FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will conduct registration for the Fall Semester Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 17-18, from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days. In addition to these hours, part-time students may register between 5 and 6 p.m.

Undergraduate students who did not pre-register will need their trial schedules approved by their academic advisers before entering the registration area, according to MSU Registrar Gene Ranvier.

The process will begin in Wetherby Gymnasium and students will register by an alphabetical system based on their last name.

Pre-registered students who have not paid their fees also will report to Wetherby, using the same alphabetical system.

Schedule adjustments for all students will be processed in the student's academic major department, beginning on Wednesday, Aug. 19.

Classes at Morehead State will begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 19. Night classes--both on-campus and off-campus--will begin the week of Aug. 24.

A registration information night for MSU's off-campus classes will be conducted at the regional campus centers from 5 to 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 17. Mail-in registrations for off-campus classes will be accepted through Aug. 24.

Information on off-campus offerings may be obtained by calling MSU's Office of Graduate and Special Academic Programs toll-free at 1-800-262-2044.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will offer two special courses in the Ashland area this fall for registered nurses working on their Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree.

NUR 150: Basic Theories and Concepts will be taught on Mondays from 4 to 6:30 p.m., beginning Monday, Aug. 24.

"This course is a degree requirement and provides the student an overview of the program's philosophy and the concepts found in the curriculum," said Dr. Betty M. Porter, chair of MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences.

On Tuesdays, from 4 to 6:30 p.m., a required support course for the B.S.N. degree, BIO 336: Pathophysiology, will be offered. Both classes will be held at Paul Blazer High School.

A special "Registration Information Night" for these and other MSU course offerings will be conducted on Monday, Aug. 17, from 5 to 7 p.m. at Paul Blazer High School. Out-of-state students may enroll in classes taught at MSU's regional campuses at the in-state tuition rate.

Additional information on the B.S.N. degree program may be obtained by calling the department at (606) 783-2632.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--More than 320 Morehead State University undergraduate and graduate students received their degrees Saturday, Aug. 1, from the institution's new president, Dr. C. Nelson Grote.

The crowd of approximately 1,300 graduates, their families and friends attending the 1987 Summer Commencement ceremony in Button Auditorium heard Dr. Grote predict that MSU "is poised for another era of exciting times."

In his remarks, MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn told the graduates that by their very presence they were saying to the world, "I have seized the opportunity that was there." The former governor reminded his audience that there were still people in Eastern Kentucky who didn't know the opportunity was there or who had failed to seize it.

"You should have great pride in yourself because you have accomplished and achieved," he said. Recalling that Abraham Lincoln had said, "Knowledge will give me strength," Nunn told the graduates that the "knowledge you gained here will give you strength and it will continue to give strength if you impart it to others."

Turning to the Bible, he quoted "By their deeds, ye shall know them" and urged MSU's newest alumni to continue speaking out to the world. "What you go out and do will light the way for other students. Speak through your actions---speak by your deeds," Nunn said.

Student speaker David L. Mitchell of Woodbine told his classmates that he had found the old adage, "Opportunity knocks but once," no longer valid. Mitchell, who received the B.S. degree, said that he had had many opportunities to learn something new during his studies at Morehead State through participation in special programs. Among the programs he cited as providing new learning opportunities were MSU's Honors Program, a special health field internship program and the Biology of Cancer course.

An honors graduate and the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Mitchell, he will enter the University of Louisville School of Medicine this fall.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Yvonne H. Baldwin has been appointed director of Morehead State University's Academy of Arts, a community school for the arts and a component of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Baldwin will oversee the Academy's offerings in the performing and visual arts, according to Dr. John C. Philley, dean of MSU's College of Arts and Sciences.

"An artist herself, Mrs. Baldwin brings to the post that special insight needed," Dr. Philley said. "We are most grateful to her predecessor, Milford Kuhn, who established the Academy, for creating such a solid foundation upon which the program can continue to grow," the dean added.

The Academy serves approximately 150 students each semester and offers instruction in music, jazz and modern dance, ballet, visual arts, creative expression and theatre.

Baldwin, who also holds the rank of instructor in MSU's Department of Geography, Government and History, was formerly the assistant director of the Academy.

Baldwin received her B.A. degree from Eastern Kentucky University in history and her M.A. degree from MSU.

A member of the National Society of Tole and Decorative Painters, she is the past president of the Morehead Art Guild. Baldwin is also a member of Phi Kappa Phi honorary fraternity.

A native of North Carolina, she is married to Lt. Col. Alan R. Bladwin of Hopkinsville, who is chair of MSU's Department of Military Science. They have two children.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--In keeping with the return of teacher education to prominence at the national level, Morehead State University has re-established its School of Education, effective Aug. 1.

"The re-formation of the School of Education emphasizes MSU's commitment," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote. "This action says to the public that teacher education is important to Morehead State. The new school also provides us a more effective administrative structure," Dr. Grote added.

"Our roots are in teacher education as this University in its early years was primarily a teachers college. MSU has a proud heritage both in preparing teachers for the classroom and, once there, providing for their professional development," Dr. Grote said.

According to national data, there is a graying core of teachers and administrators across the nation who are rapidly reaching retirement age. "Add to that replacement rate, the number of new teachers who will be needed to meet the 'baby echo' demand and it becomes evident that teacher education must return to the prominence it once held," Dr. Grote said.

"MSU will be ready to meet that increased demand for teachers," the president said. "The re-establishment of school also is symbolic of the renewal of our partnership with the public schools."

The reorganization provides for better utilization of the faculty and staff which in turn will enable the University to increase its level of service to the region's schools, according to Dr. Larry W. Jones, dean of the College of Professional Studies.

Housed within the College of Professional Studies, the school will be headed by an associate dean of education. A national search is under way now for this administrator.

Under the new structure, approved by the MSU Board of Regents in May, there will be three distinct units: Elementary, Reading and Special Education with Dr. Paul R. McGhee as coordinator; Leadership and Secondary Education with Dr. Aleda Jean Wilson as coordinator, and an Educational Service Unit with Dr. Eugene F. Thibadeau as director.

Nearly 900 undergraduate and graduate students were enrolled last fall in teacher education courses at MSU's main and regional campuses. Approximately 37 full-time faculty members and four part-time faculty members comprise the teaching faculty.

"There was another factor to be considered in creating a clearer identity for MSU's teacher education program," Dr. Grote said. "This is our year of record with the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. The heightened visibility for teacher education will only enhance our NCATE report," he added.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University-Ashland has a home.

MSU President C. Nelson Grote today announced that the University has leased the former "Mini Bank" area in the Ashland Arcade Company building from First American Bank.

"A prime downtown location, the site meets our current needs for administrative office space for the center's director, Dr. Robert L. Goodpaster," Dr. Grote said.

"We expect the center to be open before the end of next week," the president added.

The year's lease provides the University with approximately 900 square feet of ground floor space at 1536 Winchester Ave. for $1.

"We are indebted to the bank officials for their support of MSU's efforts to better serve the educational needs of Ashland area students," Dr. Grote said.

"This interim site provides MSU's Ashland Center with sufficient space, while we assess our needs both in terms of educational programs and other potential services to the area such as economic development assistance," Dr. Grote said. "We may wish to function from multiple sites," he added.

The center establishes MSU's physical presence in the community and will serve as a contact point for information about the University's classes in the Ashland area, student recruitment activities and other services, Dr. Goodpaster said.

When the doors open next week, the telephone number for the MSU Ashland Center will be (606) 327-1777. In the meantime, Dr. Goodpaster may be reached at (606) 329-2999, ext. 272.

Morehead State will offer more than 30 undergraduate and graduate level night classes this fall at Paul Blazer High School, beginning the week of Aug. 24. A registration information night will be held Monday, Aug. 17, from 5 to 7 p.m. at Paul Blazer.

BAND CAMP: A Picture Story

Band camp is a week of intense drill work and instrumentation clinics. For these Marching T-Birds from Lakota High School of West Chester, Ohio attending a week-long band camp at Morehead State University recently, the week was filled with marching and music as the band members prepared for fall football game performances and marching competition under the watchful eye of their director Jack Elgin.

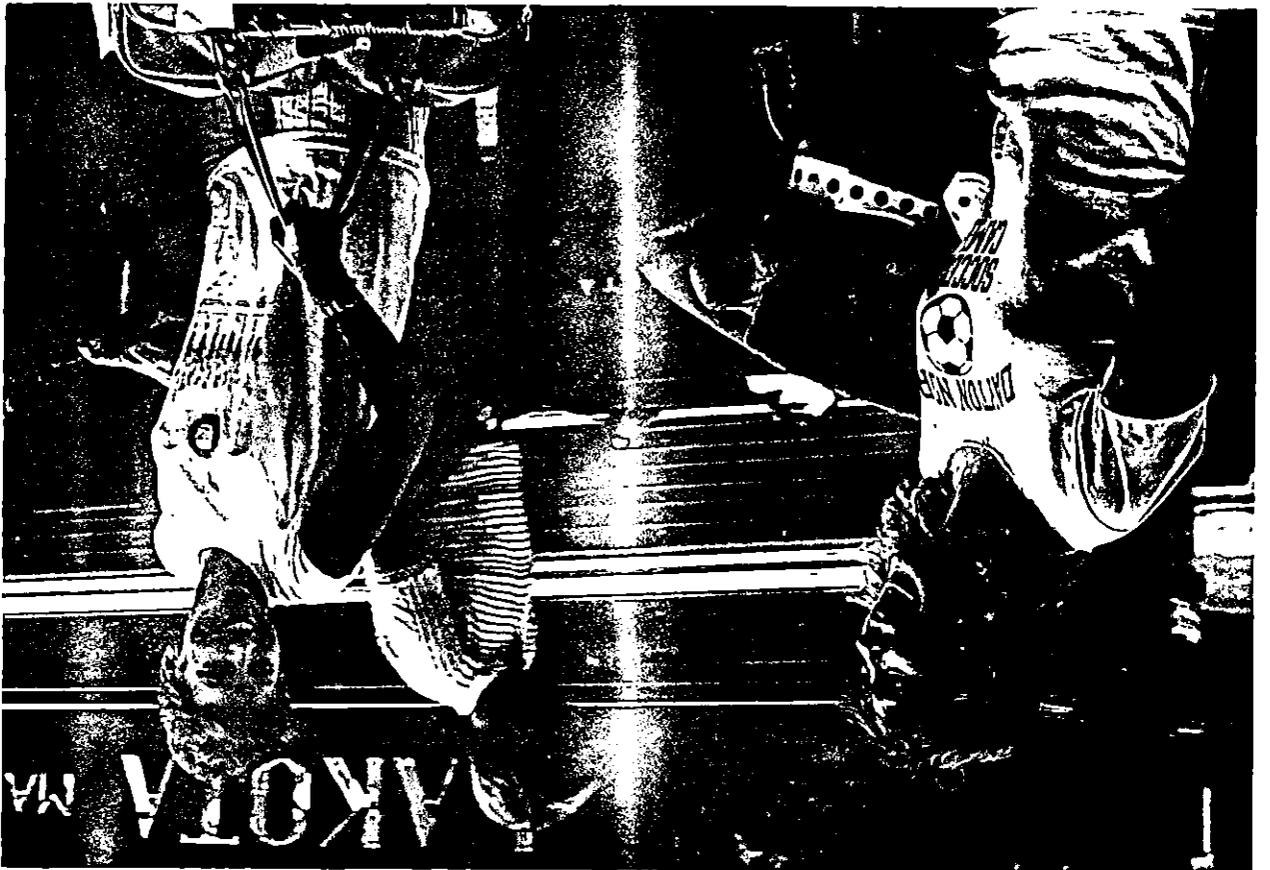

Cutlines:

- 1--No doubt looking forward to working on their marching drills, Lakota T-Birds Karen Kreitser, left, and Anna Wilson unload their gear from the bus.
- 2--Precision in percussion is definitely a plus in band competition and perfecting their technique are Eric Mayleben, left, and Mike South.
- 3--Producing soulful sounds from their saxophones are Stephen Green left, and Doug Hobson.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Education and music were important to the late A. Frank Gallaher of Ashland, founder of Gallaher's Market in South Ashland.

Through a $10,000 endowment gift to the Morehead State University Foundation, his family has insured that those ideals will be nurtured in future generations.

The funds will endow the A. Frank Gallaher Memorial Music Performance Competition for juniors majoring in music at MSU, according to Elmer D. Anderson, Foundation executive vice president.

The annual competition will begin this year with preliminary rounds in December and the final competition scheduled in April. The winner will receive $1,000 and will perform at the University's annual Academic Awards Convocation.

"Morehead State is extremely grateful to the Gallaher family for this gift which will enhance the lives of students in years to come," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

Gallaher, who died at age 74 on Jan. 31, 1987, received an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy upon graduation from high school during the depression, but entered the family business instead. As he began developing what is now Gallaher's Market, he was joined in business by his brother-in-law, M. J. Christian of Ashland.

"He was a strong advocate of education at all levels," said his wife, Mrs. Bethel C. Gallaher. The family thought the endowment would be a fitting tribute to his memory," she added.

Other members of the Gallaher family include two sons, Jack F. Gallaher of Ashland, who manages the family business, and Dr. Christopher Gallaher of Morehead, chair of MSU's Department of Music, and one daughter, Mrs. Beverly Diaz of North Hollywood, California, a free-lance singer.

Gallaher was not a musician himself, but he loved music of all kinds. "Dad had a discriminating ear," said Dr. Gallaher, "I remember when he came to a Johnny Mathis concert when I was touring with the Mathis orchestra, he remarked afterwards 'how well in tune' Mathis sang," Dr. Gallaher added.

Dr. Gallaher also recalled that his father believed so much in education that he would often assist employees with loans for school and he always gave students first chance at summer employment at the store.

"He also believed very strongly in competition and that was another factor in establishing the memorial in this form," Dr. Gallaher said.

Additional contributions to the A. Frank Gallaher Memorial Music Performance Competition endowment fund may be made to the MSU Foundation by contacting the Office of Development, UPO 1000, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351. Telephone (606) 783-2033.

Information on the Gallaher Music Performance Competition may be obtained by calling MSU's Department of Music (606) 783-2473.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Described as a "potpourri of blues and French Cajun music," Queen Ida and the Bon Temps Zydeco Band will open the 1987-88 Concert and Lecture Series of Arts in Morehead (AIM).

The performance, one in a series of outstanding programs scheduled this year, will be Thursday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium at Morehead State University.

(AIM is a cooperative cultural effort of MSU and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council Inc.)

"This year's series runs the gamut from Shakespeare to a stimulating debate on "Hitlerism and the Holocaust," said Dr. Ronald L. Fiel, series committee chairman. "We think it is an exciting mix of programming to appeal to a wide variety of interests," Dr. Fiel added.

The 1987-88 series also will include:

Sept. 29, "Hitlerism and the Holocaust,": with Helen Waterford, Jewish survivor of the Auschwitz death camp, and Alfons Heck, former Nazi Youth leader, discussing Hitler's Germany from differing viewpoints, 8 p.m., Breckinridge Auditorium.

Oct. 26, North Carolina Shakespeare Festival's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream,": 8 p.m., Button Auditorium.

Jan. 27, Dawn Upshaw, soprano with the Metropolitan Opera, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Feb. 25, Mitchell-Ruff Jazz Duo, featuring a pianist and bassist with a program of universal appeal, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

March 5, Famous People Players with "A Little Like Magic," a blend of black light theatre and life-size puppetry, 8 p.m., Button Auditorium.

April 5, UPI White House Bureau Chief Helen Thomas speaking on "The Regan White House," 8 p.m., Breckinridge Auditorium.

April 18, Masterplayers, a chamber orchestra from Hungary making a return appearance to the area, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

The appearances of the North Carolina Shakespeare Festival and the Mitchell-Ruff Duo have been made possible in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts Foundation of which the Kentucky Arts Council is a member.

Season tickets for all events are available at $25 for an individual or $40 for a family. "This represents a substantial savings over the single admission cost," Dr. Fiel said.

In addition, for those who want to encourage future programming of similar quality, there are supporting membership categories in which a portion of the contribution is tax deductible. These are: Contributor, $50; Patron, $75, and Benefactor, $125.

Additional information is available by calling Dr. Fiel at (606) 783-2931. Brochures on the season are available by writing AIM, P.O. Box 950, Morehead, KY 40351.

SPECIAL TO THE MOREHEAD NEWS

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Increased salaries headed the list as Morehead State University's new president, Dr. C. Nelson Grote, outlined his priorities for the institution last Friday (Aug. 14).

"One of my first priorities will be to increase salaries and wages, not only for our faculty who deserve to be paid at least the average of our peer institutions, but also to make sure that our support staff is paid fairly," the president said as he addressed the traditional Faculty/Staff Assembly that signified the start of the new academic year.

A well maintained working environment with up-to-date equipment for classrooms and support areas was next on his list. While pleased to see that many buildings were well maintained and effectively used, Dr. Grote said he was "appalled by the fact that we have so much deferred maintenance and that we have not been spending the kind of money that is necessary on a regular basis for classroom and institutional equipment."

Dr. Grote emphasized that his administration will be committed to creating an environment that will stimulate creativity and encourage people to be productive and work at their maximum level of ability.

If the first three priorities are accomplished, Dr. Grote said his fourth goal--seeing MSU achieve quality, "the level of excellence that makes us better than good and perhaps even better than very good," would be attained.

Assembly

"It is my belief that whatever we do we should do it well. It is better to do to do fewer things very well than to do a lot of things poorly," he said.

Noting that the 21st Century was only 13 years away, Dr. Grote said he intended to spend much of his time in planning for the 21st Century and asking others to do the same. "We need to be thinking positively and thinking toward the future," he said.

Dr. Grote also encouraged his audience to join his campaign for unity by wearing the gold and blue buttons emblazoned with the slogan "Together We Can!", many of which could already be seen already pinned on members of the audience.

"I am absolutely confident that if we will unify our resources and our creativity and work together like we have never worked before that we can achieve both our individual and corporate goals. We can be the kind of university that you will be proud to be associated with and one about which our graduates will extol the virtues," he said.

"I can't do that by myself, neither can you, but as I said at Founders Day 'Together We Can.' Together we can do anything that we decide to do," the president said.

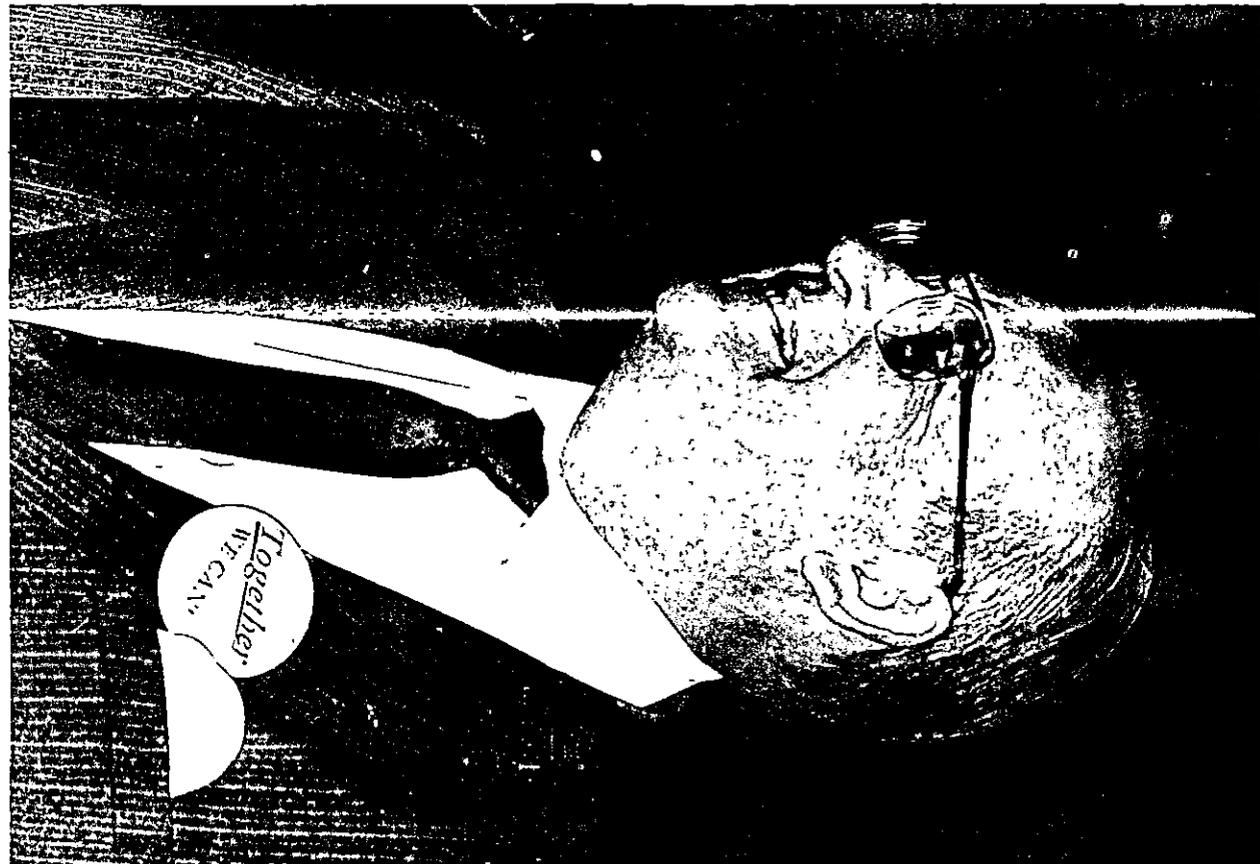

Cutlines:

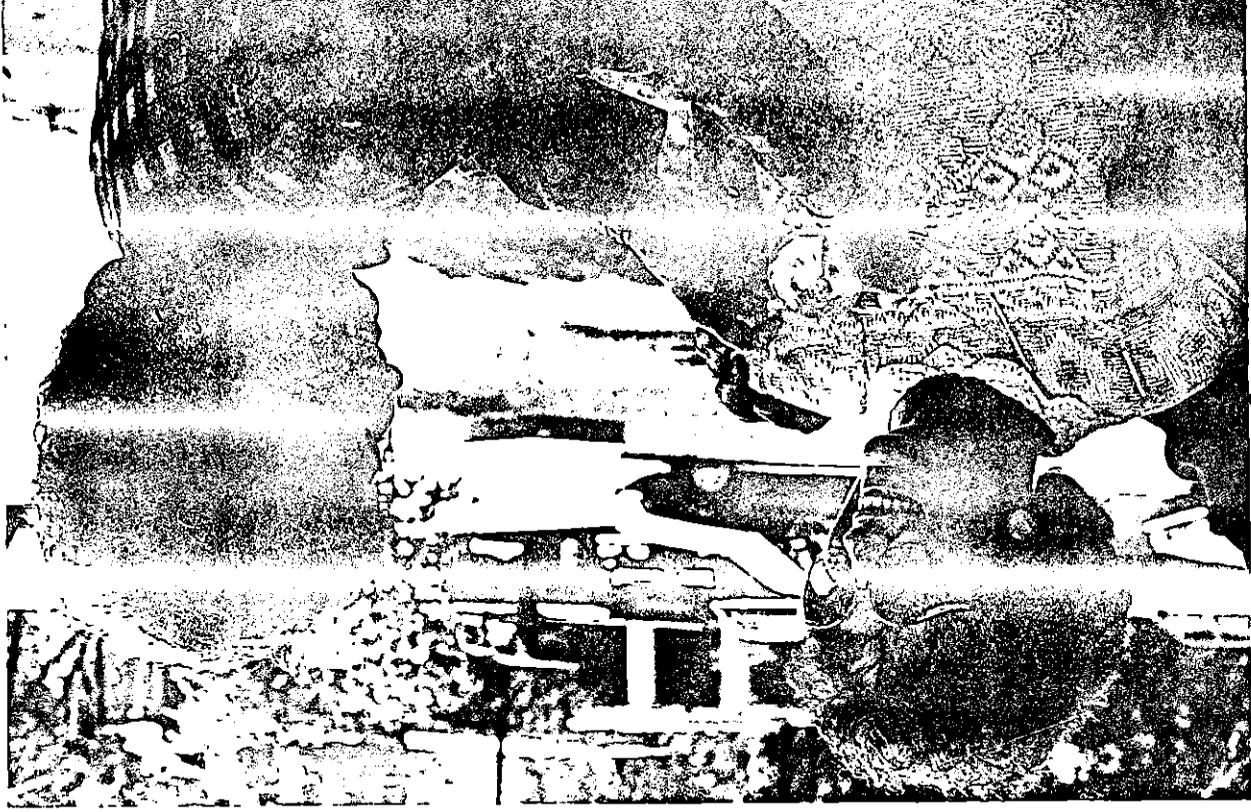

- 1---As a new school year approached, Dr. Grote said he was reminded of the phrase from hide-and-seek, "Ready or not, here it comes!"
- 2---Carrie Back, librarian, and Mike Walters, executive director of fiscal services, listen intently as MSU's new president outlines his goals.
- 3---Betty Moran, right, director of academic services, pins one of the gold and blue "Together We Can!" buttons on Paula Dailey, Upward Bound counselor. The buttons are part of Dr. Grote's campaign to build a spirit of unity campuswide.
- 4---Leaving Button Auditorium after the assembly, many faculty and staff members took time to catch up on the summer news with friends.
- 5---"Now here's my plan, Mr. President," young Paige Planck might be saying as she and Dr. Grote visit during the Faculty/Staff Family Picnic held Friday night. Paige is the daughter of Joe and Jane Planck. Her father is director of MSU's Physical Plant and her mother is the switchboard operator.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Office of Extended Campus Programs will again sponsor a series of "Weight Watcher" workshops this fall.

Sessions on nutritional eating will be held on Mondays at 4:30 p.m. in the Adron Doran University Center. "In order to offer the program on campus, we need a minimum of 25 people," said Shirley Hamilton, coordinator of training, extended campus programs.

Last spring approximately 50 individuals participated in the program and the ADUC cafeteria assisted by offering special low calorie meals. Participants in the spring program lost a total of 700 pounds.

Registration is $20 and the weekly fee is $8, however, the University will underwrite a portion of the cost for faculty and staff, according to Hamilton.

The campus Weight Watchers program also is open to the public. Additional information may be obtained by calling either George Eyster, 783-2850, or Hamilton at 783-2077.

EAST GREETES WEST AT MSU

Morehead State University recently was host to a group of engineers from the People's Republic of China; who toured the campus and met with MSU President C. Nelson Grote and other University officials. For more than three months, the delegation has been in training at Armco Inc.'s Ashland Works in preparation for the opening of the Baoshan Steel Works in Shanghai next spring. Dr. Grote presented a memento of the campus visit to Ji Rong Yuan, right, the deputy director of the new mill. With them is Huang Zhi Yong, the interpreter. MSU's president has been on trade missions to both China and Japan while in his previous post as chief executive officer of The Community Colleges of Spokane.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Pikeville College and Morehead State University have announced renewal of their Appalachian Graduate Consortium Agreement and the appointment of Charles R. Francis as consortium director on a full-time basis.

The joint announcement was made by Pikeville College President William H. Owens and MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

The two institutions have cooperated under the consortium umbrella to provide graduate education opportunities to area residents continuously since the mid-1970s.

"With the signing of this agreement and appointment of a full-time director, MSU is reaffirming its regional commitment," Dr. Grote said. "We hope to see an expansion of the graduate program and other services in the future." he added.

"For more than a decade, Morehead State University and Pikeville College have been partners in providing graduate study opportunities in this region and I am pleased to see these efforts continue," President Owens said.

Francis, who has been an educator/administrator in Pike County since 1959, has experience in elementary, secondary and higher education. In 1980, he began serving on a part-time basis as consortium director and has been on its faculty since its inception.

The Knott County native is a former vice president for student affairs at Pikeville College, where he earned his A.B. degree. He holds the M.A. and Ed. S. degrees from Eastern Kentucky University.

"The consortium means a great deal to the people of this area, who are unable to study on MSU's main campus, but who need and desire to upgrade their professional skills," Francis said.

The consortium agreement calls for MSU to offer graduate level courses, primarily in education and business, during the academic year at Pikeville College and continue to assist with special summer programs.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University in conjunction with the Kentucky Mountain Study Group will offer two American Institute of Banking (AIB) courses in Prestonsburg this fall.

Registrations will be processed at the initial class session. Courses may be taken for AIB credit, but not for college credit.

The Prestonsburg schedule includes:

"Selling Bank Services," dealing with laws pertaining to contracts, real estate, and consumer lending, will meet on Mondays, beginning Aug. 31, 6-8:30 p.m., in the training room of the First Commonwealth Bank. The fee is $47 which includes AIB membership and textbook. The instructor will be Butch Bradley, marketing director of the bank.

"Marketing for Bankers," dealing with consumer motivation and public relations, will meet on Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 1, 6-8:30 p.m., in the training room of the First Commonwealth Bank. The fee is $140 which includes AIB membership and textbook. Butch Bradley will be the instructor.

According to John M. Alcorn, MSU associate professor of accounting and campus AIB coordinator, the AIB has replaced the Foundations of Banking Diploma with the General Banking Diploma, effective at the start of the 1987 year. This program introduces the student to the role of banking in the U.S. economy and to specific banking functions. It develops knowledge and practical skills related to basic banking services, Alcorn said.

Any student having at least nine hours earned in the existing Foundations of Banking Diploma by Jan. 1, 1987, may choose to complete the requirements for that diploma if all course requirements are completed by July 1, 1989.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Three Morehead State University faculty members in education will oversee the University's year-long study for the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

Dr. Dan Thomas will direct the overall study while Dr. Katherine Herzog and Dr. Jean Wilson will be NCATE study co-chairs, according to an announcement by Dr. Larry W. Jones, dean of MSU's College of Professional Studies.

Dr. Thomas, a professor of education, has been at MSU since 1969. He earned his doctorate at the University of Southern Mississippi. Dr. Herzog, a member of MSU's education faculty since 1979 and an associate professor, holds the doctoral degree from Florida State University. Dr. Wilson, who came to MSU in 1978, earned her doctorate from Indiana University. A professor of education, she also is coordinator of leadership and secondary education.

"These faculty members are highly respected by their colleagues and we are most appreciative of their willingness to undertake this additional responsibility," Dr. Jones said.

The period beginning with the fall semester and continuing through Summer II of 1988 marks the University's year of record with NCATE, the dean explained. "The year serves as the basis of NCATE's evaluation of our teacher education program for continued accreditation," he added.

In anticipation of the NCATE review, MSU already has taken steps to ensure continued quality of its teacher education program. "We have added to the strength of the faculty with a number of specialists and re-established the School of Education within the College of Professional Studies," Dr. Jones said.

"The school status not only stresses the importance of teacher education as a discipline, but also provides a more effective administrative framework. We have created an Educational Service Unit to coordinate 11 services which previously were scattered throughout the former department," the dean added. Among the services are the teacher field experiences, Beginning Teacher Internship Program, and other similar activities.

NCATE is scheduled to make an on-site review of MSU's teacher education program next fall and act on the visitation team's report in early 1989. An extensive preliminary study or pre-condition report was completed earlier and submitted to NCATE.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Harold Rose, professor of education at Morehead State University, was awarded a grant from the Kentucky Department of Education for continued funding of the University's Adult Learning Center and its auxiliary programs.

The grant of $66,502 will be used for instructional supplies, textbooks, promotional and recruitment efforts, and staff salaries, according to Bonnie Burrell, coordinator of the Adult Learning Center.

The auxiliary programs offer in-home instruction, without charge, to undereducated adults through the Para-professional Home Instruction Teachers Program, the Rowan County Volunteer Literacy Program, and the Volunteers in Service to America Program (VISTA). The Center, together with these programs, serves approximately 11 counties, helping adults improve their literacy, Burrell said.

Assistance is also available to help prepare for the five parts of the General Educational Development (GED) Tests and in taking diagnostic and achievement tests.

Adults wanting to improve basic reading and math skills or learn these skills for the first time, are encouraged to visit the Adult Learning Center, located at the corner of Second and Tippet Streets, or call (606) 783-2871.

The Adult Learning Center is open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m.; and Tuesday and Thursday, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-8 p.m.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Betty Moran, director of Morehead State University's Academic Services Center, has received two grants from the U.S. Department of Education for continued funding of MSU's Trio Programs.

The Special Services Program, a component of the Trio Program, received a grant of $118,783. The program is designed to assist current MSU students, who are educationally or economically disadvantaged, first generation college students, or physically handicapped, and need academic support to successfully complete college courses.

"Special Services aims to increase retention and graduation rates of our students who need support academically or financially to adjust to college studies, career planning, and advising. We have staff counselors and tutors to assist in these areas," Moran said.

A second component of the Trio Programs, the Educational Talent Search Program, received a grant of $104,681 and is directed towards high school students who have academic talent, but need financial support to enroll in post-secondary education.

Talent Search counselors, providing college information, fee assessments, degree programs, and admissions requirements, visit 21 high schools in 17 counties in the MSU area. Working in conjunction with high school counselors, Talent Search sponsors college visits and encourages high school students to pursue post-secondary studies. Drop-out students, desiring to return to school, also are assisted by the Talent Search staff, Moran said.

The third component of the Trio Programs, Upward Bound, received a federal grant in May and is designed to encourage students to complete high school studies and continue on to college. Students spend class time on the MSU campus during the school year and in the summer.

Moran, who has been at MSU since 1974, also is vice president of the eight-state Southeastern Association of Educational Opportunity Programs Personnel (SAEOPP).

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has combined two student services--University Counseling Center and Student Health Services--in an effort to better meet the needs of today's students.

Announcement of the merger and the appointment of Dr. Dan Anderson as acting director of University Health and Counseling Service was made by Vice President for Student Development Mike Mincey.

"Those services really go hand in hand, because health programs today are concerned with the whole individual, addressing both physical and mental health issues, Mincey said.

"The merger creates a more efficient administrative unit and, in a time of tight budgets, it also means a savings of our financial resources," he said.

"The action provides for a team approach to wellness," Mincey added. "The whole philosophy of student health service has changed drastically in recent years. It's no longer merely a primary care service, but also an information center providing educational programs to promote physical and mental wellness," he continued.

The personnel take active student development roles with outreach programs on issues such as drug and alcohol abuse rather than waiting for students to come to them, Mincey said.

Jane Blair, who resigned this summer as director of student health services, will serve as coordinator of health outreach programs and Dr. Gary Silker, director of the former University Counseling Center, will become a full-time counselor, according to Mincey.

Combined Services
2-2-2-2-2

"Dr. Silker's contributions in providing a strong counseling program can not be overlooked. He's given us a solid foundation upon which to build," Mincey added.

Formerly a clinical psychologist at the counseling center, Dr. Anderson has been a psychology faculty member since 1984. He earned his bachelor's degree at the University of North Dakota and holds a doctorate from Texas Tech University.

The vice president also announced the realignment of two other services, previously part of the Counseling Center, to provide a closer tie to their actual service area.

Foreign student advising will become part of the Admissions Office role with Dr. Perry Leroy continuing as the adviser. His office will remain in Allie-Young.

The nontraditional student counselor, Anna Mae Riggle, has moved to the Adron Doran University Center and is now part of the University Center and Student Activities staff.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A close working relationship with Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote will be a major goal of MSU's Faculty Senate this year, according to Dr. J. Michael Seelig, the current Faculty Senate chair.

Dr. Seelig, an associate professor and coordinator of MSU's social work program, assumed the chair in May.

Working with Dr. Grote to improve faculty salaries is one of several priorities Dr. Seelig has set for the senate. He also hopes to see the senate more involved in the University budget process. Completion of policies dealing with tenure/promotion and salary equity is another area where attention will be focused.

Communication with the full faculty regarding issues affecting it also is high on his agenda, Dr. Seelig said, adding that he encouraged faculty members to share their ideas or suggestions with him by stopping by the Faculty Senate Office, Ginger Hall 801, weekday afternoons.

"I also hope to strengthen our collegial links with other institutions and their faculty organizations throughout the state," Dr. Seelig said.

An MSU faculty member since 1983, Dr. Seelig also has taught at Ohio State University where he received the Distinguished Teacher Award. He earned the bachelor of science, master of social work and master of science in public administration degrees at OSU. He holds a J.D. degree from Capital University and is a member of the Ohio Bar Association.

He is a member of the Kentucky Association of Social Work Educators and a contributing editor to the Journal of Independent Social Work.
