Olive Hill Looks Likely To Cop Tournament Judged By Record.

Once more Morehead State Teachers College has been selected as the site of the regional basketball tournament which will be held on March 5, 6 and 7, according to the plans. The region follows the district tournaments and the eight teams that are winners in their respective districts will battle it out for supremacy and the right to represent the region in the state tournament at Lexington the following week.

It is not likely that either Morehead High or Breckinridge High will be able to get past the first round. Olive Hill squad in the district tournament which will be held this year at Olive Hill, in fact judged from the dope it looks very likely that Olive Hill will not only win the district crown but the regional laurels as well. Ashland is slotted up this year to such an extent that they are provided they get past the district not likely to go far in the region where they will meet Catlettsburg. It looks like an Olive Hill year in Eastern Kentucky.

They have been conferring with C. T. Stafford, manager of the local office, who will supply the men for the work.

The houses which were recently sold from the Arthur Hogue property to Wilford Waltz have already been wrecked and the property cleared away. The work will be started whenever the word is said. The choral club has been augmented for this occasion, and will be accompanied by the symphony orchestra. Lewis H. Horton will conduct both the club and the orchestra in the operas.

The witty amusing rhymes of W. S. Gilbert, the hilarious situations into which they lead, and the tuneful lyrics of Arthur Sullivan make "Till by Gilbert" one of the most enjoyable works that these two Englishmen have ever written. It is a comedy-satire of the law court system in general and divorce proceedings in particular, with the judge himself coming out on the winning side.

County Agents Hold Meet Here

The general outlook for farmers for 1936 was reported as good at a meeting of county agents here last Friday. E. A. Johnson and L. A. Vennes, marketing experts of the Kentucky Experiment Station, attended the favorable outlook to the fact that industrial conditions are improving and that this would bring about a greater demand for farm products; due to increased buying power of the workmen.

Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist said that the tobacco prospects were not so good and would probably be bad unless some new program is undertaken by the government. The outlook for poultry is good, according to Stanley Coton, expert on poultry.

Six county agents from Fleming, Lewis, Greenup, Carter, Elliott and Logan counties, attended the all-day session. Bad roads prevented other counties from being represented. This was the second meeting of this type to be held here this year.

Mr. Hunt said that he favored more demonstrations as to the proper method of curing tobacco and that he hoped to be able to put on some demonstrations of this kind in Rowan county this year.

Paving Cases To Be Appealed Soon

For the benefit of those who are interested in the paving cases which are in court here, the following news will be of interest.

In the October term of court the test case of Mrs. Maude Peters was tried before Judge Hannah, with the result that decision adverse to Mrs. Maude Peters was handed down. In other words the decision was in favor of the Kentucky State Highway Commission and required that Mrs. Peters pay the entire paving bill.

The case at present is being made ready for an appeal from the decision of Judge Hanna, according to Joe McKinney, Circuit Court Clerk. Mr. McKinney is at work preparing the transcript of the evidence in the case for submission to the Court of Appeals for a decision. The appeal will hinge on the question as to whether or not the cost of the paving is in conflict with the law which prevents the contractor from collecting more than half the actual value of the unpaved property of the owner.

The case should be ready for the appeal in the near future.

RE-EMPLOYMENT SERVICE VALUABLE

Too little is probably known by the public of the accomplishments of the National Re-employment Service, which is functioning quietly but efficiently throughout Kentucky and the other states of the Union. In Ashland is located the district office to serve a tier of northeastern Kentucky counties. This office is in charge of Ashby Blevins.

Its function is to register unemployed people in every line of endeavor, secure a complete and scientific record of their experience, qualifications and abilities and then place them in private or public employment for which they are suited.

The Kentucky Legionaire, official publication of the veterans' organization in this state, records the fact that John R. Settle of State headquarters, after an investigation of the help the N. R. S. has given veterans out of work, especially commended the offices at Newport and Ashland. The reason given is that so many of the veterans placed had been put in private places or employed in jobs of a permanent nature. The results have been followed up and they proved to be splendid workmen, able to compete in every way with younger men placed in like jobs at the same time, Mr. Settle found.

The smooth working efficiency of the National Re-employment Service is not found in every one of the new governmental "alphabetical" organizations, by any means. The purpose behind this particular one, however, is very sound. It helps individual men and women to help themselves. It does not encourage them to rely upon the government for their livelihoods, but to work out their own salvation upon jobs for which they are best fitted.

A veteran with a long memory says that by the time the allotment, the insurance premium, the installment on a Liberty Bond and his account at the canteen are deducted, his bonus should amount to $1.05.

DO CHILDREN LIKE FARM LIFE?

Why do so many farm boys and girls yearn to migrate to the cities? Is farm life dull for youngsters? Or does the city really offer better opportunities for them? Nothing has been done to keep the young people on the farms? These are the provocative questions which have been interjected into the seething political pot, already overheated with agricultural programs, by Wheeler McMillen, editor of The Country Home, in a remarkable address at the recent Kansas farming convention.

Mr. McMillen thinks the question of the young folks is really the paramount agricultural question, beside which all others are small and insignificant.

Healthy and stimulating of all methods of living, farm fathers and mothers, therefore, watch with concern the increasing tendency of farm boys and girls to leave the home and go to distant places in search of fame and fortune.

"We are anxious to make farm life so attractive that they will find it possible to live their lives within reasonable distances of their aging fathers and mothers."

Not so many years ago people from the eastern cities were pouring westward into the newly opened farm lands, which were then the land of opportunity. Now, unhappily, the migration has turned in the other direction. Young people from the farms are being attracted to the cities. And this tendency, Mr. Millen thinks, is not good for the corn belt. A Kansas farm father spends an average of $3000 on the education of each one of his boys and girls. Then that investment disappears from his own State or district, and the boys and girls become assets of overgrown and distant cities. Mr. McMillen wants all future farm legislation considered in the light of this situation. The foremost problem of agriculture, he insists, is to find a permanent program that will assure to farm children the right to remain on the soil from which they have sprung, that will insure for them stable and prosperous lives, that will grant them an equal opportunity with that given to city dwellers.

News Flashes of the Week

TWO FACE ELECTRIC CHAIR
Frankfort, Ky. — Officers captured Saturday the last three of ten convicts, eight of them serving life, who broke out of Kentucky's state reformatory here Friday and Saturday.

The Commonwealth will try to send at least two to the electric chair for armed robbery committed during their freedom, it was indicated.

State police reinforced the regular reformatory guard.

Attorney General B. M. Vincent pressed his investigation of the case, which involved four murderers, one accessory and five robbers. The fugitives included James C. Morris, bank robber, who ravaged the Blue Grass at the head of a gang for several weeks after he broke out last August.

The report of Ben Bosworth, supervisor of sales, showed $2, 813,689 pounds sold on the Lexington market this winter at an average of $20.05.

ALCATRAZ RIOT SERIOUS

San Francisco — The Examiner said today the recent riot among prisoners on Alcatraz Island was "far more serious than prison authorities had indicated" and declared it had information that Al Capone and George "Machine Gun" Kelly, two of the "rock's" most notorious prisoners, had refused to sign any statement.

Two leaders of the rebellion, which occurred Jan. 20, are on hunger strikes in solitary confinement, the paper said it learned from undisclosed sources.

The riot started after the death of Jack Allen, a prisoner who was reportedly refused hospital treatment because of his frequent appearance in the sick list when there was no sign of any ailment. The Examiner said he died after an operation for a stomach ulcer. The prison announcement attributed his death to pneumonia.

When workers in the laundry where the worst criminals are assigned, quit work, the newspaper said Capone remained at his post despite jeers of "yellow rat."

3 SPECIAL SESSIONS HERE Frankfort, Ky. — With the ment coming next Saturday. Governor Chandler and his administration believe the program which he and his advisors will outline for the special session, or session, rather, of the Assembly will be adopted by the legislature.

Governor Chandler has indicated that he will submit the week requested by some of the legislators between the sessions to elapse before calling the Representatives and Senators back to Frankfort, in fact some expect that it may be more than a week, in order to give the Governor and the State Reorganization Commission time to prepare recommendations going thoroughly into the reorganization "from top to bottom," as the governor promised it should be done.

PISTOL FAILS TO WORK

Puduch, Ky. — Charles Tiley 26, had a plan, not exactly a new one, to again get himself out of the McCracken county jail, but jail officials investigated and Tiley still is in his cell. He had obtained a bar of yellow soap from the jail commissary and with a knife and two blades fashioned it into a cool resemblance of a pistol. The barrel even had been reamed out.

Tiley is held on charges of participating in the armed robbery of a mail carrier last September. On December 12 he and five other prisoners escaped from the jail. He was re-captured in Tennessee several weeks later.

From The State Capital

(From The Courier-Journal)
(By Howard Henderson)

Frankfort, Ky. — As soon as the Compulsory Primary Bill became a law with executive signature former Senator A. O. Stanley announced he would seek the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate seat which M. M. Logan holds and wants to retain.

Primary day is less than six months away, August 1. Mr. Logan formally announced right after the November election last year his intention to seek the seat for a second term. Former Congressman John Young Brown returned to the State this week. He wants to make the race if former Gov. J. C. Beckham decides not to run.

On the Republican side former Gov. Flem D. Sampson has been sounding out sentiment among the Republican voters to see if he can obtain the party nomination. His critical attitude of former Governor Judge Charles I. Dawson, who New Deal policies he has been named into Senate possibilities, his reasons for quitting the business, are as valid as those of the Democrats in the Senate.

There is no probability that Republicans may have a chance to seek the nomination. The fact that the State law now in effect provides for primary elections and that the publicans are not to be held on the other hand that the Democrats are to be held on the other hand.

For a long time the Republican party has been the party of the people. It is the party of the people. It is the party of the people.

lean leaders theorized. Last year the Democrats went through the bitter primary primaries—they had known since primaries had become popular. The Republicans held to their established concept of "harmony," with a "re-commendation convention" picking the slate for the Republican voters to ratify in the primary.

If the Republican theory is correct, last year should have been their banner year. Instead the Democratic nominee swept from a September run-off primary—with little time for wounds to heal—to the largest majority ever given a party candidate for governor in the State.

Sentiment shifted after that, with Republican members of the General Assembly voting different last month from the party record made in February, 1935. Last year the large majority of Republicans, in the House and Senate, opposed the compulsory primary law. This year not a Republican vote in the House or Senate was polled against a bill.

If Beckham enters the Democratic primary three men who have served in the United States Senate will be pitted against each other for the nomination. Two of them—Beckham and Stanley—have also served as Governor. Mr. Stanley will be 69 in May. Mr. Beckham is 66. Mr. Logan 60. Mr. Brown 36.

The House had barely passed the Administration bill to permit the working of convicts on roads through out the State when four prisoners forced their way out of the Frankfort Reformatory. The next day, at break fast, one prisoner in the institution killed another prisoner to death. Saturday, six others escaped.

These developments had echo in the legislative halls, with a demand for an investigation, which Democratic members voted down. The escape may foretell, as some contend, what will happen when prisoners are put in construction camps. At least it illustrated the need for more than one guard at the prison gate. One of the four who slugged the lone guard Thursday night went through the gate in an escape nine months ago; another had previously escaped twice.

The 1930 chain store tax, not to be confused with the general sales tax law, is about to cost the taxpayers $309,000 in addition to the cost of administration over a five-year period.

When the law was put into effect in 1930, the larger independent stores and all the chain stores filed injunction suits against paying the tax. The suits were dismissed by the Supreme Court held the law unconstitutional.

The smaller merchants, unable to fight the collection in the courts paid the tax imposed. In five years they paid $309,000. They will be permitted to sue the State to return their payments, under a resolution to be considered in the Senate.

An effort was made in the Senate to direct the Auditor, in the selection tion, to repay the merchants the amounts his books show they paid in. This would have avoided the cost of lawsuits and large attorneys' fees. This suggestion was not approved, and a resolution came to the Senate from the Rules Committee, suits will be necessary.

The resolution makes the law a mere formality, stripping the State of defense because the tax was paid more than two years before suit was instituted, and whether payment was made under protest or not.

Actually, an attorney here obtained the names of merchants before the General Assembly met, and is ready to file suit as soon as the General Assembly passes the resolution.

Farm and Agricultural News

All signs to the contrary, the start for the gardening season of 1936 is at hand, especially for those persons who did not make their beginning last fall by breaking their gardens and covering them with some growing winter cover.

Turning the soil before the arrival of rigorous winter weather is of advantage in several ways, 100 days to repeat now, but if it was not done, the procedure next best, early spring breaking, should take place without delay. Thus at least the rains and the snows still to come will have opportunity to soak in, and because of the freezing and thawing that is bound to occur before the winter is broken, at least some of the hibernating insect pests will be destroyed, and the soil will take on the mellowness all gardeners seek.

With severe weather to follow breaking at this time may be done quite well, without damage. The job will likely have to be done again, later, the immediate object being merely to present new soil surface to the action of the elements. By the way, at this breaking one might well keep in mind adding an inch or so to the plowing depth, especially if there has been difficulty in the past because of too-rapid drying out of the seedbed. The subsoil, brought up now, will become thoroughly mixed with the rest of the soil when re-breaking is done.

Now, too, is the time to give thought to the manure supply, especially in the case of town and city home-gardeners who must look to others for their sources for this most valuable garden aid. The manure may be spread before the breaking immediately to take place, or at any time before re-breaking or cure. The earlier it is spread, however, the less competition there will be later.

Manure is especially valuable for the vegetable matter it contains, serving to "condition" the soil, making it work easily because of preventing its "burning-oxidation" and making it to hold moisture of the nature and in the amounts plants can best use it. It should have been applied long enough before seed-sowing and plant-setting for its breaking down to take place. Any great amount of unrotted manure might result in so open a soil structure that, except for extraordinary rainy weather, decided damage might be brought about. Whatever plant-food the manure contains must be supplemented with that will come later.

Now is not a bad time to make sure that seedsmen will carry the special varieties of soil resistant to insects and diseases. Their seed supplies are being arranged for now. These special varieties are: Break O' Day, Pritchard and Marglobe, early late, and cabbage; Yellow Reds and Resistant Hollander or Wisconsin Jersey Wakefield, after to be late. All seed jobbers carry these varieties, but unless they know that they may be specially needed, they may not emphasize the seedmen's stocking them.

Now, too, is the time to remind your local garden supply man of the special insecticides later to be needed for the control of such extraordinary insects for example, the Mexican Bean Beetle. Although their actual coming is several months away, it has been the unpleasant experience of many gardeners to have to wait on their control material until the bean beetle has had a grand time at their expense, meanwhile.

That is to say, now is gardening time.

Improvements Made in Camp

Plays for the procurement of a new rifle table in addition to the two already now in use and a new piano already mentioned in the last issue of the Quill are about complete and will be secured in the near future. Repairs have been made on the water tank to avoid its freezing up in winter. The water tank is the consequent typing up of the reservoir supply of water. The new Mess Kit Washer has been installed and is a welcome addition to old style of G. I. cans which weren't very clean at any time and didn't last very long.

TRANSFERRED TO OHIO CAMPS
Eleven Ohio enrollees were transferred to the CCC Companies on Tuesday, January 21. Harold Beach, Lester Fulk, James Lawson, and Paul Roush were sent to CCC Co. #528, Camp #24 at Ealing, Ohio. Seven other enrollees, Willard Brush, David Dayton, Leo Priest, Clarence Ratz, Elmon L. Shtemaker, Angelo Straquand and Gordon Woliam, also left on the same date on transfer orders for CCC Co. #511, Camp #230, Vandalia, Ohio. We all hope they like their new surroundings as well as good old Company #78.

MAJORITY TO RE-ENROLL

From the decisions of the boys who were asked if they were intending to re-enroll when signing the Quill, most or a majority signified their intention to stay. From the data in Happy Days very few are leaving unless sure of jobs. It would be well to keep this in mind before declining to leave. Present intentions will allow re-enrollment so think it over.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Mr. Mar. Educational Advisor, and Frank House, the assistant, will leave Friday morning to attend a two day Educational Conference at Co. #539 at Fenchburg, Ky. A. N. May, Lexington, Kentucky will be the main speaker on the part of the Technical service and its foreman will be discussed. A program is held which will include speeches by all Educational Advisors, representatives of the Officers, and a demonstration of the typing, metal craft, leather work and model airplanes of camps represented.

DATED FIRST AT COLUMBUS

The Corps Area Educational Headquarters at Columbus, Ohio, has given the news that the Quill is adjudged the best "Old Camp" Mammogram paper. Comments were made particularly on the headlines, sub-headlines, appearance, and neatness and completeness of each section. We've got the top and bottom going to stay there.

A new class in rifle practice was started Monday. All those attending will be allowed the use of the rifle. Mr. May is a very able teacher, being an expert gunner himself. About thirty boys have plenty of competition.

Mr. Peace has been stationed at the Triangle Tower for a few days to replace Everett Whit who is on leave until tomorrow.
Educational classes are now in full swing at P-4 following the busy holiday period and good attendance are being recorded, at all the classes. The latter class was also given in which has gripped this section for the last two weeks.
The Technical foreman are still giving their lectures to crews. Mr. Carigan, Senior Foreman, has given one lecture on fire-fighting and two lectures on the care of equipment. The latter class was also given in relation to the safe and correct way to use tools and avoid the resulting injuries from carelessness or ignorance.
Mr. Barnes gave his TSI crew a lecture pertaining to their work. The good news and hope they like their new surroundings as well as good old Company #78.

TRUCK DAMAGED IN WRACK

One of the new Red dump trucks delivered to the camp a few weeks ago was damaged in a wreck on the Leckie branch of the Morehead-Frenchburg road on January 14th.

TRUCKS TO BE READY

Mr. Jacobs, Forestry Mechanic states that within the next few days he expects to have all the trucks belonging to the Technical Service ready to be put on the job. This will relieve the bad situation which caused much time to be spent in taking and bringing the enrollees back from work. This will also help in catching up on the lost time on projects which are long overdue, as soon as the weather breaks.

SPORT SPLURGES

If ever a game was pulled out of the fire, the Eagles did just that in their game with the Maroons of Eastern last Saturday. The first half was all Eastern and the few Morehead supporters were plenty gloomy at the start of the second half. The Eagles came back a new team, however and led the Maroons a merry chase while they were evening the score in the first 14 minutes. The game was nip and tuck from then on, and Parsley slipped in his goal just in time to win. With three regulars ejected by the personal foul rule, and with Carter, the Eagles' scoring ace, with three personals, the Morehead team would have had small hopes of winning in an overtime period.

Drawings for the KIAC tournament in Bowling Green, will be held in the Lafayette Hotel, Lexington, Sunday, February 16. This drawing will have much to do with the chances of the Eagles, and if they can draw a not-too-formidable team in the first round, they should have a good chance to upset some of the dope. According to present standings, the big game in the tournament will be Murray, Western and the University of Louisville. We pick Murray to take the crown.

The freshman basketball game scheduled with Pikeville for Tuesday, February 11, has been postponed to February 18. The postponement was necessary due to the presence of pneumonia on the former date.

HALDEMAN WINS GAME FROM HITCHINS FIVE

The Haldean High School defeated Hitchins High at Hitchins last Thursday night by the score of 15 to 14. The Beasoria had previously beaten Hitchins at Haldean 12 to 11. F. Danne led the scoring for Haldean with 5 points.

The Haldean Sharpshooters defeated the Olive Hill Independents Saturday night at Haldean by the score of 35 to 29. Fraley led the Haldean scoring with 12 points while Adams paced the losers with 12 points.

Vikings Lose to Grayson 20-8 Saturday Nite

Morehead High School lost to Grayson 26 to 8 in a game played there last Saturday. Playing the first ten minutes without a score, Grayson led 7 to 0 at the half.

The Grayson offense got underway in the second half and ran up 19 points while Morehead was making 8. Turner of Morehead gained individual scoring honors on his team with 5 points, while Womock paced the Grayson team with 12 points.

Justice and Caudill played good defensive games for Morehead, while Womock and Prichard were best for Grayson.

The line-up: Grayson - 26 - Morehead - Womock (12) F - Brown - Wilhoit (3) - F - Tate - Hendricks (4) C - Hayer - Norris (2) C - (1) Justice - Prichard (1) C - (2) Caudill - Substitutes: Grayson, Hauck 2, Cook 2, Simmons, Morehead: Turner 5, Referee: Kufahl.

FISH AND GAME CLUB TO MEET AGAIN WEDNESDAY

W. D. Scroggins, freshman coach at the College, was elected temporary president of the local fish and game association, at a meeting held in the College auditorium Thursday night. Other officers named were Joe McKinney, vice-president, and C. W. Fletcher, secretary-treasurer. About twenty men present at the meeting contributed to a fund to buy grain to be fed to the birds of this region. The grain will be distributed by the Civilian Conservation Corps, and will save many birds which have been without food during the extremely cold weather.

The association is scheduled to have another meeting on Wednesday, February 19, and all persons interested in the work of the organization are urged to attend.

Eagles Lose To Murray, 33 To 17

Morehead's Eagles suffered a 33 to 17 defeat at the hands of a strong Murray quintet in a K. I. A. C. tussle played here Wednesday evening before a near capacity crowd.

The Eagles, playing a defensive brand of ball and waiting for the breaks, started on top, much to Murray's chagrin. Shuey bagged a neat crisp, and a moment later banked one in from the side to give Morehead a lead which they held three-fourths of the first period. Five minutes of play was history before Carroll connected with a short toss from in front of the hoop. Phillips and Carter registered on free throws for their respective teams. Keifer, a substitute, snagged a crisp to the score at five-ball. Grabshaw followed with a rebound shot that put the Breeds out in front for the first time. Gratis flings by Carter and Phillips, and a push-shot by Keifer ended the scoring for the first center. Murray was leading Morehead 10 to 5 at rest time.

Murray Palls Away - Murray came back after intermission using the same stalling game that Morehead had employed from the beginning. Faced with their own thunder the Eagles became a little erratic. The Thorbrooks took advantage of this temporary disorganization, increasing their margin to 12 points. After this slight spell of jitters Morehead settled down and the remainder of the contest was played on fairly even terms.

Scraping over minutes of the game, Morehead made a very commendable showing. It is no disgrace to be beaten by a better team as long as one keeps trying as did the Eagles. Even when the cause was hopeless just these boys were still giving their all.

Shuey and Carter High - Shuey was high point man for Morehead gathering six points. Carter, who heretofore had not scored less than ten points was held to half that many, three of these coming from the free-throw line. Ryan, Tamm, Robinson, and Leslie made a splendid showing against the only undefeated team in the state.

Murray Best - Murray has one of the smoothest, and one of the best balanced teams in the S. I. A. A. If nothing unforeseen happens to this well-oiled machine it should go far in the K. I. A. C. tournament.

Eagles To Play U. of L. Here Saturday

The Eagles will meet the Cardinals of the University of Louisville in a game here Saturday night. Since the Cards are ranked as the third strongest team in the state, the Eagles will have their hands full in trying to avenge the defeat handed them by Louisville on the gridiron last fall.

The Cardinals boast one of the toughest teams in the conference and the game will be a real test for the Eagles. Downing starting line-up will probably be Carter and Ryan, forwards; Leslie, Center and Shuey and Francis, guards.

No preliminary game will be played and the fracas will start at 7:30.

Breck Defeats Ewing 26 to 20

Breckinridge defeated Ewing 26 to 20 in a game played in the College gymnasium Saturday night. Breck led 10 to 5 at the half.

Long and Carr led the Breck attack, scoring 5 and 9 points respectively. Stockdale was best for Ewing with 6 points.

The Breck team played a quiet game and are ready to be pummeled on the floor. Prichard and Babb played good defensive games.

Breck made 9 field goals and 8 foul shots, while Ewing made 8 field goals and 4 foul shots.

In a preliminary game the Breck second team defeated the Ewing seconds by 14 to 13. Carr led the seconds with 7 points.

Cooperate In The Feeding of Quail

A cooperative movement to feed quail during the next severe weather has been undertaken by the Kentucky Fish and Game Commission and the U. S. Forest Service, using CCC enrollees to help with the feeding.

It is hoped that sufficient quail will thus survive the winter to insure the perpetuation of this interesting and beneficial species as well as to afford sport for the quail hunters next season.

A new class in surveying and blue print reading has been started at the Clearfield CCC camp. Supt. Headquarters for the Army have been changed from Stanton to Frenchburg. Major C. H. Cornwall, who was formerly in command of the Harbor Sector, has been placed in charge of the Frenchburg Sector. Major Cornwall arrived at Camp Greenbrier on January 24 to take command.

RIFLE CLUB ORGANIZED AT CLEARFIELD CAMP

An interesting feature in connection with the CCC educational program at the Clearfield camp consists in the organization of a rifle club.

This club is under the charge of Educational Adviser May, who has a reputation of being an excellent gunsman. A good deal of interest has been shown by the enrollees and it is hoped that instructors in correct use of fire arms will be beneficial.

Eagles Take 47-42 Victory Over Eastern

A basket by Parsley in the last 38 seconds of play, gave Morehead a 47 to 45 victory over Eastern in a game played there Saturday. The Eagles had overcome a 23 to 13 lead held by Eastern at the half, the score being knotted at 38 all with 6 minutes left to play.

The game was all Eastern the first half and Morehead looked like a beaten team when they left the floor but they came back strong in the second half. With the count 38 all, Eastern surged into the lead at 41 to 38, but Morehead spurred to its first second half lead at 42 to 41. The lead swapped hands twice again and was tied at 45 all with a minute to play.

Both teams tried to make a goal by the long shot route in the final minute. Morehead took the ball down and Parsley tossed the winning goal but a few seconds before the final gun.

Carter was the main factor in the Eagles' victory, scoring 23 points to top the individual high point honors. Eastern had two men on him most of the time but they could not stop his famous one-handed shots.

Each quintet lost a pair of starting guards via the personal foul route all going out in the second half. Morehead lost Francis and Shuey, and Eastern, Rankin and Demossey.

Morehead made thirteen of seventeen free throws and Eastern made fifteen out of twenty-three tries.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written Each Week by Rev. B.H. Kansas

SUBJECT: Jesus Helps A Doubter, Luke 7:19-28.

GOLDEN TEXT: I believe, but thou mine unbelief, Mark 9:24.

When Jesus was baptised John saw the Spirit descending like a dove and abiding upon Him and heard the voice saying, 'This is my beloved Son.' Here John had proof sufficient that this was the Son of God. But at this lesson things have changed. Herod has desired his baptism. Herod speaks against such activity and Herod puts him in a dungeon. While there he becomes blue and despondent, doubtless wondering if after all, the man whom he baptised was the Messiah. If so, why does he not come to the prison and make himself known, and perhaps ask John's freedom? The Herod asks John, 'What things should I do to be saved?' and 'What things should I do to be saved?' and 'What things should I do to be saved?'

While the messenger goes, these saw Jesus cure the sick, drive out evil spirits, make the lame walk and the blind to see. Then he answered him with the facts, he told them, and still John what things he have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are risen, to this hour the gospel is preached.

This was Jesus' way of proving a doubter. Present the facts, he told them, and if the facts do not justify faith, then let John brand me as an impostor. That is what Jesus says to this world. If you doubt me try my works, if they will not stand the test then I have nothing else to justify my claims. Of course, we must not presume to interpret the works of Jesus truly with the mind of one who has never known Him. God has chosen to reveal Himself to man through personal experience. And those who have never had this personal experience can no more understand the works of Jesus than one who knows no Greek can understand the Greek language. But John was in a position to know whether or not the facts agreed with the prophecy concerning Jesus, and he could weigh these facts worthily. So could these people, for Jesus rested His case on His works.

I look to find with a certain man of our scholarship about Jesus. He admitted that the case of Jesus looked good, if viewed from my position, but that he could not see it all that way. I asked him this question: Suppose a great mineral spring gave forth water that would heal any disease you have; and suppose I told you that I have drunk from it and that the claim is true; could you ever know the truth of its healing power until you too had drunk from it? He replied, "No."

There are many doubters of Jesus, but none of them ever drank of His life. The forgiveness of sin which He holds, they and all unwilling to examine the facts as Jesus had presented, I am sure will always remain a mystery and a puzzle to the doubter. It is impossible to face Him in the inner truth of His work, learn by personal experience.

The fact doesn't enter by any hand except that of Jesus. The lame don't walk in the spiritual sense, except the generation can never see until He takes the scales from them. The fearful heart of man can never know truly except through the works of His atonement and the Spiritual birth. But His sincere examination will bring all men out of doubt.

Income Tax Man To Be Here Soon

Collector of Internal Revenue, R. S. Glenn, announces that a deputy from his office will visit Morehead on February 17, 1936, for the purpose of assisting individual income taxpayers in preparing their returns. Mr. Glenn says that the Revenue Act passed in May 1934 is in many particulars, different from the laws previously in effect and that the base has been so broadened as to require many persons not heretofore filing returns to file this year. The exemption for single persons for 1935 is $1000.00 and married persons having an income of $2500 for 1935 are required to file a return also. He also calls attention to the fact that a short notice former laws the credit for dependency was based on the status on the last day of the year. Under the new act the credit is allocated according to the number of months the dependency actually existed. Attention is especially called to the earned income credit under the Act of 1934, which is applicable to returns filed for the year 1935. This in many instances is a great benefit to the taxpayers. The Collector says that the many changes made cannot be explained in a short notice but that his deputy is familiar with the new law and is being sent here to be of real service to the tax-paying public. The service is absolutely free. Collector Glenn urges the taxpayers of this county to see the deputy and let him help them with their income tax problems.

"And your age is—" asked the woman lawyer. "Oh about the same as yours," replied the woman witness.

Fires In Forest Do Great Damage

The following article from the CCC authorities is of particular interest to citizens of Rowan county at this time. The spring of the year is the time most of all when fires are set in the woods, fires which have already cost Rowan county in years past, hundreds of thousands of dollars. Just before the snow the CCC fire crews were called out several times in response to calls from the fire towermen, reporting smokes. It was discovered in all cases that these smokes were caused by people burning over sedge grass fields.

These false alarms cause the U. S. Government to spend from $5. to $20 per call, which expense could be avoided by the simple expedient of notifying the nearest CCC camp by mail or telephone, or better yet, by not burning over the fields at all. Presumably the object in burning over fields is to improve the grazing. But, doing really improve the range? Apparently a nice young green growth results in the spring but without the protection of the old growth of grass the young fresh growth dries up during the hot dry months of July and August. Furthermore, the fire destroys much of the fertilization value of old grass and gradually impoverishes the soil. The better classes of forage are thus destroyed. Again a mixture of old grass growth with the new growth is most desirable for cattle, being less apt to cause colic. Again, burned stubble may cause sore mouth in cattle and sheep.

The following is quoted from the State and Federal laws for the information of potential brush burners: State-Sec. 7: If any person unlawfully set or burn any weeds, grass, straw, or other thing capable of spreading fires on land, he shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100, or imprisoned not less than ten days nor more than six months, or both at the discretion of the court.

State-Sec. 8: If any person intentionally or negligently set any weeds on fire, whereby damage is done to lands or property of another, he shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100, or imprisoned not less than 30 days nor more than six months, at the discretion of the court.

Federal-Sec. 52 Criminal Code provides a penalty of not more than $5,000 or not more than two years imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment, for willfully setting on fire or causing to be set on fire, any timber, underbrush, or grass upon the National Forest or for leaving or suffering a fire to burn unattended on the forest.

CHAPTER FOUR

The Mate "produced a sparkling glitter necklace and offered it to Lillio. She clutched it eagerly, her joy eloquent in her sparkling eyes. Mala fondled a tawdry watch, then held it expectantly to his ear, as Buckley had suggested. His brilliant eyes were twin-stars of wonder, as he listened to the even rhythm of its faint tick-tick.

"You like 'em, take 'em. Buckley told them with a magnificent wave of his hand.

"No, mama! no!" Robbins translated the Captain's offer.

Mala and Lillio were incredulous. Robbins assured them that the white chief was not fooling, and they gathered their prizes to them joyously.

Mala watched now as Buckley took a sheet of paper from his desk, unrolled the cap upon ink-bottle, and took a pen from behind his ear. The Captain held out the pen to him. Mala, ready to do anything to please Buckley, took it. Buckley, holding the pen in Mala's fist, guided it to make a cross. Mala's signature, on the bottom of the printed contract-form.

The trusting tans, of course, did not know the signature of his simple act; but by the mere making of the cross he had contracted to work at the phosphate mines in the island of Patua for the next five years.

The contract signed, Buckley was anxious to get rid of his guests to make way for his next victim. Before they left, he offered them another drink of rum.

"Mama! to eta no!" The Captain offered the toast.

"Marru!" Mala replied.

They drained their glasses, and Robbins led them to the door. They stumbled down the narrow passage, bumping into other couples as they passed. Now, Mala, delirious to the point of frenzy by drink and dizziness with the rum and the dark, had drunk, seized Lillio in his strong arms and carried her back to the deck.

Mala and Lillio had had a scene of roiling jealousy a short time before; they returned to a drunken debauch. They watched the dancers. Lillio's body swayed slowly to the music. Suddenly the lithe creature ran from Mala's side to join the dance. He had never seen her dance the up-ups, and he watched her with fascinated eyes.

Quickly, he joined her and the other Types stepped aside to make room for the bronze giant and his newly captured valine.

A smiling dawn broke over the peaceful ship. The mild din of the night's farcical had ceased. The Types tanned and their valines lay in huddled groups, sleeping heavily in their drunken stupors. Captain Buckley and his motley crew reeled unsteadily about the ship, as he supervised the collection of the cargo.

Mala had no perfectly begun. One by one, the sleeping Types were carried to the side of the schooner. Careful to avoid awakening them, the sailors eased the valines and their owners into the waiting arms of other women who now manned the canvas.

Mala, who was still alert, and the others were too slurred in mind and body to know or to care what was going on about them.

Taro, roused from his sleep, assumed command of the party. Staggering about the stern of the vessel, he screamed, drunk orders to the sailors about him. He watched the rail for Lillio.

Captain Buckley scanned the deck to see that none but his six picked men remained. Huddled together in deep sleep, he saw Lillio and Mala. Her hand rested on his bronzed shoulder, and her left hand lay across his powerful chest. Buckley picked her up carefully and carried her to the rail. As he passed her down to the waiting men below, Taro spied her. He brushed the sailors aside and took her in his arms.

Mumbling thickly to himself, he smiled as he carried the limp body back to his seat in the stern. For Lillio was Mala's woman no longer; now, she would be his, the fourth wife of Chief Taro of the Types.

Buckley stood on the deck and roared with ribald laughter, as he waved to the departing Types. Their canoes, cut loose, favored, fortunately, by an incoming tide, began to drift slowly toward the shore.

"So long, suckers!" Buckley called.

Taro, of course did not understand. "Ma ora na te Arua!" he replied. Farewell, and God keep you.

As the ship bobbed up and down with the gentle roll of the sea, Lillio was awakened. Strong arms held her close, and she looked up, smiling happily, remembering she had gone to sleep in the arms of Mala. A musty cry escaped her as she saw the piercing eyes of Taro looking down at her.

"Mama! Mala! she screamed shrilly, and she struggled bravely to free herself from the embrace of the chief.

Taro laughed at her struggles, with a quick twist of her upper body she wrenched herself free and tried to fling herself over the side of the canoe. Taro caught her before and pulled her back to him.

"Mama! Mala! he mocked her cries for help. Mala has gone! Lillio is Taro's valine! Lillio will never see Mala again.

"What you mean?" she asked. "I'll have to talk this over with somebody."

The official conference brought Mrs. Cecil R. Chittenden, Michigan State Director of Federal Writers' Projects, on the scene. One glance from Patricia's blue eyes, and she capitulated.

Yes, Patricia could. She was a graduate of Fordson High School and had often contributed to the "Tower Tribune," the school publication. Furthermore, she was a very good typist.

"Would you just as soon pick and shovel in the street?" asked the State Director.

Patricia was overjoyed. "Now I can bring my mother home and see that my father gets hospital treatment," she declared after the business of her employment had been decided.

"You often shovelled coal into our furnace," she insisted.

"You had better go home and wait for me, because in a woman's project the official advised.

"I need work now," the girl protested, "and I believe that I am entitled to it under your rules."

on adjournment 'till' Wednesday, Lincoln's Birthday. With Wednesday out, five work days remain this week, the heretofore minimum number of days for a legislative proposal to go the full route.

If the prevailing rule is adhered to, Thursday will be the last day other House to pass it before sine die adjournment.

During the week progress on the Administration's program, and other major legislation, took this course:

The House passed a bill to permit conflict labor on public roads; legislation to permit the State to carry its own insurance on its buildings; voted to submit to the voters at the November election, 1937, two constitutional amendments—the one to elect the Louisville and Jefferson County to consolidate under one government, the other to lift the present constitutional limitation against submission of more than two amendments at a time, an old proposition that will cost $3,000,000 annually and wiped out the real estate tax for State purposes.

The House refused to draw from the Committee a bill to return selection of county school superintendent to popular vote, and another bill to amend a law that consolidates the offices of Miller and sheriff.

The Senate wrangled over utility matters, finally drawing out of the Rules Committee proposed legislation to authorize the Public Service Commission to trade with the P. U. A. for power to own utility plants and transmission lines and sell service to the people.

The MSTC Symphony orchestra, Keith P. Davis, director, will give a concert at Paintsville on Thursday evening in the High School auditorium. The orchestra will play the same selections that were played in chapel Friday.

Members of the senior band, Billy Black, E. Flat bass; and J. Warren Blair, trumpet, will participate in the State High School Music Contest in Lexington today. Both boys are students of the Training School and are instructed by Paul Young.

Dr. D. Judd, acting head of the department of education, is attending a supplementary education meeting in Lexington this afternoon. The goal of this meeting is to help out some of the students, educational officials to the Advisory Council, which in turn will submit them to the Council on Higher Education.

This meeting is for the purpose of establishing the content of the fundamentals of education for the county school. The same is being done for the fundamentals of secondary education.

Dr. Judd and Mrs. Duncan, president of elementary education at the University of Kentucky, have been assigned on a committee whose work will be to investigate the national for course.

Dressy Tomatoes

YOU use tomatoes so much in your everyday cooking that perhaps it hasn't occurred to you that you can make these dishes with them. Here are some dressy tomato recipes:

Prize Tomato Cream Salad: Cook gently for about ten minutes the contents of three No. 2 cans tomato with three slices onion, a few grains of pepper, salt to taste, and one tablespoon sugar, then press through a sieve. There should be two and a half cups of puree. Soften one and a half teaspoons gelatin in two tablespoons cold water, and dissolve in the hot puree, then cook. When it starts to get thick, add one-third cup cream, whipped, and freeze in refrigerator trays. Serve on lettuce. Serves eight.

These Have Class

Tomato Jelly Salad Rings: Boil contents of two No. 2 cans tomatoes and two slices onion for five minutes, then press through a sieve. Add one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, a few drops Worcestershire sauce and one-tablespoon lemon juice, bring to boiling, and dissolve in it two-tablespoons gelatin which have been softened in a fourth cup cold water. Let cool. Pour into eight small wet ring molds and let harden in refrigerator. Fill centers on lettuce leaves. Fill centers with one cup sliced cucumber, four large slices pineapple, finely diced, one diced banana and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Serves eight.

Scalloped Tomatoes: Combine contents No. 2 can tomatoes, one and a half teaspoons salt, one and a half teaspoons sugar, a few grains pepper and one tablespoon minced onion, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cut three slices buttered bread into half-inch cubes and lay on top, buttered side up. Bake thirty minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serves eight.

TOMATOES give

that TONIC

THE soul of a salad was said to be a French chef to be a touch of garlic, but the true salad lover knows that tomatoes contain a touch to them, either as the main part or as an accompaniment of the dressing, which can be obtained in no other way. Take for instance hearts of lettuce with the Thousand Island dressing. Mix together one cup mayonnaise, three tablespoons minced tomato paste, one tablespoon chopped green pepper and two chopped stuffed olives.

It is the tomato in this combination that gives it the full tonic taste.

In the following tomato salad, give the mix a distinct and delicious flavor which it will not have without them.

Put one pound of sliced ripe, chilled tomatoes, and one cup slices in each slice, cut into round nests of lettuce, two half a pear from a No. 2 can on top of each, cut in two. Mix the cream cheese with three tablespoons (fill seven) and mix in the pear cavity. Surround with slices of canned pineapple and serve with either mayonnaise or Thousand Dressing. Serves eight.

Makes Meat Delicious

Meat and Cucumber: Mix ten one-tablespoon gelatin in two-tablespoons water and dissolve in one cup of boiling canned tomato juice. Add one teaspoon lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. When cool and beginning to thicken, add one-half cup mayonnaise, two cups finely cut meat, one cup sliced cucumber and two-tablespoons chopped pickle relish. The meat may be one cup ham plus one cup chicken or contents of a 6-ounce can (chicken) or equal quantities of chicken and veal, ham and veal or any such combination. Pour into wet oblong mold and chill. Turn out onto platter and garnish as desired. Serve in slices. Serves eight.

COLLEGE THEATRE

For Friday, February 14th the College Theatre brings to the screen the poignant romance "Mimi". This is the charming story of the beautiful, poetic, who among the experiences of her full young life finds herself the sweetheart and love of Rodolphe, an inspiring young composer who has great talent—and little money.

With her inspiration he and his great ambitions are encouraged to do great things—write—paint—compose sonnets—and at last Rodolphe's day dawns.

But on the eve of his great happiness, the production of his play, the great Madame Didonie, beautiful star, tries her best to allure the brilliant young dramatist, Mimi, at once with her brilliant artists hall misunderstandings, and believe her love has now served his purpose she wonders about in the cold rain and she is violently ill. Rodolphe searches for her as she lingers between life and death in a hospital.

The lovers are reunited in a manner beyond our fondest wishes and beautiful love story.

For Sunday afternoon at 2:00 the feature at the College will be "Lady Of Secrets", starring Ruth Chatterton and Otto Krueger in an outstanding drama of mother love and affection. In this play Miss Chatterton while separated from her lover Lloyd Nolan by her father, becomes the mother of a baby and the irate father searches for Nolan. At will, the father takes his family to France in order to hide the disgrace of his daughter and represents to the world that the child is back home. When the father breaks out their home is turned into a hospital for the wounded and Nolan is brought in for treatment and dies. Miss Chatterton then lives a secluded life until her daughter comes up. The child (Miss March) comes in here with a young doctor but they quarrel. She then leaves for a trip and meets Otto Krueger, a

Ladies and gentlemen, "Lucky" makes a good detective's story—and a really new idea in the traditional form of drama has come to the following screen.

It brings mystery, terror, chase adventures, into the traditional life of a woman—and it brings love! Romance has been woven into a mystery story in one of the most gripping, haunting pieces of entertainment a scenario ever envisioned.

This "Film" will be shown Wednesday and Thursday, February 18 and 20 to the Cozy Theatre. It is based on a great story by Hylt Walpole, its heroine, the woman hunted by a sinister plot, is Aline MacMahon, and Basil Rathbone—remembered by "David Copperfield" and "Anna Karenina" plays the sinister crook, suave, polite, but none the less deadly, whose eyes of terror work a weird spell.

One wouldn't believe the things that happen could happen in a house in the center of a busy city—but every step is so realistic, so believable and so grippingly believable that George Seitz directed and Leslie Hubbard produced the new thrill-romance.

Dramatic! That's the name of the action. A door opens. The man with the hypnotic eyes is there—what an imposing figure! He is the man who makes it impossible to believe that there is more. A scream! So it's over—fast falls in the dark. A young American who solves the sinister plot. And amid it all—a grand love story.

You'll thrill—be marvelled at—and thoroughly enjoy this great piece of entertainment, "Kind Lady."
