitress. On, darling? Costly, the answers back: "Yes, precious?" "Would you do precious a little favor, darling?" "Of course I would." "Then if it isn't too much trouble, dearest darling, bring down a pair of trousers." "Certainly, in one minute." Immediately she appears at the head of the steps. "Here they are," she says, "and what does precious want to do with 'em?"

OUR BUSINESS MAKES Jobs

FOR MANY OUTSIDE OUR OWN ORGANIZATION

FOLKS, did you ever realize that in addition to the large number of men and women employed in our own organization, the operation of our business indirectly provides work for thousands of other breadwinners?

- To miners who dig hundreds of train-loads of coal used yearly in our powerhouse furnaces... To railroad men who run those coal trains from the mines to the powerhouses... To workers in manufacturing plants that make all kinds of electrical appliances and equipment... To almost countless other employes in shops, factories, stores, packing plants, garages, etc., whose tools and machines are electrically operated.

Any way you view it, our electric power business is vitally important to the economic welfare and progress of this State.

Will Organize Shakespeare Club The National Junior Shakespeare Club thru the assistance of local teachers and club women will shortly form a chapter here.

Mrs. Sidney Riley has been selected as supervisor by the Clubs state representative, Mrs. Jollie Speakman, because of her special qualifications and experience in club work.

The club is educational in nature and is designed to give grade and senior high school children, a combination course in expression, dramatics and story-telling based on the works of the famous bard.

Until the number of members enrolled is ascertained, the plan is to have one club. If, however there is sufficient number, the children will be divided by ages or grades.

Prizes will be offered at various stages and diplomas in Elementary Dramatic Arts will be awarded each child who has finished the prescribed course.

The grand finale will be a Shakespeare play in simplified form or Piguet having the children portray the Shakespearean characters.

The National Club now reaches into practically every state and has been immensely successful. Aside from the fact that members of the club are improving their education and mastery of English, the social feature is thoroughly enjoyed by the children. Parents and teachers have endorsed the plan with enthusiasm.

Full details can be learned by calling Mrs. Riley at her home on Main Street.
