GIVE FIREMEN THE RIGHT-OF-WAY!

One of the most glaring developments of the recent destructive a is the apparently ignorance or indifference of automobile driver, spectators who rush out to view the fires, in the last few run is by the fire department, this has been particularly noticeable made by the tire department, this are seen particularly noticeable. The fire truck has an averal accasions been delayed criminally by cars whese drivers apparently have nothing better to do than drive out to see the fire. They have blocked and delayed the truck by apparently or deliberately driving slowly along holding up the firen and taking up the entire street in the leisurely desire to get a s thrill, ese drivers should be mide to realize that the business of sav-omes is far more important to the city than their courting pro-ies or their desire to get a thrill out of seeing a home burn. If The ing h these drivers cannot be made to get out of the way by any other means they should be arrested for interfering with the firemen in the ce of their duties.

A set of ordinances, if the city does not have them sh ed, prohibiting cars to interfere with the performance of these duties, Or if the city has such ordinances, they should certainly be enforced

Or if the city has used ordinances, they should certainly be enforced rigidly. Fires are too serious to permit any fooling. Another igam worthy of mentions is the number of small and large boys who run to the fires. Many of them land on the truck and make the run, So far as we have been able to learn they fulfill no known function, except to interfere with those who have the right and the read to ride. Drastic action should be taken to prevent %ness things. which only serve to prevent the actual firemen from doing their duty as they would like to do it.

This thing of fires is entirely too serious to permit any interferen or delay, These boys and men who belong to the fire department are not doing it for pay or for fun. They are attempting to render a real not doing it for pay or for fun. They are attempting to render a real service to the chicans of Morehead, often rinking their lives to ave the property of others, with vary little or no pay, and with the danger of death staring them in the face every time there is a call, it is cor-tainly up to the computing whose property is always in a danger of fire to at least cooperation with them to the fullbat extent so that they may do their durf y promphy and efficiently, thus maying the citizens thousands of dol'ars in damagers.

George Creel in a recent article in Collier's anent Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, complimented the solon for his political astuteness, saying Kansas and Nebraskana take their politics more seriously than the voters in other states, despite which the aged senator is able to come back every six years and plead his desire to leave Washington in such tearful manner they importune him to stay.

Evidently Creel is not familiar with Kentuckians, or he would have added our state to the two mid-western he mentioned, for where do voters take their politics more seriously, than here. From city election to governor the Kentuckians are easily aroused. They form themselves into clans that beat the tom-toms of partisanship until the sound is heard from Mills Point to the Big Sandy and up all the creeks and over the undulating lands between.

From Isaac Shelby's days the political pot has been either boiling in Kentucky or a little pile of kindling is nearby to start a fire at the slightest provocation. To a stranger, election time in Kentucky is hard to understand. We quarrel with our neighbors and rant avidly, then forget until the next time-Now and then some of us allow our tempers to get out of bounds and do violence to the traditional good sportsmanship of which we boast. Anyway George Creel might get some good copy by coming here along toward Summer when the candidates for Senator and Representative get going under full steam. Kansas and Nebraska will have to sit on the sidelines for Creel then.

REQUIRES CLIENTS TO FOLLOW FARM PLANS

A fundamental charge a agricultural credit policy has been inaugurated by the Resettlement Administration in its plan of extending to ans to impovernshed farm families to help them become seif supporting. Under the Resettlement program. State RA hedguarters fam families to help under the resettlement program. State RA hedguarters in the support fab.

Under the Resettlement program. State RA headquarters binted out today, each farm family granted a loan agrees to follow approved farm and home management plans worked out by local upervisors who are trained practical farmers, in co-operation with the county agricultural agent. With this plan, Resettlement makes certain in advance of the utilization of every possible method of making the farm pay and operating the home economically.

At the same time, the client is given the benefit of the farming knowledge of trained men and women who are familiar with local conditions, to the end that he may be able to repay his loan. During the crop season the farmer is expected to confer with the supervisor on proper cultivation methods. while his wife is given every assistance in canning, food preservation and other home operations.

At present, State Director Earl Mayhew reports, there are approximately 1,200 families under the core of rural rehabili tation program in Kentucky. This state has aquota of 10,200 families to be brought under the program by May.

Farm owners, tenants, share-croppers, farm laborers or persons with farming experience and background, are eligible for rehabilitation loans, provided they are the heads of destitute or low income families unable to obtain credit from ordinary sources.

Experience in providing relief for farm families caught in the net of the recent decression led to the conclusion that in the mai/tify of cases it is more practical, more economical and more conducive to good citizenship to help farm families to help themselves by attacking or eliminating some of the causes that make them such easy prey of economic crises.

In every community are to be found farm families which, because of unfortunate circumstances-such as severe illness, poor management, exorbitant interest rates and resulting debt and foreclosure-are not financially solvent but nevertheless are industrious and deserve a chance to prove their worth.

Farm families, judged capable of operating a farm, if given assistance and training, are being extended loans to en-able then, to purchase tools, livestock, seed. fertilizer and other things needed on the farm. These families are given up to five years to repay loans for livstock. farm machinery and other heavy equipment. Loans for rent, seed, fertilizer and subsistence are made on a short term basis of one or two years. Interest on all loans is at 5 per cent. annually.

No family, however, is granted a loan until the expenditure No tamily, however, is granted a loan until the expenditure of the money is carefully mapped out and approval given to a farm plan designed to yield sufficient cash income to per-mit the family to purchase the indispensable needs and to liquidate its debt to the Resettlement Administration. Appli-cations for loans should be made to the county Resettlement supervisor of the county agricultural agent.
