EF The fling at F. T. Chambers in the Frankfort letter of the Flag Extra of this morning, is as contemptible as it is unmersited. The very special terms of the vactice contradict the insinuations of the letter writer, who perhaps knew that the labors of Mr. C. had not been deemed unimportant in the party struggles of this District and that he was firm, unflinching advocate of whig principles, whenever required by the interest of his party to step forward in their defence. We consider this much by the interest of his party to step forward in their defence. We consider this much due to truth, no less than to Mr. C., from us, as the conductor of a whig paper.
